Hi-Tri Votes Money For March

When Hi-Tri met Jan. 28, the club voted to donate 10 dollars to the March of Dimes.

It was announced that 20 dollars was earned when the club sponsored the basketball stand.

Janice Groves was appointed chairman of a bake sale committee. Plans for the Vocations day tea were also discussed and Carol Middeker was made chairman of the committee.

A discussion was held concerning a clothes drive, sending CARE packages to Europe, and helping the local Red Cross, but no definite plans were made.

Mrs. D. Crook Replaces Jacobs

Mrs. Dorothy Crook, newly added member of the SHS faculty, replaces former health teacher, Ken Jacobs, who has taken the job of Field Counselor for the Ohio Tuberculosis and Health association in Columbus.

Majoring in home economics, and French, Mrs. Crook graduated with a B. A. degree from Ohio Wesleyan university and furthered her studies at Mount Union college. She has since taught biology at David Anderson high school in Lisbon. Mrs. Crook now is teaching six health classes and is 212's home-room teacher.

Born in Lisbon, Mrs. Crook has also lived in Chicago and Cleveland and is now living in Salem with her two-year-old daughter.

She is an active member of the Leornians, the junior book club of Salem.

Bailey Wins First Chair In All-Region Orchestra

At the meeting of the East Central Region of the Ohio Music Education association Saturday in Dover, Nancy Bailey was chosen first-chair clarinetist of the third annual East Central All-Region orchestra.

After auditioning with music she had never seen before, Nancy played a solo that won for her the coveted position. She had to compete with musicians representing schools in one-third of the state.

This all-star orchestra, after rehearsing for six hours, gave a well-received concert in the evening.

The high-level competition was held in an attempt to create more interest in stringed instruments. Musicians chosen at last week's event at Dover will participate with students from three other such sections in an all-state orchestra.

Howard Pardee and Richard Howenstine, Salem school music instructors, attended the highly successful affair.

Nancy Bailey

Nancy, a senior, has been a member of the SHS orchestra and band throughout her entire high school career. During this time she has played the clarinet, violin, piano, and oboe. She is also a member of the Robed choir.

Biologists Have Ripping Good Time

By Curtice Loop

The biology classes have just finished their annual dissecting and are now starting to tear apart. This is not quite as brutal as it sounds, though there were some pretty sorry looking worms, frogs, and fish lying around. These innocent and unsuspecting animals fell victim to some rather adept would-be surgeons.

Biology students set about to explore the interior excavations, a few with nerves of iron, more with squeamish stomachs. The first prey to give up the ghost, the earthworm, with its tiny digestive system, aortic arches, and minute brain caused many groans, and the smell of formaldehyde didn't soothe the ticklish stomachs.

"Is this an aortic arch?"
"No, that's a fallen arch."

"This worm is real gone."

And one arch removed whole, no mean feat, was labelled the "Arc de Triomphe."

Next dissected was a denizen of the deep. After a slight dismembering, the fish had its grand opening.

"Is this the liver which I see before me?"

"Did you get the brain out?"

And last, but not least, the frog opened its heart to the budding biologists. As the division and subdivision of the frog progressed, some of these brilliant statements floated around.

"Where's the pancreas?"

"I wonder if there's a heaven for frogs. This one looks so innocent."

"Whoops! There goes the medulla!"

Finally "Les Miserables" were

Faculty 'Pros' To Tackle Varsity For Pool Benefit

"Anything for the swimming pool!"

That's the defiant cry of several courageous faculty members who have graciously consented to play the varsity squad in a benefit basketball game.

Citizenship Class Meets Here Tuesday

The first Salem session of the United States citizenship class for displaced persons and other non-citizens was held Tuesday, Feb. 3, at 7:30 p. m. in the high school. Approximately 30 persons were present.

The program, started here by the Salem district Council of Church Women, will be operated under the Salem Trades Extension classes.

Area residents who are not American citizens are invited to attend.

Schoolmasters' Club Meets in Lisbon

The midwinter meeting of the Columbiana County Schoolmasters' club was held Thursday evening, Feb. 5, in the K of P. hall at Lisbon. A group of SHS teachers and administrators attended.

Delmar O'Hara, Columbiana county representative of the Ohio General Assembly, was the speaker of the evening.

