Dallavaux Relates Mistakes Made by Students of Today

By JO ANN WHINERY

To try to recapture the charm and personality of John Dallavaux as he thoroughly held the attention and won the hearts of the student audience in assembly last Friday is to attempt an impossible task.

Speaking along the line of his own past experience and in a humorous manner that commanded attention, Mr. Dallavaux pointed out the errors in manners and conduct that students make daily.

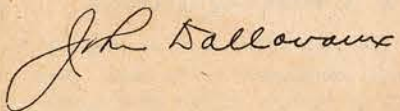

He illustrated in a very realistic fashion some of the remarks and actions of teen-agers and at the same time managed to convey his point to the audience.

In an interview after the assembly, Mr. Dallavaux revealed that he had been born in the lumber woods of Michigan where his father and mother had both died by the time he was fourteen years of age. As he frequently emphasized throughout that his talk, much of the credit for which he has now accomplished he gives to his mother's concern for his welfare and guidance in early problems, admitting at the same time that he resented her so-called "interference" then as much as young people desire independence today.

Upon completing his high school education, Mr. Dallavaux proceeded to Stanford university where he took up the study of law. He has written a book, "How to Raise a Brat," in which he discusses and gives advice for methods of dealing with the many problems of the younger generation. Another of his books is now being published under the title of "For Students Only" and, as its title implies, it is strictly for students to help them with many of their personality problems.

A complete summary of Mr. Dallavaux's purpose in these cross country lectures is given in the advice he directed to the Salem High undergraduates when he said, "Learn to give up the jalopy of today for the new car of tomorrow."

May we voice the hope that we may again have the opportunity to meet under the leadership of

New Textbooks Now In Use

Each year more and more requests have come from the students of Salem High for new courses in social studies. In response to these requests a new course in orientation and guidance is being taught for the first time this year. The new textbook entitled "Orientation and Guidance" is a replaced edition of an old course in social studies.

A third year course has been added to the agricultural series. The book used along with this course is entitled "Repairing Farm Machinery."

"Elements of General Business" and "Twentieth Century Bookkeeping" are the titles of two revised editions of out-dated business books.

Football Stand Pads Senior Treasury

A profit of approximately $140 was made by the seniors when members of their class had charge of the refreshment stand at the East Palestine game last Friday night, according to Miss Mildred Hollett, faculty adviser. Gross sales amounted to $274.

The following seniors were in charge of the stand: Eleonora Buta, Carna Arbanitis, Joan Smith, Mary Ibele, Joe Bachman, Polly Ailes, Mary Jane Coffee, Shirley Baldinger, Jennie Mozina, Sylvia Myers, Marge Haessly, Donna Finley, Nancy Bates, Lowell King, Betty Mills, Ruth Pollock, Jerry Rice, Betty Parker, Ed Menning, Jerry Miller, Jo Ann Whinery, John Hermann, Martha Vaughn, Nick Zantal, and Phyllis Sullivan.

The stand schedule for the remainder of the season is as follows: sophomores, Wellsville game; juniors, Youngstown Rayen game; freshmen and G. A. A., East Liverpool game; and Hi-Tri, Lisbon game.

Journalists To Meet At McDonald Oct. 13

Castesby Cannon, city editor of the Youngstown Vindicator, will discuss newspaper writing and style when members of the Tri-County Journalism Association hold their first meeting of this term at McDonald High School next Wednesday.

Refreshments and entertainment in the form of dancing and swimming will be provided.

Student Council Sponsors Safe-Driving Demonstration

New Officers, Tolson; Hermann, Bachman, Ross, Jones, Back National Safety Program

The Student Council safety project got underway this morning with the showing of a safe-driving movie in a student assembly and a demonstration on driving conducted on Third Street by the Farm Bureau.

Frosh On Rampage Pursuing Seniors

"Here they come! Let's go this way down this alley."

No, it is not the juniors and seniors chasing the freshmen. To be truthful, it's the other way around. The freshmen have just turned salesmen and have really put their best into selling their pencils.

In selling their wares, these kids get all kinds of excuses, but they must to be super-salesmen as everyone seems to have at least three pencils.

