

Seniors To Take T. B. Patch Tests, With Parents Permission, Free of Charge, Mar. 16

School Nurse, Salem Health Commissioner, To Administer Tuberculin Tests to Students; Dr. Holzbach Mails Letters to Parents

Following a regular schedule, seniors who have received the permission of their parents will take, on March 16, the tuberculin "Patch test."

In the "Patch test," there is no injection with a needle. The material used is simply placed on the surface of the skin and held there by adhesive tape.

If the reaction is positive there will be no soreness or swelling, but a reddened area will appear. In the case of a positive result, an x-ray picture will be taken of the chest to determine whether the disease is present. In this manner, the Board of Health is able to find cases of active tuberculosis that are otherwise not suspected; and by immediate treatment permanent cures are affected in a large percentage of these cases. In his letter to the parents, Dr. R. T. Holzbach, Salem Health Commissioner, says, "Children that have been exposed to tuberculosis in early childhood very frequently begin to develop beginning tuberculosis between the ages of 16 and 20."

The test will be given at the high school free of charge.

Library Lists College Aids

Are you interested in college, but are doubtful about where to go, or haven't you bothered to think about it and are waiting until the last minute when it will probably be too late to enroll? If this is the case, perhaps the library can be of assistance to you.

On the raised platform below the dictionaries there are two shelves devoted exclusively to college catalogs from all the colleges in Ohio and such leading schools as Vassar in New York, William and Mary in Virginia, Yale in Connecticut, and many others. These catalogs contain information invaluable to prospective college students who would like to know before hand where they want to live, approximately how much their expenses will be, and what the entrance requirements are.

There are also several college

Home "Ec" Classes Purchase Supplies

A check for $11.28 was received for tax stamps by the Home Economics classes last week, it was announced by Miss Leah Morgan, cooking instructor.

Part of the money will be used to buy plate doilies.

The money that the girls in the cooking classes received from noon lunches was used to buy thirty small glasses, a large size can opener, one half dozen funnels and two cake decorators.

The girls studied pastry making last week.

Mrs. Merry Teaches Knitting to Hi Tri Club Members

The first knitting instructions were given February 18 at a gathering attended by approximately ten Hi-Tri girls in room 107 after school.

Mrs. William Merry is knitting instructor and is teaching the girls to knit so they will be able to do Red Cross work.

More girls are expected to attend these meetings which will probably be held twice a week, it was announced by Miss Helen Thorp, Hi-Tri adviser.

The second knitting meeting was held last Monday afternoon.

Seniors Choose Announcements

A formal graduation announcement for the class of '42 in the French fold style and bearing the Salem high school seal, the "Quaker Lady", was chosen when the committee in charge met in 209, Tuesday, February 17.

The committee is composed of Ben Ware, senior class president, Homer Asmus, vice president, Salvador Guappone, Maybelle Huston, and Betty Lynch.

Samples of the announcements are expected to arrive soon and orders will then be taken.

Boys' Gym Classes To Pursue Active Form of Physical Ed.

A more vigorous type of physical education will be pursued in the boys gym classes in the future it was announced by Mr. Fred Cope, S. H. S. boys' gym instructor, due to the growing concern of the U. S. govt. over the fitness of its youth. In accordance with the plan of natural free play, which has been predominant the last five to ten years, Mr. Cope's classes have been and are, at present, devoting the time and energy to those sports and games into which the boys themselves wish to enter. However, about the first of March, a series of tests on physical fitness will be started consisting of activities utilizing the four natural movements: running,

Faculty Has Gay 90's Party

A Gay 90's faculty party was held last Thursday evening in the gym with refreshments served later in the Home Economics dining room.

The faculty members attended the party dressed in costumes of the 1890 period. Prizes went to Miss Leah Morgan for the best woman's costume and to Mr. Beman Ludwig for the best man's costume.

The judges chose the costumes by having the contestants stand in a heart shaped door frame.

A door prize was won by Mr. Herbert Jones.

The dancing in the gym was preceded by a grand march followed by square dancing. An old-fashioned spelling bee and games were also features of the evening.

Following the dancing, refreshments were served in the Home Economics dining room, where cherry tarts were served. Appointments and table decorations were in keeping with George Washington's birthday.

Pictures taken by Mr. T. R. Keller were also an event of the evening.

