Junior Red Cross to Elect Service Council of Students

A Junior Red Cross council, which will direct the high school service projects of that organization, will be elected by popular vote in the homerooms next week.

The council will be headed by William Vogelhuber, junior, Louise Bauman, sophomore, and Wilma Firestone, junior. These students were the local delegates sent to the summer JRC training camp.

Already several of the school departments have agreed to participate in the many projects that are being planned by the local chapter. Mrs. Ethel Headrick, art teacher, will enter the work of her classes in the International Art program which gives the people abroad an idea of the American way of life through the universal language of art.

A chest is being constructed by students directed by Miss Ada Hanna, mechanical drawing instructor, for the chest filling drive, the details of which will be announced later. These chests will be used to send large quantities of school and health supplies to groups of students in countries where a shortage of such items exists.

The Junior Red Cross has been active in the Salem schools for the past two years. In that time sewing projects were completed for the local chapter by the high school clothing classes, gift boxes were packed by homeroom members, a knitted afghan was sent to a veteran hospital, student illustrations of American life were sent abroad, and for the first time this summer the local chapter sent three high school students to a training camp at Bynden Wood, Pa., where during their 10-day stay they studied the JRC program as a whole.

Students will be given an opportunity to join the Junior Red Cross between Nov. 1 and 15.

Mrs. Thomas Mercer is the local director, Mrs. Helen Mulbach is the teacher-supervisor, and Miss Hazel Linn is the executive secretary of the Red Cross.

Magazine Campaign To Be Held This Year

October 25 will begin the magazine sales campaign of the choruses which will continue for 10 school days.

Frosh to Give One Act Play

A new program will be carried out this year under the sponsorship of Thespians, dramatic society, with the presentation of two one-act plays in assembly which will feature only Freshmen and Sophomore students, respectively, it was recently announced by Miss Irene Weeks, director.

The first of the plays, "Say Uncle," by Donald Payton, is the Freshman play which will be given Oct. 12. The cast and working staffs will be composed entirely of first-year students.

The cast includes Johanna Keifer and Tom Johnson as Mr. and Mrs. John Maxwell; Joyce Kopf as Connie, a young dramatic student in high school; Marian Probst as Betty Lou, the younger daughter; Joel Sharp as Wilbur, son and a prize fighter; Dick Gleckler as Mrs. Maxwell's old boy friend; and Sally Mayhew as Miss Burke, a visiting Dean of Girls.

The backstage staff is composed of Joan Schuller, bookholder; Don Harsh, sound effects; Don Shuck, lights; Bob Stewart, curtain; John Litty, stake properties; Gretchen Bodendorfer, (chairman) and Lynn Patterson, hand properties; Ann Sandrock, makeup; Marlene Yunk, mistress of the wardrobe; Carol Middeker, stage manager.

New Spanish Instructor Receives Student Approval

It is quite surprising to find a person with no dislikes but such a person does exist and in Salem High, too! Along with this amazing quality, Donald W. Mumford, one of the three new faculty members, is sincere, good-natured, and cooperative, but just a bit shy.

Mr. Mumford comes to Salem High school from Beaver Falls, Pa. He was graduated from Geneva college, with a B. A. degree and the University of Pittsburgh with a M. A. degree. He sincerely hopes to fulfill his ambition of getting a doctorate or a Ph.D. degree sometime in the future.

He likes best to study the history of the United States. In Salem High he is teaching world history and Spanish. He also advises the Spanish club.

Although he is attracted by almost all sports, swimming is his favorite.

A perfect evening's entertainment includes a variety of items, beginning with a movie featuring his favorite actor, Jimmy Stewart, and ending with a bit of reading. As far as music is concerned, if possible, he will tune in on his favorite radio pro-

Donald W. Mumford

'The Late Christopher Bean' Is Named Senior Class Play

Buy a Tag, Huh? It's for the Band

Tonight will be Tag Night at the Canton Timkin game sponsored by the local Band Mothers for the benefit of the Salem High school band.

Proceeds from the collection will be used for the betterment of the band. Already this year six majorette uniforms, wool capes, and a new uniform for the drum major were provided by this organization. The Band Mothers also purchase such essentials as spats, plumes, and even instruments.

Besides the Tag Night project, the club is making other plans for raising money to buy necessary equipment for the band.

