

'With Malice Towards None'

Lincoln was a long man.
He liked out of doors.
He liked the wind blowing
And the talk in country stores.

He liked telling stories,
He liked telling jokes.
"Abe's quite a character,"
Said quite a lot of folks.

Lots of folks in Springfield
Saw him every day,
Walking down the street
In his gaunt, long way.

Shawl around his shoulders.
Letters in his hat.
"That's Abe Lincoln."
They thought no more than that.

Knew that he was honest.
Guessed that he was odd.
Knew he had a cross wife
Though she was a Todd.

Knew he had three little boys
Who liked to shout and play,
Knew he had a lot of debts
It took him years to pay.

Knew his clothes and knew his house.

"That's his office, here.
Blame good lawyer, on the whole,
Though he's sort of queer.

"Sure, he went to Congress, once.
But he didn't stay.

Can't expect us all to be Smart as Henry Clay.

"Need a man for troubled times?
Well, I guess we do.
Wonder who we'll ever find?
Yes—I wonder who."

That is how they met and talked,
Knowing and unknowing.
Lincoln was the green pine.
Lincoln kept on growing.

HAVE YOU Bought Your Ticket To The Faculty-Varsity Game?

Lewis, McCready, Hanna, Kelley To Lead Cheers For Faculty

Miss Martha McCready, Miss Carol Kelley, Mrs. Bessie Lewis, and Miss Ada Hanna have consented to appear as faculty cheerleaders when the varsity meets a team composed of members of the Salem city faculty Feb 21.

20 On Staff

With Quaker Annual production well under way, the business staff has also begun work preparing the advertising section of the 1953 yearbook.

John Litty, who is the business manager, under the guidance of R. W. Hilgendorf, adviser, has selected a staff of 20 students. Those who are aiding in the production of the annual are: Johanna Kieffer, Sally Mayhew, Bob Stewart, Mary Dunlap, Ruth Mountz, Mary Sweeney, Audrey Vaughan, Richard Oriole, Jane Myers, Barbara Smith, Doris McNamee, Gail Hanna, Margie Hannay, Carol Jo Byrns, Jacqueline Brelieh, Yvonne Breault, Bonnie Zimmerman, Faye Lippiatt, and Jim Barcus.

Seniors To Choose Announcements, Name Cards

Senior cards and commencement announcements were selected when the stationery committee met Tuesday after school.

The selections were later shown to the homerooms and are now on display on each homeroom bulletin board.

Orders will be taken during the next two weeks.

The committee consists of Rose Marie Crawford, Mary Dunlap, Nancy Howell, Pat Schmidt, Wilma Stipic, Gretchen Bodendorfer, Mervin Thomas, and Dick Gleckler.

Junior Class Play To Be 'Professor, How Could You?'

"Professor, How Could You?" is the title of the play chosen by the officers and adviser of the junior class for presentation Friday and Saturday, March 20 and 21, in the Salem high school auditorium.

The three-act comedy, written by Anne Coulters Martin, has a cast of six boys and six girls.

The entire story takes place within the walls of a college where a young, handsome, and single professor is the talk of the campus. His decision to accept a position as dean of the college is complicated by his feeling that a man who hopes to gain prestige around the school should, by all means, have a wife. His search among the female students of the college provides many hilarious moments, but the final elimination process is the highlight of the presentation.

Tryouts for the play, which will be directed by Miss Irene Weeks, are being held after school Feb. 12 through 16 in the school auditorium. Tryouts can be arranged during class hours for those who cannot attend the after-hours sessions. The cast will be announced next week.

These teachers, all from SHS, will lead cheers for the "Old Pros" when they go to battle at approximately 9 p. m. that night.

The Quaker reserves will play against a class B all-star team at 7:30.

Ward Zeller, manager of the Memorial building, chose the team from the high school boys who play class B ball. They are: Nelson Mellinger, John Baker, Joe Hrovatic, Ed Mozina, Tom Ehrhart, Joe Carmelo, Bob Kupka, Bill Ward, Jim Minamy, Mervin Thomas, and George Manning.

