

Schuller, Harsh Win Test: Will Attend World Affairs Institute

Salem's delegates to the seventh annual Cincinnati World Affairs Institute were announced early this week by Eugene Young and Attorney George H. Bowman, Jr., representatives of the local Rotary club. Joan Schuller and Don Harsh, both seniors, will participate in the two-day convention March 6 and 7.

They were chosen on the basis of their scores in a foreign affairs test given by the Rotary club to approximately 25 SHS students Feb. 10.

The trip is sponsored by the club, which yearly sends two delegates to the institute. Mr. Bowman will accompany the winners to Cincinnati where they will be guests of Rotarians of that city.

The institute, which has as its goal the development of alertness and interest in world affairs in young people, is sponsored jointly by the Cincinnati Council of World Affairs, the Cincinnati Rotary club, and the Crosley Broadcasting corporation.

The program, aimed at emphasizing current world events, will feature speakers prominent in the governments of the world. Addresses by the Honorable Warren R. Austin, United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Dr. Shushi Hsu, Chinese delegate to the United Nations, the Honorable Walter Judd, United States Representative from Minnesota, and John Sherman Cooper, special foreign affairs consultant to the President and the Secretary of State, will be heard.

Salem's delegates to past Institutes include Paul Colapanni, Catherine Spack, Darrell Askey, Michael Gajdzik, James Cusack, and James Schmidt.

Orders Discussed At Class Meeting

When members of the senior class assembled in 209 Feb. 17, class adviser Chester M. Brautigam explained the method to be used in ordering commencement announcements and name cards.

Orders were to be filled out and returned to homeroom representatives yesterday. The announcements, which bear the school crest, are being ordered from the Educational Supply Company, while cards may be ordered from either that company or the Printcraft Supply Company.

Jones, Smith To Have Leads In Junior Class Comedy

Chuck Jones and Barbara Smith have been chosen by Miss Irene Weeks, drama director, to portray the major leads in the coming junior class play, "Professor, How Could You?"

The rest of the cast is: Jean Kirby as Grandma Perry, a sweet white-haired woman; Tom Ehrhart as Grandpa Perry, an alert, chipper, little man of sixty; Gary Moffett as John, a clean-cut, likable young fellow of twenty-five; Carol Jo Byrns, as Priscilla, the sweet young girl of nineteen with a childish, appealing manner; JoAnn Capel as Tootsie, a girl of about twenty-eight, decidedly giggley and plump; Bill Megert as the butcher boy, built on a massive frame, and very pugnacious; Nance Zeck as Valerie, a Southern charmer, about twenty, and pretty in a languid way; Sandy Hansell as Boggins, the sporting butler, who feels that his opinion counts.

Chuck is a young college professor of ancient history, who knows more about history than he does about life; and about women he knows nothing and cares less.

Barbara is an audacious, spirited girl of twenty, quick in her enthusiasms and in anger. She is the type of young girl the professor dislikes.

The three-act comedy will be presented Friday and Saturday, March 20 and 21.

Stage crews, committees, and ticket sales have not yet been announced.

Faini Chosen Chorister of Year

Rosemarie Faini, SHS senior, was elected Chorister of the Year by her fellow chorus members, it was announced recently.

The choice is made on the basis of musicianship, leadership, service, and dependability.

Rosemarie was given the Marie Burns award in her sophomore year and has been a member of both orchestra and choruses during her four years in high school.

Rosemarie's picture will be placed in the music room along with those of James Cosgarea and Darrell Askey, former Choristers.

Girl Enrolls Here From New Waterford

June Dishong, a senior from New Waterford high school, enrolled at Salem high, Feb. 16.

June has not been assigned a homeroom due to the fact she will be the new secretary in the Salem Trades Extension office, replacing Betty Driscoll.

She attends two regular classes in Salem high. Her credits will be transferred to New Waterford where she will be graduated.

PTA Sponsors Extensive Tests

It has been announced by the Salem high school PTA that vocational aptitude tests will be given to all interested SHS juniors and seniors in March.

