Celebration Of Learning

On Wednesday, May 6 in the high school cafeteria the PST (parent, student, teacher) organization held their Celebration of Learning. All areas participated and parents enjoyed work from the art department and the different things in our business department including I.O.E., Accounting, General Business, and Record Keeping. Photography, O.W.E., History, English, and math also had displays to show their work for the year. Some of the family living students were present to show their "babies," the choir sang, and the band had a video tape of the New York trip and Pops concert available for viewing.

The foreign language department also had an excellent display including several types of foods from Spain, Germany, and France. T.A.C.T. also had a booth displaying its activities for the year.

Some of the staff that participated were asked what their feelings were about the Celebration of Learning.

Mrs. Haddad — "As a teacher I appreciated what the other departments in the school are doing. Each department had creative displays, and I enjoyed going around to each area."

Mr. Monteleone — "The Celebration of Learning was a success. It gave the parents an opportunity to see many interesting things. A special thanks to the foreign language department for serving delicious foods as well as having displays."

Mrs. Cozza — "The student body and staff were well represented. I only wish more of the community could have enjoyed the various displays and activities that took place."

Think Before You Drink
by Connie Kubankin

The date is May 30. It's a Saturday night and the last weekend before the Class of 1987 graduates. I drive through town looking in all the cars as they pass and wave to my friends. Everyone's out having fun and drinking beer. As I drive through McDonalds I decide to stop and talk to some of my friends. They mentioned something about a wreck on Rt. 62. So we decided to see how bad it was. We rode out by, and it ended up being someone we knew. So we stopped and found out that our friend was O.K. just a little shook up from the accident. All that the person was worried about was that their parents would kill them for wrecking their $15,000 car. The sad part is that the person didn't bother to think about the fact that they had been drinking and could have killed himself or someone else. This wasn't a true story but hopefully it will make a handful of this graduating class think about the dangers of drinking and driving.

In 1986, 228 people were killed in traffic fatalities. Out of the 228, 208 were driving and out of the 208, 52 were alcohol related. In 25% of all traffic fatalities alcohol is responsible. These statistics are just in the state of Ohio.

The State Highway Patrol's major arguments against drunk driving is "We don't pick up drunk drivers to harass them, but to protect the innocent users of the highway," stated Sergeant Warren of the Lisbon patrol.

In Ohio the law states that it's illegal to drive a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, or drugs, or any combination of alcohol and drugs. The penalties for D.W.I. are as follows:

- * A cash fine of up to $1000;
- * A mandatory (minimum) 30 day driver license suspension (max. 3 years);
- * Mandatory high-risk insurance (3 years);
- * 3 day minimum jail term (max. 6 months);
- * Six "points" against driving record.

If you think these laws are strict, be prepared because they're trying to think of tougher laws to crack down harder on the drunk driver.

The State Highway Patrol and the staff of The Quaker would like to wish everyone a safe graduation!

Music Award Winners

by Sharon Corl

Four award winners were named at Salem High School's annual Spring Concert Thursday, May 7. The categories were Bandsman of the Year, Chorister of the Year, and National Arion.

This year marked the first time since the awards began in 1949 that there was a tie for Bandsman of the Year. Duane Anderson and Eric Grieb were voted to receive the award by the members of the band. Leadership, years of service, cooperation, and musicianship were taken into consideration during the voting.

Duane, a trumpeter for the band, was very proud to receive the award and said, "I was glad to know I was respected by my classmates and that my presence was appreciated." His achievements include marching band (1-4), pep band (2-4), pep band president (4), jazz band (3, 4), wind ensemble (2-4), and band vice president (4).

Eric Grieb felt that receiving the award showed that everyone appreciated the job he did as drum major. Eric has been a member of marching band (1-4) and jazz band (2-4). He was also drum major (3,4) and participated in Marie Burns contest placing at the top.

Valerie Davis was named Chorister of the Year. This award is also based on leadership, years of service, cooperation, musicianship, and is voted on by members of the choir. Valerie has sung soprano in concert choir (1-4) and chamber choir (2-4). She has also won the Marie Burns and V. Esther Odoran awards for voice.

