

Salem's 1991 Homecoming Queen Jennifer Jo Rice and her escort Steven J. Bailey.

A Queen Has Been Crowned

by Kevin Wolford

As you already know, Jennifer Jo Rice became this year's 1991-92 Football Homecoming Queen on Oct. 11. She was escorted by Steve J. Bailey and was the first person to be crown queen in the new Reilly Stadium. The event was really exciting for Salem students and its community.

Rice, who is a senior, has been in cross-country for three years and will be going on her fourth year in track. She is also in TACT and SADD. When Rice was asked how she felt about being crowned queen she said, "I was very surprised and honored. I really enjoyed the event, and I'm glad that I got the chance to share it with all of my friends." As far as her future plans are concerned, she plans to major in nursing at Youngstown State University.

Although Salem suffered a defeat to Struthers, 24-6, that night, people still celebrated the new queen with a dance after the game in the high school's cafeteria. Many people attended the dance. Entertainment for the dance was provided by D.J. Bruce Williams.

We, the journalism staff, would again like to congratulate Jennifer Jo Rice for becoming the new queen along with the homecoming court.

Proficiency Exam to be Taken Next Week

by Nicole McLaughlin

The Ninth Grade Proficiency Exams will be taken again this year on Nov. 18-21. These state-developed exams were taken for the first time last year. They are for the purpose of measuring academic ability. All freshmen are required to complete tests in four major areas: reading, writing, math, and citizenship.

A new diploma system is also set up by the Proficiency Exams. This system consists of four different levels. The type of diploma a student receives depends on how he performs on the tests.

If after completing the high school curriculum a student has failed to pass the ninth grade exam, he will receive a Certificate of Attendance. Students passing the ninth grade test and completing the curriculum are given a Diploma of Basic Competency. A Diploma with Distinction is awarded to those who pass the twelfth grade exam and meet extra requirements set up by the school district. The highest level of the diploma system is the Diploma with Commendation. This certificate is awarded to students who pass the twelfth grade exam and meet additional standards set forth by the State Board of Education.

Any student who does not pass the test this month will have to take it again in March. Furthermore, all students who are absent on testing dates will be required to make up any portion of the exam that they missed. Sophomores who have not yet passed all four parts of the test will be retaking the needed sections at the same time as the freshmen.

The writing exam will be taken on Monday, Nov. 18 during first and second period. On Tuesday, Nov. 19, the reading exam will be taken during third and fourth period. The math and citizenship tests will be taken on Wednesday, Nov. 20 during first period and Thursday, Nov. 21 during fourth period respectively. Students are asked to bring two No. 2 sharpened pencils with erasers and a paperback to read. Schoolwork will not be permitted during testing. To all students who will be taking the exams next week, good luck and do your best.

Student Council

Advisor: Mrs. Montleone
President: Mary Rottenborn
Vice President: Amy Heineman
Secretary: Heidi Auman
Treasurer: Ryan Keating
Activities: The United Way was a great success with a total of $71.93 to share with certain charities. Thanks to all those who helped out. The month of November will be mostly dedicated to preparing Thanksgiving baskets for families to have during the holiday season. The Senior Lounge is currently underway and hopefully our seniors are enjoying their special privileges. Our Student Council Representatives are presently organizing an exchange day with other schools in order to get new ideas for our school system. Twelve members of Student Council attended the Leadership Conference in Canton recently and have brought up some fresh ideas for Salem Schools in general. A can food drive is a strong possibility for the month of December.

Yearbook

Advisor: Mrs. Tina Hays
Editor: Porsche Hite
Activities: The Yearbook Staff is stressing the fact that all senior pictures that are not in by now, should be in as soon as possible. The deadline is running down quickly. Also, seniors are reminded to bring in their senior activity forms as quickly as possible. The yearbooks are still on sale for $22 until December 6 which in turn will be selling for $25.

Math Club

Advisor: Mr. Trough
Activities: The Math Club holds meetings every Wednesday after school and are planning to go to competitions throughout the year. The club is still looking for new members to join (especially the underclassmen).

Class of 1995

Advisor: Mrs. Kress
President: Brian Dean
Vice President: Matt Kunar
Secretary: Ian Weir
Treasurer: Mark Ramunno
Activities: The freshman are looking at several activities they could possibly do in order to raise money. The Freshman Advisory Committee met recently and have decided to do a Weigh-In for the classes. This activity entails working with all four classes and it deals with whoever can get the most people out of their class to weigh in. The class with the most weight on their total will receive a special prize. They also have decided to hold a raffle which in turn will help them make money for a trip of their choice.

W.O.T.S. Up For Administrative Secretaries?

On Friday, October 11, 1991, the Administrative Secretarial II (I.O.E.) class at Salem High conducted their first professional business meeting of the new school year. Mr. Vic Maroscher, Vice President of Sales for M & M Industries, was the guest speaker and talked to the students from the Junior and Senior I.O.E. classes about the realities of the business world.

He stressed that a high school education sets the fundamentals for life. One of the most important things gained from going to high school is not necessarily the specific academics but the fact that individuals become predictable, reliable, and a problem solver—skills that are all vital for success in life beyond high school. He added that these are the skills that employers also seek out in potential employees.

To further address the issue of what business people are looking for when hiring employees, he emphasized that communication skills are very important. He also encouraged the students to not generalize but to specialize in a technical area for added success.

In regard to making decisions about choosing a career, an employer, a college or postsecondary school, a class (or even a mate), he shared with the students a bit of advice he had learned from a professor at Arizona State University. "Always check out W. O. T. S. UP." He then went on to explain that for every major decision an individual makes, one should be aware of the Weaknesses, Opportunities, Threats, and Strengths associated with the decision. To find out W. O. T. S. UP, Mr. Maroscher told the students to keep informed by reading newspapers and magazines, watching and listening to the news and informative programs on TV and radio, and to keep listening to and paying attention to what is going on around them as well as in the world.

He closed his presentation by encouraging the students to focus on enjoying whatever they choose to do. Being motivated, challenging oneself, remaining confident in one's own skills and abilities, as well as being aware of what is going on in the world are all fundamental skills that will help success become reality.

