Roving Reporter Interviews SHS Basketball Stars

With everything gone from the "39-40" basketball season but the memories and a few bruises, your old friend Prof. Whatchadoinnow comes to the front again. All of the basketball players seem to be walking around in a blank. Since these Salem High basketball boys are still recuperating, I doubt if they can stand being interviewed, so we will make this a special "sports celebrity" interview.

Schaeffer, Hart, Baillie To Appear On "Is That So" Program

Three Salem High School students will appear on the "Is That So" program over radio station WKBN Youngstown at ten o'clock Sunday night. The program, sponsored by the Lyden Oil company of Youngstown, is heard each Sunday night. Each week students representing the different high schools in Youngstown and vicinity appear on the program. On the broadcast Sunday night, will appear Elizabeth Hart and James Schaeffer, seniors, and George Baillie, junior.

Questions concerning such subjects as history and geography are asked with a prize of five dollars going to the winner, three dollars to the second place, and two dollars to third place.

"Spring Is Here" Say Lab Students

Biology students have begun to realize that spring is just around the corner. The cherry branches which were planted by the students are in bloom in the biology laboratory.

Pussy willows were brought in by Esther Lewis, skunk cabbage by Arthur Charlton and Bob Ward. Water cress was also brought in, and robins and cardinals were reported seen by students.

Jr. Boys Are Guests

Junior boys were guests of the Hi Y Club at the meeting held Thursday afternoon. The program consisted of a sound picture entitled—"Touching All Bases". The picture showed scenes of the 1939 world series. Many famous baseball stars were shown in action. Ted Ursu, president of the club, had charge of the program. About 130 boys attended.

Death Calls Ruth Dunn

Ruth Dunn, member of the Sophomore class, died at the Salem City Hospital following surgical treatment there.

Ruth was 16 years old and will be missed by S. H. S. students.

Champ Typist Appears Here

Albert Tangora, holder of the world's typing record of 141 net words per minute, appeared before an assembly of students from the typing classes at 8:45 Thursday morning. Mr. Tangora is a graduate of Coraopolis High School, Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, and has been in many typing contests during the past few years.

He demonstrated for the students the proper typing position for speed typing and discussed many things of importance in regard to typing.

Typing students from Greenford and Goshen high schools also attended this demonstration.

Mr. Tangora was brought to Salem by Mr. Elden Meeks, a local typewriter representative.

Survey Shows 40.43% Are in Clubs

In a survey made by the principal's office it was found that 376 students of Salem High belong to one or more clubs. This is 40.4 per cent of the total enrollment of 930 students. It was found that 27 per cent of those students who are club members belong to two clubs, which is the maximum number of clubs to which a student may belong during any one year.

The survey shows that there were 16 clubs organized and meeting during club period which is after the 7th period class. The one exception to this is the stamp club which meets during the noon period Monday of each week. The G. A. A. and the Three Feathers clubs meet in the gym and the remaining clubs meet in the home rooms of the club sponsors.

The G. A. A. leads in membership with 85 girls as members. This group is considered a club, but in determining the maximum number of clubs to which a student may belong, it is not included. It is the athletic program for the girls, as basketball, football, and track are sports for the boys. the Hi-Tri ranks second in membership with 65 members, and the Hi-Y next with 51 members.

Three new clubs have been organized this year, adding about 60 students to the club program. The "Three Feathers" club, or the archery group, as it was first called, is sponsored by Mr. Olloman and Mr. Sander. During the winter months the group has been meeting in the gym, but as soon as weather permits they plan to practice out of doors. Most of the members of the club have purchased bows and are becoming expert shots. There are 22 members in this club and their officers are: Sidney Simon, president; Raymond Corrigan, vice president; Margaret Ann Jones, treasurer; Joyce Somerville, secretary.

The dance band which was organized this year to play for after school informal dances is organized and functions as a club. Although it is to remain a 10 piece

Jr. Class Production Goes Into Its Last Week of Rehearsal

Junior Thespians Will Present "Little Women" March 28, 29

Next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday the Junior class will present "Little Women," a dramatization of Louisa M. Alcott's book of the same name, which has been adapted to the stage by Pauline Phelps.

The play is in three acts and is divided into seven scenes. Miss Phelps has written the script of the play so that each act may be used as an individual one-act play. For this reason, at the end of the second act and at the beginning of the third, the scenes are not as smooth as they should be so Miss Viola Bodo, director of the play, has written a scene and a half which unifies the last two acts.

