Port Authority completes Stimulus projects

By TOM GIAMBRONI
Staff Writer

WELLSVILLE — Stimulus-funded improvements at the Columbiana County Port Authority's riverfront industrial park were recently completed, and additional funding is being sought to complete the rest.

Port Authority CEO Tracy Drake announced this week completion of the last of the projects funded with $5.7 million in federal stimulus money received three years ago.

The Port Authority operates a 70-acre industrial park along the Ohio River, and the stimulus money was used to: install an overhead 60-ton crane system to move cargo boxes back and forth from barge, truck and rail; add a second cargo dock; and install a permanent barge for loading and unloading aggregate materials.

"The project will expand the capability of the facility at Ohio's largest river port and provide the state with additional international cargo access to Gulf of Mexico ports, in both New Orleans, La., and Mobile, Ala.," Drake said in a news release.

The improvements have already attracted a number of new tenants over the past year, such as Cimbar Performance Minerals, a mineral-processing company that is involved in a $10.3 million joint venture with another firm to produce drilling fluids for use in the shale gas industry.

In July, Arrowhead Utica Pipelines announced plans to build a $20 million-plus gas-transfer facility on 22 acres being leased from the Port Authority, creating 30 to 50 jobs.

At the same time, Marathon Petroleum, which has a storage tank farm located next door to the industrial park, is purchasing some Port Authority property to develop a staging area for trucks delivering oil and gas for transfer to the storage tanks.

Drake said things are definitely looking up at the industrial park.

West Branch teachers train on technology

By KEVIN HOWELL
Staff Writer

BELOIT — West Branch staff received different training than usual this year.

Staff Development Coordinator Matt Manley explained the change in staff development this year at the regular school board meeting Thursday night.

According to Manley the staff met in several sessions between Aug. 6 and Aug. 17 to train on three technology programs that teachers are being encouraged to implement in classrooms this year. Typically the staff meets for one all-day training session just before the start of the school year. Manley said every staff member attended the training session.

Manley noted that only 11 percent felt comfortable using the programs following the training, but 42 percent said they at least understood the material. Follow up training sessions based on a survey of concerns of the staff members will be conducted on Sept. 25 and 26 and will focus on uploading information, developing forms and practicing use of the programs.

The August training sessions were led by Christy Biery on Web, Lori Schlueter on Google Documents and Matthew Bowen on iPads for kindergarten through second-grade staff members.

Manley highlighted two programs that he said will make a big difference this year — Google Documents and IEPAnywhere.

With Google Documents, teachers can use free programs to gather information from students and receive instant feedback, Manley explained. The programs use current tools such as cell phones to collect information, he said, using as an example a survey of board members by having them text an answer from their phones that were projected instantly onto a screen. The district has 43 licenses per class to use Google Documents.

"It's going to make it a lot easier to determine what the students know," he said.

Manley also explained the benefits of the free online program IEPAnywhere, which is being offered on the staff area of the district's website.

Lisbon boy, 3, gets wish: Walt Disney World trip

By KATIE SCHWENDEMAN
Staff Writer

LISBON — A three-year-old Lisbon boy has been granted his wish. On Saturday morning Lelund and his family will fly to Walt Disney World Resort in Florida through the Make A Wish Foundation.

Lelund Reynolds, who turns four this December, was diagnosed with Langerhans cell Histiocytosis, or LCH, at only six months old.

His mother, Rebecca Kennedy, said Lelund underwent five surgeries before the age of six months. Before the diagnosis the family thought all he needed was a simple operation to put tubes in his ears because they had been bleeding.

After trips to Pittsburgh Children's Hospital and another hospital in the metro area, a full-body scan showed tumors throughout his entire body.

Kennedy said a tumor in his right arm had expanded so much that it caused his arm to fracture. At one point, a doctor suggested amputation.

But Kennedy's fiancé and Lelund's father, Merl Reynolds, wouldn't have that. Visits to another doctor revealed the LCH, a rare cell disease that manifests as lesions on the various organs of the body. It is similar to leukemia.

According to a publication of the U.S. National Library of Medicine, the chances of someone having LCH under the age of 10 is thought to be 1 in 200,000 each year.

Lelund underwent chemotherapy and radiation treatments immediately after the diagnosis. The disease and the treatments never stopped him from enjoying life and playing with his five siblings, his parents said.

"You don't even know he's sick," Kennedy said.

Judge restores 3 early voting days in Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP) — A federal judge in Ohio on Friday granted a request from President Barack Obama's campaign to give all voters in the swing state the option of casting their ballot in person during the three days before Election Day.

U.S. District Judge Peter Economus in Columbus issued a preliminary injunction in the case involving state law that cuts off early voting for most residents on the Friday evening before a Tuesday election. The law makes an exception for military personnel and Ohio voters living overseas.

Economus concluded that the law was unconstitutional in changing the in-person early voting deadline and that the state was wrongly valuing certain votes above others.

Attorney General Mike DeWine plans to appeal the decision, likely on Tuesday.

Police investigate massive maple syrup theft from Quebec warehouse

ST-LOUIS-DE-BLANDFORD, Quebec (AP) — Police in Quebec were following the scent of something sweet — millions of dollars’ worth of maple syrup missing from a large warehouse stocking over $30 million worth of the amber nectar.

The theft puts a cavity-sized dent in Quebec’s syrup stock, considered to be a global strategic reserve of the sweet stuff that is often used to replenish markets during disappointing seasons. Quebec produces up to 80 percent of the world’s maple syrup.

Quebec Provincial Sgt. Claude Denis said Friday it was too soon to determine the exact quantity or value of the maple syrup stolen from the St. Louis-De-Blandford facility where over 10 million pounds (4.54 million kilograms) is stored.

The Federation of Quebec Maple Syrup Producers said it discovered the missing syrup last week during a routine inventory where empty barrels were found at the site at St-Louis-de-Blandford, Quebec. Officials initially kept the news quiet, hoping it would help police solve the crime.

Anne-Marie Granger Godbout, the executive director of the federation, said that while it isn’t unusual for individual maple syrup producers to have stock stolen, having millions worth of syrup stolen is “unusual.”

“It’s the first time something like this has happened,” she said. “We’ve never seen a robbery of this magnitude.”

She said the disappearance of the stock wasn’t obvious at first in the huge warehouse. The facility alone houses nearly the equivalent of half the entire U.S. production of maple syrup in a year, she said.

“The U.S. market is the main market for maple syrup, about 75 percent of Canadian maple syrup is directly exported to the U.S.,” she said. She noted the theft was particularly ill-timed after a disappointing 2012 season for U.S. producers, triggering more demand for Canadian syrup.

She said auditors would require a few more days to determine how many of the 45-gallon barrels have been emptied.

Obama begins sprint to convention as campaign season pivots; Romney visits Gulf

FORT BLISS, Texas (AP) — His convention turn coming fast, President Barack Obama on Friday began sprinting toward one of his last, best shots to win over voters, ready to promise better days even for those who do not feel better off. Rival Mitt Romney, flush with confidence after his party’s convention, declared: “We love this country and we’re taking it back.”

Both angling for the aura of leadership, Romney swooped in on rain-drenched Louisiana, while Obama stood with troops in Texas and reminded the nation that he ended the war in Iraq. Obama, too, will visit storm-battered Louisiana on Monday, a move the White House said was decided before Romney revealed his plans.

The race for the White House suddenly felt more urgent, a final heated day of August giving way to a two-month stretch in which many voters will get serious about making their choices — or even voting for one in the states that allow early balloting.

The political buzz followed Romney, hours after a convention speech in which he introduced himself to America and asked on-the-fence voters to let go of a president who “has disappointed America.” A rambling, surprising and strange appearance by movie legend Clint Eastwood at the GOP event still had people talking, too.

But attention was shifting to Obama, the incumbent who gets the last shot at making a lasting impression before the debates.

As Afghanistan war drags on, Romney omits war from speech, first for GOP since ‘52

WASHINGTON (AP) — With America embroiled in its longest armed conflict, Mitt Romney became the first Republican since 1952 to accept his party’s nomination without mentioning war.

Three election cycles after the 2001 terrorist attacks, neither Romney nor his running mate, Rep. Paul Ryan, had anything to say about terrorism or war while on their party’s biggest stage. The only one who did Thursday was actor Clint Eastwood, who won cheers for suggesting invading Afghanistan was a mistake and calling for an immediate withdrawal of troops — a line that might have earned boos and catcalls four years ago.

The Romney strategy reflects the weak public support for the Afghanistan war, fatigue over a decade of terrorism fears and the central role of the economy in the campaign. But it was still a remarkable shift in tone for a party that, even in times of peace, has used the specter of war to call for greater military spending and tough foreign policy.

Candidates Barry Goldwater and Richard Nixon criticized the handling of the Vietnam War. Bob Dole said the way to prevent conflict is to prepare for more, greater wars than a country will need to fight. Ronald Reagan warned that a weak nation would tempt the Soviet Union.

“Four times in my lifetime America has gone to war, bleeding the lives of its young men into the sands of beachheads, the fields of Europe and the jungles and rice paddies of Asia,” Reagan said in 1980. “We know only too well that war comes not when the forces of freedom are strong, but when they are weak.”

Israeli officials say new UN report props up warnings on Iran’s nuclear program

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli officials said on Friday that a new United Nations report adds credibility to their warnings about Iran, as tensions grow between the Jewish state and its allies over how to tackle Tehran’s suspect nuclear program.

The report by the U.N. nuclear agency, which emerged on Thursday, concluded that Iran had stepped up the installation of centrifuges capable of making weapons-grade material in an underground bunker at its Fordo underground facility, safe from most aerial attacks.

The U.N. report also said Iran has effectively shut down inspections of a separate site — the Parchin military complex — suspected of being used for nuclear weapons-related experiments, by shrouding it from spy satellite view with a covering. It drew rapid criticism from Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Salehi, who said Friday the assertion about Parchin “does not make any technical sense.” Iran denies the West’s claims that it is seeking to develop weapons but its government makes no secret that it sees expansion of its nuclear program as a right.

Ex-Marine suffering from depression shoots co-workers at NJ grocery; kills 2, himself

OLD BRIDGE, N.J. (AP) — An ex-Marine who had suffered from depression and once tweeted about killing “everyone I see” opened fire in camouflage gear at a New Jersey supermarket, gunning down two co-workers before he killed himself, authorities said.