"Musical Four" Combine Talents

Four members of the Robed choir have combined their voices to form a vocal quartet.

The members are: soprano, Barbara Cameron; alto, Pat Schmidt; tenor, Joel Greenisen; and bass, Dick Coppock.

The group was formed at the beginning of the school year and regular practices have been held.

This quartet demonstrated its vocal talents to several of the service clubs during the holidays and recently sang at a Methodist Church social.

These musicians represent three of the four classes in SHS, since Pat is a senior, Barbara and Joel are juniors, and Dick is a freshman. Pat and Barbara are both members of the Salem Junior Music club.

Three Petition For Board Seats

A three-way contest for two seats on the Salem Board of Education was assured after the candidates' deadline for filing was reached Wednesday, Feb. 4.

Candidates for the board are Robert H. Heddleston, Dr. Donald Lease, and E. S. Dawson, a member of this year's board. Robert Campbell, whose term on the board expires at the end of the year, is not seeking re-election.

Although the candidates have already filed, voting will not take place until Nov. 3.

Vocations Day Held Feb. 11

The Student Council and Hi-Tri have once again brought Vocations day to the high school. The annual event took place Feb. 11, when 45 people from all walks of life led discussion groups for students interested in their fields.

Originally there were to be 47 discussion groups, but Louis Manneri, who was to be in charge of retail selling, could not be present. William Sponseller, chosen to speak on bricklaying and masonry, was involved in an auto accident Wednesday, and also could not attend the event.

A general census of the highest number of students to attend one group disclosed that college, the air force, modeling, and airline work received the greatest interest from students.

SHS Enrolls 100%

It has been announced by the officers of the Salem Junior Red Cross that Salem high school is enrolled 100 per cent in the American Junior Red Cross.

In January representatives filled gift boxes to be sent to countries overseas. Last year a gift chest was sent to Iran, and in the fall of this school term, that country returned to SHS a "thank you" gift box.

Help Someone To See the Light

Do you own an old wrist watch that is beyond repair, yet you don't want to throw it away? Does your mother own some dangling earrings that are out of date, yet high in value? Still storing that outgrown pair of glasses you wore in grade school? If you're wondering what to do with these items, look no further.

"New Eyes for the Needy," an organization in Short Hills, New Jersey, has begun work to help those people all over the United States who are in need of optical care, but who can't meet the terrific expenses that go with it.

In 1952 the organization helped 9,000 people, and this year the group intends to do more.

Lenseless frames and glasses are sent to distribution centers, while all gold and silver collected is melted down and sold. The money earned from these sales is used to keep the organization working.

If you can obtain any of the mentioned articles and wish to help the cause, mail your contributions to: "New Eyes for the Needy," Short Hills, New Jersey.

Student Council Prexy Helen Is Busy Gal

By Nancy Bailey

"Even though my profession will be elementary teaching, I hope that someday I will be a great and honest Democratic politician."

These words were spoken by Salem high's Student Council prexy, Helen Dora Copacia. The blonde-haired, blue-eyed senior is the first girl in Salem high's history to hold this office. After having this duty for over a half year Helen explains, "It's hard for a girl to be president of the council, but it's good training."

Her most unforgettable moment occurred when Millie Maier announced that she was to be Football Girl of '52 and '53.

During her four years in high school Helen has been a member of the G. A. A., Salemasquers, Thespians, band and Latin club. She also portrayed Emily Kimbrough in the senior play, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Helen Dora Copacia

Being one of Salem high's majorettes no doubt has something to do with making Helen's greatest ambition that of being a majorette in college.

Helen loves to sit down to a meal of her mother's roast chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, and salad, topped off with a great big glass of milk.

Although she knows there isn't any such animal, her ideal male is neat, polite, quiet, and possesses a pleasing personality. He must also participate in athletics, especially football, tennis and swimming, and must dance well.

Since she is a lover of jazz, it isn't any wonder that Helen tops her musical list with Stan Kenton.

She thinks Salem is "the best." "Other schools don't have what our school has," states Helen.