The PTA will sponsor the tests, which are constructed and administered by the Vocational Counseling Center of Western Reserve university.

There is a cost of 10 dollars per student who signs up, and the money should be paid by check to Mrs. John Litty at 754 E. Third street by March 6. The cost of the tests formerly was 25 dollars, and the PTA feels that this reduction in price will be a great help to interested students.

The tests are divided into three groups consisting of interest tests, ability and aptitude tests, and personality questionnaires.

When the tests have been completed, a counselor from Western Reserve will confer privately with each student and explain how the test was graded, what the results show, and will suggest fields for which that individual might be well suited.

Further information can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Litty, W. F. Ross, or John Hochadel.

The tentative date set for the tests is March 24.

Kenneth Richter, Colored Films To Be At Town Hall Feb. 23

Kenneth Richter, world-famous photographer, will be the center of interest Monday, Feb. 23, at Town Hall, when he will present a colored movie on "The New Germany."

Accompanying the movie will be a lecture on the theme of Germany.

A native of Massachusetts, Mr. Richter showed an active interest in astronomy and went on to become a photography student at Harvard.

After college Richter worked for the United States government in South America as cameraman for Julian Byran. From there he went to Hollywood and for nearly five years worked with the major studio camera crews. He has made educational releases for Encyclopedia Britannica films and Cornet, and his still pictures have appeared in the leading national magazines.

This will be Richter's second appearance at Town Hall, the first one being last year, when he spoke on "Iran."

Actor Hedley Hepworth To Interpret Dickens, Poe

By Sandy Hansell

The world-renowned British actor, Hedley Hepworth, will appear as the feature attraction in an assembly Tuesday, Feb. 24, sponsored by the SHS association.

Generally regarded as the foremost authority on Dickens, Mr. Hepworth will present dramatic impersonations of characters created by the great novelist.

In addition to his specialty of portraying characters from Dickens, Mr. Hepworth will also present some of the writings of Poe, Noyes, Stevenson, Hilton, and Hugo.

During the last war the British Secret Service made good use of Mr. Hepworth's dramatic talents by sending him into pubs as a British stevedore to find out whether sailors were talking out of turn. Hepworth was also one of the most popular entertainers to appear before the British soldiers during the war.

HEDLEY HEPWORTH

On a recent tour of Europe Mr. Hepworth was accorded overwhelming acclaim as the foremost interpreter of Dickens in the world today.

Walls Hear All As Patt And Dick Share Thrill of Being Royalty Candidates

By Barbara Cameron

Setting: The top floor of SHS.
Time: 3:35 — the day two certain freshmen discovered they were chosen to represent their class in the race for "Most Likable Teenager."

Cast: Patt Ross and Dick Coppock.

"I was really and truly surprised, weren't you, Dick? It's just wonderful!"

"It certainly is, Patt; I still haven't recovered from the shock. You know, I think this honor and the thrill of running on the quarter-mile relay team when we broke the record last year are the biggest moments of my life."

"I'll never forget this day or the day I was presented the American Legion award."

"Say, Patt! I suppose this means we'll soon be interviewed by a reporter from the Quaker, huh?"

"Why, I hadn't thought about it, but I bet we will. Gee, they'll probably want to know what clubs we're in and so forth. By the way, what have your activities been during our freshman year?"

"Let me see—I'm class veep, belong to Spanish club, and sing in the Robed choir. Oh yes, I played freshman football and basketball and I hope to participate in track when the season rolls around. What will you tell them, Patt?"

by Jim Schmidt

Is this a picture of the Quaker King and Queen? Could be! But until the end of May, these two freshmen are just Dick Coppock and Patt Ross.

"Well, Dick, I report for the Weekly, attend meetings of the Art and Creative Writing clubs, besides those of the Student Council and Salemasquers. Something you didn't mention was your singing in the talent assembly."

"That's right, and you play the piano and belong to Junior Music club too, don't forget."

"What about embarrassing incidents? Have any occurred to you?"

"Well, yes, to tell the truth. However it concerns some of my dear, dear friends and a trick they played on me which is much too embarrassing to tell."

