Headed by Ben Ritzenthaler, the Ritz Trumpeteers made a return appearance at Salem High School, playing for the first Association assembly program for this year at 10:45 a. m. yesterday.

James Schaefer, president of the Association, introduced the quartet, which entertained the student body with novelty, humorous, popular and familiar classical melodies.

The group, which plays a total of eight different instruments, has toured all over the United States and Canada.

Mr. Ritzenthaler was instructor of reed instruments at North Central College, saxophone soloist with Al Sweet's Singing Band, and a member of Johnson's Cadets and Petrie's White Hussars. Besides the saxophone, he plays the clarinet, bassoon, and trombone.

At noon the Trumpeteers entertained the Kiwanis club for the noon luncheon program.

Tryouts for Girls' Glee Club Are Held

Approximately thirty-five girls met in the music room last Tuesday at 3:30 to try out for the Girls' Glee club.

Mrs. Satterthwaite stated that the club will probably hold its first meeting on Tuesday of next week and that, although there are many good prospects, the membership will be limited to twenty or twenty-five.

This year's program will include several musical performances which will be given during the year.

Library Receives Etiquette Book Written for Boys

In the past boys have referred to Emily Post's book on etiquette, when in doubt about how to conduct themselves at dances, at meals, in the class, etc. Now, among the new books in the library, may be found a guide book of etiquette written from a man's viewpoint, solely for young men between the ages of from thirteen to nineteen.

The book, by William O. Stevens, headmaster of a well-known preparatory school, is the result of years of experience with boys in the teen age.

Mr. Stevens found that many boys did not like to ask how to conduct themselves in various situations. This book was written in a handy, concise form to fill that need—a book for every boy who wants to win the respect and popularity that are the reward of good manners.

Another new book which may also be found in the library is "I Write as I Please," written by Walter Duranty.

This book is part history, part journalism, part autobiography, all adventure—both in action and in ideas. But it is above all the personal record of a man who has been, and still is, an eyewitness of one of the great social experiments and dramas of all time—the emergence of Russia as a socialist state.

Fruit of Olloman's Labor On Exhibit

Mr. Olloman constructed several things during the summer which are on display in his home room. The first of these things is a terrarium and the second is a model of a frog's brain. A terrarium is a glass structure in which plants are grown. The model of the frog's brain was first made in clay and then was cast in plaster-of-Paris. This model was started last year by Mr. Olloman and Phil Stevens and was completed this summer by Mr. Olloman.

School Purchases Microprojector

A microprojector has been purchased by the school and is to be used by the biology classes for the first time this year. This machine projects microscope slides on a screen and saves the time of pupils, who in past years have had to wait in line for a turn at the microscope. In projecting these slides on a screen the same part of the slide and also many more slides can be seen in a period. A carbon arc lamp gives the light and a prism on top of the microscope reflects it on the screen. This machine can be used for microscopic objects only.

'39 Quaker Annual Gets "First Rating"

The 1939 Quaker annual has been awarded a "First Class" rating by the 1939 All-American Yearbook Critical Service according to a letter received from Mr. Fred L. Kildow, director of the National Scholastic Press Association.

One hundred and sixty-five school yearbooks from all parts of the country were entered in the same division as the "Quaker" which was judged in competition with annuals of other schools having an enrollment of 500 to 899.

The standards for judgment were set by the average books in the respective groups. The score the "Quaker" received for each item under consideration represents the judge's estimate of its comparison with the average book.

Ratings given the yearbooks entered were:

All-American, First Class, Second Class, Third Class and Fourth Class.

John Evans and Larry Fiani were editor-in-chief and business manager respectively of the 1939 annual.

Classes Organized In New Metal Industries Laboratory

This year the Metal Industries classes have been organized with 29 boys enrolled in each class. The instructor is Mr. E. A. Engelhart and the classes are open only to junior and senior boys.

The new addition to the High School contains the newly equipped Metal Industries laboratory, which combines theory and practice in automotives, sheet metal, pattern making, forging, machine shop, molding, metalurgy, electric arc welding, oxy-acetylene welding and drawing.