One of Salem high's best-liked personalities confesses, "I've acted rather crazy sometimes, but in my heart I will never forget my friends and teachers that have made my days in Salem high the most unforgettable of my life."

Salem has been in dire need of some new and original basketball war cries for quite some time. Someone finally came up with a loud, if not new, cheer last week at the Steubenville game. The rooters, divided into two sections, roar alternately, "We shall fight, and we shall win," which is precisely what we did. Maybe that's what the team has needed all along.

Flash: Next week we will interview some freshmen to see what they think . . . or do they?

We'd like to thank everyone for the wonderful response we received on our swimming pool column two weeks ago. It's gratifying to see that SHS students have so much public spirit. The Faculty-Varsity game is a good step in the right direction. We hope to see all the students there to see the teachers in a new role—rolling them in the aisles. Let's make this game a big splash for the pool.

Courage, Strong Will Aid Mad Scientist As He Finds Secret of the "Thing"

by Jackie Welsh

It was dark now and all seemed quiet. At last I was going to find out what I'd wanted to know for so long. I had planned it for almost a week, and if the stairs didn't squeak all would be fine.

I opened the door very softly and peered out. Everything seemed to be in order . . . no one was awake.

The distance from my room to the main hall seemed an awfully long way. The black night surrounded me as I made my way to the stairs.

Quietly, very quietly, I made my way to the first stair and tiptoed down and down until at last I reached the bottom. I had to go through the living room, but all I had to remember was not to trip over the big chair. Now, safely through the living room, I crept past the dining room windows and opened the door.

There in front of me it stood, cold and hard just as always. I touched it and a ray of light shot at me. Quickly I hit it and the light was gone. I stood gazing at it for a long time. Once more the same ray of light hit the floor. I looked for a way to get rid of it—"There must be a way," I thought frantically.

Finally in the side of the big monster I found the answer. I pressed the button and the light disappeared.

"I can go to sleep now," I thought as I chuckled to myself, "because at last I found the answer. The light does go off when you close the ice-box door."

A Memo To The Absent-Minded

The students of Salem high are quite forgetful. When a campaign was started to eliminate gum chewing in the school, the entire student body cooperated to the limit. Gum disappeared from hall floors, stairway railings, and most of all students' mouths.

It's only human nature to forget, and to rest on one's laurels. The unpardonable error occurs when, after having been reminded of the fault, the person does not correct it.

However, as soon as the students were praised for their work, the careless attitude returned, and the words of praise were in vain.

Although many students fail to realize the importance of the fact, carelessly discarded chewing gum tends to spread germs. During this season when flu and colds can reach epidemic proportions, it is imperative that every person have enough consideration of others to cooperate in whatever program might be set up for the improvement of the school.

This drive is not temporary; it was started with the plan in mind of continuing the effort until the problem was completely wiped out.

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

by Sally Scullion

"Fill 'er up," is a familiar phrase to BILL KELLY, who spends most of his time at Kelly's Sohio station. When he is not working, you might find him at home listening to "Hold Me, Thrill Me, Kiss Me" by Karen Chandler or eating little pig sausages. Dad's key presentation to the "Red Rage" was his most memorable experience. Bill's future plans are undecided but he hopes someday to build a "hot rod."

President of the Youth Council, JOYCE COSGROVE, claims that her biggest moment occurred when she was asked to be in the football queen's court. A craver of steak and french fries, this lass can't help likin' Joni James's version of "Why Don't You Believe Me" and Dale Robertson. Joyce is a librarian, a member of the Hi-Tri, Thespians, and Formaldeicides.

Playing the piano and singing are the hobbies of MARLENE YUNK, while attending a concert with Bruce and reading historical novels provide enjoyable moments for her. Marlene's "likes" include chili and stenography. A four-year member of the chorus, her future plan is secretarial work.

A perfect example of young manhood's likes has been expressed by KEN MOUNTZ. Says he, when asked the vital questions, "Wood industries, Clifton Webb, and pie." His hobby is playing cards. Ken plans to go into industrial work.