The officers of the organization, which meets monthly at the Memorial building, are Mrs. H. M. Butcher, president; Mrs. Lester L. Lehman, vice-president; Mrs. Bertha Wolfe, secretary; Mrs. Mrs. H. M. Vincent, reporter.

Cheerleaders Practice New and Old Yells

Practice sessions are being held each week by the three Quaker cheerleading squads to learn new yell routines and to help new leaders learn old cheers.

All the girls are being drilled in recognizing the football players on the field by their red and white numbers. Movies showing the Barrettmens in action are used to assist with this.

Nina Snyder, head cheerleader, Helen Schuller, Joan Domencetti, and Helen Gottschling form the varsity team.

Judy Gregg heads the reserve cheerleaders who are Flo Chester, Alberta Nannah, Jeanne Eckhart, Dana Rice, Millie Maier, Marilyn Miller, Donna Stoffer, Martha Alexander, and Mary Lou Hively. They assist at local games but do not go out of town.

The large group of freshmen cheerleading candidates who are being considered for that team are led by Ann Stowe.

Pencil Contest Won By Frosh Room 310

First place in the annual Freshman pencil contest has gone to the students in homeroom 310 who succeeded in selling more pencils within two weeks than any other room. Wilma Stipic is the chairman of that group.

Some of the purposes of the contest are to help pay for such Freshman expenses as parties, pictures for the Quaker annual, and flowers for members sent at the death of some member of a Freshman student's family. Miss Sarah Doxsee, class adviser, has announced that there are still a few pencils left which can be purchased from her even though the contest has ended.

Election of Freshman class officers will be held Oct. 20.

Former New York Comedy Hit To Be Presented Nov. 16, 17, 18

"The Late Christopher Bean," a three-act comedy by Sidney Howard, was chosen for the Senior class play by Miss Irene Weeks, dramatics director, and Chester M. Brautigam, class adviser, it was announced today.

Tryouts will begin Monday for the play which will be presented in the auditorium Nov. 17 and 18, with a matinee performance for the Junior High scheduled for Nov. 16. The cast includes four boys and five girls.

All This Fussin' For Picture Takin'

Lights were burning late Tuesday night for—that's right pictures were to be taken the following day.

When you walked into the dressing room Wednesday you were elbowed, tramped on, and before knowing what happened you were being swept out the door.

Wait a minute, you went in there to comb your hair. You stop and do some mental figuring:

Q. Did you comb your hair?

A. No.

Q. Why?

A. I don't know.

Q. Should I go back in there?

A. No.

You give your hair a confident pat and decide you'll do for a picture.

Being shoved on down the hall you hear the usual comments, "I know I'll look terrible!" "For a better picture he said to wear a little makeup as possible, but I can't do that! I'll look awful!"

It's time—time of the fatal moment. You're in front of the camera. CLICK! It's over. Walking away you think, "I forgot to smile. I know the pose won't do a thing for me."

P. T. A. Group To Hear Talk On Aptitude Tests

The Salem High school P. T. A. will convene next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., in room 209.

This year's president, William F. Ross, announced today that the program will be presented by the Research Department of Western Reserve university.

Jay Otis, director, will talk on Vocational Aptitude tests relative to upperclassmen in high school and Hubert Clay will discuss aptitude tests given to a group of 24 local students this summer.

A visitation to the rooms will be conducted for the purpose of meeting the various teachers.

The plot centers around a family of New Englanders, who have years before given refuge to a great artist, Christopher Bean. The play opens years after Bean's death. Dr. Haggett and his wife have some of his canvases and suddenly realize their value. They become very hard, selfish, and ill-tempered.

Abby, the family servant, holds them all in her power because she has one of the greatest of Bean's paintings, but she will not give it away or sell it for anything. Her reason gives the play its surprising climax with which it ends.

"The Late Christopher Bean," produced by Gilbert Miller, had a successful run in New York.

The play is adapted from a French play, "Prenez Garde a La Peinture" by Lene Fanchois.

Schoss Chosen President Of Salem High Art Club

Donna Schoss was elected president of the newly organized art club when that organization met last Tuesday to discuss their various activities for the coming year and to ratify a constitution for the club.

Other officers are Joanne Conser, vice-president; and Paul Berger, secretary-treasurer.