Terence Tyler, 23, left his night clerk shift at a Pathmark store in Old Bridge Township around 3:30 a.m., drove off and returned 20 minutes later to the closed store with a handgun and an assault rifle similar to an AK-47, Middlesex County Prosecutor Bruce Kaplan said. About 12 to 14 workers were still there, inputting new prices into the computer.

Tyler fired more than 16 rounds from his rifle — shooting at an employee standing outside and firing as he entered the store, blowing out the front windows, authorities said.

Benefit Bank can help

Pictured is Cindy Slavens, executive director of the Family and Community Resource Center in Lisbon, and registered counselor for the Ohio Benefit Bank, using a computer at the Leetonia Community Public Library to help an anonymous college student. FCRC serves Columbiana County. Slavens likes setting up appointments in libraries as they are good locations, quiet, and always have a dependable computer to use. She feels that libraries are under-utilized and that people are not aware of all their resources. This student registered to vote, filled in a FAFSA for student financial help, and prepared for filing a tax return. Slavens admits that some people have trouble with the self-serve component of the Ohio Benefit Bank website, but urges people to call 330-420-0044 to make an appointment for help. (Submitted photo)

Revamped Lisbon zoning appeals board hears 1st case

By TOM GIAMBRONI
Staff Writer

LISBON — The Village Board of Zoning Appeals handled its first application since the zoning code was overhauled and the final authority for deciding disputes was transferred to Village Council.

The zoning board voted 3-0 at this week’s meeting to approve a variance application from Consumers National Bank to erect a monument-style sign with an electronic-message sign, along with an illuminated wall sign.

Located next to the Post Office on state Route 45 in a business/industrial-zoned district, the bank needed a variance because of the zoning code regulation prohibiting illuminated signs that flash or cause “the illumination of movement.”

While the board agreed an electronic-message sign violates the code, they were not necessarily opposed to the bank’s application for a variance.

“I have no problem with it, but since council wants the final say, I say let them,” said board member Mike Ours.

He was referring to council’s controversial overhaul of the zoning code last year that gave council final say over deciding variances if the initial request is rejected by the board. Before the change, the decision would have to be appealed directly to court. Board members opposed the change, saying it made their existence unnecessary.

Board member Cheryl Mills agreed with Ours, saying the sign would clearly violate zoning code. “We’re not trying to hurt any business. We like you being out there,” she told bank officials Steve Badman and Dawn Chepke.

Board member Dick Henthorne said variances are only supposed to be granted in hardship cases, and this situation clearly does not meet the criteria. He said by granting the variance they would be setting a precedent for any business wanting to install electronic-messaging signs, which they are trying to limit with the regulation.

Badman doubts that would occur, given that these signs are expensive. “We’re looking at it as a customer service,” he said, noting the sign will also include notifications about upcoming community events, in addition to bank advertisements and the time and temperature.

Badman said zoning regulations in Alliance, where they have a branch office, required the messages on their electronic-message sign last at least 30 seconds, and he said they could program the Lisbon sign to do likewise if that would meet the code.

After further discussion, the board indicated it would approve the variance if the bank agreed messages had to last for at least 20 seconds and that each message would be followed by the time and temperature. Badman agreed, and the board approved the variance.

Robert G. Paskey

NEW MIDDLETOWN —Robert G. “Bob” Paskey, formerly of Boardman, now residing in New Middletown, passed away Thursday, Aug. 30, 2012.

He was born in Youngstown and preceded in death by his mother, Elizabeth (Betty) Schweigert Paskey.

Bob married upon first sight, the love of his life, Virginia (Ginny) Jones Paskey, in 1964. A loving and devoted father, Bob is survived by his two children and best friends, Ken Paskey of Poland, Ohio and Linda Paskey, formerly of Jacksonville, Fla., now living in Columbus, Ohio. He is also survived by his sister, Marianne Whitehouse, of Youngstown, Ohio, sister-in-law, Barbara Ormiston, of Minerva, Ohio, his dear cousin Kathy (Kagey) Kennedy, his four cats (whom he especially adored) and countless friends.

A patriot, Bob proudly served his country from 1958 to 1960 with the United States Army Corps and was stationed in Germany. Upon his return from service, Bob worked for the TASCOCO Insulation Company as the warehouse foreman and truck driver for 32 years before retiring in 2000. Always one with a strong work ethic, he continued to work as a driver for Jim’s Auto of New Middletown. He was a long-time and active member of the Tri-County 4 Wheelers, Teamsters Local 377, Youngstown Model Railroad Club and the YMCA where he walked several times a week.

Bob was a master carpenter and his impeccable workmanship will stand as a brilliant reminder of his talent. From handcrafting every element of his and Ginny’s home, to helping out neighbors and friends, to winning “Best of Show” at the Canfield Fair in 2010, to constructing custom pieces from his daughters drawings – he really could do it all.

Bob’s strong faith, love of family, commitment to friends, bright smile, wonderful wit and his giving and compassionate spirit will be remembered by all who came in contact with him. Although he will be profoundly missed here on earth, he is watching over us from the heavens every day.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday Sept. 4 at Seederly-Mong and Beck Funeral Home in North Lima with the Rev. David Perry officiating.

Friends may call from 4 to 7 p.m. Monday Sept. 3 at Seederly-Mong and Beck Funeral Home, North Lima, 11500 Market Street, North Lima, Ohio 44452.

Memorial contributions in Bob’s name may be made to “Making Kids Count,” an organization that brings positive experiences to underprivileged children and their families by supporting everyday needs, boosting confidence and lifting spirits (7178 West Blvd., Suite E, Youngstown, Ohio 44512).

The Seederly-Mong and Beck Funeral Home in North Lima has been entrusted with the arrangements.

Family and friends are invited to visit www.seederly-mongandbeck.com to sign the online guest registry or to send private condolences.

Salem, East Liverpool men charged in battery thefts in Lisbon area

By DEANNE JOHNSON
Staff Writer

LISBON -- Two men have been charged with theft and criminal tools after deputies located them in a vehicle with numerous stolen batteries in the trunk on Thursday afternoon.

Don Ketchum, Applegate Road, Lisbon, reported to the county sheriff’s department at 2:14 p.m. Thursday he had chased a black Grand Am into the Lisbon area after he saw someone in his yard stealing a battery. Although he was unable to keep up with the fleeing car, Ketchum was able to provide deputies with a description of the vehicle and a license plate number.

One deputy, Brandon Hoppel spotted the Grand Am on Roller Coaster Road, but when he turned to follow it, the driver sped away. Another deputy, Detective Sgt. Jeff Haugh next saw the vehicle northbound on state Route 45 near the County Career Center and was able to stop it just inside the village limits.

According to the sheriff’s department report, both men, the driver Kyle Thrasher, 32, Valley Road, Salem, and the passenger, Bruce Pierce, 32, Annesley Road, East Liverpool, were known to deputies to have lengthy criminal histories, including convictions for theft and drug offenses. With tools visible in the front passenger area, deputies asked to see inside the trunk and found numerous batteries from vehicles and tractors.

Deputies note there have been several batteries reported stolen recently. Ketchum was able to identify his battery among those in the trunk. A woman also reportedly drove past where the men were being arrested and identified them as recently being in her garage, although she had not called to report it at the time.

Just prior to the call from Ketchum, another woman, Karen Miller, Alderlick Road, Lisbon, reported at 2 p.m. Thursday she was napping and woke to find two men in a black Grand Am stealing her battery out of her tractor. When she confronted them, they fled southbound on Steubenville Pike.

Both men appeared on video arraignment Friday morning in Columbiana County Municipal Court. Bond was set for each of them at $2,000 cash or surety.

A Sept. 6 pretrial was set for Thrasher, while Pierce was set for pretrial on Sept. 20.

Ohio could spend $3.5M on animal facility

COLUMBUS (AP) — The state of Ohio wants to spend $3.5 million to build and operate a facility that would temporarily house exotic animals confiscated under a new law that’s about to take effect. The state Controlling Board, which handles certain adjustments to the state budget, would have to approve the Ohio Department of Agriculture’s request for the money. The issue will be considered at a meeting Sept. 10.

The amount was reported Friday in a meeting agenda released by the Ohio Office of Budget and Management. The request includes $2.93 million to construct the facility, which would be built on the Agriculture Department’s campus in a rural part of Reynoldsburg, just east of Columbus.

The proposal comes as the state prepares to crack down on owners of exotic animals in Ohio.

The new law, which takes effect Sept. 5, will immediately ban people from buying new dangerous exotic animals. Ohio officials can seize animals from current owners if those owners don’t meet the state’s requirements or are found housing an animal without a permit.

Any seized animals would be cared for under the supervision of the state veterinarian, according to the agriculture department.

SHERIFF

—A Steubenville Pike Road, Lisbon, woman reported at 10:25 a.m. Friday her ex-husband has been violating a protection order she has against him. An e-mail was sent from her ex’s e-mail address.

—A Trinity Church Road, Lisbon, woman reported at 9:30 a.m. Friday the temporary tag had been stolen from her vehicle. It was due to expire that day.

—Jennifer White, Gavers Road, Hanoverton, reported at 2:53 a.m. Friday she and Albert Baker, 36, arrived home after drinking in a bar and got into an argument. She reported White ran into the bedroom and closed the door, while Baker began to throw things in the kitchen and living room. She had the keys to his car because he had been drinking and he threatened to take her car. She was afraid to come out of the bedroom and called for help. Baker was charged with domestic violence due to White fearing for her safety.

—A Steubenville Pike Road woman reported at 5:26 p.m. Thursday her daughter’s ex-boyfriend has been calling her wanting to know where her daughter is, along with his child. She wants him to stop calling.

—A Failer Road, East Palestine, man reported at 3:11 p.m. Thursday he tried to get a loan for a vehicle and learned someone in South Carolina has been using his identity.

—A Bill Smith Road, Wellsville, woman reported at 2:36 p.m. Thursday her handicapped son received a check in the mail for $3,000 and they had not requested the money. She was uncertain if the check was legitimate or fraudulent.

OUR SIDE

Double standard on Islamic service

Had an Islamic police officer been punished for refusing to obey an order to attend Christian church services, rest assured major news organizations would have reported the dispute. Civil rights organizations would have rushed to support the officer.

To our knowledge, no such situation has occurred. But in Tulsa, Okla., police Capt. Paul Fields lost two weeks' pay, was placed on a late-night shift and told he will not be eligible for promotion for at least a year — because he refused to obey an order to attend an event, including religious services, at the Islamic Cultural Society. Part of the penalty was because Fields refused to order officers under him to attend.