BARBARA DeRIENZO is an ardent fan of Lou Boudreau and Marilyn Monroe. Dancing and eating southern fried chicken satisfy her desire for pleasant moments. She has a dislike for conceited girls. Barbara is a member of the G. A. A. and Salemasquers and plans to be a telephone operator.

'I'll Just Die,' Cries Party-Goer In Throes of Getting A Date

by Curtice Loop

Parents have often wished to be young again. "Just to be back in high school," they dream. But if they would look back to some of the dire emergencies that faced them when they were teen-agers, they might decide things are pretty tough all over. Take, for instance, the case of this poor girl who has to ask a boy to a party. She is, at this moment, in great agony.

"I've got to do it! The party's Saturday night and it's already Friday. I've just got to get it over with!

"What if he isn't home and I have to talk to his mother. Or maybe even his father! Oh, I'll just die! I just know I will! They'll ask who's calling, and I'll have to tell them my name, and then they'll think I'm chasing him, and oooh, I'll just die!

"Oh, glory! What if he is home and says no? Oh, I know he will. I'm sure of it. He'll think I'm crazy about him, and he'll laugh, and he'll say no and I'll just die!

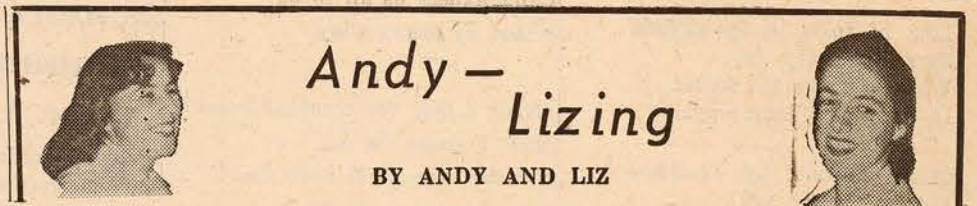

"What if somebody else has already asked him? Then I'll see him at the party and I'll feel so silly. Oh, why does anybody have parties at all? I wish I were dead, and he were dead, and I know the party's going to be dead.

"If he says yes, what will I wear? I could wear my red dress, but if Jane wears her red dress, I'd just die. I wonder if they'll wear hose. I hope not. They itch me something terrible. Wouldn't he think I was awful if I went around scratching all the time?

"But maybe he won't go. He's got to. If he doesn't, I'll just die! I couldn't ask anyone else. Everybody's going, just everybody. I think she said there'll be seven couples. Why did she have to have this doggone party anyway?

"I've got to get it over with. I'll just do it, that's all. I can always hang up, I can always hang up, I can always hang up. One - two - three -"

She lifts the receiver.

Andy - Lizing

BY ANDY AND LIZ

Greetings, guys and giggles . . . As usual the stimuli of the warm, springy weather and good old St. Valentine's Day, the hearts of young men and women should once again turn to thoughts of love and stuff . . . Boy, what a break!!

STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS

Here's news kids . . . Lowell Phillis, SHS's boy aviator, is preparing his "flying machine" for an excursion to Seattle, Washington, during spring vacation. Seems to be that this junior lad and his co-pilot, Phil Bishop, are really in the clouds about their coming flight . . . Can't say we blame them, especially when they are looking forward to picking up a few "stratosphere acquaintances."

Say, boys, if by chance you run into the "Little White Cloud That Cried," don't forget to offer him a Kleenex, and if you meet any respectable Mars men who are out of this world, here are two gals that would be only too glad to obtain their addresses!

HAVE YOU SEEN . . .

Bob DeCrow's white turtleneck sweater . . .

Mary Ann Horstman's red corduroy "middy" trimmed with rabbit fur . . .

John Baker's new shell-rimmed glasses . . .

Gene Bergman and Wendell Hamilton's tinted tresses . . .

Jim Gow's purple umbrella . . .

COUPLE OF THE WEEK

Making beautiful music together are two swell seniors, Marlene Yunk and Bruce Snyder . . . We add to our list of woosome twosomes.

FOUND

In the vicinity of Salem high school: One slightly dilapidated Donald Duck toy complete with a bell that rings when the toy is pulled. Now in the custody of Don Abe . . . owner may obtain it by giving the patent number.