There is a planning and reference room or library adjoining the main laboratory. Across the hall is the Mechanical Drawing room. There is also a stock and tool room which

Quartet To Be Featured On 2nd Assembly

For the second assembly program sponsored by the Association this year the student body will be entertained by the Merhoff Quartet, featuring Ruth Pryor, ballerina, next Friday, October 6, at 8:45 A. M.

Ruth Pryor is one of the best known American born dancers and was Premiere Ballerina for the Chicago Civic Opera Company for several seasons. She is now a teacher of ballet in Chicago during the weeks she is not on tour.

The Merhoff Quartet is composed of Walter Merhoff, baritone, Louis Kristian, tenor, Ella Steele, soprano, and Gudrun Thorson, contralto.

Mr. Merhoff, who is manager and acts as master of ceremonies, has appeared with the Chicago Civic Opera Company and in National radio programs and personal concerts.

Mr. Kristian is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and has studied under John C. Wilcox at the American Conservatory in Chicago. He also was soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Steele has enjoyed a successful career as a concert singer throughout the United States and has a splendid reputation as a teacher of voice.

Miss Thorson has appeared in several Gilbert and Sullivan operettas in Chicago and was featured in Evelyn Freer's "The Pied Piper". She has also made several successful concert tours.

The program will include selections from several of the better known operas, dances by Miss Pryor, solos by several of the members and a streamlined version of Three Blind Mice with audience participation.

Robert Rhul Leaves

Robert Ruhl, who was a member of the sophomore class in Salem High School, has moved to Elyria.

Two Rooms Tie For First Place In Assoc. Drive

At the conclusion of the association drive which ended at 1:30 p. m. last Friday, home rooms 208 and 210 both had 100 per cent membership. However, room 208 will receive the membership trophy since it was the first to make a report to the office.

Both are senior home rooms, 208 being Miss Hollett's and 210 Mr. Lehman's.

A total of 721 tickets were sold during the drive, which is 48 more than were sold last year.

Two hundred one, a junior room, and 212, a senior room, tied for third place with 92.3 per cent each. Also high in the list were rooms 206 with 86.1 per cent, 112 with 82.9 per cent, 205 with 81 per cent, 312 with 79.5 per cent, and 303 with 78.7 per cent.

Mr. MacDonald's junior home room won last year with 95 per cent, no room attaining 100 per cent. This group is the one which this year occupies 208. There were 673 members during the 1938-39 year, or about 68 per cent of the total school enrollment, while this year 73 per cent of the student body joined.

Senior Stand

At the opening football game of the 1939 season, the senior stand took in $54.13, it was announced by Miss Beardmore, senior class advisor.

Tests to Mrs. Cox's Book Are Off Press

The tests which Mrs. Cox has written to go with her book, "Exploring Biology," came off the press Sept. 22.

There are forty-three tests in all, one for each problem and one for each unit in the book. These tests are designed to measure three things: 1. Mastery of facts; 2. Ability to think scientifically, and 3. Ability to apply facts and principles to new situations.

Dr. David Miller of Ohio State University acted as adviser to Mrs. Cox during the preparation of the tests.

GAA Starts Year With Kickball

The Girls' Athletic Association is starting the school year by playing kickball. Girls wishing to belong to the G. A. A. should go to the gym each night after school to gain enough points to join.

VOL. XX SEPTEMBER 29, 1939 NO. 4

Let's Co-operate, Upperclassmen

Miss Beardmore, senior class adviser, stated "This is the first year since the stand has been running that no boy has volunteered to help."

Several senior and two junior girls have volunteered so far. This lack of help shows lack of class spirit.

The senior stand is a class matter and, if as a class, the seniors do not wish to make a success of it Miss Beardmore has stated that she will allow another organization to have charge of the stand. One organization, whose name was not disclosed, has already asked for this project.

There are still six games and Miss Beardmore is still calling for help from seniors.

As senior class adviser, Miss Beardmore wants to hold on to all class projects as long as possible and is willing to do all she can to help but it is our sincere belief that the class should back its own projects without being coaxed.

