How Much Will It Cost?

By Larry Zagotti

Tax dollars for this, tax dollars for that. What is our government doing with all this you may wonder? Well for one thing, research projects that you wouldn't even think of are getting grants from the government to be "researched." The projects are so outrageous that you can't help but laugh out loud.

Everything from falling in love to cow flatulence (otherwise known to us as breaking wind), to the well publicized rock and roll museum and so on are getting the pleasure of having our government spend money on them to broaden our minds. The cow business is to determine if cows that flatulate are hurting the environment. I'm sure that Mother Nature doesn't really care to smell and see if Elsie paid her a visit. Just imagine if space invaders came to earth and found this out. Here's the scenario: "Mork to Space Control. Earthly dairy creatures are creating havoc among the earth's population. None of us seem to understand what it is that the earthlings tried to do. They began to feed the creatures all kinds of food and soon things got out of control. I leave the rest to your imagination." That would be scary. But on the more enlightened side of life, the government has got other more important things to pay attention to, like the effects of drugs on families, setting up centers to help people like this, and other things. Gee, maybe they could even leave the Kurds alone and pay attention to our own "refugees", so to speak. They are the homeless people you see on TV every once in a while. They are all over the country and no one wants to do anything about them. Mr. Bush seems content on letting them stay in those ever so fashionable cardboard boxes. This is getting good. Maybe the government could even build them places to stay, like missions. The building of these places could provide temporary jobs and it would relieve the other missions of the left over people who they had to turn away because they were overcrowded.

The Rock N' Roll Museum isn't exactly needed either, and 49 million dollars just might be a little overexaggerated just to find out about rock stars of long past. Who knows, maybe Elvis would pay the place a visit. If Donny Walberg doesn't like it, he could always try his favorite hobby, arson. But he probably doesn't pay too many taxes, so what does he have to worry about. The sad fact is that the government would rather pay people to research the Beatles than to research other stuff like the effects of recycling on whatever.

If people can't understand love, the U.S. government certainly won't be able to. And I'm sure that I won't lose any sleep over the fact that I can't understand women or love. I don't think I'd lose any sleep over anything that the government is looking at. But anyway, maybe the Congressmen are having marital problems and they are trying their hand at one of the world's great mysteries. Who knows. There is no way that government will be able to find out the answers to such things as why opposites attract. For example, why a little short guy could get a woman seven feet tall. Or why women do the many weird things that they do. The whole federal budget would go down the drain.

With all this going around the government, who knows when it will stop. But the sad fact is that these cartoon type schemes are costing more and more and the tax dollars are heading for the proverbial $600 toilet. What a country, as that annoying Russian guy would say.

At last it's over!

By Larry Zagotti

When I started high school four years ago, I always wondered what it was like for the seniors who were going to graduate. I always wanted to know what kind of things went on during those final few days before commencement and all you-know-what broke loose.

But now, that time has come for my class. That fateful time when everything hectic seems to happen. Seniors don't seem to care about much except getting out of the place that has held them captive for four very, very long and (depending on what kind of person you are), ticked-off-teacher filled years. Most people can't get through their high school years without getting detention for something. Luckily, I've escaped that all four years. I haven't had detention since junior high and that was the biggest joke of a detention.

I'm sure the teacher who gave it to me remembers. She didn't exactly like me too well.

A certain feeling, (not a disease) overcomes the entire senior class when the time comes to turn in their term papers. (Which has no educational value what-so-ever.) It's called being very apathetic, or as the medical experts call it, apatheticism. Once that term paper is turned in, nothing seems to matter. The government could be overthrown and we wouldn't care one bit. Not that I do anyway. Nothing matters when the torture of the term paper is finally over with. It's a miracle that some seniors can keep their grades up during this time of year. All I want is to see that folder in my hand that says, "Congratulations! You've made it through. Now you can legally sleep in without having to get a tardy pass from the office." Teachers wonder why their students don't answer questions as easily as they did at the beginning of the year. First period teachers get the luxury of seeing their students falling asleep when they try to ask them questions and get somewhat intelligent responses. "Night of the Living Dead" seems to describe how some of these students appear when they sleep in and don't want to hear a teacher's voice that early in the morning. The teacher pauses for a moment, then gives the answer to the question himself, with a look of regret on his face. Even "senioritis," otherwise known as apatheticism, or its other name, the we-just-don't-care feeling. Questions of whether or not seniors even want to come to school this time of year are answered at this time of year as well. The answer to this should be obvious. "No!" I don't think that anyone could enjoy sitting in a hot building with 90 degree temperatures.