Those on the committee for the party were: Miss Sara Hanna, program; Miss Martha McCready, social; Miss Lois Lehman, entertainment; Miss Helen Thorp, refreshments; Miss Mildred Hollett, prizes; and Mr. T. R. Keller, pictures.

Principal, Mr. Cope Attend Track Clinic At State University

In attendance among approximately 100 track coaches and school representatives at the track clinic held at Ohio State University on Feb. 21 were principal Beman Ludwig and faculty manager of athletics, Mr. Fred Cope.

Mr. Cope was appointed a member of a Relays Committee of four to help iron out the State's cumbersome Relay schedule. The Salem Night Relays, for example, is to be held Saturday, May 2, the date upon which eight other relays fall in various sections of the state. A more even dispersion of these event dates is the duty of this committee.

Mr. Ludwig had previously been appointed to an advisory committee and his duties are concerned with helping and working with the various track coaches and relay managers.

Juniors To Select Class Rings

Miss Martha S. McCready, junior class adviser, announced that the committee in charge of class rings chose three different patterns to be voted upon by the junior class.

The committee, consisting of the three junior class officers, Dick Culberson, president; Paul Evans, vice-president; Marian Davidson secretary-treasurer; and Herbert Hansell, Emma Bauman, and Virginia Snyder chose three patterns. These rings will be made up and presented to the members of the junior class within the next two or three weeks. The pattern receiving the most votes will be adopted as the class ring of the class of '43.

MAGIC SHOW DRAWS 800 SCHOOL CHILDREN

Over 800 Salem pupils witnessed Bill Ross' magic performance given February 17th, at the Salem High school auditorium.

Mr. Ross' tricks included pulling a rabbit out of the hat, several card tricks and a guillotine trick. He took a few small pocket watches and produced one large watch. Mr. Ross, also, made water disappear into air and produced a large piece

Letter to S. H. S. Students

Sick friends are apt to suffer loneliness and discouragement. They long for assurance that they are not forgotten. The welcome letter and the welcome visitor are those that come into the sickroom and change the atmosphere like a fresh breeze, leaving a train of pleasant thoughts. And so for these kind friends and pleasant thoughts, I wish to thank each and every teacher, pal and friend for his kindness during my accident period. If you know someone who is ill, you have an opportunity to make the sun shine on a very dark day! Thanks again to the whole school.

Let's Not Be Noisy About This

Patriotism! National Defense! Headlines scream throughout the nation, throughout the continent, throughout the world. They are the words on the lips of all.

Shortage on sugar, steel rubber and many other items. But are the people of this great continent shirking their duty when their country calls? The truly good Americans are not.

In this great need for cooperation it is the duty of each and everyone to do his or her part for this country and its allies.

Around the home are many old magazines, papers, pamphlets, not in use. But these can be of use to the United States Government. Bring them to school as soon as possible if there is no other organization to receive them. You, too, will be able to do your part in the National Defense of your country.

Nut Meets Nut

Silently in the deep of night, a lone figure slowly, determinedly, creeps across the snow blanketed lawn. Diligently, our center of attraction jimmies open a carefully selected basement window, and noiselessly enters. The subdued light of his flashlight seeks out every corner of the room in which he is. At last his eyes meet a welcome sight, and Mr. X slowly climbs the stairway, having first removed his shoes. Reaching the top successfully, he now systematically begins to search for his objective, frequently stopping short to listen for only an instant, and then proceeding with his nerve-shattering endeavor. — Will our friend find what has brought him here? What is he looking for? Who is he? Will he get away? What will happen? — Read next week's Quaker, and if you find any connection between this composition and any of next week's, the surprise of this writer will be inpressable as yours should be. My passing thought for the day just passed a few seconds ago at a terrific rate of speed looking for a freak show. Oh, well, I guess we all look for companionship, so I might as well join my passing thought.

"Dream" Assembly Is Nightmare!

