

New Home Economics Teacher Begins Work In Salem High School Sewing Department

MISS ALA ZIMMERMAN STARTS TEACHING HERE AFTER FIFTEEN YEARS AS INSTRUCTRESS AT HIGH SCHOOL IN RAVENNA, OHIO

Miss Ala Zimmerman, the new sewing instructress, who began her job here last Tuesday, says that she likes Salem High and her new job very much. Miss Zimmerman graduated from Ohio State university where she majored in home economics. She is also taking work in the graduate school at Ohio State.

Miss Zimmerman has no real definite hobby but she likes very much to see stag plays and moving pictures. She also likes people and the teaching of sewing or home economics.

"I think that the high school here is very nice, especially the library, which is so modern. The students and the teachers are all so friendly and I am sure I will enjoy teaching here very much," Miss Zimmerman said.

Ravenna High school is the only school that she has taught in since leaving Ohio State. She has been a teacher there for the past 15 years.

Dachshund, New Mascot Of Salem High Librarians

The library staff has a mascot! Isn't that remarkable? It's a dachshund dog, named of all things, Cecil. The ambition of this unselfish animal is to be useful and this is easily accomplished by holding books between his two halves.

When some of the members of the staff were asked what they thought of the newly acquired pet, these comments were made:

Deborah Gross calls Cecil, "A canine looking animal with sad eyes." Dominick Alessi says, "At first glance you would think the dachshund had wriggled through all those books he holds up."

June Chappell expressed herself thus: "Cecil has that come-on-in-and-see-what-it's-all-about look." Margaret Ann Jones announced this fact: "He is wise because he has made friends with so many good books. So when looking for a book, consult Cecil!"

Rachel Keister declares, "He is a cunning little dog and deserves a place in the heart of every S. H. S. student." Susan Owens believes that he should receive much consideration because he is the pet of so many good looking girls. Mary Beth King calls this lucky dog "cute" (lucky because he has so many lovely admirers.)

Rita Pottorf believes Cecil has a good chance to eavesdrop on many interesting conversations. Betty Lutsch thinks Cecil's knowledge has increased because he is surrounded by such splendid books and Jean Dilworth adds that since this pet attracts so much attention more people will read the books he displays.

"Juke Boxes" Pour Out Money, Music

Have you realized that the "juke boxes" which blare out music in almost every restaurant in the country, also pour out a million or more dollars a week? Yes, such is a fact as told in an article, "A Nickel a Tune", in a recent issue of the Readers' Digest.

The article goes on to say that there were coin-operators, multiple-selectier phonographs as early as 1928, but it was not until 1933, when repeal opened thousands of taverns, that the now familiar juke boxes began selling as fast as they could be made. Today, according to the Automatic Phonograph Manufacturers Association, there are at least 295,000 in operation.

The juke box may be just a passing fad but just now it seems to have a bright future. Perhaps the coming years will find a glorified juke box giving a three minute sound movie for a dime. Many believe that this will come about and Jimmy Roosevelt, the President's eldest son, hopes to lead the field with such "Soundies."

SALEM THESPIANS WILL BE HOSTS TO LEETONIA GROUP

Local Group Will Entertain At High School Here Next Monday

Thespian club activities have been numerous during the first half of this school year and many more events have been planned to take place during the forthcoming semester.

The Salem Thespians will entertain the Leetonia Thespian troupe, which has Mr. John Converse as the adviser, next Monday night at 7:30 when the Leetonia Thespians will sit in on one of the Salem troupe's meetings and then will be entertained with a play and refreshments.

Irene White, Louis Raymond and Bob Ballantine will portray the characters in a Russian play, "The Bear," which will be presented at the meeting. Betty Percival has been chosen as chairman of the refreshment committee and Margaret Hannay, Nan Beardmore, Vivian Foltz and Mary Lou Brian are a committee to be in charge of seating and service.

The initiation of nine new members last Tuesday is another of the recent activities the Thespians have planned. Also, they will have charge of the refreshment stand at the Salem-Dover basketball game tonight.

The annual Thespian assembly presented to the high school student body will be next Thursday, when the play "The Bear" is presented.

