Calvin, Niles.

MORE DOPE ON SR. SPEECHES, HO! HUM!

Yes, underclassmen, the Seniors are going to give their Senior speeches again this year. Perhaps you are like the Seniors were when they first entered Salem High: "What on earth will I use for my Senior speech—when I get to be a Senior?" This is the first thought of nearly every Freshman. Don't worry too much about it because it really isn't as bad as it used to be.

It was a great deal more difficult when each Senior had to give his speech before the entire Senior class in 206. Now, each senior chooses the title of his speech and the class in which he will give it and reports to the class president. Arrangements are made with the teachers of the classes in which the speeches are to be given and a date and time set for the deliverance of the oration.

Each speech must be at least three minutes long and of the oration type which excludes essays, biographies or the fiction sort. As these orations are requirements for graduation it is imperative that they be given considerable time and thought.

NOTICE!

The student body and faculty wishes by this means to express its sincerest condolences to the family of the late Dr. W. C. Elder during their sad bereavement in the loss of their husband and father.

Dr. Elder passed away Tuesday a week ago, as the result of an illness caused by a brain tumor.

Dr. Elder, who practiced dentistry in Minerva, was the father of Stewart and Ellen Elizabeth, members of our student body.

SUPT. ATTENDS EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCES

"Education Through Social Changes", Is Theme

The Department of Superintendence meeting held in Atlantic City, Feb. 23-28 and which was attended by Mr. Kerr, is the most important educational convention of the year in the United States.

The opening session on Sunday evening was Humperdinck's "Hahsel and Gretel" presented by 357 children from the Atlantic City elementary schools. The leading roles were sung by Georgia Standing of the Cosmopolitan Opera Company, Alice Haessler and Louis Dellamolle both from the San Carlos Opera Company.

The superintendents of schools from every state and all out-lying possessions of the United States were in attendance.

The theme of the convention was "Education Through Social Changes." Much attention was given to the new demands for social studies in the upper elementary and high school curricula.

Various phases of governmental planning occupied the time of many of the nations' ablest speakers among whom were listed the following:

Charles E. Merrim of the President's Planning Board.

Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Stewart Chase, economist.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the R. F. C.

Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture.

Association Party Postponement Possible

By tomorrow we shall know whether or not it will be necessary to postpone the second Association Party until April 5. Should Salem be successful in this week's games in the Akron tournament, our strong basketball team will be one of the eight finalists of the state Class A basketball tournament at Columbus on March 21, 22 and 23.

Only one other occasion, in 1927, has Salem High ever been successful in reaching the final tournament at Columbus.

For four successive years Salem has had the misfortune to lose in the Akron tourney by a single point margin. By the time this is read it is hoped that this year's team will have broken from that four year tradition.

It will be necessary to win three games this week in order to qualify for the Columbus trip. The six players who alternate at starting positions will see to it that the season lasts as long as possible for they are all seniors and therefore this season will terminate their high school basketball careers.

SAVE COUPONS!

Frosh Beauty Queen

Kathryn Cessna

Kathryn Cessna '34 who is attending Mount Union College this year has recently been chosen the most beautiful co-ed of the Freshman Class. A popular vote by all members of the class was held to determine to whom this distinction belonged. Miss Cessna is pledged to the Delta Delta sorority.

STUDENTS SEE POTTERY IN THE MAKING MON.

The process of making pottery and history of the ceramic industry were brought to the attention of the students in an assembly Monday.

This demonstration and talks were given by Mr. F. Q. Mason, chemist and Ceramic expert of East Liverpool. Mr. Mason comes from a long line of Ceramists in England and is well versed in every phase of this industry, "which", as Mr. Mason said "is the oldest industry, besides getting a wife."

Mr. Mason, assisted by Miss Adelaide Dyball, of Salem, showed the method of pouring the clay into the molds and the clay in the "biscuit" stage.

Pictures were shown by Mr. Kaminsky of Salem, showing the further process of firing the clay and other processes unable to be demonstrated on the stage.

