Finance panel backs pickup for firefighters

By LARRY SHIELDS
 Staff Writer

SALEM — A truck is in the works for the fire department after the Finance Committee approved spending $35,000 on Friday.

Fire Chief Jeff Hughes said the truck will replace a 1996 pickup on which the front end has been repaired three times, along with the radiator and a fuel pump, if council approves it.

The committee approved the request with a 3-0 vote.

Hughes said the extended-cab truck is in daily use by inspectors and is used to send firefighters to Columbus when needed.

"Right now, I wouldn't sent it out of the city," he said, adding it was also used to plow snow.

He explained the government purchasing co-op has been opened up to fire departments and EMS for equipment and the department can keep the bidding local.

Hughes said he expected to pay between $26,000 and $27,000 for a crew cab with a heavy-duty towing and plowing package, noting the current snow plow has been in the department "since I came on."

He estimated the entire package at $35,000.

Committee member Dave Nestic asked what kind of truck and Hughes said he had no preference. Nestic noted the current truck had about 5,000 miles a year on it and Hughes said it was "all local, hard" mileage and Nes-tic wondered about getting a late model truck with 20,000 miles that was still under warranty.

Hughes said he didn't know how to do that with the government purchasing agency and Committee Chairman Bret Apple asked about the government co-op called the Ohio Law Enforcement Support Office.

Nestic asked about grants and Hughes said, "No, not that I'm aware of."

He explained a crew-cab truck with a $47,000 retail sticker price can be purchased for about $27,000 through the government agency.

Nestic asked if it would be financed out of the capital improvements budget and Auditor Betty Brothers said there was $203,000 unencumbered and she would "like to see it come out of the capital budget."

Nestic asked if there were other capital projects pending or prioritized.

"Not that come to my office," Brothers said.

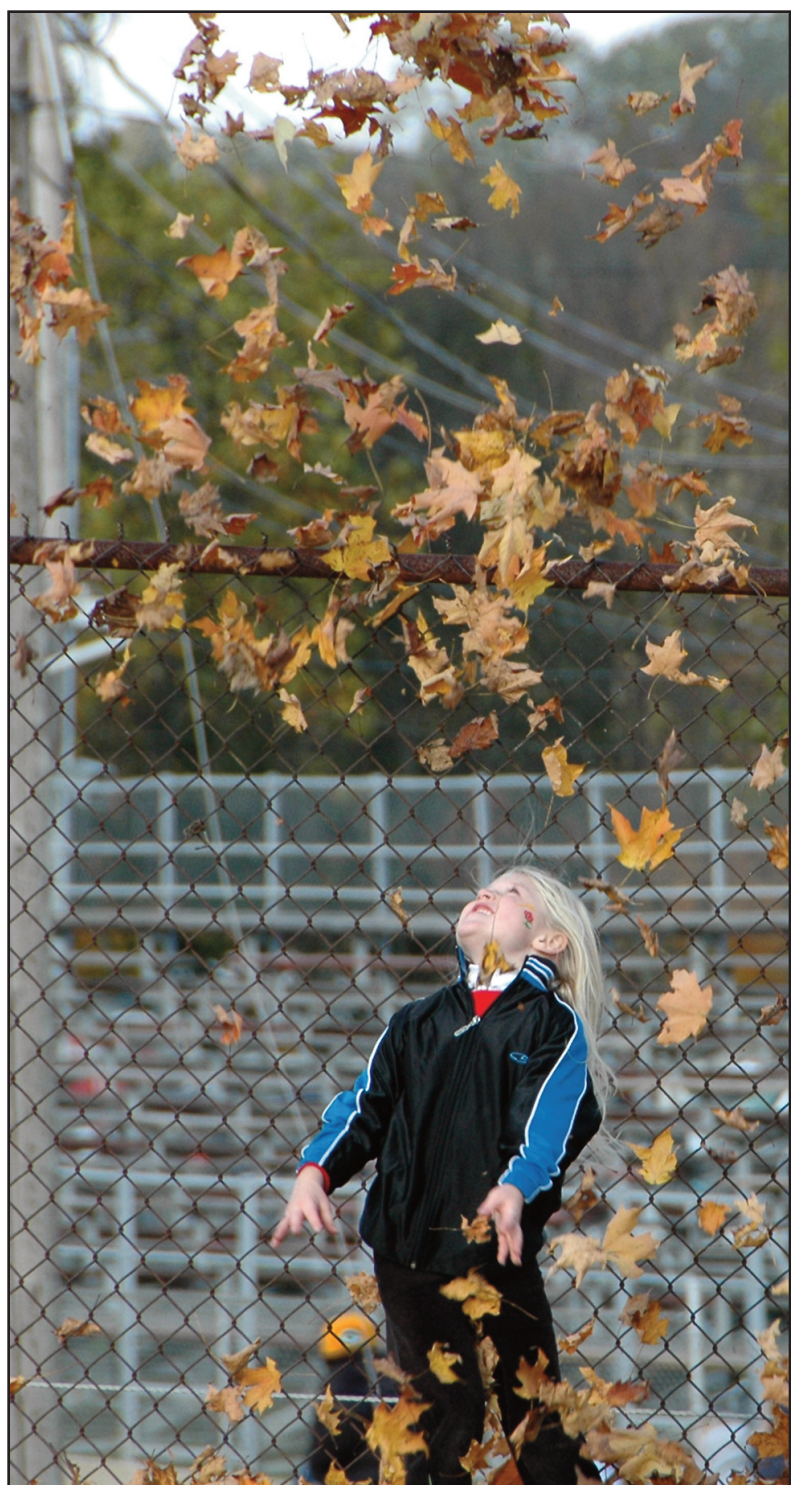

Hughes said, "I can give you a big list ... all of my vehicles need replaced."

Service Safety Director Steve Andres wanted $50,000 for backhoe for the street department along with a 1-ton snow plow truck to replace an aging 1989 truck.

"We've talked about the backhoe for about two years," Andres said.

No action was taken.

County election officials fear 2 primaries will confuse voters

By TOM GIAMBRONI
 Staff Writer

LISBON — Local election officials are concerned two primary elections in 2012 will only confuse voters and possibly drive down voter turnout in one of the primaries.

"It's ridiculous," said Columbiana County Board of Elections member David Johnson at Friday's board meeting.

Johnson's comment came after learning the state legislature was in the process of passing a bill that would create two primary elections in 2012. There would be the normal March 6 primary for state and county races, plus the U.S. Senate. A second primary election would be held June 12 for choosing Democratic and Republican presidential and congressional nominees.

"What will that do to voter turnout? People will be so confused," said board member John Beardsley.

Officials believe some confused voters may choose one primary over the other, failing to realize they can vote in both. Elections board director Adam Booth said directors have been urging officials to consolidate the primaries into a single election and that it be held on the June 12 date, but those pleas have apparently fallen on deaf ears.

Election boards were also concerned about the cost, but the state is prepared to reimburse counties for the additional expense of holding a second primary. Booth said that cost could exceed $75,000 for the county, not $35,000 as incorrectly reported in Friday's edition.

Hoppel seeks 5th term

By TOM GIAMBRONI
 Staff Writer

LISBON — Columbiana County Commissioner Jim Hoppel intends to break his own record by running for a fifth consecutive term in 2012.

Hoppel, a Republican, filed candidacy petitions Friday with the county Board of Elections seeking to run for re-election, starting in the March 6 primary election.

First elected in 1996, Hoppel set the record for consecutive four-year terms for a Columbiana County commissioner when he was re-elected to a fourth term in 2008.

"I've been blessed with good health and I have no problem still getting the job done," said the 73-year-old Hoppel. "I just want to continue working on the things that need worked on."

Chief among his goals is continuing to provide county services without asking voters for

Man charged with assault for sexual conduct after AIDS tests can contact wife

By DEANNE JOHNSON
Staff Writer

LISBON — A man charged with two counts felonious assault for allegedly engaging in sexual conduct with his wife in 2009 after he tested positive for AIDS and without telling her of his condition will legally be able to spend time again with his wife.

At a status conference Friday morning in Columbiana County Common Pleas Court, Judge Scott Washam agreed to lift the no contact order after Tony McKenzie, 41, Spillway Road, Lisbon, had his attorney, James Hartford, make the request. His wife, who was in the courtroom, had no objection to the request.

McKenzie has a jury trial on the two charges scheduled for Oct. 31, but a plea offer has been made verbally. Another status conference is set for Oct. 28.

If convicted, McKenzie faces up to 16 years in prison.

In another case, a man charged with abduction for physically and forcibly restraining a 13-year-old child with duct tape agreed Friday to plead guilty to a lesser charge of child endangerment.

Frankie L. Tompkins Jr., 38, Pass Lane, Lisbon, agreed to plead to the first degree misdemeanor charge, which carries a maximum sentence of six months in jail and $1,000 fine. Prosecutor Tim McNicol said he will request the maximum jail sentence at the sentencing hearing now set for Jan. 6.

The abduction charge was a third-degree felony, which will be dismissed once the plea agreement has been exercised.

According to court documents, the girl had broken free and ran to the neighbors' house in the snow, wearing no shoes and crying in January 2011.

A Salineville man accused of gross sexual imposition will not go to trial until next year. Joseph King, the attorney for Raymond Johnson, 60, Lincoln Street, Salineville, requested a continuance and signed a time waiver. The trial was reset for Feb. 27, with the final status hearing set for Feb. 24.

Johnson was accused of an incident involving two young girls at the Dollar General in Salineville. His trial was previously set for Monday.

Finally, Steven Mango insisted Friday that his jury trial go forward on Oct. 31. Mango, 23, Rose Drive, Lisbon, is charged with attempted burglary. According to court documents, on Aug. 5 Mango went to the back of another apartment in the same complex he lives in and then tried to remove the air conditioner from another resident's window while hanging onto a tree, which was leaning onto the building.

Mango was granted the request to appear in street clothing for his trial.

