

Henning, Needham Honored In Legion Essay Contest

Two Salem High School students have been named Columbiana County winners in the recent American Legion essay contest...

Essays submitted by Cora Sue Needham freshman, and Marcia Henning, sophomore, were chosen by the county judges...

They were first selected as city winners, along with three others—Dick Coppock, sophomore; Bobbie Lou Wilms, freshman; and junior Ann Hansteen...

The subject of the essays was "My Duty to Home and Country." Medals will be presented to all five winners at a special Legion meeting...

GAA Girls Hold Party In Gym

Last week the GAA held their long-awaited greeting-card-contest party after school in the gym. The girls enjoyed the refreshments and entertainment...

The winners of the foul-shooting contest which was held Thursday, March 18, were Kathie Bloor and Helen Yeager, who tied for first place...

File 13 Seeks Stories; Top Room To Get Prize

All students are urged to contribute more stories and poems to File 13.

The students in the homeroom with the greatest number of contributions will receive an ice-cream treat, but only those who have paid for their copy are eligible.

Last year Gloria Colananni was selected as one of the State of Ohio winners and was awarded a trip to Washington, D. C.

This contest is one of the many activities for youth sponsored by the American Legion. Among the others are Buckeye Boys' and Girls' States, Junior League baseball, and achievement awards...

Backstage Committees Begin Work

With the premiere showing of "A Change of Heart" just around the corner, the backstage committees are playing an increasingly important role.

The committee in charge of stage props will be headed by Faye Lippiatt and Rita Joseph, co-chairman. Others on the committee are Sally Hutcheson, Gail Loschinsky, Joanne Lewis, Barbara Erath, Frieda Ackerman, Joan Strojek, Joyce Leibhart, Shirley Andrus, Kathy...

Council To Inaugurate 'CUSH' Drive March 29

"CUSH" was the main topic of discussion when the Student Council decided to launch an all-out cleanup campaign around SHS at their March 19 meeting.

Dale Middeker, Barbara J. Beery and Joe Hajcak are in charge of the project which will begin March 29. The name of the drive was derived last year from the initials of the slogan, "Clean Up Salem High."

In accordance with the plan a large container will be placed in front of the building for all students to use for trash. It was made by a member of last year's council, Dick Gleckler.

The third annual council-sponsored "Quaker Follies" will be presented April 28. Chuck Jones is chairman of the committee composed of Joan Fester, Ted Jackson, Carolyn Paxson and Sandy DeJane.

Members voted to invite exchange students at Columbiana to visit Salem High.

It was suggested that the council consider the possibility of devising a better way for the student body to initiate freshmen in the fall. It was pointed out that many people feel that the way it is done now is quite childish and lasts entirely too long.

'Little One' Ranks As 'Leastest With Mostest'

Butch Evades Calendar

By Donna Blender

It's not every senior that has a title.

Petite, brown-haired Carol Joe Byrns does.

She hasn't been officially crowned but she could be called "Miss Youngest Senior of SHS." Records show that Carol Joe, aged 16, will graduate the youngest of her class. It may be from this fact she has been nicknamed "Little One" and "Butch."

When asked if she had any hobbies, Carol Joe replied, "Hm-m-m, well, can't say I have one, 'cept maybe cooking (if that's what you call what I fix). Once I almost bent a knife trying to cut a chocolate cake I baked."

She loves anything Eddie Fisher sings but her top song is "Lost in Loveliness" by Billy Eckstein. Anything powder blue suits her to a T, as do man-tailored blouses. She's crazy over Oldsmobiles, Martin and Lewis, spaghetti, Jeff Chandler, Ava Gardner, biology and the movie hit, "From Here to Eternity." Carol Joe reveals, "It was the best! I even cried."

Her favorite season is summer when she can do the things she likes most: sleep, eat, swim, play golf and take it easy. "My ambition," she states, "is to get as dark a tan as George Kubas had when he returned from Florida."

Carol Joe lives in a "little paradise" 11 miles from Salem, across from a golf course and practically in a lake. It's popularly known as North Benton or Sebring Country Club.

Insists On 'E' In Carol JoE

"My most exciting moment was being chosen for the junior play—you could hear my knees shaking a block away on opening night."

Her extracurricular activities include being secretary of Thespians and Hi-Tri, treasurer of Spanish Club, member of the Latin Club and working on the QUAKER weekly staff and business staff.