Some people like to avoid being sold one of these pencils and go into lengthy lectures on why they don't need a pencil, but somewhere in the confusion the frosh boy or girl disappears with their nickel and they are left with a pencil.

Others find that "I have one" and "I just bought one" are boldly answered with "Save it for a rainy day."

Teachers really go into debt to satisfy the little people, or, maybe we should say they are thrown into debt.

If anyone has been overlooked by these guys and gals, please post your name somewhere so that you may get your supply for the year.

310 Is Leading In Pencil Contest

When results of the Freshman pencil contest were tabulated Tuesday, homeroom 310 had 1st place with a total sale of 612 pencils. Rooms 307 and 303 were running second and third, respectively.

Each homeroom has representatives in charge of distributing the pencils and collecting the money due. They are Daird Kelly, 101; Vonda Sponseller, 310; Beverly Shuck, 303; Lois Smith and Joan Robusch, 305; Mary Lou McGaffick and Pat Mayhew, 306; Shirley Hilliard, 307; Phyllis Flick, 308; Donna Campf, 310.

The pencils this year are red, blue, and gray with "S. H. S. Boost Salem High Quakers" printed along the side.

The idea of selling pencils was established 10 years ago by Miss Sara Hanna, a former teacher at Salem High. The purpose of the contest is to give the freshmen a goal to achieve and to earn the money needed to pay for the class picture in the Quaker annual, flowers for deaths in the family of classmates, and the Freshman-Sophomore party.

Following their procedure of the past three years, the Columbiana County Health League will provide facilities for Salem High School students to have chest X-rays on October 25, Miss Lillian Schroder, executive secretary of the league, announced recently.

The Student Council will assist in the plan by giving talks and answering questions in their various homerooms, by making posters demonstrating the need of such a procedure, and by preparing pupils for the X-ray.

The aim this year, as always, is to have 100 per cent of the juniors and seniors take advantage of the plan. Last year this goal was achieved in nearly every school in the county and so the rivalry has grown even greater this year in Salem.

The need of X-rays has been well-illustrated in pamphlets, books, and so forth. Yet, perhaps, some people need to be reminded again that the pain of tuberculosis is apparent only after it has advanced to a very serious stage, that no one is ever too old to get TB, that everyone should have an X-ray at least once a year and that the sooner treatment is started the better is the chance to live a normal healthy life.

All students are urged to think the matter over, remembering that there is no charge for this service and that it takes only a small amount of time. The results are security and health.

Students participating in the demonstration were Wayne Slosser, Dick Tolson, Marilyn Eberwein, and Martha Whinery. It was their duty to show how quickly a car could be stopped and various other details concerned with safe driving.

The safety project is a part of the Council's activities for the year and is in cooperation with the national organization of student councils.

The new student council officers are as follows: Dick Tolson, president, John Hermann, vice-president; Barbara Ross, secretary; Joe Bachman, treasurer; and Stella Jones, parliamentarian.

Ludwig Lends Locker Logic

To eliminate the excessive slamming of locker doors which has been noticeable in the corridors, the janitors have fixed fifteen lockers recently. One locker needs parts which are not available and so cannot be repaired.

Most of the locker slamming occurs just because students are in a hurry or wish to cause a disturbance. Mr. Ludwig requests that pupils refrain from this carelessness henceforth to promote quieter halls and less damage to school property.

ASSOCIATION HAS 670 MEMBERS

A total of 670 Association members to date has been reported by R. W. Hilgendorf, school treasurer. This is 22 less than last year's membership. Mr. Hilgendorf states that a total of 700 is needed for the Association plan to be a complete success.

Although the Association contest officially ended when room 108 reported a 100 per cent membership, students may still purchase tickets from their homeroom teachers.

Art Classes Study Pictorial Composition

Forty-six pupils this year have selected art class as a part of their daily schedule. Mrs. Ethel Headrick the instructor, reports that the students are learning pictorial compositions for the first few weeks.

Among the many "musts" in this work are to fit the pictures to the space available, to show the center of interest in the picture, to contrast dark and light, and to use the various strokes to designate different kinds of substances, materials and surfaces.

