SALEM SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

SALEM, OHIO

FRI., FEB. 11, 1972

Dedication of the New Annex is Held

A week ago last Sunday (January 30) our school and its new additions were honored with a dedication in the new auditorium and an open house, of which approximately 500 people attended.

The dedication started with music from our high school band and was followed with an invocation by Father Richard Ross, Assistant Pastor of St. Paul Church, the pledge to the flag, the national anthem, and the presentation and acceptance of the building by the Board of Education. Remarks of appreciation were made by Jim Wooding, President of the Senior Class, and a gift of a $4,600 concert piano was presented to the school from the estate of the late W. P. Carpenter. Our Principal, Mr. Marra, accepted the gift, coupled with a brass plate to affix to the piano. He also accepted a gift of the Kiwanis Club — a movie projector.

Mr. Al Fitch, who is a former President of the Board of Education, then made an address. He stated that the way to solve the rising complexity of the world's problems "is to give the young the best education possible." He stressed the continuance of effort to maintain and better school systems throughout the country, of which Salem High School is typical. He also called for renewed interest of the people of Salem to support the possibility of future building in our community, as well as in those else.

The dedication was then ended with a vocal selection of the robed choir, the Alma Mater, and a Benediction by the Rev. Jack Williamson, Assistant Pastor of the First Friends Church.

The total cost of the new addition and remodeling was $1,773,320.50. This sum total was made up by the following parts:

General Contract	$1,118,440.00
Electrical Contract	228,400.00
Heating Contract	239,587.00
Equipment Contracts	72,298.50
Cafeteria Partitions	14,306.00
Carpet	10,209.00
Stage Curtains	5,915.00

The total number of square feet added and remodeled was 87,052, figuring out to $20.37 per square foot.

Hi-Tri Tries Harder

There is a club in Salem High whose purpose it is to serve the community. This club is Hi-Tri. Hi-Tri means strength of will, hope, purpose, truth and love.

The club's object is to maintain and to develop in three areas. The first area is that of Loyalty; which is to the school, one's friends and to God. It must also excel in the area of Knowledge; which is the search for a real wisdom as well as good academic standards. The third area is that of Service; which is to the club, school and wherever help is needed.

Hi-Tri is opened to all junior and senior girls who have kept a "B" average for four consecutive semesters. It meets after school, every other Tuesday, in room 132. The meetings are led by the officers who are: Carol Wagner, president; Rosemary Stepanic, vice-president; Bonnie Ciotti, secretary; and Jeanne Landwert, treasurer. It is advised by Mrs. Milligan and Mrs. Cozza.

At the meetings, the roll is taken, committees are formed and plans are made. Every girl must be on at least one committee a year. This way, everyone participates and is a part of the club.

The first activity, that the club had this year, was that of initiating the new members at a candle-lighting service. The second project was that of collecting wrappers of certain food products to raise money for the March of Dimes. In November, the girls collected food, for a Thanksgiving dinner, to give to a needy family. And for another needy family they collected food, clothing, toys, and other needed objects for a Christmas present. In January, the girls made cookies and sent them to Vietnam.

Hi-Tri is already making plans for the future. They hope to hold a dance for the boys and girls at the Fairmont Children's Home. They also hope to complete many more projects before the year is over.

Key Club and Students Win

Last Friday, February 4th, two basketball games were played for the benefit of the American Field Service chapter of Salem Senior High. The first game was between Interact Club and Key Club. The second was between members of Salem High's faculty and students. These games were played to raise part of the $550.00 needed to bring an exchange student to Salem.

In the first contest, Key Club beat Interact. The score of that game was 37-30. In the second game, the students beat the faculty. The score of that contest was 67-60. The leading scorers for the students were Ed Pukalski, Rick Faulkner and Kim Cranmer. Substitute teacher Mr. Joe Shivers and Mr. Dave Brooks led the faculty with the highest amount of points.

A good crowd was watching these games, while members of A.F.S. raised money in the concession stand.

