

School Clubs Are Busy

by Sharon Fryman

What's going on with our school clubs??? Well, here are what a few clubs have been doing and plans for future activities.

Key Club

This year the Key Club activities began in the summer with a concession stand at the Kiwanis antique show. A pledge car wash was held to raise funds. Also, twelve Thanksgiving baskets were donated to needy families in the area.

The Key Club will be selling popcorn at the basketball games, raising money for scholarship funds and donating Christmas food baskets for the less fortunate.

In March plans are to attend a state convention in Columbus. Bill Jelen is this year's Buckeye Key editor (a paper for Key Club members), and Ursula Sicilia is the Lieutenant Governor.

AFS

The AFS (American Field Service) has had this year's foreign exchange students, Freddy Barohona of Costa Rica and Jukka Jaamaa from Finland, present slides and talk about their countries.

A Christmas party is planned at the home of Melissa Conn. A tradition of talking about Christmas customs is among the activities planned.

December 12 at the Presbyterian Church, from 2:00 - 4:00 P.M., area exchange students will be present to speak. In addition, later in the year exchange students from other schools will be visiting Salem High and may be invited into classes that may be interested in learning about these different exchange students.

Library Has Additions

by Crissy Brooks

In September of 1983, the Salem Public Library will be approximately twice its present size. The library, built in 1905, is currently 9,000 sq. ft. With the new addition, the library is expected to cover in excess of 16,500 sq. ft.

When interviewed, Mrs. Stephens, Salem's reference librarian, stated that they felt they were not serving everyone to the best of their ability, due to the current structure of the library.

The new facilities will provide a sufficient entrance-exit area for the handicapped, an inside staircase and elevator, a solarium, sky lights, an area for children's arts and crafts classes, 2 community rooms (1 large room that holds 80 people comfortably which will be doubling as a movie room, and a small meeting room that will be used for meetings of 15 members or less), and an Ohio Room.

For the student, the new facilities will offer study carols (partitioned study tables), a soundproof room for typing, and an eventual computer system.

The new parking lot will be located directly behind the library building adjacent to Reilly Stadium.

The new addition of the library is sponsored by a bond issue with the estimated cost at 1.2 million dollars.

"With the addition and updating of the library," stated Mrs. Stephens, "we will be running a much more efficient operation."

'Holiday Follies' giving students the opportunity to display their talents.

The group has tentative plans for holding a Christmas party, and area rest home patients may enjoy Christmas carols sung by the members of Drama Club.

Later in the year a banquet will be held to give recognition to those seniors who have done outstanding work in Drama.

The group also hopes to be able to travel to see a national touring play sometime during the year.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club has made plans for a Christmas party in the high school cafeteria for members on December 16.

Also, club members will have the opportunity to listen to two Latin American speakers. Freddy Barohona (an exchange student) and Luz Sanabria from Colombia, South America (here to improve on her English) will be speaking to the Spanish Club.

An activity members usually look forward to is a trip held in the spring to either a Mexican or Spanish Restaurant.

Holiday Follies

by David Dunn

After a show of talent by singers, dancers, pianists, and comedians, the judges, Mrs. Eaton of Alliance and Mrs. Hanson also of Alliance, had a difficult time in deciding who the winners were. FIRST place and a check for $100 goes to Kathy Farmer who played a piano selection of Impromptu in C Minor. SECOND place and a check for $50 goes to Tania Pshniak who sang the song Memory. THIRD place and a check for $25 goes to Jim Gabriel who played a piano selection of Rhapsody No. 2 by Brahms.

The QUAKER had a chance to interview the 1st place winner Kathy Farmer. When asked how it felt to be a winner she stated "Its great, I really like it."

We asked a member of the audience what she thought of the Follies and she stated, "It was very good. The Masters of Ceremonies did a commendable job and the talent presentations were great."

With an enthusiastic audience of between 160 and 170 people and a squeaky start the HOLIDAY FOLLIES was a big hit.

Choir In Christmas Concert

by Dave Grams

Are you hankerin' to hear some good old-fashioned Christmas music? Well, the Salem Senior High School Choral Department has the answer for you.