TIDBITS

Thanks go to all those who helped make Vocations day a success . . .

The students of Salem high who attended the Youth Council dance at the ME last Friday wish to express their appreciation for a swell time . . .

Mr. Olloman's 3rd period biology class wishes to dedicate a song to their beloved pedagogue . . . "Heart and Lungs."

LIFE AMBITIONS

Sally Kirkbride—to attend U. C. L. A.
Janet Patterson—to be a forest ranger.
Melissa Layton—to be someone important.

Jerry Cosgrove—to be a man.

Bob Rea—to understand people.

Ted Hart—to be a successful business man.

Sally Risbeck—to be a nurse and marry a doctor.

GOSH! A WHOLE YEAR OLDER

Last week found the halls of our Alma Mater ringing with strains of "Happy Birthday." After a bit of sleuthing we learned that these good tidings were enjoyed by a number of seniors who now have only 48 years to go until they can collect their old age pensions! Among the "old timers" are Jack Ference, Inkie Nyberg, Denny Herron, and Joyce Cosgrove.

Incidentally Joyce celebrated the annual occasion by entertaining a group of friends at her home, and from all reports, these kids really had a whopper of a time doing a few things out of the ordinary . . . For instance, we hear Rosie Crawford and Pat Schmidt monopolized the evening by lifting weights and dumbbells. Well, gals, that's one way to build up muscles and break bones at the same time!

Harris Organizes Creative Writers

The second meeting of the Creative Writing club was held Feb. 9 to begin work in the organization. David Freshly was appointed temporary chairman of the meeting and Shirley Werner, temporary secretary. The purpose and name of the club were discussed. Rosie Sulea, Curtice Loop, and Carol McQuilkin were appointed to the name committee while Melissa Layton was put in charge of publicity.

Officers will be elected at the next meeting to be held Feb. 16. Anyone interested in creative writing is urged to attend.

Party Planned By Latin Club

A valentine party was the main topic of discussion at the meeting of the Latin club Friday, Feb. 6. The members were told of a special surprise which will be presented by Miss Helen Redinger at the party.

In the future members will be required to give a password in order to attend meetings and will answer roll call with the name of a famous Roman.

A committee composed of Sharlene Sanlo, Mary Ellen Reed, Don Harsh, and Kenny Letzkus was appointed to plan the future meetings and activities of the group.

Bowling Contest Keep G. A. A. Girls Busy

The G. A. A. square dance held Friday night in the high school gym was enjoyed by approximately 55 SHS students. Donald Stelts called the dances.

The G. A. A. girls have begun bowling as an extra activity Tuesday nights. Glenna Whinnery was the high scorer when the club bowled Feb. 3.

The annual ping-pong tournament is still in progress with the club president, Connie Gillett, in charge.

The foul shooting contest got underway Thursday, Feb. 5. The winner of this contest will be determined by elimination.

By Aly Jo and Mary

This week we are dedicating our column solely to the studies of Salem high. We have asked kids from all classes to tell us what their favorite recordings are and why. Some of these are really "crazy."

For instance:

Chuck Jones likes "Why Don't You Believe Me?" because says he, "Well, I just like it. We Wonder!"

Eileen Jackson prefers "Any where I Wander" because Julius La Rosa sings it. Do you belong to his fan club, Eileen?

Frank Stoerckel likes "Don't Let the Stars Get In Your Eyes" because it's a gay and happy tune, that makes you happier just to listen to it. It's better when someone's with you, eh, Frank?

Martha Arkenburg favors "Have You Heard" because she heard it in a certain city. Are you sure it's because of the city, Marty? Never can tell.

Joe Hrovatic goes for "Lady of Spain" just because. Could this remind you of anyone, Joe?

Sandra Bailey likes "Tell Me You're Mine" because of the Spanish in it.

Lowell Fleischer likes "Till I Waltz Again With You" because it sends him. To where, Lowell? We'd like to know.

Grace Brown thinks "Cross My Heart" is tops because that's what she doing. For whom, Grace?

