Fleet-footed Jenni amazes

BY BOB DIXON

Jenni Brown, Salem High's astonishing distance runner, first walked into the school on September 1, 1992, a green and slightly intimidated freshman. Sixty-seven days later she reigned as state Division I cross-country champion and record holder, completing a 12-race undefeated season.

Jenni Brown poses in California with Billy Mills, who won the 10,000-meter run at the Tokyo Olympics in 1964, and her coach, Frank Parks (right).

Before Brown was finished, she captured the mid-west regional race at Kenosha, Wisconsin, and went on to finish fifth in the nationals at San Diego.

Some call it the most impressive athletic season ever for an SHS student, in the same league with Lowell (Rib) Allen's 1928 feat of winning the national pole vault title.

Brown, who weighs only 80 pounds and stands 5 feet tall, started her season with a school record clocking of 18:26 for the 5,000-meter (3.1 miles) cross-country course. Frank Parks, the SHS coach, calls Brown's running form "almost perfect," as she runs with great economy of effort.

She started running when she was a fourth grader, just for the fun of it. A couple years ago she prevailed on a friend to run to Sebring (nine miles away) for the exercise. They did it.

In only her third meet, she cracked the 18-minute mark, running 17:58.6 to set a course and meet record at the Boardman Invitational. She was to break 18 minutes five more times during the season. This feat becomes more impressive when it is noted only one other Ohio girl ran under 18 minutes all season and in that race she was beaten by Brown by 40 seconds. "In junior high school, I always won, but I thought in high school it would be different," Brown mused. It wasn't because she kept on winning.

Another course and meet record was set at East Liverpool in the county meet when she ran 17:53. She lowered that mark to 17:44 in taking the Mahoning Valley Conference meet, setting the by now usual school and course records.

After taking the district crown on a muddy course, Brown smothered a 200-girl field in the regional meet at Boardman, breaking her own course record and setting a meet record of 17:31.7. A previously undefeated Willoughby South girl finished second, 38.3 seconds behind Brown.

That set the stage for the state meet at Scioto Downs in Columbus. Facing the best girl runners in Ohio, Brown totally destroyed the Division I field, setting a state meet record of 17:15.3. She eclipsed a mark that had stood for 10 years.

The time was so remarkable for a freshman that Brown's picture and feat were recorded in Sports Illustrated two weeks later.

Before the state meet race, the Worthington High coach was heard cautioning his runners, "Don't try to stay up with Brown. Run your own race." It was good advice. His girls won the team title, but did not wear themselves out chasing Brown. The defending state champion finished 40 seconds behind her in second place.

She went in front in the first 800 meters and never gave up the lead. The tiny Quaker, who runs like a buzz saw, employed no special strategy, saying, "I just go out there and run."

The crowd at the Columbus course cheered lustily for the little Salem runner, urging her home. She completed the race without drawing a deep breath while others were collapsing with exhaustion.

"I didn't expect Jenni to take such a big lead so early," said Coach Parks. "This is one exceptional runner. I really enjoy watching Jenni run."

The next step for the diminutive runner was the Kinney Regional Championships at Kenosha, Wisconsin, on November 28.

Brown's state championship had made hundreds of Salemites sudden cross-country fans. In an astonishing display of local pride, Salem people quickly contributed hundreds of dollars to send her and Coach Parks to the regional. They were not to be disappointed.

Running in a sea of mud, often ankle deep, Brown defeated a field of 335 girls from 13 states, winning in the very slow time of 18:51, but 100 yards ahead of the second place girl. She took charge at the 1.5-mile mark and was never headed, finishing covered with mud. She was the first freshman to ever win the regional.

The victory earned her a large glass trophy from the sponsoring Kinney Shoe Co. and a spot in the Kinney nationals at San Diego on December 12. She was the only Ohio girl to qualify for the national meet. After the regional, Brown received a congratulatory note from Paul Roelen ('37) of Newhall, Calif., who was state cross-country champion at Salem High in the fall of 1936.

