

High Actors At Cleveland

Present Play Which Took First Place at Kent Event

This afternoon Salem Thespians will give a performance of "The Gypsy" at Elden Hall in Cleveland.

Because this one-act play took first place at Kent State University, it went on to the second high school dramatic festival sponsored by the National Thespian Dramatic Honor Society. "The Gypsy" will have to compete with one-act plays from northeastern, northwestern, southeastern, southwestern, and central sections of the country. Two plays were selected from each of these sections to go to Elden Hall from their performance at Kent.

The award will be presented by Ernest Bavely, secretary-treasurer of National Thespians. E. Turner Stump of Kent State University will be the critic judge.

"The Gypsy" took first place at Kent and was awarded outstanding rating in all the northeastern district.

Ruth West was given special award by being named for the all regional cast.

The cast of the play are as follows:

Ruth West — Zita, a young and temperamental prima donna who is in love with:

Apaulo—played by James Benedict.

Nora—Zita's faithful maid.

John—a stage hand.

The play takes place between the acts of Carmen which is being sung by Zita. Zita sings especially well because she is in love with Apaulo. Nora dislikes him and knows that no good will come of the whole affair but she knows it is useless to try to persuade Zita of Apaulo's dishonesty.

Several years previous, Zita's sister Lucretia had also sung Carmen. She had killed herself because the man she loved deserted her. Zita swore revenge. Because the dress Zita wears in Carmen is ruined by the cleaners she is forced to wear a dress which once was worn by Lucretia. Zita found a note in the belt of the dress. The note gives the name of Lucretia's lover. It was Apaulo. Zita seizes a dagger and heedless of Nora's frantic cries, goes out on the stage to make the killing in Carmen a real one.

New Stamp Honors Dr. Crawford Long

The latest in the series of stamps commemorating famous Americans is the one honoring Dr. Crawford D. Long who in 1842 administered the first anesthetic ever used. Although Dr. Long was the first one to use ether as an anesthetic nothing much came of his use of it and the first outstanding use of ether was in 1846. Dr. Long has his statue in Statuary hall in the United States capitol at Washington, D. C.

The other persons honored in the famous scientists series are: Luther Burbank, Dr. Walter Reed, Jane Addams, and John James Audubon.

Musicians Ready For State Event

Will Journey To Oberlin Tomorrow For State Contest

Musicians in Salem High who won "Superior" and some who won "Excellent" ratings in the district music event at Muskingum college a short time ago, will travel to Oberlin tomorrow to participate in the state solo and ensemble contest.

The first, or "Superior" ratings went to Gusty Conja, violin; Maybelle Hueston, clarinet; Ruth Stoudt, mezzo soprano; Ruth West, soprano; and members of the trombone quartet, Al J. Freed, Bob Jaeger, Bob Schuck, and Herbert Hansell.

"Excellent" ratings, actually first place grades because "Superior" ratings were not given in these particular divisions, were awarded the following:

Jean Lantz, tenor saxophone; Charles Lind, baritone saxophone; Aden Riffle, alto saxophone; Frank Davis, bass vocal; and members of the string trio, Gusty Conja, Paul Evans and Emma Bauman.

Other "Excellent" awards, but not entitling them to state competition, were as follows:

Bill Finneran, baton twirling; Al J. Freed, trombone; Mabel Hostetler, French horn; Alex Simion, drums; Brass quartet — Ralph Greenisen, Dorothy Brobender, Mary Jagastru, and Robert Schuck. Clarinet quartet—Maybelle Huston, Betty England, Richard Burcaw, and Vivian Foltz. Saxophone quartet — Aden Riffle, Betty England, Richard Burcaw, and Charles Lind. Trumpet trio—William Merry, Robert Entriken, John Botu.

"Good" or third place ratings: Emma Bauman, piano; Paul Evans, cello; Dorothy Haldi, alto clarinet; William Merry, cornet; woodwind trio—Homer Asmus, John Dan and Jean Lantz.

Will Lecture On 'Reptile Friends'

Jack Raymon

Jack Raymon, famous lecturer on reptiles, will be heard in an assembly next Wednesday morning at 8:30, speaking on the subject "Our Reptile Friends".

