Sophomores Pick Colors For Class

Red and blue are the colors chosen by the members of the sophomore class last Monday to serve as their class colors for the rest of their high school years. Three different sets of colors were selected by a committee of sophomores and were put on display in all the sophomore home rooms. Last Monday they voted as to which set of colors they desired.

The main use of class colors in the decorating scheme at class parties or other events where a symbol representative of the class must be used.

The three sets of colors submitted to the class by the committee, composed of Herbert Gross, chairman, Barbara Brian, Gene McArthur, Alfred Volio and Loraine Adams, were: Blue and gold, purple and gold, and red and blue.

The seniors have blue and gold as their colors while the juniors have red and white. The traditional colors, which all freshman classes use, are green and white.

Schoolmen's Club Meets At Salem

Largest Crowd Ever to Attend Is Present At Meeting Here

Approximately 93 men teachers from Columbiana County, were present at the fall meeting of the Columbiana County Schoolmasters' club meeting, which was held in the biology recitation room and in the dining room adjoining the home economics department, last Thursday night. This is the largest number ever to be present at one of these meetings.

Miss Leah Morgan, home economics instructress, and girls from the cooking classes arranged the tables, and cooked and served the dinner. Members were entertained by a trumpet trio, composed of Bill Merry, of the class of 1940, Bob Enriken and John Botu, juniors. The trio was accompanied by Miss Betty Merry, a sophomore.

Later Dr. H. S. Purdom spoke on the subject, "Guidance." Dr. Purdom is head of the department of guidance and personnel at the University of Michigan.

After the program, those present inspected the new wing of the high school and the new kitchen.

It had been planned to use only the biology recitation room for serving, from which the desks had been removed, but due to the large crowd it was necessary to use the dining room also.

Education Week Is Observed In Salem

Many parents visited the classrooms of Salem public schools during the past week, which was Ohio Education week.

The elementary schools designated Tuesday as visiting day, while the Junior High school set aside Wednesday for parents to visit.

Parents were invited to visit the classes at the high school any time during the week.

Visiting day has become an annual affair in the Salem schools, for on that day it is possible for parents, who visit the schools, to become acquainted with the teachers and understand better what the schools are doing.

The couple are making their home at Athens, Ohio.

Salem High School Receiver Of Scroll

The National Knute Rockne Week Game association of 1940 has awarded Salem High school a scroll for its victory in football over Wellsville a week ago last Friday.

Knute Rockne was graduated from Notre Dame in 1913, during which year he was chosen by Walter Camp as an All-American end. Rockne and Gus Dorais are generally credited for having perfected the use of the forward pass. Rockne was later called to Notre Dame to become coach, a post which he held until 1931, when the world heard the news that the great "Rock" had been killed in an airplane crash.

Coach Carl Schroeder, of Salem High school, has this to say of Rockne, "I attended Rockne's Summer Coaching school in 1928 and I found him to be one of the most admirable men I've ever met."

The scroll, which is about 18 inches long and 12 inches wide, will be framed and placed in the trophy case.

Procedure Class Has 2 Meetings

Class, Club Officers Meet To Learn Principles Of Parliamentary Law

To discuss the duties of club and class officers was the purpose of the first meeting of the training class in parliamentary procedure, held last Friday morning for all club and class officers in Salem High school. The class is in charge of Mr. H. M. Williams, principal.

The fact that the officers were elected by the class and club members, making it a privilege to hold such a position, was emphasized by Williams. He also stated that full cooperation, time and effort, and intelligent leadership is expected from the officers. Mr. Williams suggested that if a club does not have a constitution it should appoint a committee to form one.

"A Primer of Parliamentary Law," published by the Woman's Press of New York City, is among the material being used in the classes. The booklet gives in concise form the most essential points to be considered in conducting the business meeting of a club.

A bibliography of magazines and books, arranged by Miss Lois Lehman, school librarian, has been placed on reserve in the library for the use of officers.

The class met again last Tuesday for drill on parliamentary procedure. They meet in the morning from eight to eight forty-five o'clock.

Drama Class Makes Costumes For Play

Members of the dramatics classes are making costumes and accessories for members of the cast of "The Last Curtain" which will represent Salem High school at the annual district drama festival in Kent, November 22 and 23.