After the assembly, many interested students, and friends who attended this assembly, sought further information concerning this subject and talked to Mr. Mason, personally.

Mr. Mason stated that anyone living in Ohio can be proud that Ohio is the pottery center of America, especially the East Liverpool and Columbiana County section.

Trackman Receives Injury

Paul Layden, a member of the senior class, sprained his ankle a week ago yesterday in gym class. While high jumping Paul sprained his ankle severely enough to spoil his chance for pole vaulting at the track meets this year. Paul was one of the most prospective entries for that event this year.

WEARIED QUAKERS LOSE TO CHANEY IN FINAL TRAGIC FRAY AT SECTIONAL TOURNEY

THREE SENIORS TIE FOR FIRST PLACE RATING

Hilliard, McCarthy, McConnor Deadlocked

Lucyle Hilliard, Harry McCarthy and Dorothy McConnor tied for the first three places as honor students with grades of all A's.

The following students placed for the remaining eight places out of the eleven firsts:

Helen Huber being fourth; Ruth Kinney fifth; E. Jane Lewis sixth; Marye Giffin seventh; Don Hammell and Dick Harris tied for eighth and ninth; Thelma Filler and Stella Kuniewicz tied for tenth and eleventh places.

The office has completed the numerical ratings including the past semester. It must be realized that this complete list will be subject to revised ratings at the close of school this year. It is most unusual that three members of the senior class have perfect records thus far. In other words, Lucyle, Harry and Dorothy have received all A's every semester of their school course. Furthermore, these first three students have taken five subjects at least two of their four high school years.

It is customary to list the ten honor graduates at the end of the seventh semester, but in this case Thelma Filler and Stella Kuniewicz were tied for tenth place.

Other seniors may secure their present individual ratings from Miss Beardmore, the senior advisor.

It is also to be remembered that a grand finish in scholastic standing this present semester will go far toward strengthening your position in applying for college entrance or a job.

Nature Pictures Shown Here Recently

Three one reel pictures, which were procured by Superintendent E. S. Kerr through the Department of Interior of Canada, were shown to the students of the Salem Junior and Senior high schools Tuesday after school.

The pictures were entitled "Good-bye to All That", "Birds of Canada", and "Beavers". The first, concerned a group of people who took a trip into the Canadian northwest. It showed the beauty of the forests and snow capped mountains of Canada together with a little humor which was supplied by people in the party.

The second picture "Birds of Canada" showed many of the numerous birds of the country to our north in their native haunts.

The third picture, and the last showed the Beaver in his native haunts.

Brownmen Come Thru Runners-Up After Sweep of Wins

O' Deadeye and Jack Win Honors

Salem High's Varsity cagers won three consecutive games only to lose to Chaney 32-21 in the finals of the N. E. O. Tourney at Youngstown.

Salem looked strong as they combined a dazzling offense, that completely baffled their opponents, and a strong defense to humiliate Youngstown East in the opening game of the tournament. Salem led 15-2 at the close of the first setto and increased their lead to 26-6 at half-time. The Quakers let down a little after the half and were content to coast through to a 37-21 victory.

Thursday, Salem encountered its old rival, East Palestine. Salem was in the lead 12-1 at the close of the first quarter and were still ahead 27-13 at intermission. At the three-quarter mark, the Quakers were leading 39-30. It was in the final canto that Palestine staged their sensational rally. Indeed it was the biggest rally seen at the tournament for some time. The Bulldogs outscored Salem 17-2 and as the final bark of the gun sounded Salem was only leading by the slim margin of 41-37. E. Palestine was the only school to score more than 27 points against Salem this season.

Salem was slated against Rayen, Saturday afternoon in the semifinals and after a rather slow start the Brownmen pulled through, to win 36-24. Salem led 19-8 at the end of the first quarter and increased their lead to 21-13 at the half way mark. The second half was pretty roughly played and McCloskey and Mullins of Salem boosted their lead to 29-16 as the third period drew to a close. The Quakers weren't taking any chance and they continued their onslaught in grand style to win easily.

