

Make A Signal While Driving To Save Lives

Respect the Rights of the Other Fellow

By STEPHEN HART.

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles on safety written by Stephen Hart, member of The Quaker editorial staff.

The first topic chosen for the series is traffic signals. The adjoining diagram illustrates the most common signals, those which signify turning right and left.

you have the right-of-way. If one took it for granted in each situation at an intersection that the other fellow had the "go" signal, many accidents would be prevented.

John Smith's last words were: "I thought sure he saw the light change."

How many of you use the horn on your car as a plaything or as a warning? Most of us never think to warn an oncoming car that we have the right of way. When one turns into a drive or alley, he should warn any car that may be following. However, there is an opposite to this, one which is even more undesirable, that of riding with your hand on the horn and "shooing" pedestrians and autos alike to the side of the road. You would not like having this done to you when you are walking but how many people do it when driving!

The next time you make a turn put yourself in the place of the driver behind you and let him know what you are going to do. One courteous gesture may save a life, maybe your own.

Patrolman Gives Talk At Meeting

At the regular Thursday night meeting of the Hi-Y, Patrolman White of the State Highway Patrol talked to the members on the subject of safety. In his speech Patrolman White gave the causes and results of accidents and methods of preventing them.

At the conclusion of his speech he gave some time to the answering of questions asked by members of the club.

Chemistry Club Elects Officers

Jack Kells was elected president, Eugene Myers, vice president and Margaret Hannay, secretary, at the meeting of the newly organized Chemistry club last Monday after school.

The purpose of the club, which will meet every other week on Monday after school, is to permit chemistry students who wish to delve into the subject more fully to do so and to let students learn how to use equipment which the average student can not learn to use in class.

They will have speakers. They also expect to visit some of the industrial plants in this vicinity.

Sportsmen Work To Provide Food

The Outdoor Sportsmens club is continuing its work in providing food for our wild birds during the winter season. Last Saturday members of the club were extremely active in establishing shelters at various feeding grounds and stocking these shelters with ample food. The shelters are constructed of corn shocks whenever possible and the others are made of bark and grass.

The club has been receiving splendid cooperation in its program, from the citizens of Salem and also from various organizations. However, much more grain and feed is needed if this project is to be a success. The drive will be continued for several more weeks, and Mr. Englehart has asked that anyone who is able to furnish feed of any kind to please contact him or some other member of the club.

Students Are Studying New Subjects Now

A little of the excitement of the first day of school was caught by upperclassmen this week due to the changing of schedules of those who took one semester courses. All seniors had at least one change, because government, a required subject, is only a one-semester course. Some of the more fortunate ones had a complete schedule change. A few juniors and fewer sophomores also had changes.

Sociology seemed to be the most popular course with an enrollment of 148 in the four classes. This subject is taught by Mr. Ted Jones, Mr. Guiler, Mr. Henning, and Mr. Hilgendorf. Business English came next with an enrollment of ninety-two in the three classes taught by Mrs. Talbot and Mr. Lehman. International Relations, a senior course, came next with an enrollment of seventy in the three classes. Mr. Guiler teaches these classes.

Physical Geography taught by Mr. Schroeder and English IV taught by Mr. Lehman were next with two classes enrolling seventy-five and seventy respectively. Commercial Law, a sixth period class taught by Mr. Henning, has thirty-eight students. Public Speaking, with an enrollment of fifteen, taught by Mr. Guiler has one class. Journalism has one class with an enrollment of seventeen and last was Trigonometry with an enrollment of twelve.

Book Review Given

"The Sun God," by Alfred Noyes is the title of the book on which Mrs. Beman G. Ludwig gave a review at the Hi-Tri meeting yesterday.

Following the program which was in charge of the president, Margaret Stewart, a business meeting was held. Plans were discussed for a Hi-Tri dance to be held on Wednesday evening February 21 from 8:00 to 10:30.

One of the features of the dance will be music furnished by the new high school dance band.

The critic for the meeting was Betty England.

International Relations Class Hears Mrs. Kaiser

"It is very hard for a German youngster to get high school education as it is thought that the masses are only fit for elementary education," Mrs. Margaret Kaiser said in a speech to the fifth period International Relations class, Tuesday.