This dramatization of three acts covers a period of five years which follows the growth of the March girls from girlhood to young womanhood. The play takes place in the dignified old town of Concord, Massachusetts.

Garb is Authentic

All the gowns and cloaks including the accessories such as shoes, stockings, bonnets, shawls, and gloves worn by the members of the cast are absolutely authentic of the styles of the 1850 period. The clothes have been graciously lent for the play by several people in Salem who have saved these priceless old gowns and cloaks. One of the gowns worn by Lucia Sharp, who very ably portrays the unforgettable Amy, was worn at President McKinley's inaugural ball. There is also an exquisite parasol which was originally a snowy white but which has now turned to a lovely ivory, mellow with age. Parasols were carried in this period to protect the girl's delicate and tender skin.

There are also many precious pieces of furniture that are considered very valuable because of their age. This furniture has also been kindly lent to assist in making up the properties of the play.

"Little Women" was filmed a few years ago and pictures from that film have been pasted on posters and placed in several rooms of the school building. The costumes and furniture used in the play follow closely to those in the film version.

Something New

The Thespian group feels it is trying something new in presenting its first classic on the Salem High school stage, and they believe everyone will agree that Miss Bodo's choice of the play for the Junior Class has been an excellent one.

The music department of Salem high has collaborated by planning special arrangements of "Ava Maria," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and a few of Strauss' Waltzes.

The dramatic classes and the play cast have worked hard to dress a number of miniature dolls in the authentic costumes of those in the play. These dolls were on display in the library show case last week and are at Lease's Drug Store this week.

Act One of the play is entitled "Youth"; Act Two, "Growing Up";

Ring Order Deadline

Juniors! Be sure to place your order for your class rings or pins by tomorrow. It is the deadline. Orders may be placed with any jeweler in town. A down-payment of $3.00 is required on rings and $2.00 on pins.

Alumna To Play In "Taming Of Shrew"

Jean McCarthy, class of '37, has been selected to play in the Shakespearean Comedy "Taming of the Shrew" according to Prof. Rollin C. Hunter, director of dramatics at Ohio Wesleyan University. The play will be presented April 19 and 20.

A Shakespearean play is given at Ohio Wesleyan each spring to celebrate Shakespeare's birthday.

Miss McCarthy was active in dramatics while in Salem High School.

Value Of Clubs

The final results of the survey taken by the Quakers last week show that more than 50% of the boys in Salem High have played basketball on organized teams during the past season. Most of these boys played on teams in the various school leagues and these leagues are but a part of the excellent extra-curricular program in Salem High.

If a survey could be taken of the activities of all our students, it is certain that the extra activities authorized by the school would be found to play an extremely important part in the school routine of Salem High.

When one stops to consider the great extent of this extra-curricular program, it is really surprising how much is included. Every student can find a place for himself in some activity or club, for the wide range covered by this program makes it possible for anyone to do the things in which he is interested.

Now, surely such a program should be appreciated and used to the fullest extent. But to be truthful, this is not really the case. Members of these clubs are not putting the interest that they should into their activities. And so no one is getting the full benefit of our excellent extra-curricular program.

The members of our faculty certainly deserve a vote of thanks for this splendid program that they have set up. There is only one way for the students of Salem High to show their appreciation. That is to join at least one club and to join with the sole purpose of taking an active part in the club program. Also, by doing all we can to help the club and the other members. This is really a great opportunity and remember "Opportunity knocks only once!"

Looking Ahead

"Gosh I'll be glad to graduate and get out of school." This plaintive wish was expressed recently by a senior in Salem High. The occasion for the statement was the issuance of grade cards.

This student evidently did not seem to enjoy his sojourn in school. When asked as to his plans after graduation, this senior shrugged his shoulders and declared, "Oh I don't know, work I suppose."

Seniors, do you merely "suppose" what you are going to do next year or do you know? If you don't know, it's time you were finding out. Will it be college, business or just plain loafing?