Mr. Raymon has worked as a camp director and in other capacities in camps. He will show fifteen varieties of snakes. Among these are, rattlesnakes from Texas, coral snakes from Florida, copperheads from the mid-west and cotton mouth from the south. In his speech he will tell how one can tell a poisonous snake from another, what to do in case of snake bite, and also he clears from the minds many ideas which have grown up through the years about hoop snakes, milking snakes, etc.

In addition to his talk on reptiles, Mr. Raymon gives an exhibition of whip cracking and rope spinning.

Mr. Raymon has spoken throughout the country to many college, high school, and club groups.

20 Journalists Will Attend Press Association Meeting

President of Kent State University Will Greet 600 High School "Peglers"

Over 600 high school journalists and their advisors are expected at Kent State University tomorrow for the annual spring meeting of the Northeastern Ohio Scholastic Press association. Seventeen students from Salem High accompanied by the advisors, Mr. H. C. Lehman and Mr. R. W. Hilgendorf, will attend.

475 Crowd Gym For Assoc. Dance

Don Harvey's Orchestra Plays For Dancing

Approximately four hundred and seventy-five students of Salem High school attended the annual party given by the Association which was held at the high school last Friday night.

Entertainment by the Kings Ambassador's Quartet, a group of bell ringers and vocalists, preceded the dancing in the gymnasium. Dancing was to the music of Don Harvey's orchestra. The gym was decorated for the party in colors of the four classes, blue and white for the seniors, blue and gold for juniors, red and white for sophomores and the traditional freshmen colors, green and white.

The senior association officers are: Jim Schaeffer, president; Don Rich, treasurer; and Jean Stone, secretary. The recently elected junior officers are: Louis Raymond, President; George Baillie, vice-president; Vivian Foltz, secretary; and Marjory Harroff, treasurer. The junior officers will be next year's senior officers.

Committees for the party were:
Eats: Marjory Harroff, chairman; Miss Morgan, advisor; Eleanor Shultz, Doris Brunner, Florence England, Laura Hester and Leatrice Johns.

Decorations: Vivian Foltz, chairman, Herbert Jones, advisor; Jim Schaeffer, Don Rich, Jean Stone, Louis Raymond, George Baillie, Marjory Harroff, Robert Shoe, Jack Warner, Lois Hoover, Charles Lind, Wade Broomall, Kathryn Freck, Alice Sabona, Richard Beck, and Carl Bauman.

Entertainment: Louis Raymond, chairman; Miss Hanna, advisor;

Salem Teachers Attend Meeting

Fourteen Salem teachers attended the meeting of the Columbiana county Schoolmen's association, which was held at the Wellsville High school last night starting with a banquet at 6:30. The speaker was Dr. Paul N. Elbin, president of West Liberty State Teachers College of West Virginia.

Those from Salem who attended are: Mr. E. S. Kerr, Mr. H. M. Williams, Mr. Beeman Ludwig, Mr. Robert Carey, Mr. R. B. Clark, Mr. F. E. Cope, Mr. J. C. Guiler, Mr. A. V. Henning, Mr. J. P. Olloman, Mr. Carl Schroeder, Mr. Theodore Jones, Mr. Loren Early, Mr. C. M. Brautigam, and Mr. Lewis Smith.

The program starts at 9:00 a. m. in the university auditorium with the address of welcome being given by Dr. K. C. Leebruck, president of Kent State University. The announcements for the day will then be given by Mr. Arthur F. Hommel, president of the Northeastern Ohio Scholastic Press.

At nine-thirty a news event will be dramatized and at least one student from each school represented is asked to submit a write-up of the event to be judged for an award. Photographs of it will also be submitted for judging.

Discussions To Be Held

From 11:00 to 12:00 round table discussions on such subjects as, "The Writing of Feature Stories" and "The High School Paper of Tomorrow" will be discussed. More round tables will be held from 2:30 to 3:30.

The annual banquet is at 6:30 with Mr. Arthur Hommel as chairman. The presentation of awards will be made followed by a speech by Mr. Henry Alsborg on "The Writer's Field Today".