Kris Smith: New 1972 Homemaker

Homemaker, Kris Smith, busy in the kitchen.

by Pam Nutter

Kristine Smith placed highest over 54 other senior girls in the Betty Crocker Homemakers Test. This test was taken December 7. Kris was chosen on the basis of her score in a written knowledge and attitude examination. She will receive a specially designed award charm from General Mills, sponsor of the annual educational program. In addition she is now eligible for state and national honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, will be chosen from all school winners in the state and the judging will be based on the December 7 test. The winner will receive a $1500 college scholarship and the runner-up will receive a scholarship of $500.

In April the representative of the 50 states and District of Columbia each accompanied by a faculty advisor, will be given an exercise-paid tour of Williamsburg, Va. and Washington D.C. During the tour the girls will be observed and interviewed which will add to the earlier state-level results. At the end of the tour the 1972 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced. The winner will receive a scholarship of $5000 and the 3 runners-up will receive $4000, $3000, and $2000, respectively.

A special $1000 Nutrition Scholarship has been added to the program this year. To earn this award, a girl must be planning a major in college in the field of nutrition or a related field, rank among highest in her state in the Search examination and achieve the top score.

Congratulations, Kris, for a job well done and good luck in the state finals.

Personalities Chosen

The Quaker Yearbook Staff decided that this year only Senior Personalities would be selected. After having decided this, the Quaker Yearbook Staff sent out ballots to the senior homerooms. The students were to have selected three boy Personalities and three girl Personalities.

Those selected as senior boy Personalities were: Jim Shivers, Paul Vaughn and Jim Wooding. The girl Personalities that were selected were: Barb Capel, Beth Koenreich and Devon Van Schoik. Congratulations to all of you!

What's Happening in Band

One organization, that has been neglected lately, is the Salem High School Band. It is composed of 94 students and is under the direction of Mr. Richard Howenstein. Its officers are: Jay Shoff, president; Jayne Cleveland, secretary; and Julie Robbins, treasurer. No one ever hears about band so he may think it is unactive. But actually the band is one of the busiest organizations in the school.

So far this school year, they have appeared in ten half-time shows at the football games. The half-time show of the last home game was dedicated to the seniors of the band, who composed the program. In October, the Salem High Band appeared in a "Parade of Bands" at West Branch, where they competed against five other bands. They also appeared in the Halloween and Thanksgiving-Christmas parade. They held a Christmas Concert for the public on December 13th. On January 30th they participated in the dedication of the annex.

On February 26th, the band will host the All-County Festival. On March 25th, they will compete in a band contest. Some members will compete in a solo and ensemble contest on March 4th. Also in May, the band will perform a Spring Concert. They hope to hold a "Pop Concert" in the near future.

An extra part of the band is the majorettes, color guard and drum major. The new majorettes and color guard have already been chosen. (Shown on the right.) The new drum major will be chosen in the spring.

With these few examples of the band's activities, one can see that the band is an important part of Salem High.

Rebirth of a Class Play?

It's a "terrific Idea."

The new high school auditorium will provide the community with needed facilities for entertainment. Programs that have been more or less forgotten about because of the lack of facilities may now return. One form of entertainment that has been neglected in recent years is that of a school play. This year Mr. Marra would like to see the play re-established as a school function.

The class play would provide any enthusiastic student with a chance to participate in the production. Acting parts would not be restricted to students from the upper classes — anyone would be permitted to try out for a part. Those interested in sewing could provide costumes, and others could work on lights or scenery. Thus, everyone could help to make the play a success. If the student body presented an entertaining play to the public, the "stage would be set" for future, more complicated dramas.

The possibility of a school play hinges on one necessity — a staff member who has some knowledge of dramatics and who would be willing to spend time directing the play.

"I think a play would bring students closer together."

A play would present a good opportunity for student interested in drama to show their talent off to the public. Anyone who would be interested in a play, please contact Jan Watterson. Teachers who would like to help can leave their names with Mr. Marra.

Everyone has witnessed a blissfully happy moment in life when everything seems funny. How many times have you caught yourself smugly repeating a real groaner?

No matter how serious you are there is always a spot in your sense of humor to giggle over an ignorant pun.