Shirts 'n Shirts

By Marcy Vaughn

STRICTLY FOR FRESHMEN

It's harder for some people to get acquainted than it is for others. This fact is made more noticeable when ninth graders come into contact with older boys and girls who wish to command as much respect as possible. The upperclassmen enjoy having the frosh look up to them, and this is as it should be. We also realize it is rather hard for a person to feel at ease when he believes someone is superior to him. Therefore, the seniors have compiled a few suggestions which may help the freshmen feel more at home in high school.

IT'S NICE TO BE NICE

Look around you when you're walking to and from classes next Monday. Would you rather have as a friend the boy or girl who has the cheeriest smile on record, or the insignificant little fellow who is sliding along as close to the lockers as possible? Now, and this is the hardest part, remember that you look just about the same to other people as they look to you. If you're sure you're one of the fellows with a grin, that's fine, but maybe you're not, and it will be pretty hard to make other boys and girls want to meet you if you don't look as though you'd enjoy meeting them.

IT'S NICE TO BE NEAT

Very few holes in your sox sprout in a day, and while you are inspecting them, sneak a glance at those loafers. Do they reflect the sunlight, or would a little polish improve their condition? Remember, too, that skirts and pants often look better pressed and that you're the one to do it. No senior has to ask mother to keep him neat.

IT'S NICE TO BE POPULAR

Sure it is, but there's a lot more to popularity than the gang of boys around your locker. Popularity also includes little things like having your teachers like you and being asked to serve on a committee or to run a special errand.

IT'S NICE TO BE COURTEOUS

"Emily Post" isn't just a name, it's a tradition. You'll be so much more at ease when you haven't any doubts about when to go down the aisle first or which side of the sidewalk to walk on. We may as well stress that it doesn't aid your social prestige when you skate around a corner, bowling over a teacher or another student in the doing.

A LITTLE CONCEIT NEVER HURTS ANYBODY

By this we aren't referring to the 'Oh I am so nice' type of self-love, but to the satisfaction you can get out of being able to do a certain thing well. It isn't necessary to show other people how brainy you are, but it will do wonders for your own particular self-confidence.

DON'T ACT TOO "GROWN UP"

Nothing, in the minds of upperclassmen, boys and girls alike, is attractive about the freshmen who spend half their natural lives in the local hangouts 'impressing' people by smoking or talking loudly. You've just begun your teens. Don't brand yourselves permanently as a show off.

IN CLOSING

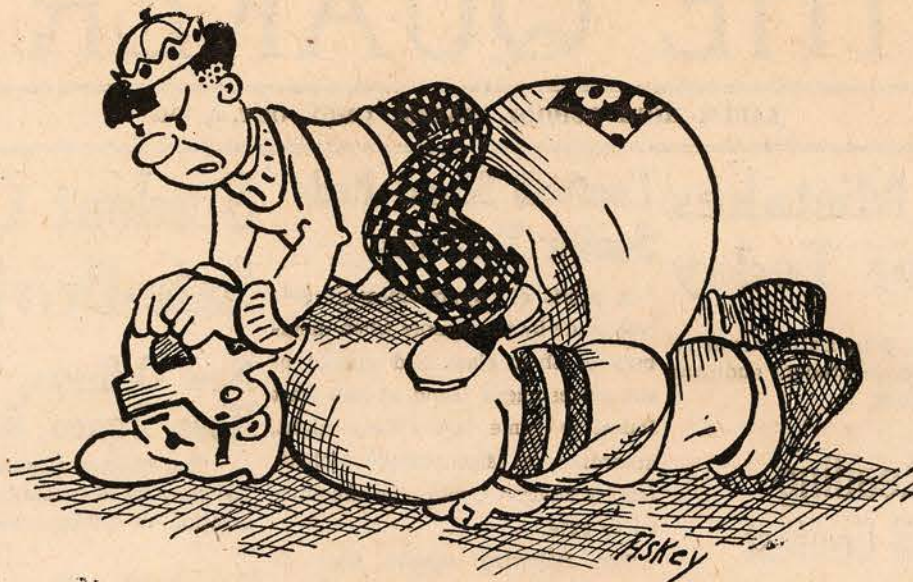

We sincerely hope that this column will help you to enjoy the four short years you will spend here as much as high school can possibly be enjoyed.

