BAND PLANNING FIRST CONCERT FOR THIS YEAR

The Salem High School Band will give its first concert of the year next Wednesday evening at 8:00 in the High school auditorium.

The concert will be a free one with a free will offering, everyone being invited.

The main attraction will be novelty numbers presented by the band as a whole and various members. Come and see, "The Little German Band of Salem High", also a comic selection by the entire band, "Our Family Band." Included on the program with the novelty numbers there will be: A trumpet duet, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," by Jack Harroff and Oland Dilworth; Harmony King, overture; Southern Melodies; Old Time Waltzes; a tuba solo, "Solo Pomposo," by Charles Knisely; Peter Schroll, overture; a trumpet solo, "Trees"; "In a Moonlit Garden"; and other selections including marches by the favorite composers.

The band has been working on these numbers since the close of football season and is expected to present a very entertaining evening for those present. Don't forget to come and see Salem High's own "Little German Band."

TROY COPE ON TRIP TO ARIZON

Troy Cope, '34, left last Sunday morning for Tucson, Arizona where he will stay for an indefinite length of time. He was accompanied by his mother and his younger brother Dave. Cope was an active member on both the football and the debate team. He was also a member of the senior play cast.

He is the third Salem High School student who has made Tucson his destination this year. The two other members were Gladys and Ada Swinbank.

SPANISH STUDENTS VOTE FOR OFFICERS

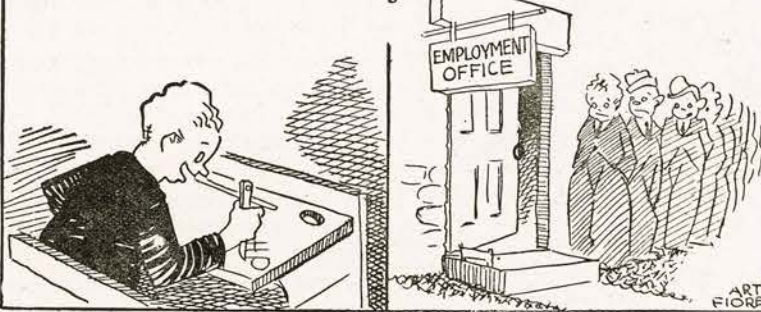

At the meeting of the Spanish Club, "Los Castanellos", held a week ago last Wednesday, the following members were elected to fill office for the remainder of the term: President, William Adams; vice-president, Florence Soloman; secretary, Katherine Simone; treasurer, John Knepper.

The rest of the program consisted of a piano solo, "Warbling at Eve," by Julia Wood and a game conducted by William Adams. It was announced that a play would be presented at the next meeting.

LEPROSY COMMON DISEASE IN BRITAIN IN ANCIENT TIMES

Leprosy was a very common disease in England during the Thirteenth century. In fact, it was so common and contagious that about one third of the population had it. Small villages were erected on the outside of larger towns for these people.

The villages were usually small, having no paved streets and little, one story houses with thatched roofs. The houses were poorly equipped with only a chair, table, and sometimes a bed as its furnishings.

The leper, himself was not only dirty and starved but disowned. Whenever he went into the city he was required to carry a wooden rattle and bucket. The former for warning the people; the latter for the purpose of obtaining food.

Today there are special places for lepers to obtain treatment. Thus the life of a leper isn't as miserable now as it was in England during that early period of pestilence.

SALEMASQUERS GIVE ONE ACT PLAY HERE

A one-act play entitled "Three Friends" was presented in the auditorium at the Salemasquer meeting a week ago last Tuesday.

The cast was composed of Bob Dole, Rex Hundertmarck, and Albert DeRienzo.

This play is one of a number being prepared, the best of which will be sent to the Hiram One Act Play Contest in which Salem took second place last year.

EDITORIAL STAFF ATTENDS PARTY

Members of the Quaker Editorial Staff and their guests attended a party at Twee-Crest last Wednesday evening.

The dinner was followed by a program in which all took part. The program consisted of humorous speeches, readings, and poems.

After the programs, dancing was enjoyed for the rest of the evening.

Chairmen for the committees for the party were: program, Katherine Taylor; transportation, Harry McCarthy; and location of party, Robert Wentz.

JANITORS PROVIDE SCHOOL COMFORTS

As some of the early workers of our shops trudge through the hazy darkness of the early morning, much activity is going on inside that lonesome white building on North Lincoln avenue.

