

Faculty gains 2 instructors, new librarian

Two new teachers and a librarian have been added to the faculty of Salem Senior High School.

Replacing retired librarian Miss Lois Lehman is Mrs. Helen Heim, a graduate of Lisbon High School, who attended Mt. Union College and Geneva College, where she received her bachelor's degree in education. She has also taken courses in library science.

Mrs. Heim is currently working toward her master's degree in education. She formerly taught in the Beaver Local School district and most recently was librarian in Leetonia.

Mrs. Donna Elias, English III and IV teacher, is a graduate of Salem High. She received her bachelor of science degree from Ohio University.

Art teacher Miss Janice Yereb also teaches English I and II. She is a graduate of Columbiana High School and attended Youngstown University, where she graduated cum laude in two and a half years.

United fund, tax stamps, head council timetable

With the start of a new school year the SHS Student Council is planning another wheel of events.

The newly elected representatives' first job is to head the senior high United Fund campaign, which has been in progress all week.

Students' fields of interest are being determined in order to procure speakers for Vocations Day, which is scheduled for the first part of November.

Plans are also under way for a tax stamp drive during the first semester.

Ray Rogers and Nancy Ward have been appointed co-chairmen.

Elected last spring by a vote of the student body, officers are Bob Eskay, president; Fred Kaiser, vice president; Agnes Kolozsi, secretary; and Molly Malloy, parliamentarian.

Homeroom representatives are Dallas Wells, 130; Stevie Jo Rice, 168; Kathleen Kells, 174; Billie Rae Hoffman, 175; Nancy Flack, 183; Lois Domencetti, 184; Sue Bateman, 185; Carol Porter, 208.

Rayma Mellinger, 209; Beverly Griffith, 176; Elaine Enders, 178; Dave Capel, 179; Chuck Rheutan, 202; Fred Naragon, 203; George Johnston, 207; Cheryl Mlinarcik, 177; Peggy Hess, 201; Dave Edling, 204; John Borrelli, 206; Bob Rutzky, 173; Gary Starbuck, 140; Jerry Wornhas, 141; Jim Ward, 142; Fred Hippely, 165.

Art Spack, Bill Beery and Allen Ewing, sophomore, junior and senior class presidents, respectively, are also council members.

Songsters sell subscriptions, raise funds for choir treasury

Combining magazine sales with tag days SHS songsters are once again busy earning money for their choir fund. The magazine drive, which started last Wednesday, will continue until Oct. 16.

Choristers will vie for the top prize of either an Elgin watch or transistor or clock radio, while the second highest salesman will receive his choice of a wrist watch, a luggage case or a radio. Daily high salesmen will choose either a hi-fi record or a stuffed dog for their reward.

The money received will be used toward purchasing equipment for the choir department and sending a choir member to a summer choral picnic.

A friendly smile and an outstretched hand (with a collection tin in it) greeted Salem shoppers, as choir members conducted their annual tag days Sept. 29 and 30. The money-mad musicians collected $351.15.

Paper, annual cop highest ratings

Both the QUAKER bi-weekly and the QUAKER annual have received the rating of All-American, highest given by the National Scholastic Press Association.

This marks the 15th consecutive year in which the paper has received the honor, while the annual has topped the award for the last five years.

The newspaper, which is judged on the quality of coverage, writing and editing, as well as general appearance, was commended for "mature coverage of the tax levy."

Photographs, captions and colorful copy were judged as strong points of the annual.

Editors of last year's bi-weekly were Nancy Tarleton, news; Gail Putschling, features; and Jay Alight, sports.

Lorraine Pardee and Karen Lombitas were co-editors of the 61 annual, and Sue Bair and Arlene Binder were business managers for both publications.

Seniors achieve merit semi-finals

Seniors Joe DeCort and Steve Golob have been named semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

Judged on the basis of scores received on a qualifying test taken last March, Steve and Joe will now take the scholastic aptitude test of the College Board in December. Finalists on this test will receive certificates of merit and will be eligible for four-year scholarships of up to $1500.

They were among 10,000 high-achieving high school students across the nation.

Tests loom

October 14 is the deadline for applications for the ACT. Information booklets and forms for the test are available in the counselors' offices.

Testing programs to evaluate soph, junior achievement, ability

To provide the school and parents with a better evaluation of students, the Iowa Test of Educational Development and the Differential Aptitude Test will be given next week.

The Iowa test, to be administered next Tuesday and Wednesday, measures the achievement of juniors in such areas as math, English, science, social studies, specialized reading and vocabulary.

DE Club delegates to trek to Akron

Distributive Education Club delegates will attend a district meeting at Akron University next Wednesday.

