Council OKs raises for salaried workers

By KEVIN HOWELL
Staff Writer

Village Council Wednesday night approved raises for salaried employees, including police chief John Soldano and Zoning Inspector John Rydarowicz, although council members Kevin Siembida and Sue Buchanan abstained from voting.

After several months of discussion, council passed three new pay ordinances— for the police department hourly, village hourly and village salaried employees— and revoked the pay ordinance approved in November that granted a 2 percent increase for all hourly employees. All previous raises remain the same with the exception of a police sergeant's, whose new wage reflects the difference in insurance through the Affordable Care Act.

The salaried pay ordinance includes raises for all employees not already addressed under new contracts this year. Siembida had on several occasions said he wanted the raises for salaried employees to be based on merit, thus there was no common increase granted to each worker.

The increases for department heads, with their new salary, are as follows: Randy Chismar, fiscal officer, $4,600, $33,000; Butch Donnelly, superintendent of utilities, $2,000, $54,500; Larry Hephner Jr., $475, $7,000; Kevin Cibula, EMS coordinator, $500, $3,500;

Back-to-back championships?

Best buddies know how to really toe the Elks' free throw line

By J.D. CREER
Managing editor

Being best friends and all since they were 5-year-olds, Casey Johnson and Kyla Jamison likely share secrets and chuckles. Maybe a favorite song or movie. Perhaps a peek at each other's homework answers once in awhile. Or some gab about an especially cute boy in class.

They certainly carry a like passion for basketball and shooting — and making — free throws.

Specifically, the now 12-year-olds have something else in common: excelling in the Elks Hoop Shoot competition. Pun forgiven, they really know how to toe the free throw line.

Starting locally at the Salem shoot, Kyla last year progressed to the national level where she became overall champion in the 10-11 year olds division. She actually was the best free throw shooter period. Her accuracy was the best for any age group from local to district to state to regional to national where she calmly hit 24 of 25 shots.

Best friends Kyla Jamison, left, and Casey Johnson are shown with the awards for excelling in the Elks Hoop Shoot. Kyla won the national championship for 10-11 years old last year. Casey will compete Saturday in Indiana in regional competition after recently winning the Ohio state championship for 12-13 years old. With a win there she will advance to the national championship. City bed tax?

City manager continues investigation of possible bed tax within city limits

By KATIE WHITE
Staff Writer

The idea of a bed tax in the city has not gone away, City Manager Lance Willard said this week.

Willard said he is continuing to look into the tax and will be contacting David Barbee, co-chair of the Columbiana Chamber of Commerce Business Development Committee.

It was Barbee who floated the idea of a tax to the city in February of last year, after chamber members first discussed the idea with the tourism bureau.

The bureau is a 501(c)3 non-profit originally established by the chamber in 2010, but is now its own entity. The two organizations still work closely together.

According to Barbee and the chamber's recommendations from last year, the tax

Salem beautification program offering free paint

SALEM — Preservationists trying to “restore the glory” to historic downtown Salem canvassed businesses Thursday to offer them an incentive: free paint through Operation Paintbrush.

“I think it's going to be very popular,” Salem Preservation member Karen Carter said.

Carter and Preservation President David Schwartz visited businesses on East State Street from Lincoln Avenue to Ellsworth Avenue and on South Broadway from State to Pershing Street to hand out informational flyers and applications.

“We hit every business,” she said.

For Carter, it was a fun afternoon because they were offering something to the store owners and managers instead of trying to get something from them. She said some of the expressions of the people she encountered changed when she told them why she was there.

“There were a lot that were really excited,” she said.

The Salem Area Chamber of Commerce

initiated a similar project a couple years ago known as Paint the Town, but in that case, business owners received a discount on paint.

According to Carter, Salem Preservation was trying to think of a way to help downtown businesses and came up with Operation Paintbrush, which officially kicks off in May.

“We love the downtown. That's what we're all about — preserving,” she said.

Businesses must apply to be part of the project, with a total of $1,500 set aside for 2015. Salem Preservation will go by the earliest postmark on applications received to select businesses. Each selected business will have a maximum paint allowance of up to $500, with the hope that at least three businesses can be helped or maybe more if not as much paint is needed at a location.

The paint is for businesses only and only for the exterior, not the interior. The front facade of the building must be part of the painting. The

Lisbon council looking at chip sealing in place of blacktop

By TOM GIAMBRONI
Staff Writer

LISBON — Last year, village council put all of its money into repairing streets using blacktop.

This year, it may turn to chip sealing instead as a cheaper alternative to resurface more streets.

The suggestion was made at this week's council meeting by Bill Catlett, saying chip sealing has proven to be a reliable alternative for resurfacing county and township roads.

“It's a lot more economical than blacktop or anything else,” he said. “You can get rid of a lot of potholes that way.”

Later in the meeting, street supervisor Jim Oliver said he already planned to participate this year in the annual chip sealing program through the county engineer's office. Under the program, participating communities purchase the chip sealing material and the engineer's office applies it for free.

Oliver is scheduled to meet next week with the engineer's office and asked to meet with the council street committee to go over which streets they want resurfaced.

If streets were resurfaced with chip sealing instead of blacktop, this would be departure from past practice. Village fiscal officer Tracey Wanner said chip sealing has traditionally been reserved for alleys, and the only street to be resurfaced using chip sealing during her 15 years on the job was Saltwell Road.

But desperate times call for desperate measures. With a flat budget that contains no additional funding for the street department, the village is faced with task of how best to spend its limited resources.

Last year, council decided against participating in the chip sealing program, choosing instead to spend

Esterly Dr. RR crossing closure talks begin again

By LARRY SHIELDS
Staff Writer

Norfolk Southern Railroad petitioned the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio on March 12 to close the Esterly Drive railroad crossing.

Trustee Chairman Bob Hum read part of the five-page filing as an informational item during Thursday's meeting, noting the township had not been formally advised.

Eleven months ago, trustees voted

► FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP

2-1 not to close the crossing after a year of study and discussions. Hum and Trustee Carl Garwood voted not to close it while Trustee Barry Miner voted to close it.