The time of the play is at the end of the Civil War, the night that Lincoln was assassinated. The dramatics classes are making hats for the girls, in the style of that period, sleeve garters, shoestring ties, vests, for the men, and high-starched collars. They will also make the dresses that the female members of the cast will wear in the play.

Seniors Run Stand At Football Game

For the first time this season the senior class had charge of the refreshment stand at the football game last Friday night.

Due to the lack of interest shown by the seniors last year, the Hi-Tri club has been allowed to run the stand this year. However, the seniors again took over the stand at the game last week.

The morning session will begin at nine o'clock at the Cleveland Public Auditorium. The Cleveland orchestra, conducted by Rudolph Ringwell, will entertain with several numbers, after which talks by Dr. E. J. Ashbaugh, president of the Ohio Education association, and Barclay Acheson, associate-editor of Readers' Digest, will be given.

Mr. Ashbaugh's topic will be "Building a Profession", and Mr. Acheson will speak on, "Freedom, the Mental Climate of Progress."

In the afternoon, there will be forty-five departmental meetings covering all areas of schoolwork.

The Orpheus Male Chorus, directed by Dr. Charles Dawe, will present several musical selections at the evening general session, which will start at eight o'clock. Father E. J. Flanagan, of Boys' Town, Nebraska, will be the speaker at the evening session.

Approximately 12,000 teachers from northeastern Ohio will be in attendance at the meeting. There is no school tomorrow throughout this section of the state.

At the afternoon departmental meeting of drama and speech teachers, the play "The Gypsy", which won first place at the district dramatic festival at Kent last spring, will be presented.

Ruth West Appears In Play At College

Miss Ruth West, graduate of Salem High school in the class of 1940, enacted the leading female role in the play, "The Whole Town's Talking", presented by the freshman theater group at Kent State university, in performances last Thursday and Friday night.

Miss West was outstanding in her dramatic work while attending Salem High school and was judged the most outstanding actress, in high school dramatics, in the state of Ohio at the state drama festival in Cleveland last spring.

Several members of the Thespian club, of which Miss West was president last year, had planned to attend the play, but were unable to go. However, members of the club sent a bouquet of flowers to Miss West at Kent.

2 French Classes See Foreign Film

Members of the first and second year French classes viewed the French movie, "Katia," starring Danielle Darrieux and John Loder at Alliance last Tuesday. This movie, which tells the story of how Katia, uncrowned queen of Czar Alexander II, shaped the destiny of the Russian empire, was sponsored by the French department of Mount Union college at Alliance.

A Message To Girls

The Hi-Tri club, for a number of years, has been more or less an honor society for girls. The requirements are for a B average or above. This system, however, eliminates many girls who are fully worthy of a chance for membership in a well-formed organization of this kind.

Several girls, on being asked, have declared that they would be in the Hi-Tri if it weren't for just one grade. This seems too bad for them if they care for that kind of club, and something should be done about it.

In many large cities, instead of Hi-Tri's etc., they have an organization called the Girl Reserves. This body does many things like the Hi-Tri, but it does not have as high a grade requirement for membership as does the Hi-Tri.

Girl Reserves are usually in connection with a Y. W. C. A., and they do many things to help the school and individual girls.

If there are many girls in S. H. S. who think that they would like a club like that, do something about it. There is an old saying, "Nothing ventured, nothing gained."

Respecting The Flag

This fall storekeepers all over the country are featuring ornaments and clothing made to resemble our American flag. This campaign has been overwhelmingly successful, due partly to the patriotic wave which is sweeping the United States.

At the national flag conference held in Washington, D. C. some time ago, under the auspices of the American Legion, it was decreed that: "The flag should not be used as a decoration. Neither should it be used as a portion of a costume, nor embroidered upon cushions or handkerchiefs."

This apparently has not entered into the minds of those who wear blouses made of the American flag.

Let us be one school to have enough respect and honor toward our flag to be able to resist the attractive store displays. It is up to each one of us to keep the American flag a sacred object and an honored symbol of all which our great democracy represents.

Sadie Attends the Hi-Tri Initiation

Well, here I am again, studes. Remember me, old Sadie Suchtrap? I have another narrative to relate to you. This time it is about the Hi-Tri initiation that I got into.