Fields made two things clear: First, faith — his or that of other people — plays no part in how he handles calls for police assistance. Second, as a dedicated Christian, he felt the order was an infringement on his First Amendment freedom of religion.

National media outlets (with one exception) paid little attention to Fields' complaint. Organizations which have aided non-Christians in religious freedom cases offered him no help.

Those who point out our nation's separation of church and state doctrine is being misused to target Christians often are ridiculed. But the Fields case — and relative lack of concern about it — is powerful evidence and reason for concern about whether individual liberties are being protected selectively.

Too many of the events Americans who lived through the second half of the 20th Century remember with crystal clarity, as if they occurred yesterday, were tragedies.

One was a wonderful, shining triumph for all humankind, however — the culmination of a collective adventure.

"That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind," Neil Armstrong said as he stepped onto the surface of the moon on July 20, 1969.

Armstrong commanded the Apollo 11 mission to the moon, going there with Buzz Aldrin and Michael Collins in a flight that fulfilled the promise made by the late John F. Kennedy, not long after he became president. Kennedy pledged that Americans would go to the moon and return within the decade.

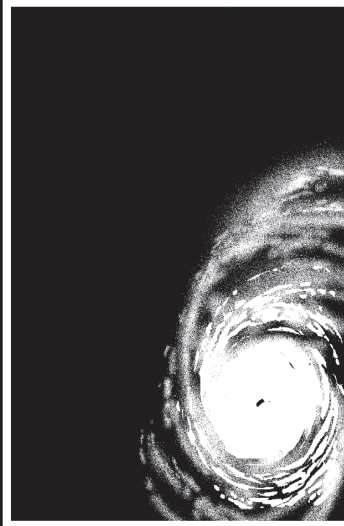

With a small corps of other astronauts, including fellow Ohioan John Glenn, Armstrong signed on for the adventure.

After his historic flight, Armstrong was an international celebrity, one who shunned the limelight. He stepped back into it in 2010, quietly criticizing the decision to mothball the U.S. space shuttle fleet and abandon the capability to send men and women into the final frontier.

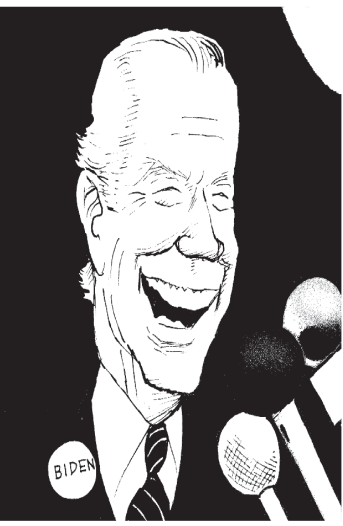

Armstrong, 82, died last Saturday.

During an era in which the word "hero" often is used inappropriately, it is clear Americans have lost a true hero. Godspeed to him on his final journey.

BLOWHARDS

JOE

Voters, are you bluffing about being conservatives?

GEORGE WILL

Now begins the final phase of this cognitive dissonance campaign. America's 57th presidential election is the first devoted to calling the nation's bluff. When Mitt Romney selected Paul Ryan, Republicans undertook the perilous but commendable project of forcing voters to face the fact that they fervently hold flatly incompatible beliefs.

Twice as many Americans identify themselves as conservative as opposed to liberal. Nov. 6 we will know if they mean it. If they are ideologically conservative but operationally liberal. If they talk like Jeffersonians but want to be governed by Hamiltonians. If their commitment to limited government is rhetorical or actual. If it is, as Daniel Patrick Moynihan suspected, a "civic religion, avowed but not constraining."

This is the problem for uneasy Republicans. The Democrats' problem is worse because they are not uneasy about their dissonance, being blissfully unaware of it.

In "Spoiled Rotten: How the Politics of Patronage Corrupted the Once Noble Democratic Party and Now Threatens the American Republic" — a book more measured and scholarly than its overwrought title — Jay Cost of The Weekly Standard says the party has succumbed to "clientelism," the process of purchasing cohorts of voters with federal favors. This has turned the party into the servant of the strong.

Before Franklin Roosevelt, "liberal" described policies emphasizing liberty and individual rights. He, however, pioneered the politics of collective rights — of group entitlements. And his liberalism systematically developed policies not just to buy the allegiance of existing groups but to create groups that henceforth would be dependent on government. Under FDR, liberalism became the politics of creating an electoral majority from a mosaic of client groups. Labor unions got special legal standing, farmers got crop supports, business people got tariff protection and other subsidies, the elderly got pensions, and so on and on.

Government no longer existed to protect natural rights but to confer special rights on favored cohorts. As Irving Kristol said, the New Deal preached not equal rights for all but equal privileges for all — for all, that is, who banded together to become wards of the government.

In the 1960s, public-employee unions were expanded to feast from quantitative liberalism (favors measured in quantities of money). And qualitative liberalism was born as environmentalists, feminists and others got government to regulate behavior in the service of social "diversity," "meaningful" work, etc. Cost notes that with the 1982 amendments to the Voting Rights Act, a few government-approved minorities were given an entitlement to public offices: About 40 "majority-minority" congressional districts would henceforth be guaranteed to elect minority members.

Walter Mondale, conceding to Ronald Reagan after the 1984 election, listed the groups he thought government should assist: "the poor, the unemployed, the elderly, the handicapped, the helpless and the sad." Yes, the sad.

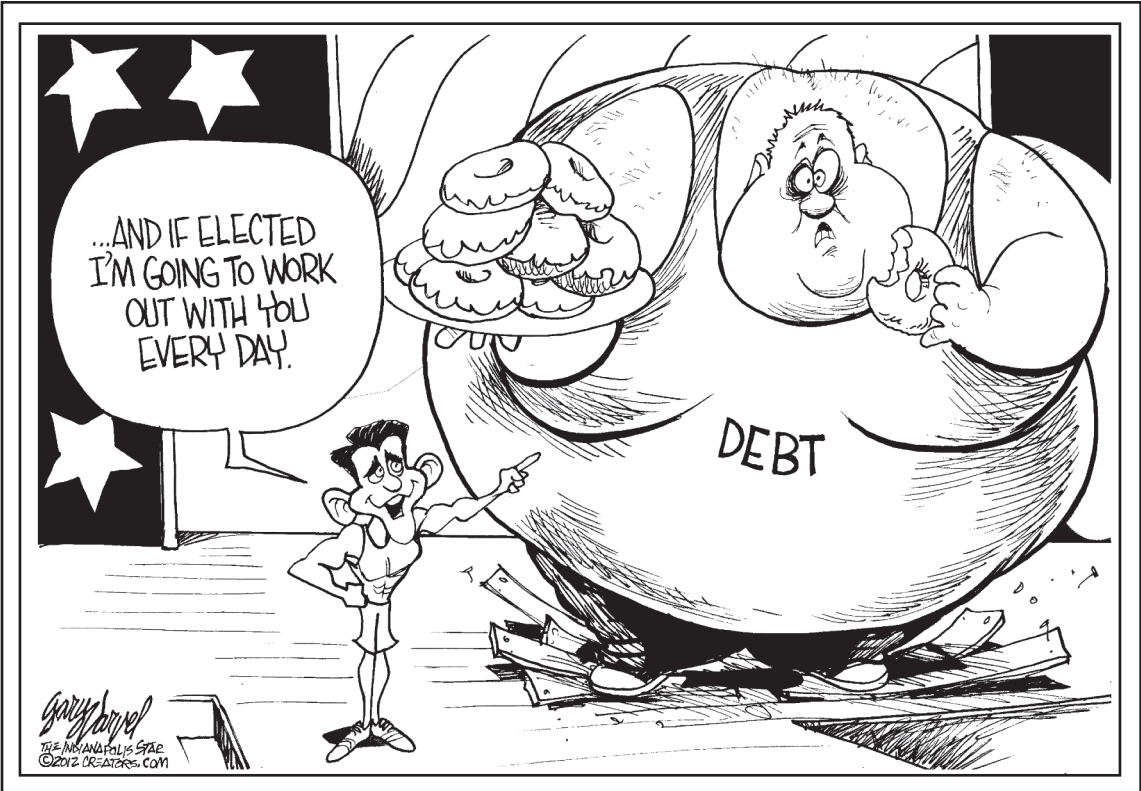

Republicans also practice clientelism, but with a (sometimes) uneasy conscience. Both parties have narrowed their appeals as they have broadened their search for clients to cosset. Today's Democratic Party does not understand what one of its saints understood — that big government is generally a patron of the privileged, a partner of rent-seekers.

When vetoing the 1832 bill to recharter the Second Bank of the United States, Andrew Jackson said, "It is to be regretted that the rich and powerful too often bend the acts of government to their selfish purposes." When government goes beyond equal protection by law and undertakes to allocate wealth and opportunity, "the humble members of society — the farmers, mechanics and laborers — who have neither the time nor the means of securing like favors to themselves, have a right to complain of the injustice of their government." As Cost rightly says, "With the exception of the tea party, there is no real faction out there making the Jacksonian case for an end to special privilege."

Human beings, said one of the wisest of them — Aristotle — are political animals and language-using animals. Americans, as you do not need to be Aristotle to know, are complaining animals.

They use language to complain about politics. Mitt Romney should remind them that one function of elections is to force most voters — the winning majorities — to forfeit the fun of complaining. For example, if the swing state of Nevada, which has the nation's highest unemployment rate (12 percent), votes for four more years of current policies, it must henceforth suffer in silence. Actually, all those who vote to continue Barack Obama's distinctive brand of clientelism — crony capitalism — must, if he wins, become political Trappists, taking a vow to keep quiet.

Bad immigration ideas all around

FROMA HARROP

Illegal immigrants pending checks for criminal records. That would force police to break either state law or federal law. The TRUST Act's sponsors should know that immigration is a federal responsibility in California as well as in Arizona.

In Tampa, Fla., meanwhile, the Republican National Convention has produced a party platform with far less "give" for illegal immigrants. It calls for no future amnesty and supports "humane procedures to encourage illegal aliens to return home voluntarily" — a polite way of saying "self-deportation."

Two different approaches, each unwise in its own way.

Absent comprehensive reform, the Obama administration has done a heroic job enforcing the country's immigration laws as fairly as possible. Rather than raid factory floors, it has focused on employers who hire undocumented workers. Its Secure Communities program puts priority on removing aliens who pose a threat to public safety. At the same time, it is helping illegal immigrants brought here as children to legally hold jobs. The bottom line is that Obama is doing the hard task. His administration has deported 1.4 million illegal immigrants to date.