"As for me I still shudder when I think of the time I had to be Santa Claus for my mother's bridge club! How humiliating!"

"You know, they always want to know what you like and don't like. I can't think of a thing I dislike, but I do like friendly people, playing tennis at the Country Club, and swimming."

"That's funny, I have no dislikes either. Among my loves are sports—especially track—dagwoods, and the record "Strange" by Nat "King" Cole. You know, it's a shame they can't print colored pictures in the Quaker so your famous red hair would show."

"What about that blond crew cut of yours and those green eyes? Gosh! I can just see the headlines now—'Patt Ross and Dick Coppock chosen King and Queen candidates!'"

"Yep. All they have to do now is interview us."

THE TOP DRAWER

By Jim and Carolyn

WELCOME

We are once again putting out the welcome mat for a new student in SHS. Her name is June Dishong and she hails from New Waterford. June, a senior, is working part time in the Trades Extension office. So, fellows and gals, when you see her walking through the halls, don't forget to give her that old SHS "Hi".

SWIM BY JULY OR ELSE

This could easily be the new fighting slogan for the Swimming Pool fund, and tomorrow night you'll have a chance, in a small way, to help build that pool. The undefeated SHS faculty team will meet the great Salem varsity "Steam Rollers" in a game that promises to be the show (side that is) of the year. For such a small price you can't afford to miss this game. 50c adults — 25c students.

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

By Sally Scullion

One of the reporters for the Quaker Weekly is JOHANNA KIEFFER, who is a loyal fan of Ralph Flanagan and Eddie Fisher. She also goes for English, fried tomatoes, ice skating, dancing, and Robert Wagner. Working at a local music store is her favorite pastime. Jo's pet peeve is people who can't mind their own business. Presenting track trophies last spring was her most thrilling moment. She is president of the Salemasquers and a member of the French club, Quaker Annual business staff, and robed choir. A college career at Kent State university will be the next big step in Jo's life.

A senior gal who apparently doesn't know her way around the rooms of SHS is SALLY MAYHEW. Her freshman year Sally walked into 310 study hall when she was supposed to be in library, and repeating the action this year was "most embarrassing." Eating T-bone steak and listening to the Four Aces also interest her. Sally can't digest people who are sarcastic. College interests her but she is still undecided as to which one she'll attend. Miss Mayhaw

Tom Johnston has come up with what he says is his own creation. He calls it a joke. (loose interpretation) It goes thus:

I say, father, I'm worried.

Why, son?

George Washington's birthday is Sunday, and I don't have a thing to give him.

Well, you weren't invited to his party, were you?

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

By looking through the files we found that George Washington wasn't the only person born on Feb. 22. Sandra King, a junior, also celebrates her birthday on that date. Happy birthday, Sandra!

Just for the record, as this is written, there are five teachers absent. The shut-ins are: Mr. Olloman, Miss McCready, Mr. Stadlander, Miss Zimmerman, and Miss Lehman.

is treasurer of the French club and a member of the Thespians, Formaldeades, and Quaker Annual business staff.

Youngstown's gift to SHS is TED HART, who states that last year's prom was his most memorable experience. This lad keeps himself busy by eating spaghetti, playing cards, and watching "This Is Your Life" on TV. Vice-president of the robed choir, Ted plans to enter the Navy or go to college.

Although BETTY BARTHOLOW is kept busy being F. E. Cope's secretary, she still has a yearning for football, stenography, spaghetti, and Billy May. Betty proved her ability as an actress when she appeared as Madame Elise in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay." She is a member of the Hi-Tri, Thespians, and is a dramatics assistant. Betty plans to become a private secretary.

To join the Navy and see the world is the life ambition of PAUL HARRINGTON. "Bones" would enjoy baked hash anytime while listening to Don Howard's recording of "Oh, Happy Day." Paul still shudders when he remembers the time he fell down the stairs of SHS and knocked down a "freshie."

