Prom To Be Gala Affair June 4

Committees Active; Big Party Planned

With the Junior-Senior prom two weeks from tonight, committees are working to make this year's party surpass all others held in recent years, announced Miss Horwell, Junior class adviser, last Friday.

With the proceeds from the Junior play the highest in five years, the class hopes to make this prom an event to be looked back upon.

The decorating committee, headed by Chairman Harold Hoprick, includes Jean Christie, Mary Helen Bruderly, Verna Carpenter, Elizabeth Elder, Leah Leipper, Charlotte Morey, Alice West, Ruth Thomas, Jane Cope and Jane Bechtel.

Dick Cavanaugh, John Shea, Don Beattie, Bill Brooks, Charles Trotter, Ralph Taylor, Joe Vogelhuber, Bill Jones, Russell Fronk, Dan Ugran and Bill Watkins.

The committee for favors is headed by Stella Fidoe, under the direction of Miss Roth, with Mary Bohr, Betty Albright, Evelyn Tullis, Betty Jane Combs, Mary Derienzo, Elsie Hunter, Betty Lee Lyons and Jane Zocolo.

The banquet will be held at the Masonic temple, after which those attending will adjourn to the High school for the dance.

Biologists Tramp Through Woods

The Biology classes, taking their first hike of the year, went to Bentley's Woods the week of May 16th. Their efforts were greatly rewarded as they found 27 different species of flowers. The most exceptional of these was the arrow-leaved violet, discovered by Robert Hivley.

For the past 17 years, Biology classes have taken hikes to this woods but this is the first time that they have been fortunate to find a flower of this kind.

Iceles To Adorn Summer Winter Land In Cleveland's Exposition

Iceles in summer That's right. Thousands will thank H. P. Harrison, Iowa farm boy, who has finally found a way to produce iceles in July.

He'll have them in his big show, "Winterland," at the Exposition this year. There will even be cool breezes. Under the second largest tent in the world, amid iceles and cool breezes, there will be a skating spectacle, composed of some of the finest skaters in the world, together with splendid music and colorful fantasy.

There is somewhat of a plot, which is:

A prince charming of Winterland has been neglected by a princess. His subjects try to make him forget it by amusing him with a penguin skating chorus, a polar bear skating chorus and then a

Pupils Compete In Brooks' Contest

Three Salem High teachers acted as preliminary judges in this year's Brooks' contest, and selected five manuscripts from each division to enter the finals. In previous years, finals of all divisions have been delivered in the auditorium to the entire student body. This year, however, only the orations and poems were given, the short stories and essays being sent to Palestine, where three of the high school teachers read and judged them.

T. C. Bond, Debate coach from Niles, and Director of the National Forensic League, was the judge of the orations and poems in the finals yesterday.

Entries in the various divisions were:

Orations: Martha Farmer, Jane-Metzger, Jeanne Layden, Robert Schwartz, and Belya Holmes.

Poems: Theda Loschinsky, Robert Hostetler, Betty Jane Culbertson, Barbara Williams, and Esther Dow.

Short stories: Mary Louise Emery, Lionel Difford, Virginia Hurray, Theresa M. Hoff, and John Evans.

Essays: Charlotte Morey, Jean McCarthy, Marjory Kniseley, Bernice Balsleep and Reba Dilworth.

The awards, which are paid from a sum set aside purposely for this contest by the late C. T. Brooks, former Salem lawyer, are: First prize, $6.50; second, $4.00, and third, $2.00.

chorus of trained seals. And then the specialty skaters and clowns on skates. Out comes Evelyn Chandler and Bruce Mapes, then Meribel Vinson, holder of the U. S. and North American figure skating championships since 1923.

The prince becomes ill, and his fever rises to such a degree that his subjects fear he'll melt the whole "shebang," so they call in the nine old doctors, who, quite unintentionally, resemble the U. S. Supreme Court justices. They fuss and fume, but suddenly the stage goes dark. In a second brilliant lights come on. Winterland has disappeared, iceles and all. Spring has come. And with it songs of spring and dances of spring. Thus the customers are prepared to go out again into the warmer if less fanciful world.

G. A. A. Elects Next Year's Officers

Members of the G. A. A. elected officers for next year at a meeting held a week ago last Wednesday in room 107. The officers elected are Bela Sidinger, president; Mary Jane Lora, vice president; Alice Zatzko, secretary; Helen Adams, treasurer.

Plans were made for a picnic which was held Tuesday at Dunn Eden lake.

Community Chest Succeeds In SHS

In response to the annual call for the Salem Community Chest drive, Salem High rallied well. Four rooms on Tuesday morning were recorded as 100 per cent. These were 205, 209, 200 and 204.