Then comes the planning of the graduation parties. Now these parties differ greatly in what kind of graduation party they are. You have your traditional family and friends party where your relatives ask you a million times what you plan to do after high school. Your answer should be, "to bug the heck out of you the rest of my life!" You even get the "pleasure" of seeing relatives you haven't seen for years at your party. At least you get some much needed graduation gifts and money.

Now the other kinds of parties are kind of self-explanatory. They involve no parents and lots of sleeping over at the house where the party or parties took place. These obviously are more popular with the students because no one cares what you are doing after graduation at these parties. Anything can happen and will at one of these "get togethers" among high school students. The cops are probably on 24 hour watch during these last few days for seniors. Most of the seniors want to go out with a bang and leave a lasting impression on the school and community. Even though this community basically, oh, how should I say this, stinks.

So with these final moments ticking away for seniors, it becomes more apparent that seniors just want out and don't care how they graduate, as long as they do. I share the same sentiments.

My stay in the U.S.

By Iris te Paske

I was asked to write about my year in the United States. I came to Salem last August and I will be leaving in less than three weeks.

Living in another country for a year is a great experience. Although Holland and the U.S. are a lot alike, there are also differences.

Being here with the holidays like Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas was really nice. First of all, in my country we don't have Halloween and Thanksgiving and Christmas is celebrated different (NO PRESENTS).

Also going to school here is different than going to school in my country. Most of the classes I have taken here, I couldn't take in Holland, because in the Dutch schools you can only take strictly academic classes.

Another advantage of being an exchange student is that you are on your own. You are independent. Of course, you live in a host family, but most decisions, you have to make on your own. YOU are responsible for everything YOU do.

When you live in another country where they speak another language, you learn to speak the language almost fluently. I spoke my English reasonably well before I came here, but now I speak it much better and more fluently.

I have enjoyed this year very much, but I also like it to go back to my own country again. This year really made me appreciate my own country. (Please, don't take it the wrong way. The U.S. is a great country to live in, but I have lived in Holland for 17 years and I like the way I live there!)

The only thing I regret is that I couldn't see more of the U.S. during my year here. Being used to Holland (one third of Ohio) and Europe, I had expected to see more.

The End?

By Julie Hippley

This year, my column has dealt with such issues as the deforestation of the tropical rainforests, the depletion of the ozone, and landfills. I've received both positive and negative comments on my articles, and even the negative ones were helpful.

Since this is my last article to write for my high school newspaper, I wanted to wrap up everything in a few short sentences. How do you sum up a year's worth of writing into one article?

Instead, I'll just say thanks to everyone who participated in my articles. I hope that my column made people think about our environment, and how delicate it is. Have a great summer.

We'll be seeing ya!

By Wendy Phillips

Being my senior year, I decided to write my last editorial, not my high school life in review, but what is to come. I think now is a time when all the growing up we did in these past twelve years has made us choose whom we want to become. All the events that shaped our personalities and influenced us have a direct affect on what we choose to do in our post-high school lives. One of the few things that got me through those tough times was the fact that I'd have another opportunity to do better, meet new people and learn new things.