Charles Nicholson likes "Tell Me You're Mine". If you've ever seen his tablet, maybe there lies the reason for his wishes.

Larry Dusenberry rates "Blue Violins." He especially likes this because a certain someone else likes it also. Larry, does she go to Salem high?

Betty Foreman likes "I'm Never Satisfied." Her reason is, says Betty, Tony.

Bill Huffman suggests "Because You're Mine". "I like it—that's all," says he. Can't kid us, Bill.

Jackie Houts says "Keep It a Secret" because she wants it to be kept a secret.

Don Kuntzman likes "Mr. Tap Toe". He has no special reason. "I just like it," he adds, shrugging his shoulders.

Jackie Welsh likes "Why Don't You Believe Me" because she wonders why he won't believe her. More suspense.

Arnold Nye likes "I Dream of Jeanie With The Light Brown Hair." His response when asked why was, "Mmmm, wouldn't you like to know?" Yes, we would.

Bev Durr is nuts about "Keep It a Secret." She likes the words and she heard it for the first time with a certain someone.

Mike Filler likes "Till I Waltz Again With You." Mike says, "It has a good tune and wonderful words."

Betty Moore likes "Hold Me, Thrill Me, Kiss Me" because it sends her into wishful thinking.

Ronald Jones prefers "How High The Moon" because he often wondered how high the moon was. That figures.

Viki Paparodis and Peggy Martin like "Hold Me, Kiss Me, Thrill Me." Just because.

Geneva Alexander likes "Yes, I Know", the answer to "I Don't Know." What is it that you know, Gen?

Jane Everett, Dot Alek, and Melissa Layton also like "Till I Waltz Again With You", just because it's pretty.

Kay Hamilton asks, "Have You Heard?" She says, "It's pretty." Is this really Kay's reason?

Shirlene Bowman is another one for "Till I Waltz Again With You" because she likes to sing it to Jim.

Has Successful Bout With Polio Now Is Said To Look Like Lewis

By Tom Mulford

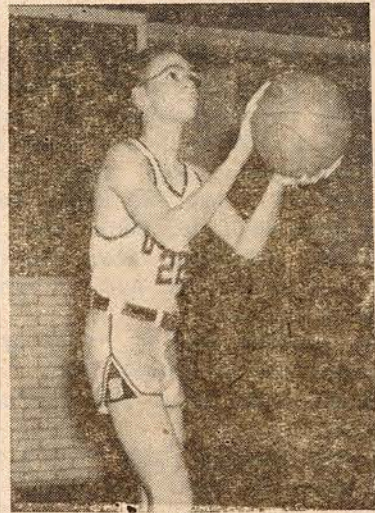

"Although I had polio when I was in sixth grade, it doesn't seem to have left any after effects on me; for this I am very thankful," related Jere Hochadel, whose friends claim he resembles Jerry Lewis. But Jere maintains that he can't see the likeness.

Jere thinks that this year's Quaker roundballers show lack of experience, but that it is a good scrappy team. He further said, "Next year we ought to do very well and get even with East Liverpool, I hope." From Seattle university comes Jere's favorite basketball star, little Johnny O'Brien, who shows that height isn't everything.

"Diddle's spare time is largely filled by playing basketball and collecting signs to hang in his room. This summer he plans to go back to work a a soda jerk at a local drugstore. This junior has a passionate dislike for two things: people who try to be funny and make no one laugh but themselves, and liver. (His favorite meal is fried chicken and mashed potatoes.)

"An unforgettable moment happened to me last year when I dressed for a varsity basketball game in the tournament at Youngstown. I made a basket just as the buzzer rang. The officials ruled that it didn't count, but I think it was good," related the still disappointed player.

"Salem needs more places like the good old 'Corner' so the kids will have places to go in the evening," commented Jere as he was asked the kind of improvements that should be made around Salem. "My idea of a perfect evening," he continued, "would be to see a good movie with a certain someone or with the boys, and then go to the Corner. Diddle also enjoys watching Jackie Gleason and Dragnet on T V.