The resolution to close it included incentive money from the Ohio Rail Development Commission and the closing initiative was begun to accommodate a closed-loop rail inside the Buckeye Realty Transfer facility where the company operates a full-service transloading station that serves the oil and gas industry.

Closing the crossing was backed by the Columbiana Area Chamber of Commerce along with the ORDC.

Buckeye Realty currently distributes fracking sand by the tank-load from the 91-acre facility.

It is also proposed to be a transfer point for products removed from oil and gas wells to be loaded from trucks onto railcars. Estimates of 100 trucks a day have been discussed.

The closed-loop rail would have made it possible for 100-car unit-trains to operate more efficiently and at less cost when moving fracking sand through the facility.

The Elks National Hoop Shoot championship is held at the Naismith (as in James, he of peach baskets and the inventor of the sport) Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. Springfield is regarded as the birthplace of basketball.

Now Casey is poised at giving a national championship try a shot. Or 25. She will compete in regional competition Saturday in Angola, Ind. After advancing out of Salem, Casey won the district competition in Ravenna, sinking all of her 25 shots. Then during recent state competition in Columbus, she hit 22 of 25 foul shots to become the Ohio champion in the 12-13 age division. Criteria is simple: The participant sinking the most of 25 free throws wins.

Hitting those 47 of 50 clutch free throws during district and state— a 94 percent accuracy — is remarkable. Consider that the best current free throw shooter in the NBA, Stephen Curry, is at just under 91 percent. Oh, and LeBron James is a 75 percent career free throw shooter. And Michael Jordan? Try 85 percent.

In Indiana, Casey will compete against a regional qualifier from the host state and another from Michigan. At nationals, there are 12 qualifiers competing per age group.

"With Kyla winning last year, it makes me more motivated to win," she said. "I want Salem to have back-to-back championships. I'm confident that I can do it."

Think of the odds of that happening. Then ponder that in winning last year, Kyla beat out 1.5 million — million! — the whole of Elks Hoop Shoot participants nationwide. Kyla did not compete this year. "I wanted to go out on top," she said. She did just that. Casey beat out over 10,000 girls from the local level onward in winning the state championship.

Casey is the daughter of Marion and Dennis Johnson. Kyla is the daughter of Kim and Kevin Jamison.

"Both of the girls have the work ethic," beamed Casey's mom. "I don't push. They push themselves. They are competitive but have such a respect for each other. They grew up liking basketball."

The best buddies are sixth-graders at Southeast School. They both have the smarts: straight As and members of the school's gifted program.

They actually met not on a basketball floor but in a swimming pool. They participated in the Piranha Aquatics program under Caroline McDermott at the Salem Community Center. "That provided the girls with four, five years of physical and mental discipline — all-around conditioning," Marion said.

When they are not practicing free throws, the girls are honing their overall skills as members of an elite AAU team called "Drills for Skills." The squad is headed by legendary Pennsylvania high school coach John Miller. His sons, Sean and Archie, are prominent college coaches — the former at Arizona and the latter at Dayton. He is also the cousin of Kentucky coach John Calipari whose unbeaten Wildcats are prohibitive favorites to win the March Madness championship. So, yeah, the girls are learning from someone who knows his way around a gym floor.

"You have to earn your way on that team," said Kyla's dad. "They are the only sixth-graders on the team."

The pals also teamed to help a travel team of Salem sixth-graders go 32-0 including a pair of satisfying wins over rival West Branch.

Casey and Kyla — who serve as ball girls for the Salem High School program — are quick to credit their coaches on that sixth-grade team including Steve Bailey, Rich Cochran, Rob Hutton and Kyla's dad for guiding them through an unbeaten season.

They were quick to praise another standout coming up through the Salem girls basketball ranks: Krista Barley who placed second in the 10-11 girls age group at the state competition.

Krista, the daughter of Diana and Rick Barley, sank 17 of 25 foul shots in finishing runner-up in Ohio. Her mom said her daughter plays travel basketball and soccer. "Sports are her life," she said. Krista gets some solid experience playing against the older kids at United Local where her mother serves as eighth-grade girls coach. She is an honor roll fifth-grader at Southeast School.

Casey and Kyla thanked Salem High head girls basketball coach Roger Zeigler for his encouragement including opening the gym for practice and lifting weights. Just think what he will have to work with down the line. Led by the likes of Kyla, Casey and Krista, the Salem fourth, fifth and sixth-grade travel teams went a combined 100-2.

That is called a having a feeder system firmly in place.

POLICE

— Police responded at 5:18 a.m. Thursday to the 2200 block of Goshen Road to assist Perry Township police with a domestic. A Salem officer stood by while the Perry officer conducted his investigation. A male from the residence was transported to Salem Regional Medical Center by EMT Ambulance.
— Loud persons were reported at 3:26 a.m. Thursday on Cedar Street, but officers found the area quiet.
— Angel Lake, 31, of 516 1/2 Bank St., was taken into custody on an active warrant from Ashtabula County for breaking and entering, theft, and criminal damage after police responded to her residence at 12:46 a.m. Thursday for an assault complaint. She reported she was assaulted on Tuesday by a male she was dating and on Thursday they had an argument. He left before officers arrived. She had a black eye and scratches. The matter will be sent to the prosecutor's office for review. While police were there, they discovered the warrant for her arrest. She was transported to the Columbiana County jail and placed on hold for Ashtabula County.
— Officers on patrol at 11:18 p.m. Wednesday were flagged down by a Perry Township police unit who said he was told by employees of a business in the 800 block of West State Street that there was a possible drunk driver in the parking lot. The vehicle had already driven away, but Perry Township police found the vehicle in the township.
— An officer at 10:55 p.m. Wednesday in the 900 block of East Sixth Street saw a vehicle stopped in the street with its four-way hazard lights activated and made contact with the driver. The driver was attempting to locate a nearby address, but was unable to see the house numbers.
— Police responded at 8:44 p.m. Wednesday to the 2500 block of Lexington Avenue for a landlord/tenant issue. A man who previously resided at an apartment in the 1500 block of South Lincoln Avenue was recently displaced due to a vehicle striking the building and was moved to a vacant apartment temporarily. He was told by management that he's now evicted and can't stay there. The female complainant and the man returned to the location and inquired about the eviction and the manager said she doesn't make the rules and the order came from someone with more authority above her. They said he had never been served with any sort of eviction notice. Officers explained the legal eviction procedure to the tenant and complainant and told them to go speak to the manager at the South Lincoln Avenue apartment complex. If the manager refuses to correct the problem, he was told to contact police to respond and explain the requirements for a legal eviction.
— An open door was reported on a closed business in the 100 block of Continental Drive at 6:59 p.m. Wednesday. Officers checked the business and found two employees inside. They forgot to close the door.
— Police were called to Reilly School at 3:59 p.m. Wednesday for a report of a child who was not picked up from school. Officers spoke to the juvenile and were able to make contact with the guardian, who picked the child up.
— A 15-year-old Salem girl was taken into custody for domestic violence and taken to the Tobin detention center after police responded to a domestic call in the 900 block of North Ellsworth Avenue at 2:37 p.m. Wednesday. The juvenile had fled the residence before police arrived. An adult female said her daughter struck her in the face four times, hit her in the arm and then punched her leg, with redness showing on her face and arm. The girl returned home while police were still there and was placed under arrest.
— Police responded at 1:32 p.m. Wednesday to the Walmart parking lot for a well-being check on a female reportedly slumped over her steering wheel. Officers made contact and she said she was tired from a trip. She did not need medical attention.

