

Council hears Leigh, plans area SC meeting

Mr. Ronald Leigh explained the purposes and background of SAIDC to Student Council members at the last meeting, when tax stamp and Christmas committees were appointed. The Area Student Council will meet Dec. 10.

Leigh described some of the area SC's past accomplishments and some plans for the future. The council will decide later whether to purchase a share of stock in the corporation. Mr. Leigh may talk to the whole student body on Christmas.

Delegates from the SHS council and several other Columbiana county schools will meet in East Palestine next Thursday.

The area SC representatives will discuss money-making plans and the committee will report on projects affecting the whole county. Several amendments to the constitution will be discussed.

Representatives from Beaver and Springfield Local high schools have been invited to attend the meeting and join the council.

Salem High SC prexy Ed Yates has named the Christmas decorating committee, comprised of Ruth McCormick and Brenda Smith, co-chairmen; Polly Begalla, Tony Chitea, Jan Kaiser and Bob Zepernick.

Students will be hoarding tax stamps during Christmas vacation for the drive which begins in January.

On the tax stamp committee are Carole Meissner and Ronnie Wright, co-chairmen; Nancy Boyd, Tim Burchfield, Dick Citino and Don Maloney.

Classes pick people with personality as Quaker Royalty candidates

Picking the people with personality, friendliness and the ability to get along with others, the classes have chosen their Quaker King and Queen candidates.

Sally Fester and Jim Lehwald will represent the seniors; Carolyn Gordon and Fred Stockman, the juniors, and Bob Eskay and Brenda Smith, the sophomores.

Candidates were chosen by secret ballot this week. Final choice of the King and Queen will be made later and the royalty will be revealed at the Quaker recognition assembly in the spring.

Pert and peppy Sally Fester is a varsity cheerleader and football queen. She is on the Student Council, in Y-Teens and Hi-Tri, and was a Queen candidate and class secretary her sophomore year.

Senior class vice-president Jim Lehwald is a varsity cage and track star and is a former SC member.

Three-time Queen candidate Carolyn Gordon was her class's choice as a freshman and sophomore. Friendly and modest Carolyn is a member of Y-Teens and Pep Club.

Junior class veeper Fred Stockman was also a king candidate as a freshman and is in Key Club.

Brenda Smith is sophomore Y-Teen program chairman and secretary of her class. She plays piano and is in Junior Music Club.

Varsity roundballer Bob Eskay is president of his class and on the Student Council.

Yuletide carols

Choruses to sing songs

Sacred and secular selections will welcome the Yuletide season as the SHS choirs present their annual Christmas Vesper Service December 13 at 3:30 p. m. in the Salem Jr. High auditorium.

The Robed Choir will perform a group of sacred songs, including "Let All the Nations," "Christmas Roundelay," "Carol of the Drum," "Mary Had a Baby," "Fum, Fum, Fum" and "The Shepherds' Story."

On the secular side of the program are "Jingle Bells," "Winter Wonderland," "Silver Bells," "Christmas Song," "'Cause It's Christmas" and "'Twas the Night Before Christmas."

"In Bethlehem's Lowly Manger," with a solo part by Tina Renaldo, and "Christmas Medley," a collection of seven traditional carols, will be presented by the Girls Chorus. The Mixed Chorus will offer an anthem, "Noel, Noel," "A Round for Christmas" and "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen."

Also on the agenda for Robed Choristers is a program for the Kiwanis Club luncheon Thursday, Dec. 17. An assembly previewing the vesper service will be held Dec. 16.

16 gals take Betty Crocker home ec test

With their dreams for the future in mind, 16 SHS seniors took the Betty Crocker Homemaking Knowledge and Attitude test this week.

Carol Arfman, Mary Callahan, Patt Duke, Karen Elliott, Karen Groves, Marion Holloway, Kathy Hrovatic, Barbara Bricker, Sylvia Johnston, Sandra Jury, Kathy Karnofel, Jeannette Koons, Jeanette Lewis, Elaine Nyktas, Penny Jo Rist and Janet Tullis participated in the exam.