"Stoney's Brides" Chosen By Club

"Stoney's Brides" was chosen as the new Thespian play when the club met recently in the auditorium. This play is to be given at the Presbyterian church March 6. Tryouts for the play will be held at a later meeting.

Plans were discussed for the basketball stand the club will sponsor Feb. 14. Pat Schmidt was named chairman of the stand committee and Bob Talbot, Sue Hill, and Bob Domencetti will assist her.

The play, "Mama's Little Helper," was presented by club members at the meeting. The play was also given Feb. 4 at the Junior high school.

The Quaker Weekly staff is sponsoring a game Saturday night, Feb. 21, between the varsity and a team composed of members of the faculty with all proceeds to be turned over to the Centennial Swimming Pool fund.

So far varsity Coach John Cabas, reserve mentor Karl Zellers, former coach Bob Miler, Junior high teacher Joe Boone, former teacher Ken Jacobs, and Reilly school instructor Sam Pridon have all agreed to put in an appearance, for better or worse. At least three other Salem faculty members are expected to be added to the roster.

Ward Zeller, manager of the Memorial building, will choose an all-star team from his class B league of boys still of high school age. These all-stars will engage the SHS reserves at 7:30. Zeller himself hopes to coach his all-star aggregation in the contest.

Tom Nedelka and Al Catlos, well-known district officials, have graciously offered to donate their services for both games.

A full program of entertainment and humorous sidelights is being arranged by the Quaker staff. Plenty of gags and laughs are promised to all those who will attend to see just how good the "Old Pros" are at throwing the ball through the hoop. In fact, several other faculty members who feel that they might have played their best ball a few years ago, might put in a command performance.

Coach Cabas was overjoyed at the prospects of his squad playing against such tough opposition. Says Cabas, "My boys will probably be 'up' for this important tilt. These supposedly "spring chickens" think they're pretty rough, but it wouldn't surprise me if the older boys just come through with a victory. It will be a close, hard-fought game all the way but I think our split pivot-sliding offense off the single wing will be enough to throw the game our way."

Members of the Weekly staff will also be in charge of the refreshment stand that night, with those proceeds also going to the fund.

Admission will be 50 cents for adults, 35 cents for students.

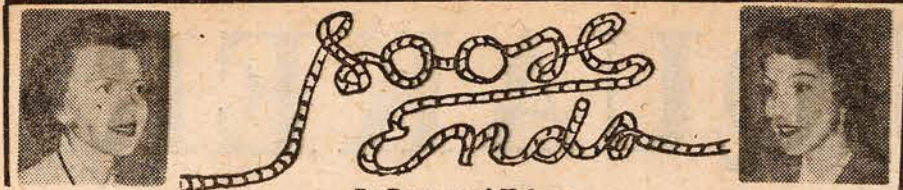

The Quaker staff hopes to see the largest student and adult turnout of the year at this game.

Faculty Offered Cut Rate On Sale Of Liniment

The local druggists' association has announced that the price of all liniments will be specially reduced Sunday morning, Feb. 22, due to the Faculty-Varsity Benefit game the night before.

The association is sorry, however, to announce that the offer is good only for teachers, would-be basketball players, and those faculty members who will have "faded away."

Moans one informed source, "Oh, the bones will creak during the sermons that day."

By Donna and Helen

Watch Out

One day while working in the chemistry lab, the students needed material to test the bleaching possibilities of sulfur dioxide. Joyce Cosgrove, one of our bright senior gals, suggested they try it on her hair. Her offer was rejected, of course, but there's no telling what this brave lass will do, for when in the laboratory she becomes "the mad chemist."

Two Tones

Talking about bleaching one's hair, it seems Bob Stewart did a fairly good job on his. This boy now has a blond clump adorning the slightly darker shade of his locks.

I Do

Last Saturday was the day for weddings. Two of our fellow classmates took the solemn vows. Beverly Stucke was wed to a boy in the service, and Mary Jacobson became the bride of a boy from our rival city, Lisbon. Best wishes, gals.

Party Time

Last Saturday night happy times were had by those who attended the parties given by Dick Coppock and Joyce Knepper after the basketball game.