PERRY TOWNSHIP

— Police responded to a residence on Goshen Road at 5:09 a.m. Thursday for a man allegedly hallucinating. He was transported by EMT to Salem Regional Medical Center for evaluation. Police were assisted by a Salem police unit.
— A Chevy Blazer driven by Michael A. Jones, of Barberton, struck a deer on state Route 14 just west of the U.S. Route 62 interchange at 7:52 p.m. Wednesday. The Blazer went off the right side of the road and struck a drain grating before coming to rest on the shoulder of the road. The vehicle was driven from the scene after a flat tire was changed.
— Michael Hover Jr., 24, of Fair Avenue, Salem, was cited for driving under in-state drug suspension, fictitious plates, expired plates and no seat belt after a traffic stop in the 1300 block of West State Street at 12:41 p.m. Wednesday. He and his three female passengers requested to walk from the scene. The vehicle was towed.
— Township police responded to a possible accident with injuries on state Route 344 at Perry Grange Road at the request of the Ohio State Highway Patrol, which was tied up on another accident at 7:48 a.m. Wednesday. An officer assisted until the patrol unit arrived.

GOSHEN POLICE DISTRICT

— Scott Allen Randall, 39, Clermont, Fla., was operating a vehicle intoxicated, open container, left of center, failure to dim headlights and expired registration following a traffic stop on state Route 534 in Damascus at 2:16 a.m. Wednesday.

COLUMBIANA
— Jiang Ping Chen of Virginia was hauling for NYWP Enterprise LLP southwest on Lisbon Street at 9:27 a.m. Wednesday and struck the railroad underpass. He was cited for assured clear distance.
— Jeremy Martin, address not listed, reported at 4:55 p.m. Wednesday he was receiving harassing messages on Facebook.
— A Court Street woman reported at 8:54 p.m. Wednesday her dogs were growling and barking at the door and requested police check her property for a prowler. Police checked but found no one.

OUR SIDE

Arrest records must be public

There are places in Ohio where it is possible for police to arrest you — then refuse to let the local newspaper know you have been charged. State legislators or, if necessary, the state Supreme Court should change that.