The three student publications at Kent State will be hosts to the visiting journalists at a dance in the gymnasium following the banquet.

The students from Salem High school who plan to attend are: Allen Fehr, editor-in-chief, Louis Raymond, business manager, and Lois Hoover, Charles Gibbs, William Dunlap, Bob Ballantine, Sara Wonner, Bob Dixon, Florence Hiltbrand, Eleanor Kuhns, Karl Theiss, Louise Zeck, Solbert Matz, Mary Byers, Gloria Gibson, Margaret Stewart and Jane Tinsley.

Rotary Gives

The Salem Rotary Club recently presented to the High School a check for $43.48 which was the profit made on the Institute of International Understanding held during the past winter. This was the second year the Rotary Club has sponsored such a project in Salem. The purpose of the Institute was to increase the understanding by the people of the country of the problems of other countries and the thinking of their people. Two of the speakers spoke to High School audiences.

The money presented to the school is to be used by the library for the purchase of vocational guidance books and magazines. Those ordered will cover types of work, opportunities, new trades in vocation, salaries and qualifications. The books will be of special interest to seniors.

The new material will be ordered sometime this summer, Miss Lehman, librarian announced.

Lost And Found

Tennis shoes, newspaper bags, galoshes, overshoes, umbrellas, hats, and numerous odd things are taking up space in the office of Mr. Williams. One whole corner is heaped with grimy footwear surrounded by two lone umbrellas. Maybe these are being saved for a rainy day when they will be rented out to their owners.

"Oh, somebody stole it," was probably the comment of the persons losing the 6 pencil cases, 4 purses, 24 gloves, 6 locks, and 34 odd pens and pencils. But the same persons who spoke those words have never taken the trouble to take a swift trip to the office to see if the stolen article was there.

Cynics who think this school is full of thieves should stroll into their hangout sometime and claim their share of the loot. Very likely they will find that pen they left in 210 one day or that book they left in their desk in study hall. Who knows, maybe some of those lonely things belong to you—yes, who knows, nobody but you.

Guinea Pig?

Do you know what you are buying when you go to the store for your mother? It seems that most of us don't. The topic chosen for the library show case this week is "Consumer Education" or "Are You a Guinea Pig?"

Some of the magazines in the case are "The Consumer's Digest", "The Consumer's Research Bulletin", and "The Consumer's Guide". The books also shown include "Nostrums and Quackery", "Your Money's Worth", and "Earning and Spending the Family Income".

Along the line of buying, if one should pay closer attention to these articles we would find out what we really buy and not what producers try to push over to us.

In buying apples, for instance, we do not know where they come from or how they are colored. In a recent "Science News Letter" it was told how a newly developed chemical spray for giving color to fruit was found. The new coloring process provides "a natural glow" and not a "makeup job".

Don't be a guinea pig, but read some of the articles shown in the show case.

Speak Up!

Few people have the gift of being able to write a good and well built editorial and at the same time have it interesting to all readers. To interest every one is a problem of all who have to write editorials.

Students seldom read the editorials that are printed, but if they would they would probably find them quite interesting.

Subject material is the hardest thing in an editorial. The Quaker has asked students to submit ideas as to what type they would like to have but no one has answered this.

Editorials have been written on chewing gum, school spirit, spring, fall, summer, winter and about everything imaginable, but they do not seem to appeal to the students. Every one has his own opinions as to what would make a good and fitting editorial for the Quaker and he would like to see it in print and see how others felt about the same subject. Cooperate with the Quaker in this matter and the Quaker will try to cooperate with you.

WONNER'S WORLDLY WISDOM

Hello everybody, here I am again. From now on my motto is going to be: See all, hear all, and tell all. I always hold back the best little pieces of dirt but people just don't appreciate it. Here's what at least one person thinks of me. When they think it, it's all right, but when they start putting it down in writing, that is too much.

There was a young girl named Wonner,
Whose conscience (if any) must haunt her.
For she writes all the dirt
'Bout Salem Highs' flirts,
With the glory of the Quaker upon 'er.

Isn't that awful!!!!