Band to Give Display of Talent During Game

The Salem High School band will be divided into two groups when it performs between halves at the Salem-Canton Timken game at Reilly stadium tonight. One will be a military band, directed by Lee Wolfe, and the other a jive band, directed by Janet Vincent.

The two bands will form a bucket and play "The Old Oaken Bucket" and then they will form a jug and play "Little Brown Jug." The bands will then separate and play "Alouette," both classical and jivey. After this, the bands will form into one and march off the field.

Small Talk

By Carol Steffel
Mercury, Plus Old Nickel

Equals—new nickel. That's what the last week's chemistry classes discovered. Some of the more wealthy people even brought dimes! But best of all was Bob Bush's silver dollar. (It's even silver silver now.) So, if Kate happens to hand you change for a candy bar and your hand suddenly turns shiny, just remember that the money isn't counterfeit. It's only had a visit to room 304.

Some Busy Bee

Sure was industrious on the football boys' shoes. Did you notice the extra special shine on them last Friday night? We wonder if it had anything to do with boasting Salem's score. 'Cause if it did, we all better turn shoe shines quick!

To school. That is, most of the kids who attend private schools and, of course, the grads who've gone to college. Last weekend, however, George Foltz and George Mangus from Kiski paid respects to Salem again on a short vacation. They both went back Monday night, but you may have seen them roaming Salem High's halls in the afternoon. It was good to see them. We hope that they and the other kids who are away can all manage to come back often.

"And What Shade Would You Like?" I have "Purple Passion," "Rapshody Red", and "Green Lightning." "Take your pick!"

"Couldn't I just have natural?" squeaks a timid voice.

"No! For that, you get all three!" a choice booms back.

Such a life. The above is an example of a conversation between a "volcanic" senior and a "greenie." Initiation's been going on for about three weeks now. But the Juniors can't laugh too hard much longer. Hi Tri and Varsity S initiation aren't a 1,000 years away, you know.

When It Comes to Fads SHS Is 'On the Ball'

Styles change each season and in SHS studes are really "on the ball" and right up to the newest fads with their clothes and accessories.

Corduroy is popular with Jay England, who has a sharp grey jacket, and Shirley McCave, who has a brown dress with three-quarter length sleeves, a V-neck, and gold medallions dangling from the belt and front zipper. Mable Dolence looks sporty and dressy alike in her green corduroy skirt, which ties at the waist.

Roseanne Modarelli wears several "dozen" bracelets on her arms. Roseanne's collection includes dangle bracelets, charm bracelets, and simple round bracelets, all cast in silver.

Johnny Schmid looks very smart in his collection of shirts: plaids, wools and cottons.

Mr. Mumford and Mr. Jacobs set the style for the masculine section of the faculty with their handsome ties, white shirts, and sharp jackets, while Mrs. Ryser's turquoise suit, and Mrs. Headrick's varied scarfs, hats and shoes hold up the feminine side.

Wool jerseys are it this season and Barbara Hughes starts off the year right with her pink jersey with long sleeves and darted neck.

Suede shoes seem to be something new in the line of footwear and Wilma Firestone's blue half-suede, half-leather shoes which show up her sweaters and skirts, are really different.

Marilyn Burns has a pair of maroon oxfords which are not only comfortable, but easy to look at.

Lawrence Vasilevich is really staggering in his blue pants and blue suede shoes.

Television and Radio Stations Offer Few High Pay Job Opportunities

Editor's note: This is the first of a series of studies of vocational trends. The text is condensed from selections in the Guidance Newsletter.

Are you and your day dreams floating along the airways, making plans for work in some phase of radio or television broadcasting after you have completed your education? Sit tight then, 'cause you're due for a tailspin that should bring you down to earth, but fast.

Here is the present outlook for jobs in those fields:

Because radio and television broadcasting is a competitive industry—and a comparatively small one—it provides relatively few job opportunities, so says Seymour Wolfbein, chief of the Occupational Outlook division of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Although television is a growing field, it employs an extremely small number of people at the present time.

Because the work in television stations is similar to that in sound broadcasting ones, companies which add television stations to their present AM and FM stations can handle the new operations by increasing the size of their present staffs

How about turning over a new leaf and getting rid of some of those useless old dirty leaves in your notebook?

He who laughs last is usually an Englishman.

