Donna Schoss Reveals Self As She Is Off-Stage

Playing the lead in the Senior class play is a tough assignment thinks Donna Schoss who will appear as Abby, servant of an old New England family, when the velvet curtains open on "The Late Christopher Bean" Nov. 16, 17, and 18.

Donna Schoss

However she is determined to portray her part as realistically as possible and rehearsals to date have indicated as much.

When asked how her part suited her, she replied, "It's an entirely different role than the one I had last year in 'Tish,' but I enjoy this one even more."

Sociable and well-liked, Donna can usually be found up at The Corner, her favorite eating-place, where she will always answer to the name Tiny. If that doesn't get results, you will know she is there if the juke box is playing "But I Only Have Eyes for You."

Donna's favorite pastimes include swimming, ice skating, and square dancing.

In the food line Sloppy joes are her preference, as also are Heavenly slushes and Hungarian goulash. Donna's taste for clothes is sporty; she feels comfortable in a roomy sweater and slacks. Donna pursues art vigorously, drawing in all her spare time, and it follows that her favorite subject in school is art.

She is active in many school activities which include being secretary of the Thespians, president of the Art club, and membership in the Girls' Glee Club and the Hi-Tri.

Teachers Association To Meet in Cleveland

The public auditorium in Cleveland will be the gathering place for teachers from all over the northeastern section of Ohio when the Northeastern Ohio Teachers association holds its annual meeting there tomorrow.

Three complete sessions will be held throughout the day.

The main session will take place in the morning, with H. Roe Bartle, lawyer and banker of Kansas City, Mo., speaking on "Sound Education Is A 'Must' to Save America."

Representatives will convene at 3:15 p. m. to elect officers for next year's convention. This assembly will consist of one representative for every 100 teachers or a fraction thereof employed in a school district. Salem will be represented by J. P. Olloman, high school instructor, and Mrs. Mary Doyle, Columbia school teacher. Alternates chosen are Dean J. R. Callahan, and Ward Zeller, of McKinley school.

Juniors, Seniors 100% In Chest X-rays

One hundred per cent Junior and Senior participation was reported by the Student Council in the fourth annual chest X-ray project sponsored by the Columbiana County Health league Monday in the gymnasium.

Cards will be mailed to the individuals who were X-rayed, indicating the results of the pictures.

The survey is financed by the annual Christmas sale of tuberculosis health seals.

Council members who assisted with the X-rays were John Votaw, Barbara Ross, Paul Berger, Walter Mayhew, Bob Coy, Don Loutzenhiser, Tom Trebilcock, and Shirley Hill.

Typists were Shirley Robusch and Jane Stoudt.

Dads And Band Seniors To Be Honored Tonight

The fathers of the football players and the senior band members will share honors at the Salem-Akron Central game tomorrow which is to be designated as "Dad's Night." The band will present Alexander's Ragtime Band, complete with a dance, which will substitute for the Halloween performance heretofore scheduled.

Origin of Popular Saying, 'Wha Hoppen,' Is Disclosed

For the many thousands of Americans who have accepted the currently popular "Wha Hoppen" phrase as an important part of their vocabulary and who have wondered no little about its origin, Hal Boyle, Associated Press writer, found the answer in a recent interview with Noro Morales, rhumba band leader.

Morales, a Puerto Rican, is fast becoming known as "The Rajah of the Rumba." He shares this honor with band leader Xavier Cugat who plays a sweet rhumba while Nora performs music "with a little bonga in eet."

About this phrase that is on every body's lips, he is quoted by Boyle thus:

"I learn English—in 1935" said Noro. But it really didn't catch until about four years ago.

I play engagements and when it ees finish no monee come. So I say, "Wha Hoppen?" and everybody theenk it ees funny."

Morales later wrote a song called "Wha Hoppen, Baby?" and the current song hit, "Rum and Soda."

According to Boyle, the author of the catch phrase is "a short dark man of 37 who weighs between 265 and 320 pounds—depending on his mood—can identify more than 45 perfumes by their odor, and wears a ring with 21 diamonds on the little finger of his right hand."

He has a strong passion for perfume which he wears as do many Latin American men.

"Everybody keed me about eet," he laughed. "But I rather smell nice than stinks."

Ludwig Gives Talk to Frosh

Freshmen were reminded that each day they are forming a basis for their future life when Prin. B. G. Ludwig spoke at a class meeting held today in the auditorium.

Mr. Ludwig explained the importance of forming good habits formed in early life are reflected now because habits that are in the actions of the adult.