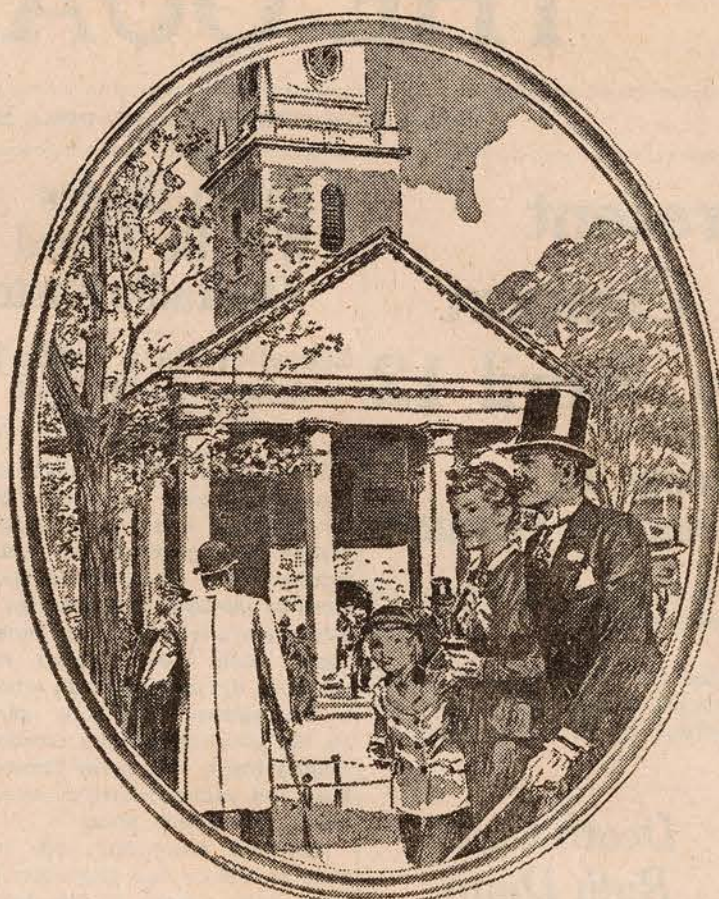

Perhaps this missive is a little premature, but look out seniors, it won't be long now!

Be Thankful

How very thankful so many of us may be that we are all intact. We have straight and strong arms and legs, healthy bodies and minds.

For those who are not quite so fortunate we give our sincere sympathy.

What pain and anguish they must go through in silence. How envious they must be at times when they see the fortunate ones doing things they are not able to do. But those unfortunate have something we do not have. They have learned something which it will take us all our lives to learn. That is patience. They are patient when we are not as courteous as we should be; they are patient in waiting for the help that we might be able to give them by contributing our share to the fund for Crippled Children. So if you have not already given your share, do so immediately, and remind others to contribute what they can.

WONNER'S WORLDLY WISDOM

I have been tearing my hair and biting my nails off to my elbows trying to think up something for this week's column.

Cute Little Devils

I have a little suggestion to make regarding the junior play. Meg and John Brooke have the cutest pair of twins and I thought it would be very appropriate if the Wukotich twins were to take the parts. Since the junior class is lucky enough to have a set of twins, it certainly should take advantage of the fact.

Jitterbug Jamboree

Morning, noon, and night, the jitterbugs are dancing (or whatever the word may be) up at the corner. That in itself is all right, but they have only about two inches apiece to dance in. Oh, well, maybe the danger adds a certain glamour to the dance.

Secret Sighs

Johnny Carello has a secret longing for a little blonde senior girl named Dorothy Lutsch. Don't keep it a secret any longer, Johnny, someone will beat you out. You know the old saying, "Gentlemen prefer blondes." Let that be your warning.

Broken Romances

Lets and lots of lovely after-school romances will be broken now that spring football practice has started. Every night I see several of these big, bad football players walking home with the girls of their hearts, but alas, that must now end. Don't worry boys, all the girls love a football hero.

Something New

I have seen Walt Alesi and Eleanor Kuhns together quite a bit lately. Just another sign that spring is coming. Love always starts to blossom when spring is just around the corner.

Fashion Notes

Bob Dixon is really an expert on dresses and wearing apparel. The reason Peggy Stewart is always so bewitching is that Dix has appointed himself as her confidential fashion expert and beauty advisor. If anyone doubts the foregoing statements, I have the proof.

More Fun

Another group of thespians were initiated into the National Thespians Dramatic Honor Society and did they take a beating. If you don't believe it, just get the necessary credits and find out for yourself. Of course the nominal fee of $1.50 is required, but that is a lot easier to get than those credits.

To close this stirring epistle, I shall leave you with this little thought.

A bit of a slam,
A bit of a pun,
But don't get mad,
It's all in fun.

Yesterday afternoon Bill Rogers, who won first place in the district extemporaneous speech contest went to Columbus, Ohio to enter the state finals which will be held at Ohio State University.

