Dickey: Need to look at maintenance rules

By MARY ANN GREIER
Staff Writer

Councilwoman Cyndi Baronzzi Dickey wants to look at the city's ordinances related to buildings when the Rules & Ordinances Committee meets again.

"We are an old town. We need to protect ourselves and our citizens," she said.

Dickey raised the issue during a Rules & Ordinances Committee meeting held earlier this week, noting that if a building is structurally compromised, the owner should have to repair it.

"You should not be allowed to buy a building you can't afford to maintain," she said.

Dickey chairs the committee and asked that fellow members research the ordinances for the next time they meet. No date was set for the next meeting.

Committee member Councilman Rick Drummond questioned whether they should spend an inordinate amount of time researching the issue when the city is already planning to pay Town Center Associates from Pennsylvania to look at the ordinances as part of a historic downtown development project.

As members of the committee which handles Rules & Ordinances, Dickey said they should still do some groundwork to look at what the city has, see what can be strengthened and then be able to see what TCA suggests. Considering what taxpayers have already had to pay for a recent demolition project in the downtown, she said "we don't have time to waste."

Drummond said he understood what she was saying about doing some research of their own, but also said as far as he knew, the deal with TCA was just a matter of the check being issued. City Council's Committee of the Whole voted 4-2 recently to recommend providing $15,000 for the project to cover the first year.

During the city council meeting earlier this week, resident Jennifer Brown said the representatives of TCA should be invited back to tell what they're planning to do in more depth. At a previous meeting, she criticized the idea of spending the money for what she said will be just another plan, but was told the company will be implementing measures to help bring businesses to the

New owners mark grand opening at Salem Sears

By MARY ANN GREIER
Staff Writer

SALEM — Area residents are invited to join a new ownership celebration today at the Sears Hometown store in the Salem Plaza where they can enjoy snacks and an extra 10 percent off purchases of most everything in the store.

Salem residents Vernon and Cindy Burch purchased the Sears location last November and now they're holding an open house to welcome customers.

Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Shelly Wolbert is still the full-time manager and the store also employs eight part-time workers in addition to the owners.

The store features large appliances such as stoves, refrigerators, washers, dryers and microwaves, lawn and garden supplies such as lawn tractors, gas grills and weed eaters, Craftsman tools and mattresses.

Cindy said they can also get anything off of the website at www.sears.com and have it delivered to the Salem store for pickup. The local store also does delivery of appliances and lawn and garden equipment, with home repair and service available. "When you shop Salem, you're supporting the local store," she said, noting their store gets credit for purchases made online through the Salem location.

Vernon and Cindy have a dairy farm and previously operated a farm supply store and Cindy still works at a local feed operation.

On Friday they held a ribbon cutting with ambassadors from the Salem Area Chamber of Commerce and the Sustainable Opportunity Development Center. Also on hand was their daughter Angela Marshall and their grandchildren, 1-month-old Hadley, 4-year-old Ruby and 3-year-old Eva.

The store is located at 2350 E. State St. and can be reached at 330-337-8209.

Volunteer group to help with Lisbon park

By TOM GIAMBRONI
Staff Writer

LISBON — Village Council has given its approval for the creation of a Friends of the Park group to help maintain the park.

The action came at this week's meeting and was requested by parks manager Dana Blackburn, who said a core group of people has already stepped forward in recent weeks to help clean and repair the Play Town playground, which has fallen into disrepair.

Blackburn said possible committee members include Gary and Joy Dailey and Phil Bartholomew, and the council park committee chairman, among others. The details have yet to be worked out.

Village fiscal officer Tracey Wonner said other towns have similar boards, and those members are required to fill out a form that explains their role and advising them of the rules they must abide by. She will get a sample copy of those forms and provide it for adaptation by Blackburn.

Blackburn is in her second year as manager and has been trying to enlist the community's help in sprucing up the park/swimming pool complex off Cedar Avenue. She said four people in particular — Herb Chesney, Randy Crothers and Jeff and Don Vollnogle — have been working in recent weeks to repair and clean the playground.

Chesney also built a wooden bench for Crothers in memory of Crothers' mother, with her name etched into the back rest portion of the bench, which will be placed in the park for public use. Blackburn said Chesney has offered to make

Kindergarten registration set next week

Salem Buckeye Elementary kindergarten teachers from left, Kary Welker, Lisa Miller and Mindy Hiltbrand promote kindergarten registration for the 2015-2016 school year, encouraging all families with children going to kindergarten next year to attend one of three registration times set from 4 to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday or 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, May 2. Students need to be 5 years old on or before Sept. 30, 2015 to be eligible. Parents need to bring a birth certificate, shot records, social security card, proof of residency (utility bill, rent/mortgage receipt) and custody papers, if applicable. Students are welcome to attend, but it isn't required. (Submitted photo)

Chief: Don't need K-9 for department

By KATIE WHITE
Staff Writer

The city will likely continue participation on the Columbiana County Drug Task Force (DTF), but there is no need for a K-9 unit for the local department.

Police Chief Tim Gladis made the statement after being asked during this week's city council meeting if the department would ever purchase a police dog.

Police dogs are being used in other areas of the county and usually cost upwards of $6,000.

Despite already being a certified K-9 handler himself, Gladis said the cost of a K-9 outweighs the benefits when it comes to the city.

"At this point in time it would be hard to keep a dog busy than say some of the surrounding areas that have a need for that type of animal ... having one would certainly be a benefit, however, I cannot justify to you the cost of having one versus the benefits. I hope we don't get there," he said.

The chief went on to say that while there are drugs in the city, as there are everywhere, police are not coming across any "open air drug deals."

Councilman Lowell Schloneger asked about the K-9 after council gave a

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, April 25, the 115th day of 2015. There are 250 days left in the year. Ten years ago: At his Texas ranch, President George W. Bush prodded Saudi Arabia's Crown Prince Abdullah to help curb skyrocketing oil prices. Five years ago: President Barack Obama made a pilgrimage to Billy Graham's mountainside home, concluding his North Carolina vacation with his first meeting with the ailing evangelist who had counseled commanders in chief since Dwight Eisenhower. One year ago: President Barack Obama, in a joint news conference in Seoul alongside South Korean President Park Geun-hye, said the U.S. stood "shoulder to shoulder" with its ally in refusing to accept a nuclearized North Korea.

Obama defends intelligence after hostage deaths, while promising review to prevent mistakes

MCLEAN, Va. (AP) — A day after revealing an intelligence failure that cost the lives of two al-Qaida hostages, President Barack Obama on Friday praised the nation's spying operations as the most capable in the world while promising a review aimed at preventing future mistakes.

"We all bleed when we lose an American life," Obama said in a speech at the Office of the Director of National Intelligence to mark its 10th anniversary. "We all grieve when any innocent life is taken. We don't take this work lightly. And I know that each and every one of you understand the magnitude of what we do and the stakes involved and these aren't abstractions and we're not cavalier about what we do."

Obama said he knows the U.S. intelligence community has faced criticism but it can take great pride that its work has made America work secure. "You do an outstanding job," he said.

"The world doesn't always see your successes, the threats that you prevent or the terrorist attacks you thwart, or the lives that you save," Obama told a couple hundred intelligence officials gathered in an auditorium at the sprawling gray office building outside Washington. He said their intelligence helped take out Osama bin Laden and other al-Qaida leaders, showed that Syria had chemical weapons, revealed Russian aggression in Ukraine and supported nuclear negotiations with Iran.

"It's been 10 long and challenging years, but when we look back on those 10 years, the American people have been a whole lot safer," Obama said.

Night train kills 14 migrants 'sleeping' on Macedonia tracks; worst toll on Balkans path to EU

VELES, Macedonia (AP) — A group of migrants trying to reach European opportunity via what's billed by smugglers as a "safe" route — trekking along train tracks through the Balkans — was hit by an overnight train in a remote river gorge in Macedonia, killing 14.

The deaths of the undocumented migrants from Africa and Asia underscore how, even as tens of thousands risk drowning in the Mediterranean to reach European shores, many others gamble with their lives by taking perilous overland journeys to reach Hungary, a popular back door to the 28-nation European Union.

Railway officials said many of those killed Thursday night had stopped to rest after an exhausting hours-long hike and were sleeping on the tracks when the train plowed into them.

The overland route from Greece through Macedonia and Serbia has soared in popularity over the past two years as migrants seek a less dangerous path than the sea crossing from North Africa to Italy.

Police say Freddie Gray should have received medical care before being put in van BALTIMORE (AP) — In the clearest acknowledgement of failure yet, Baltimore police said Friday that Freddie Gray should have received medical attention at the spot where he was arrested — before he was put inside a police van.

