Jackson's Orchestra Will Play for Dancing

A fiesta, based on the theme of old Spain, will be held in the gymnasium by members of the Spanish club next Friday evening with Glen Jackson's orchestra of Leetonia performing.

The affair will be open to anyone wishing to attend, according to D. W. Mumford, adviser. Admission fee will be 25 cents per person.

Nivea Vergel will provide dancing with other forms of entertainment being presented.

The cooking classes will prepare a Spanish delicacy for the students.

Treva Bush is in charge of tickets; Bill Winder, Vic Lake and Danny Keister are on the decoration committee with Kenneth Burrier in charge; Mary Hollinger, Donna Marple, Koula Menegos, Barbara Ross, and Agnes Fink are serving on the food committee; Nancy Stephenson is in charge of entertainment; Dolores Buta and Lois Bruckner, advertisement.

Juniors Begin Ticket Sales Campaign for Class Play

At a meeting of the Junior class this week, students were given instructions for the selling of tickets to the three-act comedy, "One Foot in Heaven," which the class will present in the auditorium March 30 and 31. Jenny Taflan and Colleen Kirby are co-chairmen of the ticket sales.

Mable Dolence Likes Sports; Plans for Modeling Career

By Barbara Ross

One of these days, in the not-too-far-away future, stopping at a news stand to purchase our favorite monthly magazine, we shall see smiling at us from its cover, an attractive model who looks rather familiar to us.

The lustrous sheen of the ash-blond hair, the width of the uplifted face and the sparkle of the soft grey eyes all will serve to recall Mable Louise Dolence.

But, let's stay in the present, rather than the future. Mable does want to become a photographer's model. She plans to go to Washington, D. C., after her graduation, then on to San Francisco. She believes that she will find good opportunities there.

When not eating French fries or meat loaf (her favorite foods), Mable might be found horseback riding, hiking, or reading. "Come, Spring" by Ben Ames Williams, Tony Martin's "Marta" is her best-liked record, while Glenn Miller's orchestra tops her list of musicians.

Bert Lancaster and Elizabeth Scott are her favorite movie stars, but she'd like someday to really see a Broadway play in New York, especially "South Pacific," she said dreamily.

When asked what her most embarrassed moment was, Mable laughed and said, "Well, I have so many of them every day, it's hard to choose a single one. My most surprised moment was when I found I had won The Most Natural Girl contest last year. It wasn't embarrassing, but I surely will remember that moment!"

Mable, who usually dresses in comfortable, tailored sports clothes, says her favorite school subject is English.

Because Mable is from Lisbon, the football games between the Blue Devils and Salem have been

Why All the Green?

All Good Irish Wear It!!

There's always one day each year that traffic arrests hit a new low. This isn't startling information until you find out that it happens on the same day each year!

What makes motorists drive so carefully each year on March 17? Now that's a good question but it doesn't even take an Irishman to answer it. The lack of arrests isn't because the policemen aren't on their toes. Officer Clancy is just a little more lenient on March 17 because this is the day for the Irish. This is St. Patrick's Day.

Some of the people who escaped a trip to court when Clancy gave his warning instead of lowering his famous "boom" might like to know a little more about their savior, St. Patrick.

The exact dates in St. Patrick's life are not known but he is believed to have been born about the year 389 somewhere in Great Britain. He was not more than 16 when he was captured by Irish raiders and taken to Ireland as a slave. After six years there he escaped to Gaul (France) where he took up studies in a monastery. Later he returned to Ireland, this time as a missionary. Here he spent more than half his life converting the Irish to Christianity.

If you're going out driving tonight, take a tip and wear your green hat or find a shamrock for your button hole. Another thing, if the policeman chasing you turns out not to be Clancy, just hope you have that "luck of the Irish."

Accordianist Is Talent Winner

Steve Navoyosky, Freshman accordianist was awarded first place in the Student Council talent assembly held March 8 with the Starlighters, a group of Freshmen boys, capturing second place honors. Jim Cosgara and Bob Hill took third and fourth places, respectively.