Salem fans erupted with more generosity. The "Jenni Fund" quickly rose to $4,023, more than enough to pay for the trip to the coast. A small entourage followed Brown to San Diego, including her mother, Linda Brown; Supt. of Schools Burton Schoffman, Dr. Harold Albert, and Coach Parks and his wife, Yvonne. Albert, a real enthusiast, roamed the cross-country course with a cellular telephone, describing the race action to a group of wild-eyed fans back in Salem. He dashed all over the course to cover the action, punctuating his account with some loud cheers of "Go, Jenni, go!"

The race was a tough one, featuring 32 of the best girl runners in the nation.

It was to be Brown's first experience with tactical racing. The ultimate winner, Amanda White of Maryland, took off and ran a blistering 5:06 first mile, opening up a big lead. She forced Brown to run the fastest mile of her career to stay in contact. It took too much out of her and though she got up to within 25 yards of the leader with less than a mile to go, she couldn't catch up.

Brown finished fifth in 17:57 as California girls took second and third and a New Hampshire runner was fourth, three seconds ahead of the Salemite. The winner ran 17:34.

"I ran as fast as I could, but I think the cold weather and snow at home hurt my preparation for the race," Brown said. It was her only defeat of the season. She promised to return to the nationals and improve on her performance.

"I'm ecstatic," said a delighted Coach Parks. "It is absolutely fantastic that this little girl could place fifth in the nation."

Amanda White's coach told Brown "we were concerned about you all the way after that great state meet race you ran." White, who was the 1991 runner-up, had been the pre-race favorite.

After being royally entertained by the Kinney Co., Brown learned that she had been named to the Harrier Magazine All-America cross-country team.

Back home, Brown was soon walking her dog, Kettles, and carrying her paper route. She stayed in light training the rest of the winter, pointing to a full slate of spring competition, running the 1,600 and 3,200-meter races for the SHS track team.

What a year for a freshman!

Historical Society seeks local artifacts

The Salem Historical Society is interested in expanding its collection on Salem industrial history. Salem is unique for a smaller-size city in the importance and diversity of its business community. Anyone having photos, documents, business papers and records, brochures, artifacts, samples or other related items may donate them to the Society. They can mail them to Mrs. Josephine Rupe, museum director, 208 S. Broadway, Salem, OH 44460.

The Society has been able to save the exterior of the old Opera House (Grand Theater). The Stark Preservation Alliance in Canton purchased it for $1 and will find investors for a renovation package. It hopes to make the building a true showplace.

Alumni should plan to visit the museum on trips back to Salem.

Scholarship fund backed by alumni

Contributions to the Alumni Association scholarship fund continued to come in during the past six months. A total of $5,876 was given from Sept. 25 to March 22.

Included in the total was $260 given by the Class of 1982 at its November reunion.

Again, many gifts were made in memory of deceased classmates.

First time for help after high school

Applications for Fox medical scholarships are available at the Alumni Association office at 328 E. State St.

These scholarships are made available from funds left by the late Charles Fox, a native of the Lisbon area who died in 1972. He worked for both the Salem China Co. and Salem Label Co. He retired from the latter in 1969 as secretary-treasurer. He was actively involved with one of the founders of the Community Concert Association.

His estate provided funds for Salem High graduates pursuing careers in medicine, dentistry, nursing or any profession related to health care. Applicants must have completed one year and maintained a minimum GPA of 3.2 in their professional school.

Previously Alumni Association scholarships were awarded solely to graduating seniors. This marks the first time scholarships have been offered at the post high school level.

Winners will be announced in July.

Piontkowski pays his 'dues' ...just because

John Piontkowski of Southfield, Mich., paid his annual visit to the alumni office in December and paid his dues.

John, who won a $2,000 scholarship in 1986, made his "second annual" repayment. He intends to repay the entire scholarship over the years.

No one suggested he do this, but he thinks it is only right and proper.