I tramped down to the gym Tuesday night and arrived promptly at 7:30. If I hadn't, I don't know what would have happened. After all the new and old members were assembled, they began on us poor human beings.

After that they asked us questions that simply did not have any answers, such as: "What was the name of the first man mentioned in the Bible?" After much guessing and many point put against me, they tell the answer. Know what it is? Chap I. Get it? If you laughed, they put points against you. I had so many against me that I could have passed for a porcupine. They also made me carry a bar of soap across the floor balanced on a knife, while I had one arm behind me. I still think that is practically impossible.

After this informal initiation, they had a very nice formal one. Oh, my, what we go through to enter a club! I would do it all over again if I could, however.

Ferdy Almost Has A Red Letter Day

Ferdy got up on Wednesday morning feeling fresh as a daisy. Then he suddenly realized that he was in for a hangover—a hangover from six weeks of idling in school—in other words his report card.

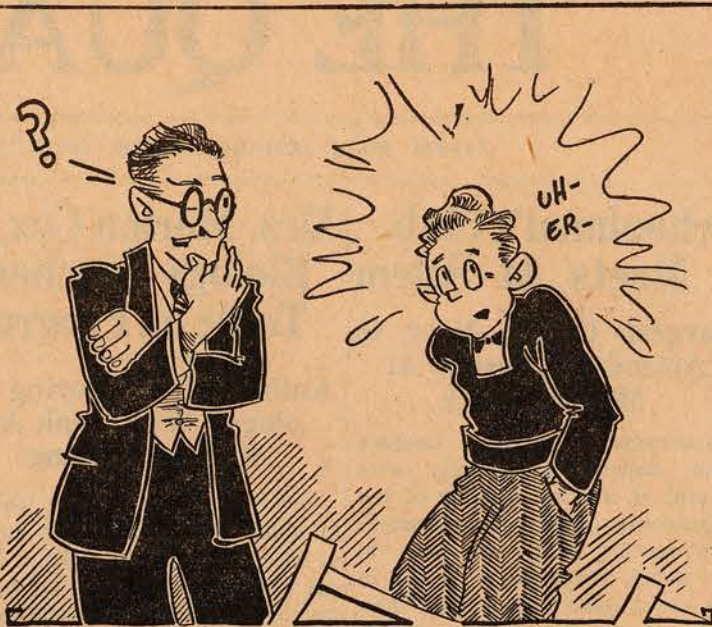

Today the teachers would pass out these fatal slips of carboard—one to each pupil in the school. There was one thing to be thankful for, however, at least there was only one of them.

Yes, sir, this certainly was a red letter day for Ferdy.

Wouldn't it be swell if the school would burn down or if a hurricane would blow it away—report cards and all? These were Ferdy's thoughts as he ambled along to school.

Finally noon rolled around and all the students sat waiting for their report cards. Ferdy received his and slyly peeked in the envelope. All C's. No red marks.

Ferdy didn't know what that "benefit of the doubt" was, that the teacher was telling them about, but it certainly must be something swell, for deep down in his heart Ferdy had a feeling that the teacher had passed some of it on to him.

THE TIME WHEN YOU HAD COUNTED OUT THE CLASS TO SEE WHICH QUESTION YOU WOULD HAVE TO ANSWER, AND THE FELLOW IN FRONT OF YOU DIDN'T KNOW HIS.

Viv's Verbal Ventures

This issue is dedicated to my dear little brother with out whose constant help and encouragement this column would have been written in half the time.

Who's that cute little child,
Drives our little "Bill" wild?
If you ask him, he's bound to declare,
"It's the girl, what a girl, with the pigtails in her hair."

Yes, it was a sad day for all when "Wild Bill" Mullins banked up his right walkin' leg and was thus eliminated from the marching band. And Janie (Le'go 'a my braids) Sprout was by no means the only mourner, but as far as William was concerned she was.

FOR BIGGER AND BETTER AMMUNITION—"SEE-BISQÜITS"— BY CLARK

Young Mart Clark, having learned to make super-super bisquits in cooking class, dashed madly home after school and tried serving the same dish to her family. Somehow or other they just didn't seem to appreciate them (reasons obvious) and they told her so. Humiliated by this direct snub, she sniffled, and trying to hold back the tears, "I cook and slave for you and what do I get?—nothing!" "You're lucky, we get indigestion," was the reply.