Salem Debate Team Plans For Tourney

Mr. J. C. Guiler has announced the schedule for the Salem debate team this year. The schools, who will compete against the Salem team in a tournament to be held in several weeks in order to determine the district championship are Massillon, Canton McKinley, Dover, New Philadelphia, Ravenna, Springfield, Akron East and East Palestine.

This is one of the hardest schedules the Salem squad has ever had to meet inasmuch as several of these schools, including Massillon and Canton, are rated among the very best in the state.

From the eight schools competing in the tournament two winners will be chosen to represent this district in the state finals at Columbus, April 4 and 5.

A practice debate with Niles is scheduled for next Wednesday, and during the past two weeks several practice debates have been held between the two Salem teams.

Students See Movies Concerning Yale Locks

A moving picture about Yale locks was shown to the chemistry classes a week ago yesterday. The picture was called "Home Defense" and it portrayed how the Yale lock protected the home, the safe and anything else which it might lock up. It also showed the pictures of the factory where the locks are made and how the locks and keys are made.

2 Members Of Salem High Staff Have Resigned Posts Here

MISS JANICE WEAVER, SECRETARY TO PRINCIPAL; MR. KARL SANDER, WOODWORK INSTRUCTOR, LEAVE SCHOOL JOBS

Miss Janice Weaver, secretary to Principal H. M. Williams, and Mr. Karl Sander, wood industries instructor, have presented their resignations to the board of education. Mr.

Sander left last Friday to become teacher of wood industries at the Niles Junior High school. Miss Weaver will leave at the end of next week and will be married to Mr. William Woods on February 9.

Mr. Sander has been a teacher in the Salem High school for ten and a half years.

When interviewed before he left he said that when he became woodwork teacher here there were two classes with about 18 freshmen in them. Now there are two advanced classes and two freshman classes with 35 boys in each class.

Sander was a sponsor of the Archery club and helped the sport of archery to a place of prominence in Archery High.

Miss Weaver, who is a graduate of Salem High school in the class of 1935, has served as secretary to the principal since December, 1936.

Following her marriage Miss Weaver will go to Dayton to make her home.

210, Raymond, Are Losers To 212, Marvin Wukotich

"You could never beat us!" "Why 212 couldn't win on a bet!"

These were remarks made by occupants of Mr. H. C. Lehman's home room when 212 made known the fact that they would endeavor to sell candy at the senior stand for the Salem-Alliance basketball game.

Even the illustrious Mr. Raymond made the following statement to Marvin "Buster" Wukotich:

"If that home room of yours wins, by golly, I'll kiss your foot in front of your whole room!"

But a sad mistake was made by the darlings (?) in 210 who thought that no one could surpass their salesmanship.

The tenth of January was an eventful day in the lives of those who slaved behind the stand. For not only did they beat 210 but they practically set an all-time record.

It was a sad day when two escorts from 212 accompanied Louis to the winning home room to fulfill his promise. Down on his knees he went and overwhelmed the shy Mr. Wukotich with his tender act of devotion.

Revenge is sweet, but at least 212 is free from heckling from the gang across the hall.

Corrections

Under the pictures of the biology classes appearing in the Quaker last week it was stated that the pictures had been taken by Mr. Ted Keller. This was a mistake.

The pictures were taken by Sidney Simon, a junior.

In the personality write-up of Virginia Snyder last week it stated that she was the only girl drummer in the High school band. This was a mistake as Priscilla Beery, a freshman, is also a drummer in the band.

LATIN CLUB MAKES PLANS TO INITIATE

At the regular meeting of the Latin club, held a week ago last Thursday, members made plans to initiate new students into the club. New members will be guests of the club next Thursday to receive instructions for the initiation, to be held on February 18.

President Dick Culbertson has appointed the following committee: Foods, Dorothy Haldi, Deborah Gross and Gene McArtor; initiation, Herbert Hansell, Stephen Hart, Louise Hanna, Sally Strank and Walter Vansickle; invitations, Mary Byers Barbara Brian and Virginia Snyder; reception, Walter Vansickle.

Only 334 Days To Christmas!

