

Board to place emergency levy, renewal before voters in November elections

On the ballot at the Nov. 3 election will be two tax levies for the benefit of the Salem City School district.

The $2.6 mill current expense levy and five-year renewal of an operating levy which has been in existence for the past five years.

The $4.5 mill emergency levy, which would run for two years, is designed to provide sufficient additional funds for current operating expense.

The additional tax will amount to an average of five or six cents a year.

The Board of Education plans the following allocation of the approximately $183,800 which the 4.5 mill levy would bring in:

1. Approximately $50,000 will be needed to remove an anticipated deficit incurred in the calendar year 1959. This was caused mainly by the additional costs of operating the new senior high school and other steadily increasing costs of operation.
2. Custodial salaries, utilities and maintenance supplies for the senior high school will require $60,000 per year.
3. An additional $12,000 will be used to purchase instructional supplies and library books for a 160-pupil increase in the student population.

4. Nearly $40,000 will be expended in 1960 for teachers' automatic salary increases, for salaries for new teachers to care for additional pupils and for increases to meet new state minimums.
5. Some building revisions and major repairs this year and next must be anticipated. The balance of the increased funds, $21,863, will be used to establish a contingency fund for such projects and emergencies.

If the levies fail, the Salem first-class school program will have to be reduced.

Y-Teens will prepare for futures

Preparing for their futures, senior Y-Teens will hear speakers on career decoration and home-making at their Oct. 28 meeting. The World Fellowship program scheduled for Nov. 11.

Seven committees have been organized to assist with programs, meetings and projects. The program committee, headed by Chairman Trina Loria, consists of Marilyn Stratton, Kathy Karnofel, Carol Meissner, Judy Schuller, Mary Mahan, Linda Heston, Karen Cope, Sally Fester, Sally Snow and Carolyn Wank.

Chairman Beverly Erath, Nancy Cope, Mickey Cope, Gloria Flemming, Helen Liebhart, Celia Oertel, Sandy Stevens make up the membership committee.

Pat Roof heads the worship committee, aided by Sandy Tuseck, Arlene Vincent, Gloria Grace, Mary Ann Petras, Karen Elliott, Irma Weber, Mary Lou Anderson, Barbara Tasker, Sandy Eyster, Helen Smith and Judy Whinnery. The service committee is composed of Marion Holloway, Ruth Scullion, Barbara Bricker, Paul Burfield, Pat Mitchell, Diane Fischer, Deloris Coy, Carol Hamm, Sandy Sneddon, Terry Juliano, Sandy Jury, Linda Schiller, Elaine Nyktas, Virginia Kelly, Gene Scheuring, Linda Kent and Chairman Janet Thomas.

The committee to revamp the club constitution is headed by Marilyn Loria and includes Carol Towne, Janet Tullis, Ginny Ross, Ev Miller, Judy Darnier and Alice Detimore.

Members of the publicity committee are Barbara Jeffries, Cathie Campbell, Penny Rist, Judy Schneider, Carolyn Sanlo, Linda Luster, Marge Hiltbrand, Sue Fisher, Sally Snyder, Carole Caplan, Eileen Holtsinger, Jeannette Davis, Barb Bricker, Karen Hayes, Marcia Hundertmark, Judy Hiltbrand and Wanda Hay-

Annual takes pix; paper plans board

With annual editors busy snapping snap-happy photographs, Quaker Weekly staff members are finishing their newswriting and setting up an editorial board. Orders for senior pictures have been completed and the finished proofs are due before Christmas. Formals and small group shots for the annual will be taken Oct.

The Quaker Weekly has elected staff members, Janet Thomas Kay Kuhl, as members of the editorial board, which will determine the paper's editorial policy.

Dr. Robert Kazmayer

Kazmayer to talk on Soviet Union

Dr. Robert Kazmayer, world traveler, publisher and business analyst, will attempt to answer questions about the Soviet Union when he speaks before SHSers at an assembly next Thursday.

He will also discuss the opportunities and responsibilities facing American education in the cold war.

Dr. Kazmayer, who has worked on industrial assembly lines in Moscow and just this past summer made an extensive tour of Russia, is regarded as one of the most sought-after authorities on business and foreign affairs available to United States audiences today.