Officers missed "multiple" opportunities to give him medical attention and once inside the van, Gray should've been buckled into a seat belt. The department's acknowledgement came at a news conference after a week of intense scrutiny and near-daily demonstrations over what protesters say is police mistreatment of blacks in Baltimore and throughout the country.

Gray was taken into custody April 12 and at some point — either during his arrest or inside the van — he suffered a mysterious spinal injury. Authorities have not explained how or when it occurred. Six officers have been suspended with pay.

Commissioner Anthony Batts said it was possible Gray was injured before the van ride, but also possible he suffered in a "rough ride" — where officers hit the brakes and take sharp turns to injure suspects in the back of vans.

Gray, who is black, was arrested after he made eye contact with officers and ran away, police said. Officers held him down, handcuffed him and loaded him into a police van. While inside, he became irate and leg cuffs were put on him, police have said.

UN says fighting in Yemen has killed 550 civilians, including 115 children

SANAA, Yemen (AP) — With combatants fighting in neighborhoods and Saudi-led coalition warplanes pounding Iran-backed rebels from the sky, Yemen's war is wreaking a particularly bloody toll among civilians: more than 550 have been killed in the past month, including 115 children, the U.N. said Friday.

Amnesty International said in a new report that some of the airstrikes it examined in the capital of Sanaa and four other cities raise "concerns about compliance with international law," saying they appeared to have failed to take precautions to avoid civilian casualties.

The air campaign that began March 26 "has transformed many parts of Yemen into a dangerous place for civilians," the report said. "Millions of people have been forced to live in a state of utter terror, afraid of being killed in their homes." It said about 150,000 people have fled their homes the past month.

So far, relatively muted criticism from world leaders has been unable to force an end to the violence in the Arab world's poorest country. More civilian areas were hit Friday by warplanes, including a stadium in the southern town of Zinjibar and a courthouse in the town of Lahj, witnesses said. Casualties were not immediately known.

Bruce Jenner tells Diane Sawyer he identifies as a woman, his brain is more female than male

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Olympic champion Bruce Jenner says that "for all intents and purposes, I am a woman."

Jenner spoke in a long-awaited interview televised Friday with ABC's Diane Sawyer about his gender identity, saying that he has always been confused about his gender identity. Early in the interview, Jenner took out his ponytail to let his long hair flow behind him.

"My brain is more female than it is male," says Jenner, the 1976 Olympic decathlon champion who has been better known in recent years as part of television's omnipresent Kardashian family.

Attorneys for man killed by Oklahoma reserve deputy: 2009 memo raised concerns about volunteer

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Several members of an Oklahoma sheriff's department raised serious concerns years ago about the performance and training of a volunteer deputy now charged in the fatal shooting of a restrained suspect, according to a report released Friday by lawyers for the dead man's family.

Lawyers for Eric Harris released a Tulsa County Sheriff's Office memo outlining an investigation into Robert Bates, 73, who says he confused his handgun for his stun gun during an April 2 sting involving gun sales. Bates has pleaded not guilty to second-degree manslaughter in Harris' death.

Bates is a longtime friend to Sheriff Stanley Glanz, serving as his insurance agent for 25 years and his re-election campaign manager in 2012. Bates is white and Harris was black, but the victim's brother has said he doesn't believe the shooting was racially motivated.

The 2009 report says Bates, who had joined the Tulsa County Sheriff's Office less than a year earlier, had argued with a dispatcher, improperly used a personal vehicle on the job and had inadequate training for a role as an advanced reserve deputy.

The report concludes Bates didn't receive special treatment for admittance into the program because no advanced deputy had fully met internal standards. It did, however, find that Bates received special treatment that included department leaders' ignoring complaints about his performance.

Armenia marks centennial of killing of 1.5 million by Ottoman Empire, amid Turkey tensions

YEREVAN, Armenia (AP) — The presidents of Russia and France joined other leaders Friday at ceremonies commemorating the massacre of Armenians a century ago by Ottoman Turks, an event which still stirs bitter feelings as both sides argue over whether to call it genocide.

The annual April 24 commemorations mark the day when some 250 Armenian intellectuals were rounded up in what is regarded as the first step of the massacre. An estimated 1.5 million died in the slaughters, deportations and forced marches that began in 1915 as Ottoman officials worried that the Christian Armenians would side with Russia, its enemy in World War I.

The event is widely viewed by historians as genocide but modern Turkey, the successor to the Ottoman Empire, vehemently rejects the charge. It says that the toll has been inflated, and that those killed were victims of civil war and unrest. On the eve of the centennial, Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan insisted that his nation's ancestors never committed genocide.

The observances ended Friday night with a torchlight parade by an estimated 30,000 people from the capital's central square to the hilltop complex memorializing the deaths. Participants started the march by burning a Turkish flag.

Russian President Vladimir Putin, French President Francois Hollande and other dignitaries assembled in the morning at the memorial complex, called Tsitsernakaberd, overlooking the capital, Yerevan.

Starbucks reports sales register outage in stores

SEATTLE (AP) — Starbucks says a sales register computer glitch has disrupted sales at 8,000 company-operated stores in the United States and Canada.

Company spokesman Jim Olson said Friday evening the outage affected 7,000 U.S. stores and 1,000 in Canada.

The company apologized to customers for the inconvenience late Friday and said it was working to resolve the outage. Olson didn't immediately respond to emailed questions about the exact nature of the problem.

Customers found some stores closed and others offering free coffee.

Police chief warns of phone, email scams

By MARY ANN GREIER

Staff Writer

SALEM — Salem Police Chief J.T. Panezott is reminding residents once again to be leery of phone calls and emails asking for personal information, money or access to a home computer.

Microsoft doesn't call individual customers about viruses and ask for remote access to their computers. The IRS doesn't call people and demand money be paid on the spot with a Green Dot card.

Lottery agents don't call winners at home and ask for immediate payment of taxes through Western Union. Banks don't call customers and request account information.

"The bank knows your account number. They have your personal information," Panezott said.

The list of possible ways to scam people out of money goes on and on. The chief said it's hard for the police department to keep up with the scams because just as one is being reported, another one pops up.

He said people just need to use some common sense.

Panezott also suggested reading up on scams on the Ohio Attorney General's website or IRS website and calling police first before giving out any personal information or paying any money when someone calls and makes a request or sends an email.

A city resident contacted the Salem News Friday about a scam involving someone with a foreign accent who claimed to be with Microsoft and needed access to his computer. He gave them remote access and they claimed there were multiple viruses and he would need to send money for them to fix the problem.

The caller gave him a choice of a three-year warranty for $160, a five-year warranty for $249 and a lifetime warranty for $346. He provided his credit card information, but when the card wouldn't go through, the caller told him he would need to pay cash through Western Union in the next 10 minutes or else.

He realized it was a scam and hung up. He had to take his computer to be fixed and ended up paying $165 for that and had to cancel his credit card, too.

The resident said he called everybody he knew to warn them about the scam and wanted people to be aware of what can happen.

Trash-filled duplex reported

By MARY ANN GREIER

Staff Writer

SALEM — The city Housing Department is investigating a case of accumulating trash in the vacant side of a Third Street duplex, with an alleged safety risk from a swimming pool already abated Friday.

Police Chief J.T. Panezott, Lt. Donn Beeson and city Housing Inspector Dan Rice all responded at 9:15 a.m. Friday to the property in the 400 block of East Third Street for a report of large amounts of trash being stored in the unoccupied portion of the duplex.

The door for the abandoned side of the duplex was found unsecured and a large amount of household trash was found stacked in the kitchen.

While there, police saw an above ground swimming pool in the back yard almost overflowing with water. There was a ladder in the pool and no fence around the pool.

The police report said due to the swimming pool being a safety hazard for any children in the area, the fire department was contacted and agreed to pump the water out of the pool.

According to Panezott, the water in the pool was black and he felt a safety hazard existed due to the ladder being there.

Rice said he's trying to make contact with the owner, with the investigation pending. Someone was supposed to be living on the east side, but no one was there.

He explained that options under consideration could include requiring repairs or condemning the structure due to the conditions, but stressed it's still under investigation

South Range board member sworn in for second time

BEAVER TOWNSHIP — The South Range school board on Friday morning swore in its new school board member for the second time.

The board approved the nomination of Amy White on Monday and waited until Friday to administer her oath of office. White was accompanied by her father, Roy Houser, who held the Bible during the ceremony.