Steve played as his selection "Tea for Two," while the Starlighters, composed of John Litty, trumpet; Gail Brown, drums; Ralph Firestone; saxophone; Don McCormick and Bill Ward, trombones; and Bruce Snyder, piano; rendered their theme song, "Stairway to the Stars," and "Don't Cry, Joe."

Jim sang "That Lucky Old Sun" while Bob Hill danced and sang "Bye, Bye, Baby."

There will be another talent assembly in the near future, according to Miss Helen Thorp, adviser, and Don Loutzenhiser,

The homerooms voted for the chairman. The entertainers they enjoyed most.

Sophomore Wins Design Contest

Don Getz, Sophomore, won the designing contest sponsored by the art department for the stage backdrop for the Junior class production of "One Foot in Heaven." Consequently his design, which was judged the best in perspective and most expressive of the time and place of the play, will be used in the three-act comedy drama.

Honorable mentions went to James Pearson, Joanne Conser, Robert Hill, and Bernice Swetye.

The committee judging the designs was composed of Miss Irene Weeks, dramatics director; Mrs. Maxine Ryser, Junior class adviser; and Tom Rowlands, a local artist.

Seniors to Install Public Telephone

A public telephone booth is to be installed on the second floor, south side, of the high school where it will be accessible to anyone at anytime that the building is used, according to B. G. Ludwig, principal.

The gift committee of the Senior class discussed the public telephone as a possible class gift. After checking with the telephone company, the committee found that the phone and booth would be installed by the company at no expense to the class or school. With permission of school officials, the telephone company has been authorized to proceed with the work.

Seniors, Freshmen Visit Industrial Exposition

Students View Jobs, Careers Offered Young People in the Four Counties

Two hundred and ninety-one Freshmen and Seniors are attending the second annual Industrial exposition of the Mahoning and Shenango valleys at the Stambaugh auditorium in Youngstown today.

The exposition, open each school day this week for conducted tours of high school Seniors and Freshmen, is intended primarily to show young people of Columbiana, Mahoning, Trumbull, and Mercer counties and their parents what the valleys offer in the way of jobs and careers.

The visiting students will see model plants, pictorial displays, and all kinds of material made in the four counties, along with the machinery to make them.

The exposition's exhibits are grouped into 20 sections to tell the story of business and industry in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys.

All firms which belong in any one classification will be in the same section, and many of them have worked out integrated displays. Each section explains the types of work which are found in that particular industry and the qualifications needed.

The displays are made lively and graphic by many devices. Model limestone plants, models of construction work, models of steel plants and other production equipment, such as conveyor belts, will be operating.

A full-size welding machine, an actual jet engine with a case partly made of lucite, full-size air-conditioning equipment, power tools, and innumerable products from plants of the two valleys have been set up. Many of the exhibitors are illustrating their stories with mechanical books, slides, pictures and charts.

Seniors Discuss, Vote For 1950 Class Gift

Three possibilities for the 1950 class gift were voted on by the Senior class this week after an oral presentation of each had been made by members of the gift committee at a meeting of the prospective graduates.

Articles brought up for consideration were a clock for the first floor north side, a refrigerated drinking fountain for the third floor south side, and an inter-room communication system for the high school.

The inter-room communication system is the most expensive of the three suggestions and should it be favored by the class of 1950 assistance for financing its installation will be sought from the Board of Education.

The gift committee, composed of the class officers and a representative from each senior homeroom includes, Lawrence Vasilevich, president; Elijah Alexander, vice-president; Lois Firestone, secretary - treasurer; Treva Bush, 207, Marge Greene, 208, Ford Joseph, 209, Donna Schoss, 210, and Bob Tarzan, 212.

county area sponsor the exposition, cooperating with the Industrial Information Institute and school authorities.

Special bus trips were arranged to convey 10,000 high school students to the auditorium this week for the conducted tours in the daytime.

Stars to Enact Unusual Antics

World's Fair Attractions Highlight Annual Show

Elektro, the mechanical man, and Sparko, his dog, stars of the New York World's Fair, will be the principal attractions for the Salem High students attending the second annual Industrial exposition in Stambaugh auditorium today.

After a wartime rest, Elektro was given a complete physical checkup and taught some new tricks. He is regarded as the "most accomplished" of several mechanical men built by the Westinghouse Electric Corp. He can do 26 tricks.