Dear Editor:

As a compromise, so that the teachers will have no bother checking attendance in pep assemblies, I have a suggestion so easily understood and reasonable that even a green freshman would have to agree to it.

This year each homeroom was assigned a definite section in the auditorium in which the students are to sit. In pep assemblies, why can't the students within that section sit in any seat in their assigned section? The teachers would be familiar with what students were supposed to sit in that section, and would have NO bother in checking attendance.

Hoping that the students may have ONE of the many things requested through the editors of our paper.

The Student AGAIN.

Dear Student:

Your plan this time has greater possibilities than your previous attempts. Mr. Ludwig has agreed that if your homeroom teacher will consent to take the roll in spite of a revised seating plan, his permission is given. Wishing you luck.

The Editor.

I think that I shall never see,
A poem as lovely as a she.
A she whose loving hand is pressed,

NIGHT SHIFT

I'll never get my homework done,
It's midnight and I've just begun.
Of course, it had to be postponed
When certain parties telephoned.
Then, too, I simply couldn't cope

And, by the time that Bob was through
I had my hair and nails to do.
Oh, evening duties are so myriad
I thank my stars for Study Period!

Mr. Jones: "Why don't you answer me?"
Freshman: "I did shake my head."
Mr. Jones: "Well, I couldn't hear it rattle clear over here!"

There was a train wreck and one of the two traveling authors felt himself slipping away from this life.

Mark Miller, the 250 pounds of muscle, found out a startling thing the other day. Until this year, he always thought that a mushroom was a place to neck.

Editorially Speaking...

It's Your Quaker

Have you ever taken time to think of the huge roll newspaper publications play in the rush of modern living? How small and insignificant our school paper must seem compared to the big news syndicates and nationally known magazines whose articles can shock a nation or influence a world.

But to us, at any rate, the Quaker is the same as a larger journal. It does affect a small group in a small way. It is a way of bringing news to its buyers, expressing opinions, and offering a link to a big part of these lives, namely Salem High School.

We start in again this year with high ideals and hopes of living up to these ideals. This publication is not only the project of the Quaker staff, but also the project of each and every student of Salem High School. We would like for everyone to have a hand in making our paper a success for a school paper fails in its purpose if it is not affected by the whole school. It would be difficult, however, and impractical, to have everyone writing articles, but all can have a say. We welcome at all times criticism and suggestions. In this way, we can come nearer to printing a paper that meets the approval of everyone.

The Quaker has come a long way. With your help it can go still farther. On the interest you show in the backing of this, our school paper, rest our hopes for its future.

HUGE SUCCESS

The turn-out for the dance at the M. E. after the game Friday really showed how "hungry" the kids were for the long-forgotten swing and sway. We want to thank the Jaycees whole-heartedly for sponsoring this dance for us. We hope to have a place to dust the bottoms of our shoes after every home game.

IN THE SPRING

For Marilyn Bradley and Bob Howell it doesn't matter what the season or the temperature, love a blossoming out all over the place. Marilyn is a sweet, sedate junior who never takes her eyes or thoughts from Bob, a very nice senior lad who feels the same way about her.

THREE CHEERS FOR KENNY!

In that perfectly marvelous assembly last Friday morning, Kenny Zeigler showed more nerve and spunk than anyone else in school. All of us sat there thinking of something we might say, but we were all just a little afraid that we might be made a fool. But Kenny forgot about that, stood up, and said what he had to say. With nerve like that, we're sure glad that Kenny's on OUR football team.

WHICH REMINDS US

Our wonderful football team really snapped back into action against Palestine, didn't they? George Reash deserves a big round of applause for handling the team from quarterback position as he did. Our loss doesn't mean a thing with a victory like that staring us in the face. Best of luck goes with you guys when you meet Timken tomorrow. Let's really rock them!