White is filling the position that she herself resigned on March 30 amid allegations that the board failed to follow its own policy in appointing a new member as well as violated the Sunshine Law.

White was originally appointed March 16 to replace Bruce Zinz who resigned in February.

School board president Ralph Wince has admitted the board erred by not interviewing all applicants the first time around, apologizing for neglecting to be aware of the process stipulated in the board policy. But the board, with legal counsel, maintains that no Sunshine Law violation occurred since it voted on White's appointment in open session.

An injunction is currently filed against the board to rule the original appointment invalid. Resident Richard Ferenczak, who filed the injunction, says the board needs to rescind the March 16 appointment and turn it over to the Mahoning County Probate Court since it has been more than 30 days since Zinz' resignation.

A Greenford resident, White is a fourth-grade math and science teacher at United Local. She and her husband Rob have three children in the middle and high schools at South Range.

She will fill the seat until the end of this calendar year. The remaining two years of the term will be available by election in November.

POLICE REPORTS

SALEM — Police responded at 9:33 a.m. Friday, along with fire department first responders and KLG Ambulance, to a residence in the 100 block of West 14th Street for a woman having a medical problem.

Christan Weimer, of the 1300 block of East State Street, reported at 4:14 a.m. Friday that someone threw an egg at one of the windows of his residence.

Officers were dispatched at 2:13 a.m. Friday to the 1200 block of Southeast Boulevard for a well-being check. A woman at another address said she wasn't able to make contact with the mother of the child she was babysitting.

Police responded to the 1500 block of Westview Drive at 1:37 a.m. for an intoxicated person to be removed. The caller said the person was causing a disturbance at the house.

Possible gun shots were reported at 9:36 p.m. Thursday in the area of East Pershing Street and Fair Avenue. Police didn't find any type of disturbance.

An abandoned vehicle was reported in the Smith Oil parking lot on East State Street at 9:11 p.m. Thursday for over an hour. The registered owner showed up but was not the person who abandoned the vehicle.

A disorderly person was reported at the Salem Memorial Building, 785 E. State St., at 7:21 p.m. Thursday. A man was reported acting inappropriately and entering rooms in the building that he was told to stay out of.

A resident in the 2200 block of Southeast Boulevard reported at 6:35 p.m. Thursday that her dog was stolen from an address in the 200 block of Vine Avenue.

Brent Bonan, of the 400 block of Washington Avenue, reported at 5:15 p.m. Thursday that someone vandalized his Internet cable on the roof.

Two vehicles were reported being operated in a reckless manner at 5:13 p.m. Thursday in the area of East State Street and Southeast Boulevard.

A woman at 5:12 p.m. Thursday reported a male had driven toward her aggressively after a brief argument in the Salem Public Library parking lot.

A passerby called at 12:05 a.m. Friday to report possible vandalism of a pop machine at a business in the 1600 block of Depot Road.

A 16-year-old Salem boy was cited to Juvenile Court for failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead after the vehicle he was driving at 5:55 p.m. Thursday failed to stop and struck the rear of a southbound vehicle.

A resident in the 1100 block of West Perry Street at 4:08 p.m. Thursday requested police dispose of medication no longer used because she was unable to get to a disposal site on her own.

Police were called at 1:55 a.m. Thursday to check if a female was walking northbound on state Route 45 into the township from the area of Kent State Salem.

An officer responded with EMS to the 400 block of Somer Street for an unresponsive 27-year-old male at 10:36 a.m. Friday.

Village police assisted Washingtonville Police with an open door in the 200 block of High Street in Washingtonville at 1:28 a.m. Tuesday.

An officer responded to the 300 block of Pearl Street at 10:27 p.m. April 13 for a possible break-in. No other information was posted on the report.

Yemen blockade risks Iran reaction

When then-President John F. Kennedy used Navy vessels to blockade Cuba in 1963, he made it clear they were to prevent Soviet ships from delivering missiles to the island nation. U.S. officials were in contact with Moscow, explaining how such interceptions would work.

Are similar lines of communication open between Washington and Iran?

U.S. Navy vessels including an aircraft carrier were on station or headed there Monday afternoon — to stop Iranian ships carrying arms to Houthi rebels in Yemen. Plans were to intercept and, presumably, board and search any Iranian craft entering the quickly established blockade zone.

Of course, the United States and other powers should be doing more to thwart Iranian armed intervention in other countries. That should have been occurring months ago.