Elektro can walk, talk, smoke, count up to 10 (using his fingers, for he hasn't been to school), bow his head, call out "red" or "green" when these colors are placed before his eyes, and do other stunts. He has a vocabulary of 77 words.

Elektro's dog, Sparko, wags his tail, sits up, begs and barks, all in response to spoken requests.

Elektro is seven feet tall, weighs 260 pounds and has a 60-pound "brain" consisting of an electric eye and 82 relays and signal lights. He has 11 electric motors to make him obey orders.

Sparko is 17 inches high, but is a fairly hefty dog, weighing 65 pounds. He has only two motors. His vocabulary is limited to a bark, but he does sit up and walk.

Banks Give School Film about Check

A film, "Pay to the Order of - - -," was presented to Salem High school by The Farmers National bank and First National bank this week.

Useful in teaching basic facts about bank checks to business students and groups, the film is a visual education aid developed by banks as a part of their general public relations program. It shows how to write a check, explains various types of endorsements, gives the reasons why checks are used, and explains what may happen to an individual check in completing a payment.

The film was obtained by the local banks from the Public Relations council of the American Bankers association, which has undertaken production of a series of films on banking and business subjects, for use in high school.

Mable Dolence

very exciting to her. Remembering the thrill-packed football she said, "I was glad it ended in a tie."

The man who wants to rate with Mable will really have to toe the mark. In Mable's own words, "He will have to be considerate, good-looking, of course, a between professor and a play-boy, must agree with my points of view, and must have a moderate income."

(She did have Gene Bearden of the Cleveland Indians in mind, but decided it was sort of a waste of time.)

Fault's Expressed By S.H.S. Students

Asked what they considered to be the most serious fault of their fellow students, S.H.S. people replied as follows:

- Paul Gartner—'oo much gossiping.
- Mary Althouse—too many cold-shoulders.
- Carol McNamee—too many people who think they are superior.
- Pat Mayhew—lack of friendship.
- Bea Rufer—not friendly enough.
- Mary Ellen Alessi—too many cliques.
- Marty Alexander—too much gossiping.
- Dorothy Pobniko—many studen's do not appreciate the opportunity for education given them.
- Helen Karasiewsky—too many conceited studes.
- Jeri Hagen—studes don't cooperate with teachers.
- Glenna Whinnery—too many private clubs.
- Terry Moore—too much tardiness.
- Joan Driscoll—too much swearing.
- Ida Farmer—too much smoking.
- Jim Cosgarea—they don't take advantage of a free education—"opportunity knocks only once."

Anything Goes

Yippee! Our West Virginiafied friend, Bob Hill, is amusing his friends about S.H.S. with a whelele. This expensive instrument is made from a Kraft cheese box and, with rusted steel wire for strings, gives out with sweet plunks. So, if you hear these sweet agonizing tones slowly ruining your eardrums, consider the source and remember to banish all murderous thoughts from your mind until he is a safe distance away.

Sad as it may sound our own Tom Cope is in his second childhood. Tom just finished his um'eenth box of Wheaties last week. ### Woes of a Paper

The task of an editor usually can be very difficult, even with the suggestions and new ideas we have received and for which we are always grateful. The following illustrates our plight:

- Getting out this paper is not a picnic. If we print jokes, readers say we are silly. If we don't, they claim we are too serious. If we stick close to the office all day, We ought to be out hunting news; If we go out and try to hustle, We should be working in the office. If we reprint material from other papers, We're too lazy to write our own. If we don't we are too stuck on our own stuff. If we make a change in another fellow's story, We are too critical. If we let it alone, we're asleep. If we forget to report club doings, we're jealous. If we write them up, we are playing favorites. Now, just as an illustration, some guy'll say We swiped this piece from another paper. Well, we did!

Anne Spends Week-end in Paris - - - Visits Landmarks, Zoo, Cathedral

20 Rue du Colonelde Bange, Versailles, Seine et Oise. March 8, 1950.

Dear Salem Highers,

Another week of school days has started. It seems as if they have been going on for a long time; interesting, and I'm learning, but nothing particularly unusual. But last week-end we had a grand time, for Daddy took us to Paris to see some sights.