Mr. Hochadel would like to attend Hiram college because it isn't too far from home and it teaches only one subject at a time. Thinking about his future occupation, he would like to go into pharmacy (he already has an apprenticeship certificate) or some line of chemistry.

Quakers Stomp Steubenville, 79-52

The Salem Quakers, in a second-half splurge, defeated Steubenville Central Catholic, 79-52. This victory on the home floor, Feb. 7, marked Salem's fourth win of the season against 11 defeats, breaking a three-game losing streak.

This game followed the usual procedure with one exception; the Red and Black were always on the long end of the lopsided score. The Quakers led 22-16, at the end of the first period and at the close of the second quarter still held the lead.

The locals meshed 19 points in the third period and in the final stanza chalked up 28 markers.

High-point man was Eddie Votaw, who collected 28 points, while Harry Baird finished second with 12.

Quakers To Face Sharpshville Tonite; Niles Hi Tomorrow

The Salem Quakers take on the Sharpshville five tonight with Niles invading the Quaker gym tomorrow night.

The Quakers will still be looking for their fourth win in 15 starts. Jack Gottschling will once again be in the Quaker lineup, his bout with a cold being over.

Sharpshville, a western Pennsylvania team, has a record of 19 wins with only one defeat while Niles will go with a record of 14 wins and three setbacks. Sharpshville has won 16 games in a row and is looking forward to making tonight's game the seventeenth in succession. Niles also has a winning streak of seven games going, and will be out to preserve their record.

After this week's games the Quakers have only one more regularly scheduled contest, that with Youngstown Ursuline next Friday. On next Saturday night the Quaker varsity meets the Faculty in a post-season game for the benefit of the swimming pool fund.

Frosh Lose Two; Finish Season

The Salem frosh were defeated 30-29, by the Goshen freshmen Feb. 26 in the Goshen gym. Bob Decrow led the scoring with nine points.

The locals again met defeat last Wednesday, 46-33, at the hands of the East Palestine frosh. This game was their last contest of the season. Matt Klein paced the "Little Quakers" with ten markers. The frosh ended their season with three wins and seven setbacks.

Coached most of the season by Ken Jacobs, the frosh finished their schedule under the direction of reserve Coach Karl Zellers.

A NEW CHEER

"WE SHALL FIGHT AND WE SHALL WIN!" That's how the new Quaker cry goes and that's how the game went last week. Led by their captain, Eddie Votaw, the Quakers won their fourth game of the season against 11 setbacks. Again they proved that the younger boys on the Quaker squad are coming along and that next year and for several years to come Salem should produce good basketball teams.

Junior Jack Gottschling was out of action last week because of a very bad cold and Bill Buckman, although he started the contest, didn't play very much of the game. With two freshmen, two sophomores and a lone senior in most of the time the Quakers held up extremely well. Frosh Richard Hunter and sophomore Dale Middeker saw a lot of action last Saturday night. It was Middeker's first big varsity game of the year and he looked very good. Stan Cosky and Larry Stoffer also saw some action for the Quakers.

RESERVES
Like their big brothers, the varsity, the Quaker jayvees scored over 70 markers last Saturday night. Kenny Bosu again led the reserves, hooping 16 points for the night. All of the members of the team got into the game and everyone scored at least one point. Even Jim Fife, Matt Klein, and Roger Jones, who just recently joined the team got into the act. Klein is only a freshman while Jones and Fife are sophomores. Ray Hertel started the game in place of Harry Baird, a regular reserve starter, who entered the varsity contest. The "Little Quakers" have a season's record of nine wins and five losses. Coached by Karl Zellers, the boys have come a long way since the start of the season.

ENTHUSED
A lot of Quaker fans were very much excited and enthused over the Quakers' play last Saturday, but none so much as Mrs. Zeller, wife of ME director, Ward Zeller. Mrs. Zeller stood up more than once to applaud a successful play or to cheer the Quakers on. We haven't seen anyone so excited over a game in the Salem gym in a long time. More power to Mrs. Zeller, and we wish that we had 1,000 more fans like her.