On Sunday, December 12, at 3:00 P.M., in the Salem High School Auditorium, the Salem High School Concert and Chamber Choirs will present their annual Christmas concert. The choirs, under the direction of Mrs. Jeckavitch, will be singing a variety of familiar selections including such favorites as, 'It's Beginning to Look Like Christmas,' "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "O Holy Night," "Jingle Bells," and other well-known songs. I asked senior choir president Mike Gabriel his thoughts on this upcoming event and he said, "It should be a good concert."

The choirs also participate in other activities. On December 1, the

Seniors Pick Announcements

by David Fisher

The Salem Senior graduation announcements this year were picked two Wednesdays ago during both lunch periods and number two was picked. The cost of the announcements is thirty cents each. This must be added, they don't have to be bought! The orders for the announcements, jewelry and thank-you notes were taken December 1st during both lunch periods.

Some of the items of jewelry that can be bought are keychains, necklaces and other items such as memory books.

Also there will be a five dollar charge when the orders are taken. The announcements will be distributed sometime in late April.

Miss Rafferty Recovering

by Terri Leyman

Last month students and teachers were shocked at the sudden illness of Miss Joyce Rafferty, problems of democracy and psychology teacher, but happy to say, she is coming along just fine.

Miss Rafferty started teaching at Willoughby-East Lake in Cleveland. She taught there for seven years and then came to Salem. She really loves Salem students and says, "Salem kids are the best I've ever had." This feeling is obviously mutual, looking at all the cards and flowers she has received from students, as well as from friends.

Miss Rafferty used to be a student of the martial arts, a factor that certainly helped in commanding the respect that students show her; but, she says she hasn't been involved in it for ten years. Miss Rafferty enjoys cooking and baking, "especially eating what I cook and bake." She also enjoys working with wood.

When questioned about when she will be able to return to school, Miss Rafferty replied, "Probably not until the semester." She plans on resting and listening to her doctor and is enthusiastic about "getting back to the kids I love."

Students in the choir have been selling Taco Bell coupon books as a fundraiser toward a major trip to be taken within the next few years.

Show the choir your support by attending these performances.

More Spirit With Henderson

by Lori Peppel

This year the cheerleaders have a new cheerleading advisor. Her name is Miss Debbie Henderson. She was a Salem cheerleader for four years and now is teaching the handicapped students at Salem High School.

First off, I asked Miss Henderson how she liked being the cheerleading advisor. She replied, "I like it, it's fun, but, it's time consuming."

The next question was, have you made any changes from last year?

"No, there haven't been any changes in rules or behavior this year." I concluded my interview with Miss Henderson by asking her what she thought of the cheerleaders. She said, "I think they're really good cheerleaders, but getting school spirit up seems to be a task for them." Miss Henderson commented that she wished there would be more interest in try-outs next year.

Miss Hornung An Eagle

by Terri Leyman

Some people may be wondering what Miss Theiss and Miss Hornung are doing these days since they departed from Salem Senior High at the end of last school year. Well, they are doing fine. Both are very happy and satisfied with their new positions in life.

Miss Hornung, who taught vocational home economics the past eight years here in Salem, is now teaching at United Local High School. At United Miss Hornung teaches an eighth grade home economics class, preparation for living, and Home Economics 2. Miss Hornung felt that she needed a change in her life and took the job at United Local when it was offered to her. Some of her students ask her if she likes Salem kids better than United kids or vice versa. Miss Hornung comments on this, "That's not important; I just needed a change. I feel fortunate that I have taught at Salem, and I feel fortunate that I have taught at United."

In addition to teaching classes, Miss Hornung is also the advisor for seventh, eighth, and ninth grade cheerleaders. Miss Hornung has, indeed, become "more sportier" and says, "I will see more basketball games this year than ever."

Most everyone knows that Miss Theiss became Mrs. Bob Jones of Ann Arbor, Michigan. They were married on September 18 of this year. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jones are currently residing in Ann Arbor, Michigan. Miss Theiss taught home economics classes here in Salem for a good many years. Miss Hornung, who communicated with Miss Theiss recently, says she is happy being a wife, but she does miss teaching.