First we went to the Arc de Triumphe, and went to the top, after looking at the tomb of the unknown soldier under the Arc where a fire is always kept burning.

Wht a view of Paris we could see! The streets all go out from the Arc like spokes of a wheel, or like rays of a star. In fact, the Arc de Triumphe is in the Place de l' Etoile, and etoile is star in English. It is perfectly named. From the top one can see, on a clear day, most all of the large buildings in and near Paris, and get a wonderful idea of the plan of the city. Quite near is the Eiffel Tower, but we decided to leave that for another day and went next to Notre Dame.

The beauty of that famous cathedral is undescrivable. You have all seen pictures of the outside, I know, so you can imagine it. Inside it is large and dark, and rather mysterious, as a church should be. There are the most lovely stained glass windows I have ever seen, in perfectly glorious colors and designs so beautiful!

Then to the zoo, where we had a grand time. My favorite animal is always, in any zoo, the giraffe. I don't know exactly why, but maybe a phychiatrist would say I have a morbid desire to be tall, or something like that! Anyway, this giraffe was very graceful and a great show-off. He even obliged by sticking his stalk-like neck over the fence and just about took my fuzzy white hat!

When I backed away he looked quite hurt, but not to let his feeling show, he strode away with his head in the air—and quite a ways up, at that!

And, with the day nearly over, the Montgomerys went home, thinking what a good time we had. Next week-end we hope to see something else interesting in Paris, but 'till then so long!

—Anne Montgomery.

Small Talk

By Carol Steffel

Couple of the Week

This week Bill Thompson and Delores Shephard claim the title of "Couple of the Week." Deloris is a Junior and Bill a Senior. They are really a couple of longstanding and in addition to this, both are popular among their classmates.

At the Flood Stage

Who was the character that left the water running in the art room? It seems as if the water was left turned on all night and the next day the students just about had to wade to their classes.

A Lady in Distress

Shirley Robusch was worried after a recent tournament game to which she "tooled" the Robusch "bolt." It seems the car refused to start. However, Vic Lake and Paul Berger, who happened to pass the scene, came to the rescue and succeeded in getting the car started again.

Have You Noticed

- Ann Stowe's chartreuse blouse?
- The beard George Vaughn is growing for the Junior play?
- Marlene Brown's green suit?
- Shirley LaMonica's Shoes?
- Jay England's new glasses?
- How many students around S.H.S. are playing Canasta?

Flash!

Eddy Butcher has graciously consented to keep and care for the "Moes" which Fred Theiss and Bob Tarzan are thinking about importing from Canada for a profit. "Moes" are about the size of a sheep dog and are sheared twice a year for mohair.

That's Getting Your Exercise

Tony Colian quietly followed Mr. Callahan almost around the whole study hall recently, trying to get his signature on a piece of paper. Finally, to Tony's relief, Mr. Callahan discovered he was the one Tony wanted to see.

Some Idea

Since the Junior play is drawing near, it isn't an uncommon sight to see the cast walking through the halls of S.H.S. learning their lines. Johnny Vo'aw really has a system. He sees his girl, Nancy Weidenhof, but still learns his lines. However, Nancy says she knows those lines about as well as Johnny does.

Among the Eight Hundred

Marilyn Burns was hostess to a group of friends last Saturday evening at a Canasta party. Refreshments were served.

Carol Steffel entertained at her home Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. Richard Gross (the former Kathy Hodge). Mrs. Gross was surprised with a miscellaneous shower for her future home. A very lovely lunch was served by Carol and her mother. Canasta provided entertainment.

Many teen-agers enjoyed the dance sponsored by the Elks last Friday evening. Music was furnished by Bill Schuler.

Lois Smith entertained a few friends at a Television-Canasta party last Saturday evening at her home. Refreshments were served.

Anna Herron was delightfully surprised when a group of 20 friends honored her on her 18th birthday at a party last week. They presented her with many gifts. Decorations were in keeping with St. Patrick's day. Canasta provided a very enjoyable evening.

Vera and Mary Myers, from Lisbon, visited S. H. S. as Pat Coe's guests last Friday.

