Scholarships totaling $111,900 go to 71 Class of '95 Seniors

More than 400 people attended the 114th annual reunion and banquet of the Salem High School Alumni Association June 3 at the school. The Association rewarded 71 graduating seniors with $111,900 in scholarships.

That total pushed the scholarships awarded to $1.7 million since 1908, honoring 1,018 students. Treasurer Charles Gibbs announced that gifts totaling $113,000 had been received in the last year including major amounts from the estate of Dorothy Failer Sullivan ('21), Robert Sebo ('64) and the late Dr. Floyd Stone and Cora May Reich Stone ('35).

Thanked for 'Caring'

The Association now has assets of $2,656,000, Gibbs said. It awards regular academic scholarships, vocational scholarships, Charles Fox medical scholarships, Max Fisher athletic awards plus funds from the Young family fund.

Gibbs thanked all the graduates "for caring and remembering."

Newly elected Association President Connie Christofaris Cranmer announced that new members of the Executive Committee are Mary Lou Minichelli Hartzell ('59), Ed Emch ('71) and Kenneth Kenst ('68). Fred E. Cope ('25) and Joyce Cosgrove Ehrhart ('53) were re-elected to the Scholarship Committee.

Shawn Catlos, president of the graduating 1995 class, responded for his classmates, thanking the association for its support and for its scholarships. The class contributed $200.

Rising Tuition costs means more funding

Dr. Gail Herron, Scholarship Committee chairman, presented the academic awards, congratulating the honorees for their energy and industry. He pointed out that funds are still needed to keep pace with accelerating college tuition costs. He also praised Gibbs for his management of the association funds, a job he has been performing for many years.

Custom continues

Cora May Stone distributed the vocational awards to eight students, given to those who are not going to attend four-year colleges. She and her 1935 class started the custom of vocational awards in 1987.

Nine athletes received Max Fisher scholarships, awarded by Tom Jesko, who wished the winners continued success.

The 50-year class of 1945 was introduced by outgoing President Joe Ciotti. Charles Schaeffer gave the class response, calling his group a "typical great class" of 159 students. He gave a humorous reading, recalling all the new inventions that had not even existed in 1945. He presented a class gift of $3,000 to the association.

The 60-year Class of 1935 and the 55-year Class of 1940 were also introduced.

Lowry honored

Ciotti also presented the 1995 honored alumnus, Raymond J. Lowry, Salem businessman.

Lowry introduced his family and several key employees who helped his career and aided in building the Lowry Supply Co. "I am most grateful for our success and for those who helped."

He urged public support for school financing, saying: "You have enjoyed all the privileges of gaining an education so please don't be just a taker—give something back."

He received from Ciotti a large silver tray honoring his selection.

First-time listing

A look back again honors top scholars

It takes many long study hours for a Salem High student to lead a graduating class in grades. Obviously, few succeed. Generally, they are recognized only at the end of their senior year, but here we honor them again. Below is a never before printed list of top grads of Salem High down through the years. It was researched by the Alumni Association office and Principal Charles McShane's staff at SHS.

We were unable to find a first honor graduate in each of the years because of inadequate records. Those whose names are in parentheses were given the top scholarship for that year by the SHS Alumni Association, but were not necessarily the top graduates grade-wise.

Some brother-sister combinations were noted along with a trend since the 1970's of multiple winners. Only Shawn Scharf ('90) has been a single winner in the last 23 years. The competition is increasing.

SHS alumni rate standing "0"

The Salem High School Alumni Association was saluted in June by the Salem News in the following editorial.

DON'T SAY THIS TOWN UNCARING

"In the wake of the failure of the income tax levy that would have benefited Salem schools, we received many letters—particularly from students—who accused the voting public of being uncaring.

"In the letters, much emphasis was put on the loss of funded sports programs and the potential pay-to-play scenario.

"We heard little, though, about the funding effects on academics, most likely because school officials will put academics first as they prioritize what can be maintained.

"It is therefore a joy to be able to report—as we did in Monday's Salem

News—that a caring, giving group of current and former residents continues to make contributions to a thriving scholarship foundation.

"For the end of this school year alone, 71 graduating seniors received a total of $111,900 in scholarships from the Salem High School Alumni Association. The Association has awarded more than $1.7 million in scholarship money since 1908.

"School levies and issues continue to sometimes fail and sometimes pass in communities across Ohio. We are no different.