Keep Up the Good Work

The student body and other spectators of the football game Friday night are to be congratulated on the fine spirit shown there. No jeering, booing, and other unsportsmanlike acts were shown by the spectators. This is a fine example to show to other teams which come to visit us or whom we have to visit. Come on, students; can't we keep this up throughout the year?

Cultivate the "Diplomat" In You

Tact is a quality which most employers consider necessary in business relations. The success of one's vocational work depends in varying degrees upon the diplomacy he used in dealing with his associates.

The thing many persons do not realize is that tact is just as essential in any situation. The "ability to deal with others without giving offense," as Webster defines it, is a talent which has saved embarrassment in many an awkward moment.

A selfish person is never tactful because he has no desire to be. Tact is the result of an attitude of consideration for one's acquaintances.

One would think that a characteristic which makes such a noticeable difference in one's personality would be hard to develop. Yet, with a little practice, tact becomes almost instinctive. If one is really interested in saving his friends from embarrassment, his natural impulse will be a tactful deed.

HE

He has red hair and brown eyes. His home room is 212 and he plays in the band. He is a member of the National Thespian club and the Spanish club. His favorite sport is baseball and his hobby is playing with the "Sultans of Swing." When he was asked what he liked most to find in a girl, his answer was: "A good personality." If all this has not already given this week's personality away, the name is Jack Warner.

SHE

Just for the sake of variety, the personality this week is a senior. She is a librarian and a very capable one, too. One of her pet hobbies is reading good books. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall, has light brown hair and brown eyes. She ranks high in her class in scholastic ability. Her favorite sports are dancing and horseback riding, and she is very fond of football games. This senior lassie claims 209 as her home room, and when you want her just ask for Dorothy Klyne.

LITTLE BITS OF NOTHING

By SARA WONNER.

Greetings, gates; let's bicarbonate!!

Here is another attempt at a column. After a week of snooping and scooping, the final results are here set forth.

Flash of the week—

"Butch" Pierson and Al Pilch, two tough football stars, were out on a heavy date last week after the Sebring game. The girls were Jean Stone and Betty Ablett, respectively. Some angle—Big football stars fall hard and all that stuff.

Have you heard the cute sayings that Frankie Davis is circulating? Such things as, "Tan my hide and call me brownie," and, "Strip my gears and call me shiftless." Maybe I can dig up some more by next week.

The question has been asked, "Why was Don Rich about two hours late getting in one night?" Jane Butler was reason enough. When you go riding, Don, you shouldn't let this roving reporter see you or your name is "mud."

Cute Nicknames—Jack Doyle has acquired the handle, "Cupid." I don't know where he got it but I certainly don't see any striking resemblance, do you?

The game was a little bit of all right last week, wasn't it? It slightly resembled a track meet, but then the boys were only showing us what they could do. The one tonight ought to be even more exciting.

Don't you think Joe Vender makes a cute volcano? He was supposed to have erupted last week at the game. Did anyone see that spectacle? Maybe he didn't exactly erupt then, but I have a feeling he is going to soon if people don't quit telling him what a sweet little volcano he is.

Johnny Dan has a peculiar type of devotion seldom found these days. He still has a very warm spot in his heart for Betsy Roose. He has kept this spot warm now for two years and doesn't seem to be doing much about it. What's wrong, Johnny; bashful?

Something has been on my mind for quite some time now. I'd like to know why "Apple" Bloor went to Columbiana just about every day last summer. I know he doesn't like to swim that well. There's always a woman!

I saw Jim Kleon and Doris Coy together at the practice game. That's a new slant on things.

Carl Smith, first period monitor on the first floor, really has a busy time. When he isn't sleeping, he's occupied with writing "Nada" all over his tablet. Is Nada Krepps the one?

Francis Horning is going with a girl from Alliance. The rumor is that she is a blonde. Oh, well, gentlemen always prefer blondes.

The line forms on the right to see the new Quaker stationery. It's really snazzy.

Well, until next week, goodbye and I will see you at the game.

