

Annual Sale Of Christmas Seals For T.B. Is On Now

Sale Began November 25; Will Continue Until Christmas Day; Worthy Cause Is Benefited

More cases of tuberculosis have been diagnosed during the past few years than ever before. The explanation is that clinics have been able to conduct tests on school children and adults, thus discovering many apparently well persons to be infected with the germ.

Most of these cases, when discovered soon enough, are curable within a short time. Therefore it is important to find the symptoms early.

That one factor alone, in cooperation with the modern methods of control has put the death rate from TB on a steady decline.

The holding of tuberculosis clinics is due largely to donations through the sale of Christmas seals. For the past thirty-four years, those who have contributed to this sale have saved the lives of many children and adults.

Again this year, health leaders all over the country, are urging your donations by purchasing Christmas seals in a drive which will continue until Christmas day.

The seals, designed by Felix Martini of Los Angeles, sell for a penny apiece, a small price for a great cause.

Buy and use Christmas seals. Help others not so fortunate.

Map Is Purchased For Studes' Use

The school has recently purchased a new physical and political map of Ohio. On it are shown the distribution of population, cities, villages and counties in the state. Also pictured are the glacial line and the small farming and grazing districts in the vicinity of Salem.

The map, six feet in length and four feet wide, will be placed in Mr. C. F. Schroeder's home room for the use of students in the physical and commercial geography courses.

Rowlands, Winner In Poster Contest

Tom Rowlands, freshman, was named first prize winner in the poster contest sponsored by the advertising committee for the senior class play. The first prize was two tickets to the theater and the second prize, won by Walter Schneider, junior, was one ticket to the theater. Thomas Berger, senior, was awarded honorable mention.

Juniors View Film

The first reel of a four reel moving picture showing events in the life of George Washington was shown to members of the junior class in an assembly in the auditorium last Friday morning.

The remaining three reels of the movie were then shown to the members of the American history classes.

1st Performance Given by Seniors

Final presentation of 'Lena Rivers' Will Go On Tonight

With a capacity crowd to witness it, the senior class gave its first presentation of "Lena Rivers" last night in the high school auditorium. The curtain went up at 8:15 and from then on the cast was on its own without the help of its director, Miss Violo Bodo. A matinee performance was presented to the Junior High school students Wednesday afternoon and the last performance will be given tonight.

The story of the play centers around the girl, Lena Rivers, and of her experiences when she goes to live with her uncle's family in the South.

Summer clothes are used as the time of the play is in the summer months.

Much credit for the splendid

4 Quaker Staff Members, Adviser, Attend Meeting

Leaving last Thursday morning and returning last Saturday afternoon, Mr. H. C. Lehman, editorial adviser; Robert Ballantine, editor; Irene White, business manager; Jack Atkinson of the editorial staff and Florence Hiltbrand of the business staff attended the nineteenth annual convention of the National Scholastic Press association in Cleveland as the representatives of the "Quaker."

1900 Delegates

The convention attracted approximately 1900 delegates, representing newspapers and yearbooks of schools in cities of 28 of the 48 states. Newspaper delegates were quartered at the Hotel Cleveland and yearbook delegates at the Hotel Statler. Although this was one of the smallest groups ever to attend a national convention of the group, officials stated that it was one of the best meetings ever held by the N. S. P. A.

Thursday night a general meeting was held in the Music Hall of the Cleveland Public auditorium, where delegates heard a program by the a Capella choir of Cleveland Heights High school and a speech by Mr. H. R. Knickerbocker, widely-known foreign correspondent. Following the program there was informal dancing on the stage of the Music Hall.

Round Table Discussion

Friday morning and afternoon were taken up with meetings and round table discussions. Mr. Lehman was in charge of a meeting on creative writing and Miss White discussed the Association plan as Miss Arlite Smith will speak to the student body at an Association assembly next Wednesday.