"But this community, through the persistent efforts of its alumni association and the generosity of former students and other individuals, has consistently continued to provide financial aid to graduating seniors."

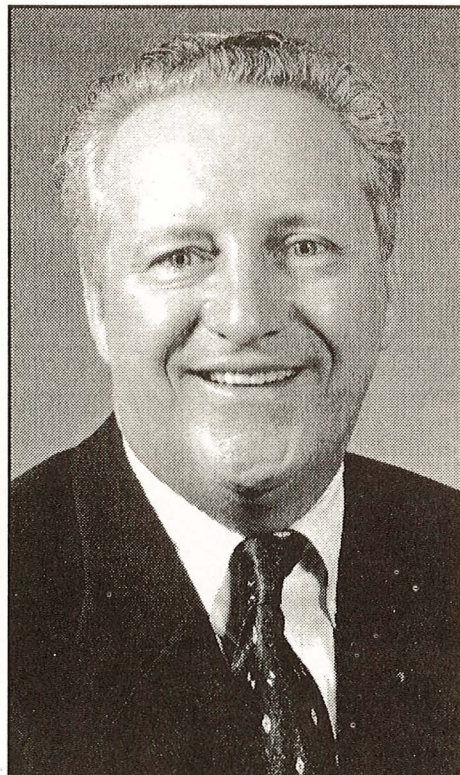

Houston airport names Vacar chief officer

Richard Vacar, a 1964 Salem High graduate, has been named deputy director of operations and maintenance for the Houston (Texas) Airport System.

As chief operating officer for the Houston Department of Aviation, Vacar will have oversight management responsibility for Houston International.

Vacar is a former FAA air traffic controller, a licensed pilot and an attorney. Until recently, Vacar was executive director of Sarasota-Bradenton International Airport in Florida, responsible for management for the past six years and oversaw construction of a $56 million terminal.

Prior to that, he was deputy director of operations for California's Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Authority. He also worked as a corporate and commuter airline pilot, following four years in the U.S. Air Force.

Richard Vacar

He is a graduate of California State University at Northridge and earned a law degree from Loyola Marymount.

Help keep roof over our heads

Raindrops keep falling on our heads--here in your Alumni office. They are falling on your computer and printer and on your records and are being caught in pots and pans and wastebaskets and anything that will hold water.

The Alumni Association bought the building four or five years ago. Old timers will recall it used to house Jess Shafer's bar-restaurant in the old days. Owning it means we will never be hurled into the street by a hard-hearted landlord, but it does subject us to problems.

The porous roof has to be replaced this year and the cost will be a cool $25,000, Treasurer Charles Gibbs has been told. It is a big roof.

So, after gulping hard, we wondered if any of our far flung alums might care to contribute to the Roof Fund. If so, dig down deep and send your dollars along. We will put them to good use, stopping the overhead leaks.

Glub, glub!

Another banner period underlines Alumni pride

Another banner six-month period of contributions to the Alumni Association saw gifts totaling $33,194 pour in. During the period of April 1 through October 10 many memorial gifts were received.

In addition, classes holding 1995 reunions proved to be very generous with their contributions. The Class of 1980 is to hold its reunion on November 25 and will be recorded later.

The 50-year class of 1945 led the class reunion list with a $3,000 gift, running the total to $12,552 from 12 reunion classes. The new class of 1995 gave $200.

Classes salute their war dead

Two Salem High classes from the World War II days have saluted their war dead by making memorial donations to the Alumni Association.

The Class of 1941 made a contribution of $1,240 in memory of Warren Tullis, who was killed in the war.

At the same time, the class asked its members for addresses on the following classmates who can't be located: Jack S. Atkinson, Gail Eckstein, Ruth Farmintino, Ernest Grotfend, Robert F. King, Elizabeth Mayer, Donald J. Shannon and David Linn.

The Class of 1944 gave $200 in memory of Kermit Johns and honored him with a poem written by Doris Ellis Boughton.

*Kermit Johns was his name
A quiet boy who graduated in June of '44*

*Then nothing was ever the same
For in August he donned a uniform and went to war*

*A boy, untried, unsure you see
But now in the 383 Infantry,
Company B*

He went through basic training that summer

And came out trained to be a machine gunner

Then off on a ship, to a place never seen

*He ended up in the Philippines
He was probably scared, Leyte was so far*

But his courage and bravery earned a Bronze Star

From boy to man in a matter of weeks

It must have been hell in an action he didn't seek

*Fighting for country and to stay alive
Losing the battle, killed in action
June 11, 1945*

He was mourned by his parents, as were most of the men

Who went to war, never to return again.

