

Fifteenth Annual Band Concert Held

Chris Paparodis, Junior, Appointed Business Manager By Mr. R. W. Hilgendorf

Paparodis Takes Over Post For Second Consecutive Year; Member Of Business Staff For Four Years

Chris Paparodis has been named business manager of the Quaker business staff for the 1944-45 year by Mr. R. W. Hilgendorf, advisor to the staff.

This will be Paparodis' second year as business manager of the staff, and his fourth year as a staff member. He has been vice president of his class and is a member of the student council. After being graduated from high school he plans to attend college.

"Mr. Lincoln's Wife," By Anne Colver, Now In Library

Another new book recently received in the library is MR. LINCOLN'S WIFE, a fictionalized biography, by Anne Colver. "The story is of an American woman—a plain woman—a simple woman... who lived to know the sting of slanderous gossip, the emptiness of widowhood—the loneliness of age—Abraham Lincoln's wife."

The book is a thoughtful character study of Mrs. Lincoln from a new and fair point of view. It is entertaining because it is written as fiction. Some reviewers criticize Miss Colver because she is not always accurate as to date and so on.

The heroine might have been any woman. Her marriage might have been any marriage. But when Mary Todd married Mr. Lincoln, she married Fate, too; and there was no going back. It is a dramatic story, full of colorful incidents and the flesh and blood of every day living. It is a picture of Mr. Lincoln at home.... He is exasperating, patient, funny, slow, mysterious, and at times difficult. Mary, who is no heroine, is a person you might have known, full of mistakes, good intentions, impatience, tenderness, moments of happiness and moments of disillusion. Mary married Mr. Lincoln because she loved him, and because she believed he needed her. However, long before the night he died she learned that he didn't need her, that he had never needed her nor anyone else.

Spanish II Classes Begin New Book Written By Cervantes

The Spanish II class has begun a new book called "Adventures De Dan Quijote," which means "The Adventures of Dan Quijote".

This book, written by Cervantes, is the acknowledged "Masterpiece of Spanish Art". The copy used by the Spanish class is the simplified version of the great work. No student should go through the Spanish course without reading this book, and this simplified version should lead them to reading the original.

S H S Again Placed On Accredited List of High Schools

Salem High school has again been placed on the list of secondary schools approved by the North Central association of Colleges and Secondary schools, it has been revealed by Mrs. B. G. Ludwig.

The association is an organization for accrediting secondary schools that meet required high school standards, and is the largest agency of its kind in the U. S. In order to meet approval by the association, a high school must maintain high standards of scholarship, instruction and equipment.

Chemistry Classes Study New Unit

The chemistry classes, under the direction of Mr. Paul Dodez, have been studying a unit about colloidal chemistry.

Last Thursday and Friday the classes saw a motion picture entitled "Freedom Rides on Rubber" which told about the sources of rubber that are available to the United States, especially the production of synthetic rubber.

German Classes Trans- late New Story In Class

The German classes are now translating the story, "Higher Than The Church." The story is about a boy who wishes to learn to be a famous woodcarver.

Miss Beardmore, instructress, said that the translating is very interesting, and she receives many amusing interpretations of the story from the students.

Biology Classes Take Field Trips to Find Birds

During the past two weeks, bird trips have been taken by Mrs. Cox's and Mrs. Mathews' biology classes. The bird hikes were taken so that each student, who hadn't done so previously, could have the opportunity of seeing and identifying ten different birds.

The classes have also been studying a unit on heredity and have spent several laboratory periods matching pennies and green and white beads to test Gregor Mendel's 1:2-1 theory of hereditary traits.

The second annual Mt. Union Music Festival was held at Mt. Union College on Friday, April 28. The Mt. Union Festival is primarily inaugurated to take the place of the Solo and Ensemble State Band and Orchestra Contest, because of wartime transportation difficulties. The Music Festival is expected to be held until the war is over, or possibly longer.

Mr. Chester M. Brautigam, Salem High Band director, was chairman of band activities for the festival.

Students winning honor of first chair positions in band and orchestra were Bob Ellyson, who won first chair trombone for his second consecutive year for the band; Calvin Critchfield, who won first position for the flute in the orchestra, and Eugene Mueller, first chair trumpet for orchestra.

Students who won the honor of playing in both band and orchestra concerts were Eugene Mueller, trumpet; Bill Scullion, trumpet, and Marjorie Zeller, French horn.

The program opened with THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER and continued with the following selections.

Semper Fidelis — a march by Sousa.

Grand Festival—an overture by Zamecnik.