Sometimes a dim light can be seen throwing forth a warm glow in one of the halls or from one of the rooms. This light is a sign that one of our janitors is probably sweeping the halls or emptying paper and gum from wastepaper baskets. But this is not all our janitors do before we come to the school.

Have you ever noticed how nice and warm the building is when we come in from the bitter cold outside. The furnace has been fired, no doubt. Surely it has been fired and will probably be fired many more times during the day.

This is just a small showing of what goes on "Before the School Wakes."

Due to excellent strategy and superior rebuttal, Salem's negative team, composed of Ruth Ruggy, Paul J. Smith and Paul Strader, Jr., won the district championship by defeating Ravenna High at Kent State college last Tuesday night.

The Salem squad has now won five out of six debates and is among the first ten of the eighty-five schools who competed in the Ohio State Debating league.

The judge was Professor Southwick, registrar at Wooster college. In all probability, the next debate will be with Wooster High school.

ADVICE TO YOUTH

My advice to the younger generation is to live cleanly and to be strong in all things. Do the things you should do rather than the things you would like to do.

Be honest, straight-forward, and clean. Give no one reason to say anything against you.

Have fun while you may but make it clean fun. It's all right to be lighthearted and gay but try to have a serious thought in your heads once in a while. Your lives are before you—you can shape your characters and become what you will.

Some may have a better chance than others to succeed in the world but all can live cleanly and become good men and women.

COURAGE AND SPIRIT

Anne Sullivan Macy, the teacher of Helen Keller, suffered from childhood from an affliction which has resulted in the loss of her sight.

The relations of the teacher and the pupil are reversed now, for, in a quiet home in England, Helen Keller has turned teacher for her one-time guide.

Poverty and tragedy had followed Anne Sullivan's family, yet half-blind she had a longing for better things and a will to strive for them. She entered the Perkins Institution, in the year 1889. Seven years later she faced the world and had no idea where destiny would take her. It took her to Helen Keller and a life of remarkable service. The barriers of blindness and deafness were overcome and Helen Keller was taught to speak, an accomplishment possible only through the imagination and perseverance of Mrs. Macy.

AMONG THE CELEBRITIES

Irvin Cobb terms cantaloupe a lamode a frightful American concoction.

John Held, Jr., says: In 1848, gold was discovered in California. Where we would be without gold it is difficult to say, but that's where we are, anyway.

Will Rogers thinks what this country needs is dirtier finger nails and cleaner minds.

The name given to Floyd Gibbons by Indians at the World's Fair, Wolluck-wa-la-ping-a means "Teller of Good Tales".

Ed. Howe, Editor, remarks: It is a good rule to watch everybody; the honest man may be careless.

Jack Lippert says that Mae West and the Northwest Mounted Police are an unbeatable combination—they always get their man.

HOW TO LIVE TO BE A HUNDRED YEARS OLD

1. Do not tie tin cans to dogs' tails, it will make a sore tale.

2. Do not kill the grasshoppers for that will make it rain, causing your rheumatism to get worse.

3. Do not run, you're likely to fall down and skin your knees. This weakens them.

4. Do not fight, you will make your mother angry and you won't be able to sit down for a week. Tiredness shortens your life.

5. Eat your spinach and carrots. It makes you healthy.

I think that student government is a good idea. After all it's the students that make up the school and they should have some say about the way in which its governed. Perhaps the main disadvantage of this is whether or not the students would cooperate.

M. F.

What Do You Think?

Of having a forty-five minute show run in the auditorium and letting the students go to the show during study periods.

Lela Naragon . . . I think this would be a bright idea. Who wants to sit in a study hall for forty-five minutes anyhow?

Kate Taylor . . . Maybe they'd get more out of that than—American Government, for instance. They might learn something.

Martha Holderith . . . I think it would be swell. It would be something different, and we would have our brain clear to study after.

Julius Hipply . . . I think it would be the best idea to wake the boys and girls from their dreams.

Bill Kendall . . . It would be a good idea if they would let me sing "Song of Songs" between shows.

MARTHA

This blonde young lady is in 303 when she can sit still long enough to stay in one place. She's short, and has blue eyes. Her middle name, if that's any clue is—Oh! I promised not to tell—she hates it. She likes a young man named Bob. She has a junior brother who wears a red sweater.