He also asked for a reduction in bond. His attorney, Jennifer Gorby, stated while Mango does have another felony conviction, he has never failed to appear. Assistant Prosecutor John Gamble argued Mango has a long list of misdemeanors in his past including drug and alcohol-related convictions.

He was convicted in April 2010 of burglary, according to Gamble, granted community control sanction for that crime and violated it.

"I haven't violated my probation," Mango said, contesting that he was ever convicted and that no one was hurt by his crime. "I would like a chance to go home and be with my (16-month-old) son."

Washam said he would take the request under advisement.

Winter forecast cold and wet north, dry south, heavy snow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Winter looks to be cold and wet across the northern tier of states, and the drought will worsen in the South, where conditions are expected to be warmer and drier than usual, government forecasters said Thursday.

Like last winter, the Pacific Ocean cooling known as La Nina is affecting the weather, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Mike Halpert, deputy director of the agency's Climate Prediction Center, said snowfall probably will top the usual amounts from the Northwest to the Great Lakes and the Ohio and Tennessee river valleys.

Dry conditions could extend from Southern California east across drought-stricken Texas and Oklahoma and along the Gulf Coast into Florida and possibly north to Virginia.

Winter weather in other areas and the Northeast could go either way, the researchers said.

While the forecast is not guaranteed, it could be more bad news for drought-stricken regions.

Already 91 percent of Texas, 87 percent of Oklahoma and 63 percent of New Mexico are in extreme or exceptional drought, said David Brown, director of Southern Regional Climate Services for NOAA. The unusually dry conditions also extend into Arizona, Colorado, Kansas, Arkansas and Louisiana, he noted.

Continued dry conditions will affect farming, livestock and other pursuits.

It would take 10 inches to 15 inches of rain in some areas to make an appreciable difference, Brown said, and "the likelihood of seeing that kind of relief is pretty low."

At the same time the forecast for December, January and February looks to be cool along with West Coast and across the northern states to the Great Lakes. Wetter than normal conditions cover that area and extend a bit farther east and south, possibly as far as western New York and south to Kentucky.

Some of the details by region:

— Pacific Northwest: Colder and wetter than average; increased mountain snow in the Pacific Northwest and western Montana. There could be spring flooding in the Missouri River Basin.

— California: Colder than average with odds favoring wetter than average conditions in northern California and drier in southern California.

— Northern Plains: Colder and wetter than average; spring flooding could be a concern.

— Southern Plains and Gulf Coast states: Warmer and drier than average; will probably worsen drought conditions.

— Florida and south Atlantic Coast: Drier than average, with an equal chance for temperatures above, near or below normal; worse than normal wildfire conditions.

— Ohio and Tennessee Valleys: Wetter than average with equal chances for temperatures above, near or below average; potential for increased storminess and flooding.

— Northeast and Mid-Atlantic: Equal chances for temperatures and precipitation above, near or below normal. Winter weather in these areas is often driven by a pressure change called the Arctic Oscillation, which is difficult to forecast. If enough cold air and moisture are in place, areas north of the Ohio Valley and into the Northeast could see above-average snow.

— Great Lakes: A tilt toward colder and wetter than average.

— Hawaii: Above-average temperatures are favored in the western islands. Statewide, the current drought is expected to continue through the winter, though recovery is more likely over the windward slopes of the Big Island and Maui.

— Alaska: colder than average over the southern half of the state and the Panhandle with below average precipitation in the interior eastern part of the state.

Kasich: Reform exotic animals law

COLUMBUS (AP) — Gov. John Kasich on Friday proposed temporary measures to crack down on private ownership of exotic wild animals while tougher laws are drafted this fall.

He also announced that a northeast Ohio auction house long known as a source for animals including bear and tiger cubs is continuing a self-imposed ban.

The moves come after dozens of lions, bears and tigers were shot to death by police in Zanesville after their owner freed them Tuesday and then killed himself.

The owner, Terry Thompson, released the animals weeks after he got out of prison on federal weapons charges and while facing financial problems and troubles managing his animal farm.

Salem officer testifies on ID in importuning case

By DEANNE JOHNSON
Staff Writer

LISBON — Salem Patrolman David Banar testified in Columbiana County Common Pleas Court Friday about a 12-year-old boy's description of a "creepy old man" who he said approached him in September 2010, during a suppression hearing in regards to the identification of Joseph Kalbfell by a witness.

Kalbfell, 53, Olive Street, Salem, faces one count of importuning, a third-degree felony charge after he allegedly approached the 12-year-old boy while trying to solicit a sex act on Sept. 2. In addition to that boy, Salem police reported receiving complaints from other children between 12 and 14 years old during a period of two days prior. Children reported a man in a van who made comments about their bodies.

Banar said the boy, who was on a bicycle, pulled up beside his police cruiser while he was stopped at a red light. The boy reported the man, middle aged with a balding head and driving a gray van in rough condition, had made a comment about his body and solicited a sexual act from him.

Banar had pulled into a parking lot to talk to the boy and then told him to stay there with the boy's stepfather, who had arrived.

"I didn't want him to put himself in harm's way," Banar said.

Banar then went to stop the van, which the boy had pointed out from a distance. During the traffic stop, Banar told Kalbfell of the accusation. Banar said he denied the "rumor" and claimed he had a wife.

While Banar was talking to Kalbfell, he noticed the boy had ridden his bicycle past the van a couple of times. Banar asked the boy again if Kalbfell was the man, which the boy acknowledged, and then Banar told the boy to go back and stay with his stepfather.

He said he asked him to stay there both for his own safety and so he could go talk to him again later.

When asked if a photo lineup was conducted, Banar said he believed Detective David Talbert had started to put one together, but it was never completed. The boy had already identified Kalbfell.

Kalbfell's attorney, Jennifer Gorby, asked if the van had a loud exhaust and whether Banar could hear Kalbfell. He said he had no trouble.

When asked about the traffic stop, Banar said the reason for it was to identify the driver as the person the boy had pointed out to him. He had let Kalbfell go after the stop and told both Kalbfell and the boy the matter would be investigated.

The motion Gorby filed contends the method police used to identify the person the 12-year-old boy described only as "a creepy old man" violated her client's rights. She contended during the traffic stop the boy rode his bicycle back and forth on the sidewalk nearby and afterward identified him. Gorby contends the method of identification was "clearly suggestive" of Kalbfell's guilt, unreliable and violates his rights to due process.

However, during his testimony, Banar said the boy identified the van and described Kalbfell prior to the traffic stop. He said the boy went on his own to ride on the sidewalk after Banar had told him to stay in the lot with his step dad.

Judge Scott Washam said he would take the motion to suppress under advisement. The next hearing scheduled is status conference on Dec. 2 and a jury trial on Dec. 12.

There is another motion Gorby has filed to suppress any testimony or evidence of complaints by the other children who told police about the man in the van at about the same time. Kalbfell does not currently face any charges in relation to those alleged incidents. Gorby also requests the previous allegations be removed from the statement Kalbfell gave to police on Sept. 3.

Message on misunderstood breed of dog

To the editor:

With Pit Bull Awareness Day on Oct. 22, I thought it would be appropriate to do my part in spreading the positive word about this misunderstood breed of dog. For those of you who are not pit bull owners, I'm sure you feel a certain amount of fear or uncertainty concerning the American Pit Bull Terrier, and I say this because I once felt that same way too. I used to be one of those people who thought pit bulls were vicious, blood thirsty beasts until I took a long hard look at the facts. We rely so much on the media to provide us with unbiased news that we rarely take it upon ourselves to form our own opinions about what we see or hear.

Any breed of dog is capable of displaying aggressive behavior. Even small dogs weighing less than 5 pounds are responsible for human fatalities, such as the death of a 6-week old baby back in 2000 who was mauled and killed by the family Pomeranian. "Baby Girl Killed by Family Dog," Los Angeles Times, Monday, Oct. 9, 2000, Home Edition, Metro Section, Page B-5.

And according to the Center for Disease Control and Prevention, "Each year, 4.7 million Americans are bitten by dogs. These relatively few fatalities offer the only available information about breeds involved in dog bites. There is currently no accurate way to identify the number of dogs of a particular breed, and consequently no measure to determine which breeds are more likely to bite or kill."

Three years ago my husband brought home a pit bull puppy which he told me was a mixed breed because he knew I wasn't properly educated on the breed at that time and I feared what I didn't understand. As time went on I bonded with this dog more so than I had with any of my previous pets and one day he told me the truth about our "son," Thor. You see, once you actually allow yourself to get close to one of these dogs and love them unconditionally, you begin to see how harmless and loving they really are. Our pit bull turned out perfectly because we raised him from a puppy with lots of love and proper training. However, there are some pit bulls out there that are not fortunate enough to receive this type of positive upbringing. Behind a vicious pit bull is an irresponsible owner, a lack of training and in most cases a history of abuse.

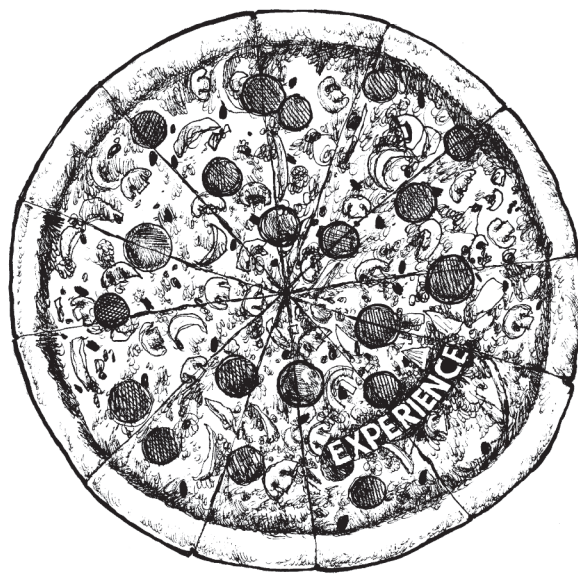

If it weren't for my husband and statistics to support my favorite breed, I would still have a false perception surrounding these wonderful dogs.