Another Boring Weekend

by Alicia Chuey

...Can't find anything to do on the weekends? You're not alone. Over 50 percent of the teens in Salem sit at home with nothing to do on the weekends and adults wonder why we're so "hyper" and anxious all of the time. It's mostly because we can not find anything to do to take away some of our excitement.

There is no place for us to just sit and talk to our friends. If you go in McDonald's you can't just sit and talk. You have to buy something to eat or drink. If you don't follow this rule one of the security guards will come up and ask you to leave. There is absolutely no place for students to just hangout. If you want to hangout, you have to go to a friend's house or your own, BUT don't we usually want to hangout to get away from home and parents? If you go to someone else's house with the parents there watching your every move, it's a bit uncomfortable.

A lot of people who go cruising will end up seeing some of their friends and want to pull over and talk. There just so happens to be one problem with that, you're not allowed. If you pull over on the side of the street, the cops will come by and ask you to leave. While we're still on the subject of cruising, it can only be fun for so long. I don't know about you, but it gets tiring looking at the same streets, buildings, signs, and cars for a long time. It also uses ALOT of gas. Cruising can be a real blast if you're with the right people, in the right place, at the right time. Other than that it can be a big blur. However, there are some things people do to liven it up a bit. They will get about five or six cars and play hide and seek. They drive around all of the side streets and try to find who is where. It does keep your attention and it's a lot of fun. There are times when it gets out of hand and they start speeding. You'll end up with people doing 40 MPH in a 25 MPH zone.

My friends and I will be sitting together trying to figure out what to do the weekend coming up. When we decide to go to the movies, we're all for it. The question of "what's playing?"

comes up and someone says what's there, then you hear "still?" Some movies stay at the movie theater for up to four weeks. That gives the public of Salem time to go see it four times.

A lot of people I have talked to would like to see a teen club. For instance, Jen Metcalf said, "I would like to have a place where everyone can go and have a blast! If there was such a place, I would go there." Alvina Karlis said she would like a dance place. And then we have Carri Williams who wants to get caught stealing pumpkins, have underwater basketweaving and sleep.

Do you know where that old drive-in is next to Foodland? Why would it be "oh-so-difficult" to reopen it. Drive-ins are really cool. You wouldn't have to get out of your car, you wouldn't have to move out of people's way when they want food. Right now the old drive-in is just sitting there rotting away. There would be no problem finding people to work. There are plenty of people that will work there.

The Unsung Hero

by Ashlee Charnesky

Wow! The football team did pretty good this year. I guess they deserve all the hand shakes, pats on the backs, and good jobs's they get. They really wanted to have a good season, and they did but who else wanted our team to have a good season? Parents, students, pep club with their little bags of candy, and girlfriends (for those who have them) working hard on covering shoe boxes with felt and filling them with yet more candy. Sure, they all want to help out but I feel it's the cheerleaders who work the hardest out of all the teams fans. Cheerleaders put in hours of hard work practicing cheers and dances, making signs that end up getting destroyed as the team runs through them at the beginning of the game and decorating the cafeteria with signs to encourage not only the football team, the cross country team, soccer team, tennis team, golf team, volleyball team and all the other fall sports.

This year there are people that feel the cheerleaders have slighted the football team. The cheerleaders along with Mrs. Bryant have taken a lot of heat this year about a number of different things. First, when I talked with Mrs. Bryant she told me that the cheerleaders have stopped using balloons in the pregame show because of the environment. The balloons are simply hurting the wildlife and because our generation is very ecology minded today they have ceased to use them. In order to make the pregame more interesting they have come up with the idea of the tunnel, taken from the University of Michigan. This is the first time the high school has seen anything like running through the portable tunnel. The cheerleaders feel this is very special and the team has seemed to enjoy doing it.

The cheerleaders have also been asked why they have not put signs in the players yards. "This is not a cheerleading activity," says Bryant. In the years past the players who were lucky enough to have a "Good Luck" sign in their yard were the ones who, once again, had girlfriends who might have been on the cheerleading squad but did the sign making entirely on their own. It was not done by a cheerleader, it was as a girlfriend who cared. The marking of goodie bags falls into the same categories. The cheerleaders do not make the football players goodie bags because a cheerleader is not for one single sport. If the cheerleaders made goodie bags for the football team then they would feel compelled to do so for every fall sports team in the school system and the pep club has that covered. Cheerleaders don't single out the football team.

School spirit is the first priority for the cheerleaders and what a better way to show school spirit than having a pep assembly. The last pep assembly held on Oct. 31 was not too bad except for the fact that the sound system wasn't loud enough. Pep assemblies are a rarity in this school. The last pep assembly, before the one on the 31, was held in 1989. Why did the cheerleaders wait so long to have another one? Well, one cheerleader took it upon herself this year to write to The Salem News about the cause of our school not having pep assemblies. She thought the cause was the rowdy senior class of 1990. This is not true. The reason no pep assemblies have been planned since then has been due to the cause of a poor sound system. Those of us in the Junior and Senior class can remember the huge pep assembly when the fall sports were all honored and there was no sound. It was nothing but a time to talk. Which is probably what we were all doing and I would have been doing too, if I hadn't been a cheerleader that year. In a survey that was taken a few years back by Mrs. Esposito, students responded that not all of them wanted to attend the pep assemblies. Mrs. Bryant and student council decided that for those who wanted to support school spirit and attend the pep assemblies could do so by wearing red and black and those who were not interested and wore purple and garbage green could stay in class. This is how the students were allowed to attend or not attend on Oct 31.

The cheerleaders feel that they have done just as much for the football team and the other athletic teams as they have done in the past. "Spirit is not a six person job. The word cheerleader implies crowd will follow the cheers. If they do not wish to the cheerleaders can not do anything about it. Such as the case of the new stadium," says Bryant. It seems that the height of the stands are posing a real problem for the cheerleaders. They are not being seen or heard. During the last game of the season the cheerleaders became so frustrated when the crowd was not paying attention they moved on to the stand and lead a crowd cheer from the front of the benches.

The cheerleaders have put up with a lot this season. From being put-down by parents to the problem of the new stadium. It makes me wonder if all the things they do are appreciated. So, I decided to ask the cheerleaders and the football players how they felt.

Do you think the cheerleaders are appreciated by the team?

Stephanie Roberts (11) Yes, because they know that even when they're down we're ready to cheer them on.

Julia Lesko (10) No, They don't make any attempt to let us know they care if we're there or not.