Mrs. Kaiser was educated in the University of Berlin, majoring in political science and economics. She entered newspaper work and later had charge of publications dealing with working conditions for the German government. She was active in German women's movement and has lectured and written extensively in Europe and America on world economic conditions.

Mr. W. L. Hart introduced Mrs. Kaiser and said that Mrs. Kaiser was the first of a series of speakers presented by the Rotary Club dealing with the international situation.

Mrs. Kaiser said that the Constitution in Germany had a clause which provided that in the case of emergency the Reich president was given power to take away the bill of rights.

She also stated that the elections held in Germany were just a farce as there was one list to vote for and all the candidates are from one party. In Germany women have the right to vote.

In contrast to the conditions before Hitler's reign, when there was much unemployment, now everyone has a job. Although these jobs are poorly paid, and employees have no freedom there is no unemployment in Germany. If a man wants to take a new job he must get permission from the government. The Germans deprive themselves of essential foods such as butter and fruits to buy cannon and ammunition. Oranges, up until a few years ago were used in Germany. Now all oranges and other citrus fruits are banned because Mr. Hitler believes them to be Jewish products.

When asked what she thought the outcome of the war would be, Mrs. Kaiser said that she thought it would result in an unfavorable compromise. She said that Germany has a good chance because they have been preparing for the war a long time. France sent 5,000,000 men to the front and as a result it left no one at home to prepare food, clothing, and ammunition for the front. Germany, however, sent only 2,000,000 men to the front and the rest are at home working at high speed to send supplies to the front.

Mrs. Kaiser said that the German youngsters are not satisfied with their youth movements. Before they were organized only for fun much as a club of today. Now they are used as a political force for training youngsters to be loyal to Hitler.

Mrs. Kaiser said that the German Bunds that are so common in this country do not necessarily represent the German spy system.

"The German Bund movements are trying to prove to you Americans that your government is controlled by a handful of people. If they succeed in getting their plans fulfilled, which is very unlikely, they will try to overthrow the government and institute one on conservative Nazi lines," Mrs. Kaiser concluded.

First of Stamp Series On Sale

The first of a series of stamps commemorating authors was released last Monday. They are the green one cent stamp picturing Washington Irving and the red two-cent picturing James Fenimore Cooper. A purple three cent Emerson, a blue five cent Alcott and a brown ten cent Clemens will be released in the near future.

The one cent stamp was placed on sale at Tarrytown, New York and the two cent at Cooperstown, New York. Many members of the high school stamp club have sent for first day covers of these issues.

In February, stamps commemorating five poets will be released; in March, five educators; in April, five scientists; in May, five composers; in September, five artists; and in October, five inventors.

Arthur Is Winner In Pencil Contest

At a meeting of the Freshman class held recently, the officers, Herbert Hansell, president; Virginia Snyder, vice president; and Marian Davidson, secretary-treasurer had charge.

Awards were made to the three persons who sold the most basketball schedule pencils. The first prize of a candid camera went to Clyde Arthur who sold 72 pencils. The second and third prizes of mechanical pencils were awarded to Dorothy Brobander and Irene Fratila who sold 39 and 38 pencils respectively.

Yuhasz and Matz Named to Staff

Solbert Matz and James Yuhasz are new members of the Quaker editorial staff. Both were in the journalism class last semester and are taking advanced journalism this semester. They will serve on the staff for the remainder of the school year.

Share Quaker Pin

The Quaker pin is being shared this week, since there was a tie for the person selling the most ads for last week's issue of the Quaker. Charles Gibbs and Bill Dunlap were the boys who tied. Each sold twenty-five inches of ads for the boys' issue.

Members Make Ground Quivers

Three Feathers Club

Flash! The newly organized "Three Feathers Club" has had a brain storm. This brilliant piece of mental work is to employ the more industrious members of the club in making ground quivers. To explain to any non-archers, a ground quiver is a holder for arrows that set on the ground.

Those engaged in this work have collected empty oil cans to be used for the containers of the quivers, and old clothes hangers are twisted and turned into various shapes for the supporters. All of the work is done by members of the club, under the supervision of Mr. Sander. There is little or no expense involved in the production of these articles, and every person who is sharing in the making of them is truly proud of his work.

