Flying High

by Matt Althouse

Students at Salem High had the opportunity to study aviation technology on Oct. 30, inside a U.S. Air Force theater van. The purpose of the van was to stimulate student interest in the Air Force.

This theater on wheels featured a fast-paced multi-image slide show titled "Gifts of Flight." The 12-minute show highlighted the progress of aviation, particularly in the fields of propulsion, aerospace materials, avionics and aerodynamics.

Through the magic of multi-image, viewers probed the development of aviation and its influence on our society. The show began by comparing the Wright brothers' gasoline engine with a new fuel efficient propulsion system. It reviewed the structural materials used in building past and present aircraft, and looked at how adhesives and plastics will be used in future aircraft.

Viewers also saw how the simple instruments used on the first round-the-world flight have led to systems in space and the miniaturization of computers. Finally, the show studied aerodynamics, its impact on today's Air Force and the space systems of tomorrow.

The sight-and-sound presentation of "Gifts of Flight" projected about a thousand slides on a 12-foot by 3-foot screen. Fifteen slide projectors, state-of-the-art multi-image programming equipment and a stereo sound system enhanced the presentation.

The 40-seat mobile theater van, and 15 others like it, tours the continental United States. Members of the Air Force Orientation Group, who traveled to Salem, are based at Gentile Air Force Station, Dayton, Ohio.

Student Council

by Bobbi Galchick

For the month of November the Student Council has a few activities planned. They start off with preparing Thanksgiving baskets for needy families. Following the game on December 5, 1986 will be a dance to kick-off the basketball season. The cost will be $2.00 a ticket. It will last two hours and we will be having a disc jockey.

For the month of December, the Student Council will be selling secret Santa Suckers the week before Christmas on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. They can be picked up on December 19. There will be a Dress-a-live-doll for the Salvation Army. The Student Council will honor teachers during American Education week with a large sheet cake saying Thank You Teachers.

In past events a very successful United Fund Drive was held. This took place in October. $480 was the total collected in two collections with Seniors having brought in the most money.

9-10-11-12 Which Is Best?

by Michele Thomas

This issue's senior poll asks: "Which year of school did you like best and why?" Here are some of the more interesting replies:

Bill Burke — "I'd say my junior year, because Mr. Morris and Mr. Turner are great."

Lisa Esterly — "Senior year, because you realize this is your last year for everything."

Roxy Hostetter — "Junior year, because I had a blast with my friends."

Rick Johnson — "My senior year because it is the last year, and there are more things to do."

Kathy Monteleone — "My junior year because of Mrs. Cozza's Singles Living class."

Becky Prickett — "Senior year, because of easier classes, and it is the last year of school!"

Nick Rosta — "Senior year, because I just mess around."

Dereck Tullis — "Senior year, because now I get away with murder!!!"

Well Dereck, what have you been up to??? We're not gonna tell!

IOE Update

The IOE department has recently been reviewed by the State Department of Education. The process is called a Program Review for the Improvement, Development, and Expansion of Vocational Education and Guidance. (PRIDE) On Nov. 12-13 Mr. Al Admonius, State Representative, visited our IOE classes. He will be submitting a report to the State Department as well as to our local administration.

On Oct. 31, 1986, the IOE department had their annual Installation of Officers, sponsored by the Steno II class. A Halloween theme was featured and "all ghosts and goblins attended." The guest speaker was Mr. Rabell.

All four IOE classes have been collecting cans of food and other food items, to be given out as food baskets to two needy families. Two Thanksgiving turkeys will be also included for Thanksgiving. The Juniors are competing against the Seniors on who brings the most cans in. Whoever happens to lose has to provide a small party for the winners.

Teachers Wouldn't Change Profession

by Michele Thomas

The teacher poll question for this week is — If you could live life over again, knowing what you know now, would you choose to be a teacher, or would you choose another line of work? If you would change, what would it be and why?

After some intense thought, several teachers came up with honest answers that really let their feelings show. Here, printed below are a few:

Mrs. Reed — "If I had to do it over again, I would probably still choose teaching. I enjoy working with students and it is very fulfilling when they learn what I have been trying to teach them. Also, being home during the summer, with my own children is a major factor in choosing the teaching field. All professions have their downfalls, and you have to take a job with that in mind. Always do things to the best of your ability, and deal with people honestly and fairly then your job, any job, will be enduring."

