Class of 2007 Best Memories

Dan Anderson – The fight on the street corner coming back from prom
Krissy Ardeno – the prom and dancing at the prom with my boyfriend Charlie Sanders
Sandra Bassham – I don't really have one favorite. I love to dance so my best memories were at school dances.
David Beeson – tailgating in Wheeling, West Virginia, for the first football game senior year
Ryan Bell – Dan Anderson writing on the dotted line
Matt Bender – Mr. Sabo
Emily Bennett – Going to NYC, Disney, and Chicago with the band and choir and beating Howland in football two years ago when they were ranked pretty high in the state. That was a great game! Also- when the girls' basketball team went to state.
Serena Biddle – Mar and Stewart my freshmen year
Casey Billham – Getting Main Moon, pizza, Taco Bell, etc. during yearbook junior year. Also our walks in Family Living
Katy Birtalan – I ran face first into a light pole on FE Cope during band camp. My glasses sat sideways on my face. It was both hilarious and embarrassing.
Keri Blackburn – Sitting in the garage with Anna... and the "multiplying" flies.
Jaclyn Brennan – Sophomore year as a whole and senior after-prom
Christina Capaldi – The ghetto fight on the way home from senior prom

Good Luck Ms. Carmello

Messages to the retiree

Marena - Shop until you drop and go to many many Jimmy Buffet concerts!! Thanks so much for all of your help in steering the high school guidance office in the right direction. We would not have made it without your help! ... Guidance

Ms. Carmello- In a selfish way, I am so sad to see you leave. You have been there for me since my freshman year of high school! Your wise words have helped me get through high school, college, and my first years of teaching. I know you deserve your time to retire after all the selfless work and time you have dedicated to the thousands of students you have guided. Enjoy your time away and keep in touch. ... Your student and friend, Jody McCracken

Mo- I will truly miss our morning chats, your warm smile, your sensational sense of style, and your quick humor! The days just won't be the same without you! Enjoy your days! ... Love Nikki

"Everyone's work is a portrait of one's self." Mo, you have created a beautiful portrait. God bless you and thank you for "everything." ... Love Sus

I can't imagine coming to work each day and not seeing you. You have done so many things to make our working environment so enjoyable. Not only will your hard work and dedication be missed, but also your warm smile and pleasant personality. I'm so glad to have known you both as a friend and colleague. Enjoy your retirement. You deserve life's very best. ... Jacque

When The Quaker staff asked Ms. Carmello to complete an interview form, she declined the offer because she did not want us to make a fuss about her retirement. However, considering the many years that Ms. Carmello has dedicated to Salem City Schools, we would be remiss not to honor her. Good luck on your retirement, Ms. Carmello.

"I choose to mark the occasion with quiet contemplation rather than forced gaiety..." Anon.

Leaving High School Behind

By Anna Zimmerman and Kaitlyn Fedyna

When does reality really start to set in? Is it when you walk in the high school doors your senior year, fill out your first college application, or does it set in the last day of your high school career? No matter when you realize that you're not coming back, it is still a shock either way. Most of us are excited to go on to something new but many may be scared of what lies ahead. All we really know is that we're going our separate ways, but at least we're doing it together. This isn't such a bad thing. Getting out of the small town lifestyle will be a healthy and positive change for the majority of our senior class. High school gives people such a dramatic and set way of thinking. Being in high school is so routine and is not nearly as overwhelming as real life. But what are the seniors of Salem High School really thinking as they are about to depart on an exciting journey in uncharted waters? Many feel that they're more than ready to leave good old Salem, Ohio.

To prove this hypothesis, we took the words right from some of Salem seniors. Amber Johnston admitted, "I'm very ready to leave Salem High. I think it's time to move on to the real world." This is very true. Leaving high school will push us all right into the real world. We are fortunately able to take everything we learned with us, but we are forced to leave so much behind also. "I'm ready to leave Salem High, but it will be a little sad leaving Salem and all the memories and friends. All and all I want to leave," claims Greg Woolman, a well known senior because of his height (6'8"). As far as we can see most everyone is happy to be moving on but know it will be hard to leave friends. Britney Leyman shows enthusiasm about graduation saying,

"I feel wonderful about leaving! I am ready to get on with the rest of my life!" Chad Sampson shows some of the same excitement, "I'm glad to be graduating and leaving Salem High School. I'm ready to go to college and continue my life."