Vocations Day

That important day for SHS is coming nearer and nearer and we decided that a little help and cooperation is needed to make the day a complete success. The combined committees of Hi-Tri and Student Council are doing their best, but when the day finally comes it will be the whole student body that must give attention and cooperation to the people who were kind enough to come and help us. Remember, you are building the reputation of SHS.

Did You Notice

... the decorative honor roll in room 209?
 ... the many ex-students of Salem high who were home from college last week?
 ... the rust-colored shirt that Guber Gottschling was sporting last Saturday night?
 ... the beautiful flowers that Miss Ulicny often wears?

Woman Bus Driver

If last Saturday night at the Salem-Chaney game you noticed a sweet lady with gray hair and a pleasant smile, you might have said to yourself, "Now there's a typical American mother." Well she may be just that, but she was also the driver of Chaney's bus!

It Was Cold Outside

Ann Zuber proved this statement last week when she took careful precautions against catching the sniffles by wearing long wool socks. Evidently the gal was not afraid to bring back the 1920's; all she wanted to do was to keep warm. Smart gal, this Ann.

He Is A Cat

Have you noticed that sophomore "cat" who has a beautiful duck-tail and never wears a pair of pants that is not pegged? This chap is, of course, Harold (Ace) Garlock.

Feather Tops

Have you seen those two hats with long feathers? When one of the proud owners was asked to give his name and the location of the place where he obtained the chapeau, he finally told us to ask Charlie Probert, whom we could not locate. This must really be a deep secret, or else the boys want to be the only ones in SHS with that type of topper.

Bored Of Education

by Nance Zeck

I am always getting scolded for disturbing during class,
 But I think I'd do most anything to help the minutes pass.
 If teachers could be students for just a day or two,
 I'll bet they'd "disturb" during class, 'cause they'd be darn bored too!

Silhouette of Former Teacher's Mother Is Well-Known Quaker Symbol

By Jackie Welsh

We've always seemed to take our class rings for granted, but have you ever wondered to whom the Quaker profile belongs? Did she once exist or was she just a part of someone's imagination?

We'll let you in on the secret of the story which began in 1925. Like most years 1925 went along smoothly for SHS, but when junior class members decided to order class rings, they voted to have a different symbol on them. The emblem they chose was to be the profile of a Quaker woman.

At the time, however, there were no real Quakers in Salem, so their search seemed hopeless. Just when the idea was about to be abandoned, Mrs. Ella Smith Cox, a biology teacher at Salem high, offered the suggestion that they take a picture of her mother who was a member of the Friends' Church and use her silhouette.

Because Mrs. Smith was well known and liked by all, and because she displayed great simplicity, characteristic of Salem's first settlers, the class accepted the suggestion gladly.

One evening in the quiet of her living room, Mrs. Smith put on her homemade bonnet and shawl for the picture that was to be the model for the first Quaker-head ring.

Thus, although Mrs. Smith was a member of the Friends' Church, her profile became a famous symbol of the Salem high Quakers.

Chance Of A Lifetime

Once more the Student Council and Hi-Tri have finished plans for one of Salem high's finest projects.

Next Wednesday afternoon people from all over the Salem area will converge on the high school to present, in a sense, their way of life. These men and women, experts in their vocations will explain to groups of students why they decided to go into their fields of work, how they received the necessary training, and how much chance an interested student has of getting into this work.

The vocations classes will meet for full periods and each student will have three chances to get acquainted with someone's life work.

The usual procedure starts with an introduction by the speaker followed by a general resume of his career, after which students will be given a chance to ask opinions, questions, or to air any problems that he might have considered.

One of the best ways to insure quick movement of class discussion and to prevent the speaker from becoming ill at ease is to come to class prepared with about four really sensible questions that you might wish to ask. Whether you think or not, you will think of something you like to ask the speaker but have trouble remembering. Jot it down.

- Does the speaker like his job?
- How much training did it require?
- Did he have to go to college?
- If so, does the speaker think he could have entered this field without a college education?
- Does he feel that it pays well enough to support a family?
- Is this the work his father did, or is it something strange to him?
- Does the job require much traveling?
- Is a pleasant personality necessary?
- Must the person be always immaculately groomed?
- Does he like the people he works with?
- Does the job offer new adventures every day or are the same procedures repeated?
- Is it necessary to have "pull" to get into this field, such as an influential relative or additional finances?