Problems Disclosed By Health Students Reveal Seniors To Be Well Adjusted

When the health classes started work on problems and how to combat them, Mrs. Dorothy Crook, the teacher, announced that one of the homework assignments would be to make a list of worries each student had as a freshman and the problems he had as a senior.

When all the papers had been handed in, results showed that, on the whole, SHS seniors are pretty average.

When the members of the class of '53 were freshmen, most of them had problems concerned with getting adjusted to high school life. They were afraid of being initiated, and they wondered if they would be "accepted" by the upperclassmen.

Fear of signing out of study hall gripped most of them at one time or another. Lack of poise also had a lot to do with their problems. Many of the students wrote that they had a mortal fear of being embarrassed in front of some juniors or seniors.

Only a few worried about catching the school bus on time. However, one student had worried about it all four years.

Four years sped by, and the once awkward frosh developed polish, confidence, and that so necessary "senior-ish" poise.

A great majority of the troubles facing the graduates-to-be is college. Whether or not they should attend, how to meet the expenses, how to pick the "right one", and utmost in the boys' minds, would the draft yank them out too soon?

Most of the seniors face the future with an open mind. They state that they wonder how they are going to find a career in which they will be successful. A large number of studes are worried about marriage—whether they should "tie the knot" right away or wait a few years.

Many boys are thinking of joining the Army or Navy after graduation; others wonder if they should stay out of college, get an average job, and wait for the draft to take them.

Carefree Canine Can't Stop Cavorting

By Curtis Loop

Most people at some time in their lives have met up with the canine in infancy; in other words, a lot of people have owned puppies.

There is nothing so lovable as a soft, cuddly puppy in the daytime, but just try to put him to bed! No one gets or sounds lonelier than a puppy at night. But a sure cure for his "blues in the night" is letting him sleep with you. It is said that this is not sanitary, but what can be more sanitary than a mud-loving puppy?

But true love hath no bounds, and the pup becomes only more and more a member of the household as he grows older—and livelier. He then passes into the gnawing stage. Balls and stuffed toys, rubber rats and bones hold no charms for this economy-size termite. He prefers legs of tables and chairs, corners of doors, new shoes, and stray washbaskets, which, when ripped apart, makes a most delightful mess.

From this stage "rodent boy" advances to "Jack, the Ripper" or the "Manassas Mauler." Anything too strong for him to tear to ribbons, he drags, shakes, bites, and rolls on in order that he may leave it in the worst shape possible.

If, by this time, he has mastered the trick of climbing stairs, nylons, ribbons, blouses, and bedspreads are in constant danger, and he dotes on angora. Nothing appeals to him more than a full wastebasket, especially if it's full of small papers and there is a large area over which to spread them.

As he grows older he finds a new plaything—pedestrians! How he loves to make them jump! And milkmen are an endless joy.

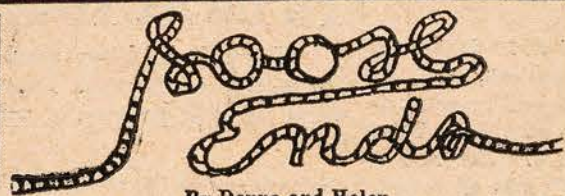

Then comes spring, with soft rains and soft dirt. This dog might as well be an undertaker, for the holes he digs in the front lawn are at least six feet deep.

June, and the neighbors' gardens are sprouting. "Digger O' Dell" could be a member of the garden club, he loves flowers so much. The phone starts to ring and answers of, "I'm sorry. It will never happen again," float across the lines. Then in desperation the answer changes to, "No, we don't have a dog. I've never seen him before."

With the coming of spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love, and "Romeo Rover" is no exception. Night after night, the family waits up for the canine Casanova 'til the wee hours of the morning. It's worse than having a daughter.

They say that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but a rolling dog gathers quite an odor. There is nothing so pungent as the smell of a dead fish on a hot summer's night, as its delicate odor wafts through the house with every movement of the family pet.

But after years of escapades that have driven every member of the family to distraction, the pup grows into an old dog with little pep and a yearning for sleep. It is then that the wish comes for the return of that mischievous mutt that used to greet the family at the door with a torn pillow in his mouth, a look of pure devilment in his eyes, and a tail wagging so hard that he shakes all over.