The National Arion award is given by Mr. and Mrs. Jeckavitch to a senior who has been an outstanding member of both band and choir. Brenda Ackelson was chosen to receive the award this year. Brenda was very happy about the award and said, "I really admire Mr. and Mrs. J., and I'm proud that they felt I deserved this award." Miss Ackelson has been a member of marching band (1-4), wind ensemble (1-4), concert choir (1-4), chamber choir (3,4), and stage band (3). She plays the oboe, baritone, piano, and is an alto. Brenda has also participated in the Youngstown Youth Symphony for three years and has received the Marie Burns and V. Esther Odoran vocal scholarships for three years, and she has also won the Odoran Accompanist Award for two years.

Rivalry Renewed

by Beth Haschen

Future confrontation between neighboring rivals West Branch and Salem was recently in the process of the possibility comeback.

Mr. Ray Steffen, Athletic Director, here at Salem High School remarks, "We will be playing them again." Consequently the chance of the rivalry taking its stand once again is positive.

The earliest possibility of the renewed meeting between the two schools is next winter. Salem has presented their options to bring the schools back to the competitive level.

Results of the effort will be known by the end of this month, most likely.

High School Memories

by Bobbi Galchick

June 7 is just around the corner, and on that day SHS seniors will most likely have a lot more on their minds than mere thoughts of graduation. Many will look upon their friends and classmates, in preparation for that big day, and four years of memories will flash through tear-filled eyes and smiling faces. Unfortunately, many of us must go our separate ways — but we will always remain together in our memories.

In the years to come, if you should happen to look upon this issue of The Quaker, you will no doubt reflect upon some high school memories of your own. I thought I would ask some of my friends which memories they most often thought of. Here are some replies:

- Kim Exline — Sue Patterson falling into the Salem Reservoir.
- Diane Moore — Going to Cedar Point with Bobbi, Sue, Kim, and Lisa and making a U-turn on the Ohio Turnpike.
- Kim Law — All parties sophomore year and the big brawl with Diane and Wendy.
- Heather Goodballet — same answer as Kim's.
- Sue Patterson — The big Cedar Point weekend.
- Lisa Esterly — Being honored as Homecoming Queen.
- Lisa Maroscher — Losing the turnpike ticket on our way to Cedar Point.
- Lori Tasker — My freshman year New Year's at Hollis.

Graduation Confusion

by Lisa Esterly

The very thought of me, as well as the rest of my classmates in the class of 1987, graduating gives a very definite feeling of confusion. To say the least, it feels great to know that if you choose, you'll never have to look at another textbook again. No more sitting through a boring study hall, or even detention, really gives your spirits a boost. Fighting the urge to have a sudden illness on an 80 degree day will diminish, as will the vast complaints about the school lunches. On the other hand, the thought of leaving all your friends for college, or not knowing if you'll be able to find a job or not, can really bring you down. You must realize that you are entering the adult world, and can no longer act like that spoiled brat. If attending a college is your choice, you'll soon learn that some professors do not care if you show up for a class or not. You do not have to do any assignments if you do not feel like it. Mommy or Daddy will not be around to bail you out everytime you start to feel the pressure. College tuitions are rising every year and must be paid for. Not everyone will have a problem adapting to their new life, or take advantage of their new found freedom. Some will even find that they have to get a job or a work study program just to stay in college.

EXAM DAYS

by Charles C. Dickey

Semester exams are the way we end the year. Each year at Salem the exams days are tiresome, but interesting.

For underclassmen the exam days are June 4 and 5. These days students go to 4 periods one day and the other 4 the next. The class periods are extended and there are 10 minutes between classes. Also the students get out of school both days at approximately 1:30.

For seniors their exam days are May 29, June first and second. This is because they are dismissed from school three days early. They have half of the last four periods on the 29th, then half of the first four periods on the first and the last half of the last four; and finish the last half of the first four on the second. After this on the second the seniors go to graduation practice.

This is how the exams are run. Schedules will be handed out.

IOE Update

by Anna Holwick

On March 25, Julie Miller represented our school in the Olympia National Scholastic typing Contest. The test consisted of a 20-minute production test and a 5-minute timed writing. An Olympia representative from Blend Office Equipment in Youngstown installed an Olympia ES95 electronic typewriter in our classroom for Julie's use during the testing. We are waiting for results of the test, in which 5,000 schools across the country competed. One student from each school was chosen to represent their high school.