But his classmates remember what his death stood for

And will honor his memory, the first to die from the class of '44.

Nine grads earn Fox funds

Nine Salem High School graduates, now pursuing graduate medical educations, have received $1,000 each from funds left by the late Charles Fox.

Connie Cranmer, president of the SHS Alumni Association, said the nine received checks on August 1.

She said the Fox money was augmented by additional monies from the Alumni Association.

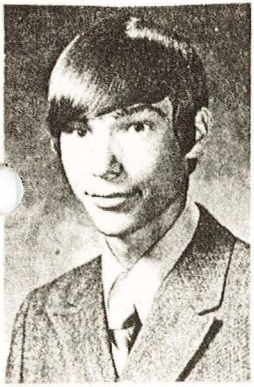

Fox, a native of the Lisbon area, died in 1972, having worked for the Salem China Co. and the Salem Label Co. He was one of the founders of the Community Concert Association of Salem.

Last year $15,000 in Fox money was distributed to eight recipients.

The nine 1995 graduate school recipients are: Linda Beeler, West Virginia University (clinical psychology); Mario DiBiase, Chicago School of Professional Psychology; Mark Herron, Ohio State University College of Optometry; Ted Schuster, Case Western Reserve (dentistry).

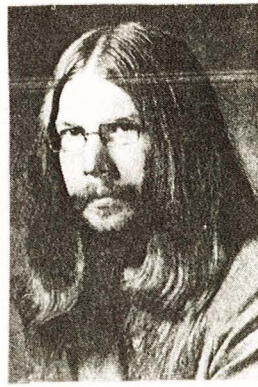

George S. Wilson, Ohio University College of Osteopathic Medicine; Peter Winch, University of Cincinnati College of Medicine; Kerri Thorne, Ohio State University College of Medicine; Eric Murray, Medical College of Ohio at Toledo (physical therapy); Lisa Herron, Medical College of Ohio at Toledo.

Hair styles of the 1970s

The Great Hair Rebellion

Students' hair styles these days tend to be on the skimpy side, featuring white sidewalls, Mohawks and other hirsute delights.

Back in the 1970s, the SHS boys went in for styles a bit more shaggy and imaginative. These examples were culled from Quaker annuals of that period and should be amusing to the subjects' offspring today.

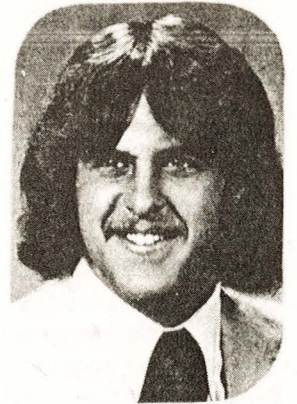

Next? The bald look perhaps.

Newsy notes from Alumni fill mailbox

From: James J. Aldom ('93)

I am a Salem High graduate, class of 1993. Presently I am a finance major of junior standing at John Carroll University.

Upon my graduation from Salem High I received an Alumni Association scholarship. Through the generosity of the Association and its donors, I have been able to attend John Carroll and blossom in its enriching environment. For me to express my gratitude in words is a hard task.

In an effort to express my thanks, I have enclosed a donation to the Alumni Association fund. Hopefully, it can be used to give future Salem Graduates the opportunities I have now, and carry on this great tradition.

Thanks for sending the newspaper story on Benny (the late Coach Ben Barrett). We moved near the children in Gainesville in late March and Benny seemed to enjoy it here since the families paid us visits. He was watching a basketball game on Mothers Day when he drew about three breaths and just died. It was a shock to us but we feel it was the way he would have preferred since his best days were over.

Every mail brings letters from former friends and football players. We greatly appreciate all the beautiful messages that were sent. He hadn't been forgotten.

Asked if he would have changed anything in his life, Benny said "I've had a very good life and I wouldn't change a thing." That was Benny--roll with the punches.

The enclosed check is in his memory.

I truly enjoy receiving the newsletter and learning more about all the positive things going on back home. I am very thankful and proud to have a lot of beautiful memories and a strong sense of right and wrong, instilled in me while being raised in good old Salem, Ohio!