Frosh Discovers Library Has No "Fizz Foundry"

If you read that a man bit a dog, you would, to say the least, think it slightly unusual and irregular. But, dear reader, hold on to your hats, for last Monday there took place in Salem High school an incident which without a shadow of a doubt will be inscribed in the book of silly questions asked by Freshmen. If you are getting impatient for facts, first go back to a couple of days before the history making happening occurred. Here is the scene:

A certain member of the Senior class was wending his way homeward after school accompanied by a brilliant Freshman lad. To make conversation, the Senior asked the Freshman if he had seen the new soda fountain in the library where sodas, sundaes and other soft drinks were dispensed at a reduced rate. The Frosh answered in the negative at the same time striking an expectant pose in the middle of the street.

The upper classman, seeing that he had made a statement that hit home, continued by describing the delicious confections that were served to students who could produce six cents at the luxurious new fountain. He further stated that all that was necessary to gain admittance to this place of peace and relaxation was a library slip which any teacher would gladly give in the interest of every student's satisfaction. By then the student had reached home and the subject was forgotten.

But no, the Frosh had not forgotten. The next afternoon, finding himself in front of the library and, strangely enough, he was very thirsty. He decided to refresh himself with a fresh raspberry sundae. He opened the door and boldly walked in, stopped, looked around in amazement, then slowly strode over to Miss Lehman and, in a low, quivering voice, asked the epoch-making question: "Why, uh, where is your soda fountain, please?"

Miss Lehman turned and eyed the student coldly, and replied: "I beg your pardon." The Frosh stared at the librarian for a moment, then suddenly he saw the light. A light pink tinge began rising on his cheek; but then he could stand no more. Turning swiftly, he ran, not walked, to the nearest exit, muttering under his breath something about being double-crossed.

By "B. Dix"

The S. H. S. football team did a right smart job of stopping Sebring's Trojans last Friday night. In fact they put forth such super-human efforts in the game that they had to be supported from the field following the game. Some had even worked up a slight sweat. After the game they could do nothing much but stagger. That is, most everyone did. I did hear where Piersol and Pilch, those two romantic Don Juans, went out a'sparkin after the game but that's another story. I refer you to the dirt column on page two for further details. Another member of the illustrious powerhouse was out dancing after the game in an effort to hide his own hideous injuries sustained in that man killing contest.

Seriously, though, the team did put up a good game. It served to bring out some shortcomings which probably were not made apparent in practice. You can rest assured that tonight they will have been ironed out and you'll see a better team on the field.

WEEK'S PREDICTION: The score tonight will be about 20 to 7 in favor of the Red and Black. Betcha'.

Speaking of predictions (here it comes Clarke) I was lucky enough to hit the nail on the head last week much to some persons sorrow. I won't mention any names but on my personal books the name Clarke is recorded the words "one coke". Maybe you can gather the significance of those words. I know he can ?

The high spot of the entire canto was, as far as I'm concerned, that run of "Bronko's" on the first Salem offensive play of the game. He walked through those blocked out players and trotted down the greensward with nary a look behind him. Little did he realize that he was leaving behind him a mess of broken hearts. It was over so quickly that the crowd didn't even get up a good yell.

In spite of plebescites, appeasements and the actuality of war, little Finland still wishes to hold the 1940 Olympic games at Helsingfors. The Winter Games, if held, will probably select Lake Placid, N. Y. as its locale.

If no Olympics are staged next summer the United States will probably promote a track carnival of inter-national significance.

Ravenna is planning to bring its 50 piece band to the game tonight to swell an already large cheering section.

Salem's Junior Varsity, coached by Frank Gordon, has six games lined up with out-of-town Jayvees. Boardman, Struthers, and McDonald are scheduled for home and home games.

Carl Schroeders Reserve squad has played Warren and will play Damascus and Boardman later.

Incidentally, and I think everyone will get a kick out of this, Kenny "Juhn-Bug" is trying to get a ticket for the E. Liverpool student's bus because he missed the bus to the Alliance game last year.