Greetings! I recently read your latest journalistic triumph and found it most enjoyable and intriguing as is always the case.

Particularly, I find the sports related stories immensely fascinating. While many of the characters are legendary and I recall their names being mentioned during my childhood and youth in Salem, never were any details forthcoming. Ed Beck, Rib Allen, Keith Harris were fabled names but Harris is the only one I can remember having seen perform. However, I can still see Sammy Drakulich tearing up Reilly Field and hurdling would-be tacklers. You have done a most commendable job of fleshing out these heroes, and I much appreciate the labor of historical research you have spent on these stories. The feats of these men become even more remarkable in the light of the limited understanding of sports physiology, strength training and the limited technology of their time as it applied to equipment and training methods. Imagine the performances those worthies would have turned in with modern diet and nutritional training. Add to that the benefits of video recording as a coaching aid and the performances would be even more spectacular.

I am reminded of the old county track meet records in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, which were set in 1919 by a gentleman from Columbiana named Chuck Gaines. These records were set on the Lisbon Fairgrounds horse track. The times were 10 flat and 22 seconds respectively—utterly unbelievable considering the nature of the track surface, which was clay and loose dirt. I was always suspicious that the distances might have been measured inaccurately and were short. The 100 record may have been broken by now, but the 220 record could still be standing.

Enough of this rehash. It has been fun. Don't forget you started it, and I can only say keep it up. Enclosed you will find a contribution for postage and paper and perhaps enough left over for a banana split at Lease's soda fountain.

I was surprised to get congratulations from you on my 90th birthday simply because I didn't think you knew about it. I do appreciate your thinking of me. I did also receive birthday cards from a total of 16 other former Salem students. That was enough to make my day since I left Salem in 1946 and was to only one alumni reunion in 1985.

I always look forward to the coming of your news letter. It is well done. The articles are well written and newsy. They surely do make alumni proud of Salem High.

My wife, Ruth, is still in the nursing home with Parkinsons and requires total care.

I do wish you the best of luck. You are one of many former students of whom I am justly proud.

We are 1964 graduates of Salem High School and receive the newsletter. We have been delighted to hear about some of our former classmates' lives as well as the happenings in Salem. We wanted to share what is happening in our lives.

We have been graduated from Johnson Bible College in Knoxville, TN, and are on the eve of a new experience. In January we leave for Maputo, Mozambique, Africa, for the first 2 1/2 years of a 10-year personal commitment to begin new mission work with independent Christian Churches. Jon will be in charge of building, administration and maintenance as well as teaching classes. Bonna will be working with the children and women as well as teaching English.

We were told to expect 18 months of work before we raised enough support. In less than one month, we had over our projected needed amount for monthly expenses and more than half what we thought we would need to begin.

There is much to share but time and space limit us. We were graduated in 1964, married in October, 1965, have three daughters (all married). At 46 years of age, we were graduated from Johnson Bible College and plan to spend the rest of our lives in service for our Lord.

We would love to hear from former classmates. They may write care of the Butler, PA, address.

In early December I received my first ever issue of the association newsletter. My nomad-like movements since graduation being the probable culprit. I was pleased to learn of the work being done by the Scholarship Committee, to read of the happenings of some old friends (Don DeJane and Fred Cope), and to see many other recognizable names throughout the newsletter.

I will be in Salem in mid-August to visit my mother, Mrs. Alice Johnston, my sister, Susan Johnston ('78), and for a three-day (Class of '63) 30-year reunion. I am hoping to see and visit with many former classmates and friends.

I have enclosed a contribution for the scholarship fund and will continue to support this meritorious project. All, past and present, who have given of their time, abilities, and money are to be congratulated. A special round of applause is due Bob Dixon for his "chief cook and bottle washer" job on the newsletter. I have seen many publications of this type, with an entire staff of would-be journalists, that cannot measure up. Well done!

Andy Schuller

'President's own' includes Salem's Andy Schuller

Andy Schuller ('76), trumpet player deluxe, is in his eighth year as a member of the illustrious U.S. Marine Band, an organization that dates back to 1798.