He said that employers and business men have found that many employees do the same things at a job that they did while they were students—such as being tardy for work, giving insufficient excuses for being absent, and shirking duties which have been assigned them.

School citizenship, industry, and willingness to work were also stressed by the principal.

3 New Librarians Added to Staff

Three new freshman librarians, Joyce Cosgrove, Carol Middeker, and Sally Moore, have been added to the student staff which already included eight girls, according to Miss Lois Lehman, head librarian.

The others are Lois Bruckner, Jean Garlock, Lois Flint, Donna Nannah, Lois Firestone, Joyce Vaughan, Joan Whitten, and Katherine Winkler.

Qualifications for appointment to the staff are interest in library work and a "B" scholastic average.

The varied duties of the librarians are to check out and shelf books, keep them in good condition, take care of incoming mail, help students to find the material they seek, and to run errands.

Portrait of Play Lead Is Art Club Project

Art club members are vying in the drawing of a large portrait of Donna Schoss who will play the leading role of "Abby" in the Senior class presentation of "The Late Christopher Bean" Nov. 16, 17, and 18.

The portrait of "Abby" is a required prop in the play.

The portrait judged the best of the lot will be framed and featured on the stage during the run of the three-act comedy.

Materials were furnished upon request for those who wished to draw the subject.

Freshman Officers Elected for '49-'50

Hannay, Sharp, Stowe Winners After Three-Time Vote Election

Paul Hannay was elected president of the Freshman class when members of that class completed their three-time vote election Monday morning.

Joel Sharp secured the post of vice-president, and Ann Stowe received the job of secretary-treasurer.

Character Parts Given To Senior Play Cast

Character parts have been assigned for the Senior class play, "The Late Christopher Bean," and the cast is having daily rehearsals under the direction of Miss Irene Weeks.

As previously announced, the feminine lead of Abby the maid, around whom the story centers, is to be played by Donna Schoss.

The male lead of the play went to Galen Rich who will portray Doctor Haggett, a stout, undistinguished rural man of 50.

Helen Schuller will play the wife of the old doctor, who has assumed certain "citified" airs and therefore feels herself to be above the standards of the village.

Shirley Hill will portray the elder daughter Ada, who worries constantly because she has no husband. The part of the younger daughter, Susan, a girl very popular with the boys, is to be played by Anna Herron. Danny Keister will appear as Warren Creamer, a young painter and top man with Susan, and, Walt Mayhew as Tallant, a forger of paintings, who would like to make a "deal" with Doctor Haggett. The little Jewish art collector who would like to get in on the deal is to be played by Harvey Mason.

Roger Buehler is in the character of Maxwell Davenport, a distinguished elderly gentleman who solved the question of to whom the great paintings of the late Christopher Bean belongs.

A preview of the play will be presented to the students Nov. 8 while evening performances will be staged in the auditorium Nov. 17 and 18.

The candidates competing for president besides Paul were Don McCormick, Mervin Thomas, Joel Sharp, Steven Navoyosky, and Jack Dewan.

The candidates for secretary-treasurer were Carole Coy, Richard Ward, Sally Moore, Nancy Bailey, Anna Schafer, and Betty Hannay.

In order to be elected president the candidate had to receive a majority of the votes cast. Since a majority was not received on the first ballot, it was necessary to vote a second and third time. The second highest presidential candidate automatically became vice-president.

Each presidential candidate presented one-minute talks to the student body during an assembly held before the final elections took place. The secretary-treasurer nominees sat upon the platform but did not give talks.

Miss Sarah Doxsee is the class adviser.

Hanna Reigns As College Queen

Marjorie Hanna, a sophomore at Marietta college and a 1948 graduate of Salem High, reigned as queen over the college's recent homecoming activities which included a football game and dance.

Selected by the popular vote of men students attending the college, Marjorie was presented a large bouquet of red roses from the captain of the Marietta football team.

The queen is active in the college chorus, bowling team, staff of the Mariettan and Sociology club. She is majoring in speech.

While in Salem High school she was the editor-in-chief of the Quaker annual and was active in dramatic activities.

Two Teen-Agers Victims Of Flaming Auto Crash

Salem High school students were saddened this week by the deaths of Jean Eckhart, sophomore, and Jerry Zimmerman, 1949 graduate, in an automobile accident which occurred on Route 344, just outside of Franklin Square, early Saturday morning.