Salem ran up against a tartar when they met Chaney High in Kill That Grudge!

Often times when a man is trying to accomplish a given purpose he comes in contact with persons he doesn't like. Although these persons may be good hard workers who could help him, he won't have anything to do with them just because he dislikes them for some reason or other.

When Lincoln appointed his cabinet he could have picked men who liked him—it was his privilege—but he didn't pick them on the basis of whether they liked him or not, he picked them because they could do the job. Two of the men he picked had actually ridiculed him and called him names, but Lincoln put any personal grievances aside so that his country could get the best of service.

When someone criticized Napoleon for appointing one of his critics to an important office, he said, "What do I care what he thinks of me as long as he can do the work?"

Often these grudges don't amount to anything—perhaps a difference in opinion or a misunderstanding caused the whole thing. But whether they amount to anything or not, the offended person is going to get revenge if it's the last thing he does. He nurses his grievances and slanders the person he dislikes, at every chance.

But big men don't go around nursing petty grievances — they don't have time to—and neither do you.

Kill That Cough!

Just listen to that coughing! Especially is it noticeable in study halls and assembly. Do you know the dangers of a cough? Here they are:

The germs expelled in coughing, sneezing or even in talking may live in the air for 48 hours. While the larger droplets expelled in coughing do fall to the ground, the more minute never reach the floor. They evaporate almost instantly leaving behind tiny nuclei so small they are easily carried around by the lightest air currents. Some types of germs remain alive for several days. The deadly carrier of pneumonia and the source of diptheria and scarlet fever, for example, live more than 48 hours. Others die in less than an hour.

Now, isn't the cough more disturbing as a disease spreader than as a mere annoyance?

Kill That Disappointment!

Disappointment is a bad companion. Yet some of us welcome it and invite it to return. All of us sometimes brood over our losses and defeats again and again. All of us, it is natural, wish the best of life but when a 'set back' turns up, begin brooding. But we all know that we cannot all have the best in life so why not take the next best thing?

This does not mean that you should lie down on the job but should be in fighting for the most you can get out of life.

So when a disappointment or trouble comes let's look at the cheerful side of life (it doesn't pay to worry anyway) and not expect too much of the future; and we will always be comparatively happy.

Little Jack came home and threw his books down. His mother asked him what was wrong. Jack replied: "Aw, gee, Mom, I got a lot of homework. Say Mom, tell me why do teachers get paid when we do all the work!"

Seersucker is a material with a crinkled surface.

THE HEARER

So we come to the end of another week. It won't be long now, yes, you Freshies can well afford to heave a sigh of relief as the year draws to a close. But pity the poor seniors. I've heard more than one sentimental senior state that every time they see a notice of commencement the tears just ooze out somehow or another—oh, well, cheer up, seniors, and make the most of the time that's left!

My! My! What a sermon! I must be reforming! But I'm not asking you to give up your fun! Heavens no! For I'd kinda' be out of a job then!

Wonder if Marion Thiess still thinks she swallowed the scissors when she just misplaced them.

We nominate James Bruce for cheer leader next year—or champ hog caller! Anyhow, he sure was goin' to town at the Chaney game. Never a dull moment with "Hi Speed" Bruce around!

One way CRUSH - OF - THE WEEK: Ruth Anna White for Joe Getz. More power to ya, Blondie!

What happened to Olive's wrist watch? Did "he" take it back? Ah, that's too bad!

Bye the bye, Dick Gidley: I was asked to warn you about running through the halls. You know, there are other people there too, some times!

But I'd like to know what it is that Lowell must write in notes to Marion. What is it that he can't say personally?

I wonder if Margaret's ring is too heavy for Ralph? He can't seem to hang on to it. Oh, yeah! Dreamin' again!

I shudder to think of poor Charlie Wentz when those extravagant dream castles he is building about little Dilworth come tumbling down upon hm! Oh, well, where there's life, there's hope!

And since when has our track coach acquired such a fortune that he can afford to tear dollar bills in two?

