

The Quaker

A High School Tradition for 88 years.

Volume 88, Number 3

Salem Senior High School

November 2000

TOP TEN MEMORIES AS PRINCIPAL

1. Cross Country, Girls Basketball and Volleyball teams competing at the State level.
2. 1990: Tornado cancels football game. Evacuate the Stadium. 1994: Four straight days of no school because of snow. 1999: Power outage causing evacuation of school.
3. Labrador retriever coming in during a basketball game and Mr. Steffen trying to collect admission.
4. Disbanding of the Mahoning Valley conference (MVC) and joining the Metro Athletic Conference (MAC).
5. Computerization of the school and the library.
6. Seniors rearranging the graduation chairs and student Jim Floor having to sit on the gym floor.
7. Opening of the new football stadium.
8. 1992: Starting the school musicals with THE PAJAMA GAME. Beginning of the Freshman Proficiency Exams.
9. Student Council influence of permitting students to wear shorts year round.
10. Annual senior picnic and tossing of the graduation caps.

Bon Voyage

BY JUSTIN PALMER

After twenty-eight years of service, the Salem City School District is forced to bid farewell to a teacher, administrator and most importantly our principal. As of January first Mr. McShane will take on the responsibility of Superintendent of the Lisbon School System.

McShane is an alumnus of Midland High School and graduated from Geneva College. In 1972 Mr. McShane began teaching fifth grade for Salem. He then moved on to several other positions including Director of Transportation, Head of Pupil Personnel, and Vocational Director (a position he still holds today). He began his tenure as principal of SHS in 1988 and is in his thirteenth year as such.

Two things Mr. McShane is proud of that occurred during his tenure are student involvement in decision making and successful results on proficiency tests led by teacher efforts. Although Mr. McShane has enjoyed his entire stay, the friendly staff, and great student body he said, "this is just the next step in the life long learning process." Looking forward to the new challenges held in his new position, he hopes to use the experiences gained in Salem to help better the Lisbon District like Salem and to continue Lisbon's success.

The staff of The Quaker on behalf of the entire student body thanks Mr. McShane for his years of service to Salem City Schools and wish him good luck in his new position at Lisbon.

King of Hearts

BY JESSICA JEWELL

In opposition to the normal guys ask girls dances, the Sadie Hawkins dance was held on Friday, November 10, 2000, from 8-11 p.m. The yearbook staff sponsored this year's dance. The theme of the dance was "November Nights," and hay bails and pumpkins adorned the cafeteria. After a day off of school because of parent-teacher conferences, students piled into the cafeteria for a night of dancing, music and fun.

Of course, the girls ask guys dance would not be complete with-out an all-male court. This year's court was announced on Friday, November 3. The court was: Nate Rasul, escorted by Jill Ebersbach; E.J. Boron, escorted by Olivia Kelly; Brian Cushman, escorted by Rose Salvinio; Trey Hendricks, escorted by Lindsay Rich; Justin Huddleston, escorted by Abby Zimmerman; Stefan Nemenz, escorted by Laura Jeckavitch; and Adam Zagotti, escorted by Mary Sutter. Well into the dance, the music stopped and the crowd anxiously awaited to see who would be crowned this year's King of Hearts. DJ Brandon Kage made each of the boys do a few dance moves before he would announce the king. After a few moments of "moonwalks" and break dancing, Brandon Kage announced that Adam Zagotti was the 2000-2001 Sadie Hawkin's king!

This dance was a dress like your date dance. Brandon Kage from Hot 101 spun great music all night long, and everyone agreed that the dance was a huge success. (cont. pg 3)

News

In the news

BY JESSICA JEWELL

- ♣ The Los Angeles Police Department was blamed as angry questions arose over an officer's shooting to death a black actor who waved a fake gun at a noisy Halloween party. Anthony Dwain Lee, who appeared in the 1997 movie, Liar, Liar and on such TV shows as "NYPD Blue," was shot several times by Officer Tarril Hopper, 27, who fired through a glass door at a Beverly Hills mansion.
- ♣ A Singapore Airlines plane bound for Los Angeles crashed during a storm at Taiwan's international airport.
- ♣ Twelve families of Egyptians killed in an EgyptAir crash off the U.S. Eastern Coast were heading for Rhode Island to attend a memorial service marking the first anniversary of the crash.
- ♣ Prime Minister Jose Maria Aznar led outraged Spaniards in mourning for three people killed in the bloodiest attack since the Basque separatist group ended a truce last year.
- ♣ A car bomb left by suspected Islamic militants near Jerusalem's main Israeli market killed two passers-by as tensions are still high in the Middle East.
- ♣ Britain's worst floods in more than 50 years urged thousands of people across the country to evacuate their homes as the rain continued to fall and meteorologists warned citizens that the worst was yet to come.
- ♣ Police freed over 40 people from a Target store in a Los Angeles suburb after three gunmen held them hostage in a botched robbery attempt.
- ♣ Surgeons at a British hospital worked to separate Siamese twins during a controversial operation that spells certain death for one of the twins so her stronger sister can survive.
- ♣ Former Louisiana Gov. Jimmie Davis, age 101, died Sunday in his home in Baton Rouge. He sang that famous song, "You Are My Sunshine" that has been recorded over 350 times in a dozen languages.

*Source www.yahoo.com

- "In honor of Veteran's Day, we are inviting you to have lunch with your child or grandchild on Thursday, November 9 during their regularly scheduled lunch time." This was the invitation presented to local veterans to honor them on Veteran's Day. Although the response was light (only five), Salem High did have former members of the Air Force and Army present on Thursday, November 9.

Club news

BY NICOLE BINEGAR

Juniors and Seniors- the theme chosen for the 2001 prom is "I've had the Time of My Life" and it will be held at Mr. Anthony's in Boardman. Upon entrance to the dance hall, students will see that there are collages hanging that show our past and present high school experiences. Students are being asked to bring in two pictures of themselves and groups of their friends, also two pictures of any event in their lives that could include babies up to junior high, etc. These pictures will be put into a prom video that will play at prom. Please take your pictures to Miss Marr in room 216. Reminder to put your name on the envelope containing the pictures so that they can be returned to you afterwards.

German Club- The month of November is the service project to collect nonperishable food items. German club will also be buying a Thanksgiving turkey and all of the "fixin's" for a Thanksgiving meal and will be donating it to the Salvation Army who in turn will give it to a family in Salem.