The son of Bill and Jeannine Schuller of Salem, Schuller will get his master's degree in conducting from George Mason University in Virginia in May.

Schuller and his wife, Heidi, live at 5201 Pleasure Cove Ct., Alexandria, VA 22310. In high school, he was a four-year member of the All-County band, the All-Ohio Boys Band and the OMEA All-State band. He was a 1981 graduate of Youngstown State University's Dana School of Music.

As a professional, he has played with the Youngstown Symphony Orchestra, Warren Chamber Orchestra, Western Reserve Brass Quintet, W. D. Packard Concert Band and the Salem Quaker City Band. He also performed in the orchestras and directed musicals at the Salem Community Theatre and the Youngstown Playhouse.

Schuller taught instrumental music at the Salem City Schools from 1981-1986 and was a trumpet instructor at Hiram College from 1982-1983.

The Marine Band is located at the Marine Barracks in Washington, D.C. John Philip Sousa was the band's 17th director. The band includes 143 of the nation's finest musicians who are selected through auditions. Competition is keen.

The band performs at all inaugurations, in the White House, at public concerts or on nationwide tours. It is referred to as "The President's Own."

I have just finished reading the latest edition of the alumni newsletter. The article about "F.E." (Cope), as he was affectionately called back in the 50's, brought back many memories of spending long hours in Reilly Stadium, preparing the track for important meets. His desire to have everything perfect kept us late into the night many times. He is a man I looked up to as a teacher and respected as a friend.

I look forward to each issue of the newsletter to see what is going on. I visit my family two or three times a year and try to check the city out for changes. The more things change the more they stay the same. I will always treasure the years spent in Salem and the memories of all the great times.

Dr. William L. Hoppes ('57) is '93 Outstanding Alumnus

Dr. William L. Hoppes ('57) of Canton, a professor of medicine whose special interest is in infectious diseases, has been chosen as Outstanding Alumnus of the Year by the SHS Alumni Association.

Dr. Hoppes will be honored at the 112th annual banquet of the Association, set for June 5 at the high school. Organized in 1882, the association has honored 33 outstanding graduates since 1958.

Tickets for the dinner are $12 and may be obtained by calling treasurer Jackie Hergenrother at 332-1287 or by mailing a check to her at 1955 E. Pershing St., Salem. The deadline for tickets is May 25.

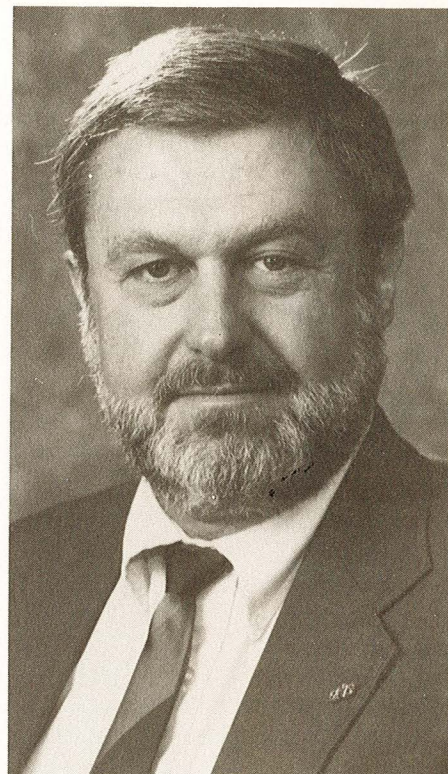

Sally Chappell, association president, said the top graduates of Salem High will be presented with scholarship awards at the banquet. Last year the scholarship distribution was $119,500, divided among 43 students. Over the past seven years, the association has given out $787,000 in scholarships.

Dr. Hoppes, who earned an A. B. from Wooster College in 1961 and an M.D. from Case Western Reserve University in 1965, currently practices at the Medical Center in Canton. He is on the active staff of Aultman Hospital in Canton. He has taught at several northeastern Ohio universities and at Indiana University.