Mr. Morris — "I enjoy being a teacher, and I doubt if I would be happy doing anything else. Most people I know hate going to work everyday, but I don't. I enjoy the time I spend with my students, and I hope they feel the same towards me. Teaching has allowed me to develop my own mind as well as helping others. If I could not be a teacher, then I would like to be a doctor or surgeon. I think I would like to feel what it is like to have a patient's life in my hands and see if I could handle the responsibility."

Mr. Lantz — "If I could start over, I would probably choose to teach again. Teaching, like any other occupation, has its trying times, but for the most part I enjoy what I do. If there is one thing I'd change, it would be to get certified in several other areas. After teaching the same courses in the same field for a number of years, a person can become stagnant."

It's easy to see the majority of our teachers enjoy their work, but what do you think?

Bing's Back On Track

by Dan Murphy

Walter "Bing" Newton will be the Salem High School Track coach this year. Mr. Newton has held this position for the past 18 years, during which the team has had over 100 wins. With a record like this some individuals were wondering why the school board would not renew his contract. Mr. Newton believed it was because of the Chapels he holds the day before a meet. During these Chapels he invites guest speakers in to talk about experiences in their lives, and begins by having a member of the team say a prayer and read from the Bible. Some people believe that he should not pass his religious beliefs upon the members of the team especially with the advent of Equal Access Law.

The board took this into consideration and investigated further. Monday, Nov. 17 the school board held its monthly meeting. They followed the agenda until they got to the part about the track coach. They called an executive session at this time. During this Mr. Newton and his attorney were asked into the room to tell his side of the story. When they came out of the executive session the board voted three to two for Mr. Newton to be the Track Coach. The three men on the board voted yes for Newton, while the two women voted no.

Teenagers Still Alike

by Becky Prickett

While browsing through some old "Quakers" I noticed an article from October 5, 1950. It was written by Elaine Cavanaugh and titled "Teenagers Defy Defining: Crave Cool Cars, Cokes; Love Life Opposite Sex." It is interesting to know that the teenagers from the fifties liked a lot of the things that we do today. One can see the similarities and the differences between our generation of the '80's and that of the '50's by reading Ms. Cavanaugh's article which follows:

What is a teenager? Psychologists try to gracefully avoid answering that question. Even Mr. Webster shuns it by merely saying it is the years of a person's life between 13 and 19.

What a dull way to define something so complicated! Mothers look at them with arched eyebrows, fathers just shake their heads in bewilderment and grandparents look at them with pride shining in their eyes.

Teenagers like many things — cheeseburgers, convertibles, old worn jeans, sloppy sweat shirts, juke boxes, youth canteens,

A Time To Give Thanks

by Connie Kubankin

bread with nuts, and succotash. Everyone enjoyed their meal at large outdoor tables.

Today Thanksgiving is celebrated in much the same way. Families gather around tables laden with various foods and give thanks for the blessings they've received over the past year. This holiday has been celebrated since the Pilgrims held their first Thanksgiving to thank God for their successful crop.

The theme of Thanksgiving has always stood for peace and plenty, health and happiness. To be observed in another way, it stands not merely for "thanks" but "giving," too. It is a time for sincere generosity in remembering and helping the less fortunate and not forgetting the ones you love.

Thanksgiving Day was celebrated on different days in different states until Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale decided to do something about it by writing to governors and presidents for more than 30 years asking them to make Thanksgiving Day a national holiday.

Finally, President Abraham Lincoln in 1863 issued a White House Proclamation asking people everywhere to unite "with one heart and one voice" in observing a special day for Thanksgiving.

T.A.C.T.

by Kathy Monteleone

Bats, spiders, witches, and vampires are what attended the senior T.A.C.T. masquerade party on November second. Approximately fifty members attended and were entertained by costume judging, hay mazes and rides, a hot dog roast, and more.

T.A.C.T. has also been traveling to other groups to speak to them about drugs and alcohol. Members went to the Leornians Women's Club and Leetonia High School as part of a day long project they were having on drugs and alcohol.