French club- the officers for the 2000-2001 school year are President Emily Sacco, Vice President Sami Gbur, Secretary Ashley Cody, and the Treasurer is Sean Loutzenhiser. For the month of November, the German club will be involved with a service project for the elderly.

Yearbook staff- The Sadie Hawkins dance was held November 10 in the cafeteria. First yearbook deadline was November 20.

Class of 2003- the class is collecting recipes for the Quaker Community Cookbook, which will be on sale in the month of January.

News

School banners: are they even appreciated?

BY NICOLE BINEGAR

I'm pretty sure you've all seen the school banners that are hanging around in our school and you probably don't think too much about them but have you ever stopped and thought for just a second what the banners are actually trying to do for us the student body? The banners hanging in our school are not just about wishing luck to the football team or the volley ball team, but they are also trying to promote school spirit which for some reason rarely anyone has anymore.

I spoke with a few students and asked them about the banners and how they feel about them trying to promote school spirit. This is what a few of them had to say:

Ashley Baddeley (10)-We have no school spirit! The banners are okay but we need pep rallies to get us in the spirit!

Taylor Hendricks (10)-I think they're cool! I think it gets players pumped before games!

Jolene Potter (10)-I think that it's really sweet and it shows that some people actually care what happens in our school. We should be grateful that people actually care!

Nate Williams (12)- I don't really think they do a whole lot because not too many people pay attention.

Dianne Miller (11) and Jenn Cross (12)-They do nothing at all. We don't even notice them. There's no reason to have school spirit when you have so many rules to follow. We can't even have fun anymore without being suspended or anything.

Amanda Price (11) -Pep club and cheerleaders keep trying to get school spirit going but nobody wants to show it.

The truth is, the pep club and the cheerleaders put so much work into trying to make enthusiastic signs to get us in the spirited mood, and we don't really show our support for them let alone our own team. If you do appreciate what the pep club and cheerleaders are trying to do to make this a more spirited school, show your appreciation. Try by going to a few more games and by cheering a little louder.

Bulletin Board

November

November 23-26- Thanksgiving recess-no school

December

December 10- Choir concert- 4:00 p.m. in the auditorium

December 18 and 19- Spring Musical tryouts

December 22 through January 2- Christmas Break-no school

Polling results

BY JUSTIN PALMER

The polls are closed and the ballots have been counted (unless you live in Florida). According to the Ohio Secretary of State's office of the 7.5 million eligible voters in Ohio 4.7 million cast their ballots. This is a wrap up of the county and State elections. The incumbents are marked with an (I) to the left of their name and the candidate's party is at the right. Along with the candidates appears the percentage of the vote they received. Winners are those names appearing in bold.

U.S. Senate
(I) Mike DeWine(R) 60.1%
Ted Celeste(D) 35.7%

U.S. House of Representatives-17th District
(I) James Traficant(D) 50%
Paul Albery(R) 23%
Randy Walters(I) 21%

Columbiana County: Commissioners
(I) Jim Hoppel(R) 57%
Joseph Lascola(D) 43%
Sean Logan(D) 62%
Wayne Wallace(R) 38%

Court of Common Pleas
C. Ashley Pike 61.4%
K. Bret Apple 38.6%

Recorder
Gary Williams(R) 51%
Diane DeFazio(D) 49%

Sheriff
Dave Smith 50.7%
Gary Clark 49.3%

Treasurer
(I) Linda Bolon(D) 58%
Keith Nixon(R) 42%

Sales Tax
Yes 51%
No 49%

Zagotti Reigns!

The 2000-2001 Sadie Hawkins court was as follows: Brian Cushman, Trey Hendricks, Nate Rasul, E.J. Boron, Justin Huddleston, Stefan Nemenz, and Adam Zagotti. Adam was named King for the dance this year, which was held on Friday, November 10.

Feature

Up Close and Personal with Miss Carmello

BY KARYNA LOPEZ

Miss Carmello was born on August 23 (she declines to say what year) in Youngstown, Ohio. She has two older brothers and has fond memories of growing up. After getting a Bachelor's of Science in Education at YSU, she began her teaching career. She was in her third year of teaching when she decided to change her focus and began working on her degree in guidance and counseling at Westminster College.

Her previous jobs include being the Home Ec teacher at the junior high and high school, the GRADS coordinator of Columbiana county, a middle school counselor in Cincinnati, and finally the job that brought her to Salem, the high school counselor position, which she has held since 1987.

Miss Carmello loves being a guidance counselor- she enjoys seeing students "change their lives and work toward their goals." She dislikes proficiency testing though.

Her inspirations are Mrs. Pridon, who was the junior high counselor when Miss Carmello started teaching, and Mrs. Jan Bosu. She added that Mrs. Bosu also encouraged her career in synchronized swimming! Both of these women have supported and helped her.

Mrs. Carmello encourages students to talk through their problems with someone understanding; keeping those feelings bottled inside is harmful.

When asked about her favorite song, she responded that her favorite one is I Got You Babe, as sung by Mr. Washinko and Mrs. Ward. Her favorite movie is The Big Chill, and she has trouble picking just one favorite book, as she loves to read.

Cafeteria Chatter

BY DENISE PRICE

What are some qualities you'd like to see in the new principal?

"As it is now, teachers are not allowed to attend any prayer meetings or Bible studies that are student led. I know of at least one teacher who would like to share their Christian beliefs with students who do not seem to have hope. I think the new principal should keep this in mind and perhaps formulate some new rules pertaining to this."—Sarah Collins (12)

Page 4

"Someone firm in their ways and values."—Shane Hughes (11)

"I think if he extends the lunch period he's fine by me."—"Shoot Shoot" Begalla (10)

"I think that a principal should be just that. A Princi-PAL to the students. The new principal should respect the students and realize the issues that we face everyday DO matter."—Allison Boron (9)

On November 1, 2000, Dr. David Brobeck asked students during their lunch periods of the qualities they would like to see in the new principal at SHS. Many students voiced their opinions to the new superintendent about the many qualities they would like to see. Dr. Brobeck also surveyed the staff.

The Quaker

November 2000

Feature

Three went over... five came back

BY KARYNA LOPEZ

August 12, 2000. Picture this. I'm sitting in the coach section of a giant plane chock-full with people. The sky outside is pitch-black, but according to my watch, it should be around seven in the morning. I'm trying to figure out how to eat noodles with chopsticks and listening to British and Chinese pop hits that I've never heard before.