About SHS Carol Joe says, "I like everything about Salem High (including teachers—most of 'em are human) but most of all I like the kids themselves. They're tops! Just think of all the fun and good times I would have missed if I hadn't come here! Jeepers!" (She entered her junior year.)

For Carol Joe the "e" on "JoE" is a must. There is no particular reason except that "Little One" claims it's different, and different she likes to be.

Showcase To Feature Mrs. Sherman's Work

An attractive exhibit of ceramics, paintings and jewelry will be featured in the library showcase next week. This eye-catching art work was created by Mrs. Norma Sherman, art instructor in SHS.

Last week the showcase displayed book jackets of new books now available in the library.

Carol Debnar, chairman of the handbook committee, reported the cost for publishing the five hundred copies would be $250. The handbooks are given to all freshmen and new students.

A thank-you card was received from Marilyn Schaefer for the flowers she received from the council and the Hi-Tri while she was ill.

Gift Committee Inspecting Ideas

The senior class gift committee is busily engaged looking into potential gifts for the class of '54 to present to the school.

After soliciting suggestions in senior homerooms and throughout the entire school recently, the committee narrowed the list down to approximately half a dozen possibilities.

Each member of the committee is checking on one idea, seeking pertinent information such as cost, need, specifications, etc. After all the particulars are known about each suggestion, a class meeting will be held in which the members of the committee will report on their findings.

The class will then vote on the gift. There is a possibility that more than one can be purchased, if the items are not overly expensive.

Some of the ideas currently under consideration are water fountains for the gym, new study hall dictionaries, mirrors for the rest rooms, tape recorder and slide projector, among others.

Seniors Top Honor Roll, Sophomores, Frosh, Juniors Follow; 8 Get All A's

For the second consecutive time the seniors won the honor roll derby, this time placing 26 per cent of their members on the select list.

As is normally the case at this time of the year, three of the four classes dropped from their last mark. Only the juniors increased, but their one per cent gain was not enough to pull them out of the cellar for the second straight contest.

The three underclasses waged a terrific battle for second place, with mere tenths-of-a-per cent making the difference.

The sophomores won out, bagging second place with a mark of 21.2 per cent. The freshmen were third with 21.1 per cent, while the juniors brought up the rear with an even 21 per cent.

Eight students received all A's this time, five less than in the last period. Since the final honor roll will be compiled after school is dismissed in June, the next honor roll will mark the final derby of the year.

Ye Editor Speaks

So often a student will give his reason for not attending college as a lack of financial aid. In such cases there are still opportunities which need only be taken advantage of.

Every year many scholarships are offered to high school students which are never claimed. Information concerning these are received by both the library and the QUAKER office.

To apply for these scholarships requires merely a pencil and a few minutes of your spare time. If you're a senior with lots of ambition but an empty pocket, those spare minutes might prove the most valuable minutes of your life.

The door to college is unlatched—you just need to give it a push.

“What should we get that will be most beneficial to all the students? How much should we spend?” If you hear these questions whispered in the halls, chances are you have overheard a discussion by the senior class gift committee.

Countless suggestions have been offered by the seniors who in a few weeks will have the chance to vote for the gift they wish to leave as a memento of the class of '54. Let's be thinking it over so our decision will be a wise one.

Who Would You Be?

Ever look in the mirror and think how nice it would be to be someone else—someone you've admired or even envied a wee bit? QUAKER reporter Donna Cozca got kind of curious on this subject, so she inquired of several students the person with whom they would like to change places.

What To Wear? Morning Problem Faced By Worried Weight-Gainer

By Carol Joe Byrns

Hmm... Let me see. What will I wear to school today? How about this grey skirt? Nope, that won't do, I've already worn it once this week. The blue one? Jeepers, that's positively ancient! How about the tan one? Oops, forgot about that tear. Let me think... I know! The plaid one, I haven't worn it for ages. Maybe I'd better try it on. Seems kind of tight. Maybe the zipper's caught. Nope. What could be the matter?

Oh, my gosh... I'm gaining weight! I just know it... Oh no! That couldn't be! I don't eat very much at all. Let's see... a double thick milkshake, french-fries, a cheeseburger with lettuce and tomato, and a hot fudge sundae. Nope; just couldn't possibly be what I eat!