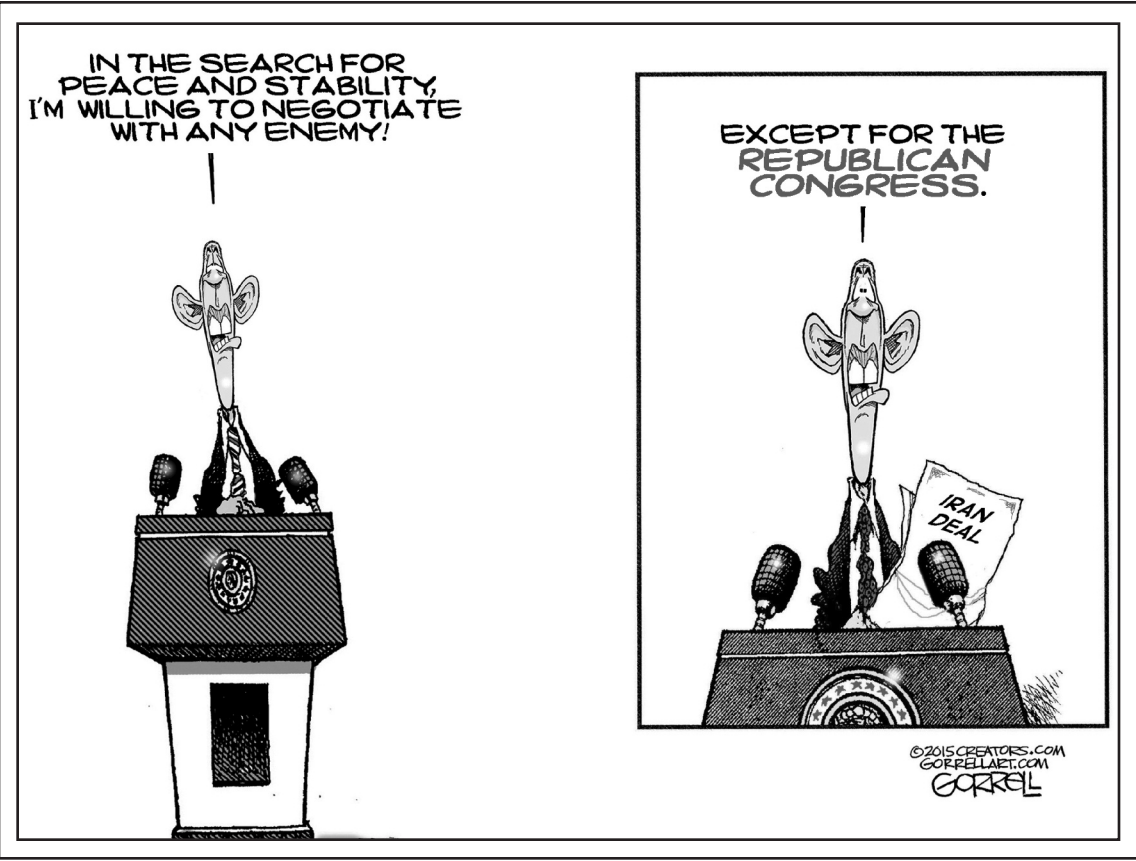

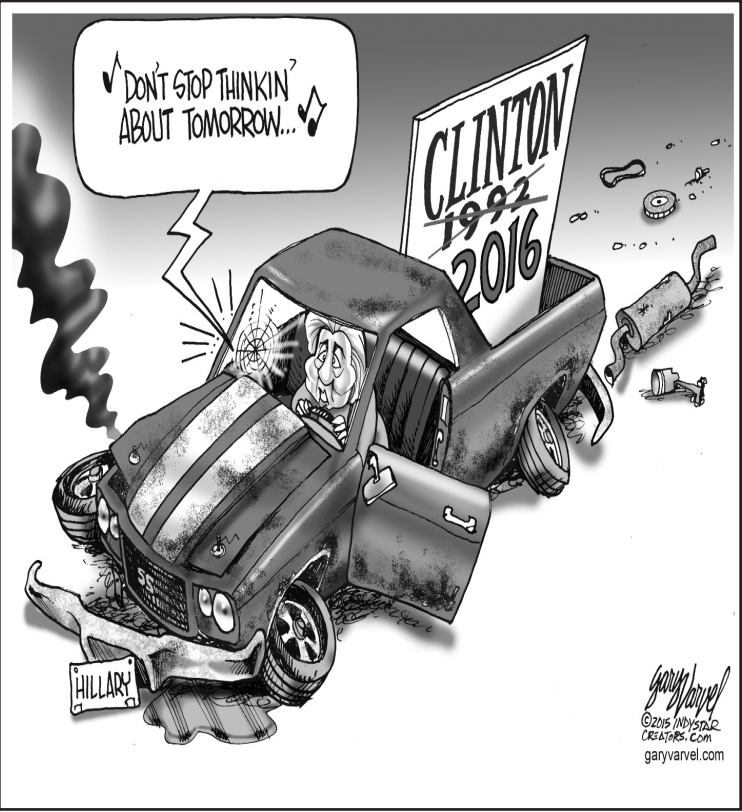

Public law enforcement agencies are required to make arrest records available to the press. But some police forces on private college campuses refuse to do so.

Otterbein University is one of them. There, a student involved in a news website asked for campus police arrest records. She was told that because Otterbein is private, she could not have them.

State Supreme Court justices have ruled against Otterbein in a lawsuit over the issue, refusing to dismiss it because the university is a private institution.

But clearly, as Attorney General Mike DeWine has noted, the Otterbein police force is not entirely private. It is regulated by the state. And, of course, it is empowered to make arrests.

Legislators should make it clear private police forces cannot keep arrests secret. That failing, the high court should make such a ruling.

Sunshine week should turn up heat

CAL THOMAS

This week is "Sunshine Week," a nonprofit, non-partisan national initiative launched by the American Society of News Editors to "promote a dialogue about the importance of open government and freedom of information." What better time to focus on a provision of the Dodd-Frank Act that allows the Financial Stability Oversight Council (FSOC) to designate companies it deems "too big to fail" as "systematically important financial institutions" (SIFIs) subject to enhanced supervision and regulation by the Federal Reserve.

It has done so with MetLife, the largest life insurance company in the U.S. MetLife rejects the SIFI designation, maintaining that it is a pillar of stability that, in the words of a source familiar with the controversy, "remained strong even during the 2008-09 financial meltdown — during which time it neither requested nor received any bailout money."

MetLife, unable to get any meaningful information from FSOC about why it received the designation and about the specific criteria used to determine it, has filed suit in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, "challenging a final decision by the Council to designate MetLife as a nonbank systemically important financial institution ('nonbank SIFI')." The company asks the court to set aside the designation and enjoin FSOC from taking any further action until standards for designating non-banking companies as SIFIs have been established and made public.

Unfortunately, the FSOC does not have to give meaningful reasons for its decisions. Dodd-Frank exempts FSOC from the Federal Advisory Committee Act, better known as the federal "open meetings" law, which is why the sun needs to shine in. The Senate Banking Committee is expected to review the FSOC's decision-making procedures as part of hearings scheduled for March 24, according to the Wall Street Journal, for the purpose of taking "a look at accountability and transparency" issues surrounding FSOC.

MetLife reports its financial health is good and that the FSOC "failed to understand, or give meaningful weight to, the comprehensive state insurance regulatory regime that supervises every aspect of MetLife's insurance business."

Journalists preoccupied with Hillary Clinton's secret email account and her reluctance to answer questions about it should also be concerned with the refusal of the FSOC to provide MetLife with information that caused the government agency to issue its order. MetLife says it has been denied its "due process" guaranteed by the Constitution.

The company is also raising separation of powers arguments because of the multiple roles FSOC members play, serving as rule-maker, investigator, prosecutor, judge and jury. The company brief states: "FSOC members perform a legislative function by adopting rules that purport to set the standards used to determine whether to designate companies (as SIFIs); an executive and prosecutorial function by proposing companies to be subject to the standards they have promulgated, investigating those companies, and building the case for designation; and an adjudicative function by issuing final decisions adopting their own proposed rationales. Not only is each of these functions performed by the same body, they are also performed by the same individuals, without even a separation into offices or divisions."

MetLife says all of its requests under the Freedom of Information Act have either been ignored or denied by FSOC. Under any definition of fairness, much less equality under the law, a company should have the right to know why it is being regulated by a federal agency. In this case, MetLife appealed the ruling, but the FSOC rejected the appeal.

After promising to be the most transparent administration in history, the Obama administration increasingly behaves like a dictatorship in matters it wants to keep from the prying eyes of its own citizens.

Next year will mark the 50th anniversary of the Freedom of Information Act, passed by Congress and signed by President Lyndon Johnson. Open government ensures that government better serves the people. Closed government leads to citizens becoming servants of the state.

