Washington, a Tradition of Truth and Tribute Pupils Assume Posts Of School Personnel

By Carol Johnson

America gave the world George Washington. If our American institutions had done nothing else, that alone would have entitled them to the respect of mankind. To know the history of our country is to know Washington. He stands justly with the greatest statesmen the world has ever known. It is unusual for a famous person to have his birthday celebrated before his death, but that happened to George Washington.

Today, when we need leaders of high caliber as never before, it is well to consider some of the characteristics that have made George Washington's name live through the years. He had great strength of character. Strength of character is an essential quality in the man who builds a nation if that nation is to endure.

Washington's self-control, dignity, and deportment have never been surpassed by any other American. On rare occasions when there was wrung from him a burst of anger, it was almost instantly quelled by the dominion of his will. He was modest, without diffidence; sensible to the voice of fame, without vanity; independent and dignified, without either asperity or pride.

Washington faced situations, at times, which appeared almost hopeless. He was a gentleman farmer with, in his own words, "inferior endowments from nature," little military knowledge and a distaste for the conniving and intricacies of politics. But his strength of character, self-discipline, idealism and honesty brought victory in the War of Independence and the inspiration for the forging of a freedom which has made ours the greatest country in the world.

We owe a debt of gratitude to George Washington for our independence and freedom. He is rightfully called "The Father of His Country." One historian put it this way, "Providence left him childless that his country might call him father."

After having raised his country by his exertions to the rank of an independent state, George Washington closed his career by voluntarily giving up the power which a grateful people had bestowed upon him.

Today the United States has need of great leaders to keep a lasting peace. We live in a hope that a man of high character and honesty and determination, like Washington, will appear to help us start anew.

Frosh Sell Pencils As Contest Begins

The Freshman class has once again launched a pencil selling campaign similar to the one at the beginning of the first semester. The pencils, which are being sold for five cents each, bear the printed legend, "S.H.S.—Boost Salem High Quakers." Contrary to the ones formerly sold, these pencils have white stripes lengthwise, although still appearing in green, red, and blue.

Homeroom 310, the winner of the first contest, has made the best showing so far in this drive. Pencils will continue to be sold throughout next week or until the supply is exhausted.

Freshmen from each homeroom have been appointed to take charge of the sales. These chairmen are Jim Edgerton and Jim Garlock, 101; Joyce Tilley and Nancy Weidenhof, 201; Dana Rice and Mary Althouse, 303; Dorothy Pozniko and Betty Shephard, 305; Barbara McArthur and Millie Maier, 306; Virginia Holt and Louise Humphreys, 307; Everett Crawford and Bob Dunn, 308; and Donna Campf, 310.

Chorus To Present Assembly Program

The advanced chorus, under the direction of Thomas Crothers, Music Supervisor, will present a program of musical selections to the faculty and students in an assembly next Thursday.

Included in their repertoire are "With a Hey, and a Hi and a Ho, Ho, Ho"; "Winter Wonderland"; "O Lovely Heart"; Fred Waring's arrangement of "Battle Hymn of the Republic"; and "Father William" from the "Alice in Wonderland Suite."

A song fest for the entire audience will also be directed by Mr. Crothers. "I've Been Workin' on the Railroad" and "Far Away Places" were selected by the chorus for this part of the program.

Pat Thompson Proves To Be Popular Person

The truth is out at last! We have in our midst a real, live fiend! Her favorite program is "Inner Sanctum" and her favorite author is Edgar Allen Poe.

This creature may be identified by her dark blonde curly hair, slenderness, and blue eyes. She answers to the name of Patty Thompson. Other information is as follows:

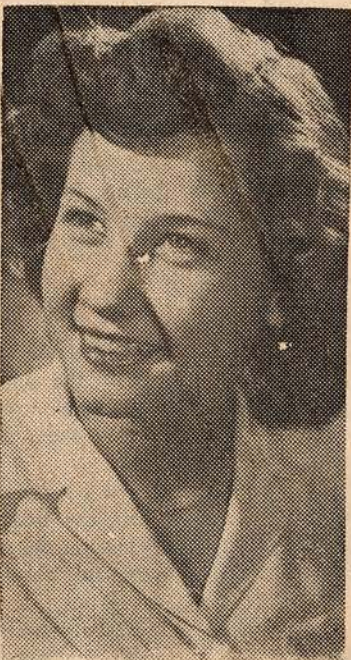

Like any other person, Patty loves to eat and swiss steak and candied sweet potatoes are her favorite dishes when they are finished off with strawberry pie topped with whipped cream. Her preference in clothes looks to comfort with slacks or jeans, and sloppy shirts.