The TRUST Act was inspired by the case of Juana Reyes-Hernandez, a tamale vendor arrested for setting up shop on a Walmart parking lot. A more sympathetic person would be hard to find. But because Reyes-Hernandez is an illegal immigrant, she was held under a Secure Communities requirement that fingerprints be sent to a database to confirm she had not committed serious crimes. They came back clean, and she was eventually released. Are Californians lawmakers willing to frustrate a program designed to keep out dangerous foreigners so as not to inconvenience other illegal immigrants? It would seem so.

Back in Tampa, no sooner had grass-roots activists finished carving their strict stance onto the platform tablet, than Romney surrogate John Sununu took a chisel to it. Forget what it says, he told Spanish-language media. America needs "a comprehensive package," including a deal for young illegal immigrants brought here by their parents. He said that Romney wants that and two other things: "One is the expanded guest-worker program. One is the expanded program for visas."

Do we hear strains of the "grand bargain" from the George W. Bush years? That sloppy set of proposals went down in flames, due in part to its cheap-labor provisions. Yes, a visa program for entrants with truly special skills makes sense. A guest-worker program that admits some laborers to pick seasonal crops makes sense. But I hope Sununu's not thinking of another scheme to funnel low-cost foreign labor to American businesses under the guise of immigration reform. We remember Bush's call to "match any willing worker with any willing employer" with pain.

Many of those "willing workers" — seeing that the U.S. government held its own immigration laws in contempt — settled illegally in the United States and made lives. Their impression was correct, which is why the Republican platform call for self-deportation cannot be a humane solution.

A last amnesty offering citizenship to most law-abiding illegal immigrants is an essential piece of comprehensive reform. A tight system for verifying the right of future job applicants to work in this country is another. Given today's circumstances, they must go hand in hand. Let's talk again after the election.

The Republican, Springfield, Mass., on the re-occurring Republican abortion debate:

A renewed debate on abortion following U.S. Rep. Todd Akin's remarks shows Akin's problems are the Republican Party's problems.

No, we're not talking about his greatly diminished electoral prospects, and we aren't considering his suddenly immense financial difficulties. What we're referring to are the statements that got Akin into the news in the first place. While they were truly outrageous, unbelievable, more like the random mutterings of some wacko on the street than pre-election assertions from a contender for a seat in the U.S. Senate, they are, at the end of the day, remarks that spring from the thinking inside today's Republican party.

After the initial news accounts, reports on Akin tended to sum up his statements by noting that he had referred to "legitimate rape." While there's no denying that the locution marks the congressman as somewhere between completely out of touch and a man who has taken leave of his senses, the sad truth is that the phrase itself only touches on the whole disturbing mess.

What Akin actually said was that a woman who is raped does not tend to get pregnant. This, he asserted, is a truth he learned from doctors.

There is not a single legitimate medical professional anywhere who believes such a thing. None. It is important to note that the would-be senator made his statements in the context of a discussion of abortion. As the Republican Party has once again put forth a platform that is so anti-choice that it does not even allow a woman who was raped to terminate her pregnancy, the question is not merely an academic exercise, a difficult moment in a debate. It is terrifyingly real.

Yes, Akin is far afield, beyond most in his political party, but the party itself continues to move outside the mainstream of modern American thought.

The candidate's problems, big as they are, are an extension of the party's problems.

Rev. Wyant called as interim pastor at Zion Hill

WYANT

COLUMBIANA — The Congregation of Zion Hill Church of Brethren has called the Rev. David P. Wyant of Columbiana to serve as their part time, interim pastor for one year beginning Sept. 2.

Rev. Wyant is a graduate of the Ohio State University where he studied engineering. He later received his call to the ministry and attended Moody Theological Seminary in Chicago where he received his master's of divinity. Rev Wyant was ordained by the Old North Church in Canfield Ohio in 2011.

A volunteer with Rescue Mission of Mahoning Valley, Wyant has been a chapel speaker at the homeless shelter for the past six years and also volunteers his time to present a worship service each Sunday morning at the mission's resident facility on Martin Luther King Blvd in Youngstown for the clients who don't have transportation to attend a church of their own.

Rev. Wyant is a full time commercial airline pilot, enjoys studying Greek and lives in Columbiana with his wife, Lynn. Zion Hill Church of the Brethren worship services are at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. each Sunday. There is also a Wednesday evening service at the church located at 14550 New Buffalo Road.

PORT FROM 1A

"The crane system is fully operational and handling cargo every day. We just had a meeting with some shale groups about moving equipment through here," he said. "I think it'll (industrial park) be operating 24-7 in the near future."

Next up is completion of a conveyor system to transfer aggregate from barges to truck and rail, and vice versa. Some work was done but the Port Authority ran out of funding, and it will take another $1.5 million to complete, which Drake said they are looking for funding sources.

Drake said $17 million has been spent on the industrial park over the past 10 years, of which about $5 million came from the Port Authority and the rest from state and federal grants.

WISH FROM 1A

Due to the nature of LCH, Lelund was ordered to take it easy. Symptoms include fever, lethargy, and weight loss. But Lelund's hunger for play didn't fade with the sickness, so his father made up a game they could both enjoy, Kennedy said.

In their back yard on Maple Street, the two play "pretend baseball." The game includes an imaginary ball the two toss back and forth, she explained.

Merl Reynolds said he doesn't want to limit Lelund because of the disease and tries to make sure he doesn't feel set apart from the rest of the family.

"He does anything normal kids do," he said. His uncle, Justin Reynolds, took him fishing at Highland-town Lake this summer and he helped him and Merl catch minnows with a net.

"He's the happiest little kid you've ever seen," Justin Reynolds said. On Thursday Make A Wish volunteers Patty Sugar and Bonnie McCoy hosted a party at the the Maple Street home. Between eating pizza donated from East of Chicago and Mary's Pizza, Lelund played with friends and family and even tossed a few soft balls around in the back yard and rode a bicycle.

Trina Colgrove, Lelund's "gee-maw," said the diagnosis has brought the family closer together.

"It was hard to believe he was diagnosed at such a young age," she said. But she has noticed over time that Lelund gains strength from his father and family, and in turn, the family gains strength from Lelund.

"He's an all-around good kid. He's been through more than he can handle. He has energy, he loves people and he loves to ride off-road," long-time family friend Gary Blair said.

Kennedy said Blair took it upon himself to make sure that Lelund and his siblings could see their father when he was in jail.

Blair said that every Saturday for six months he took the kids for a visit and "never missed a beat."

Now together again, the family is looking forward to going to Florida for Lelund's wish.

Patty Sugar said the family will be taken to the airport in a limousine and their accommodations and transportation in Florida are also being taken care of through the foundation.

"It's a wonderful program. It's a week where they don't have to worry about anything," she said.

The program is for ages two-and-a-half to 18 who are battling a life-threatening illness. Those who are granted a wish are not necessarily terminal, she noted.

In Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, about 900 kids are waiting for a wish, she said. The program receives no state funding and operates solely on donation.

He told the board that the program eliminates the use of paper of the IEP packets distributed to teachers at the beginning of each year. The district has 300 IEP students and each packet requires 15 pages of paper. To distribute the packets to each necessary teacher requires 45,000 pieces of paper that sit in desk drawers all year before being shredded. With IEPAnywhere, the district is projected to save $2,250, he said.

EARLY FROM 1A

"We believe states should have the right to set the hours of election and the time of election," DeWine said, adding that there's "ample opportunity for everyone to vote."

The judge's ruling said he expects Ohio's elections chief, Republican Secretary of State Jon Husted, to direct all county elections boards to maintain a specific, consistent schedule on those three days "in keeping with his earlier directive that only by doing so can he ensure that Ohio's election process is 'uniform, accessible for all, fair, and secure.'"

A spokesman said Husted's office was reviewing the decision and declined to comment further.

Obama's campaign and Democrats had sued Husted and DeWine over the legality of the law. They argued everyone should have the chance to vote on those three days before the election.

Economus found that the Obama campaign was likely to succeed on the merits of its claim, and he granted the preliminary injunction blocking Husted from enforcing the law.

Ohio is among 32 states, plus the District of Columbia, that allow voters to cast an early ballot by mail or in person without having to give a reason.

Economus had pointed out during an early hearing that Ohioans can cast ballots by other methods — in person on Election Day or by mail beginning 35 days before the election. Lawyers for the state also noted the multiple ways voters can cast a ballot this fall, including casting an early ballot in person on other days.

Before the law, local boards of elections previously set early voting hours on those three final days, and weekday hours and weekend voting varied among the state's 88 counties.

Democrats estimated in their lawsuit that 93,000 people voted during the final three-day window before the 2008 election.

Democratic lawmakers praised the judge's ruling.

"Today's decision reinstates fairness for Ohio's busy working voters," said Ohio House Democratic Leader Armond Budish of Beachwood.

Following the ruling, the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio called on Husted to restore in-person voting opportunities during every weekend in the early voting period, not only the weekend before the election.

1st death linked to new swine flu is Ohioan, 61

CINCINNATI (AP) — The death of a 61-year-old Ohio woman is the first in the nation associated with a new swine flu strain, the state Department of Health said Friday.

The woman, whose identity was not released, was from central Ohio's Madison County and died this week following an illness she contracted after having contact with hogs at the Ross County Fair. The woman had underlying medical conditions, but the H3N2v influenza virus may have contributed to her death, the department said.

The strain was found in U.S. pigs in 2010 and people in July 2011, and it appears to spread more easily from swine to humans than other flu viruses, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has said.

The death was among 12 new cases of the virus in the country this week, the CDC reported. Ohio saw two other cases. Wisconsin had seven, and Minnesota and Pennsylvania each had one. Ohio and Indiana lead the nation with infections for the year; Ohio has had 101, while Indiana has had 138, according to the CDC. Twelve people across the nation were infected last year, compared with 289 so far this year, according to the CDC.

Ted Wymyslo, director of the Ohio Department of Health, said most of Ohio's cases have been mild illnesses. People from 6 months to 61 years old have been infected, and many of them have been linked to contact with hogs at fairs.

Wymyslo urged at-risk groups to avoid swine exhibits and take other precautions. Those groups include young children, older residents, pregnant woman and people with weakened immune systems or underlying medical conditions.

Lynn Finelli, the lead for the surveillance and outbreak response team in the CDC's influenza division, said in a statement that the agency was saddened to hear of the Ohio death.

"Like with seasonal flu, we have been — and continue to be — particularly concerned about people with factors that put them at high risk of serious complications if they get the flu," she said. "These people should absolutely not have contact with pigs or visit pig arenas at fairs this summer."