There are so many stereotypes out there about pit bulls and if we don't take the time to do our research we will continue to be fearful of all things we don't completely understand. I encourage each one of you to take the time to visit a shelter and see for yourself just how unfairly these dogs are portrayed.

DESIREE RECKNER,

The EduJobs III bailout

MICHELLE
MALKIN

One of my son's Suzuki violin teachers had a wise twist on an old saying: "If at first you don't succeed, try something else." The corollary? "When you do succeed, don't stop. Do it again." The White House could use some remedial Suzuki lessons in economics. They've got everything completely bass-ackward.

In February 2009, President Obama signed the trillion-dollar American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. Nearly $115 billion was earmarked for education. The stimulator-in-chief's crack team of Ivy League economists predicted the law would hold the jobless rate under 8.5 percent.

The actual unemployment rate in October 2009 skyrocketed to a whopping 10.2 percent.

In August 2010, President Obama went back to the well. With deep-pocketed public employee unions by his side, he lobbied hard for the so-called "EduJobs" bill -- $26 billion more to bail out bankrupt states, school districts and public hospitals. Nearly half went to teachers, whose unions raked in an estimated $50 million in rank-and-file dues as a result. Obama's economists had promised the jobless rate would be down to 7.9 percent by then.

The actual unemployment rate in August 2010 was 9.6 percent.

Now, after the Senate rejected President Rerun's latest half-trillion-dollar stimulus proposal, Obama and Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid are pushing for a "mini" $30 billion union jobs package for teachers (with $5 billion to mollify police and firefighters unions). In addition to funding fantastical green school construction jobs (earmarked for unionized-only contractors in an industry that is 85 percent nonunion), the EduJobs III bill will purportedly "save" 400,000 education jobs at an average cost of nearly $80,000 per job. Those will be paid for with a 0.5 percent surtax on millionaires. The job-savings estimates come from the same economic wunderkinds who predicted the jobless rate today would be 7.1 percent.

The actual unemployment rate reported this month is 9.1 percent. While the White House decries layoffs, the inconvenient truth is that the EduJobs III union payoff is a drop in the bucket compared to the millions laid off in the private sector. According to official government statistics, the share of the eligible population now holding a job has sunk to 58.1 percent, the lowest since July 1983.

So, where did all the original EduJobs money go? One survey by the Center on Education Policy found that much of the cash went to bolster fringe benefits and administrative staff. The Fordham Institute's education analyst Chris Tessone noted: "There is no reason to expect anything but business as usual from another round of subsidies. ... More subsidies just protect the status quo at great expense to taxpayers."

While strapped, reckless-spending school districts bemoan the edge of the federal "funding cliff," another chunk of the EduJobs money went to states that didn't even need it -- and had kept their teacher payrolls full through responsible fiscal stewardship. As education journalist Chris Moody reported last summer, states including North Dakota, Tennessee, Arkansas and Alaska whose budgets are in the black received tens of millions in superfluous school subsidies. "Arkansas," Moody found, "has a fully funded teaching staff for the coming year, but the state will still receive up to $91 million for teaching jobs."

In Alaska, school districts had already made hiring decisions for teachers and apportioned the children in each class based upon those numbers. Nevertheless, to fulfill their teachers union-pandering mission, Obama showered the state with $24 million under the bill -- money that a state education bureaucrat acknowledged "probably would not go to adding new teachers."

Other states, such as Illinois and West Virginia, raked in hundreds of millions more in EduJobs dough even though they hadn't yet burned through 2009 education stimulus money. In fact, a total of 20 states and the District of Columbia have spent less than 5 percent of their allotments, according to Education Week magazine.

An Obama education official helpfully suggested that the unneeded money be spent on "on-campus therapists" instead.

Many other school districts failed to heed warnings against binging on full-time hiring sprees with temporary funding. Education Week reported this spring that the New Hanover County (N.C.) school district used $4.8 million in short-term EduJobs money to fund 88 teaching positions, in addition to more than 100 classroom slots funded with 2009 stimulus tax dollars. Obama and the Democrats blame meanie Republicans for the fiscal emergencies these districts now face.

But who devoured the Beltway candy instead of eating their peas? Washington rewards bloated school pensions, Taj Mahal construction outlays and chronic local education budget shortfalls by pouring more money down their sinkholes. Instead of incentivizing fixes, politicians -- dependent on teachers union campaign contributions and human shield photo-ops -- incentivize more failure.

The solution to this vicious cycle of profligacy? It's elementary: Try something else.

A Republic, guaranteed: In Colorado, a conflict grows

GEORGE WILL

The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a republican form of government ...

-- U.S. Constitution

DENVER -- Progressives have long lamented the fact that the Framers designed a Constitution replete with impediments to federal government activism -- fetters such as federalism itself, enumerated powers, three branches of government, two rivalrous wings of the legislative branch, supermajorities, judicial review, presidential vetoes. Colorado progressives, however, have decided the Constitution has a redeeming feature -- the infrequently invoked Guarantee Clause (see above).

Their argument, which some conservatives here embrace, is that when Colorado voters passed an initiative circumscribing their Legislature's ability to increase taxes, they violated this clause. The plaintiffs in their lawsuit -- state legislators, local government and education officials -- want a judge to resolve the contest between direct democracy and representative democracy.

In saying that the former attenuates the latter, progressives are not entirely mistaken. They may, however, be mistaken in thinking this is a justiciable issue.

In 1992, voters passed the Taxpayer s Bill of Rights (TABOR), which stipulates that spending in a given year cannot increase faster than population growth plus inflation -- if both are, say, 2 percent, spending can increase only 4 percent. And any revenue exceeding permissible spending must be rebated to taxpayers, who must approve any tax increase.

But in 2000, voters, encouraged in their cognitive dissonance by teachers unions, passed an initiative requiring spending on education in grades K through 12 to increase significantly faster than overall spending. This, combined with the inexorable growth of federally mandated Medicaid spending, meant that as the portion of the budget devoted to primary and secondary education expands, spending cuts must come from a small and steadily shrinking fraction of the state's budget.

Furthermore, in spite of the privileged status of education spending, critics of TABOR, but not the anti-TABOR lawsuit, say TABOR is incompatible with the state Constitution's requirement of a "thorough and uniform" education system. What do those two adjectives mean? That is a matter of opinion -- of political, not judicial, opinion.

The suit challenging TABOR blames it for "a slow, inexorable slide into fiscal dysfunction." But what constitutes "dysfunction" also is a political judgment, not a justiciable issue. As is the related charge that TABOR has rendered the Legislature "unable to raise and appropriate funds" sufficient to meet its primary constitutional obligations or provide services that are essential for a state. "What funds are "sufficient" and what public services are "essential for a state" are perennial questions of political debate, unsuited to judicial resolution.

So what has the Guarantee Clause got to say about TABOR? Not much.

To the Framers, the noun "republic" was a compound of meanings. The primary one proscribed monarchs and titled aristocracies (Article I, Section 10 says "no state shall ... grant any title of nobility"). James Madison, aka the Father of the Constitution, said the purpose of the Guarantee Clause was to "defend the system against aristocratic or monarchical innovations." The Framers, according to historian Forrest McDonald, "were far from agreed as to what republicanism meant, apart from the absence of hereditary monarchy and hereditary aristocracy."

Still, a secondary but hardly insignificant meaning was that a republic must have the rule of law, a concept that then implied disparagement of direct democracy in which "the people" make all decisions -- legislative, executive and judicial. Hence, a republic has representative government.

So progressives have a portion of a point: One principle of representation is that the people do not generally decide issues, they decide who will decide. Unfortunately for progressives, the achievement of which they once were very proud was that of getting initiative and referenda provisions into many state constitutions. It is an old story: Be careful what you wish for.

One of the "great" differences between "a democracy and a republic," said the sainted Madison in America's Scripture (The Federalist Papers, No. 10), is "the delegation of the government, in the latter, to a small number of citizens elected by the rest." This does not, however, mean that "the rest" cannot place, even by direct democracy, restrictions on the "small number." Surely "republic" and "democracy" are not so antagonistic as to be mutually exclusive categories.

The anti-TABOR brief quotes this from Madison: "A republic, by which I mean a government in which the scheme of representation takes place. ... " Well. "The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose" ("The Merchant of Venice") and progressives can quote Madison (again, Federalist 10) for theirs, even while generally regretting his constitutional architecture.

MUNICIPAL

LISBON — In Columbiana County Municipal Court Friday, Jarred A. Chestnut, 20, Depot Road, Lisbon, was fined $400, sentenced to 9 days in jail and ordered to perform 30 hours of community service for underage consumption, obstruction of official business and resisting arrest after he ran from Salem police Thursday night when they asked to speak with him and his father about a reported fight.

Samuel L. Wherry, 22, Eagleton Road, Lisbon, was fined $250, sentenced to 9 days in jail and ordered to perform 40 hours of community service for assault after he struck another man in the face with a fist, which sent the man to Salem Community Hospital with injuries on March 20 outside of Mark's Landing.

Sandra S. Dougan, 59, Cleveland Street, Salem, was fined $100 and ordered to perform 50 hours of community service for driving without a valid license.

An Oct. 27 pretrial was set for Anthony P. Brietich, 53, Glasgow Road, Salineville, charged with domestic violence and resisting arrest.

A Nov. 29 pretrial was set for Charles R. Beverly, 23, Carrolton, charged with driving under suspension and tail lights.

Bishop visits

Bishop Roger Ames of the Anglican Diocese of the Great Lakes recently made his annual visit to the congregation of Christ the King Church in Columbiana on Oct. 8 and 9. During his visit, he celebrated the sacrament of Confirmation with two young adult members of the congregation, from left, Lauren and Olivia Aberegg. Also pictured are their sponsors, the Rev. # Family Recovery Center aims to raise awareness of distracted driving

By KATIE SCHWENDEMAN
Staff Writer

LISBON — Statistics show that more vehicle accidents are happening because of distracted or impaired driving, Judy Hawkins, education supervisor for the Family Recovery Center, said.