Last week Ruth Obenour was described.

student opinion

There have been quite a number of complaints from the student body because last names are not printed in the Quaker. I, for one, think that last initials are quite enough. The people who do things are well enough known that the first name and last initial will identify them. Those whose names aren't known never do anything to make it necessary to put their names in the Quaker.

R. R.

Dear Editor:

I think that the present system of putting in the first name and the last initial is adequate for use in columns because sufficient information is given. Some students prefer that their full name does not appear. Just the last initial provides an easy guessing game which pleases the students.

V. Y.

Dear Editor:

I think that the present system (used in the feature articles of the Quaker) in printing the first name and only the initial of the last name is a better method than printing the full name. Many students prefer not to have their full name appear and by not having full names an air of guessing is given to the articles. Students like easy puzzles.

L. H.

Mr. Editor: —Q—

I think that student government would be good for the school providing every one got a chance at helping and the officers wouldn't use grudges or favorites.

D. M.

Helen: "You know I hate the taste of tobacco."

SALEM RUNNERS RECEIVE LETTERS

Eight members of the Cross Country team were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Clarke at a hamburg fry last Tuesday.

The following boys were presented with Cross Country letters: Paul J. Smith, Stanley Kamasky, Glenn McFeeley, Kenneth Woods, Harold Ludwig, George Brantingham, Dick Wernet, and Lewis Catlos.

Cards and music were sources of entertainment later in the evening.

DON'T QUIT

When things go wrong as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all uphill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high—
And you want a smile but you have a sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit;
Rest if you must—but don't quit

OH THAT KISS!

I wonder how many students of Salem High knew that a kiss sounds like a horse pulling its hoof out of the mud? Well, it does and not many people would be thrilled by that sort of attention. A kiss is a pressure of the lips bestowed on a person or object as an expression of affection;—mostly on persons.

Some kisses are pleasant, some thrilling and others are repulsive. The pleasant ones are those deposited on your cheek by your mother, and repulsive by your mother-in-law, or your pet dog, Spot. The thrilling are—well, you know.

If we indulge in too many kisses it is likely to make us sick, especially if they are candy kisses.

QUAKERS TROUNCE SCIENCEVILLE FIVE IN SPEEDY CONTEST

Salem High's Quakers showed great power Saturday evening by defeating Scienceville's strong quintet 31-20 in the high school gym here.

Salem jumped into the lead in the first quarter and never lost it after that, Johnny Pukalski making most of the points, and led by a 20-6 margin at half-time.

In the third quarter Scienceville started a comeback with their star, DeBacco, doing most of the scoring but the Quakers again displayed their fine defensive ability and finished the game with a comfortable margin.

John Pukalski together with Wayne Sidinger and Jackie Mullins were the outstanding players of the game although the whole Salem team played a great game. DeBacco, who tied with Pukalski for scoring honors, played best for the visitors.

SALEM HIGH BEATS ALLIANCE QUINTET IN EASY TILT THERE

Last Friday night Salem High's cagemen shook the jinx that had followed them on foreign courts, and trimmed Alliance 30-19 in an N. E. O. Big Ten cage contest.

Salem started strong and led the Aviators 7-5 at the first quarter and then went on to lead at the half 13-8.

Alliance, as the second half opened, came up to 13-12, but from that point on Salem dominated the contest with ease. The Quakers ran the score to 20-13. At this point the elongated Aviator center, Gray, was ejected on fouls. The quarter ended at 22-13 and after many substitutions for both sides the game ended with the Brownmen on the long end of a 30-18 score.

Mullins and Pukalski starred for Salem while Bertram looked best for Alliance.

Salem Reserves, led by Veon and Pukalski, played impressively to overcome the Alliance and second-stringers 31-22 in the preliminary game.

"Never the twains shall meet," sighed the little boy Smith as the brakeman threw the switch.

QUAKERS TO PLAY STRUTHERS, NILES

Salem finishes its regular 1934 basketball season this week with two Big Ten games. On Friday night the Quakers meet the Struthers tossers here and Saturday they travel to Niles to tangle with the Red and Blue basketeers on their own court. To date neither Struthers nor Niles has shown any extra strength or even potential power. The Red and Black cagers should have no great difficulties in overcoming these teams after the great performance last weekend.
