

Gov. Celeste Visits Y.S.U.

by Michelle Yarwood

Richard Celeste, the Governor of Ohio, recently held a press conference at YSU for high school and college journalism students so they could ask him questions on education and other subjects.

Students from area schools such as Boardman, Niles, Canfield and Struthers were present along with Salem and others.

Everyone had to wait at least 15 minutes for the Governor's arrival, as he was "fashionably late." He began his conference by talking about the Governor's Honors Program for college students, stating, "The Governor's Honors Program provides an opportunity for promising young students from across Ohio to learn all they can about the inner workings of state government. Through first-hand experience, they find out how we can bring the resources of the public sector to bear on issues that will shape the very future of this state." He also said, "We look forward to welcoming these outstanding students to Columbus, and hopefully to encourage them to consider careers in public service. We want students to stay in Ohio after graduation."

Staying in Ohio though after graduation may be a difficult task since it is hard to find jobs around here even with a college degree. A lot of people are moving south for jobs. Governor Celeste commented on this, saying that the State of Ohio has increased in employment more than ever in 1984 and 1985. He also said, "Houston is in one of the leading states of unemployment. No, this is where the future of America begins, right here in this state. Ohio is the heart of it all."

Other questions were asked on such issues as the Gramm-Rudman Bill, the seatbelt law and other questions on education. On almost every question asked, whether on education or not, Governor Celeste brought it into the issue.

Students from Salem who went were Lisa Buchanan, Bill Dunn, Lee Good, Mark McCartney, Julie Paumier, Gina Knight, and Michelle Yarwood. These students were asked to give their opinion on the press conference and what they thought of it. Here are their responses:

Lisa — I enjoyed watching the nervous body guards. Overall, it was really something else to watch a politician talk for 20 minutes without really saying anything.

Bill — Even though he was late, the Governor did give good answers to some pretty good questions. It was pretty interesting.

Lee — I expected it to be a little longer, but it was an interesting experience.

Mark — I thought it was real interesting to see how our governor reacted on different subjects. It must be a difficult job.

Julie — Governor Celeste gave quite informative answers on education subjects.

Gina — It was very short, but interesting.

Michelle — Governor Celeste proved to be a "true" politician.

All of the students present got their pictures taken with the Governor and the photographer said he would send them to us in the mail.

There was another press conference held later in the day at 3:30. Lisa Buchanan, Bill Dunn, and Michelle Yarwood stayed for that one and got home at 6:00 that evening.

At this one Governor Celeste was a little long-winded, so only four questions got to be asked. He was asked about the drinking age. He said that he doesn't like the idea of the drinking age being 21, but that he thinks if a person under 21 gets caught, then they should automatically get their licenses taken off of them until they are 21. He's for stricter drunk-driving laws. The other three questions were questions concerning student housing and education at YSU.

Lisa, Bill, and Michelle were glad they stayed for the second one. They really had an interesting experience and thought it was worthwhile.

Steve Rosar in Germany

by Lisa Buchanan

Steve Rosar, exchange student visiting West Germany, had an interesting experience over the Christmas holidays; he visited communist East Germany for six days.

He started his journey on January 8 and first went through "Checkpoint Charlie," the last American outpost before crossing the border into East Berlin. Once entering German Democratic Republik-East Germany, Steve noticed how old all the cars are. He explained that once you pay for a car, it doesn't show up for at least another ten years; hence, the old-fashioned cars.

Steve also wanted to pass on some interesting tidbits about East Germany. First of all, you can't legally take East German money into the country, or out for that matter. This is hard luck because the exchange rate is much higher if you change your money before you leave. Additionally, if you don't spend all of your money while in East Germany, you have to literally throw it away when you arrive at the border.

Steve and his exchange student friends almost had heart failure when they were at the border to go back to West Germany. Most everyone was "smuggling flags from DDR, coins, or something else, when suddenly a guard came running from behind us and yelled 'halt.'" The guard accused someone of not paying the visa charge, but that was soon straightened out and everyone traveled back to West Germany.

Over Christmas Steve also learned how to ski in the Swiss Alps. He said that although he "spent quite a lot of time rolling around the mountain (I) escaped all injuries."