Intrigued yet? You can probably figure out that this isn't a normal, US plane ride. I, along with my parents, am on a 13-hour LA to Taiwan flight-final destination, Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam. I bet you're really confused now. I'll start from the beginning. My parents, having decided that I wasn't a big enough pain for them, wanted to adopt a baby or two. After two exhausting years of paperwork and referrals, the adoption agency told us we could pick up our babies- a boy, Loc (now seven months old) and a little girl, Vi (now five and a half months). We agreed on Kaleb and Kaerah for their American names. I convinced my parents to let me go- hey, I have a passport, why not use it?

After 30 hours of traveling (plane rides and stopovers), we finally got to Vietnam. Talk about culture shock; it didn't hit me until we landed that I was in a different country. Every sign was in Vietnamese, and all I knew how to say was hello (Xin Chao). Cars are rare, so practically everyone zooms around on motorcycles, bicycles and scooters. There are no speed limits, no yield signs, few stoplights and even fewer stop signs. We entered into the fray almost immediately, in a van with no seat belts and a driver honking constantly.

After trying to sleep off our jetlag, we wanted to see the kids. We hopped another plane to Da Nang, a city north of where we were. After checking into our hotel (which had an awesome beach on the South China Sea), we went to the Red Cross orphanage. On our way there, we saw people living in shacks- really tiny, run down buildings. Trust me, in the worst area of the worst city you've seen, you haven't truly seen poverty. Amidst this, there are giant red government signs spreading the Communist propaganda and elaborate government buildings. The people there make about $1 a day (not enough to buy milk) and pay half to the government. Perks are few.

The orphanage was truly sad. The workers do the best they can, but they make so little and can't afford to give those babies a lot that they need. The room was stifling, and there was a single fan blowing hot air around. The babies, eight total, sleep in bamboo cribs, usually only wearing cloth diapers. I picked up Kaerah, and she opened her mouth and grinned at me.

It was love at first sight. They were in bad condition though; both were covered in mosquito bites and Kaleb was very undernourished. Two months later, they are happy, loving babies.

If getting two new additions wasn't enough, we went sightseeing too. The place which left the most lasting impression in my mind was the Buddhist temple. Buddhists believe that people are generally good, and if they are evil, they will go to hell; if they live a good life, they go to heaven. Depending on how good or bad you are, there are nine levels of heaven and hell you may end up in. There's more, but I was amazed that there were similarities to Christianity. We also went to the former presidential palace, and went underground too-to see the headquarters of the South Vietnamese during the Vietnam War. We also visited Hoi An, which is a 400-year old village on a river. The village, during the time when Vietnam was a colony, was divided into Chinese and Japanese halves by a bridge that took twelve years to build. We did lots of shopping because $1 equals about 14,000 Vietnamese dong, and most items cost between two or three dollars.

I was kind of worried that the Vietnamese wouldn't like us because we are American, but everyone was extremely friendly. The North Vietnamese blame us for the Vietnam War and mostly think we are evil, but the South Vietnamese were upset when we left Vietnam because they wanted their freedom. Now, no new visas are given except under very special circumstances.

We stayed in Vietnam for 10 days in which we finished the adoption process, ate tons of delicious food, and saw some of the country. After almost 2 solid weeks of beef and rice (all eaten with chopsticks, I got pretty proficient with them), I was seriously craving Burger King food. We've been home for two months and have gotten adjusted to our new, enlarged family. I'll remember that trip for the rest of my life. And, of course, we brought home the best Vietnam had to offer-Kaerah and Kaleb.

Entertainment

Jigga what? Jigga who?

BY SARINA MCELROY

It was less than a year ago that Jay-Z released his last album, Vol. 3- The Life and Times of S. Carter, which was the number one on the Billboard charts at the start of 2000. "Don't let the speed fool you. We put out albums in seven months, eight months, whatever — we're definitely putting our heart and soul into it. This album right here is so strong and so powerful, I might have to put out ten singles for y'all." That is all Jay-Z needs to describe his new album. On Halloween day the world got the first taste of the latest release from Jigga. The Dynasty: Roc La Familia 2000 is definitely a must have for not only Jay-Z fans, but anyone. This album covers everything from the spectacular beat of the intro, to the fun-flow of "I Just Wanna Love U (Give It 2 Me)," to the slow-heartfelt stories told in "This Can't Be Life." Only Jay-Z can capture his honest feelings, put them to song, and have you as the listener get a good taste of what he has gone through. Even if you have never experienced the things he talks about, his words are enough to make you truly understand how it feels and makes you take a second look at your life. The most amazing thing about Jay-Z is the fact that he is considered a "ghostwriter". When he walks into the studio to start recording, he doesn't have the lyrics pre-written. He'll go into the studio, listen to the beat of the song, and then just start spitting out lyrics. He can go in without anything, hear the beat of the song, and just flow to it. "It's a gift," he says. That is the main reason that it doesn't take Jay-Z very long before he releases his next album. "There is no point in sitting on material," Jay-Z says. Which is very true. A lot of artists, when they have a hit song, will try and push that song for as long as they can and in the end that will be their downfall. But Jay-Z is always coming out with something new, and you can bet that it will always be a hit.

Jay-Z's first album Reasonable Doubt came out in 1996. It contained such hits as "Friend or Foe," "Can't Knock the Hustle" and "Dead Presidents II," and gave the world their first glimpse of the man who would soon create the Roc-A-Fella empire. In 1997 the world was hit by Vol. 1 - In My Lifetime, containing hits like "The City Is Mine," "Streets Is Watching," and "Sunshine." His next album Vol. 2 - Hard Knock Life came out in 1998. In my opinion this is Jay-Z's best album, containing his biggest hits, "Hard Knock Life," "Jigga What, Jigga Who," "Can I Get A...," and "Money Ain't A Thang." Last December Jay-Z released Vol. 3 - The Life and Times of S. Carter. This album contained more songs that you couldn't really dance to than before. Only two singles were released from this album, "Do It Again" and "Big Pimpin'" which were basically the only two songs on the album that had a good enough beat that could be played in a club. Don't get me wrong, the other songs on the album were good too, but very few of them were songs that you could dance to, which is unusual for Jay-Z. Other songs on the album, such as "Dope Man," take you deep into Jay-Z's past when he was forced to live the life of a drug dealer just to help support his mother and siblings. Again, even if you had never experienced that, he could use the

Tracks

1. "Intro"
2. "Change the Game"
3. "I Just Wanna Love U"
4. "Streets Is Talking"
5. "This Can't Be Life"
feat. Scarface
6. "Get Your Mind Right Mami"
feat. Snoop Dogg
7. "Stick 2 the Script"
8. "You, Me, Him and Her"
9. "Guilty Until Proven Innocent" feat. R. Kelly
10. "Parking Lot Pimpin'"
11. "Holla"
12. "1-900-Hustler"
13. "The R.O.C."
14. "Soon You'll Understand"
15. "Squeeze First"
16. "Where Have You Been"

music and the lyrics to paint a picture in your head and make you feel as if you were going through it with him.