I hope this contribution can help somehow. Keep up the great work!

I am writing to thank you for the scholarship you awarded to me on June 3, 1995 at your annual banquet.

I wanted to let you know how greatly it is appreciated. It will be put to good use in the first step toward my medical career. I hope to be an asset to my profession and community upon receiving my degree.

I also hope my career choice will enable me to return the kindness by helping others who choose to follow the same path.

I just received my copy of the Spring, 1995, alumni newsletter.

I thoroughly enjoyed the article on the 78th birthday of the "old" high school building which I attended. Really, I enjoy all of the articles in each newsletter I receive. They rekindle many memories.

I am hoping to attend my 50-year reunion next year.

You do a fabulous job on the newsletter and it is greatly appreciated by many of us. Please accept my check in memory of Ben Barrett, our recently deceased former football coach.

He was an inspiration to many of us and he was very important to many young, developing kids at Salem High.

I look forward to every issue of the newsletter. It always brings back a lot of fond memories. Best of all, it seems like I can remember things as they were then. All classmates are remembered as they were and as they looked in high school years.

I just received the spring edition of the alumni newsletter, and nostalgia at seeing the picture of my old "alma mater" on the front page prompts me to write and tell you how much I enjoy hearing about Salem people that I hadn't thought of in years.

Having been a California resident for some 40 years. I also enjoy getting back to Salem every year or so to catch up on the growth that has taken place since I left the area in 1954.

If you know anyone who is taking the alumni Alaska cruise, tell them that the ship is beautiful, fairly new, and the crew can't do enough for the passengers. My friend and I just came back from a two-week trip through the Panama Canal on that very same ship and it was a wonderful experience.

Keep up the good work on the newsletter.

O.S.B.A. head ending term

Patricia Schmidt McNicol ('53), 1995 president of the Ohio School Boards Association, believes that being involved in the education of children is the most important endeavor one can undertake.

As she nears the end of her term, the Salem High graduate leads 735 school boards across the state in promoting the advancement of public education in Ohio.

A registered nurse by profession, McNicol became involved in education when she volunteered in 1981 to serve on a citizens committee to write a district discipline code.

In 1982 she began her board career and is now completing her 12th year, having served as board president and delegate to the State Capitol Conference.

In 1987 she was nominated to the OSBA northeast regional board, the lowest rung on the ladder, and has ascended through the ranks to the final rung, being installed as the 40th president of OSBA in a ceremony held in her home school district.

Her goals as president have been to stimulate interest in OSBA through widespread involvement of its members. "We are the voice of the students," she says. Top priorities of OSBA involved lobbying for adequate and equitable funding for education and retaining local control for each individual school district.

McNicol was to be among the 1% of the most effective American educators invited to attend a week-long leadership seminar at Lawrence University in Appleton, Wisc.; served as a member of the Federal Relations Network who lobby on education issues in Washington, D.C., and this year was Ohio's delegate to the National School Boards Association Delegate Assembly in San Francisco, Calif.

McNicol is the daughter of the late William and Ruth Schmidt. She was educated in St. Paul Catholic School and was graduated along with her twin brother, Jim, from Salem High School in 1953. She was commencement speaker and a member of the winning state debate team. She was graduated from St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing in Youngstown, Ohio, and attended Youngstown University. She served as Director of Nursing Service at the then Salem City Hospital and taught at both St. Elizabeth's School of Nursing and Hannah E. Mullins School of Practical Nursing.

Active in community affairs, she is past president of the Salem High School Alumni Association; past president of the Board of Managers of Century Home; past president of the Salem Garden Club and a life member of Garden Club of Ohio. She has served as president of the Northeast Region of OSBA and trustee for OSBA. She currently serves on the nominating committee for the Central Region of the National School Boards Association. She is a member of the Catholic Daughters of the Americas and a member of the selection committee for Habitat for Humanity. She is also a registered American Red Cross nurse and a member of the Alumni Association of St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing. In 1994 she was awarded the YWCA Women of Achievement in Education Award.

She is married to Francis (Bud) McNicol and can be reached at PO Box 1106, Salem, OH 44460. They have one daughter, Beth Reedy, and two grandchildren, Jaclyn and John.

the terrific job of writing and publishing. It is sure hard to realize it's now over 50 years since the end of World War II in Europe. I was stationed at Great Lakes Naval Base and was downtown in Chicago when the news broke. I'll never forget that sight of the crowd going just plain crazy.