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

by Sally Scullion

An incident at Rehoboth Beach last summer proved to be most embarrassing for BONNIE CAMPBELL of homeroom 212. Spaghetti is her favorite food and "Auf Wiederseh'n," Eddie Fisher, and John Wayne suit her to a "T". Her most thrilling moment was getting on the semester honor roll this year. People who don't act their ages are her pet peeves.

Bonnie plans to further her education at Bradford Junior college in Massachusetts. She is a member of the Salemasquers, Spanish club, and Robed chorus.

"Please Don't Hate Me For Loving You" is the favorite song of SHIRLEY BRAUTIGAM, for her father is the song's composer. Pecan pie, English, and Rock Hudson also interest her. Most of Shirley's time is spent at Braut's market, which her father also owns. Shirley is a typist for the Quaker Weekly and Annual staffs and is a member of the Spanish club. She hopes to become a secretary.

Working on cars receives the attention of JACK DEWAN. His "favorites" include Dagwoods, Joni James, and John Derek. His pet peeve is girls who bite their fingernails. After graduation he plans to work with his father. Jack is a member of the Thespians, chorus, and portrayed Monsieur de la Croix in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Science and music catch the eyes and ears of JANET CRITCHFIELD. This senior lass has been a four-year member of the orchestra and chorus. Roast turkey, cherry pie, Larry Green's piano, and the Three Sons' recording of "Tenderly" rate high with her. She is a member of the Hi-Tri, Latin club, Salemasquers, and serves as a monitor. Janet plans to study nursing at Salem City hospital.

DON SCHUCK is looking forward to going into business with his father after graduation. A lot of Don's time is spent eating chocolate cake, seeing Gary Cooper movies, and studying his favorite subject, bookkeeping. Don is a member of the Thespians, chorus, Formaldeides, and characterized Dick Winters in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Red Blues

by Nance Zeck

I think that it's so pretty,
 In colors flashy bright.
 I think of it all morning,
 And dream of it all night.
 It's good I like my classes
 And think my teachers dear,
 'Cause the way my grade card looks this time,
 I'll be back again next year!

THE TOP DRAWER

FAREWELL

There wasn't a more surprised person in school Friday than Mr. Jacobs, when he was escorted into 209 by Pat Schmidt and welcomed by the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." "Jake" was then presented with a clock radio from his "problem children." Mrs. Jacobs and Kenny, Jr. were also present. The party was climaxed by the serving of cake.

TO MAKE A DREAM COME TRUE, DON'T OVERSLEEP

COME ONE! COME ALL!

Hey, kids, don't forget the Youth Council dance tonight. Art White's orchestra will provide the music, and best of all, the cost is only 25c a person. Be seeing you.

The Road Angels have a new idea. Every month they have open house in room 209 with guest speakers from the law enforcement offices around Salem. All interested students are invited. IT'S ALL RIGHT TO DRINK LIKE A FISH—IF YOU DRINK WHAT A FISH DRINKS.

CAN YOU IMAGINE
 Ann Stowe sliding down the banister . . .
 Janet Williams with black hair . . .
 Bones without Happy . . .
 Dick Ward being six feet tall . . .
 Bells ringing correctly . . .

Well, here we stand with half a year of school behind us and 15 weeks ahead. At this point in every school year 800 students promise themselves that they will make better grades, and they keep these promises until next Friday night's dance or game. How about you?

That's all for this week. See you in two weeks. Till then always remember, THE ROAD TO SUCCESS ISN'T ON THE MAP.

Harris Organizes Creative Writing Club

The newly organized Creative Writing club, under the supervision of Edward Harris, held its first meeting Feb. 2 in room 212.

The members have decided to hold bi-weekly meetings on Mondays. Plans were also made to compose a book of creative writings for the school library.

Club officers will be elected and a constitution will be drawn up at a later meeting.

'Masquers Have Play

David Giles, Sandy Hansell, Pat Jurczak, Patt Ross, Ronnie Slutz, and Dick Ward took part in a play at a meeting of the Salemasquers Jan. 29.

Second semester dues will be collected at the next meeting to be held Feb. 12.