Gentlemen in Distress

When a lady is in distress, usually some well-mannered gentleman comes to her rescue, but when a fella needs a friend, no one bothers to help him. If you find this hard to believe, just ask Russell Wilson. When he dropped his books and spilled his papers on the hall floor between classes one day last week, no one stopped to help him pick them up. Isn't that proof enough?

Barrels of Fun

If you have never seen a barrel of monkeys, you should have attended the junior play tryouts. Those kids really let loose and displayed no stage fright whatsoever. They "made like monkeys" as though they were professionals and acted like five-year-olds better than the five-year-olds themselves. Could be that they had had experience.

Private Indians

Have you ever noticed SHS's Al Rosen?

We all know that Al is nationally known for rolling his sleeves all the way up to his shoulders. If you look carefully you will notice a big senior from 207, named Jon Zeigler, with his sleeves rolled up the same way. Wonder how he handles a baseball bat.

Have You Seen

... the very artistic painting of a tie done by Pat Parana? If you haven't, see it immediately in front of -205.

... the new and different type of belt Margie Hannay has been sporting? It has a plastic surface under which she can put personal pictures.

... Jane Myers' light-lavender-rimmed glasses?

... Chuck Jones' dark gray tweed trousers?

We Are Grateful

We are sure all the studes of SHS would like a chance to thank the sponsors of last Friday night's Elks dance. We all enjoyed it and are eagerly waiting for another. Thank you again.

Poster By Chalk

You've all heard of posters for the purpose of advertising, we're sure, but Miss McCready's homeroom (201) has come out with a novel idea for advertising the Faculty-Varsity game. On the blackboard, drawn in colored chalk, is a basketball court. At one end of the court is a rather shy-looking lad representing the varsity, and at the other end is a figure symbolizing the faculty. This creates a very colorful scene, so be sure to go in and take a peek at it. Also don't forget to attend the game itself; and bring your parents, relatives, and friends.

Stand-In

On Vocations day when the speaker for the bricklaying session failed to make an appearance, Joe Hajcak exhibited his artistic talent by drawing appropriate pictures on the blackboard.

Joe really did a fine stand-in job of keeping the kids interested and entertained.

Generous Boy

During the Reserve-Sharpville game last Friday night when Jerry Myers was carefully guarding his opponent, the Sharpville lad literally handed Jerry the ball. That was quite a sight to behold! Jerry was a surprised boy but he was thankful to his generous opponent.

Cupid's Corner

Cupid's arrows pierced the hearts of Gretchen Bodendorfer and Gail Brown just a week before Valentine's day which lends a romantic air to this corner. "Gretch" and "Brownie" make a very good-looking pair. Thank you, Dan Cupid.

Clubs To Visit Nela Park, Cleveland

A joint meeting of the Formal-aides and the Art Club was held Monday. Plans were discussed concerning the trip to be made to Cleveland by the two clubs. Both groups will visit Nela Park, a General Electric plant. The Art Club will then visit the Cleveland Art Museum and the Formal-aides will tour the Health Museum. The trip will be made by bus March 30.

Initiate 38 Students

Thirty-eight new members were initiated informally at the Feb. 18 meeting of Los Conquistadores with Joan Hart and Ingrid Nyberg in charge.

The initiation consisted of the singing of Spanish songs and reading aloud in Spanish. Dick Ward, club president, welcomed the new group which was composed of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors.

The new Conquistadores attained membership in the club by receiving a "B" semester average or better in Spanish I class.

Career Books In Library

As a follow-up to Vocations day, in the library show case is arranged a display of career pamphlets, books, and other vocational information.

This collection shows just a few of the sources of information on vocations available to the students. Along with texts on special careers are fiction books from which much beneficial information may be gained.

Also in the library is a complete collection of booklets containing facts on almost any vocation desired. These pamphlets give information concerning personal qualities required for each job, wages paid in that field, and the requirements needed to enter the work.