The drive continued until Wednesday and the amount of money and pupils contributing was advanced considerably. Tuesday, 56 per cent of the students had donated $27.41.

The Community Chest drive is carried on for the benefit of seven worthy organizations throughout Salem.

Mr. Wise Speaks In Vocational Series

Mr. Wise, editor of The Salem News, a week ago Tuesday gave a talk to all students interested in journalism in room 309. His talk was on work in a news office.

Mr. Wise gave many interesting points including experiences he has had in his work.

The last of the period was given to answering questions asked by the students.

One outstanding question asked by a student was "How much English do you think a newspaper man or woman should have?"

Mr. Wise answered, "If you can cram eight years of English into four it is all the better for you."

Sophomores Take Psych Test

The Sophomore class took the Ohio State University Psychology Test last Friday morning. This test is given to students of the high school during their career here.

The students of the upper classes have already taken the test and the Freshmen will be given it sometime in the near future.

Band to Present Final Concert

The Salem High Band under the direction of Mr. Brautigam will present their second and last band concert of the year on Tuesday, June 1. This concert will have in addition to the band numbers, many features from members in the band and outside soloists.

Among the numbers which the band will play are: an Overture from "Stradella"; "The Jester's Serenade"; "Magic Melody Selection", an Overture from "The Barber of Seville", and several stirring marches.

Featured soloists will be: Mr. Schwartz of Salem who will play several numbers on the electric guitar, Don Freed will sing vocal selections, Joe Morris will present a trombone solo, Henry Pauline, a saxophone solo, and Janet Brautigam, daughter of Mr. Brautigam will play some piano selections.

The concert, as in the past, will be free and open to the public.

Salem Places Second After Garfield In Final Track Meet Of Season

Competing under a very changeable sky and against 31 other schools from all over the northeastern part of Ohio, the Akron Garfield thinclads came through and won the N. E. O. District track meet last Saturday afternoon at Realy stadium.

The Garfield lads barely took the meet though, as Salem was trailing hot on their trail. The Quakers tallied 38½ points during the meet, just one point behind the leader. This was the first time this track season that Coach Fred Cope's boys tasted defeat.

During the meet, 15 records toppled from their seats. Four of the records were broken in the class A while the remaining 11 were broken in class B. This is one of the highest amounts of records to be shattered in any one meet of this kind.

In the class B part of the meet, the winner hardly had any opposition in the taking of the crown. Columbiana's crack team rolled up 74 points and beat out the second place team by 31 points.

The team standings and their points in both classes were: Class A—Akron Garfield, 39½; Salem, 38½; Warren, 26; Akron West,

Will Publish 1937 Quaker

Students Will Divide Editorial Duties

Harold Hoprick and John Evans have been chosen to guide the destinies of the 1938 Quaker weekly and annual, Mr. H. C. Lehman and Editor Jane Metzger announced today. This decision was reached after all prospects for the positions had been thoroughly tested.

Hoprick will take charge of the Weekly Quaker while Evans is to publish the Annual. By this plan, it is hoped that no great burden of work will fall on either student. However, there will be but one editorial staff to do the work for both publications.

This plan of using two editors was tried last year when Katey Jo Zimmer and Jane Metzger were chosen to take over the weekly and annual, respectively. But when Katey Jo moved to Wooster, Jane carried on by herself and the new arrangement fell through.

It is being revived this year, with hopes that it will be more successful.

Harold Hoprick is vice president of the association and will become president next year. He is also in the band and the Slide Rule club.

John Evans is president of the class of 1939, is in the band and the Latin club.

Both boys are interested in Class B—Columbiana, 74; North Lima, 34; Leavittsburg, 38; Poland, 32; Edinburg, 20; Petersburg, 13; Southington, 12; Farmington, 11; Greenford, 4; Gustavus, 3; North Bloomfield, 1.

Out of the 32 schools that were entered in the meet, 4 class A schools failed to score.

The records broken in the class A were the 440 yard dash, the 120 yard high hurdles, the javelin, and the medley relay. The ones broken in class B were the 880 yard run, the mile run, the 200 yard low hurdles, the medley relay, the 120 yard high hurdles, the 440 yard dash; the 220 yard dash, the mile relay, the broad jump, the 880 yard relay, and the discus.

Athletes finishing first, second and third in the district meets are qualified for the state meet at Columbus today and tomorrow.

A FAREWELL TO THE SENIORS

Too soon you Seniors will be gone from the halls of Salem High. With your graduation many things will change; you go into the world to become the men and women of tomorrow. Next year instead of returning to school, many of you will be working. New faces will take your place in 206; a new school year will begin without you just as smoothly as it began with you.