Conquistadores Add New Members To Club

Thirty-nine Spanish students were invited to join Los Conquistadores this semester. The new members attended their first meeting Feb. 4, when an informal program was enjoyed. Club membership now numbers 77.

To Buy Catalogues

Plans to purchase two new stamp catalogues for the SHS library were formulated when the Coin and Stamp club met Feb. 4.

A report was given concerning profits made from the sale of candy when the club sponsored the stand at a recent basketball game. Tim Kennedy presided at the meeting.

5 Make Calendar

A calendar of events was discussed at an Art club meeting held Jan. 30.

The committee which formulated the calendar is composed of Sally Allen, Patt Ross, Jim Gow, Doris Rogers, and Glennalee Harris.

The two main events of the year will be a trip to Cleveland and the May Art show at the public library. Alternate meetings will be devoted to work projects and business.

SHARPS 'N' FLATS

By Nancy and Helen

LET'S GET ACQUAINTED

with Sally Hutcheson and Barbara Young. Sally is a cute, rather short brunette with blue eyes. Barbara, however, has blonde hair and blue eyes and is of medium height. These two freshmen have the favorite pastime of eating but neither of them show it. Both of these lasses play the clarinet. Barbara's favorite song is "Till I Waltz Again With You" but Sally isn't particular, just so it's music. These gals have terrific personalities so whenever you make it up to the top step on the third floor, go a little farther and look them up.

PRACTICE AND MORE PRACTICE

That is the motto of Salem high school's band director, Howard Pardee. This year, since the requirements for contest are much more difficult, Mr. Pardee has said that in order to receive a good rating everyone must play to the best of his ability. So what do you say band members? LET'S PRACTICE!

QUESTION OF THE WEEK? Where did Bob Sebo go during the five-minute break last Wednesday night at band practice?

THANK YOU

We would like to thank the band mothers and Junior high for helping the SHS band bring the Ohio Wesleyan college band to Salem last Friday morning. Every member appreciated this very much.

ADDITION TO THE BAND

It seems that the editor of the Quaker annual, Miss Rosemarie Faini, is not quite busy enough, for she has joined the SHS band. She is playing the bass fiddle. Rosemarie has taken three lessons from Mr. Pardee and one from Mr. Howenstine, and we think she plays like a PRO!

Club To Sell Popcorn

When French club members agreed to sponsor the basketball stand Feb. 13, they decided to sell popcorn as an added feature.

At the meeting which was held Jan. 29, the club voted to purchase pins. A program committee for this semester was chosen. It includes Jim Judge, Sally Scullion, and Gretchen Bodendorfer.

Red And Black Seek To End Three Game Losing Streak

Hoping to break a three-game losing streak, the Salem Quakers will host the Steubenville Central squad here tomorrow night.

Salem, having dropped their last three starts, will be looking for victory number four of the season against 11 setbacks.

The opposition tomorrow night will have considerably less height than the Quakers' foes in recent tilts. Used to fighting towering giants, the Red and Black cagers will be relieved to face an outfit with height equal to their own.

The visitors have only two men reaching six feet or more with the rest of the team ranging from five feet five to five feet 11 inches.

Pacing the attack for Central will be Tom Foyer, the lone senior on the visitors' squad. The six-foot center is the leading scorer for Steubenville. Expected to come through for Central is Dick Donnelly, a six-foot, one-inch junior, also a leading scorer for the visitors.

Central, having a good season by their standards, has won five games, while losing eight. They play tonight before meeting the locals here tomorrow.

Coach Cabas isn't planning any line-up changes for the game this week.

The Salem high freshmen were defeated, 38-35, by Sebring Jan. 30 in the home gym. Frank Corso led the locals in the scoring department with eleven points.

The Quaker frosh were again defeated, 41-30, here Tuesday by the Columbiana freshmen. Karl Zellers coached the team and will finish the season as their mentor. Frank Corso was high point man with nine markers.

More Spanish Lessons Advised For Varsity Cager Cosky

By Tom Mulford

An unforgettable moment occurred one day in Spanish class for Stanley Cosky, when a visiting South American Senora quizzed this student in her native tongue. She asked him the color of his trousers, and Stanley replied in Spanish, "Your trousers are red." It seems as if Stan got his signals, or rather his pronouns, crossed. 'Nuff said.