The library's college corner offers much valuable information, including college catalogues and pamphlets listing specialized training available.

Creative Writers Choose Officers

Curtice Loop was elected president of the Creative Writing club when the group met Feb. 16. However, Curtice was absent, so the newly-elected vice-president, Carol McQuilkin, presided at the meeting. Patty Jurczak was voted secretary and Peggy Martin and Jim Barcus were elected treasurer and parliamentarian, respectively.

David Freshly was chairman until officers were elected.

Melissa Layton, David Freshly, Carol McQuilkin, and Curtice Loop were appointed to the constitution committee. They are to meet with Edward Harris, adviser, at noon, Feb. 23.

The next meeting of the club will be held March 2. This will be the last open meeting; i.e., students who wish to join the group after that date will have to be voted in.

SHARPS 'N' FLATS

By Nancy and Helen

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK
From the drum and cornet sections respectively.

Who is the strongest boy in the SHS band? Hint: He is a drummer, short, and goes steady with Estella Sweeney.

Who moves first valves to second, seconds to third, and thirds to first? Hint: He plays third-chair cornet.

TICK TICK, TOCK TOCK
That is the odd beat of John Litty's wrist watch. It seems that John has been practicing quite a bit on his triple-tonguing. Not only is John learning to play it well, but his watch has caught on quicker than he thought, for it is going tick, tick, tock, tock.

TELEVISION
Well, not exactly, but very close to it. The band has just received a new rendition of "TV Suite." The number is divided into four parts: SAGEBRUSH SAGA, WHO DUNNIT, GRAB YOUR PARTNER, and A BIG TIME BAND. The members of the band really enjoy playing this. One reason we think it's great is that it's on the popular side.

CLEVELAND BOUND
So far, seventy-two band and chorus students have signed up to go to Cleveland to hear the Baldwin-Wallace concert band perform under the direction of Dr. Edwin Franko Goldman, world-famed bandsman. The concert, commemorating the noted doctor's 75th birthday, will be presented Friday, Feb. 27, at Severance Hall. We hope you have a grand time, for it should be a memorable concert.

Quakers End Season Tonite Faculty Prepares For Big Tilt

Tonight the Salem Quakers end their cage season playing the last game on their regular basketball schedule against the Ursuline high roundballers. Tomorrow night the varsity takes on the faculty in a post-season game for the benefit of the Salem swimming pool fund.

The Ursuline cagers have a season's record of eight wins and nine losses, while the Quakers will go with a 4-12 record. The Irish ended up in next-to-last place in the Youngstown city series with a 3-3 record. South ended the series in the cellar with one win and five defeats. The Ursuline five are led by Dick Savko and Gene Sikora, both of whom scored over 20 points in Ursuline's 78-64 win over Springfield township two weeks ago.

Because tonight's game is the last regular high school tilt for Bill Buckman and Eddie Votaw, the two lone seniors on the squad, they will be introduced to the fans along with the members of the Salem and Ursuline teams. Souvenir programs will also be given out at tonight's game.

Tomorrow night comes the Faculty-Varsity game which has been eagerly awaited by everyone since the Quaker staff announced their sponsorship of the event. The reserves will meet an all-star class B team in the prelim of the tilt. Faculty manager Fred Cope is going to "coach" the faculty, which consists of SHS coaches John Cabas and Karl Zellers, teachers Bob Miller, Vince Crawford, Sam Priddon, John Salcau, James Riley, and Junior high coach Joe Boone. Ken Jacobs, former SHS coach and teacher, is planning to be here from Columbus for the game, also, provided he does not have to go on a business trip.

Cabas Draws Bye For Tourne Quakers To Play Feb. 27

By Lowell Fleischer

Quaker Coach John Cabas attended the drawing the NEO Sectional cage tourney last Monday at South h. school in Youngstown, where he drew a bye for the th straight year.

The Quakers will face the winner of the East Palestine-Youngstown North fray Feb. 27 at the South high fieldhouse. Salem plays the last game of the evening at 9:15 p. m.