Officers for 1961-62 are as follows: Dick Schnorrenberg, president; Fred Hippely, vice president; Margaret Fleming, secretary; Larry Jensen, treasurer; Gloria Hary, historian; Santo Sicilia, parliamentarian; and Kathy Messenger, social chairman.

Sophomores will take the Differential Aptitude Test next Friday. This is used to evaluate the student's potential in verbal, numerical, mechanical, and abstract reasoning; clerical speed; space relations; and language usage.

Both tests, administered by the guidance counselors, Mrs. Doris Cope and Mr. Leroy Hoskins, will be used to help students make intelligent decisions for the future and to aid teachers in discovering class weaknesses.

"Although both tests are valid, students should not be overswayed by the results," urges Mr. Hoskins.

Her royal highness

Pert Molly Malloy battles books, brothers

By Mary Grisez

"I was so nervous my knees were knocking against the edge of the chair!" With these words pert Molly Malloy describes the minutes before she was announced SHS Football Queen of 1961-1962.

Blonde and soft-spoken with large blue eyes, Molly reflects that she was "completely surprised" when her name was announced and declares shyly that she was "very thrilled" by the honor.

Laughingly she contends that her only hobby is homework, with health and English her favorite subjects.

Between bouts with her "hobby" she juggles Y-Teens, Pep Club, cheerleading, Junior Board of the Youth Center, and Student Council meetings, where she is parliamentarian.

Also competing for her time is her love of "all sports," with a partiality for basketball.

Admitting she sometimes feels "trapped" at home by her three brothers, Molly wishes for a twin sister with whom to share her troubles.

"If I pick on one of the twins, the other charges me," she complains. "Once I chased one twin into a pole, and he had to have some stitches!" she remembers ruefully.

Molly, having already set her sights on a career in elementary education, plans to make Kent

State University her destination next year.

Shortened periods, longer day greet returning SHS students

Salem Senior High School has returned to the 41-minute period.

With the opening of the new high school in 1958 a schedule of six 56-minute periods was introduced. The longer sessions permitted students to spend the last 19 minutes of each period under supervised study. It also did away with the need for large study hall facilities.

The new system also had its disadvantages. It made it difficult for music students to take both band and choir, for A and B students to schedule five subjects, and did away with double periods which were helpful in laboratory courses, shop and art.

Weighing the advantages against the disadvantages, the administration decided late last year to have a school day consisting of seven 41-minute periods, plus one hour period and a half hour for lunch. This added 15 minutes to the total schedule.

Pleased with the change, Mr. Herb Jones, Algebra I and physics teacher, feels that supervised study periods were not serving their purpose and necessitated constant repetition of individual explanations. "Also," states Mr. Jones, "our lab manuals are set up for double periods."

High school adopts open library plan

In order to make its facilities more readily available, the high school library is no longer being used as a study hall.

Instead of being assigned to the library two periods a week as before, students may now sign in at the beginning of their study hall periods.

With the change teachers may now bring their entire classes to the library.

"This is one of the most beautiful libraries I've seen," declared librarian Mrs. Helen Heim. "I hope students will be able to take more advantage of it under the new system."

Parent-Teachers to hold open house

The first meeting of the senior high Parent-Teacher Association will be held next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Mrs. A. P. Falkenstein, the new president, will conduct a short business meeting preceding the open house and visitation to the classrooms. Refreshments will be served.

Other officers are Mr. Russell Hackett, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. George Perrault Jr., secretary; Mr. Donald Vincent, treasurer; Mrs. B. W. Mallery, membership chairman; and Mrs. Burton Sutter, hospitality chairman.

Future meetings are set for Dec. 12 and April 10.

Linguists to study 3rd-year courses

Third-year courses in French, German and Spanish have been added to the curriculum.

Miss Irene Weeks teaches German III and French III, while Mr. Anthony Montelone teaches Spanish III. The courses are designed to give students a more complete grammatical background while strengthening their general mastery of the language.

Scientist to speak

Visiting scientist, Dr. Charles S. Wilber, will speak to the biology classes and Formaldehydes next Monday. A discussion period will follow.

Dr. Wilson is dean of the graduate school at Kent State University.

Takayo proves that Orient plus Occident's no accident Profs change, become studees to win degrees

Almost two months ago an airplane came island-hopping across the vast Pacific Ocean with a very precious cargo for Salem, Ohio: SHS's second foreign exchange student, Takayo Kinoshita, from the island of Kyushu, Japan.

Takayo was chosen by the AFS from among many others in her school of 1700 students to be a bridge between East and West for a year. Proudly she will point out, a shy smile on her face, her long black pigtail swinging, the American cities where friends and acquaintances from Japan are also going to school: Buffalo, N. Y., California; Washington, D. C., Boston.