Results will determine Salem High's Homemaker of Tomorrow, who will receive a pin and be considered for the state title. The state award winner will be given a $1500 scholarship, an expense-paid tour of New York City, Colonial Williamsburg and Washington, D.C., and a chance to be selected as All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Every girl taking the test will gain a keener appreciation of problems she will face as a homemaker and a desire for greater knowledge of how to solve them.

Seniors to take College Board tests; juniors will practice exam for future

College Boards!

These are two magic words in the vocabularies of many colleged-bound juniors and seniors.

About 45 Salem High seniors will travel to Lisbon or Youngstown tomorrow to take the College Board exams, while several juniors will check their brains on the exams in spring for practice.

An aptitude test and various achievement tests are given by the College Entrance Examination Board.

The three-hour scholastic aptitude test is given in the morning.

Annual writers will begin race against deadlines.

Knocking down to begin the race against deadlines, additional writers have been chosen for the Quaker Annual staff.

Copy Editor Sally Snowball will supervise writers Tim Burchfield, Hanna, Pinckney Hall, Diane Scher, Dianne Tomkinson, Bob Jeffries, Polly Schmid and McNeal, who are now polishing their styles through practice assignments.

Annual co-editors Linda Heston and Polly Jones are assigning writers for the sports section, the production and the senior section collecting and cropping pictures galore.

A committee headed by John Hanna has been chosen to collect lists of seniors' activities. Lists will be taken in home rooms December 8.

Senior writers will receive club charter, pins at Kiwanis-sponsored banquet.

With spotlights on distinguished speakers, Salem High Key Club received the charter for their annual at a Kiwanis banquet Thursday evening at the Memorial dining.

Most prominent speaker, Art Henderson, Kiwanis International Chairman of Key Clubs, brought the "charter-party" to a close.

Opening the program was the production of the 26 Key Clubbers by parents by Tony Everett and introduction of guests by Atty.

Mauro, chairman of Kiwanis Division 19. Ed Yates, club prexy, welcomed everyone to all, and Mr. George Jones, SHS principal and Kiwanian, welcomed the club members.

Salem High. Mr. Owen Naragon, president of the Salem Kiwanis Club, was emcee.

Presentation of the charter to Ed Yates was performed by Dr. Harold Carbin, district chairman of Key Club International. Dr. George Jones from Salem presented membership pins.

The "Short Airs," a barbershop quartet, provided entertainment. District Key Club officers and members from the Warren, Canfield, Lisbon and East Liverpool clubs were present.

Mr. Frank Tarr is faculty adviser of the SHS Key Club. Dr. George Jones, Mr. Charter Merrill and Mr. Ralph Martin comprise the Salem Kiwanis Committee on Key Clubs.

and is required by many colleges and scholarship-awarding groups. It costs six dollars and includes verbal and mathematics sections.

Achievement tests in English, social studies, intermediate and advanced math, biology, chemistry, physics, French, German, Latin, Spanish, Greek and Italian are offered in the afternoon. Only three may be taken on one test date at a total cost of nine dollars.

More information and application blanks are available in the deans' offices.

College Board scores are sent to three colleges or scholarship sponsors for free and to additional groups at a cost of one dollar each. The high school counselors receive the reports and notify the students.

Opinions vary on the advisability of taking the exams for practice as a junior, although most students agree that it is helpful. The following opinions were offered by seniors who took the test last year:

Pam Chentow -- "Yes, it was a help. You gain speed, but I'm more afraid of taking them this year, because I know I have to do well this time."

Pinckney Hall -- "I think it gives you more confidence."

Dave Perrott -- "I found several weaknesses and did some extra studying. I'd recommend it to any junior who's planning to further his education."

Operation Dodge analyzes typical trombonist

By Lorraine Pardee

Operation Dodge: An analysis of a typical, well-rounded male.

Data on Present:

At times this male walks with the Princeton haircut can be found exercising presidential authority as prexy of the band and Jr. Music Study Club.

Monday nights he rehearses with the American Legion Band.

Fridays he's "goofin' off" at the canteen or listening to records at home. He's in love with progressive jazz.

Carrying a full load of English IV, physics, Algebra II, health and band, he can be found working hard on homework on school nights.