A Wish For Success

Mr. Karl Sander and Miss Janice Weaver have presented their resignations to the board of education. Mr. Sander left last week and Miss Weaver will leave at the end of next week.

During the ten and a half years that Mr. Sander has been wood industries instructor in the Salem High school he has worked hard to help the students in this course and to help all the students in the high school whenever it was possible for him to do so. As a sponsor of the Archery club he helped to bring that sport into a prominent place in the life of the school.

Miss Weaver has served as secretary in the principal's office for the past four and a half years and during that time has become a friend of every student who has ever gone to the office for anything. She has always been ready and willing to help any student and teacher who might want something, from looking up a student's schedule to helping to locate a teacher.

The Quaker, on the part of the student body wants to wish both of these persons great success in the future, Mr. Sander at his new job in Niles and Miss Weaver at her job as housewife.

What's The Reason?

It seems as though the Salem High school student body is very hard to satisfy. Most students clamor for assemblies, but if the attitude shown at the two assemblies held last week is any indication, they really don't want these programs.

During both of these assemblies an incessant noise of mumbblings could be heard all over the auditorium, because certain students couldn't bring themselves to be courteous enough to stop talking and listen to the speakers.

Last year we were faced with this same problem of talking during assembly programs and it finally came to the point that no assemblies were held until the student body realized it was at fault and became more courteous.

That Man, The Boob

Come and meet our friend, the boob. Here he is. "Why should I work? I'm Tom Brown. I'm a boob. What good are history, English and those other corny subjects gonna do me when I graduate? If those teachers think I'm gonna slave my head off just to get my work done on time, they're crazy. Those guys who recite all the time and get A's or B's are just sissies. You'll never find me doing that. I'm gonna get my rest. After all, what is school for, if it isn't to pass the time of day?"

"Why should I work? I've got a friend who has a good job and he never worked hard in school, and if he can do that I should be able to. I'm not going to study. I'll trust to luck. I'm a boob."

Now that you have met our friend, how do you like him? We don't either. So get to work you boobs, all of you. You probably won't be as lucky as this one's friend.

Wellllll, this little town shore has changed. Yes sir. Why lokkit them skyscrapers and the high school. Why, don't look like a school 'tall. More like "Headless Joe's Opey House." So big and modern like. I even hear tell of a sort of community bathtub up there. Guess they call it a swimmin' pool. Them young folk sure is fancy.

Mr. Sander is leaving Salem High to teach at the Junior High school in Niles, Ohio.

After target shooting, the club enjoyed refreshments.

Say, looks like one of them young whippersnappers a comin' now. 'Taint neither. It's Mouse McGhee. Changed a little in 70 years, ain't he? Rep! Sort o' like the way he's wearin' his beard though. Them new bustle-beards shore is the things. Hello, Mouse, my boy. Hmm, guess he's lost his voice. Poor child.

Think I'll go in one of them new-fangled glass doors. Home we use oil cloth. By cracky! Guess who? Bivacious Gloria Gibson, all dressed in lavender and old lace. My don't she look sweet with that little lace cap on her white hair. Folks tell me she keeps a home for stray cats. Now, ain't that kind.

Well, at last I'm in this here school. Hmm, quite a place, quite a place. Say, who are them two old men hobblin' down the hall. Why, they're the Wuks. Shore are looking puny. Hello, boys. I got just the thing for you. Called "Putrid Pills for Puny People". Oh! Guess they're in a hurry. Well . . . goodness! What's a-comin' now? I do declare. It's "Wild Bill" Shoop, teachin' chemistry. Must be mighty strenuous at his age. Mighty strenuous. Probably waitin' for his pension to go up 'fore retirin'.

Think I'll have a look in her. Saaay! Now ain't that a nice pitchur a-hangin' up yonder. Looks like some of this modern art. Get up closer so I can read what's under it. Let's see:

VIV'S VERBAL VENTURES

BY VIVIAN FOLTZ

We columnists may dig and toil
Till our finger-tips are sore,
But some dope is sure to say,
"I've heard that one before."