He is sponsored by the Economic and Business Foundation and will speak at many area high schools this month.

The purpose of his talks is to give students a better understanding of the Russian people.

Money-mad musicians practice sales talk in addition to music

"Money" has become a familiar word around the SHS music department, as bandmen and choristers practice sales talks along with their marching and singing.

Begging Salemites to "shell out," bandmen will hold their annual Tag Day Oct. 30.

"Football Frolic," a casual all-school dance for the benefit of the band, will light up the cafeteria Saturday, Nov. 14, from 8:30-11:30 p.m. Del Simchak's orchestra, which kept things jumping at the After-Prom, will provide music for the Band Mothers' - sponsored event. Tickets will be sold by band members for 75 cents.

Polishing up their winning smiles, choristers canvassed the town selling magazine subscriptions. The drive ended Wednesday, with the Robed Choir having top sales at press time.

Student Council gathers steam, receives note from Greek boy

With engines open full steam, the SHS Student Council is pulling a trainload of activities.

The year's first area Student Council meeting was held Wednesday at East Liverpool. The admission of United High School and Springfield Local, a raise in dues and various projects were discussed. Salem's delegates are Dan Krichbaum, Tim Burchfield and Sally Snowball, and rotating delegate was Sally Fester. Mickey Cope is area SC prexy.

At an SHS council meeting the same evening, conventions and workshops were discussed, several committees were appointed and the election of parliamentarian was begun.

The following letter was received from a Greek boy, whose family received one of the CARE food units sent overseas by the council and student body last year:

Dear Friends,

We received your valuable presents, and we thank you very kindly. Your offer "kept us alive" because our living conditions are poor. If you wish to know the members of our family, we are five children and a mother. The father and husband was killed in the war. The name of our place is called Serras and for many years it has been a battlefield. Again we want to thank you for your consideration and may God bless and save your country forever.

Studes to tour Cleveland Bank

Seeing the bank from the inside out will be SHSers Phil Greenisen, Jim Solmen, Carolyn Wank, Vincent Taus, Dianne Tomkinson, Normadene Pim, Chuck Capen, Dave Hunter and Dick Carnahan when they go to the Federal Reserve Bank in Cleveland October 28.

As representatives of the U. S. history classes, these students will be guests of the First National Bank for the tour and lunch.

They will relate first-hand accounts of the Federal Reserve System to their classmates when they return.

take me to your leader

Outdoorsman Ed spearheads SC, Keys

"Take me to your leader." If members of the Student Council or Key Club were asked this question, they would lead the way to the same person—senior Ed Yates. Ed spearheads both of these organizations and does a commendable job.

Conventions and work occupied the main portion of Ed's time this summer. He attended Buckeye Boys' State at Ohio University and the International Key Club Convention at Toronto, Canada.

Long-legged basketball player, hurdle-runner Ed Yates leads a discussion during a Student Council meeting.

Replicas of some of the largest jewels in the world will be viewed by sophomore Y-Teens Monday, Oct. 26, when jeweler Danny Smith exhibits his collection.

Getting the low-down on the male opinion of the fairer sex, sophomores held a panel discussion, moderated by program chairman Brenda Smith at the Oct. 11 meeting.

Answering the girls' questions were Tim Burchfield, Jim Lehwald, Ken Pinkerton, Fred Stockman, Bob Eskay and Allen Ewing, the presidents and vice presidents of the senior, junior and sophomore classes.

Molly Malloy, Ginny Menning, Lonna Muntz, Nancy Skowron and Dawna Stiver presented the girls' side of the discussion.

Joyce Mallery, president of sophomore Y-Teens, and Brenda Smith arranged the program, with devotions led by Elaine Underwood.

Profs to convene

Salem students will have a holiday Friday, Oct. 30, as teachers set out for Cleveland to attend the annual NEOTA meetings.

Teachers may go to the meetings of their choice for morning and afternoon sessions. Luncheons for special groups are scheduled.

Ed's job on the maintenance crew at the high school was "lots of fun." Among other things "we spread sludge—stuff from the disposal plant—on the lawn. It wasn't a very glamorous job," he laughs.