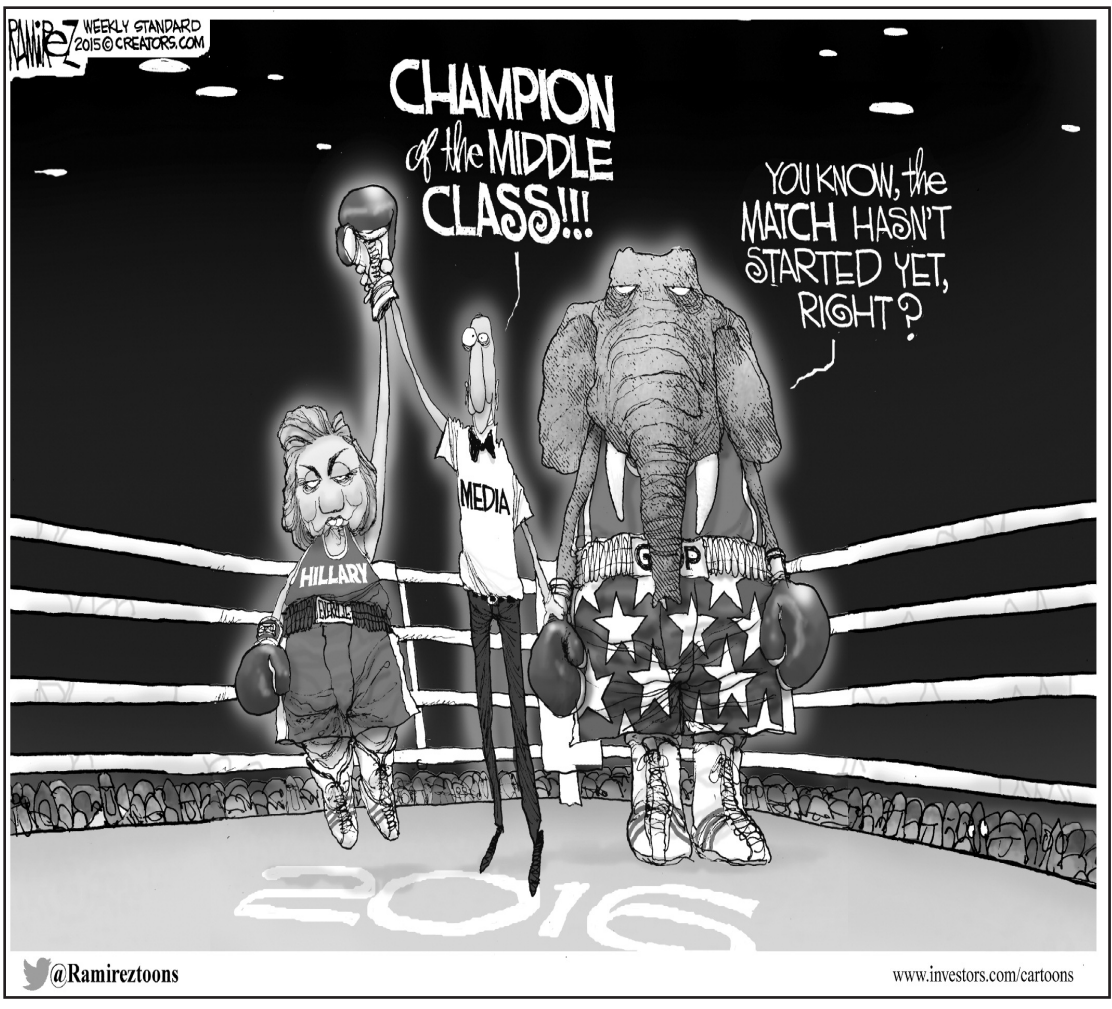

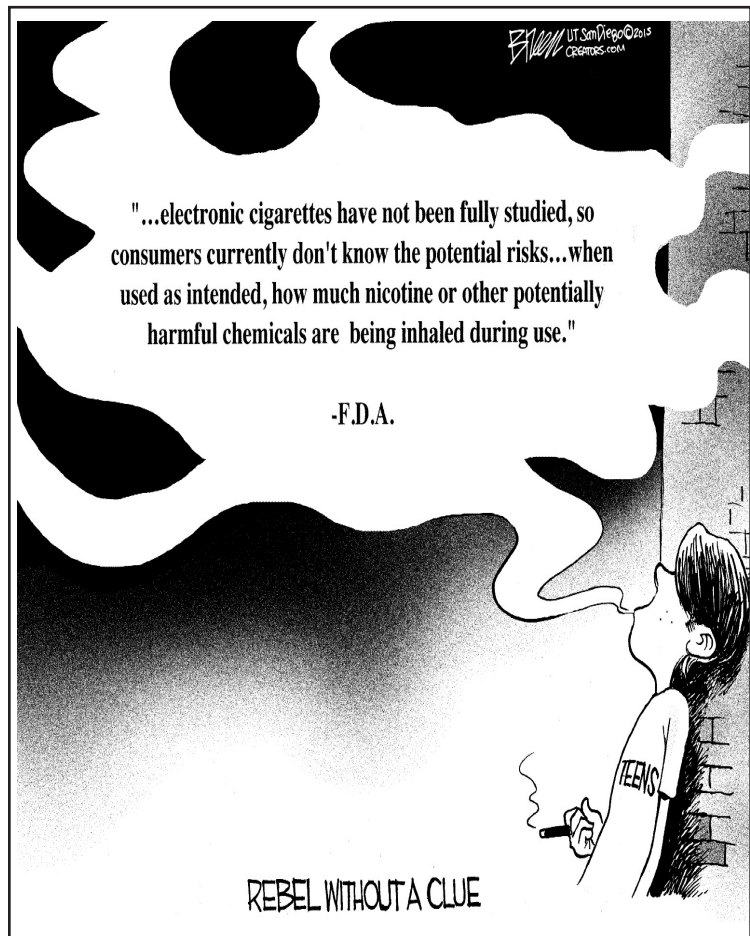

But now that President Barack Obama has decided finally to act decisively, is he using diplomatic initiatives along with match his military commitment?

Let us hope so. One of the great fears in 1963 was that Moscow might react violently if the U.S. Navy stopped and boarded a Soviet ship. Close contact between the two powers was intended to avoid that.

Similar safeguards are even more critical now for various reasons. One is that the modern blockade is occurring not in our nation's backyard, but Iran's.

Tell Wayne LaPierre 'normal' gone for good

LEONARD PITTS

Maybe, conservatives are done with dog whistle politics. After all, NRA chief Wayne LaPierre traded his dog whistle for an air horn at a recent gathering of the gun faithful in Washington, D.C. "I have to tell you," he said, "eight years of one demographically-symbolic president is enough."

Subtle, it was not.

Still, as insults go, it was a rather neatly-crafted twofer. On the one hand, it demeaned the nation's first African-American president and welcomed the day the White House is, well ... de-Negro-fied. On the other hand, it also demeaned the candidate seeking to become the nation's first female-American president and promised to save the White House from, well ... woman-ification. Evidently, LaPierre wants America to get back to normal, "normal" being defined as when the president is white and male.

So out come the air horns, blatting Woman! Woman! seeking to reduce a former senator and secretary of state to the sum of her chromosomes. Now the race is apparently on to see who will be first to tag the former law professor, senator and secretary of state with which crude, sexist epithet. Oh, the suspense.

The blazing irony is that conservatives have at least two "demographically-symbolic" candidates vying for their favor: Marco Rubio, a Cuban-American senator from Florida and Ted Cruz (does no one else see Joe McCarthy staring back when they look at this guy?), a senator from Texas whose father was born in Cuba.

So the "normal" LaPierre seeks is threatened, regardless.

Not that he is the only one tripped up by Clinton's woman-ness. Consider, a recent piece from Time magazine which argued that Clinton is "the perfect age to be president" because, at 67, she is "post-menopausal." Granted, the essay, by a doctor named Julie Holland, flatters Clinton and women of her age, assuring us that, having been freed from the "cyclical forces" that "dominated" the first half of her life, she emerges with the "experience and self-assurance" to be president.

Still, could you not have happily gone the rest of your days without contemplating Hillary Clinton's "cyclical forces?" More to the point, can you imagine such an essay being written about a male candidate? Marco Rubio is 43, which means he's probably already had his first digital prostate exam. Will anyone analyze how that factors into his readiness for the presidency? Rick Perry is 65. If he jumps in, will anyone speculate on how possible issues of erectile dysfunction might inform his foreign policy?

Here's the thing about "demographically symbolic" presidents and candidates: They tend to function like Rorschach inkblots. Meaning that what we see in them reveals more about us than them. Where Barack Obama is concerned, the right-wing panic over birth certificates and fist bumps and the left-wing tendency to idealize and canonize his every exhalation revealed the rank bigotry and messy irresolution beneath our "post-racial" happy talk. Where Clinton is concerned, these very early indications suggest her woman-ness will likewise be a minefield for friend, foe and media -- even more, perhaps, than in 2008.

And that's not to mention Cruz and Rubio. Who do you think will be the first to wear a sombrero to a Cruz rally in misguided solidarity, or to tell the Miami-born Rubio to go back where he came from?

Point being that in America, markers of identity -- gender, race, ethnicity -- have a way of becoming identity itself, of blinding us to the singular, individual one in front of us. And campaigns tend to magnify that failing. To put that another way: Strap in. It's going to be a very long 19 months until the 2016 election. Even so, one thing is already clear, and it should please the rest of us, if not Wayne LaPierre.

"Normal" is gone for good.

OTHER VOICES

The (Toledo) Blade, April 20

Ohio's repeal of its estate tax more than two years ago has had a disastrous impact on local communities that relied on revenue from the tax to pay for essential public services. Now, Republicans in Congress want to repeal the federal estate tax — a giveaway that would hand $270 billion in tax breaks to millionaires and billionaires over the next decade — even as they claim to care about rising wealth inequality.

The measure, which the House passed last week, is unlikely to gain approval in the Senate, and certainly not from President Obama...But it reflects the extreme anti-tax agenda that has come to characterize the GOP...

Opponents of the estate tax like to claim that they represent the interests of struggling small businesses, even though virtually no small-business owners pay the tax. It affects only individuals who inherit estates worth $5.43 million, or married couples who inherit $10.86 million — the richest 0.2 percent of Americans...

Opponents call it a "death tax" that punishes heirs for the hard work of their family members. But such cynical labels misstate the roles of the tax: to limit the concentration of wealth and power in the hands of a few, and to require wealthy Americans to pay a fair share of taxes on fortunes they did not earn...

These proposals are unlikely to go anywhere soon. But lawmakers must preserve the few antidotes to inequality that exist — and leave the estate tax alone.

Not your grandfather's FBI: Cutting corners for 'justice'

ANDREW NAPOLITANO

Does the FBI manifest fidelity, bravery and integrity, or does it cut constitutional corners in order to incriminate? Can the FBI cut the cable television lines to your house and then show up pretending to be the cable guy and install listening devices? Can FBI agents and technicians testify falsely and cause the innocent to be convicted, incarcerated and, in some cases, executed? In 2014, FBI agents in Las Vegas were on the trail of Wei Seng Phua, whom they believed was running an illegal gambling operation out of his hotel room at Caesars Palace. Instead of following him, asking questions about him and using other traditional investigative techniques, a few agents came up with the idea of planting a wiretap in Phua's hotel room.

They bribed a hotel employee, who gave them access to a place in the hotel where they could disable the cable television wires to Phua's room. When he called for repair, they showed up pretending to be cable guys, and he let them into his room. They repaired what they had disabled, but they also illegally wiretapped the phones in the room. Then they overheard his telephone conversations about his illegal gambling, and they arrested him. A grand jury indicted him based on what was overheard.

The grand jury was not told of the wire cutting and the con job, but a federal judge was. Last week, he criticized the FBI for conducting an illegal search of Phua's room, in direct contravention of the Fourth Amendment, which the agents swore to uphold, and he barred the government from using the tapes of the telephone conversations as evidence against Phua. If the government can get away with this, he ruled, then constitutional guarantees are meaningless.

These lawless agents should have been indicted by a state grand jury for breaking and entering by false pretense, but Caesars declined to seek their prosecution. No surprise.

It was surprising, however, when the FBI was forced to admit last week that in the 1980s and 1990s, its agents and lab technicians who examined hair samples testified falsely in 257 of 268 cases that resulted in convictions. Of the convictions, 18 persons were sentenced to death, and of those, 12 have been executed.

Some of these cases were federal, but most were state prosecutions in which state and county prosecutors hired the FBI to perform lab tests and compare hair samples from a crime scene with a defendant's known hair sample. The faulty lab work and erroneous testimony destroyed the freedom of hundreds and the lives of 12, squandered millions in tax dollars, and impaired the constitutional values we all embrace.