Let's pretend for just a few moments, that we are viewing for the first time, a great stage success. The name of this is, "Famous Characters In Salem High School." The curtain goes up and we see that the setting of the story is laid deep in the heart of Texas. Regis Stiffler, the villain, comes barreling out of the P. O. with briefcase in hand, leaps on his horse and rides off in a gale of dust. Mary Lou Cope, the heroine, speeds after "Two Gun" Stiffler and does her best to capture him singlehanded. Riding after Mary Lou, we see the sheriff, Eugene Loudon, and his men, "Guv" Corrigan, Wilmer Stanley, Gene Howell, and Lee Whinnery. Mary Lou falls off her horse and barely escapes death when the other horses jump over her. At that moment the hero of the story, Glenn Whitacre, rides up to Mary Lou and drags her out of danger. The sheriff and his men, one by one, give up the chase as "Two Gun" Stiffler rides out of sight. The hero, however, after seeing that Mary Lou is okay, rides in the direction where he last saw "Two Gun" Stiffler. The curtain goes down on the first act of the play. The orchestra composed of Joyce Schaefer, Gene McArtor, Paul Evans and "Slats" Entriiken, play a choice selection, "Ride 'Em Cowboy!"

Again the curtain rolls up and we see the villain riding into a small village. Close behind him we see Whitacre swinging his lasso. "Two Gun" Stiffler slides off his horse and rolls over in the dust but still hangs on to his briefcase. At the same time that Glenn rides up to "Two Gun", we see Verna Freshley run up to "Two Gun" and grab the briefcase. She opens it and pulls out a paper, yelling joyfully, "Oh, Two Gun, you did bring my defense savings bond quickly, didn't you?" The curtain goes down on the last act. Okay wake up now, the pretending's over.

S.H.S. Sorry Mess in Early Morn Light

Well, here we are again at none other than S. H. S. and gosh am I sleepy! Through a haze, "Baby" Fratila can be seen racing the bell. More power to her, 'tis all that can be said.

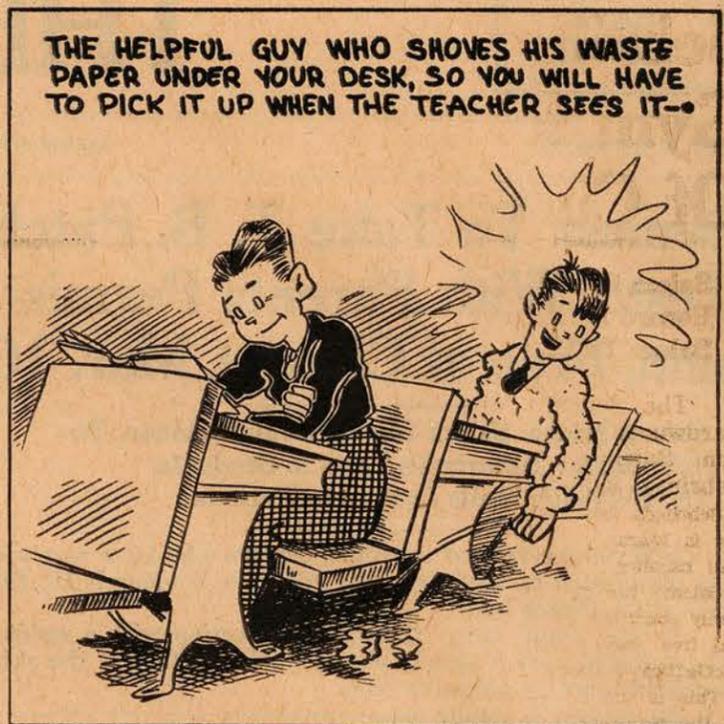

Dan Reardon seems to be having a "wee bit o' trouble" with his boots. Fred Krause is running to the rescue, however, and the boots are finally off after a tug-o'-war.

There goes the tardy bell and all the late stragglers, including "Sneezy" and Jim Berger can be seen crashing, (no other word can describe it) into their home rooms.

The library miss, Sally Strank, is busily engaged in delivering the library slips. The co-worker, Jean Dilworth is trying her best to deliver all the library slips before the class bell. Dash! Dash!

Let's glance in at one of the home rooms. Herb Hansell and Carol Jaeger are having an argument over the English assignment. Herbie Gross (I can help you) rescues the situation by telling RESEMBLANCE . . .

It seems as though there is a little controversy about the feature in last week's Quaker about resemblances . . . A few do not agree with what was published . . . The only regret that I have is that there is no one that looks like Mickey Rooney.

TUESDAY NIGHT? COMIN' UP . . .