He has a specific interest in AIDS, particularly in prevention of AIDS among students. He stresses the importance of education of teenagers on how to avoid the use of drugs and sexual promiscuity.

Dr. Hoppes is married to the former Dorothy Alston. They have two sons and a daughter.

Multi-reunion plans encore

The second multi-reunion of the 1950s Salem High classes will be staged at the Saxon Club the night of July 3. SHS graduates of all classes, 1950 through 1960, are invited. A similar reunion was a big hit in 1991 when more than 300 attended.

The reunion will run from 7 p.m. to midnight and will feature all 50s singing and dancing, finger food and nibblers and a cash bar. A donation will be taken at the door.

The committee in charge, headed by Chuck Jones ('54) and Rita Joseph-O'Leary ('56), needs to know in advance approximately how many will be attending so food orders will be accurate. In addition, they would like some early cash donations to provide start-up money to get the party going.

Checks, payable to Multi-Reunion, may be mailed to Multi-Reunion, 1056 E. 9th St., Salem, OH 44460. Grads should include their name, address, phone number, class year and number in party attending. RSVP as soon as possible, organizers ask.

All profits will benefit the SHS scholarship fund. With your interest we look forward to an even bigger success than the 1992 cruise which netted the Alumni Association $2,300. Join in the fun while helping a special cause.

We will sail from Tampa, Fla., and stop in these Western Caribbean ports: Key West, Playa del Carmen, Cozumel, Ocho Rios and Grand Cayman.

Holland-America's casual elegance and award winning service is suitable for all ages and tastes. Additionally, the line has offered run-of-the-ship cabin selection to match all budgets. Commit now with a $300 person deposit and guarantee your choice of cabins.

To see placement of cabins on ship, write for a copy of a Holland-America brochure on the msNieuw Amsterdam.

With the purchase of Cancellation Fee Waiver through Holland-America you can protect yourself with a money-back guarantee. CFW costs $69 per person and you may cancel up to 24 hours of sailing for ANY REASON and receive a refund.

Another plus is that Holland-America now accepts American Express and VISA cards. CFW must be purchased with deposit.

Bottom line: Based on current pricing, the per cabin savings is up to $1,328 off high season rates. And, if next year's rates are further reduced, Holland-America has agreed to pass the savings on to the SHS alumni cruisers. Prices are based on double occupancy and are per person.

The price includes round-trip air fare, seven-night cruise with all meals, transfers between airport and ship, port charges, tax and Holland-America's no tipping policy. Persons providing their own transportation to the ship may deduct $250 per person.

The Lost Chords

The musical score of the "Quaker Drive-on Song," is being sought by Barbara Butler Greene ('44).

Words and music to the song were written by Charles S. Freed ('36) and introduced to the SHS student body in the 1936-37 school year. In subsequent years, the musical score has disappeared and the SHS band has stopped playing the song.

On the march

The Salem High School Alumni Band will again take part in the Salem Jubilee celebration and will march in the big parade on Saturday, July 17. Former band members are being asked to perform again.

The band will attend a luncheon, hold a rehearsal and then march in the 6 p.m. parade.

Interested musicians should contact Stu Kendall ('71) at 1466 Quaker Lane, Salem, or call 216-332-4321 to confirm their appearance. They may also write to the Salem Chamber of Commerce, 713 E. State St.

They should include name, address, phone number, instrument and year of graduation.

Candles? 90!

Harvey Lehman, former English and journalism teacher at Salem High, became 90 years old on Feb. 26. He and his twin brother, Harry, were guests of honor at an open house reception.

Lehman, who was last in Salem to attend a class reunion in 1985, has maintained some ties to Salem, although he moved away years ago.

He lives at 112 N. Lakeside Dr. No. 2-F, McPherson, KS 67460, and corresponds with several former pupils.