You probably did not hear about the FBI cable guys or the admitted 96-percent rate of false testimony in cases of conviction. That's because the FBI skillfully diverted your attention.

In an effort to pick a front-page fight with the government of Poland, FBI Director James Comey revealed last week that the very concept of the Holocaust has moved him deeply -- so deeply that he has ordered all new FBI agents to spend quiet time at the Holocaust Museum contemplating its horrors. He argued that the terror of Nazi agents became so commonplace that its wrongness was no longer apparent to them. That's probably true. The Nazis did so much killing that their acts of killing innocents became commonplace to the killers. Then he blamed the Poles for their own victimization because of the few among them who collaborated with their invaders. This brought the hoped-for fierce blowback from the Polish government and top-of-the-fold criticism of Comey for two days.

Earlier this week, the FBI announced the arrest of eight persons for attempting to leave the United States in order to join ISIS. The actual charge is attempting to provide material assistance to a terrorist organization. These ISIS people are truly monsters. Yet, Americans have a natural right to travel where they want and associate with whomever they please. The test of a truly free country is the right to leave it.

Moreover, this was a controlled FBI sting. The defendants were instigated by and under the watchful eyes of FBI undercover agents. The FBI admits that the defendants never posed any harm. How can it be a crime -- or harmful -- for people to leave the U.S.? If people with evil inclinations want to leave, let them go; arrest them when they return if they cause harm.

For 600 years of Anglo-American jurisprudence, the definition of crime has included the element of harm. No one was harmed by this sting except the taxpayers. Yet, this announcement dominated the news cycle as hoped for.

Why chastise the Poles, who suffered egregiously under the Nazis, in 2015 for the few who collaborated with them in 1942? Why entrap losers who harmed no one into thinking they could freely leave the country and join an army of monsters and then announce their arrest during a bad week? To change the subject; that's why.

Will FBI agents who lie, cheat, break the law and testify falsely be brought to justice? Will their superiors who condone this be made to answer? Does the FBI work for us, or do we work for it?

Interact Club to Host Annual Senior Citizens Prom

The Interact Club at Salem High School is hosting the annual Senior Citizens Prom again this year with a "Fire and Ice" theme. The prom will take place from 6 to 10 p.m. on Saturday, May 16, at the Salem High School cafeteria. Doors will open at 6 p.m. with dinner, dessert and beverages being served soon after. DJ Johnny Lisowski will be providing entertainment. Seniors may dress up for the event in cocktail or even black-tie attire; however, casual attire is also acceptable. Please plan to join the high school club members for a wonderful evening of food, fun and fellowship.

Due to the support of the Salem Rotary Club and gracious donors in the community, Karen Sebo and Geoff and Kim Goll, admission is free to all senior citizens in this and the surrounding communities. Additionally, local businesses have donated door prizes including gift baskets and gift cards that will be given away during the event. Please call the Salem High School office at 330-332-8905 or Plummer & Jackson, Attorneys at Law, at 330-332-0852 during regular business hours to get tickets to the event. Tickets will be available until Friday, May 8.

The Salem Interact Club is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Salem, Ohio. Interact is an international organization of service and social club for young people of secondary school age that fosters leadership and responsible citizenship as well as promotes international understanding and peace. The Rotary Club of Salem provides guidance and inspiration to the Interact Clubs at Salem High School. The clubs work locally, regionally and internationally under the motto "Service Above Self."

HOROSCOPE

By HOLIDAY MATHIS 4/25/15

Theatrical Leo Moon

As it is on stage, costumes, lighting and setting can have as strong of a bearing on the action as the performers can.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

You desire to become more disciplined, and yet the very thing keeping you from being able to do this is the demanding lifestyle you currently keep.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

In ancient Rome, merchants carried money in baskets made of fuscus, which is how, over the centuries, things do with money came to be called "fiscal."

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)

It's possible that a certain persistent fear exists for a good reason. Then again, maybe this fear is just a bad habit you can break yourself of.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)

This is a time for extreme self-care, the likes of which you once would have considered too indulgent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

There are those who feel it's hip to be cynical, but cynicism isn't insightful or helpful or any more "real" than sweeter commentary.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

The path you didn't take will be a source of wonder. Perhaps you'll never know the version of you along that untraveled road, but there's something about the wondering that will make you live differently today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Aesthetics will matter to you even more than usual. Your mind expands when you're in the presence of beauty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)

Tension in the morning doesn't have to negatively charge the rest of the day. Address and heal relationship problems quickly so you can get on with a wonderful time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

The quality of your friendships matters more than the number of them. One friend who gets you on a deep level will bring you more joy than dozens who don't see you for who you are.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Feeling hyper-alert, you'll notice the kind of subtle beauty that makes your day feel poetic. You'll also be prone to getting tired or overwhelmed, so go easy on yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Knowing that a thought process is irrational doesn't make it any easier not to think it. But at least you can joke with yourself, which will make it a whole lot easier to lighten up and change the mental channel.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

You can feel it when people harbor resentment for one another, and it hurts you even if those people appear to be getting along. Because you can't be fooled, avoid couples in disharmony.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (April 25)

You'll reach a prize-winning level of mastery in May and then start a new venture as an amateur, refreshing your spirit through the learning process.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS

"My ascendant is in Sagittarius, my moon in Gemini and my sun in Taurus. Well, I'm having career issues this year (wanting to actually get one) and am wondering whether there is any astrological advice I could receive that would help me make my final approval or knock some options off a list.

A fast-food route to healthier eating

Heloise

Dear Readers: With our busy lives, and many of us spending a lot of time going to and from, it's sure easy to "drive through" a FAST-FOOD RESTAURANT to pick up dinner!

After a full, busy day working on this column, doing phone work, checking and sending important emails, dealing with service folks, etc., I sure don't want to fix dinner.

Plus, it's just David (my husband) and me now. Oh, yes, he usually is the one who "brings home the dinner," since I work from my home office.

No FRIED food, or if it's battered, I try to pick off the batter and skin. I do love french fries and onion rings, so I limit the amount I eat by putting a few on my plate, not eating from the bag.

Soft drinks are jampacked with useless calories and cost a lot! Water for me, or iced tea.

Gravies, high-calorie sauces and most salad dressings add more calories and fat than you might think.

Kids' meals are perfect when I'm not famished. NO, you don't have to be a kid to order one!

— Heloise

EASY SHAVE

Dear Heloise: My wife, Shirley, reads me the hints in your column in The Washington Post. Here is my hint to make shaving almost nickproof:

She has gotten me to use body lotion for dry skin. I now apply it to my face before the shaving cream — the result is miraculous! Shaving is easier and more effective.

Gene, give your wife a Heloise hug, and one to you for sharing your hint. For legs, I rub on a thin coat of baby oil or lotion before getting into the shower or bath.

REUSE AND RECYCLE

Dear Heloise: I buy large bags of dry dog food and wild birdseed. To make a small tarp, I cut the tops and bottoms off, then split them down one side.

Tarps are expensive, and I have to buy dog food anyway. — Martha C. in Virginia

Trauma in teen's past secret she should keep

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 16-year-old girl, just starting to dip my toes into the dating scene. It's not that I haven't wanted a boyfriend in the past, but I live in a rural area where options are few.

I am becoming close with a guy who lives near me, and I care a lot about him. Therein lies the problem. We're getting to the point where we are finding out EVERYTHING about each other.

Lately we have been talking about the past. To make a long story short, my childhood was traumatic. From the age of 6 until age 11, I was molested by a family member.

I don't want to "unload my baggage" too early and scare him away, but if we are going to commit to each other, I feel it's important for him to know.

DEAR DIPPING: The answer depends upon how mature this young man is, because the information you're considering imparting to him is sensitive.

Personally, I think it will be a while — a few years — before you will be ready for a truly committed relationship. I'm not saying you shouldn't have fun and romance in your life, but until you are absolutely sure that you are in a committed relationship, my advice is not to confide this.

If you haven't already received counseling for the trauma you experienced as a child, please consider it. Licensed counselors are ethically bound not to reveal what is discussed during sessions.

Dear Annie: I am so sad watching the devastating effect that parental alienation is having on my grandchildren, and I feel powerless to help them.

My daughter is the target of an ex-husband who is determined to turn their children against their mother. My 13-year-old granddaughter attempted suicide last week and went to a facility for several days.

I feel like asking my ex-son-in-law whether he loves his children more than he hates his ex-wife so he will realize who is being hurt most by his actions.