In your life ahead we, the underclassmen, wish you the best luck that is possible in your career. The only thing we ask of you is, when you have become the president of a bank or the editor of a paper, don't forget the school from which you graduated. It will be proud of you.

The Underclassmen

THE SENIORS SPEAK:-

You underclassmen, take to heart the luck that is yours, appreciate it and make your remaining years in Salem High School happy and profitable ones.

Every year the Quaker contains an editorial on "leaving these old halls" and every year it awakens in the heart of the underclassmen a certain pang but it is only momentary as they think of the years to come.

For three years the Senior class of '37 has felt this way. Now it is time for them to realize that never again can they go to Proms, attend association dances or clutter up the halls. The hurt that feeling brings is really unconceivable, yet each year the graduating class must have that hurt.

Friends for four long years must part, some to work and the more fortunate to college, and so they will drift apart, never to gain the same friendships again.

Epitaphs

Here lie the remains of Wilbur Wump,
Who drove too fast and hit a bump,
And left the road ere he could jump,
And wrapped his car around a stump.
Remains are at the city dump—
The car, not Wump!

They're picking up the pieces
With a dustpan and a rake,
Because he grabbed a silken knee
When he should have grabbed the brake.

Johnny was a chemist,
But Johnny is no more;
What Johnny thought was H2O
Was H2SO4.

"Shoot if you must
This old grey head,

But spare my permanent wave,"
She said.

Quite matchless are her dark brown
iiiiii,
She talks with perfect eeeee,
And when I tell her is yyyyy
She says I am a ttttt.

T'was in a restaurant they met,
Romeo and Juliet.
He had no cash to pay the debt,
So Romeo'd what Juli'et.

Mary, Mary quite contrary,
What do the fashions show?
Bobbed of hair, shoulders bare,
And sunburnt vertabrea all in a row.

Jane: "Oh, I think I can make it, thank you."

Since it's the last colyum and you can't hit back, I'm gonna strut mah stuffin's at poetry, Limericks, I calls 'em, about the seniors exclusively.

There is an old senior named Aggie,
Whose grammar and lore may be shaggy,
But people breath "class"
When she happens to pass,
Ror Aggie has never been naggy.
(Ha-ha, you missed me with that rotten 'mater!')

Another sage senior is Whimpy
Wha's got all the gals around simpy
But he doesn't rate
Against the Shears gate,
For the stride that he sports is not limpy.
(You'll have to admit that one's better. Just wait'll you see the last one at this rate!)

There's another who's leaving called Rice,
Whom Layden and Grim thinks nice
But I have my doubts,
Though we're not on the outs,
That his life has missed out on the spice . . .
(I won't give up, I won't give up, so there!)

There's another around they call Hossy
Whose accents of address are bossy,
His favorite's oration
Of lengthy duration,
And the ending he makes sure is saucy.
(You'll have to go high-brow to make that one rhyme, but bear with me.)

There's a guy around here they call Bricker,
Whose name, to a rhymster's, a sticker . . .
I can't find a rhyme
So I guess that it's time
To knock off and take to the Likker.

(My constitution's bad, so I wrote that with my eyes shut.)
The Grafton, a senior 's a dolly
Who goes for a guy they call Ollie.
He's moving away,
She's afraid he might stray,
So she, when you see her ss all bawly.

(You'll have to admit that was hard.)

There's a long-John who's Lutch,
In width not so much.
He goes for Tinke
And we Chinese think
That he's in for a whole gob of dutch.

(All for Art's sake . . . Perish me gently. . .)

There's a Harold here who's back name is Millikan
He wanders around willy-nillikan,
You can't blame me much
For a rhyme that is such

Young America Gets Chance to Express Ideas On Motor Car Designing

Affording young America an opportunity to express definitely and concretely its ideas of car design, of how an automobile should look, the Fisher Body Craftsmen's guild is presenting a model car design competition.

More than ever before, America is conscious of good, practical and useful designs. Thus this contest paves the way for new ideas in the design of wheels, door handles, headlamps, bumpers, license plate holders or radiator grilles and hood louvers.

Anyone may enter this contest and each contestant is required to design and build a scale model of a car that is practical and safe.

Two four-year university scholarships, each valued at $5,000, will be awarded to a junior '2-15 years, inclusive, and one to a senior 16-19 years, inclusive.

Equally divided between juniors and seniors will be 686 state cash awards, plus 18 trips to the guild convention in August.

The contest will close midnight July 1, 1937.

Anyone may join by writing to Fisher Body Craftsmen's guild, General Motors Corporation, Detroit, Mich. The guild will send all the information needed to construct and design a scale automobile.

CAT TALK

By PUSS.