Among Pat's likes are Tommy Miner (how'd that get in here?) parties, people with a sense of humor, and a gab-fest with the girls. She likes to spend her leisure time dancing and telling jokes.

Training rules, American History and Government tests, and people who never give her any news for her column (Studes, please take notice!) are some of her dislikes. But her main peeve is the "constant lure" of Recreation Billiards, or seniors, who act like freshmen, (or even younger.)

Council Sponsors Students Day Program To Create Interest in Teaching Profession

Today was Students Day in Salem High. Students took over the administrative, teaching, and janitorial jobs of the personnel under the sponsorship of the Student Council.

Each student participating in this activity followed the entire daily schedule of the person for whom he was substituting.

Jerry Miller presided in the principal's office, taking the place of Mr. Ludwig; Darrell Askey substituted for Mr. Allen; Everett Crawford, Mr. Barrett; Lawrence Vasilevich, Miss Beardmore; Ruth Winkler, Miss Bickel; Audrey Anderson, Mr. Brautigam; Lowell King, Mr. Callahan; Jean Huddleston, Miss Cope; Tom Zimmerman, Mr. Cope; Paul Colannani, Mrs. Cox; Ben Bailey, Mr. Crothers; Carina Arbanitis, Mrs. Groves; George Taflai, Mr. Guiler; Galen Brandt, Mr. Hagdorn; Donald Getz, Miss Hanna; Bob Askey, Mrs. Headrick; Helen Gottschling, Mr. Henning.

Jim Cusack, Miss Johnston's English classes; Joe Bachman, Miss Johnston's French class; Ed Menning, Mr. Jones; Mary Jane Coffee, Miss Lehman; Gene Dean, Miss McCready; Kenny Baker, Mr. Miller; William Brelih, Mrs. Mulbach's English I classes; Polly Ailes, Mrs. Mulbach's English III classes;

Nancy Stockton, Mr. Olloman; Kenny Schrom, Mr. Pepper; Leo Kline, Mrs. Ryser; Ed Stefane, Mr. Swanger; Jerry Harroff, Mr. Tarr; Pat Coe, Mrs. Tarr; Gloria Leone, Mrs. Taylor; Shirley McCave, Miss Thorp; Martha Whinery, Miss Weeks; and Nettie Housel, Miss Zimmerman.

Other members of the staff were replaced by the following: Janet Brautigam, Marge Willis; David Jones, Mr. Riech; Jennie Smith, Mr. Fineran.

The purpose of Students Day is to acquaint the pupils with the tasks involved in the teaching profession and to provide an opportunity for actual teaching practice. It is hoped that this practice will induce more interest in this line of work.

This third annual affair was supervised by Dick Dougherty and Miss Helen Thorp, Council chairman and adviser, respectively.

Private Confab with Dean Is Result of Race with Bell

So you're late again. Sure I saw you running up the stairs. Why you were only a couple of steps from your homeroom door when the bell stopped ringing.

Your homeroom teacher was most unreasonable. You'd think he would realize your difficulties and try to help you instead of making it harder. After all you have been improving. At the beginning of the year you were almost an hour late, and now you've cut it down to a split second. The trouble is that the second always splits the wrong way.

What a pity! You didn't even get to see Mary this morning, and at this rate you won't even be able to meet her in the hall before first period. There's an awfully long line in front of the Dean's office.

Don't you wish your knees would stop shaking? You really shouldn't be scared after all the experience you've had. You'd think this was the first time this had happened. What was it that Mr. Callahan said yesterday? "One more time and---" and WHAT? Can't be too bad though. Or can it?

Well, it's your turn now. Here comes the last guy out. Boy! Does he ever look glum! Well, go on in and in case I'm not around when you come out, I'll see you in 205 tonight.

Quaker Editorial Staff Adds Eight Reporters

Eight freshmen and sophomores were approved this week to serve as cub reporters on the Quaker weekly editorial staff, according to Miss Betty Ulichny, adviser.

They are Michael Silver, Ann Rufer, Dolores McElroy, Jean Cameron, Dolores Buta, Joanne Wilms, Don Wirtz, and John Schmid.