"Anything that keeps me outside" rates high on this tall, dark senior's list of pleasures. Besides hunting and fishing he enjoys rebuilding his old '32 Ford coupe, which "has only three windows." Ed used to own a pony but had to give it up "because my legs started to drag."

Besides his duties as SC and Key Club prexy, Ed is chairman of the faith committee of his youth fellowship. Last year he was Council parliamentarian and, therefore, on the Canteen Youth Board.

Northwestern University and Dartmouth are Ed's high hopes college-wise. He likes Dartmouth because "it's a men's college and there wouldn't be any distractions."

He plans to become a city planner, which combines politics, engineering and economics and consists of mapping and charting the physical features of a city. "It's a wide field for opportunity," says Ed.

Ed likes all sports. He runs the hurdles in track, "cause I've got long legs," and plays on the SHS varsity basketball team. He thinks this year's team will be "better than last year's, but that's all the farther I'll comment."

Speakers will answer questions about careers

After high school, then what?

Attempting to answer this question, the Student Council-Hi Tri sponsored Vocations Day will be held Wednesday, Nov. 4.

Representatives of 53 different vocations will tell students of necessary qualifications, schooling, chances of success and reasons for failure.

Instead of following their regular afternoon schedules, pupils will go to three special classes in chosen areas.

The committee which has arranged for the various speakers is as follows: Ed Yates and Joyce Halverstadt, co-chairmen; Sue Ulrich, Louise Oswald, Janet Thomas, Bob Broomall, John Hanna, Carole Meissner, Pat Roof, Ray Faini, Harry Fidoe, Bob Zeppernick and Cathie Campbell.

Previously Vocations Day was held in the spring. It was changed in order to be of more benefit to the seniors.

Sydney wins second prize county cherry pie bake

Winning home laurels for Salem home economics department junior Sydney Johnson has second prize in the county cherry pie baking contest. The contest, sponsored by the Ohio Co., was held in Lisbon.

Sydney, who has taken clothing, and Home Economics III, is also in 4-H, Girl Scouts, and on the SHS band.

She entered the contest at the county fair as alternate for Kathy Fenton, county winner two years ago who won the Salem High contest but was unable to attend at Lisbon.

"It was fun," Sydney comments.

"We met some new kids and learned a lot."

Entrants using their own materials, equipment and recipes, were judged on method of preparation, recipe, quality and appearance of pie, poise, grooming, posture and ability to express themselves when answering the judges' questions.

First-place winner in the county contest will compete in Columbus for the state title.

178 again elects homeroom officer

Room 178 holds the distinction of being, for the second year, the only homeroom to elect officers.

Fred Harshman, Fred Flory and Sandy Hawkins have been elected president, vice president and treasurer, respectively. Their duties will include reading announcements, distributing notices, collecting for various drives and taking charge of homeroom business.

Senior Joyce Halverstadt will spearhead the Formaldeides Club this year. Other officers, elected at a recent meeting, are Chuck Capen, vice president; Polly

Europe-bound DE prof hunts antiques, creates clothes

Ohio State grad

By Lorraine Pardee

Being interested in people and painting, reading about travel, business and current events, and collecting antiques, Miss Lee Lestock, new DE teacher from Westlake, Ohio, develops many outside interests. She says, "I like to make clothes and do things with my hands, because it satisfies that creative urge."

During her college years at Ohio State, where she did her undergraduate study, Miss Lestock was vice-president of the Student Senate, Homecoming Chairman '58, and president of her sorority. She was also elected Most Outstanding Senior Woman. Perhaps all these honors tie in with her secret to success: "Not doing what one likes, but liking what one must do."

Leading this life of many interests, Miss Lestock says, "I believe that people should participate in many activities to develop personalities and broaden viewpoints and interests, because the human element is taken out of life if a person lives within boundaries and neglects these."

A junk-store browser, she has purchased many antiques and pieces of old furniture, such as an old coffee table, which she painted gold to liven her apartment.

Travel dreams, now satisfied only by books, will materialize as she tours Europe next summer.

Her own "goal in help" is "to become the best person it is possible for me to become, so that I can help others become the best people it is possible for them to become."