I heard that Misses Rakestraw, Papesch, and Rogers so bewailed our loss to Chaney that they were told either to shut up or get off the bus and walk home! Tsk! Tsk!

Here's a hot one! It seems that Bill got out of the car to look for a missing light, or flat tire or something! While he was investigating, Janice stepped on the gas and away she went! Nice people, eh, Bill? Fou never can trust these women!

I wonder if all these track men are in at 10:30 every night, as they're supposed to be? I heard— Someone wants to know why Henry Smith spends so much time in the library the 1st period. Must be the attraction of a certain brunett librarian, eh?

They say Eileen Griffiths got a letter from Berlin Center—So he can't get over it, eh, Eileen?

Well, it's goodbye for now.

Tid-Bits

So you think that some of the persons living at your house are a little tetchd in the haid do you? Well, if you lived in Gheel, Belgium, you'd likely know that they were because there the government pays nearly every family for keeping one or two insane persons. The afflicted persons must be treated as one of the family and be allowed to go shopping or visiting alone.

In Syria every Druse bride presents her husband with a dagger which is to be used upon her if she proves unfaithful. Now girls, aren't you glad you live in America?

Leading a dog's life a couple of centuries ago was harder than it is now. Up to about 1800 the dog was the hardest working member of the household. In a revolving, treadmill like cage, hung from the ceiling and attached by pulleys to the spit before the open fire, the turnspit dogs would run from two to three hours at a time, turning the meat while it roasted.

Oh! Oh! Girls think of this when the boy friend starts to hand you a line, and particularly remember it on that moonlight night when the roses are in bloom and funny nothings run up and down your back, remember that flattery is soft soap and soft soap is 90 per cent lye.

Paul came limping into the room. "Have an accident?" said his brother.

Paul: "No, thanks, I've already had one."

Patient—Is the doctor in?
Attendant—No, he's gone out to lunch?

Patient—Will he be in after lunch?

Attendant—No, that's what he's gone out for.

JR. HIGH NEWS

At a special assembly a week ago yesterday, the Girls Glee Club, directed by Miss Tetlow, entertained the eighth grades with several numbers.

Additional entertainment was provided by Janet Greenisen, who sang "In An Old Fashioned Garden," and Eve Weingart, who played a piano solo, "Minuet in G."

Mr. Williams, Junior High principal, presented a banner to Room 8-D for winning the annual basketball tournament.

Mr. Kelly has on display several unusual groups of mounted pictures which he recently discovered in some old Geographic Magazines.

Several of the magazines date back as far as 1915, and many contain interesting photographs of the time of the World war.

CLUB NEWS

The Public Speaking class, under the supervision of Mr. Guiler, is starting on their orations, the best of which will be entered in the Brooks' Contest in May.

A joint meeting of the Salem-asquers and the Blue Domino Society of Alliance was held at Twee Crest Inn last Tuesday. The Sa-lemasquers presented a pantomime entitled "And Then the Lamp Went Out" The characters were: Mary Frances Juergens, Helen Huber, Dick McConnor, Horace Schwartz, and Bob Chappell. A musical number presented by Arnold Nye, Joe Pales, and Charles Freed added variety to the program.

Dancing, games and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

A brief business meeting of the Hi-Y was held in 302 yesterday. A discussion and selection for the sweaters and emblems for this year were made.

A short business meeting followed by a very interesting speech on "Birds" by Mr. Baker, a member of Junior High's faculty, was the program for the Hi-Tri a week yesterday.

A St. Patrick's program was held by the Hi-Tri yesterday in 204.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

A meeting of the Slide-Rule Club was held in 304 last Wed.

New rules were explained by Miss McCready and the Club worked various problems.

A social meeting was planned for the next meeting.

The Spanish Club held a program in 205 last Wed. Several games were played in Spanish.

Stude Submit New List of Don'ts and Nevers for S. H. S.

When most people think of etiquette they usually think of table manners, introductions, or such. Most people understand the simple rules for introducing one person to another or sinking their nolars into a piece of sponge cake.