Jean Eckhart

According to the state highway patrolmen, the car driven by Jerry skidded on a curve, left the road, struck a steel telephone pole, and overturned. Later the gas tank exploded and within seconds the entire car was enveloped in flames and the two young people were burned to death.

Two other occupants of the car, Marjorie Kelly and Robert Roessler, also graduates of Salem High, escaped with injuries.

Jean was a member of the reserve cheerleading squad, the Salemasquers, and the Baptist church where she sang in the choir.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Eckhart; two brothers, Jerry and Phillip; and a sister, Linda.

Anything Goes

By Lawrence Vasilevich

Once again reports on the spirit of our assemblies and games come in. The last two pre-game assemblies were very spirited as were our home games. The only disagreeable report was in regard to the out-of-town games. The cheerleaders realize that Salem fans are spread out and they depend upon the only concentrated section of Salemites, the band, for cheering. Only a few band members were to be heard at the last away game.

A position is open in Mr. Jones' physics classes for any person who can pour a bottle of mercury into a J-shaped tube so that an equal level is registered on both sides of the tube. Reading of such an experiment in a book wasn't enough for Jan Trisler. She had to see it done! While Field Marshall Edwick and Colonel Victor Sabastian Lake (titles acquired thorough the generosity of Mr. Jones) watched in amazement, Mr. Jones vainly attempted to do the experiment.

Small Talk

By Carol Steffel
A Pleasant Surprise!

Helen Copacia, a freshman, delightfully surprised Norma Kerns with a tiny red rose corsage last week. It all came about when Helen, a recent customer at McBane-McArtor drug store, and Norma, who is employed there, were discussing roses. Helen said she would bring Norma one to school and, of course, Norma agreed whole heartedly, never expecting her to do it. And she did—a corsage of two roses!

Couple of the Week

Lee Wolfe and Barbara McArtor are the couple for this week. Everyone knows these two popular kids who have been going steady since the beginning of this school year. Lee is a junior and Barbara is a sophomore. Barb is the secretary of the class and Lee is the drum major of the band.

A Novelty, Indeed

Mary Christensen has a very odd gold pin which came from Norway. It's really fascinating and attracts everyone's attention. It never stops moving and the more you look at it, the faster it seems to go.

She Can Dance, Too

Senorita Nivea Marta Vergel really showed experience in doing the rumba at the Elks dance after the Salem-Struthers game, when the orchestra struck up a Latin American tune. Everyone stood along the sidelines with wistful eyes realizing that this girl had brought with her from Cuba something more than knowledge of the Spanish language.

Ben Bailey and Bob Zimmerman journeyed to Alliance the other evening to witness a high school stage performance. They arrived in Alliance rather quickly, but the poor chaps just couldn't seem to find their way out of the metropolis. So after many homeward directions were asked the boys sleepily got home in the A. M. concluding that now they know Alliance like the palms of their hands.

The Hi-Tri initiation brought many a smile upon the countenances of the students and the faculty. The girls looked very comical thumbing rides in front of the school. The surprising factor is that "Liz" Futz, Jennie Taflan, Peg Baltorin, and Marilyn Burns actually got their rides.

Please Don't Hate Me for Loving You
By C. M. Brautigam

Though you may turn your head
When I attempt to steal a kiss,
And you may shy away
When I want to hold you close
There is one thing dear
That I hope you'll never do,
Please don't hate me for loving you.

I think of you, my love,
From break of dawn till late at night
And dream of you, dear one,
When the world is lost to sight.
It would hure me so
If I knew you didn't care—
Please don't hate me for loving you.

Chorus:

Your smile is so alluring
I can't resist your charm
I long to have you rest your head upon my arm.
There's no other who can take your place, my dear,
Please don't hate me for loving you.

You say you couldn't love me
You say you couldn't care
You say I'm not the answer
To your loving prayer.
But no matter how you feel toward me,
my dear,
You can't hate me for loving you.

Well, Boys, Get Wise As the Girls Tell All!

S.H.S. girls this week responded as follows to the question, "What quality do you most admire in a boy?"

Agnes Fink—Good sense of humor.
Mary Hollinger—Good manners.
Mary Christensen—Clean-cut and understanding.
Dana Rice—Clean language.
Barbara Ross—Tactfulness.
Jean Cocca—A boy who acts his age.
Norma Kerns—Good disposition.
Joan Robusch—Truthfulness.
Joanna Bova—Politeness.
Marlene Brown—A boy who doesn't give a girl a line.
Janet Lehman—nice dresser.
Nina Snyder—Good sportmanship.
Anna Herron—Truthfulness and height.
Flo Chester—A boy who'll speak to you at all times.
Gerry Van Hovel—Courtesy.
Lois Bruckner—Butch haircuts.
Carolyn Rowlands—Shined shoes.
Mable Dolence—Politeness.
Roseanne Modarelli—Good conversationalist.
Eva Rae Hannay—Consideration and respect for a girl.
Treva Bush—Neatness.