Debaters Attend Columbus Meeting

Five members of the Salem High school debate squad accompanied by their coach, Mr. J. C. Guller, are attending the annual Ohio High School Speech League clinic being held on the campus of Ohio State university at Columbus, Ohio, today and tomorrow. Those attending are Herbert Hansell, Elliott Hansell, Mary Ciricosta, Karl Theiss and Ruth Sinsley.

On the program today the legal, economic and political aspects of the question being used by high school debaters this year will be discussed. Professor Arthur T. Martin, Dean of the Law school at Ohio State will discuss the legal aspects. The economic points of the question will be taken up by Professor Gordon Hayes of the economics department at the university. The head of the political science department at Ohio State, Professor Harvey Walker, will discuss the political aspects.

To Attend Banquet

A banquet will be held tonight in Pomerene Hall, at which Dr. A. T. Weaver, one of the nation's outstanding speech men and head of the department of speech at the University of Wisconsin, will speak. The banquet will be followed by a debate between teams from Ohio State and the University of Indiana. Dr. Weaver will be critic and judge of this debate and will give a critical analysis of it following it.

Saturday morning the debaters will participate in two practice de-

Miss Arlite Smith, champion swimmer and diver, will speak to association members at an assembly next Wednesday afternoon on the subject, "What Price Championship?"

Although she has been diving since childhood, Miss Smith did not seriously enter competition until 1935. From that time until the present she has achieved three national championships. The champion, however, retired while still holding the title because her talks before high school students have ranked her as a professional.

Miss Smith will also present a special motion picture showing herself and leading American divers doing their specialties.

Case Coach Talks At Grid Banquet

Last Wednesday evening the football team was honored with a banquet at the Memorial building, with Coach Ray Ride of Case School of Applied Science as the main speaker. There were approximately 100 present at the feast, with school board members, male faculty members and other guests present.

Music was furnished by Fred Smith, pianist; and the singing was led by Mr. J. P. Olloman of the high school faculty. Mr. A. E. Beardmore of the school board gave a short talk and Mr. H. M. Williams, principal of Salem High school; Mr. R. B. Clarke and Mr. A. V. Henning of the faculty also gave short speeches. Coach Carl Schroeder gave a talk, which was followed by the main address by the athletic director and coach at Case, Ray Ride.

Ride played football at Washington and Jefferson college as a tackle. He scored a touchdown against Pitt, the only one of his career, when he blocked a punt, recovered it and ran for a touchdown, helping defeat Pitt, 10-0. He later coached at this school for two years before coming to Case, where he has been for 11 years. He showed movies of several Case games, also.

The menu featured roast turkey with all the trimmings.

Those attending, besides school board members, male faculty members and guests, were members of the varsity, reserve and junior varsity squads and managers.

A Gift of Orchids

"Give credit where credit is due," is an old adage. For this reason the senior play cast and their director should be given orchids, roses or anything you have.

Let's help them, fellow students. How? Why by coming on time so as not to distract anyone's attention from the play by a late and boisterous entrance.

Let's determine not to talk during the enacting of the play, or whistle when our best friend comes on the stage.

To the seniors: We know that with your hard work and our co-operation your play will be the success you intended it to be. Congratulations.

Why Read the TRASH?

Reaching in the desk a small sophomore pulls out a magazine entitled "Love Life of Heartless Hazel" or "Why I Left the Farm."

These dime novels that some of the students have been reading are not worth the paper that they are printed on, and that is REALLY cheap.

Knowing the fine reading material that we have at our command in both the school and public library, is it not a shame that the students waste their time on trashy literature?

A Fancy Turns

With the coming of winter and snow a young man's fancy lightly turns to throwing snowballs.

Snowballing is fun for the participants of the fight but stray balls often make it uncomfortable for bystanders. Often a person is hit in the face or on the back of the neck.

Persons who throw snowballs should find a field where they can throw to their heart's content without bothering or injuring anyone.

Many "Jalopies" Decorate School

This literary gem is dedicated to those capitalists who have skimped and saved penny by penny enough to say that they are the proud possessor of a "jalopy."

Deserving top honors is R. B. Clarke's unseen and unheard of heap of junk which sits in his garage year after year. Believe it or not it's a Maxwell and he claims it is as good and sounds better than Benny's.