As with seasonal flu, the CDC recommends that people with high-risk conditions who develop flu-like symptoms contact their doctor immediately.

BIDEN FROM 1A

Chrysler have been key themes in the president's re-election campaign, particularly in Michigan and Ohio.

Biden began speaking about noon and spoke for roughly 20 minutes.

"I thought he was pretty succinct, pretty much to the point," said Democratic state Rep. Thomas Letson. "I think he drew the distinction between what Gov. Romney and President Obama have to offer, and I like much of what President Obama has to offer."

Arno Hill, Lordstown's Republican mayor, was at the campaign stop despite his support of Romney and not agreeing with "just about everything he (Biden) said," Hill said.

"I was there as a courtesy because the vice president of the United States was in Lordstown. He came to my town, even if the guy doesn't know who I am, I was there as a courtesy to him because you have to respect the office," Hill said.

Biden criticized Romney for opposing a taxpayer rescue of GM and Chrysler.

"What they didn't acknowledge is Gov. Romney's position was 'let Detroit go bankrupt,'" he said, quoting the headline on a 2008 Romney opinion piece in the New York Times.

Ryan campaign spokesman Brendan Buck responded that Obama inherited a troubled economy but has made it worse.

"Like many towns across America, Janesville, Wis., is still waiting for the recovery the president promised," Buck said, referring to Ryan's hometown, where a GM auto plant was idled in 2008, before Obama became president.

Biden's remarks came as Romney and Ryan left their Republican National Convention in Tampa, Fla., seeking the votes of former Obama supporters who have grown disenchanting with his presidency.

Obama traveled to Texas on Friday, where he was speaking to military families on the second anniversary of the end of combat operations in Iraq. On Monday, the president is scheduled to speak at an event in Toledo.

A second Labor Day event planned in Cleveland was canceled to meet with officials in Louisiana about recovery and response efforts to Hurricane Isaac.

Food Bank raises hunger awareness

YOUNGSTOWN — Hunger is an issue that almost 49 million people in the United States have to face on a year-round basis. To raise awareness of the problem of hunger, Second Harvest Food Bank of the Mahoning Valley, a member of Feeding America, and 202 other Feeding America food banks across the nation are encouraging people to participate in Hunger Action Month during September.

In September everyone can do their part to help raise awareness on hunger in our country and in the Mahoning Valley. On Sept. 6, join Second Harvest Food Bank of the Mahoning Valley and Speak Out Against Hunger by wearing orange (the symbolic color of hunger).

“The need for food assistance in our community is great and continues to grow,” said Mike Iberis, executive director, Second Harvest Food Bank. “In the first six months of 2012 versus the first six months in 2011, we have had an 18 percent overall increase in the number of people in need of food assistance. We encourage all residents of the Mahoning Valley to get involved and Speak out Against Hunger during September to help us meet the needs of more than 14,000 residents that seek food assistance each week in our community.”

Second Harvest Food Bank of the Mahoning Valley distributes food to 153 hunger relief organizations in Columbiana, Mahoning and Trumbull counties. These organizations include church pantries, homeless shelters and soup kitchens, shelters for battered women and after-school programs. If you have an idea or would like to get involved in Hunger Action Month, call the Food Bank at 330-792-5522.

Reeling Tribe falls to Rangers

Texas nabs 5-3 win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Adrian Beltre had four hits and scored twice to help the Texas Rangers beat Cleveland 5-3 Friday night, handing the reeling Indians their sixth straight loss. Beltre had three of his hits off Ubaldo Jimenez (9-14) as the Rangers rolled to their 10th win in 13 games. The Indians' 15th loss in 16 games made them 5-24 in August, tying the team record for losses in one month, set in July 1914. Cleveland is 5-28 since July 27.

Ryan Dempster (4-1) gave up two hits and one unearned run in six innings. Joe Nathan got the final two outs for his 28th save in 29 chances and 26th in a row. Rangers right fielder Nelson Cruz was ejected for slamming his bat on the plate in the seventh after his third strikeout. Beltre had two doubles and two singles in five times up. His only out came on a diving catch by left fielder Jason Donald in the ninth. The third baseman has hit .472 (17 for 36) with 14 RBIs in his last nine games. In his last 68 games, Beltre has batted .334 with 15 homers and 45 RBIs.

The Indians are as frigid as Beltre has been torrid, dropping to 11-36 in the second half. Cleveland has hit just .194 with runners in scoring position over that time and their starting rotation's 6.47 ERA during that span is the worst in the majors.

Manager Manny Acta, whose job falls further into jeopardy with each loss, shook up Cleveland's lineup in an effort to manufacture some offense. He reinstated Shin-Soo Choo into the lead-off spot, dropping Jason Kipnis and Asdrubal Cabrera one spot each to second and third.

"You've got to die trying, man," Acta said before the game.

The Indians did just that against Dempster, who was perfect before issuing a one-out walk to Jack Hannahan in the third. Santana broke up the no-hitter with an RBI single in the fourth, when shortstop Elvis Andrus made two errors.

Andrus went 1 for 5. He has hit safely in all 27 of his career games against Cleveland.

Jimenez made 31 pitches in the first inning, but escaped by allowing only one run, on Beltre's RBI single.

Golden Eagles prove too much for Salem in 35-28 victory

HANOVERTON — After opening the season with losses, Salem and United Local came into Friday's Route 9 rivalry looking for a win. The Golden Eagles found one. The Quakers are still looking.

United survived a fourth-quarter Quaker rally and scored its final touchdown with 2:25 remaining to register a 35-28 victory over its old rival. "It feels to good to get a win and it feels to get a win against Salem," United coach Mike Ward said. "It's been quite a few years since we've beat them. We want to enjoy it and build on it and work on it." United racked up 266 yards on the ground in the win and another 112 in the air. Garrett Beech threw for all the yards and chewed up 161 yards rushing. Beech scored four TDs — including a 92-yard breakaway in the second — and pulled down a key interception.

"Garrett is a special player," Ward said. "But he has great group of players around him. This team has a great chemistry and Garrett is the leader."

Garrett led by example by scoring the first TD of the night with 3:57 showing in the opening quarter. He ran in from 5-yards out. Cole Weikart came through on the PAT.

West Branch's Troy James gets the corner on his way to a touchdown run Friday against New Philadelphia in Beloit. (Salem News/B.J. Lisko)

West Branch rally spoiled by N.P.

Warriors off to 0-2 start after wild 49-45 loss

Staff Reports

New Philadelphia 49, West Branch 45

BELOIT — Defense wasn't exactly the name of the game Friday night in Beloit as New Philadelphia racked up 539 total yards and halted a pesky Warriors rally to win 49-45.

West Branch trailed 28-3 in the second quarter but battled back to take a 45-42 lead with 5:01 left in the game. But New Philadelphia answered with just under three minutes to play to nab the win.

Leading the Warriors was Troy James who ran for 192 yards on 22 carries and had four touchdown runs. James was also 7-of-12 passing for 68 yards and a touchdown

Southern takes it to Lisbon 42-14

Indians improve to 2-0

By MICHAEL S. BURICH
Staff Writer

SALINEVILLE — Southern Local's Jared Shilot has been waiting patiently for a break-out performance.

On Friday against Lisbon it all came at once for the junior.

Shilot had four touchdowns — including a pair that were seconds apart — as the Indians roughed up Lisbon 42-14.

Shilot had a 2-yard touchdown pass from Luke Grifith to start off the Indian scoring at the end of the first quarter. He was in the end zone again a few seconds later when he picked up a Devil fumble and raced 28 yards to make it 14-0 with 28 seconds left in the first quarter.

"I didn't have to force the fumble," Shilot said. "I don't know who tackled him, but the ball came out and went

Tiger firing on all cylinders in Boston

Woods shoots 64, trails Seung-yul Noh by two shots

NORTON, Mass. (AP) — Tiger Woods had his lowest opening round in three years

Tour, ran off four straight birdies early in his round and closed with back-to-back birdies on the TPC Boston for a 9-under 62.

That gave him a one-shot lead over Chris Kirk, whose 23 putts included an eagle on the new 18th hole.

Woods wasn't too shabby. He stirred up a big gallery on a glorious summer day in New England with six straight birdies, which featured four putts of at least 12 feet and flop shot executed so perfectly that it cleared a steep bunker and landed in an area of the green no larger than a hula hoop. His lone bogey on the final hole gave him a 7-under 64, putting him in a three-way tie for third with Jeff Overton and Ryan Moore.

The average score was just under 70 on a perfect day for scoring, except for the deceptive wind that swirled through the trees.

Rory McIlroy struggled off the tee, though he judged one of the lies in the rough beautifully on the ninth hole, a 7-iron into tap-in range that led to a 65.

Noh stole the show, even if hardly anyone was paying attention or was not really sure who he was.

"Some people say Kevin Na, like, 'Go Kevin,'" Noh said.

The 21-year-old from South Korea won his first Asian Tour title at age 17, of the evening playing catch-up. The Quakers tied the game when QB Trace Jenkins hit pay dirt on a 10-yard run early in the second stanza. Keaton O'Brien split the uprights.

UNITED

Things were looking up for Salem when Logan Taylor sacked Beech on the first play of the Eagles' next possession, but took a turn for the worse when Beech broke loose on his 92-yard cruise.

Salem tied it again when a Mike Madison interception set up Salem's second scoring drive.

Jenkins plunged into the end zone on a QB keeper.

The Eagles reclaimed the lead when Beech completed a pass to Austin Graham at 3:13.

"That was the ebb and flow of this game," Salem coach Ron Johnson said. "We played 48 minutes of football and it didn't come down to one thing or one play. It was a lot of things and a lot of plays."

United took the 21-14 lead into the half, but when the teams retook the field the momentum would seem to eventually shift. The Eagles, who had deferred the initial kickoff, marched all the way to the Salem 5-yard line. The drive included a fourth-and-7 conversion at the Quaker 30. A big tackle for a loss by Mike Crittenden on third-and goal at the 3 forced the Eagles to go for a field goal. It was wide left.

On the Quakers next possession, they too would roll the dice when they attempted to convert a fourth down on their own 41 with 6 yards needed. It didn't pay off. Austin Graham pulled down Jenkins for the sack and excellent Eagle field advantage. United used eight plays to move ball from the 41 to the goal line and took a 21-14 lead.

But the Quakers battled back with back-to-back scores in the fourth.