Marjorie Brian won first place in the snow scene division and also won one dollar's worth of merchandise offered by the J. H. Lease Drug Co. in the Camera Club contest held on March 15.

Vox Latine was the name chosen for the Latin newspaper at the meeting a week ago last Wednesday.

Vivian Foltz was chosen editor and Rita Emery, assistant editor.

Striking blue and gold pins were chosen by the members of the National Thespians on Monday after school in room 200 at a business meeting.

At a recent meeting of the track coaches in Columbiana county it was decided that the County meet would be held this year in East Palestine, instead of Salem.

Twenty-eight four year scholarships will be available to freshmen entering Kent State University next fall. Each scholarship exempts the holder from payment of the registration fee of $30 per semester and so is worth $240, according to an announcement made by Prof. S. A. Harbort, chairman of the scholarship awards committee.

For students interested in going to college a new book has been added to the high school library. The book is entitled, "To College In Ohio", and covers all of the forty two colleges and universities located in Ohio.

In keeping with their study of communicable diseases, Mr. Brown's hygiene students visited the Salem Sewage Disposal plant this week.

ON THE BENCH

BY BOB DIXON

My personal nomination for the village predictor goes to the Junior High's, Robert Carey. This illustrious Mount man shut his eyes, crossed his fingers and then proudly announced that he had decided that New Philly was going to win the tourney. Everyone laughed until the results came in. Then he laughed. So—the moral is this. Don't argue with Carey when he picks a winner.

"Wink" Miller was one of the many who thought that Canfield would take the title in Class B. He was very much disappointed when New Carlisle emerged with the bunting.

I picked Canton to win that tourney but the odds were against me. This New Philly outfit must really be the goods. Twenty-five straight isn't hay.

Quite a nice crowd turned out for the tilt last Tuesday when the Althouse team beat the Akron M. O'Neil's. All for Manager Sam Drakulich. Quite a tribute, I say!

Baptists so I think I'm pretty glad spring football is here to get my mind off basketball."

Mr. James Kleon — "Being the mainstay of the Hi-Y brain trust I'm glad track started. Now that it did get underway I can hardly wait to see James "Tweet" Schafer in action.

Kenneth O'Connell—"Boy, am I in shape! I've been trotting around the cemetery for practice. My motto is, "Let the spirit move you." And does it move you!"

Bob Shoe—"The track team is shaping up swell. With a few more weeks' workouts we'll be ready to take on all comers."

Les "Boob" Knepp—"Ho-hummm. Just a gal named Barb. My fancy has turned towards spring and all the things that go with it. Ah—love. (Interrupting him in a mood like this— why it would take Boris Karloff.)

William "Bill" Rance—"If Droop's got a slogan so do I." Me and Shag," (OH! Bill I think you should add Cunningham). But seriously, "Wm. Rance Fran Club" I feel fine. You can put your bottom dollar on me in the night relays.

Jimmy Shaeffer—"I am looking forward to the ping pong season with great zest. As you all know I won my varsity letter last year at a certain athletic headquarter in ping-pong."

S. H. S. as a whole — "We received a great deal of pleasure out of this year's basketball season and are looking forward to the oncoming track season. Good luck, Coach Cope, we're behind you 100 per cent!"

Octo tells us what happened to Rudibaugh's last Monday night. They say they lost two tilts. Is that true? Tough!

As you undoubtedly know by now the Hi-Y failed to get enough teams in the fold, so the tournament was called off. Poor cooperation from other teams in wthe district led to the downfall of this worthy enterprise.

Now for one of our weekly features.

"Jake" says: "Of all those unfortunate fellows out for the mile run, "Mad Man" Kachner is the one to beat. In his first run he was clocked by "Coopena" in the fine time of 11 minutes and 53 seconds.

Speaking of "Jake," he and his boys are often seen up at the new "dive." In fact "Jake" has been known to feed the "juke box."

In bringing his boys up to this new establishment "Jake" has boosted the popularity of the place 100 per cent. They all flock in to see "Apple" Bloor smoke a cee-gar.

An extensive campaign for the captainship of the S. H. S. track team is being launched by "Row" Turner, the high jump artist. This is another of the offices left open by "Ox" Clark.

Say "Apple" what's all this talk about Ol' George that I've been hearing of late. Then there is Uncle Dan'l too!

Don't you dare forget the Little City Tourney next Thurs., Fri., and Sat. at the Mem. Bldg. (What abbreviating!) It promises to be a hot 'un.....Well another week is coop-erate. So-long.