Each year interested underclassmen are admitted to the staff at the close of the first semester to serve as apprentices for the remainder of the term. They are then eligible to qualify as regular reporters the next year.

records are Pat's hobbies. ("Mood Indigo" is one of her favorite records in her collection.) Her best-liked movie was "Johnny Belinda," although she's an avid fan of June Allyson and Gregory Peck.

Patty's been a very busy girl during her four years in Salem High. She writes a column, "Peppermint Patties," for the Quaker weekly. She is now president of the Hi-Tri, secretary of the Association and a student librarian. She was also a member of the Student Council for three years.

Pat was an attendant to the football Girl and was chosen this year as one of the eight candidates for the Most Natural Girl contest. She was elected delegate to Buckeye Girls' State last year. Patty has served on decoration committees for the parties and Prom, was chairman of the ticket sales for both the Junior and Senior plays, and last summer was chosen Youth Week Queen.

Add to this list her newly acquired job as assistant to Dr. Lease, and you see what a busy and well-liked gal Miss Thompson is.

Shirts 'n Skirts

By Marcy Vaughn

Miss Johnston came up with a sharp the other day (or should we say a pair of them?) in the form of earrings. Molded in the shape of tiny flowers, the earrings are enameled in delicate shades of pink and green and are really adorable.

Ah, how wonderful bunnies are, the fuzzy little beasts! Anna Herron seems particularly fond of her 'bunny' which is a lusciously soft white cardigan. Because she looks so nice in it, the rest of us just bring out our little clothes brushes and grin and bear it.

One of the sweetest outfits to appear in many an age is the sharp pink and grey plaid skirt and jerkin set Lois Firestone wore in the Thespian play. The skirt is cut with a wee bit of a flair, and the jerkin fits neatly. Teamed with a ruffly nylon blouse, this makes a neat combo for school and games.

Ah, twins again! If you should happen to catch Margie Haessly and Martha Whinery all dressed up for a heap big double date some night, be sure to look twice. You're bound to see them in their identical cream-white wool dresses made with cap sleeves and a low neckline bounded by a pretty little collar.

In case you happen to be wondering where Gwen Krepps managed to find such a neat stole, we'll let you in on a secret. It was a gift, and a handmade one at that. It's a bright red and black plaid with thick fringe at either end. Very versatile, this stole can be worn either as a head scarf or knotted loosely under the coat-collar.

On one of the two snowy days this winter, many students were surprised to find themselves being visited by an Eskimo! On the off chance that it may snow again, here is an advance warning. Don't be afraid of him, he's quite friendly, and if he comes close enough for you to snatch a fleeting glimpse through the thick fur, you'll find it's none other than Dick Tolson, all bundled up in his gay brown parka with the red plaid lining and the fringe on the top. Dick says it is really comfy, so if you ever plan to take a trip with Admiral Byrd, be sure to get measured for a super-duper mackinaw first!

Editorially Speaking . . .

Accidents Will Happen

Pick up any newspaper and glance over the front page. You are sure to find there stories of at least two traffic accidents in which a life has been lost or someone has been badly maimed.

The national traffic accident statistics show that the incidence of involvement in fatal accidents is higher among teen-age drivers than among those in any other age-group. Far too many of these accidents are caused by those who, like several within our own corridors, think it's smart to "cow-boy" through town, who get a thrill out of careening down hills and around turns at break-neck speeds, or who do not realize that anyone can be a reckless driver while it takes real skill and ability to become a safe driver.

However, not all the blame lies in the teen-age alley. Before one can become a safe driver, he must have the knowledge that such a title requires. The Salem division of the State Highway Patrol reports that the main cause of accidents involving teen-agers is their inexperience in handling cars.

Most teen-agers have learned how to drive from their parents or someone else who can drive. Yet, having had no teaching experience, the would-be instructor may neglect to tell the new driver some of the important factors in becoming a good driver, or, worse yet, he may give incorrect information that will lead to future trouble.

No child should be allowed to complete his public schooling without taking a course in the operation of an automobile. California has enacted a law making such instruction mandatory. We think such a law should not be necessary in Ohio: the schools ought voluntarily to make driver training a part of their curricula.

Driving courses are being initiated in schools throughout the country to cope with this undeniable need. Surely the need exists in this town just as dangerously and just as undeniably as it does in our neighboring cities.

The teen-agers need driving instruction. They not only need it as the future motorists of America in whose hands thousands of lives may lie, but also as the present possessors of the worst traffic record in existence. They need it here, now.

