Spring Concert To Be Tonight

Salem High choruses under the direction of Thomas E. Crothers and the orchestra under the baton of Richard Howenstine will present their annual Spring concert this evening at 8:15 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

The Robed Choir will sing groups of numbers including novelty selections, a cappella numbers, and a choral accompaniment to a Rachmaninoff concerto played as a piano duo by Dorothy Pozniko and Rosemarie Faini. Dana Rice will be featured in a tap routine.

The orchestra will play Leroy Anderson's "Blue Tango" and "Syncopated Clock" among the selections on their program.

The Girls' Glee club will sing a group of numbers accompanied by Bruce Snyder and the Beginning Chorus will join with the Robed Choir in a presentation. Lois Getz accompanies the beginners.

Tickets may be purchased at the ticket booth for 50c, adult price, and 25c, student price.

Delegates Chosen For J.R.C. Camp

At a recent meeting of the Junior Red Cross it was decided that Ramon Pearson and Sharlene Sanlo be sent as representatives to the J.R.C. summer camp held at Limberlost, Indiana.

It was also voted that six members including the officers and three others will attend the annual convention in Cleveland on June 24. The officers are Bob Rea, president; Marjorie Jensen, vice-president; Margie Umstead, secretary-treasurer. The other three will be announced later.

A completed project of the organization is the album of music to be sent to Europe. The album, composed of music by the Robed Choir and the band with a spoken dialogue explaining the music, has been sent to national headquarters, and will later be sent to European students so they might learn about the music in our country.

Also completed by the group is the gift box project also to be sent to Europe. The boxes were filled by SHS students with usual items for boys and girls. Forty boxes have been turned in.

Bauman To Speak At Baccalaureate

Baccalaureate services will be held on Sunday, June 1 at 8 p. m., it was announced by E. S. Kerr, superintendent of schools.

The Reverend John Bauman will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon. He will speak on the theme, "A Fortune for Your Thoughts." The Baccalaureate services are held under the direction of the Salem Ministerial association. The Reverend E. S. Scott is president.

The Commencement is to be held June 5. The program, as was previously announced, will consist of commencement speeches by Dorothy Pozniko and Darrell Askey with musical contributions by Bill Schuller, Bob Dunn, and Dolores Buta.

Looking Ahead with a Junior

By Joan Schuller

With only a few weeks of school remaining, we Juniors are beginning to think seriously about our last year in high school. Very shortly we shall be the Senior class, ready to step up to our final tasks. Then we may look back, laughing, to our earlier years, see the new "greenies" come in, and say to ourselves, "We certainly weren't like that, were we?"

An inventory of Senior activities reveals that we have much to look forward to. We shall crown our Football Girl with pride. We shall cheer the teams led by Seniors, our classmates. We shall choose a Hall of Fame for the Annual. The band and the chorus will honor members of our group. Seniors will conduct the business of the Association, edit our school publications, guide our clubs and lead our social life. We shall carry on traditions and perhaps found new customs.

Thus we shall play a vital part in the system of our school. Although our activities here are important, as Seniors we must prepare to move on to the tasks for which we have been educated. Some of us may go straight to work, while others go on to more specialized training. For this reason we must make the most of our Senior year, our final preparation for things to come. And though we are a bit nostalgic about ending our high school careers, we must do our best to leave behind a good record, that we may add our bit to the history of SHS.

Commencement Eve Revives Memories of By-gone Days

The night air is soft and balmy and as you sit on your front porch on the evening of June 5 before Commencement exercises start, you let your thoughts drift to the days ahead.

All those college catalogs that arrived in the mail those last few weeks certainly didn't make it any easier for you to make a choice. However, after talking with your parents and the dean you finally made your choice of a good co-educational college not too far away, so that you could get home for Christmas with the family. Christmas brings back memories. Even last year you couldn't resist the temptation to get up at 6 a. m. and hurry downstairs to look in your stocking. That stocking has grown longer and longer as the years rolled by.

You'll always get a thrill when you hear "Auld Lang Syne" on New Year's eve no matter where you are. The thought of the many New Years to come brings a wave of anticipation into your dreams. The future is dim and inviting. A gentle summer breeze reminds you of evenings at the beach where you went for swims with the gang and roasted hot dogs by the fire.