Anything Goes

By Lawrence Vasilevich

What a life! A freshman who wasn't too well acquainted with this school was caught napping by Dean Callahan who sent him to get a drink. He hasn't come back yet, so if you see a little fellow about 4 feet, 10 inches high, and wearing glasses, please give him the directions to 209.

Fight! Fight! Fight!
Football is the cry,
For S. H. S. I would die,
But my girl is out with another guy
While I sit at home and comply. (with the rules, that is)

Have you seen the "White Look"? Many of the studes have their shirt collars turned up in the rear with the flaps down flat in front. Dave has started something which his followers, Ford Joseph, "Lige" Alexander, Jim Tausch, and quite a few others, think is very sharp.

A biology student was given a quiz in which he was to name the biological uses instead of hiring completely new staffs. Television will offer proportionately somewhat more opportunities to technical workers. While sound station technicians comprise less than one-fourth of the full-time employees, at TV stations they will make up roughly half of the staff.

The broadcasting industry, as a whole, employs only about 40,000 to 45,000 full-time employees. Positions with the networks generally pay most but are hardest to get. Conversely, jobs with small stations pay the least, but are the easiest to obtain. The best chances for newcomers will be at the new stations, the majority of which will be small local outlets. Stations of this type employ mainly technicians, announcers, who handle other duties, clerical workers, and time salesmen. Small stations usually give preference to persons who can do two or more kinds of work.

As for the glamour jobs, about one out of every four radio actors in the survey was totally unemployed in a typical week in the spring of 1948—an unemployment rate eight or nine times as high as the rate for all working people in the country.

Among radio singers the unemployment rate was found to be four or five times as high as among the entire working population.

Quaker Mailbox

Dear Editor,

Your editorial in the September 30 "QUAKER" blames the boys at dances for huddling around the corners of the dance floor while the girls dance with girls. That editorial must have been written by a girl because the situation is just the opposite, and any boy will tell you.

How does a boy ask a girl to dance when all the girls are dancing together? He just doesn't that's all.

I think it would help things a lot if the girls would give the boys a chance to break through the mob and get to them. Besides what fun can a girl have dancing with another girl? The boys would like to dance but the girls don't give them a chance to ask them.

If the boys just won't dance at all, then a girl's tag would liven things up.
Angry Student.

We Maintain That - -

Students should realize the values of their scholastic training and use them.

A student to be entirely honorable, should count only on himself to achieve what he can do by his own abilities, not some other person's.

Leniency and tolerance should be established between teachers and students in their associations.

Everybody should indulge in extra-curricular activities, but no student should monopolize any one of these activities so much that others are unable to express their opinions.

More pupils should respect each other and each other's feelings at all times.

High standards are and should be the tradition of Salem High School.

It is the duty of The Quaker to provide a place for the students and faculty to express their opinions and ideas and to report any and all news correctly.

More Pep Assemblies?

Pep assemblies are provided to entertain the students and to bolster the team before games.

Going to the extremes and cheering much too loudly spoils the idea of the assembly, the purpose of which is not to see how much stamping of feet can be done, but to get everybody pepped up and confident for the current game.

On the other hand, when the students do not respond to the yells at all, or merely cheer lightly, those in charge of the rally feel that perhaps students have lost interest in the assemblies and no longer wish to continue them.

If we are lucky enough to be provided with additional pep sessions, perhaps we can choose a happy medium in our response.

Debate Positions Open For 1949-50 Team

J. C. Guiler, debate coach, announced today that interviews with students who are interested in debate will start next week in room 205.

Many positions on the team are open this year since a number of the debaters were in the 1949 graduating class.

A half unit of academic credit is given to all members of the squad.

This year's question is: "Resolved that the President should be elected by the direct vote of the people."

Journalists to Meet

Representatives of the Quaker publications staff will journey to Sebring High school next Wednesday evening to attend the October meeting of the Tri-County Journalism association.

Dancing and refreshments will follow the business sessions.

Spaniards Elect Officers

Jack Hochadel, president; Bill Winder, vice-president; and Treva Bush, secretary-treasurer, were elected officers for the Spanish club this year.

Bill Winder is a first year Spanish student and the other two are second year students.

Lois Firestone entertained some friends at a wiener roast at her home last Saturday evening after a hay ride which was sponsored by a group of girls. Dave White and Bob Hickey provided the entertainment.