However, The Dynasty: Roc La Familia 2000 is somewhat of a mixture of all of his past albums. After listening to the CD, 13 out of the 16 tracks were great songs, songs that take you inside the life of Jay-Z and songs that are just great to dance to. His fellow Roc-A-Fella family members, showcasing their talents along with Jay-Z's, mostly dominate the tracks, while DJ Clue provides the stylish beats on most of the tracks. Of course, anyone who knows me knows that I am one of the biggest Jay-Z fans, but this guaranteed-platinum album is definitely one of Jay-Z's best albums, right up there with Vol. 2 - Hard Knock Life. Even if you don't like rap music, I think this is an album where anyone could find a song that they could relate to. Whether you just simply fall for the beat of the amazing "Intro" that could make anyone feel the music, or you can relate to the heartfelt messages found in "This Can't Be Life", this is a CD that everyone should give a chance. "This is food for thought, you do the dishes."

Entertainment

Philadelphia Success Story

BY MARY SUTTER

This year's fall play, The Philadelphia Story, was quite a success. The first performance was held on Wednesday, November 1 during school hours. After teachers took attendance in first period, students were called down to the auditorium to sit with their first period classes. The play began around 8:30 a.m. and was over at 10:30. Following the play the students were dismissed to their fourth period classes. Several cast members appeared on television to promote the production. On Monday, October 30, Justin Dennis, Denise Price and Joe Lynn performed on the channel 33 morning news. The next day Shooter Begalla and Shana Jones appeared on the channel 21 morning news.

The setting of the play is June 1940 in Philadelphia and is over the course of two days. The plot is centered on Tracy Lord, played by Katie Newman. She is scheduled to marry Sean Loutzenheiser's character, George, and is seemingly content with the engagement. To the family's anxiety, a pair of reporters, Mike Connor and Liz Imbrie (Justin Dennis and Denise Price) from an infamous magazine have come to report on the wealthy family's wedding celebrations. Another uninvited guest is Tracey's ex-husband, C.K. Dexter Haven (Robert Dumovic), who seems to annoy everyone except Tracy's younger sister Dinah (Shana Jones.) Tracy did not invite her father Seth to the wedding because of his affair with an actress, but he showed up anyway. Tracy's mother (Rebecca Davis) urged her to not be so hard on him. Tracy begins calling Uncle Willy (Shooter Begalla) her father in an effort to confuse the reporters. The story gets even more complicated when Tracy and Mike drink too much champagne and share what turns out to be only a kiss. After many twists in the story, the wedding of George and Tracy is called off because of their incompatibility. To the audience's surprise, Tracy ends up re-marrying Dexter in an interesting but happy ending.

Described as 'a romantic comedy with a wedding,' the play's entertaining blend of drama and dry humor went over very well with all the audiences. Perhaps the most impressive aspect of the play on Wednesday was the fact that five minutes before the play was to begin, the students learned that several scenes would have to be cut. Mr. McShane's request that the play be over exactly at 10:30 meant that they would have to remove nearly four pages of the script in Act 1. Most students didn't even realize that anything had been cut out, more proof that the actors and directors did an excellent job, especially under that kind of pressure. Many of the props were given or lent by anyone who was able to do so. Students were asked to bring in lamps and other furniture, and even wrapped boxes that were empty inside to use as Tracy Lord's wedding presents. Some costumes were purchased and some were on loan from the Salem Community Theater.

Everyone involved in the play sacrificed a huge amount of time and energy to put on the performance. Botched or forgotten lines were minimal, and many students wonder how the actors and actresses could memorize so many lines in so little time. The students sometimes stayed at school until 9:00 at night rehearsing, while Mr. Viencsek directed and Mr. Martinelli handled production. That kind of dedication is very much appreciated by the whole student body and shows up in excellent performances such as this one. Other cast members included Joe Lynn as Sandy Lord, Ed Butch as Thomas the butler, Jessica Tolson as Elsie the maid, Townsend Smith as Mac the watchman, Stacy Hrvatin as May the maid, Nicole Bash as Edwina the maid, and Zak Miller as Dr. Parsons, the minister. Karyna Lopez was the student director.

Cross word puzzle

BY EMILY SACCO

Across

1. November 23rd is _____.
2. Who replaced Mrs. Strum _____.
3. The last name of the homecoming Queen.
4. Which exchange student came from Italy?
5. Fruit juices and _____ only.
6. Every journalism student must wear a _____.
7. The band is going to _____.

Down

1. The _____ Story was preformed Nov. 1st, for the student body.
2. Nov. 2nd the Salem _____ High was dismissed at 1:40.
3. We are not allowed having _____ hair color.
4. Who won the TV show Survivor?
5. Mr. Turner has a _____ song.

*Answers: see page 10

Preface

This month the Focus section of The Quaker has decided to center on "favorites" of the students. We've chosen three main topics--sports, entertainment, and foods--to ask the students about their favorites.

Video killed the radio star

BY CRYSTAL NAVOYOSKY

A good music video means different things to different people. Some might say it has good effects, but it's not a good song, while others just relate to the song itself. Some videos will be remembered forever, while others will be forgotten within a few weeks. What is your favorite music video of all time? Why?

Amanda Price (11)- Tom Green's "The Bum Bum Song." It's hilarious!

Allison Donaldson (11)- Smashing Pumpkins "Tonight, Tonight" because it reminds me of a dream I had one time.

Courteney Morrison (9)- Korn "Freak on a Leash"

Jamie Jewell (10)- Ludacris "What's your Fantasy"—that song rocks! Sixth period gym class! Right, Erin?

Townsend Smith (10)- "Losing My Religion" by REM

Joe Elias (11)- Lil Kim "No Matter What They Say," because she is hot!!!

Ryan Barnett (11)- "Time Warp"—the Rocky Horror Picture Show rocks.