The youngest in a family of six, Takayo maintains a close correspondence with the folks back home. On her 17th birthday, celebrated at the home of her American "parents," the Dr. Carl J. Lehwalds and her new "sister," Karen, a sophomore at SHS, she received 17 letters from home. Typically she answered them all the very next day!

"The first days here I did not have the time to be homesick," Takayo remembers. "Every day I met new people and saw and learned new things. Then when school started, oh, it was very hard!" She still spends much time reading her problems of democracy, American history and English literature assignments, and

New scholars join Quaker class rolls

Joining the SHS roster this September, 26 new students are becoming full-fledged Quakers.

Following are their names and locations of former schools. They will be interviewed in following issues of the Quaker.

Connie Bowman, Cleveland; Patricia Dolansky, Arcadia, Cal.; Ardith Gibson, East Liverpool; Takayo Kinoshita, Japan; Mary Lou Longworth, Columbiana; Stephen Reiter, United Local; Tracy Bissell, New York; Mary Lou Fry, Orrville, Ohio; Lewis Hartsough, United Local; Judy Irwin, United Local; James Longworth, Columbiana; Cheryl Mercier, Cardinal Mooney; Robert Ray, Cardinal Mooney; Judy Scullion, Albuquerque, New Mexico; Marlin Waller, Lismore, Minnesota; Carol Adams, Brewster, Ohio; Patty Coffman, Columbiana; Jean DeMeo, Leetonia; Pamela Harvey, West Branch; Larry Heddleson, Rogers, Ark.; Marie Komsa, Fairfield Waterford; Christine Moquino, Cardinal Mooney; Rodney Reiter, United Local; Frank Aiello, Derby, N. Y.; Timothy McGaffie, Livermore, Cal.

HAND-SPANNING around the globe, new seniors Takayo Kinoshita, AFS student from Japan, and Mary Lou Longworth confer: if we dug a hole in your backyard, would we end up in mine?

often politely attempts to slow down fast-talking Quakers.

At her first American football game Takayo could barely understand cheering SHSers. "Fite?" she repeated quizzically to her companions. "I do not know that word," she said, leafing through her ever-present pocket dictionary! Another surprise was American food. "At home we don't eat so much meat - mostly fish or rice, of course," she notes.

"The students are all so happy here," Takayo states, watching the cheering, candy-chewing crowd at a football game. "At home Saturday is the best night; we can go to movies or read or listen to records. And we don't have to go to bed early!" Takayo has seen more American movies than many American teenagers.

Besides seeing movies, Takayo's favorite "time-spenders" are reading (English novels lately!), strolling through art galleries and playing the piano. An avid music fan, she takes chorus and mastered the guitar in one evening spent with the Dr. Donald Leases, "parents" of last year's foreign student.

Another great interest lies in political and international affairs. Takayo has given reports in problems class on the student riots which halted President Eisenhower's state visit to Japan in 1960 and on the student stabbing of a prominent Japanese socialist leader this spring. Mention of the nearness of neighboring Red China and Korea brings a grave, pensive look to her usually smiling face.

Actually Takayo comes from a region which makes her well-fitted to be a representative of the American Field Service. Her home town, Kuiuime, a city the size of Youngstown, is located near both Hiroshima and Nagasaki, which the United States bombed during World War II. "Even today there are people who die from the attacks there," she remembers.

Salem's second AFS student plans to go into the field of journalism after attending a state university in Japan. "I want to write, to produce, create," determined little Takayo Kinoshita declares. Her eyes twinkling, she adds, "For now I must learn about and understand the people here, especially those my own age; and I must experience the American way of life. Okay?"

Profs change, become studees to win degrees

Eight SHS profs beat their brains out as the tables were turned this last summer and they attended colleges throughout the state.

The purpose of this summer education program is to enable teachers to earn degrees or more credit hours - or just to broaden their knowledge. Most summer, courses are six weeks in length.

A few braved the dangers of two colleges. These were Mrs. Doris Cope, girls' guidance counselor, and Mr. Herbert Jones, physics prof, both of whom attended Kent State for six weeks, and for six weeks more, Ohio University and Thiel College, respectively.

Others who attended Kent State were Mr. Raymond Knight, metal arts teacher; Mrs. Helen Heim, librarian; and Miss Betty McKenna, girls' gym teacher, who received her bachelor of science degree.

Among others who received summer education were Spanish teacher Mr. Anthony Monteleone, Mount Union; DE teacher Mr. Steve Lucas, Ohio State University; Coach John Cabas, Bowling Green; and chemistry teacher Mr. Frank Tarr, Youngstown University.