Data on Future:

Providing music for basketball lovers as a "Madhatter," he will be heard playing his trombone during intermissions.

After high school Bob plans to "take to the air" and join the Air Force Band; then it's off to college.

Data on Past:

"Playing with better musicians" this summer at the Ohio State Fair in the All Ohio Boys' Band, devilish Bob "tried to get into trouble." Bob explained, "There's a whole wing of girls on the other side! It's really a panic!"

Being too embarrassed to tell about his most embarrassing moment reveals a lot about this ruddy complected senior.

Modest but talented, Bob has proved himself as a fine musician by capturing the Marie Burns Award and by receiving superior ratings at solo contests.

His desire to play the trombone began in "fourth or fifth grade, when some kid from Conneaut came down and played "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" on the trombone. He really knocked me out, so I decided that's what I wanted to play."

Operation Complete!

Wanda designated scout alternate

SHS senior Wanda Hayes has been named by New York Girl Scout headquarters as an alternate to the White House Conference on Children and Youth to be held in Washington, March 27 - April 2.

Ten students will represent the scouts at the conference and many other organizations will send delegates.

TROMBONIST BOB DODGE returns his horn to its case, after blowing golden notes during a band practice period.

Things pop at YWCA as Y-Teens plan activities

Things are really popping at the Y building this season. To begin Salem High's basketball season with a bang, a "Basketball Hop" will be held Saturday, Dec. 12. Guys and girls present will dance to records donated by Fred Ackerman and music provided by "The Rumbletones," a rock and roll combo.

The Y-Teens-sponsored dance is open to all and casual clothing is desired.

December 6 will find the sophomore, junior and senior girls preparing the YWCA for the coming Christmas holidays. Hanging greens and bright decorations will keep many Y-Teens' hands occupied.

Also on the agenda of Christmas activities, the Junior Y-Teens will present a program which will deal with the making of Christmas candles and the wrapping of presents. The seniors will have a similar meeting at a later date.

Club adviser Mrs. Doris Cope and Senior Y-Teen prexy Dianne Tomkinson will be business manager and teenage business manager, respectively, for the state conference in June.

They will plan the budget, take charge of registration, make dorm reservations with Ohio Wesleyan and determine the number of delegates each association can send.

The steering committee for the conference, comprised of five other adults and five students from area Y-Teen groups, will meet Saturday and Sunday at the Salem YW.

A Christmas dance and party is being planned by the Sophomore Y-Teens, but a definite date has not been set. At a future meeting a few of the sophomore girls will have their hair styles changed by Mrs. Lawrence Kaercher, local beautician.

Judo lessons will be on the program this evening in the Junior High gym for all Junior Y-Teens.

The girls had charge of the coat check during the basketball preview. This money will be given the YW building fund and in turn will be used to buy records for the hi-fi which was donated by Mr. Russell Jones.

Ed. Note: The following story is the second in a series of articles on Salem and its youth program. More of the city's service clubs will be described later.

Youth Center, dances, bonfires, Junior Baseball League and trips to Boys' and Girls' State—these things, all made possible by groups of interested adults, are part of the lives of Salem teenagers.

Financing eye operations and glasses for young people when help is needed is one of the main functions of the Lions Club, which also furnished the lights at the Memorial Park skating pond. The club sends delegates to Buckeye Boys' State, chaperones junior high dances at the Memorial Building and supports the local CAP unit, YWCA, Boy Scouts and SHS band.

Besides maintaining the always-jumpin' Youth Center, the Rotary Club, another service organization, gives aid to crippled children and sends a boy to Boys' State. Kiwanis Club sponsors the SHS Key Club and a Boys' State delegate. Rock and roll dances after the football games are the Elks Club's best-known contributions. An annual Christmas party for underprivileged children, a Boy Scout troop, and the Elks' Scholarship Fund round out their youth program.

Salem's active American Legion post sponsors an essay contest for high school students, a Junior Baseball League team, prizes for outstanding eighth-grade students and a trip to Boys' State each year, while the Legion Auxiliary supplies the public, senior high and junior high libraries with copies of the Ohio Digest, a handbook on Ohio's state government, and sends girls to Buckeye Girls' State.