At the meeting of the archers last Wednesday night the national constitution was received. In the future the club hopes to obtain the national society membership.

Plans were made to divide the club into teams for competitive archery in the spring, at which time prizes will be awarded to the winners of various tournaments.

Where Friendship Prevails

The Hi-Y is an organization where the spirit of friendship and brotherhood prevail at all times and where all the members are one for all and all for one. This nation-wide organization of senior boys is steadily growing every year. This club doesn't bar anyone from it on account of scholastic failures or high standing but invites them all to share with their brother classmates the fun and knowledge which they have and acquire at all meetings. This club stands for clean speech, clean scholarship and clean sportsmanship. So more power to an organization that is really a credit to Salem High school and the educational system.

Enjoy Life While You Can

Have the past few weeks of school been a drag for you? Did the days drag and the week-ends fly? For the majority, that's probably just how it was. But, believe it or not, that's your fault—no one else's. You're the one who makes the day long. Be truthful for once. Don't you think you could manage somehow to make the best of everything that you do? Those who manage to get the most out of life are the individuals who enjoy every minute of everything they do, even the tougher times. For when people have it hard as well as easy, they are living a rich life full of experiences that make up a rich and full character. And that character in turn lives constantly and peacefully with no such turmoil of heart and brains as goes on within the minds and bodies of people who are too, too bored with it all. Don't put off enjoying your life. Begin right now, because high school is in reality a grand place to enjoy yourself if you'll give yourself a chance.

Seniors, Do Your Part!

Oh, yes! They're the ones that you're supposed to look at, and it's their examples that you're supposed to follow. The seniors are nice all right, but it gets a little too unbearable to see anybody and everybody but the seniors working for the stand at the football and basketball games. We wouldn't mind if they had a good excuse, but look around you at the next game and you'll see a lot of seniors, especially girls, doing nothing but leaning on the wall waiting for who knows what. A few seniors work, but that's all, just a few.

Come on, you "wall-leaners," how about doing a little work?

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In answer to the ambitious senior's letter which appeared in the quaker two weeks ago asking about the different students on the committees, my reply is that every week there are announcements sent around to the senior home rooms, asking for volunteers to work at the senior stand during basketball and football games. If this senior wants to be on any committee all he has to do is turn his name in to room 209 anytime. Maybe the reason this ambitious one hasn't been doing this is that this type of work is too strenuous?

A READER

Dear Editor:

It occurred to me while resting between the halves at the last home basketball game that anything which could be done to liven up that dull period would be greatly appreciated.

Being a swing fan at heart, this brilliant idea suddenly came to me. Why not have a swing band composed of students, give a little jam session between the halves of the reserve and varsity games?

This would not only break the monotony and provide interesting entertainment, but it would give Salem High some very distinct publicity.

Many large colleges have tried this idea out and it has worked very successfully. I'm sure that it would work here also.

One of Life's Little Heartaches

WONNER'S WORLDLY WISDOM

Dedication: To Brenda and Copina, the two glamour girls of the Bob Hope program. This seems most proper as the halls are fairly ringing with imitations of their lovely haunting voices. Really folks, you should all listen to them on Tuesday nights at 10 p. m. They're tops!

Speaking of glamour, Peg Stewart has picked out her new spring wardrobe. Sounds devastating (I can't spell it) or does it. She writes, "Why, Cotina, you know, I spent Saturday in Lisbon, just shopping around a little for my spring wardrobe, and I picked up the loveliest little model in amber canvas, just the thing for dog fights, you know."

I read a most touching little note the other day from Dolores Weichman to John Dan. I will skip the deep dark secrets and just let you in on the little fact that she goes for one Bob Lyons. Something new every day in this world.

After having had a pair of skates on my feet for one brief evening, I feel that I am quite an authority of the subject of skating and skaters. Whether or not that statement is true, one thing is certain, Bruce Krepps is just about the best thing on skates that I have ever seen. Would you consider giving me a few lessons, Bruce? I could use them.

Mr. Brown (in hygiene class): Can you give me an example of wasted energy?

Jim Yuhasz: Yes, sir—telling a hair-raising story to a bald-headed man.