Alas, me lads, the time has come when the one and only Deb Beattie has broken down and is giving his undivided attention to Ginny, of Morris fame. Tsk! tsk! And that isn't all, keeds, but Eckie also was accourtin' Jannie Butler on that memorable double date to Lisbon last week.

With the Varsity "S" brawl not far off, the following should be appetizing dirt. Little Artie Bahmiller and "Boots" Kingsley have arranged a date for the said hog rastle. I wonder what Butler and mite Cavanaugh think of this? Oh, well, once a stooge, always a stooge.

I hope the Seniors realize how fortunate they really are. This school year has found Salem High with an outstanding track team and cross country outfit. Our basketball team has been one of the best to represent our institution of learning in many years. With this thought in mind, the present graduating class should have few regrets when their days in High school are over.

Great changes in the romantic field have taken place since we first assembled in September. We find among the Seniors several interesting matches: Battin has played the rounds, from Mary Louise to Peg to Nan to Cissie to Ada Mae, his present flame. Clay has set led down to peaceful life with Betty Jeanne, though 'tis rumored that that peaceful existence will cease when Tweetzie comes marchin' home. Del Schaeffer has made Reba his lady love, with Bahmiller running interference. Schwartz has temporarily annexed Theissie in the absence of Dale. Such is the love life of S. H. S.'s Romeos.

We bid you farewell, dear Salem High, until next fall, when all but the Seniors will return. To them, good luck and good luck forever!

New Course Added To SHS Curriculum

The Sophomore class of next year have the opportunity of taking a new course entitled "General Business Training". There is to be only one class of this subject available, and it is to be included as a part of the Commercial Course.

After several years this course is expected to be a required part of the Commercial curriculum. As yet neither the book nor the teacher has been chosen.

This subject will include means of communication in the business world, buying and selling, and other essentials of business training.

Biology Classes Get Big Banana Spider

The menagerie of the Biology classes has been increased by the addition of a giant banana spider. This spider is fully three inches across and has fangs one-half inch long. It was brought in by one of the pupils who found it on a bunch of bananas.

Plant specimens are some Japanese cherry blossoms from Washington, D. C., a sprig of Canadian redbud, and a purple Trillium. Both of these specimens are very rare in this country.

Many other species are in rooms 107 and 108. These have been brought in by students seeking extra credits.

Teachers Plan Varied Vacations For Summer

Many of our teachers have not planned their vacations as yet, but Miss Roth is planning to attend Ohio State University for six weeks. The remaining part will be divided between Norwalk, Ohio; Buffalo, New York; and New York City.

Mrs. Cox will be working at the hospital and on her manuscript.

Miss Shoop will also be working at the hospital.

Mr. Brown, Mr. Schroeder and Mr. Cope will attend school at Ohio State University.

Miss Bickle will be at her home in Canal Winchester, Ohio.

Mr. Early will attend school at Columbia University.

Mr. Hilgendorf is planning a trip but he hasn't decided upon his destination.

Miss Lehmen will be at her home in North Manchester, Indiana and Chautauqua, New York.

Mr. MacDonald will attend school at Ohio State University.

Mr. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Henning, Mr. Williams will be in Salem during vacation.

Kate. "Where is your chivalry?" George: "I turned it in for a Buick."

Ad Agency

What are you going to get her for graduation? It won't be long now and you had better decide. I'll give you a few suggestions just to help out.

Give her stationery so there will be no excuse for her not writing to you from college. MacMillans Book Shop carries so many different styles and colors, with monograms or names attached. Money is always nice. Give her a few crisp new bills from the First National Bank and interest her in saving her money there. Oh Daddy wouldn't she be delighted to have a Dodge roadster. See E. H. Althouse before you buy one. See C. M. Wilson if none of these suggestions appeal to your parents. I'm sure he can supply your needs. Now for you students who wish to give her a gift and yet your pocket book stops you when you want something expensive. Give her a small Zenith Radio from Browns. Give her lingerie from McCulloch's. Now Mother and Father will have to get her a cedar chest from Arbaugh's just to hold this and the rest that's coming.

Now for those dignified young men who will not tread the halls of S. H. S. anymore. What to get them. Try the Golden Eagle for gift suggestions. Their salesmen will be only too glad to help you. Reward his years of school work with a Hamilton or Elgin watch from Jack Gall-

Prevue of Prom

Can you feature this at the Prom: Raynes and Martin trucking, Beat-tie and McCandless just dancing, Wentz making a speech and Harvath at his side, Schwartz and Metzger fighting as usual, Theiss and Bahmiller having a good time, Battin and Gibbs whooping it up, Yeager and McCarthy pitching, WOW!!! Wright and Beardmore sipping soup, Smith and Fifer same as usual, Meier and Lyons laughing, "Red" Mellinger and Jones???" and Hart and Whit together Wow!