Plays in Japan

SHS grad Chris Theiss ('88), a 6-ft. 3 in., 265-pound offensive tackle, had a great year for the Princeton Tigers. He was a unanimous choice for first team, all-Ivy League and was selected to an all-star Ivy team that played in the Epson Ivy Bowl in Tokyo, Japan, in January.

The all-star club defeated a Japanese team with ease.

Theiss helped pace the way for a Princeton rushing attack that averaged 259 yards per game. As a result, he was picked among 350 collegiate players in the country for the Indianapolis NFL combine tryouts.

Princeton had an 8-2 record and co-championship of the Ivy League.

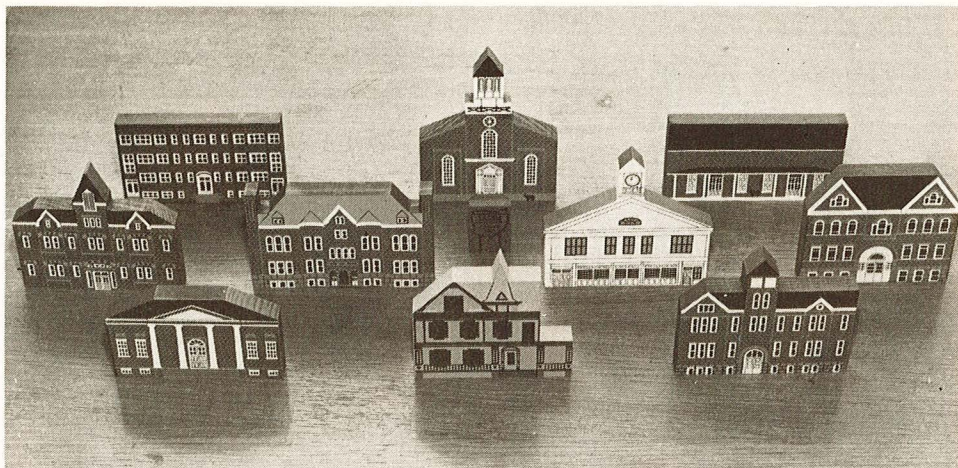

Court royalty — 1963

Thirty years ago Constance Bricker was crowned Basketball Sweetheart at a Salem High game. Doing the honors was Bill Beery, one of the Quakers' all-time great players who that year scored 486 points and had an 1170-point total for his career, both SHS records. His three teams had records of 17-5, 20-3 and 15-7.

Coach John Cabas rates Beery as "easily among the top five players I ever coached." Cabas says Beery was easy to coach, interested in what the coaches were trying to do, a great jump shooter and strong on the boards. He also was a fine football player, leading the Quakers in rushing, passing and scoring and voted most valuable player. He now lives in Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Connie Bricker is now Mrs. Lester Cosgrove and resides in Salem, as does her escort, above, Walter B. (Joe) Null.

Memories in miniatures

Miniature wooden replicas of Salem schools and historical buildings are being sold by the Shepherd's Heart Foundation, an organization founded by SHS alumni.

Available in the collection are replicas of Salem's old city hall, library, Presbyterian church, Junior High School, Prospect, McKinley, Fourth Street, Columbia, Reilly and Buckeye schools and other buildings.

The replicas are painted and measure about 6 x 4 inches. They sell for $9 each, plus a $2.50 fee for mailing and 50 cents for each additional building.

Shepherd's Heart is a non-profit foundation whose sole purpose is to offer training and employment for area people with various disabilities. Its address is Box 1027, Salem, OH 44460. Phone: 216-332-2029.

Some of the school replicas would make excellent reunion favors. They are sold at a reduced price in lots of 50 or more of the same school.

Rita's afghans warm homeless

Rita Emery Canning, a 1941 Salem High graduate, crocheted her first afghan as a seventh grader back in the 1930s when she made one for her mother at Christmas time. Now Rita's gifts of afghans are going to the homeless.

