JRC Plans School Drive Led By Prexy Ray Pearson

Between Nov. 7 and 15, Salem high school students will have opportunity to enroll in the Junior Red Cross. Students may enroll either by making voluntary contributions or by expressing a desire to give volunteer service through the Red Cross.

The Junior Red Cross is the junior division of membership in the American National Red Cross. It is the American Red Cross in the public, private, and parochial schools of the United States and its territories.

To further the development of this organization in Salem high, the JRC council met recently to elect officers and plan their year program. The representatives and alternates chosen from each classroom elected Ray Pearson president; Bob Stockton, vice-president; and Sylvia Wiess, secretary.

This year members are planning to send gift boxes overseas and carry out many other projects. The JRC last year sent gift boxes, sponsored the making of music albums, and helped the adult Red Cross with various projects.

An advisory council consisting of Marjorie Nestor, Margie Hanney, Marjorie Jensen, Pat Ranson, Dick Ward, Gary Moffett, and Bob Rea will assist the officers with the planning of projects.

The Golden Voice Of Rome, Lisa Sergio To Address Town Hall

The second meeting of the 1952-53 Salem Town Hall will be held next Thursday, Nov. 13, in the Salem high auditorium, with the featured speaker being Miss Lisa Sergio, a distinguished authority on world affairs and a noted radio commentator.

Her past achievements all point to Miss Sergio's thorough knowledge of world events. At various times in her life she was associate editor of a literary weekly, general secretary of the International Association of Mediterranean Studies in Rome, and she became Italy's first woman radio commentator.

She defied Mussolini, the infamous Italian dictator, in her broadcasts attacking fascism, and had to flee to the United States.

N.B.C. immediately signed her up as the "Golden Voice of Rome," and gave her a variety of assignments. However, she preferred newscasting and news analyzing, and soon became a noted authority in that field.

Miss Sergio, a brilliant speaker, follows the ex-prisoner of the Communists, Robert Vogeler, to the Town Hall rostrum. Vogeler spoke to a full house last month

Hi-Tri Initiates; Plans Dance

The Hi-Tri held two meetings this week, one on Nov. 3 and the next one on Wednesday, Nov. 5, when new members were introduced to their big sisters. Initiation plans were made, and the informal initiation was held yesterday.

The club has announced the fact that it will sponsor a gridiron dance honoring the football players, managers, the football girl, her court, and their dates. The dance will be held on Saturday night, Nov. 15, the night following Salem's last football game. Rosemarie Faini, in charge of the dance, added that it will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m., and that the "honored guests" will be admitted free.

The price for other students will be 35 cents per person and 50 cents per couple.

Those girls who have become members were invited to join according to their scholastic standings and are juniors and seniors. They are: Dorothy Alek, Carol Jo Byrns, Barbara Cameron, Sandra Church, Donna Cocca, Helen Dicu, Marilyn Dodge, Janice Groves, Nora Guiler, Marilyn Hartsough, Marjorie Jensen, Helen Kornbau, Jane Myers, Joanne Petras, Marlene Schmidt, Joan Schuller, Barbara Smith, Barbara Todd, Ann Zuber.

Tentative plans were made for a formal initiation, but they can't be completed until pins for new members arrive.

SC Elects Three Officers, Plans Teaching Day

Charles Jones, Joan Schuller, and Ramon Pearson were elected vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively, at the last two meetings of the Student Council. The meetings which were held on Oct. 23 and Nov. 5 were busy ones for the council and several plans for the future were made.

Noon movies this year will be held on Mondays and Tuesdays and Larry Stoffer was put in charge of this project, with Jim Fife, Bob Conroy, Jim Beard, and Roger Jones working under him.

Dec. 3 is the date set on which students will take over the high school. In charge of Student Teaching day are Sandra Kroner, Wendell Dunn, Jeanette Harris, Patt Ross, and Bob Winkler.

Another item discussed was a movie which would be made of students' activities in the school. Charles Rogers offered to make the movie, if the council wished to purchase the film.

The annual Christmas assembly plans were begun, and Dorothy Alek and Paul Hannay were made co-chairman of a planning committee. Working with them will be Vicky Paparodis, Mary Mercer, Bob Early, and Jack Ference.