East Palestine whipped the Quakers by only five points when the two teams clashed earlier in the season. North, city series champions in Youngstown, is one of the four seeded teams in the tournament because of its superior 15-3 record. Niles, Girard, and Sebring are the other seeded teams. The locals have also played the latter three teams in regular season play.

The Quakers would have to win only three games to gain themselves a place in the regionals. If Salem can manage to win their first game, they will play either Poland, South, or Brookfield in the semi-finals. Cabas-coached Salem teams have had bad luck in past tourney play, losing the second game of each, having been defeated two years ago by Rayen and last year by Woodrow Wilson. Cabas seemed pleased by his drawing for the tournament but said that he didn't care to stick his neck out and make a prediction as to the outcome of the Quakers' game.

The coaches, who voted for the tournament officials at the meeting, chose Joe Check, Paul Avery, and John Russ, with Andy Lindsay as the alternate.

Salem Varsity On Bad End Of Two Tilts

The Salem Quakers drop their twelfth game of the seas against four victories when they were trampled last Friday, 72- by the Sharpville Blue Devils.

During the first half Salem seemed to be the victim of typical Friday-the-13th bad luck. Their shots rolled off the rim, and the superior height and rebounding of the Blue Devils also got the Quakers trouble. At the end of the first quarter of play the score was 25-16 in Sharpville's favor, and during the second and third quarters the Blue Devils enjoyed 20-point lead.

Once more Ed Votaw was the lone bright spot for Salem, meshing 16 points. Koran, McGrath, Vasconi, Morris, and Black were the high-pointers for Sharpville, each making 12 or more points.

Second Loss Is To Niles
Poor foul-shooting was the main reason for the Salem Quakers' loss to the Niles Red Dragons last Saturday night, 74-69, as the Niles aggregation withstood a desperate last period rally on the part of the Quakers.

The game was fairly close until the last four minutes of play. At the end of the first half the scoreboard read 37-32, and the third quarter score was 57-51.

Bill Buckman and Ed Votaw paced the scoring for the locals netting 22 and 21 points, respectively, while Scarnecchia hooped 14 points for the Red Dragons.

DON'T FORGET

Don't forget the pool benefit game tomorrow night between the varsity and the faculty. The Quaker staff promises that you will have a good time and a lot of laughs in addition to seeing what should be a very good basketball game.

The prelim between an all-star class B team and the Quaker reserves gets underway at 7:30, followed immediately by the main contest of the evening. The all-star team will be coached by Ward Zeller, Memorial building manager. Quaker Coach John Cabas will lead the "Old Pros," while Captain Eddie Votaw will have charge of the varsity.

THANKS

Before the big benefit game between the varsity and the faculty we would like to thank all the teachers for their wonderful cooperation.

We would especially like to thank Miss Martha McCready, Miss Carol Kelley, Miss Ada Hanna, and Mrs. Bessie Lewis, who will lead the cheers for the faculty tomorrow night.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

We surely had a lot of it last Saturday. You would have thought from all the noise and cheers that the Quakers were in the midst of a championship tournament game. It was nice to see the student stands full once again, too. Some of the studes were so "hepped up" that they started several cheers themselves. Two of the instigators of these were Nance Zeck and Joan Hart. Nice going, girls.

We also owe a vote of thanks to all the teachers who are on the "Old Pros" squad. It took time and energy from all these men, and the Weekly staff surely appreciates it. Last but not least, we would like to thank all the other teachers and fans who might have had the least little thing to do for the game. THANKS A LOT!!

Reserves Split Weekend Games

The Salem Reserves trampled the Sharpville Jayvees, 46-36, on the local boards Feb. 13.

Kenny Bosu and Jerry Myers tied for high-point man with 11 markers each. Tom Fortuna netted 14 for the visitors.

Quakers Lose To Niles

Salem's four - game winning streak was broken by the Niles Jayvees, 54-36, on the local hardwoods Feb. 14.

Richard Hunter stood at the top of the scoring ladder with 13 markers, while Kenny Bosu meshed 11 points. For the visitors, three Nilesmen accounted for 11 markers each.