That fresh air job of Val Moga's is quite the business even if it does have to be coaxed now and then.

Francis Horning's contraption serves a mighty purpose for without it Fran couldn't cart Lorraine Adams around.

Prof. Jones wants it openly declared that he does too own an automobile even though it isn't worth prying in to the mechanical apparatus every morning just to save some shoe leather.

After a spectacular journey between Salem and Wellsville several weeks ago in two hours and 45 minutes flat to witness a game, J. C. Guiler, debate coach, very seriously considered the trip to Columbus. But Mr. Guiler states quote, "I believe with adequate supplies and by starting, say, around 5:00 a. m. I will be able to reach Columbus in sufficient time." Unquote.

The only argument FE-2 can put up is that he has to come at 7:00 a. m. to find a place to park. Happy Motoring!

Fire Nearly Ruins Old "Alma Mater"

A fire, which started in a wastebasket on the first floor of the south wing, almost destroyed the stately walls of dear old Salem High school a week ago.

The fire, it is believed, started when a student, playing the part of a practical joker, threw a lighted match into the wastebasket. Students, who were gathered in the hall, saw flames leap into the air and they watched bits of burned paper float toward the ceiling. One intelligent student picked up a bottle, filled it with water and threw the water on the blazing fire. Thus the building was saved from a fire, and much to the disappointment of many students, no doubt.

SPORT SLANTS

BY RABBIT

Greetings, Readers,

First of all this week, this column wants to congratulate the four members of the Quaker football team who won all-county honors along with four Wellsville and three East Liverpool gridders.

"Buster" Wukotich was again chosen fullback on the squad and was ably held up by brother, Mel, George Baillie and Carroll Greene.

Was that football banquet a success? Ask anyone who was there and see what answer you get. Appetites were above par, believe me.

The basketball squad is really going to work in preparation for that schedule opener at Youngstown Chaney's new gym, December 13. The following evening the squad journeys to Lisbon to meet the Blue Devils from that fair city. Lisbon ought to thank the stars that their basketball team is slightly better than their football squad.

Going back to the football banquet, Ray Ride, coach and athletic director at Case School of Applied Science, played his football at Washington and Jefferson college when its teams were really good. He scored the only touchdown of his career against a tough Pitt team after blocking and recovering a punt. By the way, he was a good tackle.

After a hasty interview with basketball coach, Herbert Brown, your reporter hastily condenses the material for you. He has already told his players that every position on the first string is wide open. Even lettermen are not sure of their slots. He also stated that there may not be a regular first team the whole season. After looking over the Quakers tough cage card, he hesitatingly picked Coshocton as the real tough team on the schedule. Later he added Alliance, Dover, East Liverpool, Youngstown Rayen, Youngstown South and Warren to his list. He is very uncertain about the remaining "fives" with Niles as the question mark. He pointed out that some teams have already opened their seasons, with Sebring defeating Struthers and other teams on our schedule opening tonight. Nomination for nickname of the week:

Walt Bolinger who has been dubbed "Bulldog" by his many friends (?). For the life of me I can't figure out why, because he isn't in the least vicious. (I hope). Then there's George Baillie, who picks up a new tag every time he turns around. Ditto, Ray Lowry.

"Lefty" Fritz Schmid refuses to make a long range prediction on the first basketball game as he did on the Sebring football game, which he missed by 49 points.

You ought to see the football players relax since football practice is over. No early hours, no training rules and lots of spare time.

But here, I've taken too much of their and your spare time. Spend that time studying. Novel, "doncha" think? Well, anyway, I quit. So till next time, So long

Four Salem Grid Players Attain All-County Team

Marvin, Melvin Wukotich, Greene, Baillie Are Named to Squad

Four Salem High boys were chosen on the first team of the Columbiana county football team last week, along with four players from Wellsville and three from East Liverpool. The Salem lads chosen are Marvin "Buster" Wukotich, Melvin Wukotich, Carroll Greene, and George Baillie.