Brucemen to battle Wellsville, Boardman

Bengals' record 3-1-1; Spartans here Oct. 29

Coach Earle Bruce takes his Quaker contingent to Wellsville this evening, trying for the 16th consecutive victory a Salem squad has inflicted upon the Orange and Black.

With only seven lettermen returning from last year's squad, the Bengals depend heavily on the running of senior co-captain Jim Stevens. The other veteran co-captain, Bob Brown, playing right end, has been the favorite target of Wellsville's two passing quarterbacks Bob Kiggans and Ray Ours.

Brown, the team's leading punter, has kept the Bengal opponents deep in their own territory with several booming kicks of over 43 yards per try.

The Ken Woods-coached outfit enters the battle with a 3-1-1 record, notching victories over Chester W. Va. and Wheeling Central Catholic, and South Side, Pa., while losing to Toronto and tying Leontonia.

Next Thursday night the Salem-ites battle the injury-plagued Boardman Spartans who come into the fray with two victories and three defeats.

Both Maroon and White co-captains, center Tony Blance and end Ed Munniman, are currently on the injured list, with Munniman out for the season. Blance is expected to see action in the Quaker game.

"Don't be surprised," stated Spartan Coach Jerry Thorpe, "if we start a line-up composed entirely of underclassmen. Many of our veterans are injured and we must give these young boys some valuable game experience."

Coach Thorpe has been forced to change his offense to the swing T which features the shifty running of halfback Mike Lagaras.

In the last meeting between the two grid squads the Quakers emerged on the top end of a 48-6 score.

Fem Features

By Gail and Polly

Attention, gals! Do you want the lowdown on the feminine sports world of SHS? If so keep your eyes peeled for this column. We will try to keep you up-to-date on all the happenings of all the sports-minded females.

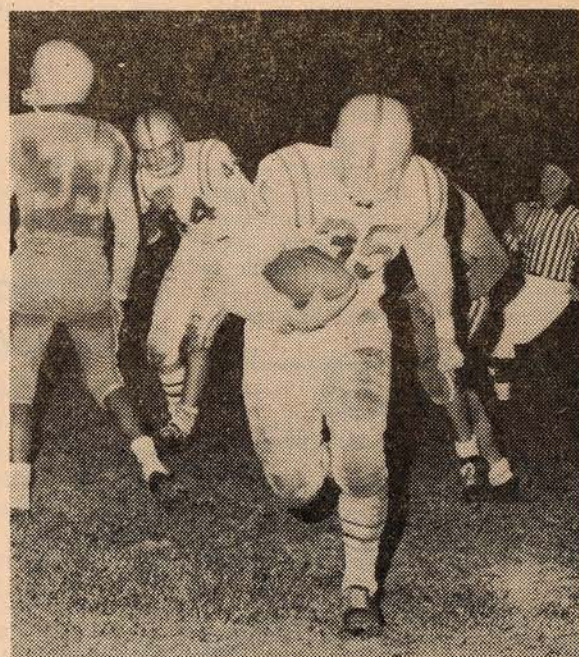

★ If you hear screams and screeches from the gym on Thursday, don't panic. It's only the GAA playing speedball. Basketball, tumbling and volleyball are on the agenda for the future.

★ The officers for this year are Nancy McQuiston, president; Sandy Hanna, vice president; Polly Begalla, secretary; Dianne Mackey, treasurer.

★ To earn money for future activities the girls are selling Christmas cards and will sell ribbon candy.

★ One! Two! Three! Four! Toe touches, knee bends, and stretches bring moans, groans, and sore muscles. Calisthenics, nevertheless, are a must for the females (got to keep those figures trim).

Jarrin' Pete belts foes, fulfills fullback tradition

Bruisin' Pete is on his way, as a successful fake bewilders the opposition.

By Jay Albright

Salem, in the last several years, has had almost a tradition for outstanding fullbacks - first, Henry Maxim, then Lou Slaby - and this year's edition, Powell Schmauch, is no exception.

The husky, 185-pounder leads his team in yards gained by rushing with an impressive 567 or an average of 6.4 yards per carry. Pete says, "Coach Bruce told me I would probably be the workhorse on offense. I was glad to hear that because I enjoy playing offense more than defense."

