Al Freed, Jack Warner Elected to Head Band

Vivian Foltz Elected Treasurer; Bill Helman Is Made Librarian

The Salem High School Band elected its officers for the current year last Monday, in which Al J. Freed was elected president. He is a member of the orchestra and band, and is in the cast of the Senior Play, and is a member of the Quaker editorial staff.

Jack Warner was the band's choice for Vice President. Vivian Foltz, treasurer and Bill Helman, librarian were the other officers chosen.

John Dan and Homer Annus served as bellers in the election.

Last year's officers were Earl Tafton, President; Harry Faulklen, Vice President; Vivian Foltz, Secretary-Treasurer; Ada Shriver, Librarian.

Debaters Will Visit Columbus

Delores Jones, Kenny John, Alla McNabb, Nancy Roose and other popular orchestrations will visit a debate clinic in Columbus at Ohio State University on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 1st and 2nd.

A debate between Ohio State and the University of Indiana will be the highlight of Friday evening. On Saturday, both sides will be held for practice debates between the various teams at the clinic.

Purchase Latest All-Star Parade Tunes

"South of the Border," "Jubilee Jive," "Lilies in the Rain" and many other popular orchestrations have been issued for the first time, as the leading school orchestra which was formed this winter. The songs were all chosen from the "Hit Parade" of the last two weeks.

Airline Stewardess Will Appear Next Thursday

Miss Marjorie Rose Gilroy, stewardess with American Airlines, Inc., will speak at an assembly next Thursday at 11:15 a.m.

Miss Gilroy, who is from Iowa, started out to be a nurse but while training she became interested in flying and after receiving her B. R. O. (Registered Nurse) she applied for a position as stewardess with American Airlines, Inc. She attended the American Airlines training school and was then given a regular assignment.

Since then she has flown some 30,000 miles, most of it between Chicago and New York and the way around.

Besides the routine requirements for age, height and weight, the selection process includes principles of meteorology, air traffic control, plane construction, mechanical details, as well as the psychology of handling the public. The most important attribute required of a stewardess is reliability and willingness to accept responsibility.

It is especially interesting to note that today with many girls on the waiting lists, the Airlines have difficulty in securing girls who have the right attitude toward the job and who want to work rather than talk. The demand for stewardesses is created by the growth of the airlines with the recent widespread interest in travel. The airlines have become increasingly active in the promotion of the protection of the environment, and the need for responsible stewardesses is recognized.

Senior Jury to Decide Case

Of 'Webster vs. Shelly's'

Just as the pioneers rallied to the call of Andrew Jackson, just as the old time volunteers rallied to the call of bugle and obedient fire-alarm, so it is hoped that the populace of Salem will rally to the defense of Mr. Paul Webster, young author, for a volunteer jury December 4th at the Salem High School Auditorium.

Mr. Webster's case is a unique one. It is the case of Webster vs. Shelly's family. The author's problem is that of one whose wife, for some unknown reason, has given him the cold shoulder.

Income tax returns, addresses of other females, and other unattractive facets of his wife are pertinent to this unusual case.

To Appeal Seen

Although planes have not officially been announced it is believed that the planes will be in the air on December 3rd.

That 'The Folks' Might Also See

By SARAH WONNER.

Hello again!

I certainly am glad to be back at my old job as slug for the various bits of criticism dropped by everyone whose name is or is not printed in the Quaker. The line of the columnist is fast moving and dangerous with death lurking at every corner. That last line was for the Wukotichs.

The seniors sit back and calmly hope that the cast and a few other industrious students get out and sell enough tickets to make the money needed to justify their being, though they know what it's all about.

The director and cast spend hundreds of hours getting the actual play ready, and because of this decide to follow a profession without the permanent realization of the public to the less obvious phase of the production. The amateur peanut vendors were not so selfish. All-County equipment to save the spectators from a money-making era. No matter how bad the weather may be.

The tone of her voice thickens your blood, and when she smiles, the seniors sit back and calmly hope that the cast and a few other industrious students get out and sell enough tickets to make the money needed to justify their being, though they know what it's all about.

Alliance Tans Salem, 44-0

Scoring six touchdowns in the first quarter while playing tight defensive ball, the Alliance team swept the Willoughby Indians aside to an easy 44-0 victory over Salem here Thanksgiving Day.

Faced by the high-scoring All-Ohio quarterback, Hilliki Hume, the visitors had no trouble in evading defeat at the hands of Salem. It made the tenth year in a row they had accomplished the feat.

After receiving the opening kickoff, the Indians drove 90 yards to a touchdown. It was scored by Hume. He quickly followed it up by tacking two more. After these scores, he was held for the balance of the game.

Aside from Hume, one of the mainstays of the Alliance team was Bob Knepp, Jr. The 5-foot, 180-pound fullback hit the Salem line for minus yards. He is a top-notch ball carrier.