Marvin has been chosen fullback on the all-county team three years in succession. Melvin has made the team two years. Baillie and Greene are celebrating their first year as all-countians.

Marvin was chosen because of his value to his team as a ball-carrier and passer. Melvin was picked to hold down a tackle job, although he did not play at the position the whole year. George Baillie was chosen as the quarterback of the team because of his signal-calling and his knack of receiving passes. Greene was undoubtedly picked because he can punt and due to his value on the defensive.

On the second team, Salem was represented by Ward "Beef" Zeller, Frank "Pinky" King, Arthur Chappell, Robert Scullion and Robert Malloy.

These boys were just nosed out of first string positions. Only "Pinky" King will get a chance to make the squad next year since the other three are graduating this year while King is only a junior.

Thus is the Red and Black represented on the All-County team. May they have as many or more on the team next year.

the band, stated that the dance, the high-light of the Christmas vacation, is semi-formal, and is open to high school students as well as alumni

5 Lettermen Returning For Salem Cage Season

Cozad, Jaeger, Ritchie, Thomas, Umberger Are Back; Four Newcomers Are On Quaker 1940-41 Schedule

The Salem High school basketball season got under way when practice sessions began November 25 at the high school gymnasium. The Quaker cagers are looking forward to a successful year. Five lettermen have returned to bolster the squad. They are Phil Cozad, Robert Jaeger, Robert Ritchie, Mike Thomas and Robert Umberger. Although these boys boast plenty of experience, Coach Herbert Brown states that they will be battled plenty for the starting assignments.

Taking on four new foes this year, the Quakers will tangle with 16 different high schools and also with the Salem Alumni. Niles, Coshocton, Cambridge and Sebring are the newcomers to the Salem schedule. On January 3, the Salem team will journey to Coshocton where they will play and then meet Cambridge the next night. This trip is to be the highlight of the season. Both Coshocton and Cambridge turn out stellar teams each year.

There are several fine prospects from last year's reserve team. Promising candidates for backcourt duty are Ray McGaffic, Jim Armeni, Carl Capel, Walt Miller and John Volio, who are all upper-classmen. Ed Fisher and Dick Culberson, sophomores, are showing up well in practice. Bob Scullion is a newcomer to the Quaker five and should be included in this group. Robert Jaeger, Robert Ritchie, Robert Ruffing and Robert Umberger are boys being tried at corners and who are showing talent. Phil Cozad, and George Baillie are try-outs for the pivot position.

The complete squad of players working out at the time of this writing are Jaeger, Scullion, Miller, Thomas, Guappone, Ritchie, Buckman, Volio, Capel, Culberson, Ruffing, Armeni, Baillie, Fisher, McGaffic, Umberger, Frost and Cozad,

Letters to Editor

Why Not??

Dear Editor:

There was an assembly November 28. A very interesting assembly I have been told. I wouldn't know because I didn't have the privilege of attending and hearing the speaker. The assembly was just for juniors and seniors — no freshmen or sophomores.

Now, I don't have exact details as to why there were no underclassmen at the assembly, but, like the rest of the students, I have my own ideas. Perhaps they think the underclassmen make too much noise. Well, in connection with this point just take a minute to stop and consider who did all the whistling, hooting and cheering at the last Association assembly. You will realize that most of the noise came from the middle and left hand sections — UPPERCLASSMEN. Of course a few freshmen and sophomores whistled too. Not to be outdone by the upperclassmen they attempted to make themselves heard. All to no avail. They just didn't stand a chance of being heard above the clatter of the more prominent members of the student body—the upper half—considered the better half—the half that's supposed to know better than to act like they did.

The assembly was about meteorites—astronomy in other words. Now who is it in the school that studies astronomy? The general science classes—that's right. A class for freshmen, not juniors or seniors. The biology classes would have profited by the lecture too, and who takes biology? A few juniors, the majority of the class members being sophomores. Therefore the freshmen and sophomores would have profited from the assembly just as much as the juniors and seniors—and probably more—but they weren't permitted to attend.

WHY NOT?

Cold or Hot?