THE GENERAL ATTITUDE

His Sister—"His nose seems broken. . . think of the doctor bill, and I did so want that new dress."
His Fiancee—"And he's lost his front teeth! . . . isn't he a mess! . . . Now Marge has the best lookin' guy in the crowd."
His Father—"But he didn't drop that ball! He's just like his Pa."

He's a rouge salesman.

Profiles

MARTHA CLARK

Martha Clark, who is nicknamed "Mart" by her friends, is this week's personality girl—and we do mean personality. She is well liked among her classmates and will enact the part of Granny in the senior play. As to her favorite sport, Mart wields a mean tennis racquet. After graduation she plans to attend Hood college and study drawing.

MARVIN WUKOTICH

Marvin Wukotich, superman of the Salem High gridiron, is also known as "Buster". He claims his pet diversion is football, with baseball running a close second. Marvin has no particular hobby outside of sports. He plans to attend college after graduation, but he has not decided definitely on any one school. While in college "Buster" will study physical training to prepare for a career of football coaching.

Letters to Editor

School Song

Dear Editor:

You're a part of Salem High school now, Freshies! Don't you think it's about time you're learning the school song?

In the last pep assembly, I don't know how many students noticed, but there were very few persons, sitting in the balcony that looked like they knew what it was all about.

The school song is part of our school and should be known by every student attending the noble institution, seniors, juniors and sophomores as well as freshmen.

Couldn't the Drive-On-Song be taught in the freshman English classes or home rooms so that freshmen could get the correct words to our school song.

AN INTERESTED ONE.

Faculty Pictures

Dear Editor:

Looking over some of the old annuals brings back the memories of the year when we were green freshmen, who had just come into S. H. S. Now we are seniors, who are spending our last year in high school. While viewing these old annuals, one naturally comes upon the faculty, but if he looks at a more-up-to-date annual he sees the same pictures of the faculty as appeared five or ten years ago.

If we are to leave high school with our annuals as a memory of our high school days, why can't we have a good picture of our former teachers. Although some teachers have new pictures taken every two or three years, some others use old ones that do not look much like the present teachers of S. H. S.

Come along, teachers, be good sports and get new pictures taken along with the seniors.

SPORT SLANTS

BY RABBIT

Greetings Readers:

First of all this week, we will relate a little incident which happened in Cleveland a week ago Sunday. It seems that a group of Salem lads went to that city to take in a "pro" football game. They were in the public square when they suddenly missed "Mouse" McGee, eminent Quaker football manager. They looked about them hastily and lo and behold, they spied "Mouse" stroking the whiskers on the statue of Moses Cleveland, who founded that city. Just thought I'd pass this tale on. It was too good to keep.

It's supposed to be the truth—so help me

Let's look and see how Salem's future opponents fared in grid battles over the weekend. Dover's Crimson rolled over an outclassed Urichsville team, 30-7. The Petrello brothers led the Dover lads in scoring with each making a touchdown. Barberton defeated Akron Garfield, 14-6. Youngstown East, you know, faces the Wellsville Tigers in the near future. Canton McKinley Bulldogs were too much for the Alliance Aviators, who were defeated, 25-0.

The Barberton Magics, whom the Quakers face next week, have a gentleman named Blinn on their team, who boots their points after touchdowns. So far this year he has made good on 15 out of 18 for a mighty good average.

Two teams which the Quakers have faced this season are still undefeated. They are Sebring's Trojans and the Potters from East Liverpool. Each lengthened its string of victories over the weekend, Sebring with a 13-7 win over East Palestine and the Potters eking out a 13-12 decision over Girard.

Note: "Buster" Wukotich's three touchdowns scored in the Lisbon clash runs his season's total up to 57 points scored in six games.

Last Sunday, the Gusto Grove's in-the-groove eleven played a football game at Reilly stadium with H. H. and H. Ehrhart leading the scoring and calling a wonderful game from his quarterback post. The highlight of the game was Ehrhart's 80 yard run for a score after taking a pass on his own 20 yard stripe.

That Wukotich to Baillie passing combine was an outstanding feature of that game last week. This aerial combination clicked no less than nine times. One pass was good for a point after a touchdown. The others helped put the ball in scoring position. One was good for a score giving Baillie 7 points for the evening.