Your parents are ready to leave and you smile at your mother in a grown-up way as you get into the car. On the way to the stadium you pass the movie theater where a lot of kids are buying tickets to the first show and you remember the many times you and the gang suffered through the trials of Roy Rogers and went galloping home at the latest possible moment. You stayed 12 years old as long as you possibly could, too, because it was pretty hard to scrape up 50c. However, when you bought your first adult ticket you got such a thrill that it was worth it and you didn't want to go back. You don't want to go back now.

That first day at high school was terrific. Freshmen were the only ones there and you had a whole big building to yourselves. However, the privacy lasted for only a day because on the following morning your little world was invaded by upperclassmen. They didn't frighten you but you didn't get too close either. You survived initiation and in the next fall you heartlessly punished the new Freshmen.

The parties and dances were loads of fun. Even though the boys stayed in one corner and the girls in another the suspense was intriguing. Upperclassmen boys were everywhere; one of them approached you and because you knew he was going to ask you to dance you ran for a corner. What a silly thing to do, you now think. Imagine, I was afraid of a Senior boy and now here we are, all my wonderful friends, graduating together.

Your parents notice your silence and ask if you feel sad. You assure them that you are only reminiscing.

Thespians Choose Zeigler as Prexy

Jon Zeigler was elected president of the Thespians for next year at a recent meeting. Other officers are Joan Schuller, vice-president; Carol Middeker, secretary; Rose Marie Crawford, treasurer; and Bob Stewart, scribe.

The new officers will assume their duties at the start of the next school year. Jon succeeds Darrell Askey while Joan Schuller takes over Mike Silver's position.

During the school year, the Thespians held two initiations and sponsored a Christmas play for several civic groups. Several members also traveled to the Kent Drama Clinic on Jan. 26.

Juniors, Sophomores Elect Sebo, Hertel

Final results in the election of class officers for next year's Sophomore and Junior classes have been announced by the class advisers.

Bob Sebo was voted president of the Junior class, Joe Hajcak, vice-president, and Betty Moore, secretary-treasurer.

Ray Hertel, Lowell Fleischer, and Janice Jeffries will serve the Sophomores as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Advisers are Miss Delores Ferko, Junior class, and Miss Helen Redinger, Sophomore class.

Next year's Freshmen will elect their officers in the fall. Miss Sarah Dooxee is the adviser.

Tame, Faini To Be Editors Of '52-'53 Quaker Publications

Rosemarie Faini, Judy Tame

The editors for the Quaker publications of 1952 and '53 have been announced by this year's editors and Mrs. Ruth Loop, adviser.

Hi-Tri Holds Annual Dinner

The Hi-Tri Mother-Daughter banquet was held at the Baptist church on Tuesday, May 22. Sixty mothers and daughters attended the annual festivity.

Candles and colorful bouquets of tulips and lilacs served as centerpieces for the dining room tables. Each mother was presented a carnation by her daughter.

President Stacy Paparodis welcomed the mothers. Mrs. Donald Getz, mother of next year's Hi-Tri president, Lois Getz, gave a response in behalf of the mothers.

The installation ceremony was performed. The Hi-Tri officers for 1952-1953 are as follows: President, Lois Getz; vice president, Theresa Stokovic; secretary, Roberta Gallagher; and treasurer, Glenna Whinnery.

Joanne Copacia, acting as mistress of ceremonies, announced the program. Louise Bauman played a violin solo, "Salut d'Amour;" Carol Middeker recited a monologue, entitled "Boy Crazy;" Dana Rice performed a ballet dance, "Argonnaise;" and Joanne Copacia sang "Mighty Lak a Rose."

The incoming president, Lois Getz, expressed a farewell to the Hi-Tri Seniors, after which the Hi-Tri song was sung, bringing the Mother-Daughter banquet to an impressive close.

Council Activities Near Completion

During the past school year the Student Council has assisted the Hi-Tri in sponsoring Vocations Day, published the Student Council Handbook for next year's Freshmen, sponsored Students' Day, the noon movies, two talent assemblies, dances after basketball games, and many other projects.

Mike Silver is president; Helen Dora Copacia, vice-president; Janice Hertel, secretary; Art Vaughan, treasurer; and Marty Alexander, parliamentarian. Dean John Callahan is adviser of the Council.

The Student Council Handbook for 1952-1953 which gives information concerning the choice of work sheets, school organizations, the athletic schedules, school songs and yells, and a map of Salem High was edited by Art Vaughan assisted by Sandra Kroner and Ray Pearson.