Howard Gray is certainly a lady's man. They hound him so that he finds it necessary to lock himself in a room to keep free from the females who flock about him. How do I know? I wasn't dreaming when I saw Jean Stratton and Ruth Sinsley in the metal industries room, talking through the window to Howard who had sought protection in the tool room.

Starting a new semester is just like starting a new year in school. Different teachers, different subjects, different people around you. Maybe it's a good thing. Variety is the spice of life.

I never realized that we had so many good looking people in Salem Hi until I got a look at the bunches of exchange photos that are floating from hand to hand.

Bob Schaeffer certainly is going to be lost without his afternoon nap. Two chairs and government class were his golden opportunity. You have heard the expression, "Asleep of two chairs," well so has Bob.

Well, farewell my friends. If you are my friends, what an awful bunch of goons you must be.

A Story In Song

"My Prayer" is to watch "The Parade of the Little White Mice" who are "In the Mood" to send "Poor Old Joe" "Out of Port" "All In Fun" because "Lydia, the Tattooed Lady" thought "Billie" was "Careless" with his "Lilacs in the Rain" and so "How Many Times" I "Tear It Down" depends upon "All the Things You Are" because "I Want to be Happy" in "My Twilight Dreams" since "I Didn't Know What Time It Was" because "It's a Whole New Thing." "The Little Red Fox" said, "Hello Mister Kringle," "Does Your Heart Beat For Me" in "This Changing World"? If so here's "The Key to My Heart," "Chatterbox" and if not, "I'm Fit to be Tied" so "Peace, Brother," there's a "Penthouse for Rent," so "Pinch Me," "Scatterbrain," during this "Moonlight Serenade" or before we know it we'll enjoy a "Sunrise Serenade" saying, "Darn That Dream" because, "Oh, Johnny, Oh, Johnny," "Stop! It's Wonderful," "Would Ja Mind"? So will you meet me "At the Balalaka" with "Blue Or-chids."

Quaker News of Yesteryear

January 23, 1938

Victorious for the second time was the Affirmative Debate team, composed of Constance Clarke and Elsie Hunter, when it won the decision over the Newton Falls Negative team last Tuesday night at Newton Falls.

To make plans for the Junior program assembly, a committee of seven Juniors has been appointed, it was announced by Mrs. Koontz, Junior class adviser. Students serving on the committee are: Frances Webster, Sylvia Garforth, Mary Louise Emery, Joe Morris, Tom Eberwein, Bill Rogers, and John Evans.

The pins for the Salemasquers club have been chosen by the committee headed by Paul Meir and were shown to the members at the last meeting.

Although hard pressed from the second quarter on, the Salem High five rang up their sixth victory of the current season by the slim margin of 26-25. This won was over East Palestine.

A brief meeting of the Spanish club was held last Wednesday after school. After a short business meeting the students spent their time informally.

Miss Ruth Obenour, social reporter of the Salem News, addressed members of Hi-Tri on "Newspaper Work As a Vocation," last Thursday at the club's regular business meeting.

In a little over a week the Salem High band will present its first concert of the year.

Who Would You Choose To Live?

Recently a question was propounded to four male students of Salem High. Many interesting answers were received. The question was this:

You are the head of an expedition which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest must perish. Your companions are, (1) a brilliant scientist 60 years old, (2) two half-breed guides, ages 58 and 32, (3) the aged scientist's wife, age 39, interested mainly in society, (4) her son age 6, (5) the girl you are engaged to marry, (6) your best friend, a young man your own age who shows great promise in the field of science. Which would you choose to live?

Ed Cavanaugh declared that he would allow himself, his best friend and the 32 year old guide to live.

Tom Houlette decided to save his best friend, the girl he was going to marry and himself.

Ted Ursu chose the 60 year old scientist, the 6 year old boy and his best friend to remain alive while the others died.

Aden Riffle picked himself, the girl he was going to marry and the 6 year old child.

These are but a few of the opinions which were given. Many and varied was the choice of the three to live, but an interesting point was that no one chose the scientist's wife or the 58 year old guide. Think it over. How would you have made this decision?

To win and keep friends, be one.

ON THE BENCH

BY BOB DIXON

Tonight is the big game between the reserves and the Hi-Y. Both teams, I know, have been eagerly awaiting the arrival of this occasion and both are said to be laying for the other.