Speaking of George, Gloria Gibson says he looks like "Tornado Tom" Harmon, Michigan's All-American back, when he rolls up his sleeves to go to work. "Gibby" wants you all to know that this is original, no less.

A new face broke into the scoring column for Salem when "Cyclone Carmen" Nocera scored his first touchdown of the year in the last period. You're in, Carmen, ole boy.

Our boys showed real offensive power when they gained some 450 yards from the line of scrimmage. The opposition might have had something to do with it, however. The team again showed their defensive strength when the Blue Devils drove to the 5 yard marker in the second quarter. The squad held them for four downs and then took over, getting out of the danger zone.

A queer quirk of the game showed "Al" Hansell in the ball game when it was really "Blondy" Leslie in "Al's" suit. Thus "Al" got credit for the work "Blondy" was doing. Anyhow, nice game, both of you.

Our boys will go to Dover's brother act one better tomorrow night because we have two brother acts. Both Petrellas from Dover play in the starting backfield of the Crimson Tide. This columnist thinks that the "Wuks" and Noceras will be too much for the Dover boys too swallow. Our boys ought to take 'em. I'll say, 13-0.

Don Freed differs on that point and claims the Quakers will outdo the Crimson by 20-6.

"Slats" Entriken says, "The boys will win".

With these numerous items taken care of, it is time to quit. So, with kindest regards and regrets, this columnist leaves you 'til next time.

Congratulations to Frank Quinn who finished 14th in a field of 70 in the district cross-country meet at Akron last Saturday.

So Long.

Salem Gridders Romp Over Blue Devils, 31 To 7

Quakers Down Lisbon's Grid Squad For Fourth Win Of This Season

Unleashing their strongest offensive attack of the year, the Salem High Quakers downed Lisbon's Blue Devils, 31-7, at Reilly stadium last Friday night. The Quakers gained their fourth victory of the season by defeating a comparatively weak, but gallant Lisbon High squad.

The Salem eleven gained consistently on both aerial and running attacks. It was Marvin "Buster" Wukotich who led the Quakers to their third consecutive win. Wukotich scored three touchdowns during the course of the game. Carmen Nocera and George Baillie also tallied for Salem.

Salem received the opening kickoff and marched within scoring distance. The Schroedermen scored on a pass from Marvin Wukotich to Baillie to put them ahead 6-0. The try for the extra point failed on an attempted end sweep.

Lisbon's drive into Salem territory was halted by a pass interception and the Quakers tallied when "Buster" Wukotich plunged over, climaxing a return journey from the Lisbon 28 yard stripe. A pass from Marvin Wukotich to Baillie netted the extra point and brought the score to 13-0.

Salem opened the half with a kick to the Blue Devil's 20 yard line, which was returned approximately 15 yards. Salem then scored its third touchdown when a Lisbon kick was partially blocked on the 40, from where the Quakers drove to pay dirt and another score for Wukotich. Salem scored again in the third and in the fourth periods on runs by Marvin Wukotich and

Dover Grid Team Invades Salem for Game Tomorrow

"Dad's Night" Will Be Observed At Game; Cross Country Team Will Hold Meet During Half

The Crimson Tornado from Dover will invade Reilly Stadium, to play Salem High's Quaker football eleven tonight under the lights. Dover will be out to avenge a 7-0 defeat at the hands of the Quakers last year. The game will feature an evening of events. Dad's Night will bring a representative of nearly everyone of the Salem gridders. The Dads will be at the sidelines and will be introduced at the half. Along with these attractions the Salem Cross Country team will hold a meet between halves.

Dover, fresh from a 20-7 victory over Urichsville, will meet the Quakers on even terms. Barberton, the two teams, common enemy, has yet to face the Salem eleven but has defeated Dover 20-0.

The Crimson attack is reported to be inferior to that of last year in both offense and defense. The Dover offense is led by D. and V. Petrella. While the defense is headed by Captain Moore, playing left guard.

For Salem it will be a much more experienced team on the field than last week. Art Chappel, former end who was converted to halfback, is now tried and experienced at his new post. If injuries keep Volio, Scullion, Greene and DiAntonio out of action in the greater part of the game their replacements will possess a little more polish.