Steve will be staying with his West German "parents" until summer and he wants everyone to write him a quick note so he can keep up on the gossip. He can be reached at the following address:

Reading: The Fundamentals

by Arron Wolford

There is a new class for students to take here at the high school. The class is Reading Lab and it is taught by Mrs. Reed. She teaches it two periods a day. The class lasts just one semester and it is worth a half credit.

When Mrs. Reed was asked why we have reading lab this year, she said, "The State now requires all secondary schools to have Reading Lab." When she was asked what students do in class, she said, "They work to improve vocabulary and reading rates. They learn to skim and scan and they also improve comprehension."

Meals on Wheels on the Move

by Mike Schmid

In 1977, "Meals on Wheels" was started by caring people of the Salem Hospital. What meals on wheels is is volunteers from 14 churches around the Salem area with their own cars and vans taking meals prepared by the Salem Community Hospital and the Salem Convalescent Center to the people who paid for their meals. The meals are the same food from the hospital and Convalescent Center. There aren't any menus. How much do these meals cost? If you are a diabetic, the noon and evening meals cost $12.50 a week; otherwise the cost for one meal a day, either at noon or evening, is $8.00 a week, which is a very reasonable price for a week of food. Anyone in Columbiana County can get meals. The furthest "Meals on Wheels" goes is to Country Club Lane. The food that is prepared has insurance in case of bad food, or spoiled food. It is called liability insurance.

The hospital delivers 50 meals and 35 people get the food from the Convalescent Center. If any of you want "Meals on Wheels" for your parents or grandparents, contact the Red Cross and they will ask you: Who is your family doctor? What kind of food does your doctor want for you? And also the name of a responsible person in your family. Meals on Wheels was started by Mrs. Jackie Hergenrother, Mrs. Jean McCulloch, the late Mrs. Sue Ulicny, and many other interested parties. According to Mrs. Hergenrother, "High school kids would have a great time." By volunteering, they would be helping people and they would be learning themselves.

Donations are from local churches and other people who are interested in helping older people. United Fund used to be one of the donors but no longer is. In 1985 the total amount of volunteer hours was 1458, and these volunteers were from 14 churches.

The total number of meals delivered in 1985 was 8,878 from the Salem Community Hospital and 5,043 from the Salem Convalescent Center. A grand total of 13,871. At Meals on Wheels there are 3 different kinds of meals: regular, diabetic and low salt. The idea of Meals on Wheels was thought of in November 1975. The meals were first delivered in February of 1976 with six clients. The 100,000th meal was served on June 13, 1985. The volunteers have never missed a delivery. So, with the help of Jackie Hergenrother and the Presidents Report, this was made possible, and I thank Mrs. Hergenrother for her time and care for the wellbeing of people in Columbiana County.

Morp

BY Teresa Fisher

Friday, April 18 is a date to leave open. The Morp, a tradition for approximately five years now at Salem High has been scheduled for that date. The word "Morp" is Prom spelled backwards. Everything about the Morp is the opposite of the Prom. Some examples are: girls ask guys; dress is casual; girl is to buy dead flowers for her date; she should also pick up her date and pay for a meal at a fast food restaurant. The whole purpose of the Morp is so that the girls receive the pressure that the guys feel when "Prom time" comes around. This idea was thought up by Miss Carmello, a past Home Ec. and Foods teacher here at S.H.S. In most cases there is a DJ instead of a band and Polaroid pictures are taken. A king and queen are chosen from each class. The theme of the Morp has not been determined. "We probably will not know until a few days before the Morp what the theme will be because of the weather," stated Mrs. Monteleone. So girls, don't procrastinate. Ask your guy before someone else does!

Applesauce

by Jennifer Booth

People think of the strangest things. Well I did. I had an interview with a squashed apple. This apple is a McIntosh. Somehow between the tree and the store this little apple got lost and run over.

Q.—How old are you?

A.—Three months and four days.

Q.—Do you feel lonely?

A.—No, I think that a truck would pick me up.

Q.—Now how did you get run over?