MORE DANCES

The Romanian Hall was the scene of another dancing party Saturday night sponsored by freshman Millie Malers. This was a very nice gesture on Millie's part to provide entertainment for the kids. Mrs. Pelley from Junior High and Miss Zimmerman chaperoned while the guys and gals waltzed around to records.

YOUR VOTE IS NECESSARY

With our "elders" thinking about the coming election, this column feels we should have some experience in this voting business. The candidate we are to pick are a bit different, though. They are Personality Miss and Personality Mister of the senior class. Since this is choosing seniors, we are going to ask that only seniors cast votes. Next week it will be juniors, then sophomores, and finally the freshmen. (By that time the freshmen should know each other well enough to vote.) A ballot for this purpose will be found on Page 3 of this paper. Bring your votes to the Quaker office opposite room 306 by next Friday at the latest. Who are the Personality Miss and Mister of the senior class? Only YOUR vote can tell.

Football Personality For Week Is Senior Gridder Jerry Smith

By VIC LAKE

This week's football personality is Jerry Smith. He is a senior lad, who has been out for football every year since he started to Salem High. Jerry must like sports because he has been out for basketball the last three years and says he is going out again this year. During his first two years he also went out for track.

Smitty plays right guard and like other lineman he isn't heard of much during the game. But he is rated by most fans as Salem's best lineman this year. This is due to his great pep and school spirit.

"Mr. Lipaj's metal class" was the prompt answer given by Jerry to what he likes best about S. H. S. At the same time he said his pet peeve was his fourth period study-hall! (We wonder what he could have against that one?)

ing to have some competition because Jerry says his greatest ambition is to be a football coach. He would like to go to Slippery Rock State Teachers College to learn the "tricks of that trade." With his football background, Jerry should make a pretty good coach.

Smitty's best-remembered moment was in his junior year when he was chosen for the All-County football team.

Jerry wouldn't come right out and say what his favorite pastime is, but you can bet your boots that if the question had been "who," he would have said in his own shy (?) manner something about a certain cute little senior lass.

The "Corner" is Smitty's favorite hangout, and his favorite foods are steak and sauerkraut. For a good book he suggested "American History and Government" and then quickly took that back by saying he likes "Rebel Halfback" just as well.

Rita Hayworth and big Burt Lancaster are his top movie stars, while Vaughn Monroe holds his own for a swell orchestra. Jerry thinks that there will never be another song like "Cornbelt Symphony." (If he only knew how true that is!)

Whatever the future holds, Smitty, here is a toast to you from Salem High for success in your later years!

Officers of the Safety Patrol for the coming year are Mervin Thomas, President; Eddie Votaw, indoors captain; and Billy Buchman, outdoor captain. Co-workers are Mike Pastier, Don Harsh, and Peter Barentine. Raincoats, belts, badges, and flags make up the new equipment of the patrol.

The library is being used by the students as a study hall in order that every pupil have a chance to make use of it. It is also open in the afternoons this year. Librarians are both seventh and eighth grade students.

Sixty boys tried out for football under Mr. Fitzsimmons and Mr. Phillips. Suits will be distributed after the coaches have selected the squad. Games between the various homerooms feature the new school program, while all-star tackle football try-outs and practices will be held at the Junior High field west of Hope Cemetery.

BOYS' GYM

Boys' physical education classes, after one week of blackboard discussion, are engaged in touch football games at Reilly Field each day.

The following captains have been chosen: D. Fife, D. Coffee, J. Votaw, R. Abrams, D. Sobek, R. Flugan, D. Brautigam, and C. Click.

Also J. Bergman, L. Herman, J. Costa, J. Leipper, G. Alek, J. Harrigan, D. Steffler, and V. Guappone. And Howell G. Vaughn, G. Brudery, B. Martin, G. Bosu, P. Provins, L. Wolfe, L. Cramer, R. Hill, R. Zimmerman, B. Bush, and R. Votaw.

Highlights of Scholastic Clubs

Thespians

The first meeting of the Thespians was held Monday evening to make plans for the initiation of new members. Three students are now seeking admission to the club. They are Lois Firestone, Nancy Stockton, and Donna Schoss.