My daughter went to counseling for a year before leaving her husband, and the counselor said her husband is very insidious with a narcissistic personality.

She also knows her ex-husband would use the children to hurt her. When she recently went to sign the final divorce papers, he said that if she tries to change the custody arrangement, she will never see her children again.

Is there any recourse for this kind of behavior? My daughter cannot afford to fight this in court, and we do not have the resources to help, either.

Dear Sad: Parental alienation is very real and can happen to either parent. It can cause the children tremendous psychological harm that can last a lifetime if not addressed.

BUSINESS HIGHLIGHTS

How could McDonald's fix its business?

NEW YORK (AP) — When it comes to McDonald's, everyone seems to have an opinion about what the company needs to do differently.

After turning in another quarter of sliding sales and profit, McDonald's CEO Steve Easterbrook said the chain will unveil initial details on a plan to turn around its fortunes on May 4. Among the challenges it is facing are intensifying competition and an image for serving junk food that it just can't seem to shake.

Cheaper fuel has airlines profits soaring

DALLAS (AP) — For airlines, the record profits keep coming, thanks to cheaper jet fuel.

Like motorists, airlines have been saving money at the pump since oil prices began plunging last summer. Even with a recent increase, the spot price of jet fuel is down 40 percent since September. Airlines are getting such a price break that profits are surging even though their revenue is flat or declining.

At American Airlines, passengers flew fewer miles and revenue declined 2 percent in the first quarter. But thanks to a $1.36 billion cut in its fuel bill, American reported Friday that it earned a record $932 million.

Brew Your Own Beer at some colleges

POMONA, California (AP) — A bachelor's in beer? A master's in malt? Not quite. But these days some U.S. colleges are teaching students to make beer as part of their studies.

When California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, fired up its gleaming new stainless steel brewery in December, it joined a small-but-growing number of colleges instructing students on how to produce high-quality craft beers. At the same time, it took the movement a step beyond — kegging the results of their labors and selling it on campus.

Foreigners who came to Brazil in boom flee

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — When Frenchman Gwenelec Lecourieux was gearing up to move to Brazil, the country with its swelling upper class and world-renowned hunger for luxury goods seemed like the perfect place to set up his dream business, selling high-end watches.

But Brazil's economy skidded to a halt and demand evaporated for his watches worth thousands of dollars each. Just 15 months after arriving in Rio de Janeiro, 36-year-old Lecourieux is preparing to cut his losses and return to France.

Brazil doesn't track the number of foreign residents leaving the country, but signs indicate the country's allure has slipped since foreign work authorizations peaked in 2011. Not long ago, Brazil was the envy of recession-encumbered Europe and the United States, with an annual growth rate of 7.5 percent in 2010 and nearly full employment. But falling commodity prices and dampening domestic consumer demand have upended the economy, which barely expanded in 2014 and is expected to recede this year.

Business investment falls again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Purchases of long-lasting manufactured goods in March jumped by the largest amount in eight months, but a closer look at the details reveals that businesses kept pruning their investment plans in the face of a softening U.S. economy.

Orders to factories for durable goods rebounded 4 percent in March after a 1.4 percent decline in February, the Commerce Department reported Friday. The result was led by a big jump in demand for commercial aircraft. Outside of the transportation category, however, orders fell for a sixth straight month.

Falling prices, cool interest in Kurdish oil

IRBIL, Iraq (AP) — The hall for the Irbil Oil and Gas Exhibition this week was crowded with company displays, executives and investors. But conspicuously absent were international oil giants like Shell, Exxon-Mobil and Chevron that only a year ago were eager to exploit the promising reserves of Iraq's autonomous Kurdish region.

The threat of Islamic State group militants, who have swept across much of northern Iraq and are battling Kurdish forces only miles away from the Kurdish capital, Irbil, has dampened international interest. The security threat only increases oil companies' doubts, on top of falling oil prices and disputes between the Kurds and the Iraqi central government in Baghdad.

Diet Pepsi dropping aspartame

NEW YORK (AP) — PepsiCo says it's dropping aspartame from Diet Pepsi in response to customer worries and replacing it with sucralose, another artificial sweetener commonly known as Splenda.

The decision to swap sweeteners comes as Americans keep turning away from popular diet sodas. Rival Coca-Cola said this week that sales volume for Diet Coke, which also uses aspartame, fell 5 percent in North America in the first three months of the year.

Atlanta-based Coca-Cola said in a statement that it has no plans to change the sweetener in Diet Coke, which is the country's top-selling diet cola.

Barra compensation triples to $15.8M

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors CEO Mary Barra's compensation more than tripled in 2014 to $15.8 million in her tumultuous first year in the automaker's top job.

Barra and other top executives got only 74 percent of the cash incentives they could have received, because GM fell short of goals set by the board. But her stock awards more than doubled from 2013 when she was senior vice president of for product development and purchasing.

Mylan makes official bid for Perrigo

NEW YORK (AP) — Generic drugmaker Mylan is making official its offer for over-the-counter medicines maker Perrigo as it remains at the center of a three-way battle: Mylan wants to buy Perrigo, while a larger rival wants to buy Mylan.

Perrigo has already rejected Mylan's offer and reiterated Friday it feels the bid, worth more than $30 billion, is too low. Israeli drugmaker Teva, meanwhile, said Friday it is committed to acquiring Mylan, which in turn has expressed skepticism about Teva's plan. Teva is offering $40.1 billion for Mylan.

Shareholders: Elaine Wynn off board

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Elaine Wynn failed Friday to win reelection to the board of Wynn Resort Ltd. — the casino-hotel company she co-founded with ex-husband Steve Wynn — a development that ended a feud over the issue.

Shareholders who had to decide between re-electing Elaine Wynn or agreeing with a company recommendation to re-elect two other sitting board members ultimately sided with the company.

Comcast drops Time Warner Cable bid after pushback

NEW YORK (AP) — What killed Comcast's $45 billion bid for Time Warner Cable? Regulators' desire to protect the Internet video industry that is reshaping TV.

A combination of the No. 1 and No. 2 U.S. cable companies would have put nearly 30 percent of TV and about 55 percent of broadband subscribers under one roof, along with NBCUniversal, giving the resulting behemoth unprecedented power over what Americans watch and download.

Competitors, consumer groups, and politicians have criticized the deal, saying it would lead to higher prices and less choice.

"The proposed merger would have posed an unacceptable risk to competition and innovation, including to the ability of online video providers to reach and serve consumers," Federal Communications Commission Chairman Tom Wheeler said in a written statement.

The Justice Department said that Comcast dropped its bid because of regulators' concerns that the Philadelphia-based cable giant would become an "unavoidable gatekeeper" for Internet services.

One of the concerns consumer advocates and competitors had with the Comcast deal was that it could undermine the streaming video industry that is reshaping TV. Comcast could, for example, require onerous payments from new online-only video providers for connecting to its network. Dish, the satellite TV company behind the new Web video service Sling TV, and Netflix opposed the deal.

"It goes to show you how important broadband is," said Amy Yong, a Macquarie analyst.

Regulators have taken other steps that signal how important they consider Internet access. The Federal Communications Commission in February released new "Net Neutrality" rules meant to keep broadband providers from charging Internet companies for "fast lane" access or favoring some content. The broadband industry has sued to stop the rules.

"We have to live with it, and respect that, and move on," Comcast chairman and CEO Brian Roberts said in an interview on CNBC, referring to the government's opposition to the deal. "We always structured this deal in a way that would enable us to walk away."

Comcast doesn't owe Time Warner Cable a breakup fee because the deal didn't work out.

With the deal between Comcast Corp. and Time Warner Cable Inc. called off, a transaction with Charter Communications Inc. aimed at smoothing the way for regulatory approval also falls apart.

Even with the Comcast and Time Warner Cable deal being nixed, cable companies are likely to keep combining as costs rise for the shows, sports and movies they pipe to subscribers and video customers decrease.

Many analysts expect that Charter Communications could resurrect its own effort to acquire Time Warner Cable.

A combined Charter and Time Warner Cable would have 15 million video customers and 16.5 million Internet customers. That's still smaller than Comcast alone, which has 22.4 million video subscribers and 22 million Internet customers.

And the $48.5 billion combination of DirecTV and AT&T is still expected to go through.

Shares of Time Warner Cable Inc. rose $2.74 to $151.50 in morning trading while Comcast shares slipped 8 cents to $59.18.