College life, from what people tell me, can be the highlight of your lifetime. You experience new freedoms yet obtain new responsibilities. In short, you become closer to adulthood. The educational aspect of college will be an interesting switch from the regular 8 hour schedule. I will probably have to get used to the class I may have that contains 200 or more students. That won't be too bad. Now I won't have to put up with biased opinions teachers sometimes have. Socially, I have already had a taste of what college has to offer, and I find it very pleasing. I've visited many colleges from ones out in the country and in small towns, like Ohio Northern, Miami University, and Ohio University, to big town colleges like University of Akron, and Ohio State. I've had a blast at every one of them. If it was just for a day or the entire weekend, everyone is really nice and knows how to have a great time. I've had the opportunity to experience fraternal, and non-fraternal aspects and had equal amounts of a great time. Since college has both to offer, I am sure it will be great.

Focusing on Ohio State specifically, I think it will be the best time yet. Columbus is said to be one of the fastest growing cities in the country, which means more opportunities and better changes in the future. The school itself is said to be the largest single-campus school in the country, so it will have a lot to offer educational-wise. Since I will be in college, I will be able to concentrate more on the subjects that I am most interested in. With all the students that go there, it shouldn't be too hard to make new friends while still being with old ones. Two of my best buds are joining me, and five of them are already down there.

So while I am finishing up school here, thoughts of new experiences run through my head and bright aspects of the future. Although memories and friends of my high school years will always be with me, I eagerly look forward to college life and what it can do for me.

TACT Graduation Weekend

By Melanie Ballentine

The annual TACT Graduation party was held this past weekend, May 24-25. The night first began at the Golf Club with dinner, followed by a dance. WDVE DJ Bill Nemeth supplied the music and Ed Sullivan was on hand to draw caricatures of the students. Door prizes were supplied by area merchants. At midnight the gang met in the High School parking lot for a police escort out of town to the Cozza's house where food, music, swimming and lots of fun continued until 7:00. TACT parents made breakfast and got everyone on the bus to go to Bolivar for a canoeing trip down the Tuscarawas River. TACT parents had a delicious packed lunch with subs supplied by Nemenz Foodland for everyone when the ride was over.

The gang then boarded the bus back to the Cozza's to gather up their belongings and head for home with a lot of fond memories of the weekend.

Salem Students Honored At Awards Assembly

Academic excellence, service, and leadership abilities were recognized at the annual Academic Awards Ceremony. Excluding personal college awards, over $13,000 was distributed to deserving students. The approximate two hundred reward recipients were lauded for their academic performance, music, and art accomplishments. The Quaker Annual dedicates the yearbook to a ten year teacher that the students choose as exemplary of the teaching profession and really cares about the students. This year's dedicated teacher is Mr. William Esposito, English instructor.

Nostradamus

By Laci Reed
Fifth Of A Five Part Series

Are the natural disasters, nuclear war, and plague predictions all inevitable? Can man change the course of the future or are his chances of survival limited?

For the future, Nostradamus has predicted the following: In September 1993, "A horrible war which is being prepared in the West, the following year the pestilence will come, so very horrible that young nor old, nor animal (may survive). Flood, fire, Mercury, Mars, Jupiter in France." Here the prophet refers to a great pestilence as in the AIDS virus. He estimates that this plague could taint half of the world by the mid-1990's.

1997 — "The sky will burn at forty-five degrees (latitude of New York City). Fire approaches the New York City. In an instant a huge scattered flame leaps up..." By this time, New York City is to undergo nuclear attack.

July 1999 — "In the year 1999 and seven months the great King of Terror will come from the sky. He will resurrect Ghegis Khan before and after war rules happily." This dates the holocaust of 1999. This will result in twenty seven years of war and the final devastation of the world.

Easter 2000 — "A trembling of the earth at Mortara, The tin islands of St. George half sunk: Drowsy with peace, war will awaken, the abyss of the temple ripped open at Easter." England, or at least the southern part, will sink beneath the sea at this given point.

2026-3000 — "When the seventh millennium has come (2000 A.D.) there will then be a becatomb which will occur close to the millennium end. The those who entered the tomb will leave." Nostradamus predicts a

All Information Detrimental To Survival

By Richard Berg

"It is only through applied knowledge, understanding, and compassion that we will stop the spread of this deadly disease."