Herb (Grade B stuff) Hansell brought me a coke the other day on condition that I'd put his name in this column. One's got to eat, sooooooo. He was shouting around last Friday about the revolting way "Baby" Fratila kept winking at him in English Class. I'm not sure whether he was bragin' or complainin' but he certainly was letting the mobs in on it. Though I've heard from more than one source that Miss Fratila is easily the holder of the Title of "NO. 1 Flirt of the Sophomore Class."

WACKY WORDS WITHER WEBSTER!

Pedestrian: Man with two sons, one wife, one daughter and ONE car.

Winter: A season that in the summer you wish your house was as cool as.

Social tact: Making your company feel at home, even though you wish they were.

Forgotten man: Whistler's Father.

The Seasons: Track season, baseball season, football season, and basketball season.

And if anyone should ask me, (nobody does but I'm in a position to tell 'em whether they like it or not) I'd say it was pretty awful for all these S. H. S. gals to desert their old stampin' grounds for new and unconquered fields in that vast metropolis of Lisbon.

Now there's Hoover pining for her too, too devastating superman who is the proud possessor of a snappy set of big brown eyes and wavy hair to match. And Gibson, Jan Wallace and J. Snyder also have in mind some deadly form made up, likewise, of the above ingredients.

Just what it is that these imported glamorgoons seem to have that gets 'em is beyond me, I guess, but you local lads are fast losin' ground, and had best get on the ball before many more lucky lassies are lured astray. (NOTE: For further info concerning the subject kindly consult Johnny Dan.)

AMONG MY SOUVENIRS:

(The recent epidemic that for a time played such havoc with the students and faculty of our school has passed. But the memories linger on.)

It was suggested that the places where the greatest crowds gathered should be closed in order to prevent the spread of the disease. One droop asked why they didn't close the hospital then, since that was where the largest number of people seemed to be.

Saint Peter: How did you get here?

Citizen: Flu.

(Oh, well, he who laughs last seldom gets the point anyway—isn't that right, Lucia!)

Flash! Notorious Member of Senior Class Bowles 'em Over!

Is she good, man, oh, man just ask anyone who by some strange twist of fate, happened to miss that wild sensation of having J. Malloy's bowling ball bouncing merrily off their heads. Over to the alley she marched, self-confident and unafraid, and picking up one of those large, round, black things with three holes in one side, she then, proceeded to gracefully rap it around her fingers thusly. And so as she wound up, dreamily imagining to send it down the alley schattering the pins and have everyone shouting "strike!" as she had often dreamed, something 'slipped up' so to speak. The ball flew backwards and proceeded to mow down several rows of innocent by-standers.

"Gee," she explained, "I don't know how to do this!"

Everyone, picking themselves up in pieces, unannouncedly agreed!

CLOSING THOUGHT

There they sat, frightened and shaking, they knew what was coming and they sat there before that vast and critical crowd waiting . . . waiting . . . for their doom was near at hand. At last it struck!!! Then all was gone! All their claim to being a normal citizen was forever wiped out! Who are these very unfortunate persons, well, for a better description of this horrible tale, see "Fibber" Beardmore and "Heartbeat" Baillie.

Salem Cagers Will Face Highly Rated Crimson Tornado Here

DOVER BASKETBALL TEAM HAS SUFFERED ONLY TWO DEFEATS THIS YEAR; SALEM SQUAD IS AFTER THIRD WIN OF SEASON

Friday night's basketball session finds the highly rated Dover Crimson Tornado invading the Salem hardwoods to do battle with the luckless Quakers. The visitors come here with a very impressive record of some nine wins and two defeats and are headed by such court stars as Willis, Herman and Swinderman.

This galaxy of basketball talent holds victories over New Philadelphia, defending state champions, Akron Kenmore, Denison, Akron East, Uhrichsville, Columbus Central and some other good squads.

In their latest tilt they were barely nosed out by the undefeated Canton McKinley Bulldogs, 51 to 50. Jim Inman of McKinley was given two free throws in the last few seconds with the Tornadoes ahead by one point. He calmly sank both of them to put his team in the lead and a few seconds later, the game ended. Besides putting the game on ice, he scored 16 points to lead his team and held Jim Willis, Dover's flashy forward to two field goals.