Winona United Methodist Church launches Bible campaign

WINONA — The Winona United Methodist Church (WMC) is launching a groundbreaking Bible reading campaign, joining thousands nationwide participating in "The Story."

"The Bible is central to our faith," said Pastor Mary Owen of Winona UMC, "but many people are intimidated by its scope and size. 'The Story' gives us a way to journey from Genesis to Revelation together in 31 weeks so everyone understands God's story and how their story intersects with it."

The church is hoping to reverse this trend, starting with its own congregation. Pastor Owen believes that 'The Story,' a Zondervan best-seller, is the right tool to increase Biblical literacy, helping readers understand God's story from Genesis to Revelation and how their own stories intersect with God's. Consisting of 31 chapters of carefully-selected scriptures sequenced in chronological order, The Story presents the word of God in an engaging format, reading like a novel.

"I want the people in my congregation, as well as the Winona community, to realize the incredible love God has for them and how their story is found in His story," said Pastor Owen.

The Story Church Campaign is a unique program providing up to 31 weeks of curriculum for children, teen and adult Sunday school and up to 31 weeks of corresponding sermons. When accompanied by reading through the five age-related books (The Story, The Story: Teen Edition, The Story for Kids, The Story for Children, and The Story for Little Ones), the entire church can be literally on the same page for 31 weeks. Winona UMC plans to begin the experience on May 10.

With thousands of participating churches nationwide, "The Story" is becoming a movement that is bringing wide-ranging benefits to local churches. Many have reported increased community outreach, increased Biblical literacy, congregational growth and a greater understanding of how God's story reveals the reasons for the things that happen in man's story.

The public is invited to Sunday services at 10 a.m., with Sunday school at 9 a.m. for all ages. For more information visit winonaumc.org or thestory.com.

Mexico officials investigate case of girl wrongly sent to US

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Prosecutors have launched an investigation of possible criminal conduct in the case of a 14-year-old girl mistakenly sent to the United States to live with a woman who claimed to be her mother, authorities said Friday.

Alondra Luna Nunez was returned to her family in Mexico on Wednesday after DNA testing in the United States showed she was not the long-missing daughter of Houston resident Dorotea Garcia.

The Prosecutor's Office in the southwestern state of Michoacan said in a statement that it is looking into the case involving a civil court judge in Los Reyes, including media reports and videos that "suggest probable acts against the child's best interests and could constitute an illegal action."

Video footage of Alondra being taken screaming by police circulated widely and attracted national and international attention to the case.

Alondra had asked for DNA tests in Mexico before she was sent to the United States, and her parents presented more than a dozen documents including her baptismal records, family photographs and a copy of her birth certificate.

But Judge Cinthia Elodia Mercado ruled Alondra was in fact Alondra Diaz Garcia, who was taken from Texas by her father in 2007. The other girl remains missing and the father's whereabouts are also unknown.

Elodia Mercado said this week that it was not within her authority to order DNA testing, and she was obligated to ensure Mexico followed international conventions on child abductions.

"We, as judges, are only responsible to resolve the case with respect to recovering the minor," she said. "We don't do investigations or make inquiries."

After the ruling, Alondra traveled by bus with Garcia to the U.S. border, crossing at Laredo, Texas. Alondra was granted entry based on the birth certificate of Garcia's daughter and the court order, according to Mexico's Foreign Ministry.

This week, when asked if she harbored any anger about the forced weeklong separation from her family, Alondra, singled out the judge. "I'm angry only at her, because it was her who caused all this," Alondra told The Associated Press. "Nobody but her is guilty. At least that's what I think."

Woman pleads guilty to theft of Girl Scout funds

By TOM GIAMBRONI
Staff Writer

LISBON — A Salineville-area woman pleaded guilty to using a Girl Scouts of America bank card to withdraw $15,176 from the organization's account to purchase a puppy, among other things.

Denise D. Everhart, 37, of Monroeville Heights, is scheduled to be sentenced on July 2 after pleading guilty this week in Columbiana County Common Pleas Court to theft and misuse of a credit card.

Everhart, who was affiliated with the Girl Scouts Salineville Troop 80050, was questioned by police on Aug. 9 about the organization's bank card being used to make fraudulent withdrawals. Video surveillance from a local bank's ATM showed the persons responsible were Everhart and co-defendant

Timothy McCourt, 32, North Street, Salineville, who is scheduled to go on trial May 18 for theft and misuse of a credit card.

The pair were alleged to have made 54 bank transactions totaling $15,176, and the indictment stated the crimes occurred between March 2014 and Aug. 8. Police said Everhart used the money to pay personal expenses and purchase items, such as cigarettes, gas and the a puppy.

Another co-defendant, Angel D. Robertson, 34, East Main Street, Salineville, pleaded no contest to receiving stolen property, a misdemeanor, for taking money, gifts and food purchased by McCourt, using the stolen money. She was placed on probation and fined $200.

In other court action, Benjamin

J. Potts, 28, Randel Road, Hanoverton was sentenced to three years in prison by Judge Scott Washam after previously pleading guilty to illegal manufacturing drugs and possession materials used to manufacture illegal drugs.

The charges are the result of a county drug task force raid at his home on Nov. 12. According to court records, Potts was found with meth and Pseudoephedrine, lithium batteries, butane fuel and refrigerant gel, which are used to manufacture meth.

When given the opportunity to address Washam before being sentenced, a tearful Potts apologized to his relatives present in the courtroom. He told the judge he intends to come back from his stint in prison a better person who is no longer a drug addict.

first reading to legislation accepting money from Columbiana County Commissioners for participation on the task force.

As they have in prior years, commissioners are offering $20,000 for an officer assigned to the force full-time.

"We have on staff, paid for by the county, a guy who is able to mitigate and clean up meth labs. We have it in house. I am always a firm believer that if you can have it in house, especially at no cost to us, that is a great thing to have," Gladis said of participation on the task force.

Gladis also encouraged council to pass the resolution supporting the county's 911 system upgrade to Next Generation.

"Our current equipment is 10 years old, well beyond its lifecycle. If we wait, state law begins to reduce the number of public safety answering points. If we wait, we may not all get upgraded. Now is the time to support this," he said.

The upgrade will allow the 911 system to receive text messages and videos from callers.

Council passed the resolution as an emergency.

First Presbyterian Church to mark Earth Day at service

SALEM — The First Presbyterian Church will celebrate Earth Day with songs and scripture and recycling demonstrations at the 10:30 a.m. service on Sunday. The Rev. Meta Cramer will speak on "Taking Charge, Taking Care." Music will feature hymns to honor the Earth. The Carillon Ringers led by Cheryl McDevitt will perform and Cheryl and Gary Kekel will sing "Morning Has Broken."

A huge world painted on cardboard donated by Phoenix Corrugated Container of Salem has been surrounded with paper cut-out hands made by the youth groups of the church. The art work will be featured at the front of the church for the service.

Children will be treated to a special Earth Day sermon and then walk around the sanctuary to gather trash placed by the event's organizers. They will learn what is recyclable or reusable or what truly should be thrown in the trash.

The Recycling Committee at First Presbyterian has achieved some lofty goals in the few months they have been organized. The group lead by Carol Ricciardi strives to raise consciousness about the need to conserve our resources by recycling, renewing and reusing what we have.

Following this Sunday's service, church volunteers will canvas the neighborhood surrounding the church to collect trash.

The community is invited to attend the 10:30 service and all are encouraged to wear bright colorful clothing for the celebration. For more information call the church office at 330-337-9555. This year's Earth Day was April 22.

RULES

downtown area.

She did say she did more research into the proposal, but would like to know how they're going to implement their ideas.

In other business, the Rules & Ordinances Committee agreed to recommend changing council rules regarding notification of council members of special meetings so that notices can be sent via email or phone with council members required to respond. If no response is received, then the notices will be hand-delivered by the police department, but only if the other two methods have failed.

Dickey explained that rules now require the police department to hand-deliver the notice of special meetings to council members. She said that's a waste of the police department's time and sometimes it can be late at night. She said everybody has email.

Suggestions were also made regarding posting of upcoming meetings and ordinances on the city's website or Facebook page and maybe posting them on a television screen during council meetings so people understand what's being acted upon.

Sometimes even the council members don't get copies of ordinances until the day of the meeting or right before the meeting, which Drummond said would have to be discussed with the law director.

Golden Triangle works to bring tours to county

SALEM — For nearly six years, the volunteer organization, The Golden Triangle of Columbiana County, has exposed the hidden gems of Columbiana, Mahoning and Stark counties to hundreds of hundreds of tour busses from as far away as Illinois and New York. The volunteer group met recently in Salem with representatives from its participating communities attending. The towns of Salem, Lisbon and Hanoverton comprise the triangle. Conveniently located just 10 miles from one another, the three communities provide a refreshing change from the usual. Each town of the triangle offers unique and eye-appealing attractions for today's savvy travelers.