One Born Every Minute

Dolores Weichman takes the prize as being the biggest and best sucker of the year. You've all heard of freshman looking for the elevator, but a sophomore, never! Well, almost never, because that was what Dolores was doing. She wasn't even kidding. Try telling her there is a landing field for airplanes on the roof, she'll believe you.

Get That Man

Bob Ballantine was in a terrible pickle the other night, he had three girls chasing him. With cries of "quick, Brenda, a man," and "I saw him first," they chased him for what seemed to be miles. My feet still hurt—wait a minute, that was a slip. Anyway, to get to the point, Bob's face was plenty red when they dragged him up to the corner to show all the people what they caught, and without a fishing license, too.

Nice Going

Jack Tinsley shopped around and got himself a neat little date to the Association Dance and also the Freshman-Sophomore Hop. I wouldn't want to mention any names, but Mary Lou Cope is kinda cute, don't you think?

Grand Opera Stars

Have you heard the strains of arias from your favorite operas floating through the halls? Well, neither have I. Let's put it this way, have you heard some odd sort of screeching echoing from room to room? Well, so have I. Those sounds are what Louie Raymond and Flossie Hiltbrand fondly call opera. The source of this haunting music is the Quaker Office. That place surely must do strange things to a person.

Just A Kid Named Joe

Here's another limerick. Perhaps Joe Vender is the goat of this one. I don't know.

There once was a boy named Joe,
Who stumbled and hurt his big toe.
For that special date,
He was awfully late,
So now he is nobody's beau.

The prom dates are going pretty fast, so if you want to take that special girl, you had better move fast, fellow. Bye now.

Newsy Bits of News

By Jim Schaeffer

The faculty were the guests at a tea party held last Wednesday at 3:20 till 4:00 in room 108, sponsored by the cooking classes, which are supervised by Miss Morgan. Kathleen Cosgrove poured and Mildred Schuster received the guests. After the tea party was over, they witnessed the Thesplan's Kent play, "The Gypsy."

The chemistry classes last Friday enjoyed a moving picture, "Making of Bessemer Steel", which was sponsored by the Bessemer Steel corporation. The classes had been studying at that time the making and tempering of steel.

Three new students have entered Salem High. Martha Knai has entered from Newark, Ohio and will be a member of the Sophomore class. James Steele came from Peabody High in Pittsburgh and will be a Freshman and will be in room 307. Harold Shannon will enter as a Freshman from Lordstown and will be in room 307. Harold is the brother of Donald Shannon.

Many of the faculty visited out of town during spring vacation two weeks ago.

Mrs. Koontz and Miss McCready spent a day in Cleveland shopping. Miss Hollett spent a few days at her home in Lakewood, Ohio.

Miss Beardmore spent a day in Cleveland shopping and on a pleasure trip.

Miss Lehman and Miss Schroeder went to Washington D. C. to see the cherry blossoms, but the weather was too cold and the blossoms failed to appear.

Miss Hart spent three or four days in Cleveland shopping and sight seeing.

Mrs. Wilt spent a day in Canton shopping.

Mr. Williams visited for a few days in Madison, Wisconsin.

Mr. Smith said that he spent most of his vacation in the air, he almost reached the top of the ladder cleaning wallpaper.

Last weekend Miss Roth attended demonstrations and meetings of the Modern Language Association at the Hotel Cleveland.

Chanute, Kansas—Chanute High has an ingenious way of getting the students to find which firms advertise in their school paper, "The Tatler." They have a contest. Simple? They do it by printing in their paper the scrambled names of ten of their clients. They present to the winner some very nice prizes.

Success Can Be Achieved Only With Regular Thrift Habits
First National Bank

ON THE BENCH

BY BOB DIXON

It feels good to get back into the old harness after a long layoff such as the one we've just had. Lots of stuff to discuss today so we might as well get at it.

You all know that old man baseball has come in with a bang and is now well on his way to monopolizing the sport picture.

However as long as we have track around here I'm afraid I won't quite rule supreme in the eyes of the local fans. Some very thrilling moments are in store for the real dyed-in-the-wool track fans come May 4. That is the date of the annual Night Relays. A real event. I for one am anxious to see if dusky Chet Thomas of Cleveland East Tech can break the record in the 100. If any one can do it, he is the one. There will be other stellar performers in the meet too. But more about that next week.