Transparency laws mean nothing if they are not respected, obeyed and enforced. Federal agencies that ignore the law should be held accountable. The MetLife lawsuit offers one opportunity to put big government back on its side of the Constitution. The Senate Banking Committee's hearing on FSOC closed-door meetings offers another. "Sunshine Week" is a good time to turn up the heat.

OTHER VOICES

March 15
Express News, San Antonio, Texas, on Hillary Clinton:

It would be one thing if all of Hillary Clinton's now-controversial emails went something like the following: "Bill, I won't be home tonight. Am in Brussels. Don't forget to take out the garbage. Love, oooxxxx."

But if they read like: "Dear Prime Minister (redacted): About that (redacted), the president says (redacted). Let's (redacted). The (redacted) won't notice. Respectfully," this would be quite another thing.

Former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's press conference Tuesday was damage control to quell any squeamishness by voters who might recall that the would-be Democratic presidential nominee comes with some baggage included. But there are more than presidential ambitions at stake here. There is the principle that government should be as transparent as possible and that "trust me" is a poor substitute for full, verifiable disclosure.

Clinton failed to persuade on whether, in deleting 31,830 of her 62,320 emails, she is hiding official correspondence that might prove embarrassing or damaging to her presidential pursuits. The most intelligent thing she said was that it "might have been smarter" to use a State Department email account.

Yes. Even if federal law did not spell out the necessity of doing so during her tenure as secretary of state, the clear direction was to use government accounts, both for security reasons and for better access to public records.

But Clinton contends that none of the emails sent or received through her private account was classified. This is simply difficult to believe. And we are to trust also that all those discarded emails were personal in nature.

"For any government employee, it is that government employee's responsibility to determine what's personal and what's work related," Clinton said. "No one wants their personal emails made public, and I think people understand that and respect that privacy. I had no reason to save them."

In other words, trust me. Yes, she has turned over to the State Department some 55,000 of the remaining emails and the agency has said it will make these public in the coming months.

But there is still the matter of those discarded emails and the glaring lack of judgment she exhibited in not having a government account in the first place.

By using a private account, Clinton thwarted public records requests. And, even after the press conference, the jury is still out on whether this, rather than mere convenience, motivated the use of the private account.

Hillary & the media: Act 2016 roars off to early start

KATHLEEN PARKER

Amid all the verbiage about Hillary Clinton's email, one irrefutable fact emerges: Polls will drive us crazy before the Clintons do.

The latest CNN/ORC poll shows that a majority of Americans (51 percent) think the email controversy is "serious," yet 57 percent would be "proud" to have her as president. So what are we to conclude?

Nothing.

As former Texas Gov. Rick Perry commented recently: "I was a front-runner. ... Three of the most glorious hours of my life."

So there's that.

Otherwise, we are left to our own gleanings and the question that is nectar to reporters: What is Hillary hiding and why did she create this mess?

Another apt quote springs to mind: "Follow me around. I don't care," said the 1988 Democratic presidential front-runner Gary Hart to then-New York Times reporter E.J. Dionne. "I'm serious. If anybody wants to put a tail on me, go ahead."

And then there he was soon thereafter on front pages smiling and resplendent with an attractive Donna Rice sitting sidesaddle on his lap aboard a boat deliciously named "Monkey Business."

This was the beginning of the end of privacy for candidates and the laissez-faire attitude that the media historically had toward public figures' personal lives. For the record, Hart's taunt wasn't really what led to his exposure. The Miami Herald had already been stalking Hart before publication of Dionne's story, but the legendary quotes justified the Herald's foray into sensation and, perhaps, assuaged editors' guilt over going tabloid.

Hart's challenge and immediate political collapse forever changed journalism, an observation appreciated by none more than Bill and Hillary Clinton, who captured the White House just four years later.

The media and politicos suddenly became symbiotic characters in a drama that often centers not on public works but on scandal. Sex adds spice, but secrecy is the plot around which all revolves. The media aren't out to get anyone necessarily, but the best reporters will keep digging until they find gold. The pursuit of truth has never been so scintillating nor so richly rewarded in the currency of green rooms.

Hillary, by using her personal email account for business and then failing to turn over her records to the State Department long after she left office — and shortly after the House select committee on Benghazi asked for more emails than had been provided previously — may as well have said, "Catch me if you can."

Is Hillary hiding gold on her private server? Is there scandal lurking in those deleted emails? Why didn't she simply follow the protocol?

We are forced by her reticence, her avoidance, her skimpy responses — her unforced error — to assume that there must be something she doesn't want the world to know. But what?

The immediate assumption has been that some emails deleted as personal must pertain to the attacks on Benghazi. But a more plausible theory advanced by National Journal's Ron Fournier, with the sort of caffeinated certitude that suggests an excellent source, is that she doesn't want people to see favors exchanged for donations to the Bill, Hillary & Chelsea Clinton Foundation.

Even though the foundation largely stopped taking money from foreign governments while Hillary was secretary of state, donations were still accepted from individuals and companies. One was a $2 million pledge from Chinese billionaire-philanthropist Wang Wenliang, a delegate to China's parliament and owner of Rilin Enterprises, a construction conglomerate that has lobbied Congress and the State Department.

We may not see a viral video of Wang using Lincoln's bed as a trampoline should the Clintons reclaim the White House. But there can be little doubt that when individuals and institutions give money to the foundation, their motives aren't strictly altruistic. They're of course currying favor and quite possibly a future one.

The rub for anyone who had hoped for more from Hillary-the-Inevitable is that none of this would have happened had she simply used the government-issued phone (or server) for state business and used her personal account for everything else. No scandal, no media scramble, no congressional probes. The foundation and her personal life would have been off-limits. Case closed.

Instead, the media and Hillary are locked once again into a folie a deux (shared madness). It's a familiar template, which, though we pretend to loathe the reiteration, lends its own strange comfort. You almost wonder whether Hillary, ever the victim, couldn't resist placing herself in troubled waters yet again.

Hating the media — perhaps Hillary's fatal flaw — is the love affair she just can't quit.

TAX FROM 1A

would assess a percentage fee for overnight hotel guests, and the city would share those tax revenues with the tourism bureau, creating a link between development and reinvestment in the community.