A.—Well, me and some other apples were going to the store. The truck hit a bump and I rolled off. Then some nut in a car drove right on top of me.

Q.—Do you have any words for future apples?

A.—Yeah, don't get picked.

So, people, if you hear a cry from your grapes or your pineapple is yelling, forget it. It's your mind playing tricks.

Prom Time

by Donna Zorik

Arrangements for the Junior/Senior Prom have been thought of and are in the process of being completed. The prom committee has decided on Mr. Anthony's Restaurant in Boardman, Ohio to be the ballroom for the upcoming event. The date is May 2, with the afterprom pending. Couples planning to go must have their own transportation for the dance but buses will be taken to the afterprom. A price for the tickets has not yet been determined. The junior class has been raising money since last year so that we can have an elegant prom. This is the main reason for not having the prom in the high school cafeteria. Also, more money would have to have been spent for petty things like tape to hang the murals than for a nice ballroom where the juniors will still decorate to their pleasure. Mr. Kunar, prom advisor, states that he feels it will be a nicer place to have a dance and it will be different from all the other dances that are held at the school for a more special effect. More information will be on hand as the future date nears.

Florida . . . Funnin' and Sunnin'

by Julie Paumier

As the weather begins to break, birds start chirping and flowers bloom, thoughts begin to focus on Spring Break. Definitely the most exciting part of springtime, the week (March 24-28) will be spent by many in Florida. Others will just relax in Salem and spring sport participants may find themselves running the track or fielding a fly ball. Here is what some students have planned for Spring Break:

Jeff Lynn: "One solid week of fun and frivolity in sunny Florida."

Paul Schleuter: "I'm staying home to practice baseball to win the M.V.C. — OUTRIGHT!"

Cindy Hutton: "I'm heading down to Daytona with Julie and Dale Lynn."

Doug Sicilia: "I'm going to sleep and hunt alligators."

Sean Kirkland: "I'm going down to Florida for 12 fun-filled days."

Boys' Track Underway

by Nick Quinn

Well, Spring is almost upon us and time for the track teams to start preparing for their meets coming up.

The 1985 boys' track team has already been practicing for two weeks under the coaching of Bing Newton.

This year the boys' track team is led by eight good seniors. They are: Johan Zerikson (the exchange student), Matt Settle, Doug Smith, Brad Capel, Steve Hoffmaster, Leo Marple, Rick Marra, and Bob Monteleone. The rest of the team is made up of 9 juniors, 16 sophomores and 17 freshmen.

I had a chance to talk with Coach Newton and asked him a couple questions.

Q.—How do you think the team is doing so far this year?

A.—They are coming along fine. They are a young team with good leadership and fine individuals.

Q.—How are the kids working?

A.—The squad leaders are making them work very hard.

Q.—Who is the new coach?

A.—Lew Pittman is the new coach. It's his first year coaching track. He has coached the 7th grade football team for two years. He is a former Salem football player and track runner.

Girls' Track

by Gina Knight

The Girls' Track team is starting to shape up for their 1986 season. They are a young team of approximately fifty girls and a lot of them are new members. The coach is Nancy Miller and her assistants are Brenda Lipp and Sheila Toothman.

The first meet will be on April 3 against West Branch and Struthers at Salem's track. There are no captains yet, but the four senior girls are Kim Ricker, Sabrina Wilms, Diana Reese, and Becky McGuire. They began preparing for the season in February by doing a combination of aerobics, running, and working with the Nautilus system. Their March practices will continue to concentrate on speed endurance workouts and improving their individual events.

Kim Ricker concludes: "I'm really excited about the team because we have a lot of new talent coming up. We're looking forward to a good season." They have a lot of what every team needs: spirit and enthusiasm.

Wrestlers Complete Season

by Lee Good

After a disappointing year, Coach Kunar still has a good feeling about the 85-86 Salem Wrestling Team.