Salem hosts Marietta in teams' first meeting

Victory trail beckons local grididders tonight

Hoping to regain their winning ways the Quakers will host Marietta tonight at Reilly Stadium. The visitors, who possess a record identical to the Red and Black's, are currently riding a two-game winning streak.

Their most unusual game was a victory over Bellaire. Played on a Saturday afternoon, it was called at the half because of the heat. Both teams had numerous players collapse from heat exhaustion.

Their other triumphs came over Greenfield and last week over Belpre 46-28. Their lone loss was administered by Williamstown, W. Va.

Coach Chuck Stocker will be fielding a young ball team boasting only 11 seniors. Standouts for the invaders are sophomore quarterback Randy Ward and Bill Warden, a junior halfback. Bill Wetsel is considered their most outstanding defensive player.

Spirit impresses Coach Davidson

"I've been very impressed by what I've seen of Salem, both on the field and off," remarked Salem's new assistant backfield coach Merlin Davidson, when asked what the thought of Salem.

Coach Davidson is newly graduated from Fairmont State Teacher's College in West Virginia where he majored in physical education and minored in social studies. Because of an injury sustained in high school he did not play football in college but did participate in many other sports.

When asked about the condition of the Quakers this season he replied, "Even though the team was inexperienced when practice started, they've improved with every game. Also the fact that the community is solidly behind the boys has helped the team."

Splinters

from the bench

by Allen and Tom

● Following tonight's game Salem footballers will be taking the Marietta players home for the night. This is necessary because of the great distance which the visitors would have to travel after the game. This is real hospitality on the part of the Quakers and it sounds like a swell idea.

● In the first Associated Press poll Salem was rated 13th. We failed to gain ranking among the Top Ten by just nine points. Former Quaker Coach Earle Bruce's Sandusky team was picked the fourth best team in the state.

● Last Saturday the Mortonmen journeyed to Ohio State to see the Buckeyes battle the Texans to a 7-7 tie in their season opener. The trip was sponsored by the Boosters Club.

● We have heard numerous inquiries as to the reason for Quaker Sam's absence at the football games. In checking we have learned that he will appear at tonight's game. We think that he was a fine addition to the football scene by the Key Club and encourage his continued appearance.

● On Saturday, Sept. 16, many Salem fans were found viewing the nationally televised game of the week. Miami of Florida was hosting the Pitt Panthers. Playing fullback for Pitt was Lou Slaby, a former Salem star.

Mortonmen trounce Struthers, North, Ravenna; fall to Farrell

A Quaker winning streak was cut short by a determined Farrell eleven last Friday night, as they downed Salem 7-6 at Farrell.

Salem's only successful touchdown drive started midway in the second period after end John Panezotti recovered a fumble on the Night Riders' 42-yard line. In eight plays the Quakers moved to within a half-yard of the Farrell goal line and scored when center George Johnston recovered fullback Fred Kaiser's fumble in the end zone. Salem missed the extra point.

The Victors marched right back after the kickoff with 44- and 12-yard pass plays from quarterback Linn Stoner to halfback Tony Cerra and end Nick Generalovich. The Night Riders' tally came on a pass from Stoner to Generalovich.

With Kaiser leading the way the hard-driving Quakers posted a 22-6 win over visiting Ravenna Sept. 22 at Salem.

Kaiser topped the scoring column with two tallies, while halfback Jim Gibb chalked up the other Salem score.

Troika dodges predictions, plays 1 game at a time

TRI-CAPTAINS Butch, Dave and Fred, performing their first official duty, await the flipping of the coin before the Struthers game.

"Predicting future successes of the team would be difficult. If we predict an undefeated season, we're overconfident. If we don't, we lack spirit and desire. We'll just play a game at a time and see what happens."

This is how Salem's first tri-captains, Dave Edling, Fred Kaiser and Butch Crawford feel about their last year in the high school gridiron sport.

Each of these boys started to play sandlot football with neighborhood teams.

"I kept playing in high school because I liked it," state Fred and Dave.

"I like the contact, I guess," remarks Butch.

All of the boys feel that football has been a benefit to them. They agree that it hasn't been detrimental to their studies.

"When I first started to play, Mom didn't want me to, but now she wouldn't let me quit," remarked Dave. Fred's and Butch's parents encourage them and are glad they are playing. "They don't seem to worry about us getting hurt."

Before each game the boys all admit that they get a little scared -- "not of getting hurt but just of making a mistake."

After the games the dance seems to be the usual activity for the pigskin leaders, except for Dave who goes to his girl's house. The boys admit that they "kinda like to listen to the radio after a game just to hear what they have to say about us."

Looking to the future each of the boys hopes to go to college. Fred has his eye on an Ivy League school. Dave and Butch are undecided.