On Saturday, April 11, several students from the IOE Department competed in the Youngstown State University Business Olympics. Twenty-three schools competed. We had four winners from our school; they are as follows:

1st place Julie Miller, Shorthand, Dictation and Transcription
2nd place Anna Holwick, Sales Presentation
2nd place Michelle Moulden, Word Processing

Congratulations To You All

The Seniors participated in the IOE Work Week May 11-15. This week enabled the seniors to gain on-the-job experience in the business world without pay. During Work Week we reported to our job site instead of school. All seniors mainly worked from 8-3, their duties included filing, telephone usage, typing, word processing, and accounting. We are happy to say that the Work Week this year was very successful. It was also difficult to come back to school.

On May 20 the Accounting/Clerical I class held the Fourth Quarterly Meeting. It was held in the High School Library; they honored the graduating seniors with awards and a luncheon. The speaker was Dave Firestone, an accountant for Arnold & Isabella CPA's.

The IOE Department would like to congratulate the graduating seniors.

Prom

by Anne Soriano

On May 1st, many of us experienced what some consider to be the highlight of the Junior and Senior high school years. Although almost everyone I know had a fabulous time (and some were glad to see it finally over), I personally, was sad to see the night terminate so quickly for a couple reasons: first, many people put in months of hard work, creativity, time, and patience only to be sadly lost in the — all too brief — 3 hours; and second, the atmosphere of the evening was very "picture perfect," for everyone was (and looked) so sophisticated — mature ladies and gentlemen enjoying a night out.

Regardless of my opinion, the night ended anyway, and I'd like to thank those who made the evening possible: Mrs. Szakacs, Miss Meenan, other staff members, Eric, Tonya, Kathy, the entire Prom Committee, the chaperones, the servers and escorts (who were very cooperative), those who made donations, those who attended and enjoyed, and everyone else. Hopefully that night will not be forgotten.

Senior Egg Week

by M. Thomas

On this Wednesday, May 6, 1987, The Quaker wishes to announce the following births:

Twin girls born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vitko.
Daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Steven Rosar.

Son, born to Mr. and Mrs. James Soyers.

Daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Dorsch.

Daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston.

This is all a part of family living, the class that is. On Wednesday, May 6, the couples who were "married" in class drew slips of paper telling whether or not they were to have a child. Then for each child they were presented with an egg to represent the fragile baby.

"I want them to learn that parenthood is a twenty-four hour job, that babies are very fragile, and you can't take your eyes off of them for a single moment. Having children is a very pleasurable experience, but it is also a tremendous responsibility that changes your lifestyle," states Mrs. Cozza. "I have done this for years. I somehow got hold of the idea when I was in school."

The goal of the project is to have the young "parents" feel the actual feeling, as if it were a real life situation. Such as, if your child was born with a serious disease, or handicapped in some way, or if the child became seriously ill. Then in some cases the parents couldn't have children, and they were faced with several alternatives, if they still wanted children. They could adopt older children of a minority race, they could wait and adopt new born babies, in which cases they had to wait until Friday, or they could spend a rather large sum of money and use a fertility drug and have the

Pops Concert

by Jillian M. Bonfert

Just recently Thursday, May 7, 1987, in the high school auditorium at 7:30 P.M. the 59th annual Spring Pops Concert was held featuring: The Salem High School Concert Choir
The Salem High School Chamber Choir, directed by Miss Joleen Kurtz
The Salem High School Symphonic Band
The Salem High School Wind Ensemble, directed by Mr. Jeff Jeckavitch
The Salem High School Percussion Ensemble, directed by Mr. Ken Alexander

The event created a Spring mood and is marked as the final performance of the 1986-87 school year performed by the Music Dept. This concert was not only special in that it was the last concert for the senior class, but also was special due to the substitute teacher the choir had the opportunity to work with, Miss Joleen Kurtz.

The concert choir opened with, "How Majestic is Your Name," arranged by Ed Lojeski and ended the first set with "Precious Lord, Take My Hand," arranged by Roy Ringwald with a descant performed by Miss Valerie Davis. Then the high school chamber choir opened with "Cantate Domino" by Giuseppe Pitoni, and ended with "Hear Me Singing" arranged by Ed Lojeski. Directly after the Concert Choir reopened for the second set which began with "Set Down Servant," soloists, Valerie Davis, Brenda Ackelson, Bill Grewe and Chris Chepard, and ended out their performance with "Broadway Show-Stoppers," arranged by Anita Kerr.