Janet Vincent recently entertained at her home at a surprise bridal shower for Mrs. Rudy Banar, the former Rita Pierce. A pink parasol centerpiece highlighted the beautifully appointed table at which the guests were served. Mrs. Banar received many lovely gifts.

Nancy Stephenson recently entertained several of her friends with a scavenger hunt at her home.

Games, dancing, and a wiener roast provided fun for many of Bob Lepping's friends when he entertained at his home last Saturday evening.

Hi-Tri Begins Year with Plans

Plans for the initiation of new members were discussed and committees were appointed when the Hi Tri held their first meeting of the year Wednesday in room 310.

On the invitation committee are Donna Schoss, chairman; Janet Trisler, and Connie Probert.

Catherine Spack heads the initiation committee with Marge Greene, Helen Schuller, and Isabelle Kleinman.

The Hi Tri will meet every other week at 12:30 p. m. in 310. The day has not yet been set.

Two new organizations, the Marionette club and the Hobby club, have been added to the Junior High extra-curricular activities this year.

Election of officers and discussion of the year's plans were slated to be features of the meetings of the various clubs today.

An original program was presented recently by the 8-E Quakerette English class to advertise the school publication. Miss Elizabeth Ward and Mrs. Lulu McCarthy, Quakerette advisers, were in charge.

The Junior High eleven will play East Palestine next Thursday. To date, games have been played with Boardman and Leetonia.

The 1949-50 cheerleaders include Margaret Hannay, Nora Guiler, Pat DeJane, Anna Mae Camp, Margaret Criss, and Jane Everett. Barbara Loudon and Pat Harris have been named assistants.

High Heels Are Hectic Helpers To Heedless, Helpless Heroine

By Peggy Baltorinic

"Jane, what happened to your ankle? It's bandaged."

"Well, when I was a little girl . . ."

"Oh, no not the story of your life."

"No, not the story of my life, but, you see, yesterday I wore, for the first time, my high heels."

"Hgh heels! How'd they feel? I just got a pair."

"Ha! I put them on and then grabbed for the nearest wall. You ask me why. Because, birdbrain, I was suddenly thrown on a 45 degree angle, so to save falling on my face I grabbed a wall.

Resuming my former position, I sauntered over to the top of the upstairs steps. I started tottering down them, keeping a firm, guiding hand glued to the balustrade. Finally, reaching the bottom of the steps I breathed a sigh of relief, knowing I made it without any broken bones.

"This made me very confident, so I started for the door. I had a little trouble keeping my ankles straight on the brick sidewalks, but outside of that it was a cinch. Then it happened, I was crossing at Third and Second streets when I tottered, wobbled, and crashed head first to the pavement. Reason: I caught my heel on the curbstone because I didn't lift my foot high enough. Result: a sprained, swollen, and sore ankle."

"But, Jane, I came over to ask you to wear your high heels to the lecture tonight."

"Sure, then I can wear my brown suit."

Student Council Elects Kline as President

Officers for the year were elected when the Student Council held their meeting this week in room 204.

They are Leo Kline, president; Don Loutzenheiser, vice-president; Janet Vincent, secretary; Bob Coy, treasurer; and Bob Bush, parliamentarian.

The organization discussed the chest X-rays which are taken every year. Each homeroom representative will explain the idea and process of the X-rays to the students.

Junior Class Is Awaiting Arrival of Ring Samples

Junior class members are now awaiting the arrival of the two ring samples recently chosen by the committee appointed to make the selection.

When they arrive, the two samples will be displayed in the library showcase and the rings will then be voted upon by the class.

The ring committee consisted of Dick Brautigam, president; Jay England, vice-president; and Mary Jane Taflan, secretary-treasurer; and Barbara Ross, Jeanne Cocca, Bob Bush, Jimmy Hurlburt, Peggy Baltorinic, and Tom Trebilcock.

Sportively Speaking

By Dick Brautigam

A new type of sport has been introduced into Salem High this year. The necessary tools for this game are as follows: (1) As many boys as care to participate. Twenty-two boys may partake in the contest at one time, being divided into two groups called teams. The game should be played on a field (preferably with a grass top) 100 yards long, marked off in sections of five yards by white lines running the full width of the field.