If some Tuesday night you do not have time to listen to Red Skelton, because you have to study (???) get a hold of Bob Moore the next morning, and he will give you a quick summary of what happened the night before to "I do'd it." He does a fine imitation of Elmer and Daisy June . . . Then, at the end, for an added amount of cash he will do the "Modern Design," on land, in the air, and on the sea . . . "Chuckles" Gibbs is the sea noise . . .

SPECIAL NOTICE . . .

To Tubby Shasteen . . . If you want a date for the Varsity S dance so badly, just get in touch with the Date Bureau . . . They will be very happy to help you for a small nominal fee . . .

LEFTOVER . . .

The Man of Last Week, Curly Dinsmore, was really yelling his lungs out at the Struthers game last week . . . He had a megaphone all to himself, and the whole game was one continual roar from him . . . After the game was over "Curly" could hardly talk, but the kids that had to ride back with him were very happy about that . . .

A MAN'S LIFE . . .

A tear,
A sigh,
A fond goodbye,
And he is gone.
A kiss,
A cure,
Another girl,
And so the world goes on.

This poem is dedicated to all the BOYS in Salem High . . .

CATCH UP ON THE LATEST . . .

Because of the Wartime some of the students are missing the morning broadcast of News . . . Now you don't have to worry too much about this. Just get in touch with "Perc" Vansickle the minute you get to school, and he will get you all up to date on the latest bombings . . . He doesn't go to sleep at night until all the latest news is in and then he gets up "real" early to hear the rest. He has earned the title of the School Commentator . . . For obvious reasons.

HAPPENING OF THE WEEK . . .

Scene: Out in front of the school one snowy noon. . . A poor little boy was out sled riding down Lincoln on the sidewalk when he was seized by a bunch of boys and pulled down the hill too fast for comfort . . . Then when they took him back up, there were five or six on behind him . . . The poor little sled practically crumpled under the weight but he got safely to the top. Then while the poor little boy stood there, his sled was loaded down with mankind and started down the hill . . . Like taking candy away from a baby . . .

Sebring Invades S.H.S. Gym for Last Game Of Current Season

Salem High Quakers Gunning For Twelfth Victory: Record Is Slightly Higher Than Sebringers; Salem To Have Usual Starting Line: Reserves Tough

The Sebring high roundballers will invade the local hardwoods with hopes of copping their 12th win of the season. Salem possesses somewhat of a better record than does Sebring. Salem has won 13 and lost five.

Sebring's outstanding point-getter is Marsh, a fast and smooth ball handler.

Salem's lineup will more than likely start the game with the usual five boys, Volio, Guappone, McGaffick, Scullion, and Pridon.

This is the last scheduled game of the season for the Quakers and then they go to the sectional tournament in Youngstown.

If the Quakers defeat tonight's opponents they will end the season with 15 games won against five losses.

The local reserves will face a strong Sebring five for the Sebringers have lost but four out of the last 30 they have played.

The Salem quintet has won 14 and dropped four of their decisions.

Quakers Down Rough Struthers Team Friday

30-19 Is Score In Game At Big Red Gymnasium

The Salem Quakers overwhelmed a weak but rough Struthers five last Friday night in the Big Red's little gym 30-19.

It was the 13th victory for the Salemites and the 11th loss for the Big Red.

Salem took an early first quarter lead and ended it 9-3 in the Quaker's favor.

They extended it to 18-4 at the intermission, holding their opponents to a single point during the second quarter. In the third chapter Struthers played their best, scoring 9 points to Salem's 5. In the final stanza Salem managed to outscore their opponents by one point 7-6.

Due to the fact that Struthers floor was so cramped, the Salem lads received a few bumps and bruises under the basket.

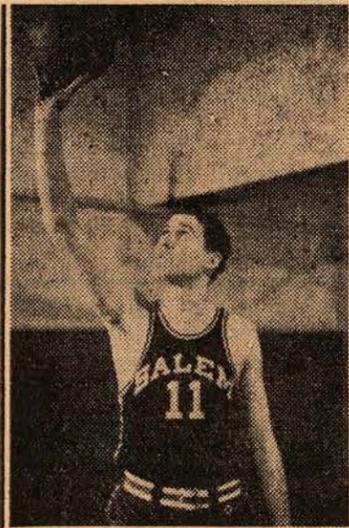

Dan McPhee, the only scoring threat Struthers offered, shone none too brightly Friday as he scored just 5 points. He fired 18 shots and planted just one through the nets.