An installation assembly was also discussed, but no decision was reached.

Four Positive TB Reactions Talled

When the reactions from the patch tests which were given to freshmen here were tallied, only four reactions were listed as positive and those students will be X-rayed in the near future.

The purpose of the tuberculin patch-testing on the freshman level was to demonstrate the value, or lack of value, of the program, to do an experimental case-finding program, and to provide an educational experience for freshmen since not all students remain in school to become juniors and seniors.

This program was carried out in the East Liverpool, Wellsville, and Salem schools because the combined schools have a registration of approximately 1,000 students in the freshman class, because these students come from areas where the incident of tuberculosis is highest, and because the faculty was anxious to co-operate and the facilities for immediate follow-up seemed adequate.

Apologies

The Quaker Weekly is exceedingly sorry that Carol Aiken, Shirley Gathers, David Giles, Judith Gordon, Ruth Rae Mountz, Roy Nichols, Kay Paxson, Arnold Ping, Mary Ellen Reed, Janet Reeder, Gloria Rowlands, and Sharlene Sanlo were omitted from the honor roll, in the October 24 issue.

Students, Nation Elect Ike Helmsman Of Ship Of State

"As goes Salem, so goes the nation," was the saying when Dwight Eisenhower captured 462 of the 738 votes cast at Salem high last Tuesday. Twelve hours later, the nation proved the statement when, after hours of close balloting, Eisenhower was swept into office after Adlai Stevenson graciously conceded victory to his opponent.

Ohio also followed suit after students here chose Frank J. Lausche and John W. Bricker for governor and senator respectively. When results of the national election were out, the Salem tabulation showed the SHS students had shown the trend.

The American history and government classes who supervised the election commented on the fact that school voting was heavy (90 per cent of the students voted) and that much interest was shown in the election.

Of 14 precincts taking ballots, only two showed a majority for Stevenson. The "farm vote" was also heavy in "Ike's" behalf.

The American history and government classes wish to thank all the citizens who helped make the election possible, some of them being: the art dept., Councilman Michael Schuller, the Golden Eagle, Braut's grocery, Republican

Six SHS Citizens Out To Make Life Better For Their Horses

By Mary Mercer

The Salem Colts and Fillies is a club which was organized early last summer by a group of Salem youths interested in horses, and has as its aim better horsemanship, which includes better appreciation, understanding, and handling of horses. Each of the 20 active members has his own horse or access to one. Salem high students who are members of the club are Barbara Beery, Walter Beery, John Deagan, Virginia Lukanus, Mary Mercer, and Ed Sullivan.

The club is headed by Vonda Lee Sponseller, a 1952 Salem high graduate. Her associate officers are Hazel Blickenstaff, vice-president; Barbara Beery, secretary; and Marilyn Cameron, treasurer. The summer and fall activities of the club included a drill-team performance at the half time of a polo game and at both Mahoning and Columbiana County fairs. Members spent hours through the summer training their horses in these precision routines. Also, mounted contests, games, and relays were held at Reilly field twice during the month of October. Among these unusual events were Helpful Hanna, fire-bug, and turn-around races, musical chairs, egg and spoon, and a balloon-popping contest.

Club performances for the public will be discontinued during the winter months and resumed in the spring. However, members will continue to meet together every two weeks.

Tickets are now on sale for the Kiwanis Kapers, the annual production of the Kiwanis club of Salem. All proceeds from this year's affair will be turned over to the swimming pool fund. The Kapers will be held Dec. 1 and 2, and the tickets, which cost $1.00 each, can be purchased from John Callahan, Beman Ludwig, and Thomas Crothers.

Debates Begin Busy Year

The debate teams for the year 1952-53 have been selected by John Guiler, debate coach. Last year's debate team composed of Nora Guiler, Pat Schmidt, Bob Rea, and Sandy Hansell will be working again this year. The new members are Ann Baker, Ronald Slutz, Gale Fair, Jim Barcus, Richard Journey, Janet Patterson, and Walter Deming.