The city's Business and Professional Women's organization aids teenage girls by sponsoring Girls' State delegates and supporting the YWCA. Quota Club, a women's group, lends a helping hand with student loans and the Quota Scholarship Fund, and shows interest in speech and hearing by supporting the Youngstown Hearing Center.

A real boost is given the high school athletic program through the Boosters' Club, which finances special banquets, dinners and trips to major league games for the teams.

Pep rallies, bonfires, fireworks after touchdowns, football programs and trophies are sponsored by the Boosters, who also have helped with radio and television publicity for the teams and purchased the Reilly Field scoreboard and a whirlpool bath for treatment of injuries.

Raising money for band uniforms and trips, the Band Mothers Club has sponsored a dance and an annual tag day. Parties for band members after football games were a new project this year. Likewise, the Choir Parents organization holds rummage sales and tag days to pay for transportation, awards and upkeep of the choir robes.

Youth Week, when high school students take over city offices, is sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. A tennis tournament and a basketball trophy for the Most Valuable Player are other Jaycee youth projects.

Through the active interest of these civic and service organizations Salem's children grow up as busy, happy youth, not juvenile delinquents.

Salem offers scholarship loans

The Salem Community Scholarship Association, which provides financial aid for worthy upperclass college students, has received a total of $1500 in the current fund-raising drive.

This is $500 less than the amount collected last year.

The association's biennial membership meeting will be held next Friday in the trades wing of the high school. Officers will be elected.

Loans are granted by the organization to local students who, because of financial problems, find that they may not be able to finish college. The boy or girl who receives the loan is to pay it back as soon as he or she is financially able.

Atty. Guy J. Mauro is president of the group; Mr. George Perrault, vice-president; Mr. L. H. Colley, treasurer, and Mr. R. J. Himmelspach, secretary.

Mr. Holland Cameron is chairman of the approval committee. Donations will be accepted at any time.

Polyhedrons invade solid classes

meets snowman

By Larry Whinnery

Seen any nice polyhedrons lately? If you haven't, why not visit math prof Miss Martha McCready in 178 and take a peek at her collection. She has over a hundred all together.

The models were constructed by solid geometry studes as they took up the study of polyhedrons (a solid, completely bounded by planes).

She asked that each student make two models and "decorate" them in some way. Her wish was not unanswered last month, when "one of the most unusual" collections was assembled along 178's window ledge.

A four-and-a-half-foot snowman, that sings very much like Charlie Weaver, was assembled by Pinckney Hall, Vincent Taus and John Hanna. They used three icosahedrons, a cube and a record player in their construction.

Pat Kaercher and Marilyn Fenton glued their models together in the form of a pink elephant, while Cathie Campbell's took the shape of a cat.

Many others came with sparkles, bright colors, playing cards, cartoons, funny faces, rabbit fur and other individualistic stylings.

Pat Kaercher and Marilyn Fenton, co-designers of the geometric pink elephant in the foreground, get fresh with a "solid" snowman made of icosahedrons.

Male quartet will highlight concert series

Displaying a combination of "extraordinary vocal ability and special creative and performing genius," the Chanticleers, a male quartet, will present the second of this season's Community Concerts programs Monday, Dec. 7, in the junior high auditorium.

The quartet, composed of tenors William Diard and Richard Wright, baritone Raymond Keast and bass James Martindale, is making its sixth coast-to-coast concert tour. Unusual versatility, artistic musicianship and brilliant staging highlight the group's recitals.

The Community Concerts Association of Northern Columbiana County brings to Salem each year a series of musical programs by well-known artists, scheduled through the Columbia Artists Management in New York.

Driver education classes hear discussions on related fields

Driver education classes were hosts this past week to three speakers who discussed cars, safety, insurance and gasoline.

Patrolman James Wattleworth of the State Highway Patrol gave a talk Wednesday about rules and regulations concerning the highway and driving.

To make his semi-annual visit more descriptive and realistic Patrolman Wattleworth showed films of several accidents and then discussed accident prevention.

Today Mr. Richard Densmore from the Nationwide Insurance Co. explained insurance rates, what the insurance covers and how accident rates affect the difference in insurance costs.