All of us are moving on, and right now we don't have any choice. We must stand tall, take a deep breath, and keep looking forward. This is our time to move on. This is best stated by Lauren Alek who said, "I'm ready to graduate and move on with my life. At the same time it's sad because I finally have to grow up and be an adult, and all that's left of being a kid is memories." The memories will be bittersweet, but they are all we have left now. So here's to you, fellow graduates of 2007, as we leave the high school just like every class before us. I hope you are happy with everything you do.

Never Goodbye

By Jessi Howells

The scenery around us will change,
Like the seasons, from winter to spring.
To these last moments we'll cling
As our lives rearrange.

We promised to stay together forever,
Holding to memories we swore not to forget.
I'm not ready to let go yet.
You'll always be in my heart, come whatever.

The time has come for us to fly.
We are ready to stretch our wings,
Go on to bigger and better things.
But it hurts too much to say goodbye.

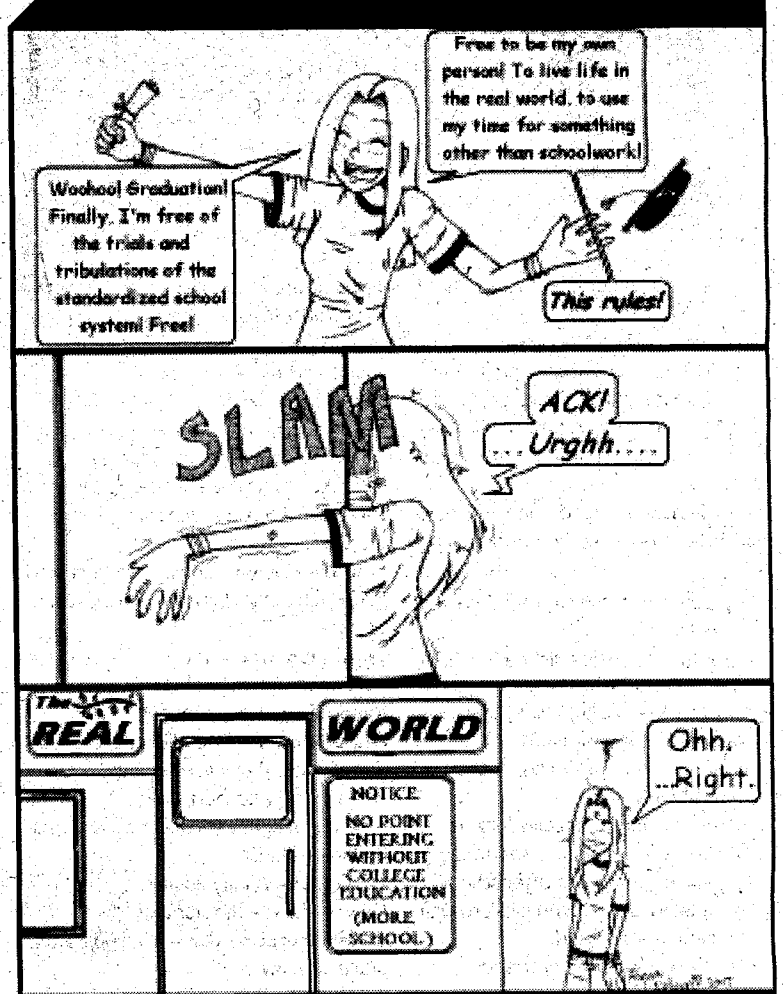

Someone wise once told me,
"It's never really a goodbye,
Just 'see you later.'" It's not a lie.
Then it's easier to go and be free.

When that day is finally here,
See us in gowns of black and red,
I'll remember everything we said
As we move to that new frontier.

Although this feat is none so small,
We must stand tall and be bold.
Here's my hand, take a hold.
I will never let you fall.

Say no goodbyes to our friendship true,
For we will see each other again,
Even if we don't know when.
So, my friend, I'll see you