Comparing two past Salem opponents, Schmauch says, "Akron Hoban was better man for man on defense, while Ambridge had several outstanding players. On offense, Hoban had a passing team, while Ambridge was a greater running team."

As for future action, the fullback states, "East Liverpool will probably be our toughest contest. Their 14-13 upset over Warren was no accident. Wellsville may be tougher than expected too."

Presently his scholastic interests are held down by Algebra II, physics, speech and health.

This past summer he did some construction work, then went to summer camp. As football season neared, Powell started working out with calisthenics and running laps.

Last year his biggest thrill was the Youngstown East game when the Quakers trailed 18-0 at half-time, held the Golden Bears scoreless in the second frame and went on to win 19-18.

His father, who is president of the Boosters Club, claims, "All his life Powell has held an interest for sports, but he is beginning to think seriously about a career in engineering." Mr. Schmauch states, "As far as league titles go, Pete has never been on a losing baseball team!" Let's hope it's that way with football.

Quakers crossed by Bridgers, upend undefeated Akron eleven

Last Friday night the Salem Quakers held their opponents scoreless for the fourth time in five outings by shading previously unbeaten Akron Hoban 6-0 in a contest packed with excitement until the final gun.

Senior right halfback Fred Philis accounted for the only touchdown of the evening on a six-yard jaunt over left tackle with only eleven seconds remaining in the first half.

This contest, more than any thus far, was a true team effort. Every griddier in the SHS lineup had his share in the victory. Junior guard Fred Harshman had a field day in the Hoban backfield, picking up seven tackles. Linebackers Ned Chappell and Ron Janovec accounted for 16 jarring tackles between them.

Tackle Joe Julian recovered two Knight fumbles, the latter stopping an Akron drive on the 11-yard line of the Quakers. Chuck Metcalf, Tony Petrucci and Tom Dahms played steadily on the line.

The spectacular passing of Knight quarterback Dan Leonard, who completed 13 of 29 aeriels, kept the Akronites consistently threatening throughout the game.

A combination of Ambridge fullback Len Chaeverini, who outgained the entire Salem team on the ground, and four costly fumbles paved the way to a 14-0 Bridger triumph over the Brucemen Oct. 9 at Ambridge.

The defensive play and pass-receiving of six-foot, four-inch end Don Davidson helped keep the Salemites in the game. Quarterback Vince Horning completed six of 11 passes for 94 yards in a losing cause.

Sport Specials

By Tony Everett

How about that Key Club? They labored for two weeks in dead secrecy to erect one of the best examples of SHS school spirit shown in Quakertown in many a year - a 20-foot replica of symbolic "Sam the Quakerman."

Unveiled last week at the Hoban game, "Sam" was an immediate hit with the kids and oldsters alike when they first viewed his immense stature. "Sam's" legs, being over seven feet high, serve as an excellent gateway for the grid-ders to run through as they are introduced. Club prexy Ed Yates says "Sam" will be used in the same manner at basketball games.

The replica was constructed in the garage of the Key Club treasurer Dee Smith, with Jack Patterson, Ken Pinkerton, Tom Dahms, Ed Enemark, Ed Yates, Dan Krichbaum, Tony Everett and Richard Burt aiding in its creation.

Roundball mentor John Cabas journeys to Columbus today to speak before the Ohio High School Coaches Association. Over 3,000 coaches are expected to attend.

Varsity footballers visited Buckeye Stadium last Saturday to see Ohio State upset Purdue 15-0. The Booster Club sponsored the trip as they have in past years. These journeys are looked forward to by the coaches, as well as by the boys.

The Quakers foe on November 6, the East Liverpool Potters, made headlines all over Ohio as they upended the state's second-ranked power, Warren Harding 14-13.

Lou Slaby, the Quakers' 211-pound scholastic All American fullback of 1958, is currently starring in his favorite position with the Pitt University frosh. Lots of luck, Lou!

Quaker photog Dave Rice found himself beneath 400 pounds of frustrated footballers last week when he ventured a bit too close to the action. Dave yelled, "I'm only worth 98 cents but PULEASE don't mess up my camera!" Cheer up, Dave, it's all in the line of duty.

Paced by the running of fullback Jim Goodballet and halfback Chuck Hertel, the Jayvees have chalked up three straight victories.