Betsy Moffett (11) Team, Yes.

Parents, No.

Do you appreciate the cheerleaders?

Nick Schneider (12) Yes, Their enthusiasm pumps me up when I'm down.

Jason Aldom (11) I don't really notice them.

Brian Lippiatt (12) Heck Yeah, They motivate me, Especially when they jump up and down.

Do you think crowd participation would decline if there were no cheerleaders to lead the cheers?

Debbie Sholes (11) Yes, Most people don't cheer anyway.

Heather Horstman (10) Yes, Someone has to get the crowd started they don't do it themselves.

Billie Briceland (10) Yes, I don't think they can do it on their own.

Does it help to hear the cheerleaders are still cheering you on when the team is losing?

Jeff Andres (11) No. Definitely not. What cheerleaders?

Jeff Carr (11) No, I don't pay attention to them.

Mike Bigham (11) No, you don't really notice them.

Well, is it worth it now girls? Next year when your putting your all into try outs, camp, signs for the cafeteria, and practice make sure you don't mind not getting the recognition you deserve. Just do it for yourself. You deserve all the hand shakes, good seasons, and great work you get too.

Powder Puff- To Be Or Not To Be?

by Angela Sicilia

It has been a yearly tradition that our school has had a Powder Puff game between junior and senior girls. A friendly competition, brought out a group of girls to a challenging day of fun. Friends were made, girls learned to work and play together, and it was something everyone looked forward to. But this year, we were told there would be no game. Why, we ask? There was no reason or justification for the cancellation of the game.

After talking with our principal, Mr. McShane, he stated that there was not enough time to schedule the game in the stadium. The idea of the game was to have fun, raise money, and complete a mission. Mr. McShane feels that everyone thinks of the game as a big rivalry. But it is not!

unfair to cancel Powder Puff because of a fight. There are different people playing and whether or not we should have the game again, should not be decided by what happened last year."

Jennifer Metcalf, junior — "Everybody is spirited and energetic about it and will not stop until we get it!"

Karen Honeywell, senior — "I really think that we should have it! It would make it more fun if some of the guys got to commentate the game."

Ben Citino, junior; Jeff Andres, junior; Mike Bigham, junior; Jeff Carr, junior; Bob Pitts, junior — "It is a darn shame! We really wanted to be cheer-leaders."

Seniors Jud Linder, Ron Tafini, Rich Caldwell and Sam Sicilia indicated that it gives the students another activity to attend, perhaps keeping some out of trouble.

Can or should we bring back the Powder Puff game? What is your opinion after hearing both sides of the issue?

A Time To Give Thanks

by Melissa McCrae

Touch down Cowboys! Turkey with stuffing! Mashed potatoes and gravy! Pumpkin Pie.

Things we take for granted as a Thanksgiving day were not as easy during the early days celebrated by the Pilgrims and Indians.

Thanksgiving was a celebration to give thanks for the bountiful harvest and to give thanks for the past year of plentitude.

The date for the first Thanksgiving is not known. We think of it as when the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts. We now know that some celebrations for the harvest were celebrated in the 1620's and the idea of Thanksgiving once a year developed from these ideas.

In 1846 a woman by the name of Sarah Josepha Hale started a campaign to make Thanksgiving a national holiday.

She wrote letters and editorials to presidents, state governor's and other influential people. Ms. Hale's hard work paid off on Oct. 3, 1863 when Abraham Lincoln proclaimed Thanksgiving would be celebrated on the last Thursday of November.

So keep on enjoying all the things that become thankful to your family and remember to give thanks for all you have.

Here is a small sample of what some student's at Salem High School are thankful for. Crystal McCallister, senior - Thankful for being alive, my family, my friends and especially being a Senior and getting out of school in 1992. Michelle Hum, Senior - Thankful for my family and my two dogs, my friends, and for being alive. Jenni Covert, Senior - Thankful for my life, my health, and my friends and family.

In 1846 a woman by the name of Sarah Josepha Hale started a campaign to make Thanksgiving a national holiday.

Quaker's Proposal on Student Expression

We, the staff of "the Quaker," in order to promote quality reading material through the use of free speech and opinion, do hereby abide by and take protections under the ideals and principles of the First Amendment, the Constitution, and other various court rulings. It is our duty to keep our readers currently informed of school activities.

We are also obligated to avoid any form of libel, obscenity, invasion of privacy, and any subject which may cause a disruption in the community or in the normal routine of the school day. If at any time felt appropriate, the principal can reserve the right to edit or censor any material that he considers in any way to be inappropriate for publication.

Since "the Quaker" is a student forum, we encourage from our readers any feedback in the form of essays, letters, etc.

American Education Week Observed in Salem

by Emma Roush

The Salem Education Association is joining with other state, national and local education organizations in celebrating American Education Week, which will take place this year from Sunday, November 23. The theme of this 70th annual observance will be, "Schools and Communities: Partners for a Strong America."

The focus of the week will be on reminding the public that education is a team effort. Quality education demands the involvement not only of teachers, students, and parents, but of the whole community.

Elected officials, business leaders, community service agencies, school support personnel, senior citizens, and employers, have been asked to play a role in educating today's students for the complex world they're about to inherit.

American Education Week has been an annual event since 1921, when it was established by the National Education Association and the American Legion. The 1991 observance will be cosponsored by NEA, the American Legion, the U.S. Department of Education, and nine other national education organizations. In observance of American Education Week, "The Quaker" wanted to get impressions of teachers about the following question:

What is teaching really like?

Mrs. Arter: Teaching is an everyday challenge. Not only must a teacher have his lessons well prepared; he must be willing to attempt to meet each student's individual needs. Just trying to anticipate the needs of today's students can be overwhelming.

Teaching can be very rewarding. There are times when a former student comes back to thank you and tells you that you did, in fact, "make a difference."

Mr. Viencek: Teaching is imparting knowledge to another. Teaching is watching someone take something abstract and convert it to that which is tangible. Teaching is helping a person see himself and his world more clearly.

Mr. Krcelic: Teaching is like jumping from one snow capped mountain top to another while the valley below is 110 degrees.

Teaching is watching your eyes light up as you finally "see" how to solve a problem.

Teaching is watching you do homework because you have a desire to learn.