"I have to give my kids credit," Johnson said. "They didn't give up. We consider that second-half our third game of the season. We came out and we played Salem football. We didn't play Salem football in the first half."

Salem opened the fourth quarter with a six-play, 77-yard scoring drive that was capped off with a 5-yard run by Jenkins at 10:59. The extra point however failed.

The Quakers defense stood tall on United's ensuing possession, holding the Eagles to three-and-out.

Jake Carner returned the punt across midfield and Salem drove 46-yards on five plays to pull within two points. Jenkins scored from 28 yards out and Panezott caught a two-point pass from Beech to tie it 28 all.

"This game was peaks and valleys," Ward said. "Sometimes those peaks were high and those valleys were low. It was back and forth all night."

The game was ultimately decided by the series of events that followed Salem's final TD. The Eagles tried to convert another fourth down but the Quakers held and took over on the United 36. After two incomplete passes, Beech picked off Jenkins. The Eagles would capitalize on it when Beech came up with another 5-yard TD run.

"That sequence of things was probably what did it," Ward said. "That was the game-changer. I chose to go for it, obviously didn't get it, but the defense bailed me out and Garrett got the big interception and we ended up with the score."

Salem would finish with 195 on the ground and 83 in the air for 278 total yards. Jenkins completed nine of 21 attempts. He also had a team-high 79 yards rushing. Marcus Crittenden had 59 rushing yards. He caught five catches for 33 yards. Carner had two receptions for 32.

Clippers bounce back big

By CHRIS RAMBO
Staff Writer

COLUMBIANA — The Columbiana Clippers bounced back from a tough week 1 defeat to their archrival Crestview by routing East Palestine 39-6 at Firestone Park in Columbiana. Quarterback Nate Huk scampered for 113 yards and a touchdown on only 5 carries while fullback Brandon Hacker chipped in 68 rushing yards and 2 TD's as the Clippers pulled away from the outmanned Bulldogs with a 27 point 2nd quarter barrage.

"We knew all throughout the summer to expect some week 2 adversity if we weren't able to pull out the win against Crestview," said Clippers Head Coach Bob Spaite. "Our guys did a good job of flushing that loss from their system. I thought our first team played very well, and I think our backups did a nice job in the 2nd half as well."

East Palestine was able to hang tough with the heavily favored Clippers in the early going. With under ten minutes to go in the 2nd quarter the Bulldogs only trailed 6-0.

"I thought we played very good football for the first quarter and a half," said East Palestine Head Coach Gare Mattes. Our defense did a nice job at preventing big plays early in the game."

Eventually, though, the floodgates opened. Columbiana went up 12-0 with 9:54 to go in the 2nd quarter on a 24-yard run around the right side by Huk. After an East Palestine three-and-out, Huk faked a draw on first down and ran 70 yards up the middle before being dragged down at the 1 yard line.

Fullback Jon Cramer punched it in on the next play, and the rout was on. R.J Rankin scored on a 74 yard touchdown run four seconds before halftime, and Jared Hill returned the opening kickoff of the second half 83 yards for another score to stretch the margin to 39-0 and wrap up the scoring for the Clippers. East Palestine was stifled on offense the entire game before getting on the board with 1:09 left in the fourth on a one-yard touchdown run by freshman Josh Pickett.

"We still have a lot things to work on as a team going forward," said Spaite.

"It was great to come out here tonight and get a win, but we have to forget this one as quickly as we forgot the Crestview loss so we can get ready for a tough test next week."

The Clippers (1-1) will hit the road next week for the first time of the season when they travel south to take on Steubenville Central Catholic.

East Palestine (0-2) will return home to take on Western Reserve.

QB Wallace, others cut by Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Seneca Wallace threw a touchdown on his last pass in Thursday's exhibition. Turns out, it was his last pass for the Browns.

The veteran quarterback was waived Friday by Cleveland, a move that seems to indicate the team will keep former starter Colt McCoy as a backup to rookie Brandon Weeden. Wallace was released along with tight end Evan Moore, a person familiar with the decisions told The Associated Press.

Wallace and Moore were informed of the moves earlier Friday said the person, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the Browns have not yet announced their roster cuts. The team must get down to the NFL's mandatory 53-man limit by 9 p.m.

The 31-year-old Wallace spent two seasons with the Browns, who acquired him in a 2011 trade from Seattle, where he had played for Browns president Mike Holmgren. Wallace started seven games for Cleveland.

After coach Pat Shurmur named Weeden his starter,

Wallace and McCoy were left to battle for the No. 2 job. Shurmur left open the possibility he would keep both, but decided to waive Wallace and his $2.4 million contract and keep Thad Lewis as his third quarterback. Shurmur coached Lewis in St. Louis.

Wallace completed 16 of 27 passes for 195 yards and two TDs during the preseason. In Thursday's 28-20 loss to Chicago, he threw a 2-yard TD pass with 41 seconds left in the second quarter to cap an 80-yard scoring drive.

Following the game, Wallace said he wasn't worried about his future.

"This isn't my first rodeo," he said. "I felt like I've done all I've can. Whatever decision is made is made."

Wallace's release was first reported by ESPN.com. McCoy has been the subject of trade speculation for months, but it appears the Browns will keep him to sit behind Weeden.

Shurmur has praised McCoy for his professionalism in handling his demotion and insists the third-year QB has improved. McCoy is just 6-15 in two seasons as a starter.

right into my hands. I just coasted in."

Following a Mike McKenzie 12-yard touchdown run which made it 21-0 with 6:28 to go in the half, Lisbon got its act together and drove deep into Indian territory and was perched at the 20-yard-line with less than a minute to go.

That's when Shilot jumped up and stole a pass from Lisbon's Zak Leko and raced 75 yards for a back-breaking touchdown to end the half.

"I actually didn't do the right job on that one," Shilot said. "I was supposed to be in the zone in the flats, but I saw the quarterback and jumped with his pass. I flipped it up and it fell into my hands and I was off to the races."

Shilot said he had promised his teammates that if he ever got into a situation where he had a breakaway touchdown that he would do a mock dunk on the goalposts. He attempted it — and was flagged for it — but cramped up at the last second, so it appeared to be more like a layup.

"It was nothing against Lisbon, but last year I promised that I would do it if I ever had a breakaway touchdown," Shilot said.

Griffith, who was 15 for 22 for 234 yards, added his second touchdown pass of the game with a 53-yard strike to J.J. Napierkowski with five minutes left in the third.

Leko registered Lisbon's first points with a 28-yard touchdown run with seven seconds left in the third. With 11:17 left in the fourth, Shilot caught a 31-yard touchdown pass from Griffith to make it 42-6.

Southern coach Mike Skrinjar was pleased how his team recovered from turnovers on the first two possessions of the game to get things going in the right direction.

"Once we settled down a little bit, but we bounced back and got things going," Skrinjar said. "We do have an offense and once it gets kicking, that's where we like it to be at."

Lisbon had trouble all night getting a consistent running game going. The Devils also turned the ball over four times.

"They're a good football team," Tsilimos said. "We had some early turnovers, but we couldn't do anything with it."

TRIBE FROM 1B

Two innings later, his pitch count at 78, Jimenez trailed 3-0 after Michael Young and David Murphy had consecutive RBI singles in the third.

Ian Kinsler's two-out RBI single on Jimenez's season-high 117th pitch made it 4-1 in the sixth.

The right-hander gave up eight hits, four runs and three walks. Though he struck out seven, he also dropped to 1-7 with 7.79 ERA in 10 starts since the All-Star break.

Young singled home Beltre in the seventh against reliever Esmil Rogers.

Dempster, who was only 5-5 despite a sparkling 2.25 ERA in 16 starts for the Cubs, is enjoying great run support in Texas.

The Rangers lead the majors with 675 runs, and have scored 31 in Dempster's 37 1-3 innings since he was acquired on July 31 from the Chicago Cubs.

He had not faced Cleveland since 2006, when he worked in relief for the Cubs.

Santana doubled and scored on Casey Kotchman's 12th homer, off Koji Uehara in the ninth.

NOTES: Cleveland's 5-24 August ties the 1982 New York Mets and 1961 Washington Senators for the worst record in the month since 1944. ... Texas went 19-10 in August ... Texas is 23-6 against the Indians since the start of 2009, their best record against any AL opponent. ... Texas C Mike Napoli, out since Aug. 11 with a strained left quad, has begun running, but it's unclear when he will return. ... TIGER FROM 1B and he chose to come over to America this year to ease his travel. He made it through Q-school in December, and on Friday turned in his strongest PGA Tour round to date.

"Everything good today," Noh said.

He went to work with Foley in May, mentioning the roster of clients as one of his reasons — Woods, Hunter Mahan, Justin Rose.

"He's a good kid," Mahan said after a much-needed 68. "If Foley says, 'Do this 1,000 times,' he'll go home and do it 1,000 times."

The start was more meaningful for Overton, whose game has practically disappeared since he played on the Ryder Cup team two years ago. He is No. 83 in the FedEx Cup standings, and only the top 70 advance next week to the third playoff event at Crooked Stick in Indiana — his home state.

"I'm constantly getting a lot of great text messages and people say, 'Hey, we're really excited to see you at Crooked Stick,' just the whole Hoosier nation," Overton said. "It's just going to be fun if I can get into the event."

He had his own birdie streak, only on the opposite end of the course from Woods. Overton made five straight birdies through the 16th hole, and then added one more birdie on the 18th hole for a 64 that put him atop the leaderboard with Woods from the morning session.

Woods played with Barclays winner Nick Watney and Brandt Snedeker, two players who are trying to make enough of an impression on Davis Love III to be selected as Ryder Cup captain's picks on Tuesday. Snedeker scrambled his way to a respectable 69. Watney, who has never finished higher than 33rd on the TPC Boston, never looked comfortable in his round of 72.

Dustin Johnson, another candidate to get one of the four Ryder Cup selections, opened with a 67.

Rickie Fowler overcame a rugged start to salvage a 71. Jim Furyk and Steve Stricker, likely to get two of the picks, each had a 69.

Getting off to a good start is nothing new for Woods. This was the 14th time in 18 tournaments this year that he was at par or better. Lately, it's been about the finishes. Even though Woods has won three times this year — the most of anyone on the PGA Tour — he has turned in some peculiar weekends. Twice he was tied for the lead at majors going into the final two rounds and stumbled. Last week at Bethpage Black, he had a 72-76 weekend to drop into the middle of the pack.

Woods doesn't seem bothered by all this. He attributed last week to extreme conditions on the greens at Bethpage in the third round, and a final round that simply got away from him on a three-hole stretch on the back nine.