Willis and Herman have been alternately leading the Crimson Tornado in scoring all year until the Kenmore game when Swinderman came into his own with a 15 point spurge. Willis and Herman have topped the 20 point mark in a single game, repeatedly this year, so it is easy to see why the Doverites have such a fine record. They are a polished offensive squad, having scored over 50 points in a single game more than once. Their battle with Canton McKinley proves that they are not a team to be underrated. They are capable of outclassing the Quakers and will be favored to do it. The Quakers will be after the very elusive fourth victory with the Dover crew out after its tenth.

Culture is: "To know the best that has been said and thought in the world."

LOCAL CAGERS ARE VICTORS, 37-28

Quakers Trounce East Palestine Cage Team In Contest Here

Salem's luckless Quakers finally got going and as a result trimmed East Palestine last Tuesday night, 37 to 28. In the first few minutes it looked as if the game would be very close, as each team hooped seven points in the opening quarter.

Coach Brown frequently changed his combination of men during the first half. The second period was marked by some good ball handling and some very bad. On the whole the quarter was a dull one with the Quakers outscoring their rivals, five to two, to lead by three points at the half way mark.

Still the East Palestine crew refused to be battered as they fought ferociously as the Bulldogs they're named after. The third quarter found them showing evidence of cracking, and they did as the Red and Black were ahead by some nine markers at the end of three periods. Each team scored nine points in the final period to make the final score, 37 to 28.

Jaeger, Baillie, and Scullion flipped in eight points apiece to lead the Quaker attack while Scally hooped five buckets to lead the Bulldogs. East Palestine showed the Salem fans a lot of fancy shots and made a fair percentage of them. Trick shots of all sorts were featured in their assault.

The Quakers did not rely on this kind of shot as they moved the ball up the floor into an orthodox position before firing at the hoop.

The Salem reserves had a much easier time as they decisively whipped the East Palestine seconds, 56 to 22. They were never in trouble and in the second half practically scored at will. Ed Fisher led the attack with ten points.

Salem will face Dover tonight. In their last effort, the Crimson Tornado was beaten by the undefeated Akron South Cavaliers. The Quakers will be after their fourth win of the year.

SPORT SLANTS

BY RABBIT

Greetings, readers:

This week this corner is given over to the scoring records of the varsity men thus far this year. This year's team is a low scoring outfit and is led by Mike Thomas with 54 points including those made in the South battle. "Goose" McGaffie is close behind with 53 points while Bob Jaeger is in the number three slot with 35. The rest, in order, are George Baillie, 34, Phil Cozad, 29, Bob Umberger, 15, Johnny Volio, 8. "Tut" Guappone, 7, Bob Scullion, 6, "Bird" Culberson and Bob Buckman, 4 apiece. These figures do not include the points of Bob Ritchie who is no longer with the squad.

A toast is offered to a good reserve team which bounced back into the win column with a well-deserved win over South, 26-22.

The Hi-Y extended its winning streak to eight straight as they polished off Excelsior and Rayen last week end. "Sal" Freed got 13 points in the Rayen clash for top scoring honors. They are now leading the Mahoning league with four wins and 0 defeats. Boardman is the opponent tomorrow afternoon. The squad is looking forward to February 14 because that is the night on which they tangle with the classy reserves. The Hi-Y motto is "Beat 'em or bust."

Rumor has it that Dover isn't going to bring Willis, Herman and Swinderman tonight in order to save the home town folks the sight of an unnecessary slaughter. They're supposed to be pretty tough. Canton McKinley just beat 'em by one point, 51-50, to remain undefeated.

See by the papers that East Liverpool's mighty Potters were stopped cold by Massillon. They now have been beaten by Cambridge, New Philly and the Tigers from Massillon.

That floor up at South is one of the biggest this columnist has ever seen. It seemed as if it took hours to work that ball up the court close enough to get a shot. Our game was just a prelim to the Youngstown college-Ithaca battle. If yours truly were a fashion reporter he would promptly tell you what the boys were wearing to make them look so attractive from the stands but due to circumstances beyond my control I am limited to telling you that they looked like a couple of green high school teams. The games were close, however, and the fans were fairly well pleased. Leo Mogus, Penguin flash, was still out with a bad ankle. The game might have been Youngstown's more easily had Leo been in there because of his 20 point per game average.