Thespian Troupe 358 is a unit of a national organization for those Salem High School students who have earned twelve points in dramatics and have at least a C average.

These points are earned by working on various committees, by taking part in the Junior or Senior play, by seeing special dramatic performances or musical hits on the stage, and by acting in various one-act plays put on during the year.

The officers for the year are Bob Askey, president; Jerry Rice, vice-president, Martha Whinery, secretary-treasurer; Don Silver, clerk. Miss Irene Weeks is the adviser.

Uncle: Well, well! How do you like school?

Nephew: Closed.

Lady (showing her dog to a little girl):

He's just like one of the family.

Little Girl: Which one?

French Club

Mary Ibele, senior, reviewed the first chapter of the book "France" at a recent meeting of the French Club. This book is an up-to-date account of French happenings.

Members of this club had charge of the refreshment stand at the Reserves and Freshman game Monday night.

Coin and Stamp

At its regular meeting Monday night the Coin and Stamp Club held a stamp auction to aid the members with their collections and to acquire experience in such matter. New stamps which had appeared during the summer were also discussed.

It was decided that the club would exhibit at the Salem Stamp show to be held at the Memorial Building, October 22, 23 and 24.

Barrettmens Will Meet Timken Trojans There

Salem Gridders Travel To Canton Tomorrow; Fawcett Stadium To Be The Scene Of Action

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

If the Quakers don't pull a "Boston Red Sox" tomorrow, they will bring home the bacon for the third time in four tries. The Salem eleven will travel over Canton way to meet the Timken Trojans. The game is scheduled to be played at big Fawcett Stadium. Just the thought of playing a game with a Canton team in this stadium suggests a hard game. Despite the fact that Fawcett Stadium is a big place, the playing field is no longer than our own Reilly Field. The place of the game shouldn't affect the score too much.

Although they are rated as one of the weaker teams in Canton, the Trojans will be far from a push-over for the Quakers or any other team. They have lost games this year but have faced a very tough schedule. They have a team that can easily be compared with Ravenna, the team that beat the Quakers here two weeks ago.

The Salemites looked good last Friday against East Palestine's Bulldogs, but it must be remembered that Palestine had to dig deep down into their bag of reserves to find a starting lineup. The two Bulldog mainstays and co-captains, Bill Aldrich and Ward Russell, missed the game because of injuries.

Here is the Quaker lineup that stopped East Palestine. How will it do against Timken?

Pos.	Wt.	Yr.
E.—Joe Alessi	157	4
E.—Fritz Roth	155	2
E.—Jay England	160	2
T.—Bob Muhleman	163	3
T.—Ken Zeigler	194	4
T.—Walter Hank	192	4
T.—Ford Joseph	184	3
G.—Bill Miller	155	4
G.—Jerry Smith	161	4
G.—Bill Pasco	175	1
C.—Bill Reynolds	190	4

C.—Ken Schrom	165	4
C.—Bill Zeck	144	4
Q.—George Reash	185	3
H.B.—Walt Ehrhart	180	4
H.B.—Lige Alexander	159	3
H.B.—Ed Bozich	185	4
H.B.—Ray Yeager	160	4

Quaker fans will be looking forward in having Tom Miner's name back on this lineup for tomorrow's game. His experience along with the good job of ball handling that George Reash has been doing will give Salem a big boost in that department.

Reserves, Frosh Play First Game

Salem High Reserves and Freshmen played their first football game of the season Monday evening at the Reilly Stadium with the Freshmen winning a victory over East Palestine in a preliminary.

The Frosh easily defeated East Palestine 14 to 7 and exhibited promising Varsity material for future years in Salem High.

The Reserves lost their game to Youngstown Chaney Reserves with a score of 41 to 0. Chaney scored in every quarter at least once.

Quakers Stomp Bulldogs 27-0

By DON SLIVER

The Quaker eleven came back last Friday to trounce the East Palestine Bulldogs at Reilly Stadium with a final score of 27 to 0.