The Quakers vastly improved offense will give them a slight edge over Dover when the two teams clash tomorrow night.

Sophs Winners Of "Tug o' War"

Ten gallant representatives of the sophomore class reigned as "champs" of the "tug-of-war" after their one-sided victory over the frosh last Friday night. Before the Lisbon-Salem game the two teams appeared in the center of the field. The object was for one team to pull the other ten yards, or over the 40 yard line.

To start this classic, the sophomores trotted into a huddle and dug two tiny holes (3 feet deep) and anchored Paul Brooks, who was at the anchor position. It was a shame for the class of '42 to go to the trouble, for Paul didn't even think of moving. The sophomores started out with a short pull that got the freshmen into motion (the wrong way of course). From that point on, the sophomore aggregation had things all its own way, for it took only about a minute and twenty seconds to perform the task.

Proudly parading off the field the sophomores were very well pleased, for their win had brought their average to .500. For it was this year's juniors who mauled them as freshman around last year.

Holding everything dear to them and their class, the freshmen battled heroically in the short frolic. It was Elmer Johnson who displayed the most courage in trying to keep away from this big bad 40 yard line.

Carmen Nocera.

Lisbon's only score came when Donny Loch caught Cartwright's pass on the ten yard line and romped for a touchdown. Cartwright scored the extra point.

The Quakers led the Blue Devils throughout the entire contest. Scoring early in the first period, Salem never relinquished their lead. The Quakers, using several replacements for injured regulars, showed power on the offense and defense. Salem's passes were completed several times. Marvin Wukotich to George Baillie gave the Quakers a passing threat throughout the entire fray.

Salem's defense was strong at all times in the game except in the fourth quarter when it loosened up enough for Lisbon to complete a touchdown pass.

Harry Highschool Crashes A Party

The night was black, the road was lonely and in the distance the faint strains of a melody could be heard. Drawing closer, Harry Highschool recognized the tune as "Beat Me Daddy 8 to the Bar."

Quaking in his saddle shoes Harry saw a large house, from which horrible sounds were issuing.

Mustering all his courage, he walked up to the porch, where he stumbled over three gruesome figures huddle around a phonograph. The three figures motioned for him to go into the house, and Harry entered a room filled with merrymakers. It suddenly dawned upon him that he was intruding upon someone's Halloween festivities.

Since he was not told to leave he wandered around the room to see whom he could recognize.

In one corner of the room he saw Gloria Gibson, dressed as Bobby Feller, (complete as to the "chaw" in her mouth) bobbing for apples with Melvin Wukotich, in Bo-Peep attire, and Beef Zeller, looking devastating in a Lillian Russell costume.

En route to the cider jug, he encountered Don Freed, who was dressed in his Sunday suit. Harry asked Don why he was not masked, and Don very disappointedly said, "Don't you know me?" I mused up my hair and came as W. L. Willkie.

Reaching the cider, he was served by three girls, Eleanor Kuhns, Arlene Johnson, and June Chappel who all came as Ann Sheridan.

Then he walked over to the other side of the room where Bill Shoop in Cupid clothes was pitching pennies with Marvin Wukotich who came (of all things) as a football player. Harry lost a total of eight cents to these professionals and went merrily on his way to crash another Halloween party.

Some physicians direct their patients to lie always on the right side, declaring it is injurious to health to lie on both sides. Yet, lawyers, as a class, have very good health.

Play Cast Enjoys Food At Practice

Um-um-yum-yum. It sure was good, wasn't it senior play cast? Oh, pardon, I mean all that food that was lying around the home ec. room last Thursday evening.

You see, it was this way. The cast was having practice last Thursday night and that also happened to be the night of the Columbiana County Schoolmasters' club banquet in the home economics room. Some of the members of the cooking classes were preparing the food. Well, it was just too tempting. There we were, working our heads off and not even any supper — yet — but that wasn't for long, because one "scenty" member of the cast recognized the wonderful aroma as it bounced through the auditorium. I suppose Miss Bodo still wonders why several members of the cast missed cues and why they kept asking to leave the auditorium for a "drink of water." And why a certain person of the cast was choking over a cracker when he should have been on stage. Well, now you know, and anyway that date bread and ice cream tasted mighty de-licious!