Some of the group's future plans are a Christmas party on Dec. 22 and a Christmas service project is also being discussed.

Senior T.A.C.T. now has one hundred seven members and anyone else who is interested can see Mrs. Cozza in room 140 about getting a contract.

Kunar's Grapplers Take To Mat

by Sharon Corl

The wrestlers have been preparing for a tough season. For the past few weeks the wrestlers have endured a tough physical fitness program including weight lifting, running, and calisthenics. Their first formal practice was held this past Monday.

Mr. Fred Kunar, head coach for the past nine years, said that his goals are "to have a winning season and have some of the wrestlers do well in the post season tournaments." Coach Kunar will be assisted this year by Mr. Dave Plegge.

The team will be a strong one this year because the Quakers have 11 returning lettermen. Leading the wrestlers will be Joe Good, Larry DeJane, Chad Hayes, Jeff Swartz, Greg Marple, Eric Kunar, Mike Mellinger, Chuck Jones, Mike Fromm, Matt Loudon, and Mike Lutz. Lutz is the only returning letterman that qualified for regionals last year. His main goal this season is "to work as hard as I can all year in order to make it to the state championships."

Practices are held every day after school, and Coach Kunar encourages those who are still interested to join the team.

Scholarships Available

by Tracy Early

There are many scholarships available for this year's Seniors. Here is a list that describes each scholarship. Check with your guidance counselor to fill out an application.

The United Steelworkers of America District Scholarship is given to sons and daughters of union members. The deadline for application is February.

The Elks Scholarship is open to all Seniors. Local scholarships are for $200 and state and national level awards are up to $6,000.

The Ohio Merit Scholarship Program is based on cumulative grade point average and ACT scores. The scholarship is for $1,000, renewable for three years. The ACT must be taken on or before the December test date. This must be used at an Ohio school.

There are two Ohio PTA Scholarships available. One is a four year college and the other is for a two year associate degree. Applications are available in February and the deadline is March 1st.

The Kent State University offers two scholarships. The Distinguished Scholar Award is offered for students who have a 3.4 grade point average and must participate in a competitive test. The second scholarship is for students interested in a major in an art area, with a 3.0 grade point average. A portfolio is required.

There are many other scholarships available in early spring. Also, a student should contact the school to which they are applying. They will have many scholarships that one may be eligible for. These may be available because of the major, scholastic ability and/or financial need.

Football Banquet

by Rick Wyand

The Salem Touchdown Club is having their annual banquet for the football team Sunday Nov. 23 at 6:00 P.M. The guest speaker will be the head coach from Youngstown State University, Jim Tressel, and there will be 3 players from Y.S.U. to speak also. They are Dave Janofa, Dayne Popa and Steve Strabala all from Salem. Tickets for the banquet are $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12; tickets for the banquet are available at Fenske's News. Tickets also can be purchased by contacting a Touchdown Club member. The awards that will be given at the banquet are M.V.P., Academic, Top Defensive Lineman, Hitman, Top Defensive Back, Top Offensive Back, and Top Offensive Lineman.

Future Bound

by Matt Althouse

Seniors are getting ready for it, Juniors are hearing about it and Sophomores and Freshmen... it's not as far away as you think.

Life after high school.

For Seniors like me, decisions must be made. Many of us are kept well informed of our options by way of mail.

I have a Glad Bag at home full of trade school, college and military information. Most of it has been filed in the "bag" unopened. It would take weeks to read everything.

By far, university mail is the most abundant simply because there are numerous institutions. There are various kinds also. Co-educational, technical, colloquial, parochial... you name it, I have too much of it.

Some of the most desolate colleges send me information. For example, has anyone ever heard of Minot State?

That's right. The one in North Dakota.

In the viewbook the admissions department sent me, it looks like a nice campus. The book contains great photos of fun filled summer activities like softball and volleyball.

Of course no winter photographs were enclosed. Everyone probably stays inside from October to March avoiding sub-zero temperatures.

The cold might explain why the windows are built five feet from ground level so people can see outside when the snow accumulates.