Debate meetings will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays after school. These meetings will be used to discuss this year's debate question and to gather required information about this year's topic which concerns world government and the U.N. The first debate tournament will be held in Alliance sometime in February. Dates have not yet been set.

Latin Club Introduces Members To Customs

Don Harsh acted as high priest at an initiation party held by the Latin Club on Wednesday, Oct. 29. Four priestesses were portrayed, each representing a year in Latin. Margie Jensen represented year one and Barbara Smith year two. The third and fourth years were acted by Sandra Church and Barbara Patterson, respectively.

After the formal ceremony, which was performed in togas, the honorary members put the new students through an informal initiation. Refreshments were then served after which many games were played.

Admission is free to all Town Hall meetings, and all high school students, their families, and friends, are cordially invited to attend.

Class Play Promises To Make Many Hearts "Young And Gay"

With only two more weeks of practice left for members of the senior class play, directors are beginning to put the finishing touches on what promises to be one of the most clever and entertaining productions a senior class has had the opportunity to present.

The play, literally "loaded" with punch lines, chuckles, and fast action has for many years been a favorite in the legitimate theater.

"Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" was written by Cornelia Otis Skinner and her close friend, Emily Kimbrough. It is the amusing story of their trip to Paris after their junior year at Byrn Mawr School for Women.

The two are highly dramatic, serious young women, and they both have a fear of drowning, which is evident when Emily, the more practical of the two, hides cookies in the lifeboats so, if they do go down, at least they'll have fig newtons to count on.

And then there was the time a stowaway fell overboard and one of the girls threw a deck chair to him ("I learned in life-saving class to throw a bouyant object to a drowning person") and proceeded to knock him out.

Of course romance comes on the scene, when the girls meet two young men from Harvard, become "engulfed", and spend their vacation in Paris with them.

Although the play has no definite plot, it never fails to move quickly, and it is guessed that audiences will have to hold back their laughter in order to catch each clever line.

Let Your Hair Down

Dear Editor,

Because of such entertaining shows put on by the Salem band at half time, the fans have probably not noticed our five "Ambassadors of Good Will"—the cheerleaders.

But at halftime these faithful cheerleaders have crossed the field and presented the visiting cheerleaders with chrysanthemums donated by the Endres-Gross and Theiss floral shops.

Most of the credit goes to Pete Menegos whose idea it was to give the flowers to the cheerleaders, but the other cheerleaders gave their enthusiastic support. The school has been receiving comments from the visiting cheerleaders praising the excellent sportsmanship of Salem students and thanking them for their hospitality.

Perhaps this is the "dream come true" for many students who have long hoped and worked for a good reputation for Salem.

A Student

fresh off

BY SANDY AND JOHN

At football practice last week, Pudge Allison had trouble with some of his pads. He hid behind a convenient curtain of teammates to correct the difficulty. And, although the curtain disintegrated at a crucial moment, it wouldn't have been so bad, except that the band was practicing only 20 yards away.

Question: Why does Steve Navoyosky "camp out" at the Town Hall Diner every night?

Answer: Her initials are Shirley Johnson.

Fashion Hint: Your winter wardrobe won't be complete until you have a set of knitted goulash pins, a southward-pointing wrist compass, and matching miniature platinum-plated whale bladders. Available at all leading marine supply houses.

Do you believe in interdigitation in the movies?

A cooking class got locked in its kitchen one day and they had to boost Medith Morningstar out the window to summon the custodians. Wonder if the janitor got fed up?

This week's driving hint: Always make your turns without looking back. You make acquaintances that way.

Margie Hannay, Jackie Welsh, Barbara Smith, Betty Moore, Joan Hart, and Kay Paxson went to Leetonia last Thursday to cheer Chet Tetlow's Sebring Trojans on in a football game. They all yelled so much that they were so hoarse they could hardly talk for several days. Sure seemed funny to see these girls finally get quiet.

Definition: Interdigitation means holding hands.

One night it seems Joan Hart visited the Corner after closing hours and was seen sweeping the floor. Oh well, some people will do anything for a free coke.

When Frank Tarr asked, "What is the action of steam on iron?" Barb Cameron innocently replied, "You get a steam iron."