What better time is there to be carelessly stupid than now? The first semester is over, along with those final six weeks tests, reports, and notebooks. No sense in worrying anymore, it's all "finished." Instead, let's laugh. After all, laughter is a part of life.

Don't groan too loudly upon reading the first familiar goodie because they grow exceedingly worse!

A man went to the eye doctor and was asked if his eyes were ever checked. The man replied, "No, they have always been blue."

Laugh

What is green and dances? Fred Asparagus!

What is the difference between dishonest and illegal? Dishonest is against the law and "illegal" is a sick bird.

What is purple and goes bang, bang, bang? A 4-door grape!

What is a box full of ducks called? A box of "quackers."

We live down by the river, drop in some time.

Why does a ship keep knots instead of miles? Because they want to keep the ocean "tide."

What do you get when you cross a motorcycle with a joke? A Yamaha-ha-ha-ha!

What is 1&1? Two! (You already heard it!)

were employed in the high school. A counselor is trained to advise on the consequences of being drafted and if you wish, to advise how you can ardently try to end an institution you do not believe in.

The main reason I think the school should have a draft counselor is that when you're eighteen, you should decide how you will stand on this issue. I mean you've got to decide how much your life means to you. If you decide to apply for a conscientious objector standing, let the draft board know when you are eighteen. The counselor can help you with things you have to know about getting the C.O. standing from the draft board. A counselor can also help find any physical defects that a doctor could tell the draft board about. This may solve your problems right there. So, decide if you agree or disagree with the idea of living.

Cupid's' Cake Bake

If you have smelled a pleasant aroma seeping under the door of room 138 this week, your nose detected the FHA girls' Valentine Cake bake.

The heart shaped cakes were on sale from February 7 to 11 and sold at $1.25. The flavors were chocolate and vanilla and if interested consumers desired, a message to a sweetheart could be iced upon the top.

What was the purpose of such an unusual money making project besides spreading the Valentine spirit? The girls are raising funds to attend the state-wide Future Home Makers Convention in Columbus during April 21 and 22.

The convention is held at Vets Memorial Auditorium and girls from all over Ohio will be attending. Each community chapter participates in the various activities such as voting for the forthcoming year's activities.

Salem Chapter delegates are: Debbie Pauln, Rosemary Stepanic, Lynn Varkonda, Karen Wilczek, Grace Grove, Tammy Lewis, Sandy Lynn, Judy Coy, Cindy Corle, Peggy McGuire and Marsha Franks.

Last year the cake sale was a success. 120 cakes were sold leaving an end profit of $75. Good luck to the FHA members on their 1972 project. If you failed to sample a slice of heart cake this Valentine's day, let's hope the sale will return next year so you can buy one to share with your sweetheart.

Dear Editor:

The big question arises when a guy turns eighteen. Does he want to be drafted?

I don't like the draft for two reasons: first I don't like the idea of killing people; and the second, love life. I admit my life means more to me than my freedom. I've attempted to get into draft counseling to see how I could legally evade the draft. I suggest if you do not believe in the present draft system see a counselor.

I feel that it would be helpful to many persons if a draft counselor

Hope-Upraised Fingers and a Few Empty Seats

by Sue Milligan

The 1971 Christmas Season brought a feeling of warmth to more than 40,000 U.S. troops overseas as Bob Hope and the USO cast presented their 21st annual tour. Highlights of the Christmas tour, compiled and edited by Bob Hope, were recently broadcasted in a television special. Hope appeared on the stage in Okinawa in a Japanese uniform in front of 19,000 roaring troops. This may have been the last time the USO tour would visit Okinawa, because, as Hope said, the Japanese were taking it over. In Oudapau, Thailand, Hope joked, "if you can pronounce it, you've been here too long." This was followed by tremendous applause by the servicemen.

The entire tour, which entertained in Hawaii, Wake Island, Ubon (which Hope had always thought was a coffee), Spain, Guam, and four stops in Vietnam, was a world renowned plea for peace. The men of "freedom hill," Vietnam (alias Dodge City) had been waiting for eight raining and mud-soaked hours for the show. The enthusiasm to see "someone from home" was overwhelming.