You know, last year the Hi-Y hung one on the reserves, and I guess the little fellows have been aching for a return bout ever since. Anyway, tonight will end all controversy, at least until next year.

By the way, the Hi-Y is no longer undefeated! A team composed of Canton McKinley and Canton Lehman all-stars came down last Saturday and nosed them out. Score: 26-22. Quite a game.

I've had some varied reactions to that little note to the cheerleaders last week. Some good and some not so good. Among the leading conscientious objectors is R. B. (yes, he's back again) Clarke. He thinks we're very unfair. Then I got one from one of the cheerleaders, herself. She said she heartily approved, and thought the suggestion was a very timely one. Any more complaints?

Nickname of the week: (Fanfare.) It's a Cope special. This time it's a dooser! The victim is a famed member of the Perry Indians, Sol

PERRY INDIANS IN TRAINING

Matz. Cope tags him with this little handle: "Gym" Matz. Get it? Oh, come on! Give it a tumble. (Ouch!)

What happened to high-scoring Knepp last week? He took quite a tumble himself. From 17 points to two is quite a drop. Eh, what? I hear he's got a six-foot three-inch lad to guard tonight. That ought to be fun.

And now for the salute of the week: We recognize the managerial staff of Salem High's basketball powerhouse.

Yes, the boys have been on my neck for some time to give them a break, so finally I broke down. You have probably read about some of these lads in this column before, but I want to review them just the same.

First in line, and, of course, in importance, is the "Dude," Kid Ursu himself. Here is the soul of the whole staff. You have all seen the famous senior manager and so you don't need any introduction to him. You all know him as a noted fashion plate here at Salem High. At any rate, he rules his little group with an iron hand.

Second in command is young Ray Lowry, junior manager. He's known as "One Bucket" Lowry due to his recent cage performances. Here is a rebellious character whom the "Dude" has trouble in keeping under control. A wizard with the women, Mr. Lowry has many extra activities which take him away from his "cage" duties.

The next two lads on this staff are sophomores. They are fighting it out for position of third in charge. "Handsome Bill" Dunlap and "Gappo" Rance are their names. These boys are the "Dude's" yes-men. Anything the kid says to them goes. (?)

Then, last but unquestionably not least, comes the one and only "Tyker." His mother calls him Steve Hart. He is the freshman manager and the spark-plug of the whole unit. Don't get tough with this guy or he'll tear you apart.

There they are, the whole bunch of them. Everyone bow down! Allah, be praised!

This guy "Puss" Kachner is a marvel on the basketball floor. Especially his wonderful pivot shot which eventually winds up on the running track. Yeah! Fetch me my A-X-E!

I received a note from some unknown person requesting a pep assembly for a near-future basketball game. Any of you agree?

Well, this is about enough for today, don't you think? So I'll say, "Good-bye, ah, Mamma!"

Controversy On Winner of Intramural Contest

Smith Will Decide Game Winner

Thursday, January 25, the Ghosts and Crackpots met in a Class A intramural game. The Ghosts were ahead by two points at the end of the regulation four quarters. Members of the Crackpots, after examining the score sheet, claimed that Vito Fiani had scored a field goal which the score sheet did not show. The game has been put up before Mr. Smith for a decision which will be made only if the game affects the standings. Until then the game is a victory for the Ghosts. Bob Lyons led the Ghosts with five points.

Mr. Smith announced today that it is the duty of the captain to let a sub who is not playing check the scoring of the scorekeepers.

The Celtics still lead Class A without a defeat on their slate. They recently defeated the Mustangs, 18 to 17.

There is a four-way tie for first place in Class B among the Saints, Hermits, Mickies, and the Hornets.

The Class C league has finished its first round. The Spartans won the honors and the round championship. The next round will consist of each team playing nine games. The second round schedule started yesterday.

Warren Defeats Quakers, 28-26

'Presidents' Win In Overtime Contest

The Presidents are still in office! At least as far as Salem High's basketball team is concerned. They duplicated their feat of last year by piling up 28 points against Salem's 26 and emerged with a victory in the game here last Friday night.

The visitors came from far behind to snatch a thrilling overtime victory from the Red and Black crew. Salem led at half-time by a nine point margin and it looked, at that time, like a victory was assured. However, they did their customary last half fold-up and proceeded to give the game back again.