"It wasn't like I was hitting a lot of awful shots," he said. "I just needed a couple putts to go my way, and it didn't happen. I should be right around par, and it turns into an over-par round. Today was about the same as I have been playing pretty much all summer, just go out there and playing pretty consistent. It was just a nice, solid round."

There was a stretch when it all looked so easy.

Woods hit a full swing, flop shot behind the 12th green to a few feet away to save par, the only time he was seriously in trouble. He hit a high cut with a 5-iron to a tough pin on the par-3 11th for birdie from 15 feet, and he holed an 18-foot birdie putt on the 13th.

The streak began with a 6-iron to the middle of the 18th green for a two-putt birdie. He rolled in birdie putts from the 12-foot to 18-foot range on the next three holes, and while he nearly holed out with a wedge on No. 5, his best work came at the 293-yard fourth hole.

Woods can reach the green with a 3-wood, but he felt the wind gust into his face, and opted for a driver, playing for a baby cut to take off some distance and get it into the front bunker for a relatively easy up-and-down. Instead, it came a yard short of the sand, and he had to play a high flop to a tiny section of the green that ran away from him.

"I had to play an all-out shot to try to keep it on the green," he said. "I went for it, and it came off."

His bid for a seventh straight birdie — the last time he had a streak that long was the third round at the 2005 Masters that carried into Sunday morning — was a 12-footer up the hill on the sixth hole.

He took a step toward the hole as the ball was a foot away, sure it was going to drop, and stopped in his tracks as the ball turned slightly to the left. He spun around and removed his cap in disbelief.

As many as he was making, perhaps it was a shock to see one miss.

"Unfortunately, it just wiggled about a half-ball left, where I thought it was going to wiggle about a half-ball right," he said.

12th Man Club meeting

SALEM — The Salem 12th Man Club meeting will be held at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday Sept. 11 in the high school cafeteria.

No. 13 Michigan St. beats No. 24 Boise St. 17-13

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Le'Veon Bell ran for a career-high 210 yards and two touchdowns, including the game-winner with 8:12 remaining in No. 13 Michigan State's 17-13 victory over No. 24 Boise State on Friday night.

In a sloppy season opener, the Spartans turned the ball over four times and trailed 13-10 before Bell scored from 5 yards out midway through the fourth quarter. The Broncos drove to the Michigan State 42, but Joe Southwick's pass on fourth-and-2 was broken up.

Bell and the Spartans (1-0) then ran off the final 6:32.

Boise State (0-1) was sluggish in its first game after losing standouts Kellen Moore and Doug Martin from last season's explosive offense. The Broncos' only touchdown came on Jeremy loane's 43-yard interception return in the second quarter.

Ramirez, Hart lead Brewers to 9-3 win over Pirates

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Corey Hart and Aramis Ramirez both went 3 for 4 with home runs, and Pittsburgh starter Jeff Karstens left for the second consecutive time with an injury as the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Pirates 9-3 on Friday night.

Milwaukee starter Mark Rogers (3-1) gave up one run in 5 1-3 innings to win his third consecutive start in his last outing of the season. Ramirez had four RBIs and Nyjer Morgan had three hits, a stolen base and a walk for the Brewers.

Karstens (5-4) allowed four runs in the first inning and was forced to leave for the second consecutive start with a lower body injury. The right-hander allowed five of six batters to reach base before exiting with discomfort in his right hip flexor.

Roddick extends career with easy victory at Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Roddick is not ready for retirement just yet.

A day after surprisingly announcing the U.S. Open will be the last tournament of his career, Roddick dominated Australian teenager Bernard Tomic from start to finish Friday night in Arthur Ashe Stadium and reached the third round with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-0 victory.

Roddick, the 2003 U.S. Open champion and former No. 1-ranked player, will get to play at least one more time before walking away from professional tennis. It'll be against 59th-ranked Fabio Fognini of Italy.

"I look forward to it," Roddick said during an on-court interview with one of his former coaches, Brad Gilbert, "and I'm going to try to stick around a little longer."

By the sound of their repeated ovations, and the sight of all their camera flashes, the supportive crowd of about 23,000 or so would love to see that.

Roddick turned 30 on Thursday, and held a news conference to say he would quit after a season of injuries and poor results at Grand Slam tournaments. But he sure looked good against the 43rd-ranked Tomic, hitting 13 aces, including on the final point.

With that, Roddick flashed a smile as wide as can be.

"Oh, man. That was so much fun. I really appreciate that," Roddick told the crowd. "Thank you, guys."

Asked whether he got emotional while preparing for what could have been his final appearance as a professional tennis player, Roddick said: "I've been trying to be good all day. Had a rough patch there, about 15 minutes before the match. Made the mistake of walking by one of the TVs while they were doing slow, dramatic things. I assume it was set to an '80s ballad. It got me a little bit."

Penn St pep rally opens historic football weekend

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Fans tossed footballs, the marching band played the fight song and a familiar refrain echoed through Beaver Stadium crowd.

"We Are ... Penn State!"

At least 15,000 people attended a rally at the stadium Friday night in a vocal show of support for the Nittany Lions on the eve of the team's historic season opener against Ohio.

"I can't tell you how much we need to hear you all tomorrow," rookie coach Bill O'Brien said as his team sat behind him on metal bleachers atop the field. "We need to hear you loud and proud to cheer these guys on."

The Nittany Lions were the stars of a 45-minute show that built up to the team's entrance about two-thirds of the way into the event. They were barely there for 10 minutes, watching the debut of the 2012 season video to get the crowd pumped for kickoff before listening to O'Brien's brief talk.

It was an emotional outlet for students and fans who have united behind the players following strict NCAA sanctions including a four-year bowl ban.

"This is a very, very special group of players, led by a very special senior class that has made a huge commitment," O'Brien said. "Our guys have worked extremely hard ... They're tired of hitting each other and they can't wait to get going. Thank you very much and we'll see you tomorrow."

Then as fans roared, the team left back through the tunnel to get a good night's sleep for Saturday's game.

If anything, Friday night was just as much a pep rally for a State College community, too, following a trying 10 months. The region has been cast in a negative light nationally since the arrest of former assistant coach Jerry Sandusky last November on child sex abuse charges.

The rally marked a formal debut of the area's "Together We Are One" campaign organized by community leaders. Signs with the slogan started appearing on major area streets last week.

Backup QBs Kafka, Hoyer, Wallace cut

(AP) — Backup quarterbacks were prominent among players cut early Friday as team's needed to get down to the 53-man roster limit.

Nine-year veteran Seneca Wallace was beaten out by Colt McCoy in Cleveland, Mike Kafka fell to rookie Nick Foles and journeyman Trent Edwards in Philadelphia, Brian Hoyer got axed in New England, and Josh McCown was released by Chicago.

Other veterans released as team's prepare for the regular season, which begins Wednesday night with Dallas at the New York Giants, included 2005 Super Bowl MVP receiver Deion Branch and center Dan Koppen in New England; defensive backs Joselio Hanson and O.J. Atogwe in Philadelphia; Pittsburgh offensive lineman Trai Essex and punter Jeremy Kapinos, who were waived injured; Buffalo DT Dwan Edwards; and Giants running back D.J. Ware, who won two Super Bowls with the team.

All teams must reach the 53-man maximum by 9 p.m. EDT Friday.

The 31-year-old Wallace spent two seasons with the Browns, who acquired him in a 2011 trade from Seattle, where he played for Browns President Mike Holmgren. Wallace started seven games for Cleveland.

Kafka, a fourth-round pick in 2010, appeared in four games last year. He completed 11 of 16 passes for 107 yards with two interceptions. Kafka played in one preseason game this summer before breaking his non-throwing hand.

► COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Meyer's spread a weapon for underdogs like Miami

COLUMBUS (AP) — Years ago when Woody Hayes prowled Ohio State's sideline, the Buckeyes would line up against some over-matched, under-sized team and thick-necked farm-boys would open up gaping holes for speedy backs.

Six or eight or even 10 touchdowns later, Hayes would call off the dogs and start gameplanning for the next victim.

But the man who holds Hayes' job now says that era of physical domination by teams is all but over.

"The days of anybody really just rolling over someone is more and more difficult than it ever has been," said Urban Meyer, who makes his debut as Ohio State's 24th head coach on Saturday against Miami (Ohio).

"Because there is parity in college football."

There are a lot of reasons that teams don't run up lopsided scores like Ohio State did in beating TCU 62-0 in 1969, Wisconsin 56-0 in 1975 and 56-7 over Minnesota in 1973.

— Scholarship limits have flattened and spread the talent levels in what is now called the Football Bowl Sub-division.

— Conditioning, weight-training and nutrition are practiced everywhere, narrowing the gap in size and speed.

— Innovative offenses have allowed smaller, more mobile teams to compete with teams stocked with behemoths.

Meyer has had a hand in leveling the playing field, favoring a fast-paced, pass-oriented spread attack that has been adopted by dozens of teams who can score on one play from anywhere while a more talented opponent strings together a punishing 12-play, 80-yard drive.

"The Wishbone is probably the No. 1 equalizer. That's why you see a lot of the service academies do it," Meyer said this week. "Then, throwing the ball is the second equalizer because you can kind of throw it around a little bit and create matchup issues."

How ironic that the Buckeyes, who now embrace multiple-receiver sets and a no-huddle approach, will be tested in their opener by a team that does the same with the hope of negating any talent differential by running its own spread offense.

RedHawks coach Don Treadwell, a former assistant to deposed Ohio State coach Jim Tressel at Youngstown State, isn't so sure that theory works. He's says schools from power conferences have seen just about everything a team can throw at them.

"I don't know that it matters as much what type of offense is coming in because nowadays so many more teams are running similar style of offenses," said Treadwell, 4-8 a year ago in his first season in Oxford, Ohio.

"Most things have been seen and practiced against. At the end of the day, it's more or less, what have you done in situations from game experience?"

In many ways, Miami is doing what Meyer hopes to do at Ohio State.

Zac Dysert is a big, strong-armed and yet mobile quarterback who passed for 293 yards a game last season while tossing 23 touchdown passes.

He will take shotgun and pistol snaps, can run it and is a wizard at finding his favorite target, wide-out Nick Harwell. All Harwell did a year ago was pile up 97 receptions for 1,425 yards and nine TDs.

"They've got a talented quarterback, one of the best in the country," said Ohio State defensive co-coordinator Everett Withers, who will be coaching in his very first game ever in the Horseshoe.