She lives at 905 Castalia Dr., Cary, NC 27511 where she got the idea of making afghans to help the homeless. At the moment she is looking for donations to help buy yarn for her favorite project.

After hearing of the need for warm afghans for the needy, she went to work with some spare yarn she had on hand. Her first afghan was given to a man found on the downtown street. Rita had made and given away two more by the time she was spotlighted in The Cary News in early December.

"None of these is a work of art, but they are big enough to wrap around a couple of children or a mother and child," she says. The afghans are made of washable yarn and are sent out in a plastic bag with sturdy handles to help keep them dry during rain

Detroit TV taps Dan Krichbaum

Daniel Krichbaum ('60), an important member of Salem High's great state runnerup basketball team, has been selected for a new position with a Detroit television station.

He has been named senior vice president for fund development by WTVS Channel 56 where he will be responsible for the oversight of the public TV station's fund raising efforts. This will amount to raising $9.8 million each year.

The former Salemite has been director of Detroit's Recreation and Parks Department since 1976 where he managed a $55 million budget that operates the city's 350 park properties, 24 recreation centers, six golf courses and five marinas.

His work has been saluted for developing several nationally-recognized programs for troubled youth. He was named Executive of the Year in 1986 by United Community Services.

Krichbaum holds a Ph.D in philosophy of education from Wayne State University and resides at 1571 Rosemont, Detroit, MI 48223.

He played on Quaker teams that went 15-2 and 17-3 his last two years. He scored 342 points on the 1959 team.

Book is available

Elinor Gray Humphrey ('39) has written an inspirational book, "Count It All Joy," which is now available through the Friends Books Store in Salem. The author divides her time between Florida and Ohio.

She says the 20th century has brought with it busier lifestyles, more stress, less rest. In her book, Mrs. Humphrey relates how she learned to know the joy of the Lord in every situation—even in the eye of the storm.

"Count It All Joy" can be ordered by mail through the Friends Book Store, 145 S. Broadway, Salem, OH 44460 or by calling 216-332-8501 in Salem or 1-800-537-0269 from out of town.

Cost of the book is $7.95, plus $2 postage. In Ohio, add 48-cents sales tax.

Help! We need you!

Sending out our twice-a-year newsletter is becoming an expensive project, as might be noticed by those who follow the rising curve of postage rates.

Should any of the near 11,000 SHS grads who receive this newsletter feel an overpowering urge to help with printing and mailing costs, a check can be mailed to the SHS Alumni Association, 328 E. State St., Salem, OH 44460.

Hoping to hear from all of you

Pictures and story material from the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s relating to Salem High are needed for this newsletter.

Anyone submitting such material to the Alumni Association may be assured it will be returned intact. Please include indentifications for pictures.

Busy, busy!

It was another busy year for the SHS Alumni Association office. Reunion classes conducted 45 meetings in the office over the year, plus another 12 meetings by Association committees and outside agencies.

The office is manned each weekday morning. Messages may be left on an answering telephone (216-332-1427) at other times. All calls will be returned.

Coffee, anyone?

Editor's note: It has occurred to us each time we affix mailing labels to our outgoing newsletters that Salem High grads are thoroughly scattered all over the United States.

In many cases, they live in the same communities, under the same zip code as other SHS grads, but are unaware of their proximity to former Salemites.

In that connection, we have picked out some grads at random and are listing their class years, names and addresses below to alert each one that their Salem link is not far away. Who knows, maybe someone will buy someone else a cup of coffee?

Let's do lunch

For a number of years several SHS classes have been staging regular monthly get-togethers at local restaurants, sort of mini-reunions.

The custom began with the Class of '55, which started its luncheons about eight years ago. The classes have no formal program at their meals, only talk and laughter.

It is suggested that class members visiting Salem on vacation might like to attend their class function. No reservations are required. Spouses and guests are welcome.

The group includes:

1932 - June 8, noon Timberlanes

1933 - First Monday, 9:30 a.m.,
Timberlanes
1937 - Second Tuesday, 9 a.m.,