Stars In a Velvet Sky—a trumpet solo played by Eugene Mueller and accompanied by Mary Lou Vincent, written by Clarke.

The Red Mill—selections by Victor Herbert.

Air Varié—a trombone solo by Harbor played by Bob Ellyson and accompanied by Grace Pales.

Bomber Command—Service song by Taubman.

Song of the Seabees—Service song by Lewis and DeRose.

Ariane—an overture by Boyer.

U. S. Army March—by Captain Thomas F. Darcy, Jr.

Cypress Silhouettes—a modern rhapsody of the South by David Bennett accompanied by Ann Helm and written by Georges Bizet.

Military Maestro—a march by R. D. Becker.

Marching Along—a fantasy by Domenic Savino.

The program was approximately an hour and a half long.

The band also presented a program to the Salem High student body on Thursday afternoon. The number in the program that made the biggest hit with the students was the three-part "VICTORY GARDEN." The first part was the Dance of the Rhubarb; the second part, Boogie Woogie Broccoli; and the third part, Carrot Capers.

America Fights For Rights

With possibly one exception, the Mexican War of 1846-1848, every war that the United States has fought has been closely tied up with human rights for some group. The Revolution started because the citizens of the then American Colonies had no representation in Parliament. The war of 1812 was largely to protect shippers and sailors on the seas. The Civil War, while based theoretically on the state rights controversy was really the result of a long struggle over Negro slavery. The Spanish-American War aimed to free the Cubans from oppression. The United States was pulled into the World War I by the unwillingness of the German Government to permit American citizens to travel the ocean "on their lawful occasions" as the traditional phase puts it.

The present war, from the standpoint of the Germans and Japanese who started it, is for the purpose of making them the rulers of the world and the people of every other country their slaves. The Japanese claim that their emperor is a direct descendant of the gods—"The Son of Heaven" they call him—and that they themselves are chosen by Heaven to force the Japanese religion, politics, and everything else Japanese upon the rest of the world.

Hitler and his German followers maintain that they are a pure Aryan—sometimes called Nordic—people and that Aryans are so superior to everybody else that they ought to be permitted to rule the world.

They are ready to persecute the Jews, the Slavs or anybody else that does not have their ancestry plus their ridiculous views.

Everyone knows that their views are completely absurd. There is no such thing as a pure race, unmingled with any other race, and there is no evidence that the so-called Nordic or any other race is superior to the rest of humanity.

So, again America is at war, fighting for the rights of every human being. In order to do this each and everyone of us must make the wartime sacrifice of forgetting our prejudices and doing everything we possibly can to clean this mess up, once and for all.

Hi Girls:

This warm weather has brought out some very cool looking fashions. Sal Campbell and Mollie Schmid even brought their shorts out. That is always a sure sign of summer.

Pigtails: All of the girls around school are trying to get their long locks off their necks these days. Some are getting feather bobs, but most of them are wearing pigtails. A few of the gals I have seen with them are: June Hoskinson, Mary Lou Haessly, Helen Pike, Joan Hannay, and Joey Works. Some of them have different colored bows and flowers tied to the ends of their pigtails. Inez Jones, Paula Kerr, Sis Welsh and Jeanne Redinger pinned their braids around their heads and put a ribbon at the top of each braid. All of the girls looked very cute and oh! so cool!

Leg Mitts: There is a new kind of leg make-up on the market now. It is a terry-cloth pad filled with color that you just dampen and brush over the legs. You don't have to be an artist to put this kind of make-up on. You can carry the pad in a water-proof container in your purse, and touch up your paint job in case of rain.

NEW NECKLACE: Have you all seen the heart shaped necklace with the gold wings in the center that Eileen Minser has been wearing? If you haven't, ask her to show it to you. Her favorite serviceman made the heart from the glass in the nose of a bomber. Eileen also has something very pretty on her finger from the same serviceman that she will be happy to show you. How about that, Eileen?

Bulletin Board: If your mother puts her foot down, as most mothers do, about your hanging pictures, dance programs, etc, on your bedroom walls, here is a suggestion that may help. Get a large piece of plywood and put a border of regular wood around the edges of it. The plywood can be covered with wallpaper or just left plain. Sis Keyes and Sal Campbell each have one of these bulletin boards in their rooms.

PAINTED SKIRTS. You can now paint your own designs on your skirts, girls. Just buy some unbleached muslin material and paint posies on it. There are special paints now available for this use.