Now to go back to baseball.

The meteoric rise of young Bobby Feller in the baseball world reached its climax last week when he pitched a no-hitter against Chicago in the season's opener. It was truly a marvelous exhibition. However in his next trip to the mound he was knocked out of the box by the Detroit Tigers. This performance brought on an avalanche of comments. Many of these comments originated right here in S. H. S. Most prominent of the critics were the Wukotich boys. It seems that for the first time in their young lives they agreed on something. That was that Feller was a bum. They say he won't win twenty games this year. They say that his no-hitter was just a freak performance. And they say that the Yanks of "Noo Yawk" will pin his ears back.

This is quite a mouthful for these two silent men of the gridiron to put out on any subject. But in the school there are others who do not think quite along the same lines as do the "Wugs". One of them, Al Freed, was very rash in his support of Feller. After that no-hitter Freed made a bet that Feller would not lose a game all year. Imagine his deep chagrin when the Tigers tagged him for six runs in three innings last Sunday.

Other supporters of Feller are Bill Theiss, famed hurler of the P. I.'s who should know what he is talking about. He says Feller will win 30 games in a row from now on. He's almost as bad as Freed.

Then there are Knepp and Kachner. They won't even mention Cleveland in the same breath with New York. They can't see how Feller has lasted in the league this long.

There is the situation. You probably have your own opinions of this illustrious young "feller" so I won't try to influence you one way or the other. If you really want to get the lowdown on the situation, though, see one of experts I have named above

Jake says. "There has been talk of 'the battle of the century' between the well known Perry Indians and the mighty P. A. C. If this great struggle should occur, don't miss it; 'The Boog' Lieder will probably pace the P. I. nine while J. W. Untch, up and coming young fire baller, will lend the Park outfit his support. Sol Matz, a very shrewd promoter, is trying to put this deal across."

There is what Jake has to say. But I might add that this game is a very remote possibility. One thing the Indians don't like to play away from Perry Stadium and the P. A. C. not consent to hold the tilt there due to the limited seating capacity. Then too, some of the more seasoned veterans of the Indian combine are still on the hold out lists. Possibly by mid season the city champs might be able to work in a game with the P. A. C. upstarts.

Notes on track:

Phil Cozad who showed definite promise last season, has reported for track. "Varsity Phil" ran the 440 last year and in all probability he will be out for the same event.

The other nite in practice "Bug". Mrs. Beck's little boy, heaved the olde shotte putte (wow!) 46 ft. 2 in. This is very good for this early in the season. A duplication of that feat in the district meet might very well earn for the big boy a ride to Columbus.

I looked in at a strenuous workout at the field last Monday. It consisted of about five fellows sprawled about on the grass listening to "Bub Shu" tell some tall tales. Then they all took a shower and staggered home. Tired out!

This new intramural golf program which the school is instigating is in my humble opinion, a swell idea. A lot of fellows who have always wanted to play golf will now be able to make a stab at it. The plan is very economical and should prove to be a big success. . . . Fore!

That should cover everything for today so I think I'll blow. Goo-by.

Brooding over one's troubles insures a good hatch.

The steam that makes the noise doesn't help to do any of the work.

Golf Is New Intra. Sport

A new sport has been added to the Salem High school intramural athletic program. The sport is golf. It will be under the able direction of Mr. Ted Jones.

Mr. Jones announced at the first of this week that 36 boys had answered the initial call for boys wishing to take part in intramural competition. These boys will be offered several advantages along with the opportunity to learn to improve their play. The Salem Golf Course has arranged for special rates to be given to students on certain days.

Mr. Jones also stated that the intramural golf program is open to any boy interested in golf, whether he is a beginner or a star. Golf is becoming a major activity in high schools all over the country. Authorities on physical and general education are advising that golf be a part of every athletic program because of the many advantages. A few of these facts are as follows:

(a) Golf provides a recreation for those who are not adapted physically to other sports.