Schilling led the losers with 6 tallies.

For Salem Capel, Scullion, and Pridon played major parts in the rebound department as they marked up 16 points between them.

Ray McGaffick shone in the initial stanza, accounting for 6 of the 9 Salem chalkers. The latter portion of the fourth period, the Quakers' entire 2nd team took over and held their opponents, as they scored a free throw.

Sam Pridon

Sam "The Fox" Pridon is doing things in his senior year. Never having participated in interscholastic football or basketball before, he has won varsity awards in both sports his first year out. In football he was a clever, pass snatching end. In basketball his hefty 6' 2" frame enables him to be a fine rebounding center. This year he took Phil Cozad's place who broke his leg in football. His first three years he participated in intramural basketball.

Reserves Win Over Struthers Team

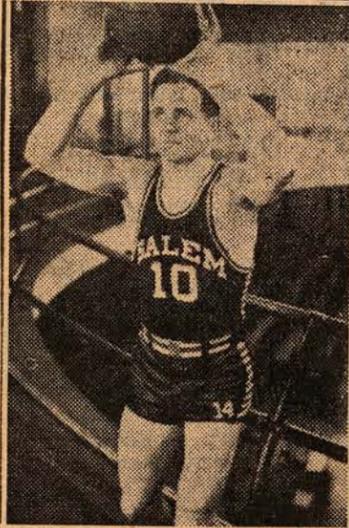

The local reserves chalked up their 14th win as they walloped Struthers 28-16. The locals played their best ball.

It was Salem all the way as they led 6-0 at the end of the first stanza, 11-3 at intermission, 19-11 at the end of three quarters of play, and the last quarter they racked up 9 points to their opponents' five.

The locals were the smaller team on the floor, but the Struthers five couldn't match Salem's pass-work and accurate shooting. Fisher, Culberson, and Cozad registered 8, 6, and 6 points respectively to lead the Salemites.

Many a woman who can't add can certainly distract. But all women know enough arithmetic to put two and two together and make a scandal of it.

Bob Scullion

Bob "Scubby" Scullion is Salem's own handsome muscle man. Because of his stocky build, he is the Quaker's outstanding rebounder. Never a high scorer, he holds up his end by his rebounding and fine defensive play. His natural ability made him one of the finest half-backs in recent Salem gridiron history. His football career has been bothered, however, by a bad knee. Because of this knee, he had to give up pole vaulting, at which he showed great promise. He has played football for four years and basketball for two.

Captain's Chatter

By "Captain" Rance

For you fans who love mid-winter "football", this column recommends a trip to the spacious (?) Struthers High court and a tussle with the Big Red reserves. Some of the most beautiful single wing back formations which you ever saw are executed with a basketball. Injuries need not be worried about because full hospital and ambulance accommodations are available. "Bird" Culberson seemed to be a particular victim of the Struthers "juggernaut" as it steamed down the floor with all the vim and vigor of Notre Dame's own "Four Horsemen". However, under the watchful eyes of a staff of medicos the kid is reported well on the road to recovery. Incidentally the reserves won 29-16 going away.

Tonight eight seniors make their last appearance on the Salem High basketball court. The Quakers face the Sebring Trojans in the final tilt of the regular season. The Salem opponents at times appear to have a tough ball club and should give the Quakers quite a battle. Dick Sandersonk, a long shot artist is their leading scorer. Last year the Quaker all-junior five edged the Trojans 32-26.

I received a letter from Bob Dixon, a S. H. S. alumni and a former man behind this column. At the present he is enrolled in Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah, which is deep in the heart of Mormon country. Incidentally the university has one of the finest basketball teams in the country this year. It is rumored that "R. J." is the real brain behind the cage success of the "Fightin' Polygamists". Mouse McGhee has informed me that Provo now boasts a chapter of Salem's own Perry Indians and that Dixon is expected home in June with three wives.

Since the Hoover Sweeper has begun to release basketball news, this column is open for all gossip suggestions.

Well, the Quakers notched the unlucky 13th last Friday night at the expense of the Struthers Big Red. The lads were never in serious danger but the Wildcats went down fighting. Don McPhee had no trouble getting rid of the ball but the pill didn't seem to slip between the meshes.