Dear Editor:

A week or so ago an editorial appeared in the Quaker about colds and their prevalence among high school students. It is no wonder there are so many colds in Salem High school!

First, a student is in a room where he practically roasts and then the next room he goes into is like a barn. After alternating from cold to hot all day, it certainly takes the hale and hearty student to resist that little unfilterable virus, the cold germ.

It is also twice as hard for a student to keep his mind on studying when at the same time he is wishing for a warm coat.

Now $ ask you, can't someone do something to remedy the situation?

A Shivering Student

Spanish Classes To Get Magazine

Miss Mildred Hollett, Spanish teacher, is making it possible for Spanish I and II students to purchase the December issue of "Selecciones", the Readers Digest in Spanish.

Each month the most suitable articles from the regular English-language edition are translated into Spanish and printed in "Selecciones" in addition to significant material from leading Latin-American publications.

The magazine, selling for fifteen cents, has nothing to do with the classroom recitation and is to be used only for out-of-school reading.

Teachers Join 100%

Again this year the members of the Salem High school faculty have joined the Red Cross 100 per cent. The drive was conducted in the high school last week and all teachers subscribed to the organization which each year aids so many people throughout the world when a catastrophe hits them.

For the last several years the faculty has had 100 per cent membership in this drive.

Jr. High News

The Junior High boys and girls attended the matinee of "Lena Rivers," senior class play, last Wednesday afternoon.

The Junior High orchestra furnished the music for the performance of the senior play last night and will play between the acts and preceding the play again tonight.

The "Quakerette" staff consists of 22 members this year. They have chosen for their leaders, editor, Jim Kelly; assistant editor, Bill Buehler; business managers, Paul Rohrer and Jim Gibbs. The staff is starting work on the Christmas issue.

All the material that you have seen in the showcase is now available in the library. Don't procrastinate. Come one, come all, make your Christmas holidays happy ones.

Girls Learning Dancing In Gym

Gone are those carefree days for tame girls in the gym classes. No longer may the onlooker see the shy freshman sneak to the back of the line when his team is at bats. Mary Byers hitting a ball worthy of a home run and being too surprised to move or "Home run" Dorothy Brobender swinging viciously and creating nothing but a breeze can no longer be observed. Neither can one watch them pushing each other in the face or being "grounded" under the weight of the ball while attempting to volley it across the net. If the bystander looks toward the door to the outside he will not see two or three individuals trying to sneak out while the instructor is preoccupied. "Well, then, what are they doing anyhow?" Look for yourself. To the tune of the piano they are gracefully dancing on one another's toes.

At Convention

used in Salem High school at a round table discussion.

Approximately 1400 delegates attended the banquet held in the grand ball room of the Hotel Statler, Friday evening. The master of ceremonies was Thurman "Dusty" Miller, who appeared at Salem High school in an assembly last year. The banquet was followed by dancing to music by Clint Nobel and his orchestra.

Ohio delegates attended a breakfast meeting of the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools in the Hotel Cleveland Saturday morning. At this meeting winners in the writing contest sponsored by the association were announced.

Following the final round table discussion of the convention, held Saturday morning, a general meeting was held in the Music Hall, at which Mr. Sydney Montague, a northwest mountie, spoke. Following this the convention was adjourned, and delegates began to make preparations for returning to their homes all over the United States.

This is the first year that there have been any student representatives at the national convention of the N. S. P. A. However, Mr. Lehman attended the 1938 meeting at Indianapolis, Indiana and Mr. R. W. Hilgendorf was at the 1939 convention in Chicago.

History Students Attend Conference

Four social science students from Salem High school attended the Northeastern Ohio High school convention on American Defense held at Mount Union college last Saturday morning. They are Basil Karlis and Paul McGaffic, from Mr. A. V. Henning's American history classes and Charles Kille and Alice Ruth Vincent from Mr. J. C. Guiler's American government classes.

The students took part in the discussions, "The Mobilization of Men and Machines," with Professor W. A. Mabry serving as chairman, and "The United States and the British Empire," the chairman of which was Professor George A. Cribbs.