BEADED DOLLS: The Youngstown Red Cross division is making darling little lapel dolls from beads and buttons that are donated to them. Mollie Schmid has one of these cute dolls. She tells me that last year they made over $1,600 by

Big Brother Interrupted by Little Brother; Joins Legion

The school day was at last at an end and Philbert, an average Salem High student, was walking home. At last, he thought to himself, he could do some studying. The elements were all in his favor; the radio was out of order, the phone had been disconnected and every member of his family was out of town except his little brother.

After supper Philbert began to study for a history test when he was interrupted by his brother who wanted to know how to solve a crossword puzzle (he was the intellectual type). Philbert obliged and was rewarded by having his history notes smeared with jelly.

After his brother had been gently ushered out of the room, Philbert began his history again. Then he was greeted by a loud commotion downstairs. After examining, Philbert found that his brother had accidentally been throwing marbles at their dog and trying to put salt on a recently fried canary's tail.

When he had calmed down the disturbance and had started to study once more he was greeted again by a wild scream. Suddenly two darts whizzed over his head and stuck in the wall in his Varga calendar. That was the last straw. Philbert closed his books, tied his brother in a chair and went to bed.

Of course Philbert knew he was too young for the army but he could always join the French Foreign Legion where he wouldn't be bothered by his little brother. So you see, that if you want to study, either tie your little brother up or don't study at all.

SALUTES RATED

Uncle Sam just reached his long, long arm out and grabbed a few more youngsters from the class of '44. (Darn good class.) Some of these victims are Art (I write a column and make a stab at track) Hoover, Paul (I own a truck) Englert, and Gene (wish I lived on Highland) Howell. Some crew, huh? Hoov and Paul are now fighting, mighty Marines, while Gene now hails the Army as his hat rack for a spell. Good luck, screwballs. We'll miss ya and we're hoping that those orders don't arrive before prom night.

EVER NOT TRUE

God made the world
..... and rested.
God made man
..... and rested.
Then God made woman.
Since then, neither God nor man has rested.

JUST CALL HIM VAUGHN

Well, here I am giving that hunk of an editor a write-up again. This time he really deserves it, though. Of course, I don't mean to infer that he didn't in the previous write-ups. He did, but this is exclusive. Ever don't mean maybe, either. Last week, Jack, Art, Paul, and Jock went up to witness the great Vaughn Monroe in Youngstown. Anyone who knows Rance knows that he sleeps, eats, thinks, talks, and drinks the music of Vaughn Monroe constantly. Getting back to the story: Our hero obtained the big maroon flash (car to you) from W. A. This fact really means something, too. By the time the fellas arrived in the big town, Rance was almost beside himself with enthusiasm. The guys tell me he was hard to control. Before entering the Palace theater he purchased a big poke of peanuts to amuse his abdomen. When V. M. appeared on the stage Rance was placed in a straight-jacket and he remained in it until Vaughn dragged his six feet three inches off the stage. Ever since this great night in Jack's life he talks constantly of . . . you know who. His famous words are "Say, —, I want to pull ya aside and talk to you separate about Vaughn." Someone told me the other day that morons lead a happy life and are to be envied. Well, kids, focus your envying power on Rance, the Editor.

COUPLE OF THE WEEK

Now, kids, I ain't sayin' this is true love or affection. I'm just sayin' this because these two morons have been seen together often in the past and present. They are Minnie Marosher and Jerry Kaufman. Of course, anyone knows that Kaufman isn't a datin' man. But when he does, it's usually the Marosher girl that he finds for a victim. If you don't go together, why don't you? If either of you humans is burned up at this article, don't head my direction. Run for the giver of the information. Who's that? Well, can't tell you his name but he has a talent for burping loudly.

INTELLIGENCE

I know a little History,
Some verses, too, by heart;
I know a little science,
I know a little Art.
I know a little Latin,
I know a little Greek.
He runs a little restaurant,
I eat there every week.

WONDERFUL SPRING

Since spring has made a hint of appearance, all you beavers seem to be taking to the two-wheelers. Esther Davis, Sis Mullins, Ruth Zeck, June Hoskinson, Betty Gibbs and Barb Butler are some of the victims of this type of spring fever. It's good for the hips, kids, but it sure does play havoc with the leg muscles. Take it easy, and if you find it's not too strenuous, let me know and I'll paint mine up.

Give a woman an inch and she thinks she's the ruler.

'Bye 'til next week. Happy weekend and good hunting.

Respectfully submitted,
"BELLS."

41st County Track Meet Staged Tonight

East Liverpool, East Palestine, Salem, Only Teams In Carnival

Quakers Favored To Win; Palestine Strong In Dashes While Liverpool In Mile Relay

The Salem High track team travels to East Palestine this afternoon to take part in the Forty-first Annual Country track meet.