For this reason let us go into the deeper forms of etiquette that are rarely touched upon by such noted writers as Emily Post.

Here are a few rules for a riendly game of cards.

1. Do not whistle when playing cards. You are liable to blow the cards from another person's hand.
  2. Do not hum when playing. If you want to annoy the others turn on the radio.
  3. Do not lose your temper.
  4. Do not moisten your fingers in your mouth. Ask for a dish of water.
  5. Do not speak to the players.
- And now a few timely hints for the theater.

1. Girls. Odorous wavesets, highly perfumed powders, or brilliantine of a strong odor should never be used when going to a theater.

2. It is bad form to keep your hat in, no matter how small it is.

3. Don't whistle, sing, hum, or tap the tunes familiar to you. Whistling cause a breeze on the back of the neck of the person in front of you, and he may take cold.

4. Wiggling the head or shoulders to show your marvelous sense of rhythm and that you recognize the familiar tunes is very poor taste. It is very annoying for the person sitting behind, then too, the wigglers are usually out of rhythm. This makes them the butt of ridicule.

And now until some time in the future, we bid you "tally ho," and remember, 'If you don't remember your manners, your friends will forget you.'

Idealist Visualizes S. H. S. Under Ruling of Thirty Hour Week

Why teacher, I can't tell you anything my 30 hour week is up, you will have to wait till next week to ask me something. This is what would have to happen if the thirty hour week would take effect. Horace 'Baron' Schwartz wouldn't have to stay up late writing for the Quaker and if asked why he couldn't he would calmly exclaim, "Tut, Tut! my thirty hours are up." Charlie "Ol' Dead Eye" McCloskey could, in the middle of a basketball game, calmly walk off the floor and when asked where he is going to finish the game, he would reply "My thirty hours are up." The typists in 306 could stop when about half way through a speed test and shout at Miss C. Bickel "Our thirty hours are up, toodle ooh!" If Charles Davidson was giving a speech and the students walked away, it wouldn't be because they didn't like his speech. It would be the effect of the thirty hour week. Well, my thirty hours will be up in twenty seconds so I'll have to stop writing. Hurrah for the thirty hour week!

Chalk One Up For Kid Berg

Charles Berg recently contributed something new in the way of famous alibis, and incidentally provided a teacher with a good laugh at the same time.

It seems that Charley had the misfortune to be late one day, and thereafter he was appointed a committee of one to keep his home room teacher company for a period of one week.

Everything went along o. k. until Mr. Berg requested to be excused five minutes early one night.

"But why," asked the teacher, "Why do you wish to be excused five minutes early?"

"Well," replied Charles hesitatingly, "to tell you the truth, I've got to see a man about a horse." Charles got excused.

Signs of Spring

Many signs of approaching spring were to be seen about the High school on several of the warm, sunny days last week.

One infallible sign is the gathering of students in front of the school. Even after the bell has rung little groups of gossiping girls and busy boys can be seen standing here and there.

Another sign is the discarding of jackets, topcoats and mufflers in favor of sweaters.

Perhaps in the school itself, the approaching spring is even more evident. Perspiring students sit in their classrooms while in the study halls traces of spring fever may easily be found.

Missourians Can't Phase Smith!

Doubting Geography students were convinced that air does exert upward pressure. When explanation on Instructor Smith's part failed to convince most of the class, he resorted to an experiment.

A glass was filled with water and a piece of paper laid over it. The paper was held firmly in place and the glass turned over, and lo and behold, the paper kept the water in the glass even when Mr. Smith ceased holding it in place.

A few of the students still argued against the upward pressure idea, but after a repetition of the experiment they were finally convinced.

Little Boy (while saying his prayers): "Mamma, is God in this room?"

Mamma: "No, dear, God is in Heaven."

Little Boy: "Are you sure then that God will hear my prayers?"

Mamma: "Yes."

Little Boy: "He must have big ears!"

WHAT THINK YE?

What would you do with the $5 you won from the Quaker Cash Contest?

Bob S.—I'd just up and faint. Then after I came to, I would take her to the show.