Amy Boyer and Ashley Bobby (10)- Mystikal "Shake it Fast" because we love the song.

Krista Wilson (10)- "Rollin" Limp Bizkit

Will Aldrich (10)- Marilyn Manson "Beautiful People"—that song is awesome!

5B Junior Lunch Table- "Pull Over" by Trina. Any music video that shows Sisqo in a thong is all good!

Chris Price (9)- Korn "Freak on a Leash"

Robert Vogt (11)- Michael Jackson "Thriller" because it is the bomb

Jeremy Roberts (11)- The Wallflowers "One Headlight" it's awesome!

The Caped Crusader

VS.

The Man of Steel

BY CRYSTAL NAVOYOSKY

For a long time there have been two major superheroes that are rivals: Batman and Superman. Batman has tons of gadgets and an awesome car; on the other hand, Superman only flies and changes his clothes in a phone booth. Which do you think is better, a man of the night or a man of the sky?

Superman Batman Neither

Richard Hill (12)- They both stink. Mr. T's the greatest!
Sean Loutzenhiser (11)- Batman, because he gets to live in a cave with an old guy, a sidekick, and some bats. Come on, who wouldn't favor him over that reporter freak in tights.

Townsend Smith (10)- Batman because he has a slammin' ride and kickin' gear.

Ryan Barnett (11), Chris Bartholow (12), John Burkey (11)- Batman—"Where does he get those wonderful toys."

Kevin Blackburn (10)- Superman, Lois Lane is hot!
Amanda Price (11)- Batman; they pick better guys to play his role in movies!

Taylor Hendricks (10), Jill Barry (10), & Shani Jones (10)- Superman, because his butt looks better in spandex

Focus

Would you like fries with that?

BY JUSTIN DENNIS

To some, a school lunch is a great convenience, to others, a necessary evil. Although I know it was a tough choice, some brave individuals decided to share their pick for favorite cafeteria food of all time.

Tim Jones- Double Cheeseburger Day!! UHHHH!

Teresa Huzyak and her lunch table

S C - FRENCH FRIES!!

A d a m Zagotti- F a k e mashed potatoes and y e l l o w gravy, because my mom forces me to eat the real kind at home.

Connie Cibula- The pink-in-the-middle chicken sandwiches.

Renee Schaefer- Potato soup cuz' it's really really good.

Nate Williams- Salad because it tastes bad.

Shootah Begalla- Bigguns

p i z z a ,

wopper

J o s h

C o m m -

Mac and cheese with

t a b a s c o

sauce- It's filling and

s c r u m p - tious.

Most valuable player

BY DANIELLE BAIR

From Michael Jordan to Tiger Woods we've all got our favorite athletes. Here are just a few that our student body particularly like.

Joe Elias- Trish Stratus and Sable from WWF because they wear tight leather clothes and fight.

Olivia Kelly- Puma, he is an all-star at EVERYTHING!

Kim Simon- E.J. Boron, what can I say..... I love him.

Ken Hull- O.J. Simpson, he's a good role model.

Justin Huddleston- Geoff Korff because he gets so much play on the field. Wink, Wink.

Geoff Korff- Geoff Korff cuz he gets so much play off the field.

Kelly Leach- Aaron C.

Tim Jones- Sammy Sosa.....70 homeruns, no androsteindion.

Kim Whitman- Matte DeJane, well she's not really that great at golf but at least she can hit the green.

Matte DeJane- Jimmy Richmond because he's Nikes spokesperson. He's so hot!

Jimmy Richmond- Dennis Rodman because of the awesome hair do's. But Matte of course your second best.

Can I take your order?

BY JUSTIN DENNIS

McDonald's, Burger King, Wendy's, Taco Bell, Arby's... The decision is hard when it comes to choosing a place for your low-budget speedy dinner... What are some of the Salem High School students' favorite burger joints?

Joe Elias- McDonald's because the french fries there are sweet.

Jeremy Roberts- Taco Bell. It has the best food.

Mike McDermott- Burger King. Best fries.

Kevin Blackburn- Taco Bell "My Chalupa!"

"Huddz"- Taco Bell- Pink tacos always wake me up in the morning.

Nate Williams- Burger King because they have the Rodeo Burger.

Andrew Rhoads- KFC because I like chicken.

Nick Criswell- Wendy's- It tastes the best.

Joe Gibson- Taco Bell- it is the best munchie food.

Erica Mull- McDonald's- They have Big Macs.

Ronda Milliron- McDonald's- They have the best fries.

Josh Comm- Wendy's- Fast, reliable, haven't worked there.

Katie Newman & Stacey

Hrvatn- Wendy's- fast, open late, cheap.

What's your favorite sports team?

BY DANIELLE BAIR

You're sitting on the sidelines listening to everyone cheer, you feel the team spirit rush through your body and you're so close to the players that you can almost hear their next play. It's the excitement of being there and rooting for your favorite team. A few students told us who gets their team patriotism flowing.

Mike Lantz- Chi- town Bears!

Drew Palmer- Packers!!!!

Ryan Drake- Da Browns are divine.

Mitch Hill- The "green-bowl" Packers.

Nikki McConaha- Cleveland Browns all the way!

Dianne Miller, Jen Cross, & Chelsie Shuman- Browns cuz they are our dawgs!

Tamra Hampson- Steelers because they're the Real dawgs..... Browns stink!

Shane Hughes- Browns stink Chelsie, go Cowboys.

Justin Huddleston- The Salem Quakers football squad, because talent like that doesn't grow on trees.

Lisa Lucas- Tamra doesn't know what she's talking about. The Steelers are by far the worst team in the NFL. Browns rule!

Opinion

A time to be thankful

BY MEAGAN BROWN

It's Thanksgiving time and some of us are reflecting on what we are thankful for. The following are things that fellow students are thankful for.

Casey Fenske-11- My real good friends and my family.

Will Aldrich-10- The invention of the skateboard. Without it I would not be where I am today. (And Lauren, Sami, and herbs.)

Alicia Barnes-10- I'm thankful for all the memories I've shared with Brad. I love him so much.

Jessica Jewell-12- I'm thankful for June 30th ('N Sync concert with Meagan Brown), my wonderful friends, Justin's goatee, and being a senior!

Tami Banar-11- My car and my friends.

Brittany Smith-10- All my friends and family.

Grant Brown-10- I'm thankful for my ability to have children.

Connie Cibula-11- Fruit juices and colas. Rats as well. I like rats.