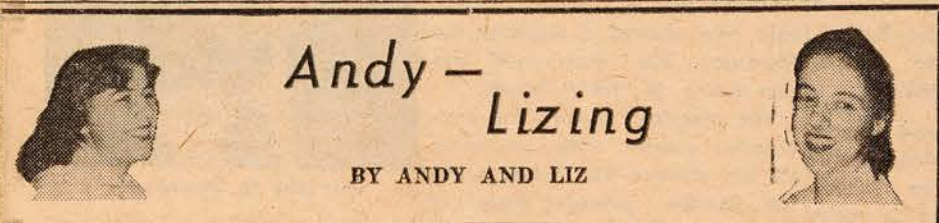

If fireworks are outlawed in this state, what are all the loud noises we hear?

In keeping with our tradition of giving helpful hints, we have finally discovered (after many long hours of toil) foolproof methods of telling the Regals and the Bodendorfers, the two sets of SHS twins, apart. Beverly Regal writes with her right hand while Barbara writes with her left. For the Bodendorfers, Paula parts her hair on the right, and Wilma parts her hair on the left. Come to think of it, maybe it's the other way around . . .

Because they did so well last year at the state finals, we now heartily advocate the purchase of warmup jackets for the debate team.

Rumors have been circulating that this column may have to be discontinued because of ill health. The editors are getting sick of us.

In closing, don't forget, this is National Experience week. Go out and have some experiences.

The Last Word

For the benefit of those who haven't heard the ohs and ahs directed toward Margie and Bootie Hannay, it so happens that these gals are two fortunate owners of real sharp tailor-made suede jackets . . . all the way from Cal-i-for-ni-ay . . .

Ahoy, mates . . .

This greeting should bring a response from 30 sophomore girls who have the honor of being the only mariner scouts in Columbiana County. Last week, which was National Girl Scout Week, found them sporting their snappy blue uniforms around the halls of SHS.

Easy Come, Easy Go

Have you any idea why Jack Dewan is called "Dummy"? Well, to make a long story short, this senior lad paid $14 for a real sharp pair of shoes, only to use them for kindling at the city dump!

Guess this must go to show how witty (nit) some of our upperclassmen can be at times.

Here is a little poem that should have come a few weeks ago when the grade cards were issued but maybe it will give you a little incentive to get better grades this six weeks . . .

Now I lay me down to sleep,
I have not studied for a week,
If I should die before I wake,
What difference would it make?

$64 Question of the Week

Who were the conservative little Hal-loweeners who got caught playing deaf and dumb?

Surprise

In case you were puzzled as to the identity of the three football players who appeared in our pep assembly last week, they were none other than Sandra Church, Darlene Datilio, and Glennalee Harris.

Safety First

Seems as though some people will do anything to cause hilarity. One noon last week, Bill Kelly busied himself by directing traffic at the intersection of Lincoln and Third streets. However, he discovered much to his disappointment that his attempts were not altogether appreciated. What was his first clue. He almost got run over!

Imagine This!

Something different, something new—this you will agree when you take a gander at the lavender fingernail polish Marilyn Grell and Janet Critchfield have been sporting quite recently.

What won't they think of next?

No Fear!

Looks like our good ol' Alma Mater will continue to stand the grind of each school day as long as studes like Larry London and Joan Laughlin go on holding the walls up . . .

'Spark Of Life' Tells Of Grim Prison Camp

The determination to survive—this is the theme of "Spark of Life," Erich Maria Remarque's latest book. This grim story centers in a German prison camp, a prison camp not for captured Allied soldiers, but for German political prisoners, where their own government tortured and starved these people beyond the comprehension of us Americans.

This camp is seen by the reader through the eyes of 12 veterans: Bucher; 509; Berger, the doctor; Lebenthal, the provider; Karel, the boy; and their seven companions. These men are veterans of many years in this camp, veterans of torture, starvation, disease, and lice.

Through their eyes are seen the crematorium where hundreds of bodies are burned daily, slow strangulations, days without food, beatings, burning, removal of eyes, and hundreds of intricate tortures for which the Nazis are notorious.