Read where Rhode Island State college team is averaging some 80 points per game and has topped the 100 mark in a single game several times. That is a mere 2-point-a-minute team, that's all.

Next month the big league ball players head south to dissolve a few pounds of that excess poundage as they prepare for the season. On a long range prediction this writer picks "Rapid Robert" Feller and his Cleveland team mates to win the flag. As usual the "Wukes" are going to be solid Yankee fans. Some guys never give up.

Wonder if "Wild Bill" Shoop has started training for the track season yet? Someone tells me he trains the whole year round. More power to 'ya Bill. By the way, did 'ja see that Shoop hair cut yet? Trot around and take a look at it sometime. Bill won't mind. He's a good kid.

On the bias, this writer thinks it is high time to close up station RAB until the next time we get together. So until that time,

So long.

WHAT WILL JOHNNY GROUNDHOG'S DECISION BE NEXT SUNDAY?

Ho-hum! There goes that alarm. Here it is February 2, 1941, already. Seems as though I just went to sleep. I'll just stick my nose out the door and see what the weather is like.

Yipe! that snow is cold! I almost froze my nose. My, my, just look at that sun. Hmmm! Judging by my shadow I must be gaining weight. Ho, hum! It looks like I'll have to set the alarm for March 21. Six more weeks of blessed sleep. Hum! I certainly am sleepy.

Well, Johnny Groundhog, no one can tell you whether your thoughts will run something like that or whether your decision will be based upon gloomy, cloudy weather.

Tradition and superstition have it that a sunny February 2 will cause the groundhog to continue his snooze for six more weeks, while clouds will convince him that spring is just around the corner and he had better arise for the summer months.

Sunday, February 2, is the big day, when all of Johnny's superstitious fans will be eagerly awaiting his appearance. So, whether sunny or gloomy—we'll be seeing you Johnny! Pleasant dreams.

Jr. High News

Mr. Kelly gave a talk about gas airplane models at the last meeting of the airplane club.

With the money collected from tax stamps, the Junior High school is going to equip room 201 with dark blinds and a motion picture screen so that moving pictures may be shown there.

Thursday, January 23, a program was given by members of the girls' glee club. Those on the program were Mary Mae Votaw, Elaine Abe, Grace Pales, Dolores Poorbaugh, Ruth Swaney and Phyllis Cozad.

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.

It matters not how long we live, but how.

QUAKERS LOSE TO SOUTH, 43 TO 27

Salem Cagers Drop 8th Consecutive Game To Youngstown Team

Salem's hapless Quakers dropped their eighth game in a row as they were beaten by a fair Youngstown South crew, 43 to 27, last Saturday on the new South High floor. The Brownmen looked like a vastly improved team as they battled the South boys on practically even terms for three quarters.

In the first period the Salemites fell behind by three points. A half they trailed 17 to 13, and still looked fairly good. Each team tallied 10 points in the third quarter with the Quakers still behind by four points. They faded very badly in the final period as the South squad seemed to grab a new lease on life.

Led by Weaver, they began to hit the hoop from all angles and soon had the game tucked away in the well-known bag. The locals had little if any spirit and their passing was a bit on the bad side. Bob Jaeger flipped six points through the meshes to lead the luckless Quakers in the point column.

Weaver and Jeffries led the assault for South with 11 and nine points, respectively.

This game was a preliminary to the Youngstown college-Ithaca basketball game, won by the Penguins, 32-30.

The reserves had better luck than the varsity and entered the point column with a 26-22 win over the South seconds. "Bird" Culberson tallied seven points to lead the home team.

No man has a good enough memory to be a successful liar.

Student Dances

What has happened to the Penny Dances that used to be so popular at Salem High?

Now that we have our own recording machine, it seems logical that we should still have the dances, especially because most of the students want to learn to dance before the prom and other class dances. The Hi-Tri and Hi-Y clubs always seemed to make a profit by them, and even then they had to rent a recording machine. So, if they were successful then, why can't they be now with our own machine?

A DANCER.

Good breeding consists in concealing how much we think of ourselves and how little we think of the other person.