Early Takes Over Tennis Coach's Post This Season

Herb Jones, Former Coach, Asks To Be Relieved; Practice To Start Soon

The tennis team will play this season under the watchful eye of Mr. Early. Former Coach Herbert Jones has asked to be relieved of the duties of this position this year. Mr. Cope will schedule games and secure transportation for the out-of-town games this spring. The team's possibilities this year do not look particularly strong as only one veteran of last year's squad will be available. However, Mr. Early will do his best to bring out a top notch squad for the matches with its opponents. The team will begin practice as soon as the weather clears up.

School enthusiasts has been lacking for this sport in the last few years, but it is hoped that the interest will rise this spring when the boys "get out on the clay to slap the spheres around."

The coaches have found it rather hard to bring out a top notch team in Salem due to the fact that Salem has no tennis courts ready so early in the spring.

JR. HIGH NEWS

The third news issue of the Quakerette was published and distributed this week by the staff. These issues are printed between regular issues and are composed entirely of the various kinds of news. This plan eliminates much of the news that would go into the regular issues thus making much more room for features in the regular issues. Mrs. McCauley, faculty supervisor of the Quakerette, originated this plan last year and and it was considered successful enough to be continued throughout this year.

English Teachers Victim Of Reporter's Queries

In response to the queries and speculation of the student body regarding our honored faculty, their hobbies, their interests, and their favorite fruit, the Quaker has unearthed some facts concerning the activities and interests of our English teachers when they are not engaged in providing tomorrow's citizens with an education.

Miss Bodo

Miss Viola Bodo, a graduate of Kent State University, displayed the same energy and ability as a college student that she does at the present as a teacher of English and dramatics, as Thespian and Buskins advisor, and as director of the class plays. Among her activities at Kent, Miss Bodo served as president of Pi Kappa Welta, a national honorary speech society. She was also president of her sorority, Theta Sigma Upsilon, in addition to holding the same office in the Pan-Hellenic council, which was comprised of the presidents of all the sororities on the campus.

She also attended William and Mary College at Williamsburg, Virginia.

Miss Bodo's high school career, which, as many observant students have calculated, is by no means ancient history, was spent here at Salem High, where she participated in debate. She later continued this activity at Kent, serving on the debate team four years.

Miss Bodo's greatest interest lies in speech correction, which, she declares with characteristic determination, is not merely her dream, but her ambition.

Another former debater is Mr. H. C. Lehman, who took part in this activity in High school and also at McPherson College, in Kansas.

One of Mr. Lehman's most interesting experiences was a nine months' caravan with a traveling college, which toured the western states in four automobiles, meanwhile studying zoology, biology, and geology. The group followed Old Sol so that they could enjoy a warm climate during the entire trip.

Mr. Lehman has always taken an interest in journalism, having been associate editor of his college publication. His present activities in this field include serving as advisor to the Quaker editorial staff, as president of the Tri-County Journalism Association, and as a member of the advisory council of the Northeastern Ohio Scholastic Press.

Although he showed considerable reluctance in discussing his accomplishments, Mr. Lehman responded more readily at the mention of his small farm near Greenford, where he likes to work in his garden.

Some of his time "after hours" is also taken up in serving as minister for two rural churches near Salem.

Mr. Early

Athletics has been one of the chief interests in Mr. Early's life. For the sake of recreation, he participated in football, basketball, and track at the High school at East Palestine, where he lived until coming to Salem to teach. Later he served the same school as assistant athletic coach.

Tennis also attracts Mr. Early, having played it both in High school and at Geneva College. As most local fans know, he has more than once been on the winning doubles team in the county tournament.

Although his favorite High school subject was English, Mr. Early has not always wanted to be a teacher of this subject. At one time his ambition was to be a chemist, and later he changed his goal to accountancy.

Mr. Early some day hopes to be a principal or superintendent, having studied administration at Columbia University, where he expects to obtain his Master's degree this summer.

Upon being questioned as to his "pet peeve" as an English teacher, Mr. Early replied that he considers it rather exasperating to teach his classes good taste in literature, only to find that one or two of the students are at the moment digesting an uplifting tale from some cheap magazine.

Mr. Brautigam

Mr. Brautigam is a teacher with a unique "past" of which most students are not aware. Before coming to Salem to teach, he pitched for a semi-professional baseball team at Peoria, Ill.

Since music and English have always been the most interesting subjects to him, he considers his present position very desirable and does not expect to take up any other work.