Ashley Baddeley-10- Brian Cushman's body. He's such a cutie!

Rose Salvino-12- I'm thankful for having Brian Cushman and his body!

Brian Cushman-12- My sweet car! ('91 Sundances are da coolest.)

Townsend Smith-10- I am most thankful for my faith and finding the way to God.

Amanda Little-10- There isn't anything that I'm not thankful for.

Justin McKinney-11- I am most thankful for CJ Javens!

Jamie Jewell-10- I'm thankful for ALL the hot guys in this wonderful school!

Beth Hale-9- My friends and my best bud whiz (Amy Harmicar)!

Amy Harmicar-9- For all of my friends- they're all real great.

Sami Girscht-9- I'm thankful Lauren's playhouse has curtains.

Courtney Dunlap-12- Keeping my sanity from going to this school and Justin Huddleston for making me laugh all the time!

Judd Crowgey-12- My manhood and beautiful women.

Trey Hendricks-12- I'm thankful for "Magee."

Liz Protzman-12- That maybe someday 5th period Family Living will stop calling me "Magee."

Zach Stevenson-12- Jayma Renee Wells

Jayma Wells-12- My Rhino...

Jess Ravelli-12- For Matthew squishing his nose on my face and my gals!

Nicole Adamson-9- My friend Amy Harmicar because I like to fight with her!

Derek Mayhew-11- I think I am thankful for going out with Jessica Gorcheff.

Amanda Price-11- I am thankful that I have the best friend in the world. You're a great friend Crystal!

Carla Gbur-9- Good friends.

Sam Smith-11- That we only have one year left.

Amanda Jesko-11- My friends and the fun memories at camp!

Bring it on back

BY GLENN PEISON

Two weeks ago on a Wednesday morning, over six hundred SHS students filled the auditorium to sit back and watch the hilarious comedy The Philadelphia Story, put on by Mr. Viencek and Mr. Martinelli. Throughout the two-hour show students attentively watched and laughed as seventeen of Salem's finest young actors and actresses took center stage. The majority of students that attended seemed to enjoy themselves as well as the play. A performance such as this one, during school hours, has not been done in over twenty years. When it was first attempted student behavior was less than appropriate so the idea was discontinued. However, at Wednesday's performance things turned out much differently than before. The overall conduct of the student body was excellent. It could not be expected to have been much better. I think that says something for students

continued on pg 12

Crossword Puzzle pg 7

ANSWERS

Across:

1. Thanksgiving
2. Mr. Alejars
3. Kelly
4. ED
5. Colas
6. J-pass
7. Florida

DOWN

1. Philadelphia
2. Senior
3. Unnatural
4. Rich
5. Goggle

Opinion

Whose fault is it?

BY MEAGAN BROWN

Today teen violence is at a chilling high. So many tragedies have happened and you have to blame it on someone or something, right? Well, why not rapper Eminem, a.k.a. Marshall Mathers? He's a good target. His music is graphic and violent and millions of teenagers listen to him. But is it really his fault? Of course, he says he doesn't mean what he raps about and let's be thankful for that. In his song entitled "Kim," he graphically talks about killing his now estranged wife Kim Mathers. Researchers are starting to discover that teenagers are being inspired by this song and others to harm people. Others, including myself, disagree.

Sure, Mathers does have a bad attitude when it comes to his music, but that doesn't mean that what he raps about is true. He has stated thousands of times that when he's writing lyrics to a song, he writes whatever is on his mind or what he is feeling at that moment. "I feel like my music is my therapy. Because once I sit down and write, I get everything off my chest. People might think that I walk around mad all day, and I'm not, you know what I'm saying? For the most part I'm happy. I get all my aggression out in the studio. When I leave the studio, I'm like, 'Whew,'" Eminem told MTV News. So did he actually do those things that he talks about in "Kim"? The answer to that is, of course, no. But many people are disgusted by Mathers and want nothing to do with him because of his music. On October 26, Canadian immigration officials were ordered to stop Mathers from entering

Canada to perform at a show the next day. Of course, everything was worked out and he did perform. But Eminem now faces several other legal problems, including several criminal charges and lawsuits. In the midst of all of that, officials are now discussing whether they should raise the age limit to buy music with parental advisories or not. That means lower record sales for Eminem.

Whether or not Eminem's lyrics are inspiring people to do illegal things or not is a major subject. Eminem isn't going to change the way he is, and he has made that very clear. And once his career is over, violence and crime will continue just the way they did before Eminem, which proves that it's not just Eminem's fault.

Top 10 Turkey thoughts at Thanks giving

BY GLENN PEISON

Thanks giving will soon be here. Many of us will traditionally be having a turkey for our Thanksgiving dinner. Have you ever thought about what a turkey is going through at this time? Well here are 10 things a turkey just might be thinking.

10. Run for you life!
9. Our father who art in heaven.....
8. "Beef its what's for dinner."
7. Oh I wish I were an Oscar Myer Wiener
6. Ham sale 5 cents per pound
5. "Pork the other white meat"
4. Darn the pilgrims anyhow
3. Don't listen to them turkey is really a mans best friend
2. "KFC we do chicken right"
1. Burger King Have it your way Open Thanksgiving Day!!

If you sell it, they will come

BY STEPHANIE FIFE

For games sake, Playstation 2 is on everyone's mind. It's the newest addition to our video game technology. It wasn't just made up in a day. Sony invested a lot of time into the creation of Playstation 2. They began all the way back in June 1999, when they started the development of the games. The name Playstation 2 wasn't even confirmed until September 10, 1999. With its improved features, it makes it more realistic than any other system on the market today. The mania started in Japan on March 3 for the release of this phenomenal game. Playstation was a hit with the Japanese as well as in the United States. It hit the US on October 26, 2000. There was a rat race to see who would get it and who wouldn't. Sony only released so many to each department store, and many were sold out in minutes. The games reveal much more than any other. It has features in depth such as muscle structure. The players perform signature dance moves after getting a touchdown or a great play in football games such as Madden 2001. People may be disappointed because they released the games before the actual console. It's pretty bad when you spend all that money on video games and you can't even play them. If you're in the market for a Playstation 2, good luck!

Opinion of the month

BY MEAGAN BROWN

"If angels were to keep a list of all your acts of kindness, how fast would they run out of ink?"

Opinion

continued from pg 10

here. It shows that we just might be more mature than some people think. Perhaps now more activities such as this can take place.