At every stop, signs welcoming the tour were waving in the air. And as the camera men scanned the overwhelmed troops, one sign became commonly seen and frequently used by most all the servicemen, the international sign—upraised fingers—representing their desire for peace. Another sign seen at a stop in Vietnam brought the men close to home, reading: "Garfield Heights, Ohio."

The entertainment consisted of over 200 shows, all of which volunteered their services. Of all the stops only two were missed. The first, The USS Coral Sea, was covered by fog and the crew didn't want to risk landing there. This was the first show the ship missed in thirteen years. Later they were scheduled to stop in Vicenza, in Northern Italy, but they couldn't find the landing lights. Later the and made an unexpected performance.

One hopeful sign of peace in Vietnam was the cluster of empty seats, meaning servicemen were returning home. Although no mention of Hope's plea for POW release was made in the film, the shows were all dedicated to servicemen and women, for as Hope said: War, "... erodes the fabric of our society!" When Hope was asked if this was his last trip, he answered by saying he hopes it's the last war. So as one sign in Vietnam read: "There really is a Bob Hope."

Happy Valentine's Day

Valentines are traditionally sent to show affection and love for a person. These Valentines are written to show different groups in the school how much their efforts are appreciated by the student body.

The basketball team has been losing of late, But still we think they're really great.

They get out there and lay it on the line, The basketball team earned a Valentine.

The football team had some trouble,

But when they lost, they'd try double.

A Valentine for these boys too, Just to say that we back you.

The track team runs most every day— September, December, February, and May.

Their efforts are displayed on the track,

This Valentine is to give them a pat on the back.

The cheerleaders deserve a Valentine,

For doing a job that is really fine.

They get out there and really cheer, And put in much time during the year. The choir has earned an honor for us, And so this Valentine is a must. We're proud of everything they do, And the Mediterranean will be too.

The yearbook staff works their best, And puts in hours without rest To turn out a yearbook that is great.

This Valentine would read, "You're a staff that rates." A Valentine for the Class of 72, How could anyone help but love you?

There has never been such a class around, And a more special Valentine will never be found.

A Valentine for all the kids Who make the school just what it is.

To all the people within these walls, A "Happy Valentine's Day" to you all!

Dream

Letters To The Editor

Editor:
has come to my attention the High Concert Band has been seriously neglected. This is the band has not been mentioned in articles concerning the addition of the new additions. THE SALEM NEWS had an article and the closest thing to mentioning the band was "Music will start at 2:15." This is bad, but it is even worse is the article in the school paper. Here you said, and the audience will be directed singing the National Anthem by Edwin Miller, choir director," "The Robed Choir will sing under the direction of Mr. Miller and the audience will be invited to join in the singing of our alma mater." The band played with the singing and also had three select members. The band works harder on any other subject in school but only receives 1/2 a credit. Thank you!

Sincerely,
Whit Luce
Editor's note: You spoke too soon! See page 1.

Editor:
The kids of this school have got the stickiest fingers of the whole country; why does everyone care? Anything of value from one set of paper to radios, tape recorders. Now to me this problem is gotten out of hand and should be corrected. Now, you may think I am griping because someone stole my pencil; well, you're wrong. To start off, I have many magazines stolen out of my locker which I paid for and aren't cheap (they add up at 50c and 75c a row.) Now I know I could put a lock on my locker but they could break it off if they tried.

which brings us to my next gripe. Someone broke into my gym locker to steal a bath towel and a can of Right Guard. Come on now I have never heard of such poverty having to destroy school property for a can of deodorant and a 79c towel. My tennies are in there but they didn't take them because they are size 13 (too big for him I guess). And lastly a set of exacto knives which cost quite a bit to me were stolen out of the art room which was in a teacher's drawer. (What a low.) To whom it may concern the two blades that are missing I have. Have one of your friends contact me to get them. I can't use them without the handles..

Dear Editor,
We understand that the library was enlarged to provide added facilities for students. Previously, a student had the choice of going to either study hall or the library, but now if the students are not going to specifically use library materials, they must go to study hall. What happens to the student who has nothing to do in study hall, and comes to the library to get a book? He will be sent back to study hall because he is not permitted to read it in the library. In all fairness to those students, students who come to the library to read magazines should be made to return to study hall also. This is a ridiculous situation and only discourages students from using the library.