CASUALTY LIST

Don Wank acquired a "shiner" over his left eye when he and his motor-scooter parted company on the Newgarden Road.

Jackie Kuntzman suffered a broken arm in an auto accident recently.

Shirley Kelly, in the same accident, received a fractured collar-bone which had to be painfully set two different times.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Nina Snyder asks, "Why is Jeanne Eckhart called 'Soup'?"

Up to this date, the frosh basketball squad has won nine games while dropping four, which is a mighty impressive record. Ray Smith, Jerry Ball, Fred Csepke, Bill Pasco, Wayne Harris, Benny Roelen, Don Fife, Dick Perkins, and Bob Roth practice just as regularly and just as hard as the Varsity, but never receive as much acclaim. According to Coach Frank Tarr, Wayne Harris seems to be the most consistent scorer. Why not drop in at the gym after school some night to see the "stars of tomorrow" perform?

YOU'RE MY VALENTINE

In celebration of the Saint of Love's Day, Bob Muhleman gave his one and only, "Bobbie," a very sweet and dainty gold bracelet. It's inscribed with her name on one side of a tiny gold heart, and his on the reverse.

Marcy Vaughn received an unusual, but very attractive, heart-shaped pin which looks something like a locket from her "Chuck."

HO HUM!!!

The home of Marian Urbanowicz was cluttered early Sunday morning with blankets, pillows, and a few sleeping girls. At this slumber party, like all the rest, not many slept. Helen Lieder, Shirlee Beck, "Bobbie" Albaugh, and Barbie Burson played cards while Gwen Krepps, Josy Whinery, Donna Neely, Suzie O'Donnell, Martha Whinery, and Marian Kibitged. Harilyn Eberwein and Rosie Loutzenhiser actually drifted off to dream-land, against many protests.

NOVEL AND NICE

Nettie Housel was hostess to a group for a cover-dish dinner a few Wednesdays ago. Those who "covered their dish" were Nettie and Bob (naturally), Mary Jane Coffee, Dick Tolson, Audrey Anderson, Bob Baker, Betty Hergenrother, Tom Scullion, Joan Smith, and Jerry Miller.

THE MODERN HIAWATHA

He killed the noble Mudjokivis,
With the skin he made him mittens,
Made them with the fur side inside,
Made them with skin side outside.

He, to get the warm side inside
Put the inside skin side outside:
He, to get the cold side outside,
Put the warm side fur side inside.

That's why he put the fur side inside,
--Why he put the skin side outside,
Why he turned them in side outside.

Teachers See Holiday As School-Daze Relief

So you think you're glad to have next Thursday come and go without even a glance at a school book. Well, if you are overjoyed by the prospect, think of what the faculty members are dreaming of.

For instance, Mr. Guiler says he just wants to stay at home and recuperate from the rigors of school life. Anyone searching for Mr. Brautigam will find him slaving away in his store, from nine to nine, poor man!

Miss Redinger has scheduled a little jaunt to Cleveland, and both Miss Zimmerman and Mrs. Groves will be visiting their respective mothers who are ill.

As for Miss McCready, she says she is going to go shopping if she can find any money. Could this be a tiny hint about present-day teacher's salaries or merely an outburst of Scotch ancestry?

Miss Hanna has announced her intention to simply decide on Tuesday what she will do Tuesday. Anything can happen.

Mr. Hilgendorf plans to trim his vine-yard, but Miss Thorp has no definite plans. It has been hinted that she will be making up detention time, (She left five minutes early on Tuesday night.) but this report has not been confirmed.

The ones to be grieved for are the janitors. It seems they have utterly no hope of escaping their dire fate of cleaning up the school.

The temptation to extend a vacation day into a vacation night is very great. So when you as students, or even you teachers, creep up the stairs in the deep of the night of February 22 only to meet a member of the family coming down, remember what day it is. It's George's birthday. You know George, don't you? He's the one who never told a lie.

Hi-Tri Members Hold Covered-Dish Supper

A Hi-Tri covered-dish supper was held in the library at 6:30 Tuesday evening. The menu included scalloped potatoes, scalloped corn, coleslaw, cake as planned by the committee in charge of this department. The committee was composed of Antoinette Tempesta, Joanna Stoffer, Barbara Johnson, and Jane Stout. Each member brought the food article assigned to her by the committee.