East Palestine, East Liverpool and Salem are the only teams entered in the meet, since many schools have dropped track for this year.

East Palestine has proved powerful in the broad jump and discus in the past meets. East Liverpool has an improving squad which is strong in both the discus and the mile relay.

The Quakers seem to be the team favored to win because of their performances at Uhrichsville and at the McKinley Relays. The Salem thinclads will be out to avenge the last four years of defeats handed to them by East Palestine. Last year the Quakers went down to defeat to the tune of 74½ to 54½ in favor of East Palestine.

The Salem mile relay team has been slightly changed for today's performance. "Mutt" Schaeffer, Walt Brian, Dick Widmyer and Don Chappell will make up the mile relay team. Tony Hoover will run the half-mile as well as the mile.

Red And Black Take Ten Events To Win Triangular

Collecting 10 firsts in the 14-event triangular meet with Warren and Struthers, May 3, at Reilly Field, the Salem High thinclads scored 80½ points to more than double the total points made by the two opponents. Warren gained 38½ points and Struthers made 32½ points.

Charlie Dunlap piled up 17½ points for the Quakers by taking firsts in the broad jump, high jump and the 220-yard dash and tying for second in the 100-yard dash.

Flick Entriiken gathered 14 points in his three events—pole vault, high hurdles and low hurdles.

Quakers Take Third In Field Of 17 At McKinley Relays

Entriiken Stars For Red and Black With 11

Running up against stiff opposition, the Salem Quakers' track team captured third place in the third annual McKinley Relays, in which 17 schools took part, last Saturday. Akron North scored in 11 of the 17 events to win the meet with 50½ points.

Akron East gained 36 points for second place. The Quakers scored in 13 events to make a total of 30 points.

Flick Entriiken led the Salem tracksters by scoring 11½ points. Charlie Dunlap took first in the broad jump and tied for third in the high jump for a total of 7½ points.

John Murphy of Akron North was high point man of the meet as he took firsts in low hurdles, high jump, and broad jump.

Akron South scored 22½ points, Canton McKinley 20, Boardman 18½, Louisville 16½, Ravenna 14, Warren 9½, Akron Buchtel 7, Canton Lehman 7, Youngstown Rayen 6, and Burback 2. Niles, Massillon, Struthers, and Cuyahoga Falls failed to score.

Warning to Males, Get Prom Dates Now

Poor Susie! She wanted a date to the Junior-Senior Prom so bad. But she had no prospects in sight. Oh if she would just get a date she would ask for nothing more. She saw the most super-duper formal down town. Every afternoon when she went home from school, she passed the shop and admired it and hoped she might have the chance to buy it. But the way things looked she guessed that was too much to hope for.

The next day Susie went pass the shop the same as usual but to her horror she found the dress had been sold. She felt so down-hearted when she thought of another girl wearing it.

Days passed but still Susie had no date. Then one morning about a week before the dance she was walking to her home room when Marvin, a new boy at school, came up and asked her if she had a date to the Prom. She was so excited she could hardly speak but she finally recovered to say she would be glad to go with him.

The following afternoon she looked all over town for a formal and found three but none of them fit her. She decided she might have better success out of town but to her disappointment she found nothing. She didn't have time to make one and besides she didn't feel up to it. She had felt so tired the last couple days. That night she went to bed desperate for a solution to her problem. She lay awake all night and when morning came she felt so bad she wasn't able to go to school. Shortly, the doctor arrived and to Susie's dismay he pronounced it a nervous breakdown. "You need more rest and have you been worrying about something?" he asked.

So come on boys take this advice and get your Prom date early and save the weaker sex a lot of worry and unhappiness.

selling these dolls. They would like more beads and buttons, so if any of you have a broken string of beads or old buttons you don't want they will welcome them. You can give them to me and I will send them to them.

BOTTLE CAP BEANIES: I just heard about a new beanie that you can make during your spare time. All you need is about thirty milk bottle caps. Here is what you do. Cut a hole in the center of each cap—so it looks like a doughnut. Collect all the odds and ends of yarn you can find and cover each cap with yarn by winding it around and round. Next, sew the yarn covered caps together to form a band long enough to fit around your head. Then fill in with other yarn covered caps and you have the latest in lids, a bottle cap beanie.

PUT-UP JOB: I just heard of a new way to put your crowning glory up to make it curly. Just get some of your pappy's old socks and twist your hair around them and tie tightly. It really works, and socks are much more comfortable to sleep on than curlers or pins.