Public Health Needs Many Psychologists

Since the need for psychologists is so great, the U.S. Public Health service is setting up subsidiaries for the building of psychology departments and especially for clinical training.

The Veterans Administration plans to increase its staff of clinical psychologists from the present 25 members to 1,200 in the next five years.

Budgetary hindrances as well as personnel shortages prevent the employment of a needed 10,000 clinical psychologists for public health needs.

Varying job opportunities show that about half of the professional psychologists are connected with educational institutions and about one-third are with the government agencies or privately supported community agencies.

The greatest shortages are in clinical work and teaching. The fact that so many colleges and business concerns are adding psychologists to their personnel shows a probable expansion in this field.

They Paid the Price!

The horrible and untimely deaths of Jean Eckhart and Jerry Zimmerman in a flaming automobile crash early Saturday morning emphasizes again the need for more careful driving.

By the same token, once more the realization that experience is not only the best teacher but also a very dear one is brought home.

We shall miss our classmate and friend to whom the promising vistas of life and activity were opening wide. They paid the price that countless other American teen-agers have paid for just a little bit of fun.

They are gone, but on our hearts and in our minds is written a lesson which shall not soon depart:

That roads have a way of curving and tires, a way of skidding. Add to this a high acceleration, and there can be only one result.

In the Red?

The first grade period of the 1949-50 school term has ended and when the report cards were issued yesterday great was the wailing and gnashing of teeth on the part of the students.

Those individuals who have failed to meet the standards set up for the entire school are now suffering the consequences of six weeks' lack of study.

There are a variety of causes for the failure of these students in their work. Some of them, attempting to carry full schedules in addition to doing part-time work at local places of business, have found it physically impossible.

Others have permitted extra-curricular activities to completely dominate their interests. To them an education is something to be taken care of when other needs are not pressing.

Still others have been passive participants in the work of the classes and have made no efforts whatsoever to do the required work.

Each student whose grades were not up to par can place himself in one of the three foregoing categories. And then? And then determine to eliminate the factor or factors that are now placing him in the red.

Class Incidents Turn Faces Red!

The routine of a daily school schedule is often broken up by classroom incidents that bring smiles and sometimes embarrassed expressions.

For instance: one day in the middle of a song by the advanced chorus, Mr. Crothers, weary and provoked, remarked, "You know where to go in case of a fire." Although his intentions were good, it didn't sound like directions for a fire drill.

Speaking of fires, if there were any fire escapes from the third-story windows, a few Frosh would probably be missing. Seems there are a few boys who take to hanging out the windows as though they have a longing to be outside. Perhaps the attraction is the biology class out on the lawn searching for specimens. And if Pat Pasco doesn't look silly chasing grasshoppers!

It has always been said that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. Why don't some of those food students see that a little more applesauce cake gets out among the classes?

Mary Dunlap Leads Sales In G. A. A. Card Contest

Mary Dunlap, freshman, is leading in the second week of the G. A. A. Christmas card contest with $21.00 worth of cards sold. Betty Straub, sophomore is second with $16.00. In the third place is Harriet Worman, senior, with $12.00. Rose Nocera, junior, is fourth with $9.00. Cards may be ordered from any G. A. A. member or from Miss Edith Cope, adviser.

500 Attend Elk's Dance Given For Teen-Agers

More than 500 Salem and Struthers High school students attended the teen-age dance sponsored by the Elks lodge in their ballroom last Friday night following the Salem-Struthers game.

This was the second such affair held by the local organization this school year.

Music, directed by Paul Kuhns was furnished by the Musicians Local 222.

Another dance will be held Nov. 11.

To Enter Hobby Show

Several members of the Coin and Stamp club are preparing their entries in the Salem Hobby show which is to be held October 28, 29, and 30 in the Memorial building, according to J. O. Hagedorn, adviser.

Judy Jackson was hostess to a group of 14 friends at her home last Saturday night. A scavenger hunt provided entertainment after which games and refreshments were enjoyed.

Fritz Bichsel provided entertainment for a group of the football boys after the Pittsburgh game with a hayride after which they returned to his home for refreshments.