Surely, everyone here at Salem misses them and offers both Miss Hornung and Miss Theiss their love and good wishes for the future.

What's Up In I.O.E.

The I.O.E. Department is busy once again this holiday season. We have many plans for the projects coming up. Each class is collecting canned goods for a needy family. The Steno classes and the Accounting classes each are putting together a Thanksgiving basket that will be delivered on Wednesday afternoon to the family.

The entire I.O.E. Department is participating in a service project for St. John's Villa. We are collecting clothes, toys, bibs, belts, shoelaces, socks, medical supplies, hand towels, cookies and money. We would appreciate your help. If anyone would like to donate, please take items to the I.O.E. Department Rooms 201, 203, 205, 207.

On November 11 the I.O.E. Department held their first Department meeting. The guest speaker was Mr. Robert Arnold, CPA. He explained what qualities he looks for in a secretary. The presentation was most informative and interesting.

Mr. Rick Garrison from State Farm Insurance and Mr. Joe Clark from Jones Insurance Agency came in and talked to the Steno II class pertaining to insurance. Additional speakers for this month were Mary McKay and Janet Hartman from McLaughlin's who talked about hair and skin care. Mrs. Susan Moore a former I.O.E. student, spoke to the Accounting I class about her secretarial duties at Neff Insurance Company.

Accounting II has been busy compiling and printing newsletters and mailings for Salem Convalescent Center and Valley Road Nursing Home.

The I.O.E. Department wishes you all a very HAPPY HOLIDAY SEASON!!!!

Super Seniors

by Sharon Fryman

This issue's Super Seniors are Shery McNeal and John Price.

Shery McNeal is an O.O.E.A. student and secretary for her accounting II class. She is also a member of the yearbook staff.

Shery has spent four years on the girls' track team. When asked who she thought of as her hero she said, "My dad because when he was younger and in track he did excellent and went to State a couple of times — and he's the best dad."

Her hobbies include weight lifting, running, bike riding, and collecting mugs from various states.

The adult that she admires most is her mother. She commented that she admires her because "she has just finished nursing school, and it's hard taking on a new career when she has a house and family to take care of." Her future plans are attending Fairmont State (West Virginia) for accounting or business administration.

John Price has lived in Salem all of his life and has five brothers and three sisters.

His hobby is rock climbing. Although school and his job at the Burger Chef take most of his time he plans on getting in some climbing after graduation.

His future plans are to possibly attend Malone College, although he is undecided what profession to study for. John would like to teach climbing some day. When asked if he had any heroes he said, "George Willig because he climbed the World Trade Center."

If he could live anywhere besides Salem, he would live at Seneca Rocks, West Virginia.

GOOD LUCK SUPER SENIORS!

Boxing . . . A Sport?

by Mike Senanefes

On Saturday, November 13, I sat in front of my television set and watched a young Korean man get, for all practical purposes, beaten to death — legally. They call this event boxing. Supposedly it's a sport. Youngstown's Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini was declared the winner, but what did he actually win? Some more money that he doesn't need? The opportunity to win some more? And what of Duk Koo Kim? He was only 23 years old. Now he's dead. "Open your eyes. Please, open your eyes," Kim's mother had begged. It's sad. Scary too. Sad because it happened to such a young man, scary because it will happen again.

Perhaps we should all open our eyes. Wearing head gear and using gloves with more padding have been proposed, but already other boxers have spoken out against such a rule. But how safe can you make a sport whose objective is to hurt the opposition? And what about those of us who watch boxing, help the ratings, increase the purses? What does this say about us? Saturday, I sat in my comfortable family room chair smiling every time Mancini hit Kim.