Teaching is hearing you say a kind word to the person no one seems to notice.

Teaching is watching you mature. Teaching is watching you take a chance, daring to be different, taking the road less traveled by.

Teaching is hearing you ask why, and then asking why not.

Teaching is receiving a letter from a former student.

Teaching is watching you take charge of your life.

Teaching is people, wanting to know everything they can.

Teaching is creating, molding, shaping life.

Teaching is carpe diem.

Teaching is about changing.

Teaching is Everything.

Mrs. Tina Hayes: Sometimes rewarding, sometimes discouraging, always challenging, always changing. No two years are ever alike, just as no two classes are ever alike. I don't feel college courses really prepared me enough for the challenges and situations we face everyday.

Mrs. Conkle: Teaching is really a challenge — especially if students are not in a frame of mind for learning. However, I enjoy working with the students, and it is rewarding to see them succeed in the business world and feel that you may have played a small part in getting them ready for it.

Mr. Ladner: Teaching involves growth, specifically, the growth of the student. With growth comes pain and success. The challenge to help in the growth of a student is difficult, but very rewarding.

Mrs. Helen Hayes: Exhilarating, exhausting, delightful, discouraging, satisfying, trying, stimulating, boring, all in the same day.

POETRY CORNER

by Beth Hogbin

Listen up! In every issue of the Quaker there will be a special section for any student or students who wish to submit an original poem. Get together with a friend or write one yourself! Feel free to send in any poem. Several students in Mr. Ladner's College English classes wrote the following poems.

Our first selection is by: Angie Pierce, Stacy Koch, and Terra Baquer

*Thou art within the blood of my veins
Which keepeth me alive
You cover up my sorrows and pains
That society doth revive.
I live in a life of fantasy
Perfect in my mind,
And yet the resulting ecstasy
Is not of a lasting kind.
My body is not own,
Possessed by your wicked force.
The need of your presence has grown, Resulting in only remorse.
This addiction has overcome me
How I long to be free.*

The next selection is by: Allyson Kilmer, Jennifer Jo Rice, and Brandi Ickes

*Love is like a flower
In the meadow that bloome.
It grows with vivacious power
And makes everything go varoom.
It affects you deep down inside.
And heads straight for your heart.
Its a feeling you just can't hide
When you feel that painful dart.
It sometimes makes you happy
It sometimes make you sad.
It makes you get just so sappy
But never think that love is bad.
Love is something that you should share
And never forget to show you care.*

The final selection is by: Matt Cope, Kirk Gainor, and Mike Grande

"FOOL"

*Everyday a fool is born
The greatest fool am I
Your the one who made me so
And here's the reasons why
I love your eyes, I love your kiss
I love the way you walk
I love your smile,
I love your laugh
I love the way you talk
I'd love to have your arms around me every time we kiss
To have you very close to me is really what I wish
I'd love to be your only love, to know that you are true
I'd love to have you know that, my only love is you
I'd love to have you feel the pain I feel deep inside
I'd love to have it hurt until you'd found you'd start to cry
And yet because I say this, its not because I'm cruel
But these are the feelings of the lonely hearted fool.*

Thanks go out to all the poets who participated and keep them coming!

Administrative Secretaries Check It Out

Students enrolled in the Intensive Office Education (IOE) Administrative Secretarial programs at Salem Senior High School recently had an opportunity to learn about checking accounts and banking services first hand. On Tuesday, October 8, 1991, Ms. Theresa Everson, a bank employee for 30 years, visited the classes to explain the various banking services available at Consumer's National Bank.

The students are currently studying checking accounts and banking services in the accounting aspect of their office education. Her presentation began with an explanation of the difference between a NOW account and a regular checking account. After explaining the various types of endorsements used by customers, she stressed the importance of endorsing a check properly. In addition, students were informed that under no circumstances should a customer write a postdated check and of the dangers involved in doing so.

Samples of the different styles of personal and business checks and deposit slips were shown and explained. As part of the presentation each student was given a sample check and a deposit slip as she explained the various codings and the correct procedure for completing both of these forms.

The students were encouraged to do comparative shopping for a checking account and were reminded to always check the accuracy of their banking transactions before leaving the drive-thru or teller's window. In addition, Ms. Everson stressed the importance of prompt reconciliation of the bank statement with one's own checking account. She informed the students that the bank is willing to help a customer reconcile their statement if necessary.

Other banking services discussed during Ms. Everson's visit were savings accounts, safe deposit boxes, and their new "Consumer's Gold" program. The students were appreciative of Ms. Everson and Consumer's National Bank for providing an informative presentation that will help them in the future. Mrs. Dorothy Conkle and Mrs. Linda Schneider are instructors of the Administrative Secretarial Programs (IOE) at the high school.

Have You Heard

by Emma Roush

Well, another—paper, more gossip. One thing I don't understand is, why we barely had anything turned in for the column when I know for a fact this school is full of gossip. You walk through the halls or in the cafeteria everyday and hear more gossip than you can remember. Oh well, here's the latest!

Melinda Cope wears Nelson Cope's knee socks.

Brandi Ickes loves to get into fights with Arbogast employees.

Shannon Hollister's nickname is Shannon Lynne-e 34B Pees her pants.

The Fruit Roll up man hasn't taken a shower for a week.

Alex Clark and Tyler Minamyler like to smell lysol.

Terra Baquer is a big bad fighting machine.

Mike and Beau lost their loving feeling at Camp Fitch.

Mary Rottenborn and Allyson Kilmer tried to unplug the sink with a shoe.

Camp Fitch counselors rode on top of luggage (almost to the ceiling) all the way to Camp Fitch.

If anyone has any good gossip that they may happen to hear send it into the "Quaker."

Dr. Wutsup answers your questions

By Dr. Wutsup

Dear Mr. Wutsup,

I have lost a person that I care very dearly for. My feelings have been hurt; but I really want to get her back. She won't even give me the time of day to explain. I realize I've caused much pain too; but am I not worth another chance. What should I do?

Signed,
Confused

Dear Confused,

Well, as I see it, you have a couple of options. First of all, you could approach the person in question and tell them that you are very deeply hurt by their actions and you are trying to find it in your heart to forgive them for the pain that they have caused you. I feel that if this person is any kind of friend or whatever the relationship between you and this person was that they would find it in their hearts to at least listen to your side of the story and give you another chance. Good Luck! I hope things can be worked out between you and the other party.