Entertainment was provided by a committee consisting of Viola Fi-

Helman Experimenting With Mold, Bacteria

In a recent lab experiment, Bruce Helman, sophomore, planted a mold in a culture tube. At first the bacteria in the test tube multiplied, but when the mold began to grow, it killed all the bacteria. This is a repetition of the famous experiment that was staged when penicillin was discovered.

Biology students have been instructed to mark down every time they see some one biting his nails, chewing on his pencil, biting from someone else's apple, coughing or sneezing without putting a handkerchief over his mouth, or any other such habit. At the end of the week all students are to report to the classes as to how many times they have seen these incidents occur. Results of the survey will be published next week.

doe, Marge Greene, and Treva Bush. June Brunner was in charge of the saying of grace.

Heading the clean-up committee was Nancy Bates. The remainder of committee included Kathy Hodge, Mary Ibele, Mable Dolence, and Viola Fidoe.

Council Plans New Projects

Student Council representatives voted Tuesday to order gold pins designating their membership. Prices for pins range from $1.75 to $3.75, plus tax. Chain guards may be ordered separately. Joe Bachman is in charge of the ordering.

The assembly committee, headed by Stella Jones and consisting of Joe Bachman, Dick Tolson, and Marilyn Miller, has been working on plans for a quiz assembly to be held in the near future. Student participation is invited.

A tax stamp contest among the homerooms is to begin as soon as plans are completed. The winning homeroom will receive a treat as has been the custom in past years. Money obtained from the stamps will go into the Council treasury to aid in the publishing of the Freshman handbook for next year.

Student Council members would like to get the opinion of the students about whether they would like to have a school-sponsored bus for transportation to the Youngstown tournament games and whether they would make use of the services of a dancing teacher if one were hired to conduct lessons after school in the gym. They feel the lessons would be valuable to those who would like to attend the prom and association dance but do not know how to dance.

A Valentine play entitled, "Say It With Flowers," was presented this week at two assemblies under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Ward. She was assisted by Jocelyn Snyder and Carol Middeker. Sandy Hansel served as master of ceremonies and stage manager, aided by Jane Critchfield.

The cast included the following: Nancy Bailey as Mrs. Fairchild; Kay Ferrall as Scotty Fairchild; Sandra Kroner as Kitty Fairchild; Bob Winkler as Junior Fairchild; Joel Greenisen as Buzz; Marilyn Dodge as Molly; Joyce Kopf as Hoppy; Paul Hannay as Wayne Crawford; and Charles Engler as a messenger boy.

Valentine's Day was also celebrated with class parties, a dance, and a Valentine exchange.

The All-Stars defeated Sebring 37 to 21 last week. The game with Leetonia was postponed.

Frank Tarr, Frosh Basketball Coach, Sees Promising Future for Freshmen

Frank Tarr, Salem High coach of freshman basketball, has had plenty of experience in athletics. Before coming to teach here in 1944, he was employed at Willowby, Ohio, as a track coach. While teaching at Madison, Ohio, he was in charge of basketball, football, and track activities.

Mr. Tarr received his degree from Bethany College, Bethany, West Virginia, and attended Ohio State and Kent State Universities for post-graduate courses.

His position here includes the teaching of chemistry, as well as his duties in the athletic field. In former years Mr. Tarr also assisted with the coaching of football, but with the additions to the staff of athletic directors he has been able to devote his time to the basketball side of the sports picture. However he will soon assume the duties of an assistant track coach.

His two most successful frosh teams were the ones of 1946, when our present varsity members were playing frosh ball, and last year's squad. The 1946 five lost the Junior High Tournament to Canton McKinley. Last year's team defeated the Struthers squad and won the consolation victory of the Struthers Junior High tourney.

When asked which of the freshman players he considered most promising for future varsity teams, Mr. Tarr replied that any of the first eight or ten players could become valuable if they practice and continue to work hard.

Coach Frank Tarr

Quakers Overpower Struthers, Alliance

Salem basketballers finally came through to win two much-needed victories last week-end when they defeated Struthers 55 to 52 and Alliance 44 to 29 in the local gymnasium.

Eddie Bozich and Jim Callahan were the sparks behind the team against the Wildcats, netting 16 and 15 points each.

Captain Faulkner led the teams with 16 points in the fray against the Aviators.

The Quaker Reserves followed suit to defeat Struthers 45 to 43 and Alliance 50 to 35 in the preliminary contests of these last two home games.