I loved it. Two men slugging it out, toe-to-toe, in the middle of a ring. I clapped when Mancini knocked Kim down. I laughed when Kim struggled to his feet, then fell back to the canvas. It wasn't until Sunday morning that I learned of Kim's condition. I felt terrible for my actions the day before, for the guilt Mancini must now be facing, and, most of all, for Duk Koo Kim. Whatever career decision Ray Mancini makes, he is assured of the heartfelt best wishes of all who know him or know of him. And many of those share the sentiments of Sun-Yeo Yang, the mother of the fallen Korean fighter, who hopes that Ray will continue boxing and "become even greater." Boxers have died in the ring before. How many can I name? None. It's sad. Sad that I can remember the names of fighters who have won, but not of those who have died. Sad because I will probably also forget the name of Duk Koo Kim. Sad because in the future someone else will take his place.

We've Got The Beat

by Kim Wells

Again this year the Pep Band is supporting the Salem High sports programs. So far, the Pep Band has performed at all of the football games, at a volleyball game, and at the bonfires. The Pep Band also plans to play at all the home basketball games and at the pep assemblies.

The pep band is a group of ten select band members headed by Diana Milheim. Diana was chosen by last year's leader, Greg Warner. Each new school year a senior is chosen to be in charge of picking new members, picking and teaching the music, calling practices, ordering new shirts, and trying to keep everything running smoothly. Diana has been doing an excellent job in all areas involved. I had a chance to ask Diana if she liked being the leader better than an ordinary member of the Pep Band, and she replied, "Yes, I like being the head because I can make the Pep Band what I want it to be. I can also try some new ideas that I've been thinking about." Then she went on to say, "Being the leader has a lot of responsibilities. I take the blame for all the things that go wrong, but I still enjoy it."

This past August Diana picked the '82-83 members which include Jim Kay, trumpet; Jeff Auman, trumpet; Rich Herron, trumpet (for football season); Drew Goddard, trumpet (for basketball season); Dave Tullis, drums; Dave Ward, trombone; Kim Wells, trombone; John Miller, baritone; and Todd Lepley, on tuba. I talked to one of the members, Dave Tullis, about his opinion of the Pep Band. Dave remarked, "Pep Band is great. It's a lot of work, but everyone gets along pretty good so the practices aren't bad at all. I'm honored to be one of the few, the proud, the Pep Band!"

Coach Kunar Back

by Paul Pirone

Mr. Fred Kunar is back at the helm of Salem's matmen, with Mr. Gary Ricker at his side. Once again wrestling has come into season and therefore back to S.H.S. Coach Kunar said there are twenty-nine grapplers out this season. After a couple weeks of practice and a scrimmage, the team seems to be strongest between the 119 lb. weight class and the 155 lb. weight class. The lower and higher weight classes have fewer people and thus are weaker.

Besides Coach Kunar is Coach Ricker, who is in charge of the disciplinary actions and the weightlifting. Also assisting will be Mr. Plegge and Mr. Risbeck, instructing in the higher and lower classes respectively. Coach Kunar said, "I would appreciate the student support during this year's season." The first showing of Salem's matmen will be December 11 during the Salem Tournament.

Grads In Action

by Steve Strabala

The Salem Quaker football program always produces some fine college players. In the past Salem has sent Kirk Lowdermilk, Dave Flood, Richard Karlis, Don Whitney and many more on to fine collegiate careers.

The class of 1982 was no exception. Leading last year's crop of college players is Greg Pshnsniak. Greg is playing in the defensive secondary for the Air Force. He has started several games and is seeing plenty of action. Greg was involved in the upsetting of the Notre Dame Fighting Irish on November 20th. That victory gave the Air Force a 7-4 record and earned them a spot in the Hall of Fame Bowl against Vanderbilt.

Another 1982 graduate has shown plenty of promise; he is Bruce Walter. Bruce is playing for Tabor College in Kansas. He was named Tabor's Lineman of the Week two weeks in a row. Bruce has plans of playing one more year at Tabor; then he wants to walk on to a major college football team.

There is one other 1982 graduate who is playing college football. Steve Chaffin has seen playing time at defensive end and defensive tackle for Muskingum. Steve lettered and is expected to play a big part in the future for Muskingum.

We would like to wish Greg, Bruce and Steve good luck, and we hope they have continued success.

The Losers

by Rob Mehno

As there are winners in college football, so there must be losers. Some of the most prolific losers have been:

MARIETTA — They live in "basement" of the O.A.C. year after year.

EASTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY — Their only win in thirty-five games was against Kent State University.

KENT STATE UNIVERSITY — This team could be the worst.

KENTUCKY — Jerry Clairborne has his work cut out for him.

ARMY — Hopefully, they're better on the battlefield.

C.W. POST — They've printed a better magazine.

GRINNELL — They major in salutations and valedictorians and not athletes.

MICHIGAN STATE — Northwestern beat them this year.

OREGON STATE — Their nickname is "The Fighting Beavers."

CUMBERLAND — They have yet to recover from a 0-222 loss to Georgia Tech. The game was called after three quarters. Cumberland never had a first down.

Spackmen Look Good

by Brad Myers

The Salem Quakers tipped off the 1982-83 basketball season last Friday defeating the Ursuline Irish by the score of 81-77. Senior Jake Sell led the Quakers with 18 points while senior Rick Foreman and junior center John Breckenridge each shared a double figure of 13 points respectively. Also, seniors Ted Jones, Joe Marra and junior Brian Toothman each hit double figures by adding their share of points by hitting for 10 apiece.

The Irish jumped to a 10-2 margin before Salem, under the new head coaching of George Spack, called time out to re-group. The Quakers came out fighting and quickly tied the score at 14-14. The lead changed throughout the first half before Salem led 40-36 at the end of the 2nd quarter. Salem went on to defeat the Irish 81-77 with the balanced scoring of seniors Jake Sell, Ted Jones, Rick Foreman, Joe Marra, and juniors Brian Toothman and John Breckenridge.

In Reserve action an outstanding performance by Brad Jones, led the Quakers by scoring 18 points and pulling down 10 rebounds in the Salem Jayvee victory over the Jayvees from Ursuline.

Going after their second victory of the season, Salem will host Girard tonight and after talking to a few of Salem's Varsity basketball players, we learn they are very confident in bringing a well deserved MVC Championship, under the new superb coaching of George Spack, back to Salem. GOOD LUCK QUAKERS!

Skins On Top

by Rick Davis

The NFL is back and after the second week since its return the season is beginning to take shape. There are still fans who are showing their resentment toward the players by not showing up at the games, but they are becoming less and less as we head toward the third week since the strike was settled.

There is only one undefeated team left after 4 games — the Washington Redskins. The playoffs this year will be set up with the top 8 teams in each conference positioned in a playoff spot according to their records.

Here's how the NFL looks so far this season:

AFC
Team	Win	Loss
Miami	3	1
Cincinnati	3	1
N.Y. Jets	3	1
Buffalo	3	1
L.A. Raiders	3	1
Pittsburgh	3	1
Cleveland	2	2
Seattle	2	2
New England	2	2
San Diego	2	2
Kansas City	1	3
Denver	1	3
Houston	1	3
Baltimore	0	4

NFC
Team	Win	Loss
Washington	4	0
Green Bay	3	1
Dallas	3	1
New Orleans	3	1
Detroit	2	2
Atlanta	2	2
Minnesota	2	2
St. Louis	2	2
San Francisco	1	3
Philadelphia	1	3
Chicago	1	3
N.Y. Giants	1	3
L. A. Rams	1	3
Tampa Bay	1	3

A total of 9 games will be played this year, which will make this the shortest season in NFL history. After the playoffs, the Super Bowl will be held at its regularly scheduled date which is January 30 in Pasadena, California.

Hats Off To The Quakers

by Todd Lepley

If you were at the Salem-Ursuline game this past Friday, you probably couldn't help noticing the abundance of Salem painter hats there were. These hats help show excellent support for your teams. The city of Salem is really backing the team this year and it promises to be a great season for the Quakers. Tonight Salem will host Girard and look for the undefeated season to continue. The students also showed good support last week, but let's give twice as much tonight. We could also show support by wearing the popular new Salem hats; the old folks at the games wear them and I don't think the students should be out spirited. The hats can be bought at Ziegler's Trophies & Sports for a cost of about $2.00 and are well worth it. So let's not let the team down; let's all be there and cheer the Quakers to another victory.