Signed,
Dr. Wutsup

Dear Dr. Wutsup,

I'm having trouble in one of my classes. The teacher moves really fast and I cannot keep up. I'm so far behind, and my grades are showing it. What should I do?

Signed,
Lost

Dear Lost,

I think that, first of all, you could ask the teacher of that class if they would explain the subject to you again so that you understand it. If you still don't understand what is going on in that class then my next suggestion would be to get extra help.

Signed,
Dr. Wutsup

Dear Dr. Wutsup,

Recently I lost a very close friend that I loved dearly in a car accident. I don't think that I can stand to live without him. What should I do to ease some of the pain?

Signed,
Really Scared

Dear Really Scared,

I think that the best thing to do in your situation would be to remember the good times that you had with this person and when you think about your friend, share your feelings with someone that you are close to, and they will understand how you feel. I know nothing will ever bring your friend back and make up for the loss you are suffering; but as time goes on, I hope that you will be able to deal with your loss.

Signed,
Dr. Wutsup

Does Sexual Harassment Exist?

by Kristy Ebinger

To exist is to continue. Of course sexual harassment has been a concern in society but has it continued to be? Yes. Sexual harassment is not a joke and has never been. Although the chances of it occurring frequently in a small town like Salem are thin, it still exists.

Sexual harassment is worldwide and appears in businesses among employers and employees, at school between peers, and even occurs at greater levels like our national government. There is the case of Clarence Thomas, 43-year-old lower court judge, who was charged with sexual harassment and later was appointed to the supreme Court. Now whether he is guilty or not is not the case, the fact that the issue did come up proves that harassment does exist.

What is sexual harassment? The definition is broad and is sometimes just left forgotten. Found in an issue of the Salem News according to the Civil Rights Act of 1964 there are two types of sexual harassment: an employee is subject to unwelcome sexual advances and submission to them is made the basis for firing, hiring, advancement (you give something and get something in return). Any type of unwelcome sexual behavior creates a hostile work environment. There are several categories of sexual harassment some more severe than others:

- Unsolicited and unwelcome flirtations, advances or propositions
- Graphic or degrading comments about employee's appearance, dress, anatomy
- Display of sexually suggestive objects or pictures
- Ill-received dirty jokes and offensive gestures
- Sexual or intrusive questions about employee's personal life
- Explicit descriptions of the harasser's own sexual experiences

Salem Athletes Earn MCV Honors

The fall sports season is over, but the awards for Salem's fall athletes haven't ended. The Cross Country, Volleyball, Soccer, and Football teams have many athletes who have been recognized by Mahoning Valley Conference coaches for their efforts. In Cross Country, Dan Moffett, Mike Rea, and Kris Kornbau were named to the first team MVC Boys Team while Bill Sherwood was named Honorable Mention. The Girls team has two named to the first team, Amy Heineman and Maureen Kaine. Freshman Angie Adams was named Honorable Mention. The Volleyball team saw Valerie Scott, Shannon Hollister and Erin Funk earn first team honors. Marcie Baker and

- Abuse of familiarities or diminutives such as touching, hugging, pinching, patting, kissing
- Whistling catcalls
- Leering
- Exposing genitalia
- Physical or sexual assault
- Rape

A survey of sexual harassment in Salem High School was attempted and although a small percentage of people took it seriously the vast majority laughed and brushed it off as a joke. Again sexual harassment is not a joke. Consider the following questions: Have you ever been sexually harassed? Have you ever attempted to sexually harass? Out of a total of four students (an original of 100, but not even half took it seriously) 25 students and teachers have never been sexually harassed or have never attempted to do so and 16 have been harassed either once or a repeated number of times. A whopping one student attempted to harass a person.

These are your friends and mine that this is happening to, and nobody seems to do anything about it. What is so hard to understand about sexual harassment? Maybe it is the fact that when the definition of harassment enters one's mind they consider only rape or assault, severe sexual advances, but the typical cases of derogatory statements and such are never considered. Could it be that society is so expectant to such behavior and so used to it by now that we do not consider it sexual harassment?

We, the students of Salem High School, need to create an awareness of sexual harassment in our society. We need to take action when, if ever, we are caught up in a situation that involves harassment of any kind. People, we can never foretell when something will happen to us so it's best to be prepared.

Erica Funk were named to the second unit, and Brandi Ickes and Stephanie Sadlowski received an honorable mention. Steven J. Bailey and Charlie Straub received first team honors for the MVC Boys Soccer Team, while Ross Ramunno and Mike Ruple were named to the second team. There were four first teamers on the All MVC Football squad; Jeff Pittman, Doug Exline, Jeff Andres, and Mike Petty. Ben Edgerton, Eric DiPasquale, and Brian Grewe were named to the second team, while Nick Schneider and Brian Lippiatt were named on the Honorable Mention list. Congratulations to these and all the athletes for their hard work and accomplishments.

New To This School Yet Experienced In Life

by Allyson Kilmer

As the majority of the students here at Salem High school probably already know--there are some new faces being seen, not only from incoming freshman but from the six new staff members that are teaching here. I didn't know a whole lot about any one of the teachers and I'm sure that most of you feel the same way, so I decided to get a one-on-one interview with them in order to get a better view of our teachers. The teachers were all very interesting and I hope this helps some of you feel a little more comfortable with knowing some details about the new, friendly faces we've been seeing. The following are responses to questions that were asked of the new teachers. The new members of this school are: Mr. Campradt, Mr. Bonar, Mr. Martinelli, Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Baker, and Mrs. Rottenborn. Let's see just how much any of you really knew about our new teachers.

Q- How many years have you had of teaching experience!

Mr. Campradt-One previous year in Cleveland.

Mr. Bonar-28 years of teaching in Salem Schools.

Mr. Martinelli-2 years of experience (one at Malvern and one at Western Reserve Local as a student teacher).

Mrs. Hudson-6 years experience (in Peru, Mt. Union in Alliance, and at the Salem Junior High)

Mrs. Baker-6 years experience.

Mrs. Rottenborn-has been an aid for 3 years (2 of them at Reilly).

Q-If you've taught somewhere else, how would you describe the kids there to the kids here?