AIDS Prevention Update, 1990

In this time of great change one thing stands out as possibly being the next great killer of mankind. AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome), the famed killer of many homosexuals in the 80's, now squeezes it's evil hands around the necks of heterosexual couples around the world.

Contracting the disease is harder than most think. Expressed in the pamphlet Questions and Answers: AIDS and HIV, there are only a few limited ways to acquire the disease, these include:

* Having vaginal, anal, or oral intercourse with a person who has the virus.

* Sharing needles or syringes with a person who has the virus

* Getting transfusions of blood or blood products donated by someone who has the virus

* Contaminating open wounds or sores with blood, semen, or vaginal secretions infected with the virus

* Receiving organs transplanted from a donor who has the virus

* Having artificial insemination with the sperm of a man who has the virus

Also in the pamphlet, some of the symptoms of HIV and AIDS have been listed, including:

* The appearance of a thick, whitish coating of the tongue or mouth, called "thrush," which may also be accompanied by a sore throat.

* Periods of extreme and unexplained fatigue that may be connected to headaches, light-headedness and/or dizziness.

* Rapid loss of more than 10 pounds of weight that is not due to increased exercise or dieting.

* Bruising more easily than normal.

* Long-lasting occurrences of diarrhea.

* Recurring fevers and/or night sweats.

* Swelling or hardening of glands located in the throat, groin, or armpit.

* Periods of continued deep, dry coughing that are not due to other illnesses or smoking.

* Increasing shortness of breath.

* The appearance of discolored or purplish growths on the skin or inside the mouth.

* Unexplained bleeding from growths on the skin, from mucus membranes, or from any opening in the body.

Noted, many of these same symptoms are related to other illnesses. That's the way HIV and AIDS kill. The virus attacks the immune system of the victim, rendering immunization from other ailments near impossible. Within the recent five years, AIDS cases have nearly tripled in size. AIDS and HIV related cases have been presenting themselves in small rural communities around the nation. The only way to rid society of this deadly disease is to practice "safe sex" or have no sex at all.

Recently, Krista Blake, a graduate of Columbiana High School and known carrier of the HIV virus, spoke to Salem High students. Ms. Blake described how she, unlike others, contracted the disease through sexual intercourse. Ms. Blake stressed the use of condoms and "safe sex", and that "No sex is worth dying for."

I personally would like to thank Ms. Blake for talking to Salem High School, and informing some of the misinformed people that walk these hallowed halls.

All information was taken the following articles and pamphlets:

AIDS and HIV: Questions and Answers; AIDS, Sex, and You; Surgeon Generals Report on Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome; Children and AIDS; Common Misconceptions Among Teens.

Salem's Dream Season Ends at 19-5

By Jeff Cecil

Salem convinced any other unbelievers that this year's team was for real. Despite a 4-2 loss to Youngstown Cardinal Mooney at Pemberton Park on May 23, the 19-5 record is the best in school history.

In Salem's last few games, defense really played well. Salem's only recent smudge mark, until the district final game, was a hard loss to Struthers 4-3.

Salem entered the tournament with a first round bye, then going on to play against Youngstown Chaney, defeating them to go on against Marlinton. The Marlinton Dukes baseball team was nothing to take lightly at all, Marlinton being statewide ranked seventh by the Associated Press with an overall record of 22-4. Salem going into the game with a record of 19-4 really had to earn this one. Salem's Jeff Shirley solely led Salem's pitching staff going the distance for a 2-0 win, pitching an excellent game allowing only 4 singles to a team with over a .350 batting average, struck out 8 and walked 3, 1 of them intentionally. Salem also played an excellent defense game, screening every ball that could get past Shirley's arm. "The Quaker" would like to congratulate the 1991 Salem High School varsity baseball team on an outstanding year.