Warren went ahead in the last few seconds of play and led by three points. Mike Thomas was then fouled and was given two free throws. Caging the first, the team then decided to take the ball out-of-bounds. Then "Dinty" McLaughlin dribbled around his guard and slid one through the hoop to knot the count. The game ended ten seconds later.

In the overtime, which was "sudden death," Salem got only one shot at the hoop. That was by Thomas. Warren then took the ball down and Captain Frank Modic, playing his last game for Warren, cut loose from the left-hand side of the court. The ball swished through and the game was over.

Girls Win Latin Puzzle Contest

Lois Myers and Alyce Kuniewicz are the winners of the recent crossword puzzle contest held by members of the Latin club.

Raymond Corrigan, vice president of the club, had charge of the last meeting at which Wayne Steffel read a story, "Caesar's Bridge," taken from the February issue of the Classical Journal.

He loved the girl so much that he worshipped the very ground her father discovered oil on.

Watch for Word On Library Board

Have you ever noticed that little slip of white paper on the lower left-hand corner of the library bulletin board? Take special notice the next time you are in the library, for on this paper is a word, which may at some time be very beneficial to have stored in your vocabulary. The correct pronunciation and definition of this word are clearly indicated. A new word is placed on the bulletin board each day. These words are secured from a list in the magazine entitled "Better English."

Also appearing on the bulletin board are two items of special note. Namely, the list of the ten outstanding magazine articles of the month. Most of the magazines in which these articles appear are taken by the library. Back issues of these magazines may be taken out for two weeks, but current issues may not be kept longer than over night.

"What America is Reading" compiled weekly by the New York Herald Tribune, lists the most popular adult, fiction and non-fiction books. This gives the readers an accurate picture of what is being read in America.

The Salem team will again be striving to pull above their .500 average into which they slipped last Friday. Five victories against five defeats constitute the Quaker's record so far.

Naturally not much is known of the Pittsburgh squad due to the distance between the two schools. However, they have a tough reputation in their own section and should provide a bang-up game for the Red and Black.

The first tax stamp collecting contest, won by the 7E's brought a candy box to each member of the class. The second campaign is now under way and the Student Council, sponsor of the contest, is being kept busy counting the stamps. At present the 7E's are again in the lead with $104.38, while the 8A's are second with $100.32.

The Garden Club contest for the nicest terrariums made by members was won by Eileen Weaver. Dorothy Lippiatt received second prize. Both prizes were narcissus bulbs, which the girls planted. Miss Cameron is making plans for a scrapbook contest to be held later in the year.

The model airplane club has chosen a new name, The Junior Hi-Fliers, and are getting sweaters with their emblem on them. At present the boys are exhibiting some of their models in the showcase. The planes will be judged and the makers of the winners are to receive prizes. As soon as favorable weather arrives, the club will have a model airplane meet.

The Junior High basketball season is now in full swing. Six games are played at the High school gym every Saturday morning, and with the season in its third week, 8F is leading in the eighth grade and 7th grade from St. Paul is leading the seventh graders. Mr. Gordon is now choosing a basketball team composed of 7th and 8th graders to represent Junior High in any games they may secure. A game with Leetonla has been scheduled for the near future.

The Jr. High orchestra presented a program for the Farmers' Institute last week in the High School Auditorium. The evening program was arranged by members of five granges from this locality and the numbers by the orchestra were featured part of the program.

A number of changes are being made in the club program with the start of the second semester. Most of the clubs will permit new members to enter for the second half of the year. After the regular club meeting on yesterday's programs, plans for the rest of the year were outlined. The clubs compose a very important part of the curriculum in Junior High and all students are urged to participate in some activity. Mr. Ludwig feels that the clubs are very important and helpful and he hopes to make it possible for every student to be in some club in which he has an interest.

Club Is Taught How to Use Rule

Members of the Slide Rule club held their regular weekly meeting last Tuesday after school when the first instructions in the use of the slide rule were given by Miss McCready, advisor to the club. They were shown how to find square root on the rule and also how to multiply. John Tary, president, was in charge of the business portion of the meeting.

After a two hour ride in the country:
She: "Don't you think you've gone far enough?"
He: "Why I haven't even put my arm around you."