Judy Tame, who now serves as assistant editor of the Weekly, will replace Jean Cameron as editor. Judy will choose the assistants, columnists, and reporters in the fall.

Besides being active in Quaker work, Judy has appeared in her class play and other dramatic performances as a Thespian and Salem-asquer. Another honor was recently added to her collection when she was chosen to represent the class at Buckeye Girls' State in Columbus this summer.

Rosemarie Faini is also an assistant editor who will be promoted to editorship next year. She will succeed Susan Menegos in publishing the Quaker annual. Rosemarie has made no appointments yet, but will select her staff next fall.

Musical activities add to Rosemarie's busy days. She is a member of the Robed Choir, orchestra, and a music club. She has attended several contests as a piano and vocal soloist.

The present business manager of both publications, Bob Dunn, has not been replaced yet because of the illness of business adviser, R. W. Hilgendorf.

Seniors To Vote On Gift Suggestions

At the Senior class meeting held Wednesday morning the gift committee presented suggestions for the class gift to the students. The senior homerooms will vote upon the suggestions sometime this week.

Barbara McArtor presented the possibility of purchasing a water cooler for the south corridor of the third floor.

Joanne Copacia gave details about an electric clock to be placed on the north side first floor.

Jack Stallsmith related details about an automatic sandwich warmer for the stand at Reilly Field.

Darrell Askey reported on folding chairs for the general use of the high school.

The gift that is to be decided upon will be in addition to the coffee urn presented to the school earlier this year.

Bandsmen To Play With Mount Union Band

Nancy Bailey, Gail Fair, Wendell Dunn, Charles Cobourn, Margie Hannay, Sandy Hansell, Dale Horton, Bill Schuller, and John Litty have been selected by Howard D. Pardee, band director, to play with the Mount Union College band under the direction of Mr. Adleman, May 25.

Looking twenty years into the future we see graduates of the class of 1952 who have become very successful(?).

A Prophecy of the Class of 1952

First of all we see Dorothy Pozniko, the now famous pianist, who tells us that she has just seen Darrell Askey, the professor of music at Bowling Green University.

"Soft Water anyone?" At this remark we stop to talk awhile to Bruce Gordon, proprietor of Gordon and Son Water Softening Inc. In his spare time Bruce is the tennis pro at the Cleveland Country club.

In the coming 1972 Senatorial elections in Ohio, the people are having a tough time choosing between "Honest" Bob Funk and Terry "Claghorn" Moore. Dick Firth, ace mechanic, who has just built a new jet auto designed by Don Getz, has this to say, "I like 'Claghorn' because he wears sharp suspenders!"

Carl Kaufman, the "Mouthpiece" of the city, has this to say: "Honest Bob is my favorite. I like a man who doesn't talk too much!"

Moving on down the street we run across Dana Rice. Dana, who has currently been married to her sixth husband, asked us if we knew where to get weddings wholesale.

As we pass a doorway on our way to see Jean Cameron, first lady editor of the Salem News, we are beckoned by Gene Strojek, super salesman. "Come here, buddy," he says. "I got the buy of a lifetime—a genuine four carat diamond for only $1.98. You say that's not enough? You say you want more for your money? Tell you what I'm gonna do—" (at this point we cut out).

We are beginning to discover that for just about anything you want, there is a 1952 grad to help you. Entertainment? Listen to Bill Schuller's orchestra with drum solos by Cliff Swartz. Or tune in Uncle Al Callatone and his comedy show. Sick? See "Doc" Vaughan. Want a bridge or a skyscraper built? Consult engineers Schmid and Horton. Have a boat you want floated? Admirals Thorne, Powell, Weaver, Roth and Sneddon can help you out.

The crystal ball also finds some former studes competing against each other as in the case of Charlie Dan and John Rottenborn with their grocery stores; and Jim Watterson of the Cleveland Browns and Gordon Birkhimer of the Los Angeles Dons.

Ray Smith, the local card sharp, has been giving up the low down on that famous hand, the "Fiddle, Wa Diddle"—that's no two of a kind; and also the "Sneaky Peaky"—that is the 2, 4, 6, 8, 10 of any suit.