When asked about the season Coach Kunar replied, "I was disappointed we didn't win dual meets. I was happy to have younger kids participate. We had only four seniors and three juniors. We placed second in our league tournament; three took first in league meets — Leo Marple, Chad Hayes, and Jeff Swartz. Leo also took first in the Howland Invitational. Two members qualified for regional

Buckeye Girls' State

by Lisa Buchanan

Michele Bruderly, Kris Capel, Lisa Marosher, Heather Morrison, Susan Patterson and Jennifer Schlueter have been chosen to represent SHS at Buckeye Girls' State June 14 through 21 at Ashland College.

The eight alternates are Whitney Browne, Joanie Burchfield, Valerie Davis, Chris Cosgrove, Lisa Esterly, Dawn Pitts, Theresa Moyer and Jennie Tausch.

The purpose of Girls' State is to promote patriotism in various ways. Additionally, it allows the girls to become involved in government activities. Each girl runs for an office and after each person has been elected, a formal banquet is held in honor of the event. Other activities include free time to get to know the other girls, as well as a chance to talk with actual government officials in the community.

According to Mr. Delane, Girls' State was open to all junior girls who were willing to write an essay outlining why Buckeye Girls' State was a worthwhile activity and why they would like to participate. The American Legion Auxiliary then reads the papers and decides who the finalists and alternates will be.

Baseball Begins

by Mark McCartney

The 1986 Quaker baseball team will enter the season under the direction of head coach Jim Lantz. Coach Lantz is in his 8th year as manager of the Quakers. This year's team will be relying on ten returning lettermen. Seniors: (2B) Frank Bezon, (OF) Rich Elias, (P-INF) Lee Good, (P-SS) Mark McCartney, (P-1B-OF) Damian Roelen, and (OF) Paul Schlueter. Juniors: (OF) Joe Marks and (C) Ted Schuster. Sophomores: (P-OF) Scott Sommers and (P-3B) Paul Totani. Players lost to graduation are outfielders Jim Burchfield and Tim Herron. Coach Lantz expects a lot from this year's team and two of the main goals he has set for the team are to win the M.V.C. title (which would be his third as manager), and to win 20 of the 26 regular season games.

Coach Lantz is backed up this year by three additional coaches. Don Isaacs, a former player under Coach Lantz, is in his fourth year as manager of the J.V. team and assistant coach. Walt DeShields, also a former player under Coach Lantz, will be working with the team's pitchers. Walt has also spent some time in the Detroit Tiger minor league system as a pitcher.

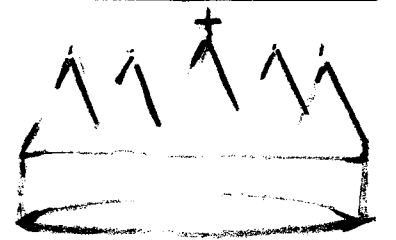

Scott Slocum, who is in his first year as a coach, will also help with his knowledge of the game.

The Quakers will take the field on their opening day on April 1 at East Liverpool.

Lynn Is King

by Alissa Campbell

Amid a crowd of hundreds, Jeff Lynn accepted the prestigious award of the senior King of Hearts. Friday, the seventh of March, was just the beginning of an exciting career in the public light.

The dance, sponsored by the Student Council, was revived after several years. Mrs. Monteleone, the Student Council advisor, said, "Since the girls have something like this two times every year, they (Student Council) decided to bring it back again for the guys."

The candidates were Jim Bakondy escorted by Tracy Pizzino, Rich Elias escorted by Jennie Gow, Lee Good escorted by Kris Huzyak, Rich Huffman escorted by Marcia Flickinger, Troy Iler escorted by Dale Lynn Barrick, Sean Kirkland escorted by Cindy Hutton, Damian Roelen escorted by Kim Ricker, and Jeff Lynn escorted by Melinda Pence.

Jeff's acceptance speech was unusually thrilling. He said, "I'm not much for speeches — let's just dance!" The crowd obediently followed their new-found hero's words by rocking to The Animal.

When asked about his future plans, Jeff replied enthusiastically, "I'm going to start by running for mayor. After success there and when I'm of age, I'll run for Congress and then for Senate for six years and finally, the Presidency of the United States. I am now looking for potential running mates." Those who are interested should be willing to blindly follow Jeff's lead and be good-looking. Watch out, girls of Salem High, because Jeff is watching YOU!