The center focuses on raising public awareness about the importance of safe driving through its annual Click it or Ticket event in the square and mock accident at area high schools.

These events and other efforts are funded through state grants, Hawkins said, and this month the center received $35,000 in the form of a grant through the state Office of Criminal Justice Services.

The center received $32,000 last year and $35,000 is the maximum amount to be awarded.

Hawkins said the emphasis on last year's safety awareness was impaired driving, such as driving while under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

This year the center will focus on impaired and distracted driving, which is driving while listening to an iPod, texting, or even applying make-up.

"We just found that over the past several years working with youth and the drug and alcohol field wasn't enough. We need to go beyond that in trying to prevent accidents resulting in injury or fatality," she said.

In conducting events at area high schools it is clear that more people are engaging in texting while driving, she added.

A seatbelt restraint survey conducted across the county in June and September revealed people are also not wearing seat belts, she said.

The safety grant funding will also go toward the purchase of literature.

Lifting

There are a number of locally-sponsored competitors including heavyweight world champion Perdo Meijas of Brooklyn, N.Y., who will attempt to exceed the current world record of 613 lbs with a try at 615 lbs. He is sponsored by the Fox's Den.

Mike Gagnon, a Salem High School junior and member of the wrestling team, will be lifting and is sponsored by the Quaker City Diner while Dan Bailey, owner of Game On in Salem, will also be competing.

Phantom Auto Works is sponsoring Kaitlyn Duncan who holds the Pennsylvania bench press record in the 14-15-year-old category at 154.3 lbs., while Wing Warehouse and the Iron Chamber Gym in Canton are also sponsors.

Marvin Bishop of Cleveland and Wade Likens of Youngstown and the USA Powerlift Association champion will also be lifting against each other, working up into the 600 lbs bracket.

POLICE REPORTS

SALEM

— Officers assisted Paul's Cab outside the police station at 12:57 a.m. Friday with a man who was asleep in the cab and couldn't waken him. An officer woke him up and verified his address and he was taken home.

— Police responded to the 900 block of West Pershing Street at 1 a.m. Friday for a report of a possible dispute but no one would answer the door. There was no noise while officers were on the scene.

— Police on patrol in the 500 block of South Broadway Avenue at 2:29 a.m. Friday observed two men in a verbal altercation and broke it up. One man advised that he was just sticking up for his friend and was jumped by another man. All agreed to go their separate ways.

— Police responded to the 300 block of Woodland Avenue at 3:17 a.m. Friday where the complainant advised she and her husband loaded their car for a trip and went inside for five minutes and returned to find it had been entered. The glove box had been gone through and a purse was taken with identification, a bank card and personal items. Police checked the area for the purse but were unable to locate it.

— Jarred Chestnut of 7384 Depot Road, Lisbon, was charged with underage consumption, resisting arrest and obstructing official business at 8:47 p.m. Thursday in the 400 block of S. Ellsworth Ave. after police responded to a report of a fight. Employees said a father and son were causing a disturbance. An officer made contact with them and Chestnut, 20, fled through the parking lot but was after a short foot chase and struggle was stopped and taken to the county jail.

— Police responded to the 900 block of North Lincoln Avenue at 5:12 p.m. Thursday and recovered property possibly related to a prior vehicle trespass/theft incident.

— A well-being check at 10:10 p.m. Thursday in the 1300 block of East State Street resulted in no answer at the door. An officer checked at a neighbor's residence but there was no answer there.

— At 3:21 p.m. Thursday, police received a call to the Walmart store where a man had his two tires and his oil changed but his credit card was rejected. He left his Ohio driver's license and said he was going to an ATM and was advised he had until Oct. 17 to pay the $218.47 bill. As of Oct. 20, no payment had been received. Police will attempt to contact the man.

— At 1:28 p.m. Thursday, a Hickory Lane resident came on station advising of a situation between neighbors and another resident taunting his dog. The neighbor became upset by barking and the complainant advised the neighbor has caused problems in the past. The matter will be reviewed.

LISBON

— A caller reported at 6 p.m. Thursday there were some people "beating the (heck) out of each other" on West Washington Street near South Lincoln Avenue. Police came across four people, who were not identified in the report, and two more are to be questioned before referring the matter to the county prosecutor's office.

In other business, the committee approved a motion to place the part-time non-bargaining employees on par with represented employees regarding wages and benefits.

Most pay 10 percent except for the pension pickup except council's secretary, the law director and assistant law director secretaries.

The committee voted 3-0 to match the wages and benefits over three years.

It held off on action on the three secretaries after Apple asked Brothers to "do up the figures on this ... I'd rather revisit this one more time."

more money. "We have a balanced budget, we haven't raised taxes and we aren't printing money," he said. "I think commissioners, along with the other officeholders, have done a good job of working with the money we have."

Hoppel said their other priority is to help create jobs by assisting businesses when the opportunity arises. "It's been tough because of the economy, but I think we've been able to help where we can," he said. "I think as the economy picks up we'll have more opportunities to help," he said.

Hoppel is not alone in facing re-election in 2012. Besides President Obama, the following is a list of other local, state and federal officeholders up for election next year:

- U.S. Rep. Bill Johnson.
  - U.S. Sen. Sherrod Brown.
  - State Rep. Craig Newbold.
  - County Commissioner Penny Traina.
  - County Prosecutor Robert Herron.
  - County Clerk of Courts Anthony Dattilio.
  - County Sheriff Ray Stone.
  - County Recorder Craig Brown.
  - County Treasurer Nick Barborak.
  - County Engineer Bert Dawson.
  - County Coroner Dr. William Graham Jr.
  - County Common Pleas Court Judge C. Ashley Pike.
- Also up for election are next year are seats on the Ohio Supreme Court and Ohio 7th District Court of Appeals.

Primary

He said it is still a waste of money, regardless of who pays. "They're going to pay for it out of the state budget, but it's still coming out of the taxpayers' pockets," Booth said. The cost statewide has been estimated at $16 million.

Even though the county would be reimbursed, Booth said they must still come up with the additional $75,000 up front, which would prove a hardship at a time when county commissioners are asking offices to cut budgets by 5 percent to help offset the loss of $600,000 in state funding.

The two-primary scenario is in response to efforts by Democrats to seek a referendum in 2012 to block the new congressional redistricting plan adopted by the Republican-majority legislature. Having two primaries is expected to give the parties more time to come up with a compromise redistricting plan.

In other news, Booth reported about 2,300 people have taken advantage of the early voting law to date, well below the record of 7,851 absentee ballots cast during the 2008 primary election. He described 2,300 as "slightly higher than usual."

People wanting to vote early at the board offices have until 6 p.m. Nov. 4 to do so, four days prior to the Nov. 8 election. Under the old law, you could vote early at the board office up to one day prior to the election, which has been the subject of some controversy.

"I've been getting phone calls from some TV stations wanting to know if we were going to abide by the that. Well, it's the law," Booth said.

The board's next meeting is 5 p.m. Nov. 7 when it will convene and remain in official session through the election to address any problems that should arise.

Mullins Office Ladies luncheon planned

SALEM - The Mullins Office Ladies luncheon begins at 12:30 p.m. Nov. 5 at the Salem Hills Golf and Country Club.

Results of youth survey to be shared

SALEM - The county-wide results of the Search Institute Youth Survey will be shared at 8 a.m. Nov. 3 at the Salem Community Center. The breakfast meeting is sponsored by Salem Community Hospital, the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention Team (ADAPT), and the Coordinated Action for School Health (CASH) Coalition.

The Search Institute, a non-profit research center in Minneapolis, Minn., has created a framework to measure positive attributes, called assets, experienced by young people. The 40 assets relate to external influences (parents, teachers, community members, and peers) and internal factors (honesty, peaceful conflict resolution skills, and goal-setting ability). According to research, the more assets a young person can identify in his or her life, the less likely that person will engage in high risk behaviors.

In February, 10 school districts in Columbiana County administered the Search Institute's Profiles of Student Life: Attitudes and Behaviors Survey to seventh and 10th-grade students. More than 1700 students completed the survey.

A continental breakfast will be served and reservations may be made by calling Danielle Dillon, CASH coordina-

DAMASCUS UNITED METHODIST CHURCH WILL BE HOLDING A REVIVAL WITH PASTOR RICKY RIGGS SPEAKING ON FOUR SEPARATE OCCASIONS.

Oct 23, 2011 at 10:10 am & 7pm • Oct 24, 25, 2011 at 7pm.

Rev. Riggs and his wife Barbara are warm and caring persons who have a dynamic life-centered message for our culture and time. They are native Ohioans, and together they have eight children and 14 grandchildren.

Ricky and Barb bring with them a broad range of ministry experience which includes missionary service in Brazil, conference and renewal speaking, inner city ministry, youth ministry, and pastorates in Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma and Ohio, over the past forty plus years.

Ricky has received degrees from Marshall University (where he was the past captain of the 1970 football team, the entire team was killed in a crash, inspiring the movie, "We Are Marshall"), and bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from Bethany Nazarene College.

His theological degree is from Asbury Theological Seminary, where he did postgraduate work in Missiology. He has also done extensive postgraduate work in Historical Theology at Drew University, and received an honorary doctorate in Humanities from Franciscan University in 1995.