Revenue to the city would go into the general fund while the bureau could expand promotions in the area. There is currently no bed tax for Columbiana County, although some municipalities have their own, including Lisbon, Salem, East Liverpool, St. Clair and Elkrun townships.

Willard said he is specifically looking into how a local 6 percent tax would affect those in the city already being taxed by Mahoning County, which has a countywide 3 percent bed tax.

Tourism Bureau President Larry Deidrick recently went before council to say that while the non-profit is doing well, funding is needed.

The bureau recently hired a new executive director and Deidrick said her “primary goal” has been to find funding.

The bureau’s other goal is promoting its mission, which is educating the public about the history of the city and its impact on Columbiana today.

“Our goal is to promote everything in Columbiana. When we started this five years ago, that was our goal. Not only in what the tourism bureau does, but everything, and make this a destination point,” he said.

The bureau is responsible for annual events such as Springtime in Columbiana, the Columbiana Wine Festival, Harvey S. Firestone Festival of the Arts and the Joy of Christmas drive-through light show. Deidrick said the events bring in revenue for the bureau, but it cannot survive on events.

“Now that we are a charitable organization we are looking for any funds we can get. We are working hard to promote Columbiana as a destination place,” he said.

The bureau has also been working on a new website, which it will unveil sometime next week. The site will also be linked to the city’s new website, columbianaohio.gov.

Deidrick said the site will show “every event possible that is happening in Columbiana.”

Additional information is also available on the organization’s Facebook page, and board meetings are held at 7 p.m. the first Wednesday of each month at the Columbiana Diner on South Main Street.

Willard said the bureau has already advised him it would support a bed tax even if it could not receive a share of the revenue.

RAISES FROM 1A

Rydarowicz, $525, $11,025; Soldano, $500, $55,300.

Council had previously granted a $5,000 raise to Village Administrator Gary Phillips in January, bringing his salary up to $45,900. There were no raises granted to elected officials.

Council approved all three ordinances as emergencies so the hourly increase can take effect March 23 and salaried on April 1. The ordinances for hourly employees were approved unanimously while Buchanan and Siembida abstained from the salary one, which council discussed in executive session after Rydarowicz confronted council about no one requesting his job responsibilities for a possible raise.

Council also promoted Keith Barkley to full-time working foreman and changed Lee Sayers classification to equipment operator 2. Both are employees in the utilities department.

Additionally council named Mayor Artie Altomare, Rydarowicz, Buchanan and Siembida to the downtown revitalization committee.

Also at the meeting, Phillips announced spring clean up will be held the weeks of May 4 and May 11, with a roll-off dumpster available May 7 through 9. Council told Phillips to establish stricter guidelines regarding tire drop off to ensure non-residents are not forcing the village to spend more money to transport the tires.

ROADS FROM 1A

$88,000, mostly on blacktop, to repair streets. It costs $130,000 to blacktop a mile of road, compared to $18,000 using chip sealing, which means Lisbon could resurface four miles of streets spending the same amount of money on chip sealing.

But residents accustomed to living on a blacktop street may not like having it replaced with chip sealing, the quality of which can vary from year to year, depending on the aggregate material being obtained.

Meanwhile, council approved Oliver’s request to purchase another 30 tons of asphalt cold patch to fill in potholes. Thirty ton was purchased in February for $3,600.

Emulsion was also ordered for the DuraPatcher machine, which can be used to fill in smaller potholes.

Councilman Joseph Morenz said they are making headway in addressing the pothole problem, and thanked the off-duty Ohio Department of Transportation workers who assisted them in patching holes on North Market Street last week.

“The Monday before last (March 9) was the the first day we could work at it,” he said. “Be patient with us.”

Health official: Residential septicics looking good

By KATIE WHITE
Staff Writer

LISBON — Residential septic systems inspected by the Columbiana County Health Department last year were in much better condition than systems across the state, which should be an encouragement to homeowners, Health Commissioner Wes Vins said this week.

Vins said a recent study showing the statewide septic malfunction rate at 31 percent “reflects poorly on our design and our staff,” and county residents should know that when compared, the county’s systems are much better.

“The county does not have this high of a failure rate,” he said.

The state data was compiled by the Ohio Department of Health during its implementation of the new Ohio sewage rules that took effect on Jan. 1, and most of the failures were due to the age of the septic system, according to information provided by Lori Barnes, director of environmental health for the county department.

Barnes said she has been speaking to realtors and the Salem Rotary to get the message out that homeowners should not be too concerned about the state’s failure rates.

“It seems to scare a lot of homeowners when they sell their properties, having us go out to these properties, thinking their systems are going to fail ... (we want) to make people more comfortable with the functionality of their septic systems,” she said.

She and Vins said that when going over the 2014 data for the county it revealed that only 8 percent were identified as malfunctioning, and furthermore, that more than 90 percent of the systems installed since the 1980s are passing inspections and not creating a public health nuisance. Systems are generally expected to last 30 years.

“That is a good sign we have been doing things right in this county for years,” Barnes said.

There were 312 county real estate septic systems inspected in 2014 through the real estate inspection program, according to the department’s annual report. Of those, 286 were found to be acceptable.

“It was quite encouraging to see we have been doing such a good job,” Vins said.

The department plans to continue applying for funding through the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency’s Water Pollution Control Fund to help low income residents repair and replace their septic systems.

The county has utilized roughly $600,000 in the funding since 2009, with support from county commissioners and the county Community Action Agency.

The county has corrected problems with 76 systems using the funding.

“These properties met septic nuisance conditions and would have unlikely been fixed without the program in place due to financial hardships and no other funding mechanism in place,” Barnes said in her report.

Red Cross seeking volunteers for web presentations

YOUNGSTOWN—The Red Cross needs volunteers this weekend, March 20, 21 and 22, to be part of the DittoTalk Pilot Project.

The American Red Cross has partnered with a Youngstown startup company, DittoTalk, for a pilot program that they believe will transform the way non-profits raise money.

Using the DittoTalk software, which the company says is “what webinars want to be when they grow up,” the Red Cross is asking for additional volunteers to do five short web presentations each to their friends and family, with the goal being to educate people about the work Red Cross does right in our own communities and to encourage them to help with the campaign by donating just $10 and one hour of their time.