Students Compete For Music Awards

Twenty-seven students competed in the auditions for Marie Burns Music awards Monday and Tuesday evenings in the music room. Winners will not be announced until the final Recognition assembly.

Judges, members of the Salem Music Study club, were Mrs. Walter Hofmeister, Mrs. Meredith Livingston, Mrs. Donald Dusenberry, Mrs. Ray Stiver, Mrs. Fred Sweitzer, Dr. Suliot, and Mrs. Eric Silver.

Band members will journey to East Liverpool to participate in the District Band contest to be held there Apr. 15.

Contest numbers will consist of a warm up march, "Vanguard," and "Youth Triumphant."

Howard Pardee, director, recently stressed the need for different instruments for use in the band for next year in order to balance the various sections of the band.

The instruments needed are flutes, basses, two string basses, French horns, trombones, baritone, an oboe, and a bassoon.

3 Faculty Members Visit Norton High

Kenneth Jacobs, health instructor, B. G. Ludwig, principal, and John Callahan, dean of boys, recently visited Norton High school near Barberton, Ohio, where they attended the health and pre-marriage classes being given to Sophomores and Seniors respectively of that school.

According to Mr. Ludwig, the school will be on the lookout for "additional methods and materials which might be added and used in our own health classes."

Library Receives and Displays Wide Variety of New Fiction Books

The library has received a wide variety of new fiction books for boys and girls, according to Miss Lois Lehman, librarian. They have been displayed in the showcase this week.

The books, including stories about pirates, Indians, pilgrims, farm life, baseball, and career stories for girls, are as follows:

BEST: LONG PORTAGE—A novel of early America during the French and Indian war.

Young Phil is a member of the famous Rogers' Rangers.

COLLINS: BLACK IVORY—Ralph Rudd is a fortune seeker and fugitive in the days of piracy on the high seas.

COREY: CORN GOLD FARM—This is an agricultural story concerning Earl Blake and his father who try to rehabilitate a worn-out farm. The story has its gay scenes, too.

DARINGER: PILGRIM KATE—Fifteen-year-old Kate and her parents set out to find religious freedom in the New World.

FULTON: STEVEDORE—Here is a realistic story of the waterfront conditions today.

LANCASTER: NO BUGLES TONIGHT—The adventures of Whipple Sheldon, secret agent, during the War between the States.

MCCRACKEN: GREAT WHITE BUFFALO—A tale of Sioux Indians. When vast buffalo herds roamed the West, a Dakota youth gains fame by finding and taming a white buffalo.

MACDONALD: MARCIA, PRIVATE SECRETARY—Marcia loses a good job because she is careless. Although a career story, this one includes enough mystery and romance to be fascinating.

O'ROURKE: FLASHING SPIKES—Everything interesting about baseball is in this story.

Teachers Association To Conduct Forum

A forum-type meeting of the Salem Teachers Association, discussing the theme "Administering and Financing the Public Schools" will be held next Thursday in room 209.

T. G. O'Keefe, director of research for the Ohio Education Association, will use as the subject of his speech, "What's Ahead for Ohio Schools."

Supt. E. S. Kerr will talk on the local level and I. J. Vorndran, county auditor, will speak on the county level.

A question period will follow the meeting.

In a recent trial spelling bee, Barbara Berry and Kathleen Hamilton of the 7th grade, and Barbara Patterson and Jerry Roberts of the 8th grade, were winners. Miss Elizabeth Ward pronounced while Deane Phillips and Herbert Kelley were judges. A spelling test was given to the entire student body this week to determine the top five spellers for the final contest.

A film "Treasure Island" was shown in assembly recently.

The Junior High Association party is planned for Apr. 24 at which time a theater party is to be held followed by a dance in the high school gymnasium.

The first Salem Junior High annual basketball tournament was held at the Memorial building Mar. 8 to 11.

Homeroom 7D won the six weeks tax stamp contest with a total of $510.50. Homeroom 8E was second with $500.50. The total was $2,996.00. Homeroom 7D is high for the week with $134.00.

Frank Tarr Assumes Task Of Rebuilding Salem Track

Completing his sixth year as Frosh basketball mentor, Frank J. Tarr now turns to his newly-appointed duty as Salem High head track coach. Last year he served as an assistant in track, helping mostly with the shotput, pole vault and discus.