Well, much as I hate to, I'll have to go on a diet. Now, what shouldn't I eat? Potatoes? There's baked, fried, boiled... maybe my diet shouldn't be so strenuous at first. I'd better not give up potatoes.

What next? Ice cream. Hmmm... sundaes, milkshakes, sodas and ice cream cones. Which would be the most fattening? Probably ice cream cones, 'cause you have

Dedications

With Spring having made her 1954 debut, we make the following song dedications:

To all you guys and dolls who belong to the "going steady" category, "Love Is Here to Stay" and "Make Love to Me;" to the jilted, "My Baby's Gone," "Second Hand Dreams for Sale," and "Deep Blues;" to the faculty, "Answer Me," "The Book," "Wanted," and "You Better Not Do That;" to those studes whose reports show red, "Time Will Tell" and "I Need A Little Help."

We Understand

... that Gary Moffett sang a solo in chorus the other day. It came as a surprise to everyone—including Gary.

... and that B. Talbot, B. Domencetti, and J. Roberts do a foxie rendition of a real hillbilly song.

... and that Mr. Olloman does the vocal of "Heart of My Heart" without benefit of accompaniments and dedicates it to his biology classes. We vote Mr. Olloman number one faculty songster. (He has a tenor voice which is just too, too divine.)

Record Shop

- S-ecret Love—Nation's top tune by Doris Day
O-h My Papa—Made famous by Eddie Fisher
N-o Teardrops Tonight—T. Bennett.
G-ee—The Crows

- H-ear of My Heart—Four Aces
I-Get So Lonely—Four Knights
T-hat's Amore—D. Martin
S-tranger In Paradise—T. Bennett

This week's top tune in room 312 is "Secret Love."

Everybody but Everybody

... is talking about "the James girl's" new record, "Am I In Love."

We like the new release, "Alone Too Long" by Nat King Cole, with a really cool orch arrangement.

Let's not overlook Julius La Rosa's latest recording, "Have a Heart," set to swing rhythm.

Watch these! They could move out fast.

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

By Gloria Andrews

Have you ever just missed being struck by a bolt of lightning? Well, Keith Whiteleather was and his nicknames are just as much out of the ordinary as that experience. Among them are "Whitey," "Powerhouse," "Miracles," "Ace," "Sleepy" and "Vitamin."

When "Shoelather" (another one!) is out of the main, he takes his ease in a comfortable chair, while munching potato chips, drinking a milkshake and watching Dragnet. And, of course, if he feels inspired he might indulge in his favorite pastime—writing "Magoo" stories.

If you're in the market for an unusual nickname, or even a new, revised version of "Oh My Pa-Pa," beat a path to 212, this fella's hideaway... or perhaps you might catch him in one of his classes of U. S. history and government, wood industries, health or art.

Mmm, swiss steak and gravy sounds pretty appetizing, doesn't it? And Nancy Waite is one gal who claims that it doesn't taste too bad, either. Other things that are tops with this senior lass include dancing, an exciting movie and chorus. Nancy's half-day schedule includes U. S. history and government, health and chorus. She is looking forward to doing secretarial work, and as soon as possible, becoming the owner of a new car—which incidentally, happens to be her "secret ambition."

Finding something to do after school hours is not a tough assignment for Eileen Wank. Following a day's schedule of health, U. S. history and government, dramatics and chorus, she enjoys whiling away the hours playing her piano or organ and she often baby-sits. A perfect evening to this senior lass would include a certain fiend called "homework," and include her favorite TV program, "I Love Lucy."

Although Eileen is looking forward to graduation and an exciting experience in New York City this summer, she admits that she will miss the many top-notch assemblies she's seen at SHS.

And what has the future in store for this attractive lass? Eileen plans to continue baby sitting—only on a larger scale—since she is planning a career as a worker in an orphanage.

End Of A Model 7

By Bobbie Lou Wilms

There once was a thing that was called a car. What happened to it will give you a jar. It had a new master, young and quite strong. But the car to him was assembled all wrong. So the lad decided to fix it up fine, To make it look new and really shine. The poor old car was a Model T, And of not much use to you or me. But to this boy it was a longed-for dream, The most beautiful thing he had ever seen. He worked on it constantly, day and night 'Til the Model T suited him right. On a tragic day so full of pride, He took it for its first and last ride, For alas it hopelessly went cur-plunk! And all that remained was a pile of junk!