What's This? A Star In Our Midst?

by Missy Smith

Not many people know what a versatile and talented teacher Salem High has in its midst. None other than Mr. Carl Bevington. Most people know that he could teach Physics, English, or any of the Math courses here, and that he is the Interact advisor. But how many know that Mr. Bevington has been mountain climbing? Or had his own music studio once? There are some things about his past no one will ever learn, but I managed to find a few choice bits of information.

Mr. Bevington is quite musical, having taught organ, piano and accordion. He started teaching organ in high school, and then worked his way through college teaching music. For awhile he worked at Cassidy's music studio teaching almost anything from guitar to, well, I didn't get a straight yes or no on this one, just a laugh, —tap dancing.

Later, he acquired his own studio in Alliance, Ohio. The name was merely Bevington's music studio, not Snappy Carlo's as you may have expected.

Another musical talent he possesses is the ability to compose music. He's written some off-Broadway music, way off Broadway, as in Alliance, and it's been performed in concerts and the like.

When asked why he didn't go into music as a career, he replied that he just didn't want to make a living from it, but I think it was the tap dancing that got to him.

Mr. Bevington has had a rather extensive education, for he has a B.S. from Mount Union College and a M.S. from Youngstown University. All of his summers have been used in taking courses. Also, in '67 or '68, he was chosen to go out to California for a special summer course where he took crash courses in elementary education and supervision. This will be the first summer that he has nothing planned.

Of course, there have been escapades in his past and I learned about one. One summer, when he was still in college, Mr. Bevington and two friends were attending a seminar in Colorado. As they had a free day, they picked a likely-looking mountain and set off to climb it. No equipment, no water, nothing. The innocent-appearing mountain turned out to be full of 90 degree angles straight up. By the end of the day, one of the terrible trio had fallen 25 feet and hurt himself a bit, the other had a handful of cactus prickles while, Mr. Bevington had fallen in a stream! Regular frontiersmen, they were.

As to Mr. Bevington's future, he has something cooking, but it isn't to be revealed. Who knows, he may tap dance his way to stardom!

Now

If you have hard work to do,
Do it now.
Today the skies are clear and blue,
Tomorrow clouds may come in view,
Yesterday is not for you;
Do it now.
Sing it now.

If you have a song to sing,
Let the notes of gladness ring
Clear as song of bird in Spring
Let every day some music bring;
Sing it now.

The Chosen Two

Almost everybody has to go to the office sometime or other during the school year. Either you are marked absent from study hall when you really were there, somebody found out you skipped out of your 3rd period class and now you have to suffer the consequences. Usually, some people think the office is a scary place because the people are so unfamiliar and they don't really try to get to know you. But even so, the two secretaries, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Holroyd are there to help you out.

Mrs. Miller, the one on the left as you go in, is secretary mainly for Mr. Cabas. Her job, basically, is to keep the attendance records and being in charge of the book room and its keys. When asked if she enjoyed working here, she smiled and replied, "I love it very much. We have a nice bunch of boys and girls here." Starting this year, it will make 6 years she has been the school's secretary.

On the right, we have Mrs. Holroyd. She is the secretary for the principal, Mr. Marra. Like Mrs. Miller, she likes it here. She has been here 7 1/2 to 8 years.

Like any job, the secretaries find they have their share of the problems. So we should try to help them out and not make it hard for them each time we have to go see them.

The Board of Education chose them both to be our secretaries and I think everyone here is truly grateful to have them around.

QUAKERS PLAY LIVERPOOL TONIGHT

Before the results of the games last week the Bi-Weekly interviewed captain Jim Shivers. This is what was said:

Editor: How long have you been playing basketball Jim?

Jim: Since third grade.

Editor: How many letters or other awards have you won?

Jim: I've earned a freshman letter, reserve letter, and one varsity letter.

Editor: What has been your most exciting game?

Jim: The Barberton game of this year.