(2) A rubber bladder, filled with a sufficient amount of air, covered by a slippery piece of horsehide, must be furnished by the home team. Three or four husky men, who must wear black and white striped shirts, should stand on the playing field to be booed by the spectators in case the game should lag at any point.

The horsehide-covered bladder must be passed by the quarterback, called "Callahan" to a half-back, called "Theiss." The bladder shall always rest in the arms of "Theiss" until it is carried across the last white stripe, called the goal stripe. When the bladder is tossed by "Callahan" and is legally caught by "Theiss" and carried across the goal stripe, the resulting score is called "A Salem Touchdown." When this happens, the coach on the bench across the field always yells these famous words, "How does that Barrett always come up with a winning team?"

After the preceding procedure is carried out in a sufficient quantity, a fire cracker is set off and Salem is declared the winner.

The above is just an approximate picture of what has happened in two-thirds of Salem's football games so far this season. The remaining teams on the schedule intend to change the rules of this game just a little.

Tonight's contest with Timken promises to be the roughest since the opener with New Philadelphia. The Trojans are still nursing wounds, mostly just red faces, received in last week's parting by Ohio's best, namely, Canton McKinley. However, a team on the rebound is always rugged and Timken, plus rebound, spell Salem trouble. The Salem-Trojan games have always been close and a runaway for either team tonight is very unlikely.

Quakers Blank Bulldogs 32-0

The Salem Quakers chalked up their second victory Friday night when they romped over the Palestine Bulldogs 32 to 0 before 2,000 thrilled fans at Senior stadium in East Palestine. Jim Callahan's sensational passing put Salem well on the way to victory even in the first quarter.

Salem's first T. D. came immediately after the kickoff. Salem took the ball on their own 38 and in seven plays went 62 yards. The touchdown pass went from Callahan to Theiss in the end zone, covering 19 yards for the score. Alexander's boot was low.

The second score was again thrown 17 yards from Callahan to Theiss in the end zone. Alexander's kick failed again.

The third was another ditto. Theiss drove into the air to take Callahan's third T. D. pass. "Lige's" placement was good, making the score 19-0.

Jim Ference ran 13 yards to where Callahan's pass to Nocera put on another 13 yards. With six yards to go, Callahan passed to Fritz Roth who nabbed the toss and scored. Alexander's kick was also good and the half ended 26 to 0.

Wisler made another recovery on the Bulldog 10 and in one play Jim Ference crashed through the line for the last 10 yards and the final score. Alexander's kick was blocked, so the score remained Salem 32, East Palestine 0.

Salem Given Slight Edge In Timken Game Tonight

Trojans Aim Defense at Callahan To Halt Quaker Passing Attack

Coach Ben Barrett's supprising Quakers and Canton's unpre dictable Trojans will lock horns in a game tonight at Reilly stadium.

Both squads have shown potential power this year but have folded up against top notch outfits. Salem was dumped in the season's opener 21 to 7 by New Philly, rated in the lower half of Ohio's top ten. Timken was embarrassed by Canton McKinley, Ohio's best, in their last outing to the tune of 68 to 0.

The Quakers hold impressive victories over Ravenna, 19 to 14, and East Palestine, 32 to 0.

Timken shut out Canton Lincoln, 6 to 0, and ripped up Girard, 32 to 0. Those two goose eggs thrown at Lincoln and Girard indicate a pretty fast charging line. It will be interesting to see what that line does about those Callahan passes.

Timken's high scorers are Glenn Bowersox and Quarterback Tom Ascani, Dick Sierra, last year's terror, was lost through graduation.

Salem's attack, as usual, will be centered around long Jim Callahan and his pitching arm. The hard running of Capt. George Reash, Faultless Leroy Theiss, and Jim Ference has made this passing attack an even bigger success as Callahan has been mixing up the plays beautifully.

Last year's contest was a thriller as Salem scored with 29 seconds remaining in the game to bring home a Quaker 13 to 7 victory. The odds are about even again and a close game is in the making.

The line-ups for tonight's game are as follows:

Cross Country Squad Prepares for Meets

Frank Tarr, Salem's new cross country coach, has been working out with his squad after school for the past two weeks.

Paul Provins and Jim Cosgarea are the only two returning letterwinners from last year's team, but several of the '49-'50 basketball prospects have been out trying to get into condition.

Tentative meets have already been scheduled with Warren and East Liverpool.