Junior High News

Gayle Greenisen of 8A was crowned Junior High's 1944 War Stamp Queen last Friday at the Junior High Association Dance with Doris Eyton, 7C, Sally Hurlburt, 8C, Gloria Vincent, 8F, and Shirley Stamp, 8B who finished behind her in the stamp contest in that order, as attendants.

Three more Ohio Travelogue films were shown in assembly this week, and the Hygiene classes saw a picture entitled "Houseflies." Thursday, the Junior High student body also saw a Dupont film called "Fashion's Favorite-Rayon."

Last Friday morning, Mr. Cope, Salem High track coach and boys' physical education teacher, spoke to the Sports club about track and his experiences when he saw the Olympics in Berlin, Germany, previous to the war.

The annual American Legion awards for the outstanding all-around Junior High Eighth grade boy and girl students and the Arta Snyder English prize for improvement in English will be presented as usual at the final promotion assembly, to be held May 29 this year, Mr. Early, Junior High principal announced.

Previous American Legion Award winners were 1940—Bob Cibula and Rachel Keister; 1941—Carl Ferreri and Jeanne Moore; 1942—John Plegge and Ruth Baltorinic; 1943—Fred Crowgey and Carolyn Butcher; while last year's winners of the Arta Snyder English prize were Phyllis Murphy and Donald Wright.

she would like to go to college.

Viv, loves to eat, and her favorite dish is chicken. She loves to dance, especially to the music of Fred Waring. Her favorite song at the moment is Love, Love, Love.

Everyone ought to know her by now so the next time you see her just say "Hello."

If you see a boy running around the halls answering to this description:

Curly brown hair recently crew cut, green eyes, about 5 ft. 11 in., and good looking.

This guy is president of the junior class and the juniors think he is O.K. as president.

He likes girls about the description of above personality...or should I say "girl" not "girls".

His college plans are undecided but he sort of hopes to go.

The kid's nickname is "Hop" and his favorite dish is "Viv". His favorite orchestra is Count Basie and his favorite song is "Love, Love, Love." Funny coincidence isn't it?

Well, by now you know I am talking about Lowell Edward Hoperich. Who fits the above description and if you don't know "Hop" don't tell anyone 'cause they'll think you're mighty queer.

A junior lass has been chosen for this week's "it" girl. She's rather quiet yet, not very—or something. You've probably seen her in her home room 206. Yes, Ruth Swaney. Ruth has blonde hair and blue eyes and the cutest nose.

Sing "When They Ask About You" to her and she'll swoon whether you have a bow tie on or not.

About 5' 6½" of space are taken up by Ruth when she's standing, and nearly 120 pounds, sideways.

Ruth's main peeve is the mispronunciation of her last name, O. K. "Sweeney"!

A "going steady" old flame is taking Ruth to the Prom. Sorry fellas, you're too late. His steady better watch out, "sighted blonde fell for same".

Following is a letter received from Joe Plegge, an alumnus of Salem High, by his brother, John, a sophomore.

Dear John:

I'm now somewhere in England. Sure is a beautiful country. Nothing much exciting happened, but I did get seasick. Oh! My G. I. head!

The first day at sea the ocean looked beautiful. My buddy and I used to watch the waves. The second day the ocean didn't look so hot; neither did I. The third day I was looking around for the real estate agent. I was in the market for some land. The fourth day you could have knocked me over with a feather. Now I know how Columbus felt. After a few days the ocean started to look pretty again. I'm O. K. now.

This is the prettiest country I have ever seen. Now I know why the English writers would go into the country to do their thinking. It's so quiet and peaceful.

The buildings here aren't like the sky-scrapers in the States. They are low and seem to run together. Kind of crowded, I should think.

Bye now,
Your brother,
JOE.

Are You One Of These

Editorial

So you didn't have any butter on your toast this morning! Now, isn't that just too bad? You remember Jimmy Jones, don't you? Well, he's down in the Pacific, and he hasn't had butter on his toast in months. He hasn't even had the toast.

Remember the ice cream you threw away last night? Maybe you didn't want it, but Bud Williams would eat it fast enough, if he had the chance. He's in England now, you know, and he hasn't had "home-made" ice cream for sixteen months.

We, the people "back home," have got to show our boys we are back of them. Don't cook or buy more than you need, and never buy black market goods—whether you need it or not.

Remember the old saying, "If you eat all the food on your plate tomorrow will be a nice day." And tomorrow WILL be a nice day—whether it rains or shines—when the war is over and the boys come home again.

Extend Sympathy

The students and teachers of Salem High school wish to express their deepest sympathy to Fay Lee, senior, in the recent death of her sister.