CALLA COMMUNITY CHURCH HOMECOMING AND FALL HARVEST CELEBRATION

OCTOBER 23, 2011 AT 10:45AM

Calla Community Church would like to invite everyone to our Homecoming and Fall Harvest Celebration on October 23, 2011. It starts with our 10:45 am Church service with Rev. Hooked on Kindness

Southeast Elementary School kicked off its OLWEUS Anti-Bullying program before the entire student body on Friday. This year the theme is "Hooked on Kindness" and the event featured a team-building activity in which the students made a fish and spelled out, Southeast is Hooked on Kindness. There was a special presentation designed by staff members to show the importance of kindness, how kindness has impacted the staff, and how kindness prevents bullying. A T-shirt design contest was held among the students and the winner was Jarod Cannon. His design is featured Quaker Sam fishing and "hooking" a fish with the word kindness written on it and the theme Hooked on Kindness. On the back it has "A Quaker Kid....Is polite, Is Kind, Is Helpful, Is Respectful, Is Responsible, Is Involved." the school assembly of 290 students is pictured with staff members in the gym setting up and AV presentation. Jackie Troll, left, owner of Troll's Jewelry, has selected this year's diamond necklace for the popular "Diamond Drop" to be held at Salem Retail and Business Association's 15th annual Taste in Salem event which benefits the United Way campaign of Northern Columbiana County. The gala fundraiser begins at 6 p.m. Oct. 26 at the Salem Golf Club. Also pictured is Janet Keene, vice president of the Salem Retail and Business Association. (Submitted photo)

15th annual Taste in Salem set

SALEM — The Salem Retail and Business Association's 15th annual Taste in Salem event begins at 6 p.m. Oct. 26 at the Salem Golf Club. The gala fundraiser benefits the United Way campaign of Northern Columbiana County. Tickets are $30 per person and are available at the Salem Area Chamber of Commerce office. Tickets will be $35 at the door. Delicious cuisine from restaurants from Salem and throughout the county will be enjoyed by attendees. The annual Diamond Drop, sponsored by Troll's Jewelry which has become a valued tradition and a crowd favorite, will again be featured. Along with a 50/50 drawing, the Chinese auction will showcase items from area businesses who have donated to this most worthy cause. Music will be provided by Salem High School Senior, Nick Costa, who is an accomplished piano player. A short program will be held during the Taste in Salem, to honor this year's "Heart and Soul" recipients, Gary and B.J. Abrams, and also to acknowledge the work of the local United Way campaign. The audience will be voting on four categories: "Best Presentation," "Best Sweets," "Best Savory" and "Best Overall" as these People's Choice awards continue to be a popular part of the evening's festivities. This year's participants include Adele's Place, Bartell's Cupcakery, Bob Evans, Chef's Table, Mason's Steakhouse, Ricky's English Pub, Salem Giant Eagle, Salem Pizza Joe's, Spread Eagle Tavern, T-bones American Grille, Victorio's Pizza (Salem) and Walmart.

Sharing the master of ceremonies duties for this year's event will be Janet Keene, vice president of the Salem Retail and Business Association. George W.S. Hays, director of the United Way of Northern Columbiana County organization, will be assisting with the Diamond Drop competition. For more information on the Taste in Salem, contact the chamber at 330-337-3473. Office hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., with the office closed from noon to 1 p.m. for lunch.

JUVENILE

LISBON — A 16-year-old Wellsville student was cited into Columbiana County Juvenile Court after she allegedly threatened to harm all the teachers at her school.
Two teens, one from the East Palestine schools and one from Crestview, were cited as being in violation of their probations after they were stopped by an East Palestine patrolman for a curfew violation. The probations of both students required them to refrain from association with another co-defendant on probation. The East Palestine teen also reportedly gave police a false name and date of birth.

A 13-year-old Salem student, who reportedly tested positive for marijuana, was cited as a delinquent child on Oct. 17.
A 17-year-old Salem student was cited as unruly after a school administrator reported the child is chronically truant missing 11 days of school during the month of September.
Another 17-year-old Salem student was cited as unruly after a school administrator reported the boy is habitually disobedient, defiant toward teachers and school staff, skips class and has been truant.

Salem's Austin Noel runs for yards against Louisville during their game Friday. The Quakers trailed 13-7 late in the fourth quarter but a drive stalled at the Louisville 5-yard-line. The Leopards took the ensuing possession in for a score and a 21-7 victory. (Salem News/Gary Leininger)

Late Salem drive falls short

LOUISVILLE — Trailing just 13-7 with just over five minutes left in the game and facing 4th-and-goal at the Louisville 5-yard line, the Quakers needed a big play. They didn't get it.

And on the Leopards ensuing possession, the Quakers needed a big stop. They didn't get that either. After forcing Salem to turn the ball over on downs, Louisville marched 95 yards into the end zone and completed a two-point con-

West Branch loses on late 2-point conversion; Springfield knocks off Columbiana

Tough carry

West Branch's Brenden Wells carries for positive yardage during the team's game against Marlinton Friday in Beloit. Wells ran for 117 yards on 25 carries with three touchdowns, but the Warriors fell 29-28. (Salem News/B.J. Lisko)

Marlinton 29, West Branch 28

BELOIT — The Marlinton Dukes playoff chances were on the line in Beloit.

After a 10-yard touchdown connection from Jesse Carpenter to Clayton Staib, instead of lining up for a game-tying extra point, the Dukes rolled the dice and Carpenter found Alex Williamson on a two-point conversion which led to a 29-28 victory.

West Branch was up by 14 points on two occasions but couldn't hold off a late Marlinton rally.

For the Warriors, Brenden Wells had 117 yards on 25 carries and three touchdown runs. The Warriors found the end zone in the third quarter when Jalen Shelton threw a halfback pass to Scott Muckleroy from 28-yards out giving West Branch a 28-14 lead, but it wasn't enough. Muckleroy caught six passes for 99 yards.

For the Dukes, Alden Hill was held to just 66 yards on 17 carries. Dymonte Thomas picked up the slack running for 187 yards on 18 carries and two scores.

The game was about as must-win as it could get for the Dukes, who came into the contest ranked ninth in computer points in

Wellsville takes down Leetonia

Bears stopped at goal line

By PAUL EDGAR
Staff Writer

WELLSVILLE — The Tigers got the push they needed.

After Wellsville took a three-touchdown lead midway through the third quarter, Leetonia rallied down the stretch and had four shots in the game's final minute from the Tigers 1-yard line to tie the game.

Wellsville answered the call each time.

The Tigers stuffed the Bears on four consecutive run plays in the final seconds to hold on to a hard-fought 28-21 win on Friday at Nicholson Stadium.

Wellsville seniors Jeff McMahon and Vance Thomas were in the middle of the Tigers defense that kept the Bears out of the end zone to secure the victory.

"We just kept pounding," the 6-foot-1, 285-pound McMahon said after the game. "We knew we had to stop them. We were going after whoever had it. It came down to who had more pride and who wanted it more. Coach (Dave Skinner) told us that he needed the best push he could get out of us. We just wanted it more."

Leetonia turned to Zack VanGiessen and finally senior quarterback Cody Stokes on the games final plays, but both came up just inches short of tying the game.

"I've got a 6-4 quarterback, so obviously I'm going to run him behind our line from one-yard out," Leetonia coach Matt Altomare said. "I guess we just came up a few inches short. I really am proud of the way my guys battled."

Rebels roll Raiders

Crestview wins ITCL Tier 1 title for 4th straight year

By MICHAEL S. BURICH
Staff Writer

NORTH LIMA — Crestview's three-headed quarterback had a big role in handing the Rebels a fourth straight Inter-Tri County League upper tier football championship with a 34-19 victory over South Range on Friday.

On the Rebels first offensive play of the game, second-string quarterback Collin Gilbert threw a 52-yard touchdown to third string quarterback Nathan Climo on a trick play and starting quarterback Adam Coppock rushed for 102 yards and two touchdowns as Crestview improved to 8-1 and 6-0 in the ITCL upper tier.

Coupled with Columbiana's loss to Springfield on Friday, the Rebels clinched the title outright with one week to play.

Coppock, a senior, was a part of the last four championships and said this one was special.

"I played special teams when I was a freshman, but I started on offense as a sophomore," Coppock said. "The last one feels better than the first three to be honest."

What made it special was the way the Rebels came out. The trick play was executed so well that no Raider was anywhere near Climo as he caught the ball and waltzed into the end zone.

"We wanted to come out aggressive," Crestview coach Paul Cusick said. "I was worried about our guys playing not to lose instead of playing to win. That kick started things."

Gilbert said that play was worked on all week in practice, so the Rebels' intent was very clear well in advance of the game.

"The coach drew up the play and thought it would work," Gilbert said. "We executed it well all week and it was a big play to start out on because as you can see we didn't win pretty."

"I put a move on right off the line and after that I looked up and saw that Collin threw a great ball," Climo said.

On the kickoff that followed, Zack Moore pooched a kick onto the muddy Raider turf which ended up in the hands of the Rebels' Matt Hardenbrook. Six plays later, Coppock walked into the end zone from 2 out to make it 14-0 with 7:22 left in the first quarter.

"They had that nice little

APSPORTLIGHT

Oct. 22

1950 — The Los Angeles Rams beat the Baltimore Colts 70-27.

1975 — The 10-team World Football League, citing lack of television and season ticket support, disbands before the 12th week of a 20-week season.

1994 — Alcorn State's Steve McNair becomes the NCAA's career yardage leader with 15,049 yards, surpassing the mark set by Brigham Young's Ty Detmer, who had 14,665. McNair's 649 yards also breaks his own Division I-AA single-game record as he leads the Braves to a 41-37 win over Southern.

2000 — Bengals running back Corey Dillon rushes for an NFL single-game record 278 yards in a 31-21 victory over the Denver Broncos. Three years after he broke Jim Brown's single-game rookie record with 246 yards against Tennessee, Dillon betters Walter Payton's 27-year-old mark by three yards.

2001 — New York routs Seattle 12-3 in Game 5 to win the AL pennant for the 38th time. The Yankees become the first team since their predecessors in 1960-64 to win four straight pennants.

2003 — Alex Gonzalez leads off the bottom of the 12th with a solo homer, lifting Florida to a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees in Game 5 of the World Series. The loss to Florida snaps the Yankees' winning streak in extra-inning World Series games at seven.

2005 — Mount Union drops a regular-season game for the first time since 1994, losing 21-14 to Ohio Northern in a Division III matchup. The Purple Raiders, winners of 110 straight regular-season games, had not lost an Ohio Athletic Conference or regular-season game since they were beaten 23-10 by Baldwin-Wallace on Oct. 15, 1994.