Kaine, On Track To Victory

By Anika Pierce

Over the past four years Theresa Kaine has become a valuable asset to both the cross-country and track team. She has added a great deal of depth and new meaning to the word "running". Her hard work, desire, and determination has helped her build strength and endurance. This has brought her many honors and the ability for SUCCESS!

Kaine has acquired many high honors for her running. These included earned trips to Columbus to compete with the state's best athletes. Competing in both cross-country and track she placed in the top ten. In cross-country her sophomore year she placed 33, as a junior fifth, and her senior year ninth. You must remember that she has changed in divisions each trip she has made. In track, she placed third in the two mile, third in the mile, and was a member of the two mile relay team which placed third.

She should return once again to Columbus for the state track meet in two weeks if things go right.

She has been running since sixth grade when she ran in a one mile road race with her sister Maureen. The time of 8 minutes and 13 seconds then inspired her to keep the running up.

Kaine has more to her life than just running. She is involved in TACT, German Club, Math Club, Academic Challenge, National Honor Society, and is graduating in the top ten of the senior class. She is planning to attend Ohio State University to major in German/physical therapy while she continues to run competitively for the Buckeyes.

On behalf of "The Quaker" we would like to wish Theresa the best of luck in her career as well as on the track!!!!!!

Running To Success

By Mat Kilgore

The Salem Track season is starting to come to an end. The boys and girls have had impressing seasons this year. Of course they would have liked to have done better. Everyone always wants a little more. The teams have made their marks in all of their competitions this year and will continue to do so in the future.

These two teams must once say good-bye to their comrades that they have run with all season. It is the end for this year. Unfortunately it is the end for most of the seniors this was their final hurrah. They leave with hesitance but along with that they leave with very fond memories that were created this year.

The girls have had an excellent year under the instruction of a new coach. Sometimes it is hard to come together with a new coach but the girls really came together. When asking some of the girls about their season they commented:

Porsche Hite - It has gone pretty well with having a new coach. It was hard to get used to but we adjusted.

Angie Pierce - Kind of average, a little slow and workouts were becoming harder with districts approaching.

Brenda Doyle - Pretty good, I worked hard and it payed off.

Errin Shasteen - Alright I guess, at first it was bad but it got better.

As shown by the attitude above the girls have worked very hard and deserve everything that they get.

The MVC track meet was run recently at Canfield. The team standings at the end of the girls meet were, Poland with 155 points, Salem 128 1/2, and Canfield finishing with 125. The boys scoring was, Canfield 116 2/3, Struthers 113 and Salem receiving 107. The boys placing from Salem were:

Eric Murray, 110 hurdles, 1st place, 300 hurdles, 5th place; Mike Rea, 1600 run, 2nd place, 800 run, 1st place; Tom Menning 1600 run, 3rd place; 3200 run, 3rd place; Kris Kornbau, 400 dash, 1st place, 200 dash, 4th place; Dan Johnson, 400 dash, 4th place; Dan Moffett, 800 run, 2nd place; Russ Zornick, 3200 run, 4th place; Claton Kibbler, discus, 6th place; Bob Pitts, shot put, 5th place; Carl Sommers, long jump, 6th place; Kevin Alesi, high jump, 3rd place; Ross Ramunno, pole vault, 3rd place; Dan Johnson, Russ Zornick, Steve Bedell, Dan Moffett, 3200 relay, 1st place; Kris Kornbau Dan Johnson, Mike Rea, Eric Murray, 1600 relay 1st place.

The girls placing were: Jenny Greenamy, 100 hurdles, 5th place; Stephanie Sadlowski, 100 dash, 3rd place, 200 dash, 2nd place; Kim Manning, 100 dash, 4th place, high jump, 1st place; Theresa Kaine, 1600 run, 1st place, 800 run, 1st place, 3200 run, 1st place; Tricia Wilms, 1600 run, 3rd place; Kristie Stewart, 400 dash, 3rd place; Angie Pierce, 300 hurdles, 6th place; Amy Heineman, 800 run, 6th place; Amy Coy, 200 dash, 5th place; Amy McDevitt, discus, 2nd, shot put, 3rd place; Porche Hite, discus, 5th; Amy Heineman, Tricia Wilms, Maureen Kaine, and Theresa Kaine, 3200 relay, 1st place..