Bill Shoop's handlers report that a dark horse has popped up to contest their protege's laurels. He is none other than Clark "Curly" Dinsmore, ex-Greenford speedster. Because of this unexpected competition, the Quaker "Thunderbolt" has been forced to add an extra five hours to his daily work-out.

A Kansas editor's definition of a woman is someone who reaches for a chair when she answers the telephone.

Dear Diary

Dear Diary,

Today started war time. We set our clock ahead one hour this morning. When I got up it was dark and the moon was out and the stars were shining. This noon when the bell rang I rushed down to the library just to find a sign which read "Closed". I didn't even have time to get to my study hall so I had to go to the office to get a slip. My goodness, but there were a lot of people in there. It took me ten minutes just to get to the desk.

Just as I got to my seat in the study hall, Twila Bartchy asked me a question and the study hall teacher gave us both rather dusty looks. Sis Mullins, Sally Campbell, Betty Cibula, Marilyn Flick, and Ruth Zeck keep the teacher pretty busy watching their goings on. Walter Leasch is forever chewing gum and this time he got caught. Janet Frantz and Eleanor Kish are carrying on a conversation up in front. Who was it that said school was all work and no play? We certainly have had a couple of good assemblies recently. Bruce Krepps and his helpers almost had the Salem High jitterbugs out in the aisles. Even some of the teachers couldn't resist his catchy rhythm.

After the game Friday night some of the basketball players were heard singing, "But we don't talk about that."

Have you seen any of Tom Roland's drawings? They're pretty neat. He's especially good at siren pictures, a la "Esq."

Dode West and Juanita Whaley are discussing the dates they had last night. There goes the bell so I will have to finish this next period. I made it into the library this time. It's always nice to have two study halls in a row because if one doesn't get into the library the first time he always has another chance. Here come Miriam Seeman, Virginia Mayhew, and Art Scheib. At the desk are Rachel Lou Keister, Vera Janicky, and Suzy Owens. I guess that's all the news, so

6 Students Complete Thespian Credits

Six new members were initiated into the Salem chapter of the National Thespian Society last week.

They were: Homer Asmus, Marie Kastenhuber, Lois Field, Irene Schmidt, Howard Krauss, and Arthur Scheib.

To become a member of the National Thespians, one must have twelve dramatic credits obtained by his work in plays, stage work or anything that is connected with school dramatics.

Each prospective member must have a unanimous vote by the members of the Thespian Club before being permitted to enter.

The purpose of the National Thespian Club is to further interest in high school dramatics.

Junior High Sees Geography Films

Geography films entitled "Holland and the Dikes" and "Canals of England" were shown to seventh grade students Tuesday and Thursday respectively in the study hall at Junior high.

The eighth grade pupils saw a hygiene film, "Mechanisms of Breathing" on Wednesday, and Thursday Mrs. Beman Ludwig gave a book review of "My Friend, Flicka" by O'Hara, during the activity period.

"And the Stars Heard", a play illustrating the effect of singing on Americans, was presented to the seventh grade during activity period Friday. Mrs. Lula McCarthy directed the play.

During its course the students joined in the singing of several well-known songs.

Those taking parts are: Ann Helm, Sonny Lewis, Billie McKee, Bob Oana, Lois Dunlap, Ansley Mitchell, Ruth Ballorinie, Lois Tisner, Mary Lou Vincent, Fred Garnt, Lee Sproat and a chorus of fifteen students.

Many a wife has made her own marital grave with a series of little digs.

Sal Guappone

Salvadore "Tut" Guappone possesses a long athletic career. He has played football for four years and has been on the basketball team for three. He originally played guard in football but this year he was shifted to the center slot which he held down the whole season. In basketball he is a clever ball-handler and a constant scoring threat. From his backcourt position he excels in long shots and tricky one-handed tosses from the vicinity of the foul line.

Seniors To Decide On Class Gift

Miss Ethel Beardmore, senior class adviser, stated that a meeting of the committee in charge of the senior class gift will be called soon.

Those making up the committee are the senior class officers; Ben Ware, president; Homer Asmus, vice president; and Lois Hoover, secretary-treasurer; and representatives from each senior home room; Dick Chessman 208, Donna Hasley 209, Rita Clare Pottorf 210, and Sidney Simon 212.

Seniors are asked to submit their ideas concerning their class gift to members of the committee.

It's gettin' kind of late. Sorry! There goes the first class bell, so until next time. Bye for now.