Gasoline was the subject of a Sohio Gas Co. representative, who told Mr. Earle Bruce's classes yesterday how the gasoline and oil are obtained, refined and graded, and how the different grades of gas and oil do different types of work.

Hopscotching the Halls for Headlines

DES DECORATE

The holiday rush is keeping distributive education studes busy, as they work extra hours for Christmas.

The DEs sent the season's best to the merchants by decorating the windows of the Santa Claus shanty downtown. The three-dimensional art works, which are done in perspective, depict a fireplace scene and Santa going down the chimney.

After ice-skating Dec. 16 at Jack Schragg's house, the club members will go to Gene Sechler's for a party.

Milton Stark is club president; Bruce Capel, vice president; Karen Berg, secretary, and Gary Schnorrenberg, treasurer. Parliamentarian will be Gene Sechler, while Loretta Jean and DeEarla Ritchie will keep the scrapbook up to date.

LATINS ELECT

Latin Club officers were chosen earlier this year. Tom Hone is prexy of Sodalitas Latina; Polly Begalla, vice president; Becky Snowball, secretary, and Susan Fisher, treasurer.

HI TRI SELLS

Newly initiated Hi Tri gals are being put to work as they, along with the older Hi Triers, sell Salem High stationery.

The note paper is inscribed with an etching of SHS.

Trina Loria and Pat Roof sang for the initiation November 24 and head majorette Linda Heston whirled a fire-lighted baton.

BAND SELECTS PREXY

Elected president of the bandmen has been Bob Dodge. Other officers are vice president, Ricky Eckstein; secretary, Lorraine Pardee, and librarians, Lois Weirick and Bonnie Bartholow.

PTA STUDIES CURRICULUM

The curriculum of SHS will be explained to parents when the PTA convenes December 8. Chairmen of each specific field will explain fully the function of that field. A question and answer period will follow.

CERAMIC ENGINEER SPEAKS

Mr. Harry Barker, a registered ceramic engineer, spoke to solid geometry students Tuesday on careers in ceramics.

He explained that this is one of the oldest industries and involves "more than just the pottery or enameling fields."

There were eight jobs available per graduate last year and the average starting salary for a ceramic engineer with a bachelor degree was $6400 a year.

Letters to editor Quakers comment on Queen

Editor's Note: The Quaker welcomes letters and comments from students. These may be given to any reporter or editor in the Quaker Office.

Editor,
In the last issue of the QUAKER, Dave Rice asked why Salem High should have a basketball queen. I have an answer to his question. Cheerleaders have been disorganized since the school began. Last week we had Ludwig's okay on the idea. The plans are now under way. The queen will reign as Salem's "Sweetheart" during the '60 basketball season. We think our team rates a basketball queen, too!

Varsity Cheerleaders

on happenings around SHS.

An Interested Junior

Editor's Note:

At the beginning of the year we decided that we would not resume the QUAKER news programs unless enough students were interested. So far, only one person has mentioned the broadcasts and we can't disturb the rest of the 700 for that one. We are also publishing four six-page issues this year, which has never been done before.

Editor,
Should we have a basketball queen? Dave Rice's argument in the last QUAKER seems to be because other schools do it. We should do something just because our school has done it. We have a wonderful basketball team, but we already have a Queen and a Quaker. Wouldn't another queen detract from these?

Head of a basketball queen to get behind the team 100 per cent support them all the way!

A Senior

Editor,
It has happened to the QUAKER system news broadcasts? Are I'm not the only student who misses these programs. Since the QUAKER is biweekly, the program keep students up to date

Deans' offices collect information on scholarships, ceramic engineers

The deans' offices are the headquarters for college-and-career-minded SHSers.

Information on General Motors scholarships, engineering requirements at Ohio State University and careers in ceramic engineering is available.

GM SCHOLARSHIPS

The General Motors Program of Financial Support for Higher Education offers scholarships ranging from $200 to $2000 to qualified seniors. GM has two scholarship programs.

The National Plan requires that the student take the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test on either December 5 or January 9. Approximately 100 awards are available.