Pep rallies used to occur on a regular basis during school hours many years ago. Now they don't take place at all; however, we did have one rally last year for the volleyball team. That was after school hours at 7:00 PM. Many people cannot attend those after school functions for numerous reasons. The point is that if rallies are held during school hours everyone can attend and support the teams. Doesn't that show school spirit? I think so. Also, isn't that what everyone wants? I don't understand why the rallies were discontinued so many years ago. If it was because of student behavior that's understandable, but that was then and this is now. As Mr. McShane announced to all of us, the student body behavior was very good so I think we can handle a little old rally every now and then. Could the reason be lack of enthusiasm? Umm, not likely. I think Salem City Schools has some of the best fans in the area. You can always see Salem students going out to different sporting events to support our teams, as well as other organizations. The terrific turn out of the play pretty much shows this. Since this is an issue involving the students I asked a few their views on this matter. Jason Paster said, "I want Pep rallies back because it brings spirit to the students and not jus the athletes". Mike Baranovich also felt much the same say saying, "I think we should bring back more school time activities in the auditorium, because they are culturally and socially educational to the students".

In addition to pep rallies, why leave out band and choir? They both do have scheduled concert dates which are held on weekends or weekdays in the evening hours. Again just like pep rallies many of out students want to come, but simply just have conflicting schedules. If a concert could be put on during the day students would have the opportunity to see the band and choir, if they could not make it to the other various times. I asked the choir director Mrs. Jeckavitch what she thought about this idea. She said that she thought it would be a bad idea to have choir concerts during the day, because of the fact that it may not be appealing to students. She does, however, feel that bringing back other assemblies such as pep rallies and plays during the day is a good idea. The only problem with plays she said, "It is difficult to have my orchestra members play during the day because they have jobs they need to be at."

*Happy
Thanksgiving
from the staff
of
The Quaker*

School Banners

BY STEPHANIE FIFE

As we walk through the halls of Salem Senior High, we really don't see many decorations. We might see a poster or two, but that's about it. The main attraction in past years has been decorated senior lockers. In the past few months the school has taken the initiative to try and bring some kind of school spirit back into our school. As a start the administration began to put banners up in every hallway.

In an interview with Mr. McDevitt I learned that these banners were basically donated. These banners weren't taken out of tax payers money or incorporated in any kind of fee. They were bought with our pop machine money. Just think that 55 cents or a dollar you spend everyday has made an impact on your school. It doesn't seem like 55 cents or a dollar could make a difference, but with all of us coming together it has.

The banners were put up for school spirit as well as decoration. They decorate our hallways and give us something to think about. Hopefully, they may even inspire students to improve their attendance. Each school has certain state standards they have to pass. Last year our school failed to have a certain attendance record. In order to pass these standards, we needed to have a 93 percent attendance record; we came out with approximately a 92.5. When you think about it, we were pretty close. That incident encouraged our school system to strive for better attendance.

General comments about the banners are mixed. That is an obvious reaction within a high school. Some students appreciate the banners because they need that extra push. Others are already there and some, well they just don't care.

Sports

Xtreme competition

BY PAT STEWART

Extreme sports have always been an interesting sport to watch. Skateboarding, snowboarding and dirt biking are just some of the extreme sports that are out there. Now football will be added to that list. As of February third, The Xtreme Football League (XFL) will officially get under way. Most critics, however, are blasting the league as a laughing stock, a staged event where the outcomes are pre-determined and plays are carried out by actors instead of players. Creator and owner, Jim McMahon, who also owns the WWF, is quick to defend it saying that the WWF image will be very limited in hope of creating a true and loyal fan-base.

*"The XFL will attract the entire football-viewing demographic, strengthened by our unique understanding of the young, adult male audience. That, combined with our extensive experience filling venues and executing live events will help lead to the success of the XFL," McMahon says.

In its debut season the XFL will consist of eight teams, four in the Western Division and four in the Eastern Division. Birmingham, Chicago, Orlando and New York/New Jersey make up the West. Representing the East is San Francisco, Memphis, Las Vegas and Los Angeles. There will be a four-team playoff played in a neutral sight. There are few changes as far as rules are concerned, but those changes are still noteworthy. No fair catches on punts and only one foot required in bounds for pass receptions are two of the most significant changes. Other modified rules are a thirty-five second play clock instead of the usual 40 seconds in the NFL, a 10-minute halftime instead of a twelve minute one and players, coaches and locker rooms will be miked. Players will also receive a normal salary as well as a bonus for each time their team wins.

Teams are selecting players through the Player Allocation Selection System (P.A.S.S.) which lasts three days. Each team has rights to eleven players from regional colleges, such as Orlando has rights to select players from local Florida schools. They then proceed to a three-day draft. At the end of the draft each team has temporary rosters at seventy players. The rosters then will be cut to thirty-five players and a seven-man taxi squad. Some of the more recognizable names that will dress up are Marcus Nash, Alvin Harper, Scott Milanovich, Rashaam Salaam, Jeff Brohm, Jim Drukenmiller and John Avery. Lawrence Phillips also may play if the league clears him. McMahon says that the player's reputation would be an issue and has set a code of ethics. "There will be no convicted felons in the XFL," he says. Phillips has a very shaky past and for the league to clear him will be very unlikely.

Even though many critics aren't praising the new league, many football fans are anxiously awaiting the opening kick off. The first aired game will be played Saturday, Feb. 3 at 8:00 p.m. when the NY/NJ Hitmen face-off against the Las Vegas Outlaws. The game will be aired on NBC.

Sources from football.com and xflboard.com*

What's in a name?

BY NATE RASUL

There are many nicknames in sports today. For example, "The Bus" is Jerome Bettis of the Pittsburgh Steelers. "The Freak," otherwise known as Jevon Kearse, plays for the Tennessee Titans. The outstanding basketball player Micheal Jordan also goes by "Air Jordan." "El Duque," Orlando Hernandez is the New York Yankees' outstanding pitcher. The names can keep going on in professional sports for these athletes. We also have names for some of the athletes here in Salem. See how well you know your fellow students in this match up game.