See where Back and Vender are the co-captains of the football squad. In my opinion, this was a darn good choice. Both are seasoned veterans and both deserve the honor.

Hume's only got 11 touchdowns already in two games. I wonder when he'll get going?

They tell me East Liverpool has a team that stacks up a lot like ours. Big, heavy and not too fast. They'll be plenty tough. Remember what happened the last time we went down there? Ouch!

Let's go tonight, team!

Classes For Salem Teachers Planned

Kent State University will conduct extension classes for the teachers in Salem schools and surrounding community every Wednesday evening. The subjects to be taught will be determined by the demands of the teachers.

It's all right to be particular about what you put on your body, but be still more particular about what you put in your head.

Quakers Vanquish Sebring Squad 26-0

The Salem Quakers opened the current football season last Friday night under the new lights at Reilly Field defeating a comparatively weak Sebring eleven 26-0. While the Quakers were whitewashing Sebring, Ravenna, Salem's next opponent, was defeated by a slim 20-19 margin at the hands of Akron Buchtel.

Salem led Sebring in every phase of the game. All seven Salem backs who saw action were superior to the Sebring ball toters. Although both team's blocking looked a little rusty Salem's was the better of the two. In kicking, passing, running, and tackling the Salem lads showed up very well for an opening game.

Shoe opened the game by kicking off to Sebring. Stanford received the kickoff for Sebring and was tackled after a short runback. Sebring tried two plays and then punted. Having been downed on the Sebring 48 yard stripe Salem went in to a huddle. Wukotich took the ball and scampered through right tackle, spinning and cutting through the whole Trojan defense for a touchdown. Coach Schroeder then sent in Felix DiAntonio, husky sophomore guard to try for the extra point. Di Antonio dropkicked the pigskin through the uprights perfectly but the play was called back, Salem having been offside. Di Antonio's second kick went to the left and the score remained 6-0. Salem was never threatened from this point on in the game.

In the latter part of the first quarter Johnny Volio, Salem quarterback intercepted a Sebring pass. The Quakers then marched 62 yards for a touchdown. This score was also made by the galloping fullback, "Bronko" Wukotich. He

Quakers Meet Ravens Tonite

Tonight the Quakers of Salem High will try to uphold their records by handing Ravenna another defeat to win their second consecutive victory of the '39 season.

Last week Ravenna was handed a heart-breaking 20-19 defeat at the hands of Akron Buchtel. Failure to convert a point-after-touchdown in the fourth quarter led to the loss.

Returning this year for the visitors are Lee Havre and Trocchio, both backs, who were varsity players last year. Havre, an all round athlete played reserve basketball last year and ran the dashes during the track season. He is exceptionally fast and tricky. One of last week's touchdowns was credited to Havre on an end run in which he outran the entire Buchtel team.

Trocchio, on the other hand, is of more stocky build and does most of the line plunging.

Ravenna boasts of a rather good passing attack which should give the Red and Black no little trouble.

Once more Coach Schroeder will rely on "Bronko" Wukotich to carry the ball on the most of the running plays.

Is My Face Red?

The subject: algebra; the place: room 307; the time: between 1 and 1:30; the period: 5; the teacher: Miss McCready.

The class was listening attentively as Miss McCready explained one of those long, hard problems. Everything was going as it should, till a child's voice was heard in a high-pitched yell. No one paid much attention to it and Miss McCready continued the explanation. That is, no one except a certain Jerry Trisler. This young man rose from his seat and stood gazing out the window to see what caused the yell. When Miss McCready spotted him, Jerry's face turned a deep crimson color and he promptly returned to his seat. After much confusion and laughter, the class resumed its studies.

Ah, well, some people never grow up. And Jerry's a junior, too.

— Sensations in Variety —

BY AL J. FREED

This column, a new experiment in Quaker column-writing, is just a little more on the serious side. We shall appreciate any helpful ideas for this column—just see me.

NEWS SENSATION — Russia slightly turned the tables on the German's friend and leader, Herr Hitler, by marching in and seizing a nice fat piece of pay-dirt for itself! Pretention shows that perhaps the two countries are still friends, but how long they will remain on speaking terms is just another question, unanswered in this deadly battle of not thinking men, but unthinking fools!