After intermission the Salem High School wind ensemble presented the "U.S. Field Artillery March" by John Philip Sousa and "Star Dust" by Hoagy Carmichael, arranged by Sammy Nestico. The Percussion Ensemble entertained with "Sabre Dance" by Khachaturian, arranged by Moore followed by the Wind Ensemble doing "Variations on a Korean Folk Song" by John Barnes Chance.

Rounding out the evening of entertainment was the Salem High School Symphonic Band with the following selections, "Minuteman March" by Robert Pearson, "Irish Tune" from County Derry by Percy Grainger and highlights from "South Pacific" by Rodgers and Hammerstein arranged by Philip Lang. Awards given were: Chorister of the Year, and Bandsman of the Year, closing with American Civil War Fantasy and National Arion Award by Jerry Bilik.

Miss Jolene Kurtz comments on the concert were, "I was very pleased with the overall performance, and it was a joy to work with the fine young musicians."

Hopefully, looking back on the fond memories of high school for these graduating seniors they will remember their final concert and go hand in hand with music in their hearts!

We love you Mrs. J!

Double D Concluded

by Jennifer Booth

"It will be two years since we have been together," Rio said. Everything that happened these past two years was big. Now, Max Headroom has joined the group. The Monkees had joined this past summer. Rio had more happenings than anyone else. Alannah, Joe, and Tom were in one big adventure. J. T. and the rest of the Double D were in a war. Mistress Grace and Master Sting played a big role, too. But, Rio was sad to say that the old gang is leaving for the last time.

Let us see what's going on in the group. The scene is the living room of the house of Robert Hugo. "What should we be doing for your commencement?" Mike asked. "Sleeping," Davy said. "This is really dumb," Micky said. There was a T.V. and Max Headroom popped into it. "Max is my name and finding Rio is my game," Max said. Simon had to walk in, when this happened. "What is this?" Simon asked.

In another part of town was Alannah and Tom with Rio. They were walking down the street. "I don't know how the guys are going to take this," Rio said. "It's all right if we don't squeal," Tom said. Nick walked over to where Rio was. "Stop right there!" Nick yelled. Rio, Tom, and Alannah took off in all different places. Max was very smart. He popped into T.V. in a T.V. and stereo store. "What the heck was that?" Max said.

Rio ran to a small toy shop. The owner was a guy by the name of De Pont. Rio ran into the shop and locked the door. Bobo an elf like man was keeping the store. "What is going on here?" Bobo asked. "Bobo I can't talk right now. I need to use the storeroom," Rio squealed. Rio ran to the storeroom and went in. Nick was on Rio's heels. But, the door was locked and Nick couldn't get in.

Max popped back into the T.V. at Robert's house. "Rio is at De Pont's toy shop." Max said. Mike, Micky, and Davy looked at the T.V. "Peter," Davy said. "Yes, and what do you want?" Peter said. "Oh, just nothing. Nothing at all. If we can't keep Rio in line, then, nobody can." Micky said. "I better warm up the car," Mike said.

Back at the toy shop Rio was trying to call De Pont on the phone. "Please, De Pont answer. Oh, hurry up with anything that you are doing and pick up that phone," Rio said. Bobo was just dusting dolls when he said, "De Pont is your friend and very busy. So, don't keep yourself in suspense any longer." "What do you mean?" Rio asked. "He has the gift." "Then, he knows that I'm trouble." "Who is in trouble?" a voice said. "De Pont!" Rio cried. De Pont opened up the door. He was the most unusual man that Rio ever knew. "The only thing that you should do is to go back to your people," De Pont said. Rio was sad but had to do it. Rio noticed that the Monkees were getting out of the car and walking towards the store. Rio went to the front of the store and waited for them to come in. Peter was first. Then, it was Mike and Micky. Then, it was Davy who was last coming into the store.

So, what I hear is that commencement went fine and The Group had something to say.

Alannah: Keep on hoping.

Tom: Eat your veggies.

Joe: Don't break up with love and life.

J.T.: Hi

Simon: We all love ya!