2006 — Roger Federer wins his first Madrid Masters and 10th title of the season with a three-set victory over Fernando Gonzalez. Federer is the first player in the Open era to win 10 titles in three straight years.

Springfield 22, Columbiana 19

NEW MIDDLETOWN — Springfield's Leonard Lewis pounced on a fumble on the Columbiana 19-yard-line late in the Tigers' game against Columbiana. About a minute later Nick Russell plunged into the end zone, his second rushing touchdown of the game, to give the Tigers a 22-19 lead which they would not relinquish.

Russell finished with 72 yards rushing on 14 carries and was 9-for-26 for 150 yards including a 28-yard touchdown toss to Scott Gorby that closed the gap to 19-14 late in the third quarter.

Columbiana led at halftime 13-7 after Austin Barbato found the end zone twice on the ground. Barbato finished with 129 yards on 26 carries.

Columbiana's Brandon Hacker helped the Clippers extend the lead to 19-7 on a 5-yard rushing touchdown in the third. But the Tigers were able to rally for the victory.

Hacker ran for 103 yards on 20 carries for the Clippers. Gorby caught three passes, one on a fake punt, for 71 yards for the Tigers.

Springfield (7-2, 4-2 ITCL Tier 1) is in position to make the playoffs if it can beat United on the road next week.

Columbiana (7-2, 4-2 ITCL Tier 1) will travel to Mineral Ridge, where it will also be looking for a win in hopes to secure a post-season berth.

SALEM FROM 1B

version pass to hand Salem a 21-7 loss at Louisville on Friday.

"We played good enough to win the game, but we didn't make the play at the end to get the win," Salem coach Mike Kopachy said. "Still, I'm completely proud of my kids. They played their hearts out. We didn't have a letdown. We just came up short."

The loss leaves Salem on the outside of the playoffs with no hope of getting in. It also leaves the Quakers at 4-5, making a winning season another impossibility.

On a positive note, running back Austin Noel surpassed the 1,000-yard mark. He carried the ball 26 times for 129 yards. He has 1,083 on the season. The senior standout also scored the Quakers' only touchdown of the game.

"Austin is hurt emotionally right now. Nobody wanted this game as bad as he did," Kopachy said. "He's our leader. We're not the biggest, the fastest or the strongest team around but we play hard from start to finish and we take our lead from Austin."

Noel scored his touchdown just five seconds into the second quarter. The 10-yard run capped off a four-play, 43-yard drive and gave Salem the first points of the game. Keaton O'Brien spilt the uprights for a 7-0 Quaker edge.

The lead was short lived. Less than two minutes later,

Salem's John Tafe (59) pressures Louisville's Joey Duckworth while Devon Bell (53) tries to knock the pass down during their game Friday in Louisville. (Salem News/Gary Leininger)

Louisville answered when quarterback Joey Duckworth connected with Gavin Lovejoy on a 52-yard scoring strike. Duckworth would finish 15-of-33 for 226 yards, a pick and three scores.

Not bad for a backup. "That's not their starting quarterback," Kopachy said. "Their starter (Chad Neff) got hurt a couple weeks ago, but (Duckworth) has stepped up for them. They're just a good football team. They're a Division II perennial and we should have beat them. We just didn't make the play to win it and hats off to Louisville, they did."

Duckworth found Trent Ohman on both the Leopards' second-half scores. Louisville took the lead at 8:12 of the third with a 15-yard TD pass. The PAT kick was blocked. The Leopards sealed the deal with a 20-yarder and the conversion pass with 1:19 left to be played.

Salem finished with just 174 total offense, running for 150 and passing for just 24. QB Jake Carner completed just three passes on the night. Mike Madison, Zach Penick and Jordan Pierce each caught one for minimal yards.

Defensively, Carner came up with an interception, while Haeden Panezotti and John Tafe each recovered a fumble.

The Leopards racked up 330 total yards, adding 104 yards rushing to their big night of passing.

Duckworth led on the ground with 14 carries for 56 yards. Ohman was the game's leading receiver.

He hauled in eight receptions for 115 yards.

Louisville finishes the season next week at 1-9 Canton South while the Quakers wrap things up at West Branch. The Warriors defeated Louisville last week and lost a 29-28 heartbreaker to Marlington on Friday.

"Win or lose, our kids don't quit," Kopachy said. "We come back ready to play and we'll be ready for West Branch. That's our Super Bowl. That's our playoff game. That's our rivalry game. That's what we have to play for and we're going to play hard. I have no doubt."

Leonard tied with Kim, Stenson at Disney

Simpson, Donald both 7-under battling for money title

By DOUG FERGUSON
Associated Press

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. — Justin Leonard described his round Friday at Disney as a “fun, easy day,” and it was every bit of that. He had a 9-under 63 for his lowest round of the year, putting him in a tie for the lead with Henrik Stenson and Bio Kim at the Children’s Miracle Network Classic.

It was only after his round that he felt as though he was on Thunder Mountain without ever leaving the golf course.

Leonard is at No. 144 on the PGA Tour money list and not the least bit worried about keeping his card because he already is exempt through 2012. Because of a misprint in the media guide, reporters didn’t understand how he was exempt, leading to confusion — and a brief spell of panic for Leonard — while tour officials researched the regulations to confirm the answer.

By the time he headed for the Magic Kingdom for the parade with his four children, all was well. The leaders were at 12-under 132, two shots clear of Nick O’Hern. Gary Woodland was in the group at 9-under 135.

The money list is magic at Disney.

Webb Simpson and Luke Donald are battling for the money title, and they both played the opening two rounds at 7-under 137, meaning they will be paired again Saturday.

Simpson has a $363,029 lead, so the third round looms large for Donald.

The stress is at the bottom. The players at Nos. 123, 124 and 125 — D.J. Trahan, Bobby Gates and James Driscoll — all made the cut.

Kim is at No. 168 and will have to finish no worse than second to avoid Q-school. Stenson, who had a 64 on the Palm Course, is at No. 180 but is exempt through 2014 from winning The Players Championship. Leonard also has no concern about next year.

“I did call the tour a couple months ago and asked about my status. I’m exempt for next year, so I’m not playing with that kind of pressure,” Leonard said in his press conference. “I don’t know how, I just am. I gave the same look to the telephone. ‘How is this guy still exempt?’”

It was a reasonable question, for his exempt status on his biography page showed him exempt through his position on the money list in 2010. In the exempt ranking at the front of the media guide, however, it shows him in the winner’s category.

The answer took time. Andy Pazzder, the chief of operations, was out of the state on business and did not have immediate access to the records. It required an official at Ponte Vedra Beach headquarters to go through each year’s regulations to provide the correct answer. That took time, and a tour official at Disney didn’t want to keep Leonard waiting. He told him the staff was checking on it.

“Are you going to eat?” media official Mark Stevens said to him.

“I already ate,” Leonard replied. “I think I’m going to go throw up.”

As it turned out, Leonard had the correct information all along. His British Open win in 1997 came with a 10-year exemption. Starting in 2003, the tour began adding to the 10-year exemption with every win. Leonard won five times after 2003, thus he is exempt through 2012.

Leonard is not exempt for the Tournament of Champions in Kapalua to start next year, and that’s something he now has a chance to remedy at Disney. Over the last few months, he has gone to Morris Pickens to develop some practice strategies, and Dave Stockton Jr. for help getting back to his natural putting stroke.

It has paid off so far at Disney, where he took advantage on the Palm for a bogey-free round of 63.

Kim had a 65 on the tougher Magnolia Course, and his spot on the leaderboard was far more critical.

“I’m not afraid of Q-school, because I’m only 21 and I’ve got a lot of things to do and a lot of tournaments to do,” Kim said.

Far more fearful was undergoing heart surgery in his native South Korea while the FedEx Cup playoffs were going on. He previously had the surgery for an irregular heartbeat when he was 11, and knew he was having a problem when he nearly fainted at the Wyndham Championship in August. He was back to playing golf before long, and now is hopeful of a big week.

Simpson had a bogey on the final hole at Magnolia for a 69, while Donald battled a sinus infection and a lack of energy on his way to a 71 as they at least stayed in the game. Their battle was summed up on the 12th hole, when Donald stuffed his tee shot into 2 feet, and Simpson followed with a shot into 3 feet. Both made birdie.

“I think both of us are in the same mindset and trying to win the golf tournament,” Simpson said. “We want to beat not only each other, but we want to beat the field. I feel that’s just natural as competitors. He’s got a little further to go. All it takes is a good weekend, and he would be right there.”

BROWNS

three straight days before practice because he was still bothered by post-concussion symptoms. The 10-year veteran is second on the team with 26 tackles.

Meanwhile, the status of cornerback Joe Haden and running Peyton Hillis remains uncertain. Both were listed as questionable — a 50 percent chance to playing — on the week’s final injury report.

Haden practiced Friday for the first time since spraining his left knee in an Oct. 2 game. Haden tested his knee by running at full speed and making cuts on the turf inside the Browns’ indoor facility. Afterward, Haden said his knee responded well and the decision on whether he plays or not will depend on how he feels before the game.

Haden missed last week’s game against the Raiders and wants to play. But he will be cautious.

“I’m not going to go out there with a chance to hurt it again,” he said. “It’s one game. If I don’t play Sunday, then the week after I’ll definitely be ready. But I want to make sure I’m out there — 100 percent. I don’t want to hurt it again or hurt the team.”

Coach Pat Shurmur thought Haden looked “great” during practice. He said if Haden can play, he will start.

“If Joe (can) go, he’ll be available the whole game, and we’ll play him as much as we need him,” said Shurmur, whose answers following practice were short and direct.

Hillis missed his third practice in a row and wasn’t seen by reporters at the team’s training facility all week. Shurmur said Hillis, whose contract issue and a sickness that caused him to miss a game last month has been a distraction, was getting treatment with the team’s trainers. If Hillis can’t play, Montario Hardesty will start and Chris Ogbonnaya, signed off Houston’s practice squad earlier this week, could be the third-down back.