Laguna Hills, CA 92653

Could you note the publication of my book, New Directions in Elementary School Mathematics: Interactive Teaching and Learning, published in March by Merrill/Prentice Hall?

This book is based on constructivist theories of learning and includes more pedagogy than my other two books on mathematics for elementary school children. I am now Professor of Education and Children Development, Emeritus, California State U. at Fullerton, and though retired, I still teach a course in mathematics for elementary school children at the University and write about teaching elementary school mathematics.

The Alumni Association has become a remarkable organization. The scholarships granted are impressive and the newsletter is splendid! It is so well written that I believe it is superior to many university alumni newsletters.

I am enclosing a contribution to the Association to support its work.

(Editor's Note: Emma Bauman won the top scholarship awarded in 1943--$300.)

I wanted to send this short note to express my deepest gratitude to you for awarding me a Charles Fox Memorial Scholarship. As members of the SHS Alumni Association, you should all be immensely proud of your work, as a commitment to higher education is second to none. I consider this award a very high honor. Once again, my appreciation goes out to all of you.

Sweater triggers memories of her dad's music

(Reprinted from 1916 Quaker annual)

One of the most important organizations in high school is the orchestra. Many times at plays, exercises and other functions, its stirring music has added wonderfully to the occasion. At the debate, held in the Methodist Church this year, our orchestra fairly outdid itself and the audience was loud in its praises of the musicians.

The orchestra is not as large as it was last year. It is made up of only one girl and four boys. Nevertheless, the music which they provide is of the highest quality. An orchestra cannot be a medium one. It is either very good or very bad. We are proud to say that ours is a good one.

By graduation we will lose our leader, James Thomas, and Vera Cole. Both will be missed, but no doubt material will be found to take their places.

The organization is:

Leader, first violin ..James Thomas
 CornetGeorge Chappell
 Second violin (far left)..Howard Foltz
 PianoVera Cole
 DrumsRalph Gee

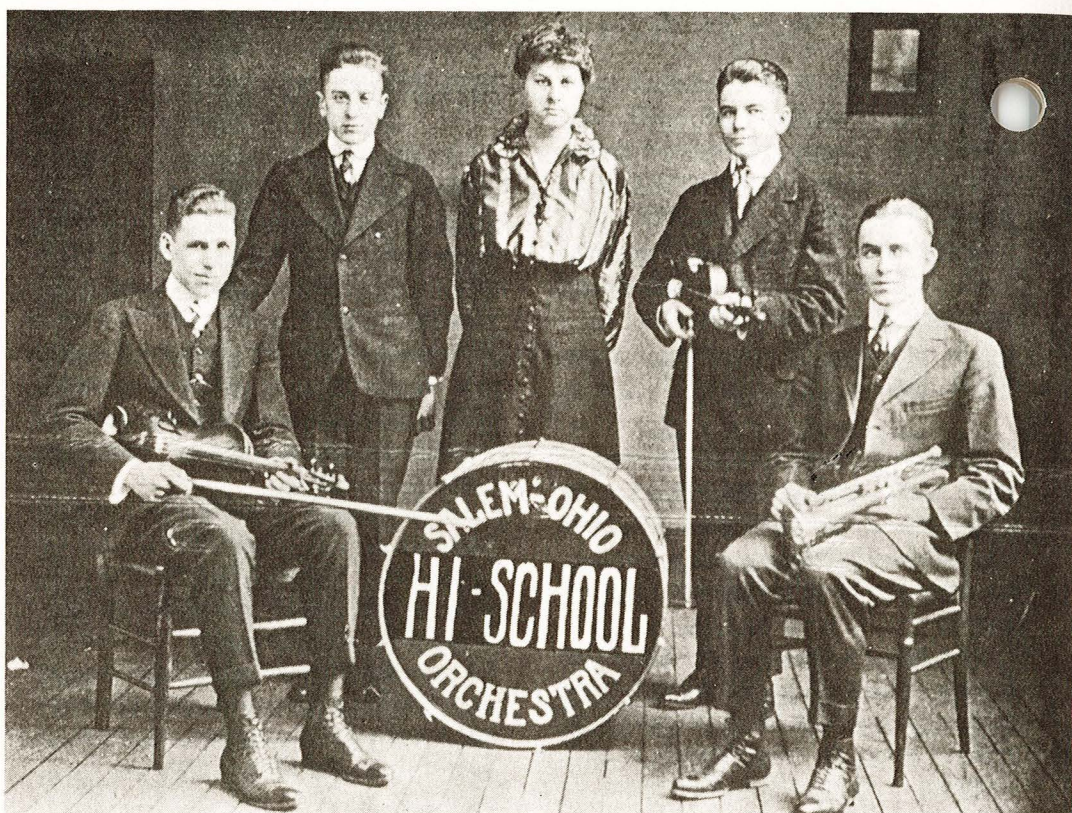

And in 1995...