As we continue along the street we next see Nancy Harvey, the successful nurse and discoverer of "Curly Juice," a new substance that curls hair with no trouble. Remember nature isn't always right but "Curly Juice" is! Next we see Hazel Blickenstaff and Vonda Lee Sponseller, the first women jockeys to ride in and win the Kentucky Derby.

John Gilbert, the famous plumber, has just finished writing his second edition of "How To Plumb" and it should be available soon.

And so as we leave town now after looking into the future and getting an idea of what a few of the Salem High grads will be doing twenty years from now, we jump back to reality and say goodbye to old SHS for the last time.

SO LONG, KIDS!

Orchids

In regard to Vocations Day which was held last week, the Seniors are thankful that they got in under the wire and had the privilege of participating in it. After just one afternoon of conferences the prospects of next fall and the years ahead are not quite so vague and hazy as they were.

The Hi-Tri, advised by Miss Betty Ulicny and Miss Ada Hanna, and the Student Council, advised by Dean John Callahan, made the arrangements and saw that the plans were carried out in a well regulated manner. Some of the faculty even commented that they never had heard the halls so quiet between classes.

If every school would start a similar program of annual Vocations Days, there would be fewer misplaced individuals in the business world, fewer minds untrained by a college education, and more able doctors, lawyers, teachers, and ministers.

Reflections

The time has come when those of us who will soon bid farewell to Salem High spend a great deal of time reflecting and reliving the never to be forgotten moments that these four years have given us.

If only we could really do again some of the things we did! We would not make the same mistakes; each opportunity would present itself again for us to take; the words that were spoken would be kinder; the happy moments happier. Since one can never go back except in memory, we must live each moment to the fullest, take from each song the melody, search for the deepest meaning in the things we read, perform each task to the best of our ability.

In the search for happiness we must not overlook the little things lest we miss the big things. We must be ambitious, but not overly aggressive. We must be willing to take advice, but never dependent on others to do our thinking for us. These are the simple fundamentals of living that have been taught to us by our parents and teachers. How we handle these in applying them in our lives is up to us.

Graduation is not the end, but the beginning. It is an important step in becoming an independent, well adjusted individual. The choices that we make now will influence the rest of our lives.

May we make the right ones!

Freshmen Daze

Curtice Loop

Lipstick, upperclassmen, elections, homework, pencil sales, pictures, homework, report cards, study halls, corridor passes, homework. These we remember.

The lipstick at football games, when we went home with our faces wreathed in glowing "Heart's Desire" (indelible—large economy size). Upperclassmen, those menacing things that made us quaver, but who turned out to be people after all. Two big elections in our first year. Homework! Pencil sales, how we shook in our boots before bravely entering the second floor homerooms! Pictures, those enduring things that go into the annual to leave a lasting and distorted impression of our classmates. Homework! Report cards, those pretty little alphabets in red and blue. Study halls, where Freshmen and Seniors were thrown together. How industriously we studied (?). Corridor passes, those strange, exotic, little pieces of paper that never seemed to get signed. And first, last, and always, homework! Yes, these we remember.

And so it is with fond memories that we bid farewell to our Freshman year. The year is gone, slipped by in the tide of time. No longer may we hide in the rosy mist of unconsciousness with "We're just Freshmen," as a plausible excuse for all our errors. We have climbed another rung on the ladder of life. Most of us will soon be Sophomores.

On May 27 and 29 the choir members will go to the different schools and give concerts. This is to encourage more grade school students to join the choir. The quartet and sextette will sing also.

The Spring dance sponsored by the Student Council was held at the Elks home, May 20.

Parents of the boys sponsored a basketball banquet at the Coffee Cup for the basketball All-Stars, players, and cheerleaders. John Cabas and K. E. Jacobs were speakers at the banquet.

The Junior High recognition assembly will be held on June 4 at the high school auditorium. The eighth grade choir members will sing "In My Garden" and "Let the Rest of the World Go By" accompanied by Patt Ross and Jim Barcus. The band will play several numbers. Awards and prizes will be given.

Most of the softball games have been rained out, but we are hoping to finish out the schedule.

The movie shown at the seventh and eighth grade assemblies was a dramatic film entitled "Joe's Kid." It was designed to tell the story of the orphanage, supported by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Palestine Wins District Meet; Salem's Sinsley Goes to State

The East Palestine Bulldogs advanced one step farther this year, winning the Class A district meet here last Friday. Coach Bill Ward's thinclads were runners up last year. The 1951 victors, Warren Harding, ended up in number nine position out of the record 32 teams which participated in the event, scoring only 12 points. East Palestine scored 29 points to win the meet over Akron Garfield who scored 23 points.