“Many people are aware of what the Red Cross does with major disasters like Hurricane Katrina, but they may not know that we do so much right in their own backyard,” said Karen Conklin, executive director of American Red Cross of Lake to River.

“We help our military, teach safety courses, and nationally we respond to a house fire on average every eight minutes. We just need to let more people know about that,” she said.

“When I met the DittoTalk team, who has successfully used their software in the for-profit sector, I immediately saw that using it in the non-profit world could be an absolute game changer for getting our message out to people.”

DittoTalk and the Red Cross soon partnered to create the “Be a Hero” campaign, which will take place from March 20-22.

CROSSING FROM 1A

Norfolk Southern said it will not service the facility unless the railroad crossing is closed.

The resolution voted on in April was one of two presented and was voted on because it had the most financial incentive for the township.

But with either resolution, one of the two entranceways into the Buckeye Transfer facility will have been closed, which ultimately convinced Hum, an attorney, to vote against it on safety grounds.

After the vote, Hum said he “never expected this to be such a difficult decision ... but I will be able to sleep tonight.”

Hum and Garwood, both longtime trustees, said it was the most difficult vote they ever made.

On Thursday, Hum said there will be a public evidentiary hearing to establish to the PUCO that the closing is necessary. The results of that hearing can be appealed, he said adding the township won’t be involved in the hearing. He said any resident, business or governmental agency can appeal the decision.

In other business, Road Supervisor Mel Miller presented the list of roads for the chip and seal program. Eight roads, including Esterly, Wisler, Nold, Woodvale Lane, Forest lawn, Crestview, Cherry Fork, and High Street are scheduled for the work.

There is more than one mile of Crestview and Cherry Fork roads that will be chip and sealed while four roads will be on the reclaimed list that includes Applesway, Bunker Hill, Bonesville and Metz roads. Nine-tenths of a mile on Applesway will be chip and

Wellsville murder trial set to go

By DEANNE JOHNSON
Staff Writer

LISBON— Although there are still some pretrial motions being filed and dealt with, the murder trial of Nicholas Carosiello, accused in the shooting death of his estranged wife Holly Carosiello in August 2011, remains scheduled for later this month.

Attorneys for Carosiello and the county prosecutor’s office met with Common Pleas Court Judge Scott Washam in his chambers for an hour Thursday afternoon. When they emerged, they quickly put into the record the status of numerous motions which have been filed and responded to by both sides in the last couple weeks.

While some discovery issues have been already addressed, Washam said he expects other issues will be dealt with prior to the beginning of trial or at the time the trial begins.

At this time, the trial is scheduled to begin on March 30 and two weeks have been set aside on the court’s schedule for the completion of the trial.

Carosiello, who remains in custody, has been awaiting trial since he was indicted in 2013.

Carosiello, 34, of Chester, W.Va., is charged with aggravated murder with a firearm specification, possession of drugs and three counts of tampering with evidence.

Carosiello is accused of shooting his estranged wife, Holly Carosiello, in the head, while she and others were in the process of breaking into his father’s home on Township Line Road outside of Wellsville on Aug. 12, 2011.

Prosecutors believe 22-year-old Holly Carosiello was being lifted to a window by her brother, Jamie Adkins, when she was shot and killed.

Adkins and others involved in the attempted break-in have already been convicted for their parts in the events of that night. Adkins pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter, burglary and complicity to burglary and is now serving 10 years.

Several of those involved are currently scheduled to be returned to Columbiana County for the trial.

HOROSCOPE

By HOLIDAY MATHIS
3/20/15

Total Eclipse of the Spring Equinox

The new moon, the total eclipse of the sun and the spring equinox today are a fresh start, a "get out of jail free" card and a naming ceremony all in one. By the way, if you had to choose a different, more adventurous name for yourself, what would it be? Even if you only use this name when talking you-to-you, it could change your life.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You get a blast of cosmic sunshine and will continue to grow in vitality and power in the weeks to come. Already you may feel that you have the ability to see the potential in everything.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). When traffic lights aren't working, the intersection becomes an every-man-for-himself situation. This illustrates the importance of clear communication. Be the functioning traffic light.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Face-to-face meetings will be extremely effective and well worth the trouble taken to make them happen. What you do for them may soon fade from memory, but what you do with them will stick.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It's like you have a velvet sack full of money, only it's not money. It's actually something much more valuable because it's a currency that translates in every country without conversion. It's love.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). A young Walt Disney once claimed to love Mickey Mouse more than any woman he'd known. Similarly, you're falling in love with one of your own creations, and it will bring you great joy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You'll use your natural comedic powers for good, helping people laugh at the absurd, the hypocritical and even at the painful experiences that go along with just being human.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Making people feel comfortable is a talent of yours, and you can put it to good use today, especially considering that one nervous person can ruin the vibe of the whole party.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). In a way, you're an avenger ready to balance the scales of justice, though you're not sure yet which methods and weapons are likely to work best for the situation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Because you enjoy the ordinary, you are more likely to observe and experience extraordinary events. You're headed into a cycle in which life will delight you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). The journalist Wes Izzard said, "If a man wakes up famous, he hasn't been sleeping." The hard work you do to gain attention for your cause, talent or project will pay off later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). All relationships thrive on measured pacing. Reveal too much too soon, and the mystery is spoiled. Build anticipation instead. Make getting to know you a kind of adventure.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). As the sun leaves your realm, simple efforts may seem to take too much energy. When you don't feel like it, do it anyway. Show up strong. Consistency will give more than it takes.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 20). Your equinox birthday is an omen for high energy, self-creation and self-declaration. You'll lead others by being relatable and vulnerable and by connecting on the deeper levels that inspire true loyalty. Loved ones celebrate and spoil you in April. A professional win in July may inspire a new business later in the year. Scorpio and Gemini people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 1, 22, 39 and 16.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES: Confrontation can be loving or unnecessarily hurtful — make a heartfelt judgment call. TAURUS: If you compare everyone to an ideal, no one will be good enough. GEMINI: You'll enjoy a well-matched volley of lighthearted argument — proof of a good match. CANCER: Your powers of observation are your most important dating tool now. See what the others don't, and you're golden. LEO: It is possible to enjoy the company of a totally self-absorbed person if you are also absorbed in this person. Otherwise, it's a pain. VIRGO: You'll either be holding out for someone of character or asking the one you're with to rise to the occasion. LIBRA: Be careful what you say, write or send, as it could go on record for all to see. SCORPIO: Whether you get the social graces right or wrong, you'll have an adventure. SAGITTARIUS: They'll compete for you whether or not you realize you're in a position of choice. CAPRICORN: Your compassion is luminous; your selflessness, heroic. AQUARIUS: With your best match, you can do more together than the sum of what each of you could do alone. PISCES: The ambivalence of people around you inspires you to commit fully to love.