Q.O. Contracts 'Literary Germ'

"The pen is mightier than the sword." This was the motto of a 17-page pamphlet published by the students of the Salem Institute.

Just what the Salem Institute was, no one seems to know, but evidently it was some "institute of learning" with a man named William McClain as principal.

The remarkable thing about this booklet, now fragile and brown with age, is the fact that it was published in 1852, nine years before the outbreak of the Civil War.

The book, called the "Literary Germ," contains mainly editorials on incredible subjects, such as: "The Effects of Reading," "Past, Present, and Future;" "Hope," "Death," "Affliction," "The American Indians," "Friends," and "The Mystery of Life."

Little essays on subjects ranging from "How to be Happy" to "Anti-Slavery" are contained in the Juvenile Department written by children from 11 to 14.

It is rather hard to believe that at one time Salem had 13 streets, one thousand eight hundred inhabitants, four hotels, seven tailors, nine blacksmiths, three saddlers, four carriage shops and three tanneries but an article entitled "The History of Salem" boasted these facts.

The last page advertises board and room at the Salem Institute for the enormous sum of $1.25 per week. Some strange things have happened since then, no?

The "Literary Germ" is the property of Jim Beard who kindly lent it to the occupants of the Q. O.

Teacher-Spy Reports:

Mrs. Mulbach, Jones Explore Wilds, Both 'Wild' Over Cats

By Barbara Cobourn

Childhood found two of Salem High's most popular teachers trying to outdo Lewis and Clark.

Many a weekend was spent by Mrs. Helen Mulbach hiking in the Ozark Mountains near her St. Louis home, while Herb Jones capped his exploratory expeditions by going deep into a cave with two friends, only to realize that their candle supply was practically nil and the way out unknown.

Professionally, Mr. Jones started out to be an engineer. "Then I ran out of something," says he. "Brains or money—I don't remember which."

A sports enthusiast, he is especially fond of football though he claims, "The things I've said about Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes would send me up for life."

He also states his favorite pastime as being (attention studes!) sleeping!

Mrs. Mulbach originally had the intention of becoming an art instructor, but was sidetracked along the way. Even so, she continues to pursue painting as a hobby.

Her favorite occupation, next to housekeeping, is traveling. Only last summer she took a two-month tour of Europe.

Her stay in France, longer than expected because of a strike, was particularly unusual. Going to a Shakespearean play and a Parisian opera was wonderful, she said, and so was seeing part of a movie filmed at Versailles. But more unusual yet was a visit to a casino in Deauville.

French furriers, jewelers and prominent fashion shops displayed their wares in glittering glass cases while money shifted hands continuously at nearby tables. Mrs. Mulbach resisted the urge (she was almost broke, anyhow) but claimed it was all very interesting to watch.

A strong feeling concerning cats is admitted by both her and Mr. Jones. The latter is the proud possessor of two "puddy tats," Willie and George, along with an ex-puss used to demonstrate positive and negative electrical charges to his demanding studes.

Mrs. Mulbach refers to cats as sneaky, soft-footed animals. She much prefers dogs!

From Mr. Jones we learn that before leaving for Europe, Mrs. Mulbach promised to bring back something for the feline members of his family. While in Holland she sampled smoked eels, a rare delicacy, but returned with nothing for the cats. Says Mr. Jones, "A crime! Think what a treat that would have been for Willie and George!"

Mitzie Theiss captains the hand-props committee, which is composed of Verna Mae Baker, Carol McKnight, Barbara Cobourn, Judy Fisher, Beverly Mercer, Rosalie Lisi, Peggy Martin, Joan Fester, Nancy Cosma, Marilyn Cameron, Carol McQuilkin and Gloria Colananni.

Still another important committee is the sound committee. Headed by Sally Kirkbride this group is in charge of all the sound effects for the play, such as doorbells, telephone rings and knocks on the door. Carol Schaefer, Barbara Tausch, Barbara Young, Jean Yarian and Bonnie Zimmerman comprise this committee.

These two fellows, the two full-time custodians in SHS, have a real job trying to keep this institution, consisting of some nine hundred or so wildmen, clean and warm. The boys are helped out in the evening with the part-time assistance of Russ Stallsmith, Steve Fronius and night man Rex Harris.