"Knute," as his friends sometimes call him, is an all-around athlete, as he has gone out for track and football for the last two years, and basketball for the last three. He is playing pivot man for this year's varsity roundballers, but due to an injured knee he has missed full-fledged action. Stan believes that the Quakers have a good chance to win their remaining games and that next year's team should have a very successful season in view of all the returning lettermen. "Knute" strongly recommends an improvement of the gym as he states, "I think Salem is in need of a new gym scoreboard and a new or better gym."

This lanky junior's biggest moment came when he played in his first varsity game, so it's only natural that his favorite pastime is playing basketball.

His favorite TV shows are the Jackie Gleason show and The Comedy Hour. Mel Hutchinson of Kansas State is, in his opinion, one of today's best college basketball stars.

Mr. Cosky is neither sure of the exact college he will attend, nor his future occupation, but he is interested in Kansas State and coaching.

Chaney Trims Salem For Third Straight

Saturday night, Jan. 31, marked Salem's third consecutive loss, their 11th of the season against a trio of triumphs.

Their foe, Youngstown Chaney, hammered the Quakers into submission, 70-55. Offensively, Salem had one of their worst nights of the season and seemingly couldn't maneuver into good shooting positions. The Chaney Cowboys were more than willing to shoot and each one had a good night.

Ed Votaw paced the scoring with 18 points, while Jack Gottschling meshed 14. Chaney's leading scorer, Andy Gonci, chalked up 21 points. Nineteen points were contributed to the Cowboys' final score by Sam Stepanovich.

ODDS AND ENDS

While mentioning nicknames last week we neglected to mention that Harry Baird is very often referred to as "Spider." Even coaches Cabas and Zellers call the sophomore star by this name . . . Reserve Coach Karl Zellers is taking over the frosh squad, replacing Ken Jacobs . . . Paul "Pudge" Pastier hooped 55 points in a class C game last Saturday to take over as number one scorer in that league. Paul plays for the St. Paul A team . . . Have you been down to the Memorial building lately? It seems that the old ME has taken on a new air; weight lifting has come into its own . . . a good way to keep it training . . . You ought to stop in at the Memorial building sometime soon. There is always a game of one kind or another going on, from floor hockey to ping pong . . . East Liverpool was finally stopped, with a 12-game winning streak going, by Ashland, 58-52 . . . Helen Dora Copacia is one of the leading scorers in the girls' league . . . we hear that she has a pretty good set shot.

BIG BENEFIT!!

The swimming pool fund is swelling rapidly and will be further increased through the efforts of the Quaker Weekly staff, the basketball teams, and the male faculty members in the Salem school system. What has this got to do with sports, beside the fact that swimming is a very popular sport? Well on Saturday night after the last regularly scheduled basketball game the Quaker Weekly staff will sponsor a game for the benefit of the swimming pool fund. The contestants will be this year's varsity squad and a team composed of members of the faculty.

Expected to play for the "Old Pros" are SHS's two basketball coaches, John Cabas and Karl Zellers. Another Quaker coach, Sam Pridon, along with Vince Crawford and other grade-school coaches, Joe Boone from Junior high, and Bob Miller, former Quaker cage mentor, will round out the faculty squad. Ken Jacobs, who recently left SHS for a Columbus job, will return to play, also.

Referees Al Catlos and Tom Nedelka, who work quite a few of the Quakers' reserve games, are going to donate their services for the evening.

In a prelim before the feature contest the Quaker reserves will meet an all-star class B team. The team will be chosen and coached by Ward Zeller, Memorial building director. It will consist only of high school boys.

From what we hear almost anything can happen at this contest and we're sure that you won't want to miss it. It promises to be a thrilling spectacle and it is our bet that the varsity will have to go some to beat a team with all the former cage stars that their opponents will have.

54-43 Triumph

Over Youngstown

The little Quakers routed the Youngstown Chaney jayvees last Saturday, 54-43, on the locals' home floor. This win gave the reserves eight victories against five setbacks.

Leading all the way, the Quakers continually widened the margin between the two teams as the game progressed. Dale Middeker, playing his best game of the season, scored 20 points and Kenny Bosu followed with 13 markers. George Buchenic accounted for 11 of Chaney's total.