The Salem squad could not function through the tough forward wall. All attempts at passing were futile as the ball was either intercepted or knocked down.

Intercepted Twice

Three Alliance scores came with the ball in Salem's possession back near its own goal. Here they tried passes and handoffs on two occasions. Once a blocked punt was run over for a touchdown. It could be understood by watching the visitors' play that they were able to hold Cornstalk McCreery to a minimum toc. They were definitely the best team on the field.

Volio's injury in the first quarter and the fact that the team's personnel did not allow anybody to score was the greatest.

Since the football season comes to an end and many children take on the responsibilities of the Ohio State Journalism association, and having played an important part in organizing the Tri-County Association last year.

GROWN-UP WAYS

Interested in Our Own Student Body

To Virtan Polska:

Jimmy Dorsey and His Orchestra will be at the K-Bobballroom about January 30th. Thanks.

To Ed McClelland:

Johnny Kaye will not appear at the K-Bobballroom again until about July 1st, as he made an appearance there not two months ago. Thanks.

To Jimmy Schafer:

Sunny “King of Swing” Goodman and his orchestra are on the Palace stage once again this year, in perhaps two months. He will not be available to dance to.

To Virelma Nau:

Johnny “Sent” Davis and his recently organized band is now being featured at the Blackhawk in Chicago. He will be up Youngstown way before he finishes his Blackhawk engagement. Very long. Thanks.

Band of the Week

We’ve chosen one of that Sentimental Gentleman any credit for a long time and guess he knows he’s been chosen some. And so this week, we once again exhibit—Fred Kosert and His Orchestra.

Record of the Week

Our extra special record here, and it seemed to be made of the right stuff. It's by Jimmy Dorsey and His Gang—called, “I'm Confused in the Biz” and “Dycons” Delude.

Song of the Week

This little ditty is becoming more and more popular as the days go by—It's titled "Lilac's in the Rain."

Don't tell anyone, but Louis Raymond, who is chief ascot in Life to lead an orchestra. His claim is that he can direct a dance-band just as well as any small motion picture thrill-er, and win a special honorary Dick Tracy bridge—but he has come Dick Tracy bridge.

Company G of Troop B has gathered together in their hands to try to be featured for your dancing pleasures. So, let's be back the Hi-Y, its only 99c.

spirit of the dead beast to earth. Does Mr. Shelly's right hand know what his left hand is doing? (1) Mysterious lady

Mr. Shelly's sister-in-law is a pianist. She is in love with the buffoon on the American nickel. Should Mr. Webster disillusion her by informing him she has eliminated the buffoon?

Mr. Shelly's daughters are both in love with the bewildered young author. One is self-satisfied, one-half satisfied. One designating to send away one designating to keep him there. Should he order them both away or simply as he is in love with both of them?

What does Mr. Shelly say when Fred Willison, who is in love with Miss Davis, begins to beat him to a well-known pulp? How does the poor young man advise Magnus with his egg sauce romance? What does he do when a party is broken up by the sudden appearance of souther accent?

Cold Reaction

Scoring the cold, impersonal way in which in their workers interpret the facts of the case, Mason Tracy takes them to church. Miss Davis tells him she is merely another missing person. To him she is in a beautiful, charming vision, waiting in obscurity for him to come along.

As he sees the reaction of the boys, he regrets having asked for their help. He realizes that in other cold, calculating way they will never find her. He decides that he must get this thing through alone. He has only one friend, and he puts all his faith in that idea. It may take him years, but if he finds her, it will be worth the notes.

Must Forgive

So, if our Louie seems outward going through the halls bumping into every girl he meets, we must forgive him. For he is really being quite clever, in spite of his appearances. His clever mind has come to the conclusion that when he says “pardon me,” the girls will all say, “Oh, certainly,” making it easy for him to distinguished between the northern girls and the southern girls by their accent. A smile of glee on Watson.

So, fann, if you can beat Dick Tracy to the solution, go to it. Just send all your answers to the Quaker office in Dick Tracy code and you will be given immediate attention.

Assemblies Held

Two Thanksgiving assemblies were held last week, one for the seventh grade and one for the eighth. Rev. Raymond J. Walter of the Presbyterian church spoke to the eighth grade and also led the singing. The seventh grade was given a talk by Rev. Carl Amend of the Methodist church. Miss Teelow led in the singing.

Swing Quarters

The November issue of the Swing Quarters, which is published by the pupils of the Salem Junior High School, appeared last week.

William Mollison is editor; Robert Circus, assistant editor; Mrs. Ethel Hendrick, art supervisor; and Mrs. Lois McCarthy, faculty advisor of the paper. Twenty-eight reporters edited the editor.

The paper contains general news, home room news, club news, sport news, poems, and articles by the students. Aunt Sue’s notes and some jokes and exchanges news. It has a circulation of 60 copies.

This is the eighth year the Swing Quarters has been published.