"The Triangle" offers stops at attraction in almost every nook and cranny in Columbiana County. It offers stops in East Liverpool, Leetonia, Columbiana, Rogers, Elkton, Rogers and Guilford Lake besides the key towns of Hanoverton, Lisbon and Salem. The triangle offers out of county stops in Alliance, Massillon, Canton, Canfield, Youngstown and more.

If your business or organization would like to be exposed to new customers and make a few more dollars contact the Golden Triangle's tour coordinator at confaulki@verizon.net (columbianatriangle.com).

SCF Scholarship applications taken

SALEM — Applications for Salem Community Foundation (SCF) Scholarships for current college students are now available for funds to be awarded for the fall 2015 term. The application may be downloaded at salemcommunityfoundation.org. All applications must be received by June 10.

Students must have a 2.5 cumulative grade point average, a minimum class load of six semester hours, and be a resident of Salem city or Perry Township.

Consideration will be given to students on the basis of class level (senior, junior and sophomore) and financial need. The scholarship committee under guidelines established by the SCF will determine scholarship amounts.

SCF's scholarship program began in 1991 to assist students whose initial scholarship funds following high school graduation have been discontinued. Thirteen principal funds within the foundation were consolidated according to the wishes of their donors to form the SCF Scholarship Fund.

The SCF Scholarship Fund has five scholarship funds established in memory of loved ones and are named after their benefactors. Scholarship dollars are granted annually through the following funds: Sam and Bernice Keener Fund established in 1991, Avanelle E. Beck Scholarship Fund established in 1992, Salem Label/Menegos Fund established in 1994, Hart/Litty Scholarship Fund (named for John C. Litty Sr., John C. Litty Jr. and Edward J. (Ted) Hart) established in 2001, and Bruce P. and Eileen J. Gordon Scholarship Fund established in 2010. The Lyle and Mary Biehler Scholarship Fund established in 1993 and Betty R. Ulicny Scholarship Fund established in 1999 are two scholarship funds established at the SCF through estates. Numerous contributions over the years have increased the growth of the scholarship dollars made possible to our area students. Earnings from these funds are distributed annually.

In 2014, 20 local college students received $20,250 in scholarship awards. This annual program continues the foundation's tradition of giving and supporting the local community.

Ministerial Scholarship offers aid through SCF

SALEM — In 2008, a Ministerial Scholarship Fund was established with the Salem Community Foundation (SCF). The fund provides scholarship aid to assist people who will spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ. This scholarship is extended to individuals who wish to enter the fields of the ministry, Christian education, youth ministry, or a closely related field.

The anonymous donor of the Ministerial Scholarship recognizes the financial impact of a career in the ministry. It is the wish of the donor to support those individuals who display a sincere desire to dedicate their life to a career path as defined by the guidelines of the scholarship.

The Ministerial Scholarship is valid at undergraduate and graduate schools as well as Bible colleges. Applicants must submit indication of financial need, academic performance, reference letters, and a personal statement. The Ministerial Scholarship does not discriminate on the basis of religious denomination, age, sex, gender, or geography.

The Ministerial Scholarship application and guidelines are now available at salemcommunityfoundation.org and also by calling the foundation office week-day mornings at 330-332-4021. All applications must be received by June 10 for scholarships to be reviewed. Only completed applications will be considered.

Warriors, Eagles race to first, Quakers finish second

SALEM — West Branch and United found success during Friday's quad meet at Reilly Stadium which also included Salem and South Range.

West Branch won the boys meet, led by two-time winner Zach Robbins in the long jump and high jump. Salem finished second with victories from Cameron Turney (200-meter dash, 400 dash). United finished third as Lucas Cooper (discus, shot put) won twice. South Range finished fourth.

Salem's Marissa Swindell gave the Quakers three victories (100 dash, 200 dash, 400 dash), but United edged the Quakers by five points to win the girls meet. Angela Judy (100 hurdles) and Brynn Hofmeister (3200 run) picked up victories for United. West Branch finished third, and South Range was fourth.

Rebels take down Blue Devils

By BILL DRAGOMIR

COLUMBIANA — The Crestview Rebels improved to 9-1 with a dominating 5-0 softball triumph over the Lisbon Blue Devils Friday. The Blue Devils dropped to 8-4.

The Rebels plated three runs in the first inning which were all they needed to back the two-hit, four strikeout pitching of Autumn Lindsey.

"Everybody did their job tonight and did it well," said Rebel head coach Clarence Sickelsmith. "Lisbon is a good team. We just dominated and took what we had to do on their mistakes."

Two of the five Blue Devil miscues came in the three-run first frame making it extremely difficult to catch up. The two hits produced the only baserunners for Lisbon on the night.

"She (Lindsey) pitched a really good game," Blue Devil head Dave Crismon said. "She was moving the ball around nice, but she was coming in and we didn't adjust. It's not like we don't know to pull your hands in and get out on the ball and get the barrel out. We just kind of let her do that. If my calculations are correct they had one earned run all day."

Lindsey Balmenti paced the Rebel offense with a perfect four-for-four including a double and two runs scored. Devyn Flory and Kyrston Rose each had one single for the Blue Devils.

"I'm pretty happy that I had the team behind me because these past two games we've been in a slump," Lindsey said. "We came out tonight and did good. We could have had a few more hits, but five (runs) is good enough to

Clippers pound Bulldogs, remain unbeaten

By STEVE RAPPACH

EAST PALESTINE — Just as alive as the unbeaten streak was for the Columbiana softball team, so were the bats on Friday against East Palestine.

Highlighted by a two-run home run by junior Haley Tohm along with a slew of hits, the Clippers were off to an early commanding lead and never looked back as they soundly defeated the Bulldogs, 17-1, in five innings.

"I think, right now, we're just a close team, and we've played together for so long that we can just read what we're going to do," Tohm said. "I think we're going to have the real test later on this season when we face tougher teams coming up here."

The Clippers improve their record to 14-0 overall. East Palestine falls to 4-7.

For senior Baylie Mook it has been a season to savor.

"It's pretty important," Mook said. "I don't think I've ever been on an undefeated team this long, so we're going to try to keep working as hard as we can to keep our record up."

Mook noted that compared to last season, when the Clippers finished 22-5, the team didn't lose much ground and have continued to work on what hurt them last year.

"I don't think we did anything much differently because we didn't lose a lot of people," Mook said. "We just upped our practice. We just started working on things that we were weak on last year."

Just how much longer the streak will continue remains to be seen. The Clippers will be at Leetonia Monday for an Inter-Tri County League White Division game.

"I don't think it'll be tough because we work hard, we work as a team," Mook said. "Pretty much it's a team effort regardless of what we're doing, so if we're working as a team there should be no problem."

As for Friday, there was no problem for the Clippers as senior Navi Kaur hit a single RBI to put the Clippers on the board, while Mook had an RBI single to put the Clippers ahead 5-0.

Then Tohm helped the Clippers pad the lead with a two-run home run in the second inning to take a 12-0 lead. Since the softball field at East Palestine City Park doesn't have an outfield fence, Tohm noted it was all about speed as she rounded the bases.

"Just running as fast as I can because there is no fence here, so it's just go and hope for the best," Tohm said. "I think at that point you still got to work for it because there's just no telling when a team's going to come back."

"Tohm's was like a laser," Columbiana coach Jerry Beltempo said. "I wanted to be able to get her around and get a home run out of it, but this is a hitter's field."

Kaur overall recorded three singles, while Mook had three RBIs and two singles.

Meanwhile, the Bulldogs struggled on defense and never was able to find an answer for the power hitting of the Clippers.

The Bulldogs managed to avoid being shut out in the third inning thanks to a RBI single from Sadie Walker, which allowed Jo-

West Branch slowed down by Ravenna

RAVENNA — The Ravenna Ravens scored five runs in the first two innings and held on to down the West Branch Warriors 7-3 in baseball action Friday.

Kip DeShields had a double and RBI and a run scored, and Jerian Thomas had a double in three at-bats and scored two runs for the Warriors. Shane Polidora led the Ravens with two hits including a triple in four at-bats with a run batted in and a run scored.

The loss dropped the Warriors to 10-5 and 7-1 in the Northeast Buckeye Conference. The Ravens are now 4-4. The Warriors host Lakeview in a double-header today.