(b) Golf is a sport that one can enjoy for it is not at all unusual for a man well over 70 to play golf.

(c) This is a sport which provides a spirit of competition at all times due to a system of handicapping.

(d) Golf is not a rich man's game now as it once was when the price of equipment was high. Now golf clubs are well within the reach of most students.

(e) Golf combines the keen interest of both team and individual play.

(f) Golf provides a valuable opportunity for contacts which often help a young man in his business or profession.

Aye! Tis been a long time since we've made talk together but the boss man says let 'er go, so here it comes.

Flash! This first item may be classed as a science oddity. When last heard from, "Shipwreck" Mouse McGee was still submerged in the icy waters of the Little Beaver Creek in an effort to shatter the underwater endurance record set by Bolly-Polly Yuhasz (the fat boy) in 1936.

The Mouse went under at hump-teen o'clock (his lucky number) last Monday and expects to come up at the same time today.

While he is reclining at the bottom of Leetle Beaver, Mouse is being fed two cigarette butts every hour by his manager and trainer, "Jake" Ritchie.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand when McGee comes up after his human fish act. A party is being planned in honor of the new record holder. P. S. Don't plan too hard, boys.

As evidenced by the tremendous response for the love-life problems, the heart status of the love birds must be pretty quiet. The grand sum total of one problem was submitted.

This particular problem was heart-rending in its dramatic appeal. I almost shed a tear as I read those pitiful lines. See if you do not feel the pangs of sorrow which this lover who isn't loved does.

The letter is as follows: Dear Prof, I am in a dickens of a mess. I like a boy a lot, but he has a very close friend who tells him exactly what to do; and he does it. If this friend, Mr. X., doesn't want my heart's desire to date me, he doesn't. This situation has me terribly perplexed as I like him and I wish he would like me. How can I get him away from Mr. X? Will you please give me some advice right away as I am on the verge of getting the nervous hives from worrying.

—Perplexed.

Sniff, sniff, it's a shame. Here is my advice. First of all, don't let him know you want him. Don't throw yourself at his feet, even though they are big enough targets they probably won't show the way to his heart. Second, play hard to get. The first twelve times he asks you to the slot machine races, refuse him.

Then the thirteenth time, (if he still wants to go by then) go with him, but first ask to take a girl friend along to keep you company. This will show him that you really care, that you cannot live without him and if he doesn't fall for you then, I would threaten to partake of the contents from the little black bottle with the skull and crossbones on it.

If that doesn't bring him to your waiting arms, you should go around singing, "What's the Matter With Me?" Of course your heart-throb, outspoken lad that he is, will tell you.

Oh gosh! I forgot that Secret Agent 676943125½ informed me that his heart belongs to another. That changes everything. I guess you're going to get that position in the orchestra, you know, second fiddle.

Don't mention it kid, you can do the same for me some day, you hope.

Before closing here's a special message just relayed to me from "Crab Apple" Bloor, world famous message relayer.

Jake says, "Mouse is going to stay down for another week. If anyone has any cigarette butts they don't want, a collection will be made tonight at the Corner. Come on folks, the poor kid is hungry. That is all."

20 Candidates Turn Out For Tennis Squad

At a recent meeting of all candidates for the tennis team, twenty boys turned out. Mr. Early told them about the equipment they must have and explained to them that he would have a ladder tournament going all during the season, the top five boys being the team and the others the squad. There will be a possible 18 games this season Mr. Early said. At present Carl Capel stands at the top of the ladder. Mr. Early planned to take the boys to Mill Creek park tennis courts last Saturday and then begin regular practice here at Centennial park the following Monday.

Later on, the Salem Country Club should be available to the net stars. Early has scheduled matches with Lisbon, Sebring, E. Palestine, Youngstown Rayen and several other schools. These matches will consist of one match there and one match here. Therefore, if the Salem boys win, they will have another chance to down their opponents and if they lose they will get the chance to come back and beat their adversaries.

There seems to be considerable interest in the game this season and the team would be a winner of quantity has anything to do with it. The early matches will be played at Centennial Park, and it is hoped that there will be many students following the boys to the courts to encourage and spur the team on to many victories.