The Browns (2-3) haven’t won since beating Miami on Sept. 25, and Shurmur seemed a little edgy during the portion of practice open to the media. He yelled at Cleveland’s offense and was clearly irritated by what he was seeing.

Hardesty has dropped six Colt McCoy passes in the past two games, and after he let one over the middle slip through his hands early in practice, Shurmur hollered “get a new running back in there,” and Ogbonnaya took Hardesty’s spot. “He dropped the ball and we don’t want him to drop the ball,” Shurmur said when asked about the move. “We work on catching. You get what you emphasize and we’ve worked on him catching the football, that’s what’s going on.”

BEARS

Wellsville coach Dave Skinner said his senior defensive lineman stepped up when the team needed them most.

“The push we got out of the middle of our line was amazing,” Skinner said. “Everybody in the house knew what was coming. We were in a goaline gap defense and our two defensive tackles (McMahon and Thomas) were squeezing the center. Those two were going both ways (offense and defense) for the first time this year. For them to get that kind of push at the end of the game says a lot about their character.”

Wellsville (4-5) opened the scoring with a 9-play, 86-yard drive that took 4:36 off the clock midway through the first quarter. It ended with a 13-yard scoring pass from Jake Reed to Matt Broughton.

Leetonia (3-6) answered quickly, tying the game, 7-7, when R.J. Pacella found the edge and the end zone from 13 yards out.

Late in the first half, a snap sailed over the head of the Leetonia punter and was recovered by Wellsville on the Bears’ 14-yard line.

The Tigers would capitalize when McMahon found paydirt from one-yard out, giving his team a 14-7 lead at the break.

“I love when they give me the ball,” McMahon said. “I can smell the end zone and I know I’m going to get in.”

The game appeared to be in Wellsville’s total control after the opening drive of the second half.

The Tigers marched down the field with 15 straight running plays out of the Stack-I, covering 65 yards and taking 6:57 off the clock. Brendon Carr would finish the drive off with a four-yard touchdown run and Wellsville led, 28-14.

But the Bears wouldn’t go away.

“When you’re dealing with teenagers, it would have been easy for them to pack it in,” Altomare said of his team. “But they didn’t do that. They kept fighting and believing. I give them a lot of credit for the type of game they played.”

Leetonia backed Wellsville deep into its own territory and forced a punt. That kick was blocked setting up the Bears with a 1st-and-goal at the 1-yard line.

VanGiessen would reach paydirt, pulling Leetonia within two scores.

The Bears recovered the ensuing onside kick, but the Tigers would get a stop.

Stokes came out firing, however, on Leetonia’s next possession marching the Bears on a 79-yard drive that took just 1:30 off the clock and was capped by a touchdown pass to Pacella. That brought the score to 28-21 with 5:06 left in the game.

After a Wellsville 3-and-out, Leetonia took over at its own 44-yard line. Stokes — who missed a series earlier in the game with an injury — was poised in the pocket and led the Bears to a first down just outside the Tigers’ 10-yard line.

Starting with a 3rd-and-1 at the 1-yard line and ending in a 2nd-and-goal from the 1, the Wellsville defense rose to the occasion and stuffed the Bears as time expired.

“You’ve got to give Leetonia credit,” Skinner said. “They kept battling. But the same is true of our guys. We could have folded when they started that rally.”

trick play there,” South Range coach Dan Yeagley said. “We weren’t in position where we needed to be. They got us on that one and then they got us on that onside kick. All of the sudden, they’re up 14 and we start pressing a little bit. It started snowballing.”

A Zack Moore 32-yard field goal made it 17-0 with 11:54 left in the first half. Nick Blower, who went over 1,000 rushing yards for the season with a 17-carry, 129-yard performance, tacked on a 39-yard touchdown scamper with 7:32 left in the half to make it 24-0.

South Range attempted to make a game of it as Dan

Good hauled in a 6-yard touchdown pass from Ross Stoffer with 5:10 left in the first half to make it 24-7. However, an interception by Crestview’s Dillon Gorby set up a Moore 24-yard field goal with seven seconds left in the half to make it 27-7.

The teams traded fumbles to start the third quarter. South Range then missed a golden opportunity after Stoffer hit a wide open Zach Thorpe on a 30-yard pass, but Thorpe lost control of the ball near the end zone and Crestview pounced on the fumble for a touchback.

Coppock closed out the game with his 13th touchdown of the season on a 3-yard run with 11:56 left in the fourth quarter. By that time it was 34-7 and well in hand for the Rebels.

South Range senior Alex Dickey, who had 12 carries for 177 yards, rounded out the scoring for the home team with a 69-yard touchdown run and an 18-yard touchdown reception from Stoffer.

With the championship in hand, Cusick and the Rebels will head down to Lisbon next Friday to finish out the regular season.

“I don’t think people appreciate how hard it is to stay on top,” Cusick said. “Having gone through the process, it’s harder to stay there than it is to get there.”

South Range is at East Palestine next Friday.

Game notes

- South Range has been plagued by injuries all season and that trend continued on Friday. Starting center Adam Peterson went down in the first half and did not return. Joe Horn, a 6-foot, 5-inch, 325-pound lineman, had a leg injury in the second half and went to the hospital by ambulance.

• Cusick did not know that Springfield had beat Columbia following the game, so he stressed in his postgame speech that the Rebels had to beat Lisbon to win the title outright.

“I was only worried about what we had to do,” Cusick said.

• South Range honored 52 seniors who participated in various fall sports and activities before the game.

Steelers’ Pouncey probable for Sunday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — His left elbow heavily wrapped after practice Friday, Pittsburgh Steelers center Maurkice Pouncey says he’s dealt with pain the past two days but will start Sunday at Arizona.

Pouncey, a Pro Bowler as a rookie last season, left practice early Thursday with the elbow injury. He has started all six games this season, but was forced to leave some games early with ankle and knee injuries.

Starting guard Doug Legursky is normally the backup center, but he will not play against the Cardinals because of a toe injury. That would have left center to Trai Essex if Pouncey could not play.

The Steelers will have two erstwhile starters return to the offensive line. Left guard Chris Kemoeatu said he was back to “100 percent” after sitting out two games with a left knee injury, and rookie right tackle Marcus Gilbert said he was “feeling great” after dealing with a left shoulder problem that prevented him from playing last week.

As expected, the Steelers will be without defensive linemen Aaron Smith and Casey Hampton and star linebacker James Harrison. Backup nose tackle Chris Hoke is also doubtful with a neck injury, meaning Steve McLendon likely will make his first career start.

Running back Rashard Mendenhall (knee) and wide receiver Mike Wallace (hamstring) practiced Friday and are probable to face the Cardinals.

Man linked to Ohio State scandal got death threats

COLUMBUS (AP) — The tattoo parlor owner whose purchase of Ohio State memorabilia triggered a far-reaching football scandal says he has received death threats and saw his family’s finances destroyed.

Edward Rife pleaded guilty in June to drug trafficking and money laundering charges unrelated to the scandal. He is scheduled for sentencing next week.

A document filed by Rife’s attorney Friday in federal court says Rife has spent the past year fearing for the safety of his family and children.

Federal authorities investigating Rife’s role in a marijuana distribution plot discovered he’d been buying Ohio State memorabilia from football players or giving them discounts on tattoos for the items.

That discovery triggered an NCAA investigation, led to coach Jim Tressel’s forced resignation and the departure of star quarterback Terrelle Pryor.

Local fave Garcia leads by 2 at Castello Masters

CASTELLON, Spain (AP) — Hometown favorite Sergio Garcia shot an 8-under 63 on Friday to take a two-shot lead at the Castello Masters.

Playing on a course where he was club champion at the age of 12, Garcia eagled the par-5 No. 8 and holed seven other birdies to move to 12 under for the tournament.

The Spaniard, who hasn’t won on the European Tour in almost three years, provided a reminder of his natural ability — and familiarity with the course — with a fine bunker shot on No. 17 to save par.

“Because I’m home, I’ve hit that shot so many times. I hit it perfectly,” he said.

Once ranked No. 2, Garcia has struggled and dropped outside the top 75 after near-misses at the 2007 British Open at Carnoustie and 2008 PGA Championship at Oakland Hills.

The 31-year-old has improved this season and is back up to No. 49 in the rankings with top-12 finishes in the last three majors.

“It’s getting there,” Garcia said. “It’s not quite there yet — sometimes I have a little bit of a hard time hitting a draw, but when my little fade works out, I can keep it in play.”

Alexander Noren of Sweden also finished with a 63 after an opening 69 and is two shots off the lead. Scotland’s Gary Orr, England’s Ross McGowan and Australia’s Marcus Fraser are two shots further back.

Polamalu, Hawk fined

NEW YORK (AP) — Pittsburgh safety Troy Polamalu, the 2010 NFL Defensive Player of the Year, was fined $10,000 Friday by the league for talking on a cell phone while in the bench area in Sunday’s win over Jacksonville.

Steelers coach Mike Tomlin said Polamalu was calling his wife to assure her he wasn’t seriously injured. He sustained what the team called a “very mild” concussion and was removed from the game as a precaution.

Polamalu kept his helmet on save for a brief phone conversation with his wife. Possession of cell phones in the bench area during a game is prohibited beginning 90 minutes before kickoff through the end of the game. Tomlin said it was a team doctor’s phone that Polamalu used.

Green Bay Packers linebacker A.J. Hawk was fined $10,000 by the NFL for an obscene gesture during last week’s win over St. Louis. Hawk gestured to the Packers’ sideline after making a play and was caught by television cameras.

Cards, Rangers hoping to go batty in World Series

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Strolling behind the batting cage, Matt Holliday watched his St. Louis teammates hit away Friday and offered a simple tip. “Get a good swing!” he hollered.

Great advice for anyone with a Louisville Slugger in hand at this World Series.