Under the College Plan the student applies directly to the college of his choice before January 9. A list of the colleges participating in this program, which awards 304 four-year scholarships, may be obtained in the deans' offices.

ENGINEERING AT OSU

Changes in the engineering program at Ohio State University provide more flexibility.

The pre-engineering curriculum has been made more general with work in the humanities, social studies and English required in addition to engineering subjects.

Students may go directly into the pre-engineering division at Ohio State, or may take a similar program in a liberal arts college and then transfer to OSU.

CERAMIC ENGINEERING

There is a great demand for ceramic engineers according to information received from OSU by Asst. Supt. John Callahan. The eight members of the Ohio State graduating class who are ceramic engineers have been approached by over 30 companies and opportunity for advancement is great. Additional information is available.

Picture contest to offer prizes

Scholarships to the New York Institute of Photography and cash prizes are being offered to the winners of the 1960 Scholastic-Ansco Photography Awards.

Students in grades seven through 12 may compete for cash prizes given for individual pictures, while scholarship entries, open to senior high students, will be judged on the basis of a portfolio of photos.

The contest is sponsored by Scholastic Magazines with the makers of Ansco film and Sylvania flashbulbs. Additional information may be obtained in the Quaker Office.

- (c) courses in education institution
- (d) production problems
- (e) obtaining information (and the information topic is to be underlined)

How fortunate we are that we needn't go through all this "Red" tape just to borrow a book.

Faculty meets, studies curriculum

Taking a critical look at themselves, the junior high and senior high faculties are currently holding departmental meetings.

To devise curriculum guides which will define the content, scope and sequence in all courses of study is the main objective of the conferences.

These guides are being formulated according to a requirement by the State Department of Education to have on file lists of subject matter for each curriculum area offered in secondary schools.

Phillis, Julian, Dahms receive awards at grid banquet; Hayes lauds team

"When Salem High School football fans want to honor their team, they really go all out," was a comment made by an exuberant patron of the annual Boosters Club banquet staged last Tuesday evening at the Memorial Building.

An estimated 360 football fans of all ages and sizes gathered to pay tribute to one of the most successful Quaker grid outfits in 50 years. When Coach Earle Bruce was introduced he was greeted with a momentous standing ovation by an enthusiastic crowd.

Halfback Fred Phillis and tackle Joe Julian were presented with the Salem News award for the Most Valuable Player. This is the first time in the poll's brief three-year history that there has been a deadlock in the voting. As Coach Bruce has stated, "It was harder than usual for the boys to pick a most valuable player this year, because of the solid team effort displayed by everyone."

Joe Julian received his second trophy of the evening when he was presented with the Boosters Club award for the Most Valuable Line-man.

Receiving the 18th annual Knights of Columbus trophy for the senior who has played four years and attained the highest scholastic average was center Tom Dahms.

Fred Phillis and Ned Chappell, co-captains of 1959, announced the 1960 field captains. They are 6-4 end Don Davidson, a unanimous All-County selection, and cracker-jack guard Fred Harshman. All senior football players received small gold footballs from the Boosters Club.

Climaxing an already eventful evening was the after-dinner address by popular Ohio State University grid mentor Woody Hayes. The Buckeye coach lauded the Quakers' defensive machine. "To have a good football team, have a good defense," he advised.

Hayes said OSU gridders must also excel scholastically. "An Ohio State football player must be outstanding in the classroom, as well as on the gridiron."

Cagers cop 2 in 1st preview

Quaker roundballers copped two victories last Saturday night in the first basketball preview held in the spacious SHS gymnasium.

The teams engaging in the four abbreviated contests, Kent Roosevelt, Cuyahoga Falls, Massillon and Salem, are expected to be among the finest basketball outfits in northeastern Ohio this year.

Salem outpointed Cuyahoga Falls 20-16 in their first outing and in the last game of the evening downed the Massillon Tigers 15-11. In the other eight-minute contests Kent Roosevelt tied Massillon 13-13 and Cuyahoga Falls outpointed Kent 24-14.

The John Cabas-coached Quakers open their regular season schedule on Friday, Dec. 18, at home against the Clippers from Columbiana.