Charley, as everyone calls him, is married and has one boy. He began his career as a blacksmith which occupied 23 years of his life. He was then with Mullins for seven years and has been serving 16 years in this Hall of Learning.

lieves the kids now behave a lot better at games, parties, dances and the like than they used to. He added that "clean-up week" which is observed during the school year is a great help to the custodians—for that week.

When we have long gone on our vacation in the summer the fellows are just getting started with their work.

They clean the school from top to bottom, inside and out, so that pupils may enjoy school when they return in the fall—well let's say, so that they may suffer in a clean way.

They have no prominent peeves except tiny bits of paper scattered on the floor by potential snow-makers. They report that they can't remember any one happening as really outstanding since becoming involved with SHS. This is a good sign, because it's usually the bad things people remember the longest.

Certainly it is no picnic taking care of the stalls here in this zoo, and these fellows do a great job.

Unfortunately many of the folks who aim for the waste-paper baskets are not "Bevos," however, if they would be sure to "hoop," they would "score" high with Mr. Fineran and Mr. Thomas, SHS's two faithful, hard-working custodians.

Tarrmen Hold Sessions In Gym; Add 2 Meets

The Tarrmen are continuing workouts in the SHS gym this week until the weather permits outdoor practice. The squad is practicing every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Leading the team will be Captain Jerry Martin, ace Quaker miler. Other returning lettermen are Jack Alexander, high jump; John Baker, shot put; Bill Lipp, John Chester and Dave Williams, middle distance runners. Bob Sebo, Joe Hajcak and Jim Beard, sprints and hurdles.

Both Coaches Tarr and Zellers are pleased with the progress of the squad so far, although not too much can be told until the team gets outdoors.

With the addition of a meet with Niles the tentative schedule includes four dual meets, a possible triangle meet, the Canton Twi-light relays, and the county and district meets.

This will be the 51st year for the annual county cinder meet. The event will be staged at East Palestine this year. Both the Class A and B district meets have been held in Salem for many years but as yet faculty manager Fred Cope has not been notified where the meets will be held this season.

Track Captain "Iggy" Martin Hopes To Become Teacher

By Dick Oriole

It looks like spring is just around the corner with the cindermen beginning their practice under the tutelage of chemistry teacher Frank Tarr.

Jerry Martin, known to all his friends as "Iggy," was elected this year's captain by the thinclads. Iggy played quarterback on the Salem high football team but track is still his favorite sport. He specializes in the mile run. Extracurricular activities include basketball at the Memorial Building and hard ball with one of the local baseball teams during the summer.

Wes Santee, the Kansas State miler, is tops on Jerry's list, since he is trying his hardest to beat the four-minute mark in the mile. The books he carries around school are U. S. history, health, English IV and chemistry. He is president of the Varsity S Club, which he says is the only club to which he has time to belong.

At home he likes to eat chili and watch the TV program, "You Asked For It," or listen to Frankie Sinatra's latest platter, "Young at Heart." His plans after graduation include attending Kent State University, where he will major in physical education. He hopes to become a phys-ed teacher.

Iggy predicts the Quakers will finish first in the 51st annual county meet to be held at East Palestine. Still gazing into his crystal ball he predicts that the 4-minute mile will be run within three years. Iggy thinks this historic sports event will be brought about when all the great milers are brought together to compete against one another for the best time.

● THE LAST AREA cage squad to go down in tourney play was the scrappy Columbiana Clipper aggregation, which lost to undefeated Copley, 54-44, last Saturday night at the South Fieldhouse in the Class B regional finals. Joe Bassett's Niles cagers stayed in until the semi-finals of the Class A regionals at Canton when they were ousted by Canton South.

● SPEAKING OF THE STATE basketball tourney, the last Quaker roundball squad to go into the finals, then at Columbus, was the 1937 Quaker squad coached by Herb Brown. The Quakers lost to Bridgeport, 33-29, in the opening game that year. Another Quaker squad to go to state was the 1927 team coached by Wilbur Springer, former Quaker coach and toastmaster for next week's Booster Club Basketball Banquet. They fell to Toledo Waite, 27-26, in the second round of play.

● YOU CAN PROBABLY still get tickets to Thursday night's Booster Club Banquet. From what we hear it ought to be another "smash hit." Booster Club officials are expecting another capacity crowd—the second this year. Ed Diddle, coach of the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers, will be the featured speaker.