MOVIE SENSATION — The best pictures of the last three months:

"Bachelor Mother," "The Old Maid," "Stanley and Livingstone," "The Wizard of Oz," "Each Dawn I Die," and "Goodbye Mr. Chips."

"Bachelor Mother" — with superb comedy roles provided by Ginger Rogers and David Niven is the best comedy to hit the screen since "The Awful Truth." "The Old Maid" gave you Bette Davis in a role never to be forgotten. "Stanley and Livingstone" was fine in every detail including Spencer Tracy's fine work. "The Wizard of Oz" was a film well worth the price of admission and Judy Garland, Bert Lahr, and Frank Morgan were better than usual. "Each Dawn I Die" was not a picture for Freshman youngsters but I think the average amount of sophomores and upperclassmen enjoyed it and were not scared out by the gun battles and such—although I did see Dick Berry making a bee-line for the exit when George Raft made his sensational escape through a third-story window. I guess Berry's nerves aren't what they used to be! After all, can you blame him? I agree with one columnist, about one thing, the best photography was in the MGM not-so-good melodrama called "Lady of the Tropics" which really put Hedy Lamarr and Bob Taylor to shame—as Henry Pauline once said, "I think up that kind of stories in my dreams." The best picture of the year will undoubtedly be "Goodbye Mr. Chips." Do you agree with me?

SPORTS SENSATIONS—Just to prove that I'm not entirely a "jitterbug" at heart, R. J. D., I'm going to write a few "Sportshots" myself. It looks like Salem's

Quakers over Ravenna tonight. The score? Salem, 20; Ravenna, 0. How about some bigger stuff though? I'm betting a nickle on Collgate over New York U. Stanford over Oregon State, Notre Dame over Purdue, Southern Cal over Oregon, Wisconsin over Marquette, Indiana over Nebraska. UCLA over Texas Christian, and if the score is not 6 to 0 in favor of Pittsburgh, the game will end up Pitt, 0; Washington 0. Satisfied R. J.?

BOOK SENSATION — If you struggled through with "Gone With the Wind," you can surely tackle "Grapes of Wrath" which is out-selling the former by a large measure. Good? you said it!

And so, until next time, "Goodbye".

Quakers Vanquish

then plunged over for the extra point.

West and Volio, halfback and quarterback respectively, each went over the charmed line for a score in the third and fourth periods. The latter score setting the stage for a drop kick point after touchdown by Di Antonio.

The Salem line looked good from end to end although George Baillie who was in at right end the greater part of the contest was playing with an injured ankle. Each of the linemen was making accurate and hard tackles with "Bugs" Beck and "Butch Piersol" outstanding in the upsetting department.

In the backfield, Volio, West, and Wukotich each gained more ground than the total gained by the Trojans.

The play of Shoe and Janovec at their respective positions, end and blocking back, cannot be overlooked, Shoe catching two of the three Salem passes completed. He also did a credible job of handling the kickoff duties. Janovec's play looked good at the blocking post.

Try Outs Held

Tryouts for Junior High cheerleaders were held Wednesday morning. Mr. McDonald, director of the high school cheerleaders, delivered a talk giving a bit of advice and help to the prospective cheerleaders and he will also help to select the four who will represent Junior High. Two will be from the seventh grade and two from the eighth.

Salem High's ball-toters failed to break into the winning column last year but a new and heavier squad with a clean slate put Salem up with the best of them when they inaugurated the '37 season last Friday at Reilly Stadium with a 14-0 victory over a light but scrappy Sebring eleven.

It has been revealed by C. A. Brautigam, that John T. Shea will not be a drum major this year as he has accepted a job with the J. C. Penney Company, and will work in the afternoon. This disqualifies him because he cannot attend band practice.

Last Friday night marked the opening for the Senior Stand for the season. $57.09 was taken in although only $19.62 was clear profit.

Betty Gibbons, Esther Chappel, and Jean Christie spent Sunday in Youngstown.