Quakers To Travel To Sebring Tonight

The Quaker basketball squad will be trekking to Sebring tonight with hopes for their third straight win, after splurging the last week-end and beating Struthers and Alliance in two great performances.

The local team showed the Salem fans that they haven't given up yet and they are out for real battling tonight in spite of the fact that in the books the Sebring squad should have the upper hand.

Records reveal that Sebring trounced Struthers by 22 points, while Salem only edged them out by 3. Sebring defeated Columbiana 49-37, and Salem bowed to the Clippers 50-47. Sebring has had only two defeats this season, losing to Louisville and Boardman.

The starting lineup for Sebring will be Woolman, Mohr, Alberts, Ward and Tucker. Also seeing action will be Johnson, Welch, and Brown. Their two high-scorers are Mohr and Ward.

Coach Miller's record with Sebring has been good so far. His teams have beaten the Sebring boys every year. Last year it was 58 to 39; 1947, 39 to 33; 1946, 41 to 29; and 1945, 48 to 39.

Columbiana Frosh Defeat Salem Five

The Columbiana Freshmen beat the Salem Frosh by a 61 to 35 margin here last Friday night. Jerry Ball lead the way in scoring with 11 points with Fred Csepke following close behind with 10 points.

The Salem Freshmen defeated the Sebring squad 40 to 22 in an exciting battle here. Fred Csepke and Ray Smith topped the scoring sheet with nine points each.

Palestine Drawn As Tourney Foe

Salem High has drawn East Palestine as their first opponent to be met in the 1949 basketball tournament at Youngstown South Fieldhouse. The game will be played Saturday, March 5 at 8:00 P. M.

If the Quakers are victorious in this game they will be sent against the winner of a Warren-Lisbon tilt and from there would probably have to cope with Canton South, the seeded team in this bracket. The other teams that are seeded are Girard, Canton Central Catholic, and Youngstown Chaney.

Sportively Speaking

By Dick Brautigam

Sport Shorts

Coach Bob Miller isn't in the habit of losing eleven games in one season. In his four completed years at Salem, he has piled up 55 victories in 70 scheduled season games. The 1946 squad lost 8 of these 15 games but went the farthest in tournament play in winning the District Championship.

The Varsity boys didn't pick up this losing atmosphere until this year either. Tom Miner, Biggie Faulkner, and Ed Bozich were all sparkplugs of last year's feared quintet. As Freshmen, these boys experienced a 13 and 2 record. Walt Ehrhart and Dick Tolson were the other starters on their 1946 Tarr-coached team. Dick is an example of how a coach cannot count on a player from one year to the next. He is now a varsity manager who is a "big boy" now and undoubtedly would be wearing a Quaker uniform if he hadn't run into health difficulties.

The Quakers displayed plenty of class last week-end in downing Struthers and Alliance. The boys showed what they could do against teams whose pituitary glands weren't overworked. Faulkner, Callahan, and Bozich all played their best games of the season. Miner and Reash played good ball but failed to impress too much in the scoring column.

Something that has aided Salem in the last few games is their reserve power. They have at least seven boys whom they can use without changing the scoring punch to any great extent. This is a great help in the race-horse type of basketball the Quakers employ. Don Abrams has been coming along fast and, along with Lefty Bob Theiss, will be a welcomed boost in tournament play.

It's rumored that Lige Alexander is planning to tour the country this summer as a trick shot artist. It seems that he was very much impressed with the showing of Willie Hetzel a couple of weeks ago and has been practicing some himself. He's convinced now, since his first test was a success last Saturday against Alliance, that Mr. Hetzel isn't the world's best... Bob Coy racked up more points against Struthers than he's scored in all games put together since the sixth grade... It's a good thing there wasn't a game Sunday. Most of the boys would have had to play without any sleep for two days... Struther's coach, Howard Heldman, still isn't sure that he lost that game last Saturday. It was early in the first quarter that he took his first look at the scoreboard. He was pleasantly surprised as it read, Salem 4, Visitors 7. Struthers scored again and like any interested coach he took another look at the scoreboard. As if he weren't seeing straight, he stood up and took a look. Now he was sure. It said Salem 9, Visitors 6. Now don't anyone tell him that TROY E. PENNER was the scoreboard operator... If you've been wondering why Biggie Faulkner has been going around with his chest sticking out so far this week, here's the reason. Captain Biggie has gone two straight games without fouling out!