Jane M.—I wouldn't—'cause I'm on the Quaker staff.

Reba D.—The first thing I would do would be to take it to the bank to see if it were phoney?

Jack H.—I would have a stag party and serve a chicken dinner.

Bewildered!

The D's and Ifs do stun me That's all that I can say, O, bless my put to gettin' hyere I must be on my way.

I slave and toil and slave some more,

But yet to no avall It does no good as I can see, It is a woeful tale.

When I grow up to be a man Which I will never be I'll run for the job of President And some changes you will see.

It's no exams the bill will say Nor recitations, too But I will ne'er be President So what am I to do?

Oh, bughouses and asylums, And woe, for all is sorrow I can't think of another line So I'll finish this tomorrow the finals and returned home on the short end of a 32-21 score. Salem took an early lead and led 7-2 at the end of the first quarter, Chaney rallied however and drew ahead 15-11 at half time. The Salem lads seemed unable to get started and were unable to stop the Westsiders. After the half things went from bad to worse for Salem, and Chaney increased its lead to nine points; by the end of the third quarter. Salem started a feeble rally that netted them 5 points but for the most part they were forced on the defensive. Salem's defense was wide open and Chaney made good the chances.

Ben Cope and Cliff Beck kept Salem in the running most of the contest. Baker, Chaney center, led the victors with six field goals and two fouls for fourteen points.

Chaney 32, Salem 21. What an upset! Chaney played a classy brand of ball and completely outclassed the weary Quakers. This is the second consecutive year that Salem has fought it's way the finals only to lose that game.

Salem started the tournament off with a bang as they humbled East High 37-21. Thursday, they had a tougher time with East Palestine and were only able to eke out a 41-37 victory. Saturday in the semi-finals the Brownmen laced Rayen 36-24 but faltered and lost to an inspired Chaney quintet in the finals.

Here is a brief resume of the N. E. O. Tournament:

Wednesday Results
Salem 37, Youngstown East 21.
Rayen 25, Boardman 20.
Sebring 28, Memorial 26	(two overtime periods)
Chaney 24, South 19.

Warden (to released convict)—
 I'm sorry sir but we kept you in here two weeks longer than your time.

Convict—That's O. K. sir. Knock it off the next time.

She—Have you put the cat out darling?

He (sleepily)—Naw, I didn't even know it was on fire.

"Romeo" Tries Balcony Scene; Balcony Objects

Crash! Boom! Bang! Then silence reigned over the stage at the Junior play practice a week ago last Tuesday. First a giggle, then a little laughter and then the most boisterous, funny and loud outbursts came from the entire play cast as next year's editor of the Quaker was picking himself up from the floor. It seems that Marian Theiss was sitting on the balcony of the scenery and our own curly headed Romeo upon seeing his Juliet sitting on the balcony, calmly started to climb up the back of the scenery. When he was just about to the top the boards gave way to his heavy weight and down he went. Well, better luck next time "Romeo".

ALUMNUS STARS

Wayne Sidinger, a graduate of the class of '34 has made the Northeastern Ohio class A tournament all star team. Wayne played on the Salem Varsity team when in school here, and is now playing on the Pabst-Blue Ribbon team, an independent class A team from Cleveland.

The tournament was held in Sebring last Saturday, and was for independent amateur teams only.

A suggested proposal while walking through the graveyard—
 "Darling, how would you like to see my name on your tombstone?"

Sr. Gals Lose Dignity And Present Show

The vast audience is waiting! Where are those two Seniorrs who entertain 206 each morning and noon? They haven't arrived, and old man Time is striking away the minutes.

Oh- At last—they have arrived! The program commences! "Bunn and Potts, Inc." Those little senior girls, just too darling for words, being desperate for an entertainment (excuse me, but I can't think of any other word to describe it) start sailing paper airplanes—Bunn to Potts, Potts to Bunn, etc., spectators the villian—ah the lovely worm appears—Paul Layden—he snatches the plaything, the bell rings, and so the program ends.