Mr. Tarr, who also teaches chemistry, is a graduate of Bethany college, Bethany, W. Va. He also attended Ohio State and Kent State universities for post-graduate courses.

The new track head is qualified for any athletic program, having taken part in football, basketball, baseball and track during his high school and college days. As a trackman he participated in the 100-, 200-, and 440-yard events and did a bit of high jumping.

"Boys who are willing to work hard and obey training rules help make a good track team. We have a fine bunch of boys and I know they will be trying to improve last year's record," commented Mr. Tarr when asked about this year's team. He also stated that he hopes to see quite a number of boys out, including the Freshmen.

Dual meets scheduled so far this year are with Boardman and Warren. The Quakers will also participate in the Salem Night

Wife—"Elmer, tomorrow's our 25th wedding anniversary. Don't you think you'd better go out and kill a chicken?"

Elmer—"Why kill a chicken for what happened 25 years ago?"

Relays N. E. O. district meet, the County meet, and the annual Uhrichsville relays.

Mellinger and Paster Pace Frosh Scoring

Concluding their 1949-50 season, Coach Frank Tarr's Freshmen piled up a record of 15 wins and only one defeat which was handed to them by Wampum, Pa., in the Struthers tournament.

The Freshmen went through the regular season without suffering a defeat. Double victories were won over Leetonia, Lisbon, Boardman, and Columbiana, and single wins came from Alliance State Street, Sebring, and E. Palestine.

The Freshmen were also victorious in the Struthers Invitational tournament, defeating McDonald, Girard, and Alliance Freshmen, and winning the consolation cup as they defeated Youngstown East.

Track Gets Underway With Calisthenics in Gym

A surprisingly strong turn-out of approximately 60 boys answered the annual call for interested trackmen Monday evening in the high school gymnasium.

Under the tutorage of their new coach, Frank Tarr, the boys will work out in the gymnasium until weather permits the moving of activities to Reilly field.

The opening meet of the season is set for Apr. 19, when the Quakers will tangle with the Boardman Spartans in a dual affair.

Sportively Speaking

By Dick Brautigam

An attempt to add baseball to Salem High's list of sports activities this spring or even next was made but flatly turned down recently by the school's athletic board.

The board is composed of the various coaches and assistant coaches of the high school, the faculty manager, the dean of boys, the superintendent, the principal, and two members of the Salem Board of Education.

Reasons a mile long were given why baseball would be inadvisable in the school. With all the arguments summed up, the whole pool seems to break down into two reasons.

The first question of course is the "where ya gonna get the money?" angle. The school's main sports, basketball and football, can pay for the biggest part of their up-keep from the charge of admission at their games. For baseball this would be rather difficult.

The city's two acceptable hardball diamonds, Centennial park and Scott's field, are both without suitable facilities for charging admission. Any collection made at games would have to come from a pass-the-hat routine and that for obvious reasons wouldn't work.

Under such circumstances baseball would have to be supported by part of the football and basketball funds or the money would have to be secured directly from the school. The former can almost be counted out because football and basketball hardly take in enough money to support themselves, and the idea of getting money from the school isn't likely to get past the dream stage.

The other reason for the baseball refusal was the conflict it would cause with an already organized sport; namely, track. Track has been having it pretty rough in Salem for the last couple of years and it hasn't been rolling in the money. The picture isn't too much brighter for this spring unless the new coach, Frank Tarr, can devise a method for making boys' legs move faster or their arms push harder. Mr. Tarr has had plenty of experience and, if there's any ability in a boy at all, he's the one to bring it out.

To say that the Salem tracksters have no talent would be unfair to many of the boys. The squad has several true trackmen but the quantity isn't large enough to give the team many meet victories.

This column isn't trying to say that Salem High shouldn't have a track team, but rather it is pointing out that the few boys that a baseball team might take away from track wouldn't be enough to lower the school's reputation of having strong track squads. It's still hard for some people to believe and its taking them plenty of time to realize that Salem is no longer a track power-house. It seems that almost everyone is in favor of adding baseball to the school's spring program except those who could actually see that it is done.