Three of East Palestine's cinder-men did literally all of their scoring, collecting all 29 points. Tony Conkle, the boy who scored 20 points in the Columbiana county meet, collected a total of 21 points with three firsts and a third. He gained firsts in the shot put, the 180-yard low hurdles, and the 100-yard dash. His third came in the discus. Conkle is only a Junior and has another year to go for Coach Bill Ward's Bulldogs. The two other boys who did East Palestine's scoring were Stan Harvey and Don Bush. Harvey took the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet 3 inches and Bush took fourth in the discus to give East Palestine their 29 winning points. All three of these boys will go to state this weekend as will the first four finishers in each event and the four relay teams.

Salem will be represented at the state meet by Maurice Sinsley. Maurice was the only Quaker thinclad to score for Salem in the district meet. He tied for third with three other boys in the high jump. Salem had no qualifiers in the running events and scored no other points in the field events.

Last year Salem was represented by three Tarr-coached cinder-men, Jim Callahan and Jay England in the discus and Johnny Votaw in the pole vault. England took fourth place in the discus at the state meet with a toss of 140 feet 9 inches.

The custodian of awards at the meet was Janice Hertel. Her assistants for the evening were Barbara McArtor, Joan Robusch, Betty Moore, Johanna Kieffer, and Mary Campbell.

Records

Below are the all-time Salem High individual track records. They are as complete as possible from all the old issues of the Quakers.

JOHNNY RAY DEPARTMENT

SOB!!!

THE END HAS COME DEPARTMENT

This is our last appearance of the year and a time when, after the last T.D. has been scored, the final basket registered, and the final relay baton passed, we can look back and try to recreate some of the year's thrills.

The action is completed; the stadium and gym no longer echo the crowd's cheering or the short nervous yells of the players; all the uniforms and equipment are stored, awaiting the players of next year; all the cold impersonal statistics are swallowed up by the never-completed record book; nothing can erase from our memories all that's happened, athletically speaking, this past year. Who can forget the Struthers game? the Liverpool game? Wait, we're getting ahead of ourselves. Let's go back now and attempt to briefly relive the 1951-52 Salem High school sporting season.

FOOTBALL DEPARTMENT

Going back to last fall, the highlight of the season was the Struthers tilt, when, in a game that separated men from boys, the Quakers came from behind to win.

The locals ran out of steam in the latter part of the season, but at one stage, had a nifty six won and one lost record.

And finally, when all the students paraded like maniacs all over the field after the Struthers game and when the whole school formed a huge snake line before the Lisbon (Ouch!) game, it proved, contrary to some beliefs, that SHS still had plenty of school spirit.

BASKETBALL DEPARTMENT

This team hit three milestones which made it stand out from any other team in the school's history.

In the face of many oft-repeated handicaps such as ineligibilities, players moving, illness, injuries, and inexperience, the Quakers overcame mighty East Liverpool, set a new school scoring record of 98 points, and a new N.E.O. District tournament scoring record of 82 points.

Dire forecasts filled the air before the season started, but the boys didn't pay any attention, hitched up their pants, and dug in to the work at hand.

These hands proved very capable during the course of the season, winning 10 of 19 games and creating these crowning achievements.

TRACK DEPARTMENT

This year's track team, in winning only one of four dual meets, displayed lots of promise for next year.

With the addition of a separate Freshman track team with meets of their own, several promising Freshmen and Sophomores have created the hope that next year the Quakers could once again attain the track prowess that has always been synonymous with Salem.

Although the locals' showings in the county and district meets weren't world-beaters, everything seems to indicate our thinclads should be tough next year. Many observers feel Salem has an excellent chance to take the county championship in 1953.

THANKS DEPARTMENT

Our most humble gratitude and thanks are extended to . . . all those who made it possible to write this column . . . the patient editors . . . the higher brass of the school . . . all the players . . . all the coaches . . . the faculty manager . . . other sports writers, especially the sports editor of the Salem News . . . all who contributed something to the column . . . and above all, to all those who waded through the reams of print every week.

To you all, a hearty, sincere thank you!!!