Theresa Kaine received an award for receiving the highest points scored in running events at the MVC track meet.

Salem's girls continued their success by placing second in the Austintown Division II District track meet held last weekend. Theresa Kaine advanced to regional competition, which has been held at Kent this past week. Kaine won the 1600 and 3200 runs, finished second in the 800, and anchored the victorious 3200 relay team. The 3200 relay team included Amy Heineman, Tricia Wilms and Maureen Kaine. Other Salem girls qualifying were Kim Manning in the high jump, and Salem's 800 relay team. The boys 3200 relay team, and Mike Rea's sparkling performance in the 1600 meter run highlighted the Salem boys competition in the Division I District meet at Austintown. Both Rea and the 3200 boys relay team will move on to Division I regional competition this week.

Basketball Costa Rica Style!

By Terry Beall

This summer members of the Salem High School basketball team will travel to Costa Rica and participate in competitions and developed fundamentals with Costa Rica players. Coach Spack and Coach Allen will accompany the 13 players on the trip. The players will also experience some of the culture in Costa Rica as they travel to parks, museums, and stay with local families. The players will have to pay for their trip, but donations have helped out with the cost. Along with donations, the players have raised money by removing the old bleachers, holding an alumni day, and other various fund raisers were held. The trip was set up by Coach Spack and his Costa Rica contact, Rafael Vargas. Vargas was an AFS exchange student at Salem in 1986 and invited Coach Spack to his country. Coach Spack has been involved in working out all of the details for the trip since last June. The team will be gone from June 23 to July 5.

Swing For It All

By Wayne Kaminski

As the girls regular softball season ended they found their way to the tournaments.

Although Salem played Girard twice during the regular season and won both times, they lost to Girard 5 - 3. Amanda Ciotti pitched all three times against Girard, and Coach Conser said that she pitched very good against them and good through the whole season. Girard had 12 strike outs against Salem and they hit the ball well. Coach Conser predicts next year's team to be excellent although they are still building. Conser thinks that Amanda Ciotti will be an even better pitcher next year. The JV's also did well this season finishing up with a winning record and they are predicted to be even better next year. Both the Varsity and JV teams worked well as a team and they all shared and played equally to finish as a team with a winning season and sharing team efforts.

Striving Over The Net

By Anika Pierce

As the season came to an end at sectionals the tennis team is still holding it's head up high. All of the members made it into the second round of action, but were eliminated and did not advance any further. Overall the team was 7-12 on the season and is improving each season, because the younger players keep the desire needed to win. This year's team included:

First singles: Jeff Mooney
Second singles: Andy Brothers
Third singles: Brian Hadcock
First doubles: Jacob Bails and Ken Lee
Second doubles: Ernie Wukotich and Jason Clark
Congratulations on a fine season and good luck next year!

Will There Be Home Games?

By Melissa McCrae

Where will the home football games for the 1991-92 season be played? That is one of the most asked questions when it comes to discussion about the football stadium's completion.

The date for the completion of the construction for the new football stadium is set for August 1. Mr. Steffan, athletic director, is hopeful that it will be completed by then. The football team will play on it if the facilities are playable. Steffan feels that if the team has to play on another field that this will have some effects on the players; but if they are good players that they will overcome this handicap. The players have been gearing themselves for the possibility of having to play on an away football field.

Head football coach Rich Washinko tries not to get too concerned about where the team will be playing. He would rather have games at the new stadium here; but if they have to be played somewhere else then the coaches and players will try to focus on the aspect of winning games opposed to the location of where they will be played.

My thanks to Mr. Steffan and Mr. Washinko for talking to me about how the football stadium is coming along.

Congratulations!