Despite the presence of Josh Hamilton, Albert Pujols, Nelson Cruz and other top boppers, the Cardinals and Texas Rangers have hardly dented the scoreboard while splitting the first two games.

So far, a total of just eight runs. The last time there were fewer through the opening two games at a Series? Try 1950, when Joe DiMaggio and the New York Yankees combined with Philadelphia for four.

“A lot of people thought this was going to be an offensive World Series,” Texas shortstop Elvis Andrus observed before an off-day workout.

Blame the drought on a few factors: raw weather at Busch Stadium, good pitching and, perhaps most significantly, hitters facing arms they’ve never seen before.

Both teams have flailed away at the plate, chasing sliders and curves that bounced, shattering bats and seeming to guess wrong on what pitches were coming next. “We need to give good at-bats and get deeper and quit swinging at balls out of the strike zone,” Mike Napoli said.

Napoli has hit the lone home run of the Series. He connected off Chris Carpenter, but maybe he had an edge — Napoli had been 3 for 3 lifetime against the Cardinals ace going into Game 1. Fresh off their two-run rally in the ninth inning and a 2-1 win in Game 2, the Rangers start Matt Harrison on Saturday night at Rangers Ballpark. Kyle Lohse will pitch for the Cardinals.

Louisville snaps 3-game skid, beats Rutgers 16-14

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Chris Philpott tied a school record with a 52-yard field goal, and Teddy Bridgewater threw a touchdown pass in the third quarter as Louisville beat Rutgers 16-14 Friday night, snapping a three-game skid.

Louisville (3-4, 1-1 Big East) also capped a week in which coach Charlie Strong signed a new contract. The Cardinals had three interceptions, ending Rutgers' first two drives and Dexter Heyman picked off Gary Nova with 1:41 left to preserve the victory.

Jeremy Wright ran for a career-high 108 yards on just 11 carries, the first Cardinals running back to top 100 yards this season. Dominique Brown also ran for a TD.

Syracuse stuns No. 11 West Va. 49-23

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Ryan Nassib threw three touchdown passes to tight end Nick Provo, Dion Graham returned a kickoff 98 yards for another score, and Syracuse stunned No. 11 West Virginia 49-23 on Friday night with a spirited effort on both sides of the ball.

Syracuse (5-2, 1-1 Big East) hadn't beaten West Virginia (5-2, 1-1) in the Carrier Dome in a decade, and the Orange played a near flawless game to break the streak just as they did last year in a 19-14 upset of the Mountaineers in Morgantown. That victory stopped an eight-game losing streak to West Virginia, and this one was even more impressive.

Syracuse hadn't scored that many points in the series since a 45-0 win in 1960, and a Carrier Dome crowd of 45,265, the largest in three years, roared its approval with thunderous cheers as first-year head coach Doug Marrone enjoyed the most significant win of his brief tenure.

The high-powered West Virginia offense led by Geno Smith was kept in check most of the game, only shining in fits and spurts.

HOROSCOPE

By HOLIDAY MATHIS 10/22/11

An auspicious arrangement of the sun and Neptune brings the spirit world alive in our imaginations. You may dream of a person you haven't talked to in a while, either because the person is far away or because he or she is no longer among the living. The sentiments you exchange will land with great significance and will favorably affect your day.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Be careful not to mix up the nonessentials with the essentials. Things like proper rest and a good haircut are not frivolous at all, nor is anything that helps you feel good and attract the best in life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You can have the goods, but you also have to know how to present them, or no one will buy in. Avoid working completely alone. Gather impressions from others. A partner or mentor can help you home in on a strategy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You respond well to positive feedback. When you know you're being heard, cared about and accepted, you will form an immediate bond with the one who offers you this acceptance.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). When you are willing to interpret events in a very positive way, magic happens. What at first seems like a mistake will turn out to be the best part of a process or the most brilliant aspect of the end result.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You want life to be simple, and yet nothing is one way. Work and relationships are multifaceted. Discounting the evidence that doesn't support your initial belief about a person or situation would be unwise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The one who keeps everything inside forces you to pretend you're a mind reader. If you have to guess what another person is thinking, try to guess something positive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Certain thoughts have a gravitational pull, leading you down a spiral of untruths. But if you can resist believing the first one in the series, you'll skip over the black hole and dance in the light.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You are emboldened by distance. That's why email is so dangerous: You can write things you wouldn't say in person, especially if you knew you would soon be seeing the other person.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Life is too short to overreact to the parts of it you can't control. Knowing this, you will spend your time in traffic or waiting in line doing something more productive than stewing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). A strange old feeling comes back around, signaling that it is finally time to give yourself the warmhearted attention you did not get years ago when you really needed it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You'll solve problems by first of all believing that it is possible to solve them. Giving up hope too soon is a danger. Consider taking a temporary break (instead of quitting altogether) and coming back to the issue later.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You'll work on expressing yourself with clarity and simplicity. You may not reach the goal, but adopting an effective communication style gives you the best chance.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 22). Your talent for uniting and organizing others will be put to good use this year. You'll generously help friends and worthy causes and will enjoy a windfall when others return the favor. A project takes off in November. Advertise in January. You'll make an extremely fortuitous commitment in March. July brings travel. Leo and Sagittarius people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 3, 14, 39, 22 and 1. Walking is perfect exercise for health

Dr. Donohue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: "Walking, walking, walking" is all I hear. All the talk about it makes me wonder if it's really the be-all, end-all it's made out to be.

I am a 76-year-old woman and haven't done anything athletic or done anything in the way of exercise since I was in grade school, and I didn't do much then. I did raise five children and kept house for my family. Does that count? Now I'm told I can live to be 100 if only I take up walking.

I'm trusting you to give me the truth about this, and I'd like to know some of the specifics, like how fast to walk and how far. — M.Y.

ANSWER: Raising five children and keeping house for your family qualifies as exercise.

No one in medicine or in the health field says that inactivity is better than activity. Study after study shows exercise prevents heart disease, keeps arteries supple and lowers blood pressure. All of this is true. Furthermore, it keeps fat off the body.

Walking is so heavily promoted because just about everyone can do it, no special equipment except for walking shoes is required, and no special athletic talent is needed. We've all been walking since infancy.

Thirty minutes a day on most days of the week is the goal. Those 30 minutes don't have to be consecutive minutes. You can break down your session into three 10-minute periods.

The pace should be around three miles in one hour, one mile in 20 minutes. If that is too fast, then walking one mile in 30 minutes is sufficient. If you choose the lower speed, gradually pick up the pace as you get used to exercise.

If you want to measure in steps, a leisurely pace is 80 steps a minute; 100 steps a minute is a brisk pace.

Everyone has a fascination for calorie burning. If you're 120 pounds, a brisk walk burns about 85 calories in a mile; for 160-pounder, that's 105 calories; for a 200-pounder, it's 125 calories.

Give needling uncle taste of own medicine

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my early 20s. I have an uncle in his late 30s who keeps asking me invasive questions about my relationship status. Every time I see "Uncle Roger" at family gatherings he asks if I have a boyfriend yet, why I'm not seeing anyone or what I'm doing single. He assumes it's because I don't want to put up with the boyfriend drama. Uncle Roger makes me feel bad about not being interested in a relationship or dating at the moment. I have told him to back off, without success. He just laughs it off and then the questions continue. Yet, this man has never been in any stable relationship himself. Is there something wrong with me because I haven't met the right person? Am I supposed to force relationships to happen? What can I say to Uncle Roger to make him stop? — BEYOND ANNOYED IN OAKLAND, CALIF.

DEAR BEYOND ANNOYED: Uncle Roger may think he's being funny by relentlessly asking why you're not involved with anyone. Because you have asked him to stop and he presses on, you have two choices: Avoid and ignore him, or turn the tables. When he asks you about your love life, instead of becoming defensive, answer his question with a question: "Why aren't YOU involved with anyone, Uncle Roger? Why are you still single at your age? Can't you find anyone who'll say yes?" And be sure to laugh right back at him. As long as you let him know he's getting to you, he will continue. Sometimes the best defense is a strong offense.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 27-year-old single woman. I have been hanging out with a guy ("Connor") for a few months. I enjoy his company, but I don't have more than platonic feelings for him.

I'm reading a book that says women my age are too picky and need to compromise. My question is, how long should I wait until I feel something more or that compromising just won't work with this one? Am I too picky or do I need to realize I won't be feeling anything more? — SINGLE AND CONFUSED IN MINNESOTA

DEAR CONFUSED: If you have nothing more than platonic feelings for Connor after seeing him for a few months, those feelings are not likely to change because the chemistry just isn't there.

What you need to do is be more selective about the authors whose books you choose, because someone who would advise women sight unseen that they're "too picky" is speaking in dangerous generalities. Caveat emptor.

Rude stepchildren may destroy her marriage

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: A few years ago, I married a wonderful, thoughtful, caring man. It was a second marriage for both of us. When we were dating, everything seemed to be perfect. His two sons are grown and out of the house, and he has two teenage girls still at home. My son was so excited to have brothers and sisters. I truly believed our families could mesh.

The big problem is, we cannot have the family together because his children are completely rude. When my son comes over or walks into the room, his children refuse to acknowledge his existence. They won't talk to him. I have spoken with my husband about this numerous times, and he always makes excuses for them. My son is very hurt, and it is hard on me. His children's inconsiderate treatment of my son is driving a wedge between us. My son no longer wishes to attend family functions, because no one will speak to him except me.

These children are old enough to know better. But I have come to resent all of them and don't want any family events where my son isn't welcome. What more can I do? — Lost and Confused in Texas

Dear Texas: Your husband should have put the kibosh on this treatment when it first started. His children don't have to like your son, but they should treat him with respect, the same way they would like to be treated. It is unconscionable that he allows this to continue. Tell him to put his spine back in and insist that his children behave with decency before it destroys your marriage. Also check the National Stepfamily Resource Center (stepfamilies.info) to see whether there is a support group in your area.