Mr. Campradt-The Salem kids seem to be more concerned with their grades. They seem to be more focused on what they want to do.

Mr. Bonar-Never worked anywhere else other than Salem.

Mr. Martinelli-The Salem students are definitely more well-behaved compared to others.

Mrs. Hudson-The students in Peru are more disciplined than the students here because of their background and their culture.

Mrs. Baker-When working in Youngstown as a student teacher, the kids there seem to be more prone to vandalizing, stealing things, and early-age pregnancies. The kids on a whole seem to have the same personalities, which are pleasant.

Mrs. Rottenborn-Has worked at the elementary schools and the students are basically the same.

Q-If you were working at another school, was it smaller or larger and which did you like better?

Mr. Campradt-Has worked at both and has no special preferences as to which he likes better.

Mr. Bonar-Never worked anywhere else so he can't compare it to anything.

Mr. Martinelli-Likes working in Salem because it's larger than any of the others he has worked at. He prefers Salem because the Art Department is more mature with its resources. There is also more money to work with and there are definitely more opportunities to ponder.

Mrs. Hudson-Has worked at both and has no special preference as to either.

Mrs. Baker-It depends on the students, there are advantages and disadvantages to any system.

Mrs. Rottenborn-It has been basically the same with Reilly and the high school.

Q-Are you married, single and do you have any children?

Mr. Campradt-Definitely single but dating.

Mr. Bonar-Married with 4 children.

Mr. Martinelli-Single.

Mrs. Hudson-Married with 2 children.

Mrs. Baker-Married with 2 children.

Mrs. Rottenborn-Married with 2 children.

Q-Have you always liked working with children?

Mr. Campradt-Yes, he loves working with kids because he's never actually grown up himself.

Mr. Bonar-Yes, he's always liked children because with his own children they give him a better understanding of what the kids are like today. He has always been interested in giving the kids some hands on experience whenever possible.

Mr. Martinelli-Yes, he has always enjoyed working with kids because they are fun and they're incredibly motivated and creative.

Mrs. Hudson-Yes, she also enjoys working with kids because her own children have relaxed her in terms of other students. In a way, she was born into teaching because her mother was a principal at her school in Peru and her 3 sisters also have a teaching career. She was exposed to teaching early but she thoroughly enjoys spending her time with her students.

Mrs. Baker-Yes, she enjoys working with children also because of her own children keeping her relaxed and more at ease with the students she teaches. She says that the students she works with make her feel wanted and needed and there's a special feeling that goes along with that.

Mrs. Rottenborn-Yes, she enjoys working with students and having her daughter here in the high school is a nice plus. Everything has worked out fine yet she's happy to be here working with students.

Q-Do you have any special hobbies or activities that you enjoy doing in your spare time?

Mr. Campradt-Enjoys coaching football for the Junior High and possibly helping out with the basketball season. Also, he helped out with the cross country team.

Mr. Bonar-Enjoys to swim, travel places, and to garden.

Mr. Martinelli-Enjoys reading and is an avid runner. He runs approximately 50 miles a week.

Mrs. Hudson-Loves to meet new people, do crafts, and enjoys participating in volunteer work.

Mrs. Baker-One of her goals is to eventually get back into coaching volleyball and track. Enjoys gardening, cooking, sewing, and exercising every day.

Mrs. Rottenborn-Loves to cook.

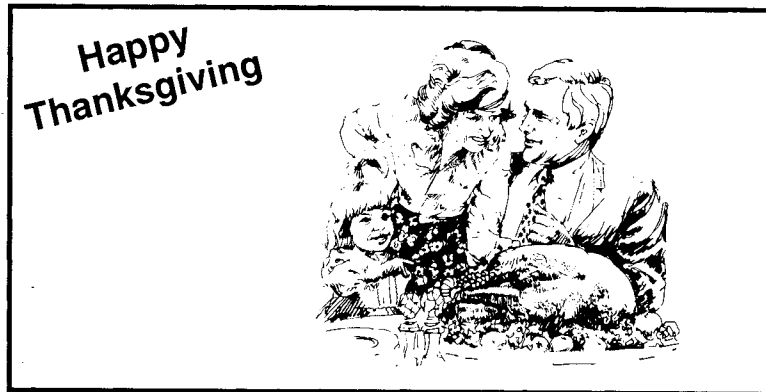

I would like to thank all the teachers for spending the time to let the student body know a little more about them. I'd also like to wish them Good Luck in their future here at Salem Senior High School.

CBE Update

CBE students hosted the Fall Professional Meeting of Salem Office Education (SOEA) on October 29. The meeting was attended by all IOE and CBE students; and special guests included Dr. Schoffman, Mr. McShane, Mr. Rabell, and Mr. Washinko.

Dr. Michael J. Schmidt was the guest speaker. Dr. Schmidt, a local surgeon, is currently participating in the CBE program by providing a job site in his office. His presentation to the students emphasized the qualifications needed to fill the position of a medical assistant. A medical assistant will need to be flexible and be able to perform many different duties. This employee will find herself/himself acting as receptionist, secretary, records manager, counselor, and patient assistant. The job requires a person who is friendly, outgoing, kind, tolerant, and understanding. This person must be dependable and must keep all information confidential. A team relationship must be developed with co-workers, doctors, nurses, and patients. The position of medical assistant is great for someone who likes working with people and who has an interest in the medical field.

The CBE class presented Dr. Schmidt with a monogrammed key chain, and a buffet lunch was served to all in attendance.

You Can't Win Them All!

by Jason Hawkins

Salem ended the season on a high note, but it wasn't an easy road there.

Struthers took a notch out of Salem's belt defeating them 24-6. Salem's biggest loss of this game was their quarterback Nick Schneider, whom was injured in the Poland game. Schneider was the second rated quarterback in the MVC. Doug Exline's pass to Ben Edgerton scored from five yards out on that play. This was Salem's fourth consecutive loss after a 3-0 start.

Salem met East Liverpool for the 70th time in the history of the two schools. This game renewed the oldest rivalry in all of Columbiana County! East Liverpool gave Salem a good battle but the team that fought the hardest won. Doug Exline ran in the first touchdown of the game on a one yard sneak. Ben Edgerton successfully kicked the PAT. Edgerton also put three more points on the board with a 23 yard field goal. Jeff Andres added to Salem's score with a three yard touchdown run. This put Salem up by a score of 14-6. Doug Exline sealed the victory with a 14 yard bullet to Ryan Keating for a touchdown. This win broke Salem's four game losing streak.