"They do some unique things in their passing game. That's why they're successful."

Meyer said his players have taken notice of the Red-Hawks, and Dysert and Harwell in particular.

"Those guys are excellent players who can play anywhere in the country," said the man who led Florida to national championships after the 2006 and 2008 seasons. "The good thing is that the film does not lie. That's caught the attention of our players and coaches. So we'll be ready to go."

WOMEN'S SEEDED WINNERS (Third Round): No. 1 Victoria Azarenka, No. 3 Maria Sharapova, No. 5 Petra Kvitova, No. 7 Sam Stosur, No. 11 Marion Bartoli and No. 19 Nadia Petrova.
WOMEN'S SEEDED LOSERS: No. 9 Li Na, No. 15 Lucie Safarova, No. 28 Zheng Jie and No. 31 Varvara Lepchenko.
TOP PLAYERS ON COURT SATURDAY:
Men, Third Round: No. 1 Roger Federer vs. No. 25 Fernando Verdasco, No. 3 Andy Murray vs. No. 30 Feliciano Lopez, No. 6 Tomas Berdych vs. No. 27 Sam Querrey, No. 16 Gilles Simon vs. No. 23 Marley Fish. Women, Third Round: No. 2 Agnieszka Radwanska vs. No. 30 Jelena Jankovic, No. 4 Serena Williams vs. Ekaterina Makarova, No. 6 Angelique Kerber vs. Olga Govortsova.
STAT OF THE DAY: Laura Robson has defeated two former Grand Slam champions in a row: three-time U.S. Open winner Kim Clijsters and 2011 French Open champion Li Na. Her next opponent? Last year's U.S. Open champion, Sam Stosur.
QUOTE OF THE DAY: "It's a humbling experience, for sure. It's certainly nice to feel appreciated at the end of all of it. ... It's a good feeling. Kind of an outpouring of support from inside the tennis world and outside the tennis world in the last 24 hours is certainly not something that I expected to the lengths it's come from." — Andy Roddick.
FRIDAY ON TV (All Times EDT): CBS, Noon-6 p.m.; Tennis Channel, 7-11 p.m.
ON THIS DATE (Sept. 1, 1977): Renee Richards, the 43-year-old transsexual who had fought for more than a year for the right to play in the women's singles draw of a major championship, loses in the first round to Virginia Wade.

HOROSCOPE

By HOLIDAY MATHIS 9/1/12

There really is no such thing as "downtime." We are equally busy while dancing around or unconscious. Even when we are asleep, our bodies work to repair, restore and process all that's happening. On the heels of the full Pisces moon, expect a dip in the energy and roll with it. Try not to schedule too much. Happiness is unstructured.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Your timing is exquisite. You will be enthusiastic when it counts and confident when it matters most. Because of this, you'll get the opportunity to trade something old for something new.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). It's likely that someone else's ritual for health is not the right one for you — for instance, they like chicken soup, and you're wondering about vegetable juice. You'll experiment in creating your own rituals.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). If you think you can do it, you can do it. The question is, do you really want it enough to put in the work? Today, you will see clearly how something you want more gets all of your attention.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You are exceedingly clever, and there are benefits to sharing what you think — but not all of what you think. Put some lag time between your mouth and your brain. Filter your self-expression.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). It is not always possible, loving or wise to make yourself the center of your day, especially because so many people rely on you. But you can at least make yourself the center of an hour or two.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Today's game is a kind of team sport, and you'll have your choice of which position to play. Consider that each position comes with its own responsibilities and a specific role in moving the team to victory.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). At this time, you don't know how to get from point A to point B, but you'll figure it out if you get moving. So don't even bother telling people that you don't know. You'll get it soon enough.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You will be aware of certain social dynamics of which you are not yet in control. But your awareness is the beginning of your getting a handle on things. In the days to come, you'll change your "script."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The physicist will suggest that two things cannot occupy the same space at the same time. A loved one will defy the laws of physics and get very much in your space.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Your internal dialogue may get so heated that you become lost in thought and miss what's happening in the outside world. Get active. When your body moves, your mind will relax.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). How you wish that a certain person would take the time to observe your life to try to understand where you are coming from. Alas, some people will remain clueless even when handed the clue.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). For long stretches, you are free of complaints. Then "the issue" comes back to mind; you're having a hard time letting this one go. Drop everything, and actively involve yourself in finding a solution.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 1). You're thorough with waiting. You now give yourself fully to a project whether or not you have all you need. In seven weeks, you will have assembled a stellar team. December is your chance to see part of the world you've dreamed about. The soul connection you make in January is helpful in both business and pleasure. Leo and Taurus people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 8, 40, 19, 3 and 11.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "I'm a Leo. When I was younger, I thought I was really outgoing and that I liked to be with people. Now, I realize I'm super-uncomfortable in public. Crows make me nervous. Small talk seems difficult. Stupid things fly out of my mouth, and instantly I know that I've said the wrong thing, but I can't seem to help myself. Sometimes I think I was meant for the life of a hermit. I would be happy living alone and talking to no one. (Honestly, I've never been lonely in my life.) Do you think I should move toward that lifestyle?"

You could try it, though it sounds like you'd be acting out of fear of people instead of being genuinely called to a life of solitude. Leos often feel a pressure to perform, entertain and delight. You may feel that it's not enough for you to show up to a scene, that you must participate and be interesting, too. You are currently expecting yourself to do this without rehearsal or a script. Write down your stories and practice them. Think of some patter that you could be comfortable with, and rehearse it. And remember that socializing is a process of trial and error, so don't be so hard on yourself!

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Celebrity fashion stylist Rachel Zoe is a Virgo perfectionist with her sun, Venus and Pluto all in the sign of details and never-ending improvement. With Mercury in Leo, Zoe understands how to talk to celebrities and can communicate in the language of entertainment, as well. A Capricorn moon suggests she's only at the beginning of her quest for fashion mogul status.

Children, appliances are a dangerous mix

Heloise

Dear Heloise: Please remind people that STANDING MIXERS are powerful tools and can be dangerous!

My 6-year-old granddaughter and I were making cookies when she got her face too close to the mixing bowl and her long hair got caught in the mixer, pulling part of her hair out and twisting it on the paddle.

I had turned my back to get a measuring cup. This happened so fast! She immediately started screaming, and I pulled the plug as fast as I could. I had to cut her hair off the paddle, and it had already pulled out a chunk of her hair. — Jan, via email

Jan, this is frightening! Thank you for taking the time to share this cautionary tale. No loose clothing, hair or jewelry around the mixer or anything with fast-moving mechanical parts! It's also a reminder that when little ones are around, a lot can happen in a few seconds. — Heloise

LESS DUST

Dear Heloise: I just moved our litter box into a place where the sun shines, and I can see how much dusts floats into the air when the cat uses the litter box, when I scoop the litter and when I pour the litter into the box.

No. 1: Is there a type of litter that has no dust or at least a minimum amount of dust for the cat?

No. 2: If not, is there a way to get the litter from the container into the litter box without polluting the air around it so badly? — Willie B., via email

Willie, thanks for writing. Try a CLUMPING cat litter. It is manufactured to limit the amount of dust. Or, rather than pouring the litter from the container, scoop it out using a scoop or plastic cup, etc. — Heloise

KEEPING BERRIES

Dear Heloise: For a long time, I carefully layered fragile berries like raspberries and blackberries between layers of paper towels to prevent spoilage.

I don't know how I discovered that turning the box upside down in the refrigerator seems to accomplish the same goal. I have done it for several years, and the berries do keep amazingly well this way. — Mary in Mount Vernon, Va.

It could be the holes on the "bottom" (that is now the top) that allow for air circulation. — Heloise

Make sure dog's toys don't cost their life

DEAR ABBY: I am writing hoping to avert another tragedy like we experienced last week. Our German shepherd, Leah, was playing with a hard rubber ball the size of a tennis ball. Somehow, the ball slid down her throat. I tried to dislodge it by grabbing and pulling it out, then I tried the Heimlich maneuver. Neither worked. By the time we got Leah to the veterinarian, she was dead. They tried for 25 minutes to revive her. Leah was a friendly, funny, loving dog, not yet 2 years old. We miss her terribly. Abby, please tell your readers to never, ever let their dog play with any object that fits into its mouth. If it fits, it can lodge in the throat. I don't want anyone else to experience the pain of losing their dog like we lost ours. — KAREN IN CENTER VALLEY, PA.

DEAR KAREN: Please accept my sympathy for the loss of your beloved pet. However, because you wrote to other dog owners, take comfort in the knowledge that you have very likely saved another four-footed family member's life.

DEAR ABBY: My well-meaning mother continues to give me "classics" from her wardrobe that she no longer wears. I'm a size 6 to 8 in my 50s. Mom is in her 80s and wears 12 to 14. Our sense of style is also not the same. My problem is, after insisting I take these items, she'll often ask for them back several years later. It becomes awkward when I must explain I gave her clothes away. How can I politely stop her from gifting me these items? — NO LONGER HAS THEM

DEAR NO LONGER HAS THEM: Say, "Mom, these things won't fit me. But I'll be glad to drop them off at a charity thrift shop for you." It's honest, it's practical, and someone can enjoy them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married three years, and we are both lucky to have families that are kind and supportive. However, there is one recurring issue with his family that I find annoying. Nobody in my husband's family has a driver's license or owns a car. This includes his two aunts and mother, who all live in the same town we do. As the only driver in the family, I am regularly asked to shuttle relatives to the doctor, the grocery store, etc. Abby, none of them have any physical or mental disability that prevents them from driving. I work hard so I can pay my car insurance bills, my car payments and buy gas to get to where I need to. I'm starting to resent being asked to drive three able-bodied adults who are perfectly capable of driving or taking a taxi. Is there a way to politely convey that I do not wish to play chauffeur? — DRIVEN CRAZY IN MASSACHUSETTS

DEAR DRIVEN CRAZY: Yes, there is — and because these are his relatives, your husband should be the one to tell them that you have been generous enough and it's time for them to arrange other transportation.

Friend seems to expect invitation to beach house

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: For the past three summers, my friend "Don" has spent a few days with me at our family beach house. The second year, he hinted about visiting again and was pleased when I invited him back. Soon, he began referring to "his room" at the beach house and making regular comments about "next year." I didn't know how to respond, so I ignored the comments, even though I thought he was being a little presumptuous.

This summer, I told Don that I had invited another friend and his wife to join me at the summerhouse. His response was that all of us could go. Annie, even though there's enough room, I want to have only this other couple. But all I could