The true quality of each man is shown when they are thrown together where culture and education do not count, but only the man himself. The veterans have survived only because of the aid, support, courage, and hope they give to each other.

Through all their brutality there is still a human side to the Nazis. Though most of them are too brutal for sympathy, there is one, Neubauer, the head of the camp, who is sometimes human enough to earn the sympathy of the readers. Neubauer, who loved first security and second luxury and peace, watched them both slowly crumble as the Allied armies advanced, and the reader feels the futile panic he goes through when the realization comes to him that he is on the wrong side.

All through this book glows the "spark of life." Without this hope the book would be too stark for enjoyment. This spark glows from the first page to the last, becoming brighter as reports of advancing Allied troops are verified by the panic that races through the German officials.

"Friday Night"

By Nancy Zeck

An empty field,
The lights all out,
The benches that held
The kids who would shout
And cheer their team
Whether lose or win
Stood all alone.
The cold wind blows
All the paper around,
A blanket of fog has coated the ground
On which the battle of might had been fought,
Home team 14, visitors ought.
Echoing memories of a hard-won fight
Are all that remain in the still of the night.

HI-NOTES

By Mary and Aly Jo

By kats and chicks, we're back again, let you in on the latest spins; pop your hats and check your coats, down, relax, and read Hi-notes. These latest platters are real gone, you don't believe us dig these songs.

While listening to the radio a few hours every day, we hear good records, such as, "It's In The Book". We're sure all of you who have heard this platter think it's real gone. Also, according on the sentimental side is "My Love and Devotion" by Perry Como. "Auf Wiederseh'n, Sweetheart" by the Ames Brothers is still among the tops on the "piccolos". "Kay's Lament" is another Kay Starr's leading hits. "You Belong To Me", by Patti Paige, still among the tops where it should be.

"Pick Yourself Up", a positively real crazy instrumental recording by George Shearing and his quintet, is another favorite. His record is tops among the boys. Speaking of bop, that seems to be coming out more now than jitterbugging.

Here's more Jive talk to get hep to:

Canary — A girl who sings soft, romantic songs.

Clambake — Jive session.

Jiver — Hepcat who knows the ropes.

Piccolo — Juke box.

Groaner — Sentimental singer of songs.

Hasta luego amigos. (Until later friends.) We speak jazz in any language.

Friendships Mean Equal Amount Of Give And Take

"It Takes Two"—not only to tango, but to make a quarrel—and then to kiss and make up. The give and take of boy-girl quarrels and reconciliations is given the once-over by new Sub-Deb Editor Ruth Imler in the November LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

What makes a man mad? Well, says editor Imler, things like breaking a date at the last minute, embarrassing him in front of his friends by acting over-possessive, or ridiculing his taste in ties. And as for the ladies, laughing at new hairdos, standing them up, and deserting them at dances for stage-line chats are not exactly winning ways.

"Learning to express your differences is part of the new and exciting business of growing up; learning to respect a difference of opinion or personality is being grown up." The Sub-Deb editor tells girls how to conduct a calm discussion instead of a heated quarrel and how to make up when tempers do get out of hand:

If you're wrong: Admit it, first to yourself and then to the other person. Then try to figure out what made you behave the way you did. Have a headache? Flunk a test at school? You can bet there's a reason for your taking advantage of someone else's good nature. Pass the peace pipe, either by word of mouth or a funny "apology" card through the mail—and appreciate it when you're forgiven.

If you're right: Don't carry a chip on your shoulder; instead, make it a little easier for the boy to apologize. When words come hard to him, he likes to get the "hi"-sign that he's forgiven. If the quarrel was about a serious thing like late hours or drinking, tell him the whys and wherefores of your objections before you accept or reject another date—that way it's up to him.

Council Holds Talent Show

Charles Jones, vice-president of the Student Council, served as emcee for the seventh annual talent assembly held Oct. 29 in the auditorium.