On the kickoff, Salem receiving, the Quakers returned the kick to their own 48-yard line. On the first play, Alexander took the ball around left end and with excellent interference, romped the full 52 yards for the 6 points. Ehrhart missed the conversion but an offside penalty against the Bulldogs gave Salem another attempt. On the second try, Walt booted the pigskin between the posts for the extra point. The score stood 7 to 0.

After the kickoff, Palestine got no where fast, and Salem took over on their 33. The Red and Black moved down to the Palestine 16, where they lost the ball in a fumble.

In the second quarter, Yeager intercepted a Bulldog pass on the Palestine 24, shook four tacklers, and scooted the 24 yards for a touchdown. Ehrhart missed the point.

In the second half, after returning a punt to the 25, Ray Yeager took the ball through the line to dash for the 75 yards to make Ray's second touchdown, Ehrhart making the extra point.

In the final quarter Yeager intercepted a Palestine pass on the Salem 38 and returned the ball to the 45. Ehrhart took the ball through the right side of the line for the fourth TD of the game. Walt's kick was good and the score stood 27 to 0.

Cross Country Sets Schedule

Troy Penner, cross-country coach, recently announced the year's schedule as follows:

- Warren—Here—Tues., Oct. 5
- Boardman—Here—Fri., Oct. 8
- E. Liverpool—There—Tues., Oct. 12
- Boardman—Here—Fri., Oct. 15
- Mahoning Valley Meet at Warren—Sat., Oct. 23

As I See It

By Tom Miner

Salem High returned to the victory track last Friday in an impressive way. Flashing a well-balanced attack, Salem gave notice that they have settled down and mean business from here on in.

Although Palestine was weak and no match for the Barrettmens, Salem deserves a pat on the back for their progress during the week. Salem's line had a lot of talk and "zip," and each man was really on the ball. There were no individual stars as each player on the line showed up equally well.

"Lige" Alexander and Ray Yeager were Salem's ball-totting leaders this week. "Lige," running beautifully, tallied on the first play of the game, running 52 yards to pay dirt. Ray Yeager, a brilliant back, ran 24 yards after intercepting a Bulldog pass. In doing so, he shook off four would-be tacklers. He also raced 75 yards for his second T. D., after taking a lateral from George Reash.

Salem's line held well and protected passer George Reash. George completed three out of six, for a 500 mark.

Salem's defense showed improvement over last week's performance. Bob Muhleman, left tackle, played a nice game. The line backers held up wonderfully halting the ball carriers quick with good hard tackles.

Saturday, Salem treks to Canton to encounter the Canton Timken Trojans at Fawcett Stadium. Few fans will forget last year's game, so try to make the trip and back the Quakers to the limit.

GAME SIDELIGHTS

"Lige" thrilled fans from the first play, by shooting 52 yards for a score. . . . Walt Ehrhart did a lot of fine kicking for Salem; Bob Muhleman started his first game Friday and gave a good account of himself. . . . "Little Boy" Faulkner ran like a streak of lightning on his initial try, scampering 13 yards. He would have scored had he not tripped. . . . Fred Csepke is nursing a sprained ankle. It kept him out of the game.

Friday. . . . The "Quartette," which sang at halftime was good. . . . Salem fans didn't turn out too well last week. Only 3,869 fans attended the tussle. The team took the Ravenna defeat and recovered from it. Maybe since Salem is on the winning end this week, "Mr. Salem Fans" may turn out Saturday night. . . . Here's hoping they do. . . . Salem's cheerleaders and student cheering section deserve a pat on the back. Both are so much an improvement over what they were last year. . . . Salem averaged 10.3 per try last week in the Palestine game. Very good! . . . Monday of this week, the reserves and freshman squads had their first of a number of Monday night doubleheaders. We hope a lot of students will get to these games to cheer for Salem High's future stars.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Two junior gridders, making their first start of the year, stole the spotlight this week. They are George Reash and Bob Muhleman. Bob, left tackle, played a good game and gave indications that he intends to keep that spot. George, bossing the Barrett men, was a standout on offense and defense and did some fine tossing. Keep up the good work, fellows!

Patient: That was a wonderful back treatment, Doctor. Was it my sacroiliac?

Doctor: No. Your suspenders were twisted.