The Alumni Association recently received a letter from Vivian Foltz Englebrecht ('41), Box 647, Rocky Hill, NJ 98553.

Along with it was a package containing her father's orchestra "uniform," in the form of a mint-condition red and black woolen knitted sweater which is 79 years old.

She said her father was very proud of the sweater and that her mother had battled for years to save it from moths. "You will find his picture in a pre-World War I annual, proudly holding his violin," she wrote.

The photo was found in the 1916 annual (above). Howard Foltz would have been in the SHS Class of 1917, but left school one year early. He married Bernice Grove ('15) and later operated Foltz Feed Mill on West State St.

The sweater will be turned over the Salem Historical Society for display.

Calendar sale

The Salem Community calendar, printed annually for the benefit of designated non-profit organizations in Salem, is now available by mail order. From 1984-1991 the calendar proceeds were given to S.A.G.E., the Salem Association for Gifted Education, which is now affiliated with the Salem Public Schools. Since 1992 the beneficiary has been the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour.

This year's calendar will feature sketches by local artists Jack Buta, Jan Call, Erma Eaton, Diane Friedel, Jo Ann Holt, Sam Kirkland, Richard Theiss, Ed Sullivan and Linda Sutter. The buildings being featured include downtown businesses (Troll's Jewelry and An Olde English Garden), historic buildings (Quaker Meeting House, Hise House, Historical Society) and some century homes (Shaffer-

Earns degree

Cindy Roessler Schmidt was graduated this year from the Medical College of Ohio in Toledo with a Master of Occupational Therapy degree. Mrs. Schmidt also received the 1995 Outstanding Fieldwork Award for Occupational Therapy.

She has co-authored articles appearing in The American Journal of Occupational Therapy and the Occupational Therapy Journal of Research. She is also a member of Pi Theta Epsilon, the national occupational therapy honorary society.

She is a 1981 Salem High graduate and was graduated Magna Cum Laude from Ashland University with a B.S. degree. She is the daughter of Gordon ('46) and Donna Barnes Roessler ('48) of Salem. She currently resides in Ada, Ohio, and works as an occupational therapist at St. Rita's Medical Center in Lima.

She received a Fox scholarship the first year they were awarded.

Karlis chosen

Salem's Rich Karlis ('77), now living in Aurora, Colorado, has been appointed president of the Colorado Foxes professional soccer team.

The 36-year-old Karlis, a former place kicker with the Denver Broncos and Minnesota Vikings, had served as the Foxes' director of marketing since September, 1993.

"Rich Karlis has successfully combined business fundamentals with the perspective of a former athlete, providing the Foxes with a professional attitude in the front office," said team owner Martin Nixdorf.

During Karlis' tenure as director of marketing, the Foxes' average attendance increased from 2,100 to 6,523 and the number of corporate sponsors rose from nine to 30.

The Foxes are Denver's representative in the A-League, the highest level of professional soccer in the U.S.

Join law firms

Both Tom Swope and his wife, Lisa Maroscher Swope ('87), daughter of Rudy ('48) and Barb Maroscher of Salem, are both CPA's and graduates of Akron School of Law.

Tom is new partner with a Pittsburgh law firm and Lisa has been nominated by Akron School of Law for the National Association of women lawyers. Tops in her class, Lisa also received her masters degree last spring in taxation with a G.P.A. of 3.76. She passed the Pennsylvania law bar exam last summer and went to work for Kirkpatrick & Lockhart in Pittsburgh.

An accomplished tennis player, Lisa was district high school champion for two years and at Akron U. she captained her team and tied the Zips' singles record (74-50) and compiled a 64-43 doubles mark.

The Swopes reside at 318 Oak Ridge Dr., Murrysville, PA, 15668.