All-County dream team boasts 4 Brucemen in starting eleven

In the first All-County football selections in several years the Salem Quakers, Ohio's eighth-ranked grid power, placed four members on the starting eleven. Eleven head coaches and three sportswriters took part in the poll.

Don Davidson, the Quakers' 185-pound junior end, was a unanimous selection for the dream team, along with quarterback Bob Mackall of the East Liverpool Potters. The pair were named honorary co-captains of the Columbiana County All-Star grid contingent.

Other Brucemen placed on the first team were fullback Pete Schmauch, halfback Fred Phillis and tackle Ned Chappell. Salem also put tackle Joe Julian on the second team and quarterback Vince Horning and guard Fred Harshman on the third eleven. Center Tom Dahms received an honorable mention.

Coaches were permitted to nominate only players from their own teams for the All-County laurels.

Lou Venditti, coach of the East Liverpool Potters, was heard to remark that Ned Chappell and Don Davidson could very well be the Dave Melling-er, John Stanton, Fred Harshman, Fred Flory, Jim Steel and Dennis Prokupek of Mr. Miller's fifth period gym class clash in a game of "Wilt Chamberlain" basketball.

Equipment delay no snag to tumbling boy gymsters

By Gordy Scullion

Boys in the most precarious positions are being seen by those who visited gym classes in the last few weeks. Some boys have been seen walking about on their hands and others turning back-flips over the back of a partner. It is not uncommon to see a boy leaning against one of the backboards or looking down a basket.

Of course, he is standing on someone's shoulders.

Boys' gym teacher Robert Miller has quite a schedule lined up for his students. Because of the lack of mats the tumbling and wrestling programs planned will not be as complete as hoped. Mats were ordered last March, but because of a long delay in their delivery this order has been canceled and a new order of the Hensilite type mats has been made.

If enough interest prevails an advanced tumbling session will be held after school when the mats arrive.

Other activities to be seen during the year will be basketball, volley ball, golf, soccer, archery and softball. This will round out a very full year of all sports and gymnastics.

Sport Specials

By Tony Everett

In the final listing of the Associated Press poll of sportscasters and writers the Quakers landed in the number eight position among the state's grid powers. This is the most elevated ranking a Salem football team has tucked away in the 13-year history of the poll.

Massillon's Tigers, the powerhouse of Stark County, won the mythical state crown for the eighth time, while East Liverpool, as a result of their 20-0 defeat by the Quakers, plummeted to the 21st spot.

Although eight Red and Black gridders found spots on the All-County team this year, the following players, Tony Petrucci, Bob Lambert, Chuck Metcalf, Frank Copacia and Chuck Horn, certainly were not dead weights to the Quakers. These boys, all seniors, were also directly responsible for the lofty state ranking of Salem High School.

Football mentor Earle Bruce has been named by county football coaches to be at the helm of the Columbiana County All-Stars in their game with stars from Beaver Valley, Pa., August 6 in East Liverpool.

Well, the inevitable has finally come to pass. Last Friday night the powerful Cleveland East Tech Scarabs found themselves on the short end of a basketball score for the first time in 51 games. Col-linwood High was the outfit that administered a 49-40 defeat to the Joe Howell-coached Brown and Gold.

East Tech, as Quaker fans well know and remember, is the squad that squelched the Salemites' hope of a state championship last year in the final tilt of the Columbus tourney.

Sandy Lee Wilt recently blasted the maples for a robust 199 score in the high school girls bowling league at Timberlanes. Barb Sanders rolled 148 and Judy Menning notched a 143 count.

After watching the Cabasmen in action at the preview last Saturday it appears that the Quaker quintet might not be as potent in rebounding as they were last year. Both of last year's shot retrievers, Lou Slaby and Clyde Marks, have been lost in graduation and it is pretty hard to come up with another rugged pair of rebounders.

However, don't sell the Quakers short in this department. There are still two weeks remaining before the first game and 6-4 Don Davidson and 6-5 Rick Theiss certainly will not sit on their hands during this period.

Dave Hunter and Dan Krichbaum, regarded by many as the finest pair of backcourt men in the state, together with Jim Lehwald, lead a fine fast-breaking offensive machine.