Students participating in the presentation were: William Jermalenko, Jack Alexander, Linda Karns, Nancy Cosma, Jeannine Gologram, Charles Engler, Gloria Andrews, Bruce Snyder, Rosemarie Faini, Sandy Hansell, Wendell Dunn, Gail Brown, Duane Bates, Gail Fair, Chuck Cobourn, Ralph Firestone, and John Litty.

Plans are being made now for another assembly to be held Jan. 9, 1953. The annual Quaker Follies will be held sometime in the spring.

Ten Seniors Visit Canton Sanatorium

On Oct. 29 ten students from Kenneth Jacobs' health classes went to the Molly Stark Tuberculosis Sanatorium in Canton, where they were shown around by Miss Beck, the head nurse at Molly Stark.

At the present time there is room for 143 patients but a new wing has just been added and when it is opened it will accommodate 108 more patients. Part of this new wing will be used for Columbiana county patients.

The patients who are convalescing sew, make purses, weave towels, and work with various hand made articles. The sanatorium has a wood shop and a recreation hall for them also. Some of the patients publish a newspaper called the Floroscope.

The group saw the pressure chamber which slows up breathing to four or five times a minute. In this way the lungs can be rested. They also were able to see TB bacilli under a microscope.

This trip was arranged by Miss Lillian Schroeder, Executive Secretary of the Columbiana County Health League, and she was assisted by Mrs. Lucille Brian, nurse of Salem city schools.

CLUB NOTES

Slide Rulers Elect Merv Thomas Prexy

The newly-organized Slide Rule club has begun to hold meetings Wednesday afternoons after school in an effort to learn how to read and manipulate the slide rule.

Miss Martha McCready, adviser, teaches the correct procedures on the operation of the slide rule. She says that a knowledge of this instrument can be very helpful in advanced mathematics.

This is the first time in two years that a Slide Rule club has been organized and it is the largest in the history of the school.

Approximately 40 members have elected Mervin Thomas, president; Don Harsh, vice-president; and Barbara Patterson, secretary-treasurer.

Any junior or senior who has had three years of mathematics or who is presently in his third year is eligible to join.

Formaldehydeids

Dale Horton presided at the recent Formaldehydeids meeting at which time the club planned the year's projects. These projects include: laboratory improvement and pictures, separation of a cat skeleton, diagrams, and labeling trees in the park. A committee composed of Donna Cocca, Joel Greenisen, Nancy Pife, and Pete Menegos was appointed to draw up a constitution and present it at the meeting on Nov. 5.

Limping Lineman Looks Forward To Lisbon 'Scuffle'

By Tom Mulford

If you see a fellow hobbling around SHS with a cane, he isn't an old alumnus or a salesman who forgot to take his foot out of his last customer's door, but a senior chap named Jon Zeigler.

Jon, a husky tackle for the Quaker's varsity eleven, broke a small bone in his ankle just before the East Liverpool game. This misfortune yanked him out of two games, but Jon is rarin' to go against the Blue Devils, and he predicts that Salem will capture their two remaining games with Newton Falls, and our arch rival, Lisbon, without any trouble.

Sports rate tops with Jon, especially football and a little basketball. He is the president of the Thespians, and belongs to the Varsity S, German club, and the Slide Rule club. He considers Jim Thorpe the greatest living American, and physics rates as his favorite subject.

Being a country lad, Jon says, "I like to take a walk in the woods and I find time to do a bit of farm work on the side." His idea of a perfect evening, he relates, is to start out with a date about eight o'clock, dancing at an expensive night club, and returning home around 2:30 a. m. For relaxation, a good adventure story and music on TV or radio would fill the bill.

Jon Zeigler

This fellow rates hamburg with onions on top and french fries on the side as his favorite dish. He thinks that "Olds" has the makings of a sharp car, and got a thrill when he was selected last year to go to Buckeye Boys' State, although the trip was cancelled.

To the question, "What is your opinion of the world situation?" he replies by saying, "It's a mess." "Undecided," describes Jon's ideas on his career and the college he expects to attend.

Potters Pound 'Up' Barrettmen

The "up" Salem Quakers were defeated, 33 - 6 by the East Liverpool Potters last Friday night at Reilly stadium.