Military mail is dangerous. Don't be tempted to send any replies back just to get a poster with Uncle Sam on it. You'll have a recruiter calling until you arrange an appointment.

I found this out the hard way.

After being phoned, I went into talk with "The Sarge." He sat me down, offered me a pinch of chew, spoke of his youth in the hills of Kentucky and tried to enlist me into the Airborne division.

Me? Jumping out of airplanes? Sorry.

I then asked him what the military could offer me in the field of political science. He sat silent for a moment before saying, "Are ya sure ya don't wanna jump outta airplanes?"

Last but not least, there's trade school mail. I've only received a few letters of this type from a diesel mechanic school in Nashville.

For me, with no offense toward diesel mechanics, that sounds about as fine as that airplane.

All of the mail, as useless as it seems, can be important. It gives us crucial information regarding possible schools and occupations. If nothing the mailman brings you can help decide what you want to do after high school...

Are ya sure ya don't wanna jump outta airplanes?

Shoot For M.V.C. Title

by Kathy Allison

The outlook for this year's boys' varsity basketball was said to be "cautiously optimistic." Coach Spack said that the team is young and inexperienced yet looked good. The Quakers lost many players last year including Brad Capel, Rich Elias, Mike Slanker, Rich Huffman, Raphael Vargas, and Paul Schlueter. Coach Spack feels that the main thing they lost from last year was size and strength. The returning letterman will be Chip Null, Rich Wraszk, and Brett Bezeredi. The strong point of this year's team is their shooting. Their weaknesses are the size and strength that they lost.

The goals of the team are to have a winning season and also to make a run at the league championship. Coach Spack is hoping to improve from last year's record of 7-14, which was one of the lowest seasons in years. The teams were all said to be tough but the most competition will be Boardman, Youngstown East, Youngstown South, and Alliance and Warren. The toughest in the Mahoning Valley Conference will be Girard and Campbell. In Spack's opinion the boys are off to a good start with such a short time to practice, only three weeks.

The team won in a scrimmage against Medina and played close against Akron Central, an exceptional team. They played well with their shooting and overall strength. The first game of the season will be on Nov. 25 against Youngstown South at home.

Williams Inspires S.H.S.

by Lisa Esterly

Mr. David Williams hopes the student body at S.H.S. will seriously think of their relationship with drugs and alcohol. After Mr. Williams' performance I had the chance to talk with him about his involvement as a trainer with Grey Dancing Training. He has been active in speaking to students and community groups across the state of Ohio since 1974. As a certified alcoholism counselor Mr. Williams feels that his stories, many in reference to his own life, are a better way to communicate to his listeners than a lecture. "What I feel people want is to be accepted, to be loved, and to feel an inner peace. Drugs and alcohol block that goal and can't provide anyone with those things."

I asked Mr. Williams what the concept of Grey Dancing Training was, and he replied, "Grey Dancing Training is the balance of life, neither black or white. It is the road to recovery."

The hilarious antics of David Williams are to help people realize that drugs and alcohol play a major role in the lives of the young and old alike. "The key to reaching an abuser is to let them know you're there and ready to help when they're ready."

S.C.I.E.S. The Goal

by Matt Wolf

The S.C.I.E.S. (State Champions in Eighty-Seven) are the limit as well as the goal of the Salem High School girls' basketball team this year. Under the leadership of new head coach, Mr. Jim Shivers, it promises to be an interesting season.

The starting lineup for the varsity this year consists of Dina Hartman, Michelle Baker, Chris Cosgrove, Amy Breckenridge, and Kim Evans. They are changing their defense from a zone-type to a man-to-man. "I believe that a man-to-man defense will benefit the talents this team exhibits," said Shivers. "Look for a lot of fastbreaks," added Shivers, who believes that the speed and height of his team (four of the top players stand 5 feet 10 inches or better) will be a big advantage this year.

There are twenty-five players on the girls' basketball team this year. The J.V. team is coached by Mr. Roger Zeigler.

The team has a lot of tough games this year, but the "dethroning of the Canfield Cardinals," who are favored to win at state this year is a major goal.

"SCIES; that one word sums up what we want this season!" said Shivers.

The Quakers will entertain Marlington in the season opener on November 24th.