1. Puma
2. Rhino
3. Pasketty
4. Sugar
5. Cush
6. Pizza Jones
7. Rhonda
8. Daniel Wee
9. D-Money
10. Buck the Truck
11. The Sheriff

- A. Ken Buckley
- B. Jake Conrad
- C. Stefen Nemenz
- D. E.J. Boron
- E. Tim Jones
- F. Derick Fredrick
- G. Brian Cushman
- H. Zack Stevenson
- I. Randy Stith
- J. Matt Steffen
- K. Dan Potts

1. B 2.H 3.D 4.J 5.E 6.G 7.I 8.K 9.F 10.A 11.C

Sports

It's game time

By Jeff Hamilton

Salem athletics are currently in a transition. The fall sports season has ended, and winter sports are preparing for their upcoming seasons. I spoke with the coaches about their plans for this year.

Boys' Basketball

Mandatory practice started Monday, November 6. Roster decisions were made throughout that first week. Coach Spack wants this year's team to realize and appreciate the Salem winning tradition that some of us might not know about. Salem is among the top sixteen schools in Ohio for total wins in boys' basketball. The first home game to start off the season will be held on December 1 against Youngstown Chaney. Varsity will begin somewhere around 7:30 p.m. following the junior varsity match-up which is scheduled to begin promptly at 6:00. The junior varsity coach is Mr. Allen.

Girls' Basketball

Final cuts were held on Saturday, November 4. The abundance girls not playing a fall sport caused most of the preparation for this year's season to be done in the summer. The girls attended camps and played in summer leagues. Coach Stewart is very excited about the upcoming year. "There is a nice blend of experience along with fresh talent from the underclassmen," says Coach Stewart. The season is scheduled to begin on November 25 with Salem hosting Cleveland East. Junior varsity will start at 1:00 p.m. Helping out Coach Stewart as the junior varsity coach is Mr. Windram.

Wrestling

Unfortunately, repeated attempts to talk with Coach Carrion have failed and thus there is little to report. In talking with some of the grapplers The Quaker found out that they are ready for an intense and hopefully winning season. They have had some pre-season conditioning and practices started on Friday 10. Overall, there are high hopes for this season and for the wrestlers themselves.

"Spack is back with a Stellar team"

By Nate Rasul

That was the quote here in Salem two years ago. Now it has changed, and Coach Spack is back with his OWN team. Everyone is very excited about his return, especially Coach Spack himself. When asked about how he feels to be back as a coach his response was, "I am grateful for the opportunity to return as head coach and am excited about the upcoming season." In case some of you did not know, Coach Spack was a head coach here in Salem for several years and his last year was '94. Some wonder why he decided to take the job, and here is what Coach Spack had to say about that, "The decision was not an easy one, primarily because of my involvement in several projects outside of school that are very time consuming. I opted to return due to the encouragement of team members and friends, and as a result of prayer." Coach Spack is involved in a lot of things and last year he did help the boys' and girls' basketball teams as an assistant coach for both. Coach Spack had a lot of expectations for both teams last year as an assistant coach. He also has some expectations for the boys' team this year. His three main goals for this year are one, learn to appreciate the Salem winning tradition. Two, commit to excellence. Third, be persons of integrity. Statistics show that we have not had a winning season in the past eight years. One of the factors is because of the competition that that there is in the M A C . W h e n a s k e d about the competition in the MAC Coach Spack replied with, "The MAC is balanced and extremely competitive. Our non-league schedule is challenging. In short, we have no easy games." Even though there are no easy games on the schedule for the boys, everyone is still positive about the upcoming season. Another factor that should spell success this year will be the personnel on hand. The coaches for this year are the following: Mr. Allen as the Junior Varsity coach and Mr. Andres as the ninth grade coach. I asked Coach Spack about the player personnel on the team and he replied, "We have a solid nucleus of players returning. Competition for playing time should be fierce. Our seniors must provide strong leadership if we are to be successful." This should be an exciting season of basketball.

Sports

Senior Athletes of the Month

BY NATE RASUL

Zack Stevenson
Football

- How long have you been playing?
Since seventh grade.
- Most memorable moment in the sport that you play?
Returning a kickoff against Canton Glen Oak for a touchdown in our first game.
- Why do you play this sport/what attracts you to it?
I like everything about it...it's different than any other sport in every way.
- Who do you admire most and why?
My dad cause he's a hard worker.
- How does it feel to be a senior leader?
I like being a leader. I've realized that this year is it and I didn't want to have any regrets.

Beth Eritz
Tennis

- How long have you been playing?
Since my sophomore year.
- Most memorable moment in the sport that you play?
This year has been a great year, the most memorable moment would have to be when we beat our rival West Branch.
- Why do you play this sport/what attracts you to it?
Tennis is a lot of fun, and the people we play with are great people.
- Who do you admire most and why?
I admire every senior on the team. We've had a great year, and I love every one of them.
- How does it feel to be a senior leader?
Being a senior leader was great. For us it's not about telling underclassmen what to do but getting along with them really well. I'll miss them.

Lindsay Rich
Volleyball

- How long have you been playing?
I have been playing volleyball for six years now for Salem, two of those years I played on Columbiana's Junior Olympic team.
- Most memorable moment in the sport that you play?
Winning Jackson Milton tournament my sophomore and junior year, beating Fitch my junior year. Senior Night this year.
- Why do you play this sport/what attracts you to it?
I play this sport because it is a challenge. Most people think it is so easy, but actually its not. It is a very exciting game that you really have to think and move fast to be good. There is no better feeling than being only 5'5 1/2" and blocking the girl on the other side of the net.
- Who do you admire most and why?
I admire John Wooden most. He was a college basketball coach for UCLA. In my opinion he is the greatest coach that has ever lived. He taught his players not only the game but the ways of life. He is a very caring and honorable man.
- How does it feel to be a senior leader?
It was very fun and challenging being one of the captains on the team as a senior this year. Courtney and I tried to show good leadership and to keep the team pumped up. I can't believe its over now. I will definitely miss the sport.

Jake Conrad
Football

- How long have you been playing?
Five years.
- Most memorable moment in the sport that you play?
Campbell game when Greens (Jason Greenamyner) kicked the game winning field goal.
- Why do you play this sport/what attracts you to it?
Because I get to hit people.
- Who do you admire most and why?
Nate Rasul
- How does it feel to be a senior leader?
It felt good. It was a great experience.

Mike Miles
Soccer

- How long have you been playing?
Thirteen years.
- Most memorable moment in the sport that you play?
Beating Canfield in sectionals
- Why do you play this sport/what attracts you to it?
Cause its fun.
- Who do you admire most and why?
Nate Rasul
- How does it feel to be a senior leader?
Good.

Quaker Clips

BY EMILY SACCO