Another MVC loss put Salem in the closet. The Canfield Cardinals defeated Salem by a score of 25-12. The score does not tell how close the game was. Canfield was only up by seven points at halftime but after that the game broke open. "We just didn't keep our heads in the game and we got beat," said Todd Austin. Jeff Andres scored on a beautiful 51 yard run for Salem. The other Salem points came from a score by Todd Austin. Salem had much higher hopes of this game turning out in their favor.

The last and the biggest game of the season would decide the fate of the Girard Indians. Girard was tied with Campbell Memorial and Struthers for a share of first place in the MVC. Salem hoped to shut down the number one offense in the league. Girard only had one loss coming into this game and hoped to win big. The score was amazingly tied at seven during the half. "I was proud to be part of the Salem defense that put a stop to Girard's great offense," said Mike Huzyak. The Quakers literally took control of this game from the start. "We played as a team and we won as a team," said Mike Alix. Jeff Pittman played a brilliant game added two more sacks to his name. There were many defensive standouts for Salem. The Salem offense was headed by Jeff Andres, Ben Edgerton, and Doug Exline. Salem scored 26 points while holding Girard to only 13. "We had an up and down year but tough people last; tough times don't," remarked Edgerton. This was clearly the most rewarding game for the Salem squad all season! "The Girard game was the most pleasing game I have ever coached," said coach Ricker. The loss gave Campbell the MVC title.

Coach Washinko commented, "I enjoyed coaching at such a fine school. The team and I were disappointed about this season but injuries really caused a problem. I hope to win the MVC but that will always be my goal for Salem football. So long as the players have a team attitude we can work towards that goal!"

The freshman football team was very impressive over the season with a 7-1 record. "We were one of the best teams in the history of the school. The team improved constantly throughout the season," said Coach Headland. Coach Chuck Mead assisted Coach Headland with the freshman.

Ben Edgerton's extra point is good in a game earlier this year.

Another Soccer Season Comes To An End!

by Rick Hoffmaster

All of the hard work, the determination, and the practice just did not pay off for the Quakers this year. Although not finishing at the top, the Quakers were proud of their season. They overcame obstacles that fell into their paths. Some of these obstacles were not overcome, but the Quakers went down with a good fight. The Quakers finished the season with 4-9-2 record. "The record does not say it, but we did an excellent job. All we can do is work hard during the off season and give it our best shot next season," says head coach Mick Bowdler.

Salem's last win of the season came to John F. Kennedy. This win was the most memorable because J. F. K. took the game as a joke. The Quakers ended up winning by the score of 4 to 1. The Quakers were happy to end the season with a big win, especially to J. F. K. When they met the first time early in the season and they tied the Quakers.

Some of the players had this to say:

ROSS RAMUNNO — "We played well as a team and still lost some close games. We only had five seniors, there was not much leadership. We'll be back next year and kick butt."

GREG ORRACH — "This season was not outstanding. I still had had a great time initiating the Freshmen. I enjoyed having a great coach like Mick."

JACOB BAILES — "I felt that we played a good season. We all worked well together. Hope to come back next year and win a few more games."

RICK HOFFMASTER — "I felt, besides our record, we were an excellent team. We put up a good fight against some good teams. Wish to do a lot better next year."

Regretfully the Quakers will be losing five seniors to graduation. These seniors include: Steve Bailey, Tim Ewing, Whit Robinson, Tony Leo, and Greg Orrach. I would like to wish them the best after graduation.

Another Great Year for Salem Cross Country

by Israel Karlis

The Salem Cross Country boys' and girls' teams just recently completed an outstanding post season. The boys' won districts, regionals, and placed second in the state. The girls' came in second at districts, fifth at regionals, and sent Amy Heineman and Angie Adams to the state meet.

The team first competed in districts. Mike Rea was first with a time of 16:25. Not far behind was Kris Korbau with a time of 16:28. Jason Julian and Dan Moffett placed sixth and seventh with each of them finishing with a time of 17:14. Bill Sherwood, coming off a stress fracture in his foot, and Dan Nye came in twentieth and twenty-first with a time of 17:54. Russ Zornick placed twenty-fifth with a time of 18:18.

The girls came in second place. Angie Adams was first with a time of 19:29. Second was Amy Heineman timed at 19:40. Maureen Kaine was fourth, Erin Shasteen twenty-first, Linda Shoulders twenty-seventh, Tricia Wilms was thirty-second and Karen Mitchell was forty-first.

In the regionals, Salem won again with Mike Rea placing second with a time of 16:42. Kris Korbau was again right behind with a time of 16:45. Rounding out the rest was Dan Moffett finishing at fourteenth, Dan Nye at seventeenth, Bill Sherwood at twenty-fourth, Julian coming in thirty-second and Russ Zornick at seventy-seventh. All seven of the runners qualified for the state meet.

For the girls, which placed fifth, Amy Heineman and Angie Adams both qualified for the state meet. Adams placed fifth at 19:42 and Heineman was timed at 20:06. Maureen Kaine was twenty-second, Erin Shasteen fifty-first, Linda Shoulders sixty-first, Tracie Wright sixty-fifth and Karen Mitchell was seventy-fifth.

On Saturday Nov. 2, the state meet was held. First the girls ran. Amy Heineman finished twenty-fifth with a time of 19:25. Angie Adams came in thirty-second.

The boys' placed second. Mike Rea set a new school record with his time of 16:04. The previous record was a time of 16:22 held by Graham Parks back in '88. Kris Korbau also broke the record with a time of 16:16. For the rest of the team, Bill Sherwood placed fifty-fourth, Dan Nye sixtieth, Jason Julian sixty-seventh, Dan Moffett seventy-third. Russ Zornick also competed.

I recently talked to Coach Parks and asked for his comments on the season. "The boys' team this year was the best boys' team I have ever coached. They worked hard and had great attitudes."

"As for the girls' team, they were outstanding. They worked very hard. They also worked very hard. They also competed in Division I this year and still placed fifth in regionals."

Senior Leadership Helps Salem to Volleyball Success

by Marcie Baker

Q — Was there something/someone that inspired you to work hard and get where you got your senior year?