Clair Williams and Eddie Oliver were the student stars for the Potters, Williams scoring three touchdowns and Oliver scoring one. Mark Sanford also scored a TD while Oliver split the uprights three times for the Potters' extra points.

Joe Hrovatic scored the Quakers' lone touchdown on a quarterback sneak. The home eleven had several chances to score but lost the opportunities due to fumbles or bad centers.

The Barrettmen suffered the loss of Jon Zeigler who has a cracked ankle and will be out of action for a while. Also missed by the Quakers during most of the game was Ed Mozina, who was ejected from the game when he had a flare of temper.

Goshen Unioners Swamp Reserves

The Quaker Reserves suffered defeat Saturday evening, Nov. 1, at Sebring to the tune of 35 points.

The Quakers met the tough Goshen Union defense in the Saturday contest and couldn't break through for any scores. The Unioners constantly stopped Salem drives and pushed across five touchdowns with five perfectly kicked extra points to win the fray.

The combination of McNeeley-McCluggage clicked for three touchdowns through the air, and Stille and Stallsmith each bucked for a touchdown a piece to win the game for Goshen Union.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

The main reason that the Quakers showed up so well at Friday's game was the fact that the boys knew that the students of SHS were solidly behind them in their quest to dethrone the mighty Potters. The signs and stickers put out by the Boosters club did wonders for the morale of both the boys and studes, and the pep assembly did its share to help the Quaker cause.

We have a game tonight and another one a week from tonight, against Newton Falls and Lisbon. At the start of the season Coach Ben Barrett said that we would be gunning especially hard for Lisbon this year, to avenge a 31-0 loss last season.

Let's show Newton Falls and Lisbon the school spirit that we displayed against Liverpool.

THEY DIED WITH THEIR BOOTS ON

It was the 37th time that the Quakers and the Potters had taken the field against one another since 1911, and win number 21 for East Liverpool.

The East Liverpool Potters, coached by Wade Watts, continued their winning ways at the expense of the Quakers last Friday at Reilly stadium. Presently the third ranking team in the state, the Potter eleven now boasts a 7-0-1 record.

The Salem line looked better and tighter than we had ever seen it this year. The offensive unit managed to open a number of holes in the Potter line to enable the Quaker backs to pick up yardage. Also the defensive unit with the bigger boys toward the middle of the line managed to stop several Potter attempts to gain ground through the center.

Clair Williams and Eddie Oliver gave the the locals trouble constantly, as they have every team they have faced this year.

UNSUNG HEROES

Managers and trainers are probably the most forgotten boys in high school when it comes to handing out praise and credit—forgotten by everyone except the coaches and players, that is, for they know all the work that these boys put in on the job.

To head manager, Dick Crookston, and assistant managers Pete Kerr, Nick Buta, Tom Harp, Glenn Thomas, and Jerry Yunk, and trainers Bob Talbot and Gary Moffett, go the sincere appreciation and thanks from this corner for a job well done.

ANOTHER UNSUNG HERO

Also among "the men behind the guns" in SHS is one Frederick E. Cope. If anyone works hard in SHS, that person is Mr. Cope. Besides being boys' physical education instructor he is also Salem high's faculty manager. All the work that this man does is almost unbelievable, from scheduling all of the football games, basketball games, track meets, etc., to taking care of the ticket end of things. These are but a few of the many jobs which Mr. Cope does, all of which in some way help to better the sports of SHS.

At the beginning of the school year, Mr. Cope was bothered with a heart condition and was unable to attend the Quaker grid tilts; now he is feeling better and can once again cheer for "his team."

Newton Falls Invades Tonite As Locals Seek Third Victory

The Salem Quakers will be out to register their third victory of the season against six losses tonight at Reilly stadium, as the Newton Falls gridgers invade Salem.

This will mark the first time these two teams have met on the gridiron and the locals hope to start the series with a victory.

The Quakers, with two straight losses staring them in the face, rebounding from last week's disappointing loss to the East Liverpool Potters.

The Barrettmen plan to conclude the season with good showings tonight and next Friday night when they meet arch rival Lisbon. Last year the Blue Devils downed Salem, 31-0, and revenge is the keynote for this season's last game.