Editor: Are you planning to play basketball in college?

Jim: Yes.

Editor: What college are you planning on attending?

Jim: Otterbein.

Editor: Do you have any comments on the East Liverpool game tonight?

Jim: There are two players that need to be shut out and Howie and I will try to do that.

Editor: Any comments on the season so far?

Jim: We haven't been together as a team yet. We want to win the next five so that we can play an easier team in the tournaments and also to get up our momentum.

Editor: How do you think we will do in the tournaments?

Jim: I think we can go to the regionals, at least.

Now to the game results. Last weekend we dropped two games. We lost to Warren Western Reserve Friday night, 88-55. There were several injuries and illnesses last weekend. Shane Franks was out, and most of the rest of the team played with knee injuries.

Tom Jesko started for the first time Friday night and looked real tuff. Tom pulled down several rebounds and scored six points.

Dave Raymond substituted and scored seven points.

Howie Jesko was high point man with 14. Mark Shasteen had 8 points.

Saturday night we lost a close one to East, 65-60. Rohn Riley was high pointman with 22, Mike Cosgrove scored 11 and Jim Shivers scored 10.

Tonight we play East Liverpool. The game is at home. Tomorrow night's game is also at home. This weekend we will be looking for our 5th and 6th wins. So let's have a big crowd on hand.

Next week is our last game of regular season play. We play Parma Padua. The Parma game is home. After next week we start in tournament action.

Grapplers Defeated By Minerva

The Salem Mat Men met a stunning defeat against Minerva last Saturday night when they were defeated 52-6.

The Quakers had five replacements in their Varsity line-up. Replacing Tom Eakin (98) was Mark Stillwell. Mickey Knepper replaced Lee Hilliard (155). Wrestling for Dave Odorizzi, who has been out with an injury most of the season, was Mike Watterson (175). Bob Zellers (167) was replaced by Bob Lewis and replacing Jim McGuire (185) was Cliff Muhleman. These replacements were due to injuries or not making weight.

The score of the Varsity match was 52-6. Scoring for the Quakers was Mike Snyder, who pinned his opponent. The loss for the grapplers now makes their record 4-8, which already overrides last year's record of two victories and ten defeats. The Salem reserves were also defeated with a score of 52-3. Because of the lack of wrestlers on the Varsity team the Reserves were forced to forfeit two matches, giving Minerva twelve points. Winning for the Quaker reserve team was Bob Citino (198).

The Quakers are looking forward to raising their record to 5-8 Thursday when they host the Canfield Cardinals at Salem High School. This will be the Quaker Mat Men's last league match before the tournaments, which start on February 19.

The remaining tournaments will be the Eastern Ohio League (Feb. 19), Sectional Wrestling Tournament (Feb. 26), District Wrestling Tournament (March 4), and the State Tournament (March 10 and 11).

AA Tournaments To Be Held Here

Principal H. Joseph Marra, which is the tournament director for the class AA tournaments, announced last week that pairings for the tournament to be held here at the end of the month was to be held last night at the First Christian Church.

We don't have the results because our paper is printed on Thursday.

This is the first time the tournament will be held in Salem. Last year it was held at the Struthers Field House.

Fifteen teams will be competing in the tourney. Four Bracket winners will then go on to the AA District meet which also will be played here.

The sectional tournament will be played on February 28-29 and March 1 - 3-4.

Schools in the tournament are Youngstown North, Liberty, Poland, Springfield Local, Campbell Memorial, Southern Local, Girard, Brookfield, West Branch, Canfield, Columbiana, East Palestine, Beaver Local, Minerva, and St. Thomas Aquinas.

Lisbon and South Range are dropping out this year. They will be playing in the Class A tournament at Austintown.

Key Club and Students Victorious

Key Club looking real tuff Friday night trimmed the boys from Interact. The official score of the game is not known. But it's rumored that Key Club shut them out.

In the second game the students were victorious over the teachers by a score of 67-60.

"Here in America we are descended in blood and spirit from revolutionists and rebels — men and women who dare to dissent from accepted doctrine. As their heirs, we may never confuse honest dissent with disloyal subversion."