Roger: Don't be shy

Andy: Keep rockin'

Geme: Keep cool

Mac Man: Don't talk

Stone Shark: Everything is out there.

Mike: I am tired

Micky: Life is no dream

Peter: Groovy

Davy: I like those stories

De Pont: Wish, wish, wish

Bobo: Don't be breaking things

Mistress Grace: Be proud

Master Sting: See everything in a new light

Frankie: Don't buy anything

Peter: GO HOME!

Martin: Stay in school

Mark: Love your pets

Adam: Keep those ants out of the house.

Aretha: Drive on the freeway

Eden: Yea

Max Headroom: This iss MMaxx

Headroomm good-buuy.

Rio: I would like to say these past two years were hot.

Tennis Kept Winning Attitude

by Matt Althouse

Despite a losing record, Salem's boys' tennis team has kept a winning attitude.

Under the supervision of first year coach Mr. Bob Sabo, the Quaker netters marked their pursuit of a unique blend of competition and fun with their logo, a skull above cross-racquets.

This symbol, printed on the squad's official shirt, represents the teams deep character in several different ways.

Commenting on the team emblem, junior Jay Mager said, "It stands for the ferocity with which we face our opponents."

As Mager reflected, the team has made an effort to win, but the area competition is stiff. Unlike Salem, schools like Boardman train intensively year round, but that has not discouraged the Quakers who, as of May 15, had a 5-12 record.

"My objective this year was not just to win," says senior Mark Mueller. "I wanted to improve my game through healthy competition, have a good time, and represent Salem in high quality fashion."

Indeed, the team has done just that. When the players were in losing situations, they always attempted to maintain good sportsmanship and act respectfully.

Another aspect of the tennis logo is humor. The team was always trying to enjoy themselves, and the skull and cross-racquets expressed their light hearted style.

"You can really get down on yourself playing tennis," noted Mark Apicella. "It'll just make you play worse . . . I did better having a great time despite losing sometimes."

In some high schools sports, the pressure to excel is incredible and winning seems to be everything, however, Salem's boys' tennis team is different. Their distinctive flair for competition combined with a special brand of sportsmanship and fun is an exceptional example of how a team can have a losing record . . . and still come out on top.

The Quakers won it in the seventh on a double by Schuster who scored on Sommers single, Sommers was caught stealing, Seddon tripled, and scored on an error by the first baseman. After the game Jason Seddon stated, "Yes, I was 3 for 4 with two triples and a single. I think we're finally getting our act together." The next night the Quakers took on Campbell and won 3-0. The Quaker's Scott Sommers went the distance giving up three hits, no walks while striking out seven for the win. The Quakers scored once in the second on a catcher's throwing error, and twice in the fifth on a RBI single by Sanfilippo and a RBI single by Marks. The following week on a Monday the Quakers took on Struthers and won 1-0. This game proved to be the battle of pitchers with the Quakers' Paul Totani, who gave up four hits, four walks while striking out four for the win. The Quakers scored the only run of the game in the bottom of the seventh. The Quakers' Schuster singled, Exline pinch ran for him who stole but was replaced by Ellenberger after getting hurt. With two out Totani hit a short pop-up over short that fell for a single and scored Ellenberger with the winning run. Paul Totani stated that their defense was "Awesome" and he also stated, "I pitched one of my best games, but the best part was the winning hit." The next night the Quakers traveled to Struthers and lost a tough one 6-5. This loss dropped the Quakers to 6-2 in the M.V.C. and they are still in second place. The Quakers Scott Sommers suffered the loss going the distance giving up seven hits, one walk while striking out five. The Wildcats went up 6-3 on a two-run homer and RBI double in the bottom of the third. The Quakers scored once more in the fifth on a RBI by Anderson and once more in the top of the seventh on a solo homer by Marks. The following night the Quakers took on J.F.K. and lost the game 6-2, but the Quakers are still in second place in the M.V.C. The Eagles went up 2-0 on a two-run homer in the top of the first. The Quakers scored once in the bottom of the fourth on a RBI single by Sommers and once in the sixth on a triple by Schuster, who scored on a SAC fly by Seddon. The following week on Monday the Quakers opened the tournament against arch-rival West Branch. The Quakers lost the game in extra innings 9-8, who scored twice in the bottom of the eighth.