BRANDI: "Since I was so short I knew I had to work five times harder and push myself to get where I wanted, and sitting the bench my sophomore year I was determined to work harder so I wouldn't be in the same position the next year."

ERIN: "Last year we did so well and I wanted to try and beat what we did last year."

Q — What were your most memorable moments of your volleyball career?

ERIN: "Making it to Regionals last year because it was the first time the school had ever done it."

BRANDI: "Making it my freshman year because I thought I didn't have a chance."

Q — While you are furthering your education, do you plan to continue playing volleyball?

BRANDI: "Not necessarily for a college, but an intramural league maybe."

ERIN: "Yes, the college is undecided between Gettysburg and Dickenson."

Q — What would you like to say to all future volleyball players?

ERIN: "Always do your best and never give up!"

BRANDI: "No matter how short you are never give up!"

I thank Erin and Brandi for their time and effort, and as a fellow teammate say goodluck and congratulations on a fine season!!

I decided to get close to our Senior Volleyball players, Brandi Ickes and Erin Funk, and let you know just what made our two Senior girls get up and go. There are many pressures of being a Senior, like being expected to be a leader even if someone doesn't have those leadership qualities, but this year the team was blessed with leaders, and good quality leadership at that. There are only two seniors on the 1991 Volleyball team with eleven returning next year, so the talent and spunk will continue for the next several years.

Q — What got you interested in playing Volleyball?

ERIN: "I decided to go to camp and try volleyball out and I decided I really enjoyed it."

BRANDI: "The main interest was just playing a sport, then I tried volleyball and loved it!"

Hopes and Dreams Lost at Regionals

by Marcie Baker

how the girls feel they played:

ERIN FUNK: "I think we did our best that is all you can ask."

BRANDI ICKES: "I feel we played a pretty good game. We were a little tense going in, but they were a good team."

VALERIE SCOTT: "I think we did hold our own pretty good against the best in the state."

MARCIE BAKER: "I think we gave Hoban a good game. I really think they underestimated us and we proved them wrong." So to wrap it up, the girls played one heck of a game and everyone plans to see you there next year.

Soccer Coach Kicks the Team's Spirit Into High Gear

by Rick Hoffmaster

Head coach Mick Bowdler had quite a few encouraging words for this year's soccer team. Coach Bowdler kept the team busy with the tiresome conditioning before season and during the season. He always said, "If you do it in practice you'll do it during the game." He knew what he was talking about. Coach Bowdler lived in England most of his life. He played soccer all of his life and it shows.

Coach Bowdler wasn't always very serious, that's probably what made the season so enjoyable. Sure they had times to goof off, but they knew when it was time to get serious, Bowdler made sure of that.

Coach Bowdler brought along with his skills and knowledge, many contributions to the players. He taught them that winning isn't the most important thing. He stressed "As long as you work as a team, you are winners." This helped keep up the spirits of the players and want to make them give 100 percent.

What made Coach Bowdler so different from the former coach is that he made the players feel comfortable in playing soccer. He concentrated highly on teamwork, not individualism. Also, Coach Bowdler tried to get everyone to want to play soccer and if he felt that someone did not want to play bad enough he put someone in who did. The team really enjoyed having Mick as there coach. The Seniors hate to lose Bowdler as a coach. Bowdler hates to lose the Seniors. Coach Bowdler was much more than a coach. He was a friend and seemed like one of the players. He wishes that the encouraging words he gave helped everyone on the team.

Tennis Team Fairs Well in Tournament

by Israel Karlis

The Salem Girls' Tennis Team recently competed in the sectional and district tournament and won two of the matches that they played in.

In the singles, Kim McMahon won the first match to advance but lost in the second round. Both Emily Mager and Angie Sabatino lost their matches in the first round.

In doubles' play, the team consisting of Heather McKee and Denise Lee won their first match to advance but lost in the second round. The other doubles' team of Kerrie Phillips and Jody Everhart lost in the first round.

I recently talked with Mrs. Patterson, who is the coach of the team. She told me that a lot of the matches were close and could have gone either way. She also said that the team may have been inexperienced at times and that the team did not have any seniors on the team.

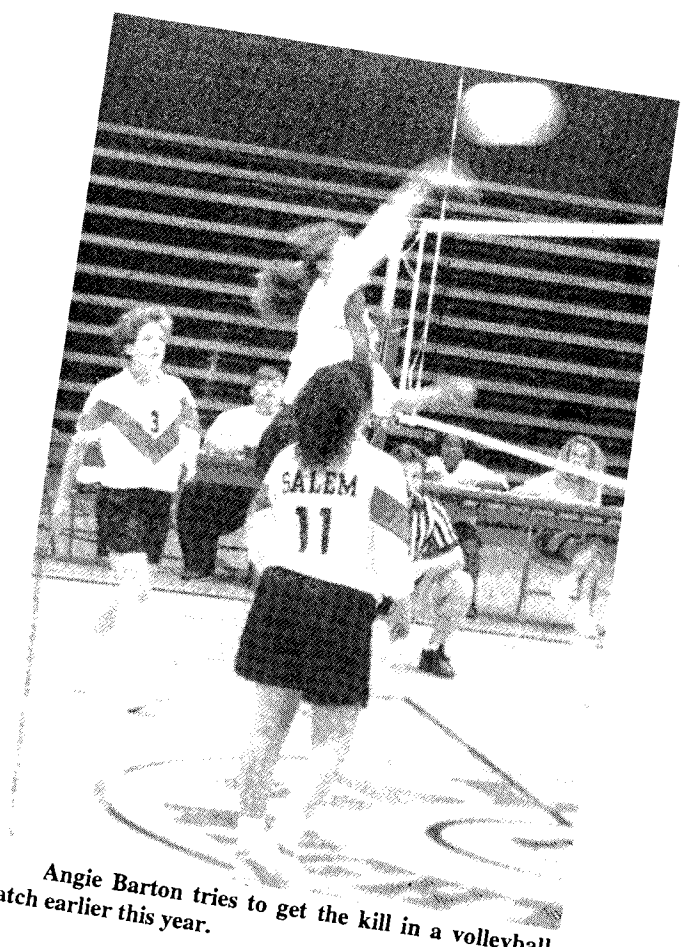

Congratulations