Taking advantage of the day off from school tomorrow, several students have made special plans for the weekend.

Nancy Stockton and Shirley McCave will journey by train to Purdue university to visit Shirley's brother who is a student there.

Pat Coe will spend the weekend at Wesleyan college with her brother Tom. Shirley Hill will visit her cousin who is attending Kent State university.

Jim Tausch, Dave White, Jim Layden, Bob Hickey, and Bob Lepping, will visit Bob's uncle in Detroit over the weekend.

Picture Day Is Here at Last; Now, to Make You Beautiful

By Lois Firestone

Jingle! Jingle! Jingle! There goes the alarm!

As you dreamily shut it off, and rub your eyes, something extra special seems to be lingering in the back of our mind. It finally hits you. It's the day for your senior picture appointment!

Yanking off your hairnet and worrying to yourself, "Gee, I wonder if my pincurls were too tight?" you hop out of bed for inspection. Pausing in front of the mirror, closing your big blues and opening them quickly, you gaze in astonishment. It can't be possible, but then, looking again, the realization that you were right hits you: not a tiny little pimple has sprung up overnight!

Hastily rushing back to your boudoir, you see everything is laid out for you to wear—the new corduroy dress and your good shoes.

But first there's your hair (sigh) to be attended to. Finally after much combing and brushing, you glance into the mirror, seeing a wild banshee staring out at you. "Oh!" you wail, "how could I do this to me?" But miracles do happen, and finally your hair is flat and shining, lying just the way you wished it to.

Proceeding down the stairs to the breakfast awaiting you, your mother sees you coming and beams, "My, don't you look nice? That dress does look a little old on you though..."

Sitting down, you begin to sip your cocoa, but when you reach for toast, the cocoa spills on your dress, leaving a little stream of brown right down the front of it.

Golly, the school bus is coming too, and school busses don't wait for anyone. Dashing upstairs once more, and grabbing your old standby grey skirt and blue sweater, you hurriedly crawl into them and rush down the steps to grab your books and papers.

"My," beams mother as you fly out the door, your hair awry, your skirt flying, and your shoes clogging, "Now, that's the way a young girl should look when she's going to have her picture taken. Natural."

Ticket Committees Named for Play

The procedure of ticket sales for "The Late Christopher Bean" was explained and various committee heads and members were announced when the Senior class held a meeting Tuesday in the auditorium.

The advertising committee consists of Herbert Kelly, chairman; Paul Harp, Anna Herron, Paul Berger, Joanne Conser, and Bernice Swetey.

Lois Firestone, class secretary, has been named general executive chairman of the ticket sales. The homeroom chairmen are Pat Coe, 207; Myra Ewing, 208; Jim Johnston, 209; Carolyn Rowlands, 210; and Marilyn Stef-fel, 212.

The class officers are directly responsible for the work of the committees said C. M. Brautigam class adviser.

Junior High won out over Maple Ridge with a score of 28 to 0. On Oct. 22 the team will fight against Sebring Junior High at Sebring.

The recent touch football scores are 8A-12, 8D-12; 7E-6, 7D, 0; 7E-0, 7C-0. In a game with 8B, 8E won by a forfeit.

The first six weeks stamp contest was won by 7B with $1880.50 7A came in second with $1654.00, and in third place was 8A who had $1623.50. 7B also won the weekly contest. The winning homeroom received a treat, and each member in the above rooms got 15 cents. The $9100 totals are the highest on record for contests lasting over a six-week period.

The sixth grade, directed by Miss Geraldine Floding, presented a play entitled "The New Broom."

Barrettmens Given Nod In Contest with Central

Final Home Game of '49 Season On Tap Tonight at Reilly Field

By Bill Winder

The Salem Quakers will attempt their fifth victory in seven tries tonight when they meet the Akron Central Wildcats at Reilly stadium. The Quakers will also be out to avenge a 25 to 0 defeat dished out by Central in 1942, just seven years ago.

The "Wildcats" have a record of two wins against four losses, compared with Salem's record of just the opposite. The Akronites have bowed to Akron East, Cuyahoga Falls and just last week were defeated 14 to 0 by Canton Central Catholic. The Wildcats' winners list is a little bit shorter. They shut out a tough Akron Kenmore team and ripped through Akron Buchtel 20 to 6 for their second win. Central will be using a single wing and an unbalanced line like Struthers, but they are not as heavy or rated as highly as that "tough" Struthers team which fell victim to Salem's attack last week.

Ekstedt and Ficele, both Akron guards, are wheels on the team, they are not backfield boys but are mighty dangerous on defense and offense both. Tom Barber, a fast backfield, was held back from scoring but will be out there tonight seeing how hot he can make that gridiron.

The lineups for tonight's games are as follows:

For Akron Central:
Ends—H. Johnson, Kerr, Williams

Tackles—Ford, Prease, Matthews, Rocco, Marsh

Guards—Ficele, Ekstedt, Dawson

Centers—Hefner, Davis

Backs—Dunlap, B. Jeter, Wixcey, Barber, Blayeff, Quafterock, Walraven, Fahrer

For Salem:
Ends—England, Roth, Whitacre

Tackles—Cseype, Muhleman, Whisler

Guards—Joseph, Pasco, Lippiatt

Center—Loutzenhiser, Cusack

Backs—Callahan, Reash, Theiss, Nocera, Ference, Fredrick, Scott

Quakers Upset Struthers 21-13

The Salem Quakers ended the Struthers Wildcats' winning streak last Friday night before the season's largest crowd of 6,521 fans with the score of 21 to 13.

The Quakers got off to a fine start with backs Jim Ference and George Reash taking the ball on their own 32 and driving down the field before being stopped on the Wildcats' 25.

Struthers scored on their first play with a pass tossed by Ray Swansinger to Don Massara who ran 51 yards for the first T. D. The kick was wide.

Between a 15-yard pass by Callahan and three sensational runs by Reash the Quakers drove 69 yards for the tying touchdown. Reash ran the final eight yards to cross the goal. With a good placement by Lige Alexander Salem went ahead 7 to 6.

After a fumble recovery by Csepke the Barrett eleven went 92 yards for their second T. D. Each of the Quaker backs, Reash, Alexander, Ference, and Callahan, took the pigskin yard after yard down the field. Captain Reash went over for the score. Alexander's boot was good, putting Salem out in front 14 to 6.

During the third quarter the Wildcats went from their own 10 all the way for a T. D. After a series of line plunges, Swansinger went over from the one. He also went over for the extra point still leaving Salem in the lead by one point.

Loutzenhiser intercepted a pass on the seven, and Nocera broke through for the final T. D. Alexander put another one over for the final score of Salem 21, Struthers 13.

Sportively Speaking

By Dick Brautigam

Struthers had Ray Swansinger and Bob Hoffman, the first T.D. of the game, and most of the breaks, but Salem had 19 boys and a coach who knew that the Wildcats never had a chance.

The Quaker defensive line rang the bell clear up at the top where it says "superman" with Big Fred Csepke and Little Tony Colian swinging the hammer much of the time. Roth, England, Lippiatt, Muhleman, Wisler, Votaw, Joseph, Frederick, Pasco and Loutzenhiser were all very stingy as they refused to give Struthers even one cheap little inch.

Struthers undoubtedly had read the Cleveland Plain Dealer too many times as they came to Salem all geared to stop a Quaker passing attack. However, Coach Barrett and Quarterback J. C. crossed them up and pushed the team on the ground. Long Jimmy's passes were so few and far between that the Wildcats had a very rugged time second guessing the plays.

Odds and Ends

The first thing under "odds" is Mark Miller. Mark is the boss of the Quaker managers and refuses to let any of his helpers carry out the towel to the players during the game. Rumors are going around that Mark was head manager for Salem High's 1929 undefeated team. He has been around for a long time.

Akron Central moves into Salem tonight for the final home game of the 1949 season. The Wildcats haven't been living up to expectation so far this year and are underdogs for this game. Their offense is almost entirely a ground attack since in their latest game with Central Catholic of Canton they failed to throw a pass during the whole first half.

Quaker Harriers Vie For District Honors

Frank Tarr, cross country coach will take Paul Provins, Louie Quinn, John Votaw, Jim Cosgarea, and Tommy Johnson to Akron for the District meet Saturday where they will vie for top honors which may send them on to the state meet the following week-end.

In their final regularly scheduled meet of the season held last week, the Salem harriers dropped a close one to Warren Harding 26 to 31.

Masterson of Warren took the number one spot, running the flat two-mile course at Perkins park in Warren in the very fast time of 9 minutes and 40 seconds. Salem's Paul Provins captured his usual second place with the flashy time of 9 minutes and 45 seconds.

Other Salem places went to L. Quinn, 3rd; Votaw, 5th; Cosgarea, and Johnson, tied for 10th and 11th; Herron, 13th; Vaughn, 14th; Sharp, 15th and May, 16th.