A sound solution

Heloise

Dear Heloise: Thanks for the column about coping with a pet's blindness. DOGS are so adaptable! Our miniature dachshund was in her teens when she lost her hearing. Dogs usually are good at scrambling out of the way.

When you have a small dog who is not in your line of sight and she can't hear you coming, you might accidentally stumble on her. We put a bell on her collar. Even though she couldn't hear us, we could hear her and avoid an accident.

— Carolyn T., Orange, Calif.
Carolyn, thank you so much for sharing this with my readers. Our beloved pets do get older and have many age-related health issues, similar to humans. They do adapt rather quickly and "just get on with life," focusing on "Where is my chew toy?"

STUBBORN STICKER

Dear Heloise: I recently purchased a used car for my daughter. There is a bumper sticker from the previous owner that we would like to remove. Do you have any hints on how to remove a stubborn sticker?

— Dan in Texas
Dan, sure do! There are a couple of methods to use. First, heat the sticker by using a hair dryer to warm and soften the adhesive. Start on one end and blow the hot air on one corner. Then gently lift the edge and begin peeling the sticker. Keep using the hair dryer as you go.

The second way is boiling water. Slowly pour the boiling water over the bumper sticker to loosen the adhesive. Again, begin lifting the sticker from a corner. Gently peel the sticker and get more boiling water as needed.

Once you remove the sticker, there still may be some adhesive left. If this is the case, you can remove the adhesive by spraying it with some prewash spray or lubricant and gently scrubbing. Be careful not to scratch the paint! — Heloise

P.S.: You can put a bumper sticker that you like over the other one as a last resort.

TRAVEL HINT

Dear Heloise: One thing I made for my children was a hanging bag with 12 pockets. It holds a coat hanger so that the bag could hang on the back-seat coat hook in the car. Each pocket had a toy or treat that the kids were allowed to have each hour that we traveled. Simple items such as sports cards, gum, stickers, etc., made the distance seem shorter with the anticipation of what they would find in the next pocket.

— J. Garner, Abilene, Texas

RECEIPT FOR SHIPPING

Dear Heloise: I frequently sell things through an online store. I take pictures of my receipts from the post office whenever I ship something. I send a copy of the receipt to the customer. I always have a copy in case I lose the tracking info, and the customer can be assured that I sent the product.

Friend's remark cuts deeper than intended

DEAR ABBY: My wife, "Tina," was very hurt by a friend recently. Her friend "Sally" called her "cheap" during a conversation ("she's cheap like you"). Sally didn't intend it to be hurtful, just an illustration — but my wife is very upset about it.

We use coupons when we grocery shop or dine out; we also watch our thermostats, recycle, etc. On the other hand, we have sent our children to university without loans, our mortgage is paid off, we have traveled extensively and our net worth is north of a million dollars with no debt. How do I make Tina realize that Sally's comment should not upset her so?

— THRIFTY IN TEXAS
DEAR THRIFTY: What happened was unfortunate because the problem may be that Sally simply chose the wrong word. What she probably meant was that your wife is frugal. The difference between "frugal" and "cheap" is that being frugal is a VIRTUE. Because Sally hurt your wife's feelings, Tina needs to tell her how it made her feel so Sally can apologize to her before it causes a permanent rift.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a teenage girl who has a fantastic life, a loving family, great grades in school and a nice house. I have a problem that seems to be taking over my life: I'm very anxious.

At first, it seemed I was just a worrywart, but lately, it's been nuts. I'm terrified someone in my family is going to die and I worry obsessively over it. I try to think it's going to be all right, but my anxiety just over-takes me.

I'm terrified of death and that my parents or my siblings will die tomorrow. I don't know who to tell. My parents freak out over the slightest thing. Please help me.

— WORRYWART IN ARIZONA
DEAR WORRYWART: Many young people harbor the same fear you have. But because you say your parents tend to "freak out" at the slightest thing, I can't help but wonder if a tendency toward high anxiety runs in your family.

Assuming that your family members are in good health, your preoccupation with the idea they might suddenly die should be discussed with a licensed psychotherapist. Ideally, you should tell your parents what's going on, but if you're afraid to talk to them and ask for help, then speak to a counselor at school so the counselor can bring it to their attention. Because this is troubling you to the extent that you have written to me, please don't procrastinate.

DEAR ABBY: How do you politely refuse to hug or shake someone's hand because of a medical issue that lowers your resistance to infection?

I had a stem cell transplant 18 months ago because of a recurrence of Hodgkin's lymphoma. I'm now on a drug that keeps my white blood count low. If I get a fever, I could end up in the hospital. I have been in remission for over a year and look healthy.

I don't really care to get into a long conversation about my experience, but I don't want to put myself at risk. How should I handle this without appearing rude?

— HOLDING BACK IN PENNSYLVANIA
DEAR HOLDING: Not extending your hand should send the message. However, if you are pressed, tell a short version of the truth, which would be, "I can't do that because I have a medical condition that prevents close contact."

Serious complications of head trauma

Dr. Keith Roach

DEAR DR. ROACH: I was in a car accident a few months ago and got pretty banged up. I have been forgetting things that I normally wouldn't, and have been dropping things. I went to a neurologist, who told me I suffered a severe concussion and wants me to have a brain scan. Do you think this is a normal course of action? I'm not sure if I really want this done. I keep thinking that eventually these symptoms will go away, and I guess I'm afraid of what the diagnosis will be. — L.K.

ANSWER: A concussion is a type of brain injury due to trauma. The term "concussion" usually implies relatively mild brain injury, and most cases will eventually get better, but there can be significant symptoms, and they can last for weeks or months after the brain injury, broadly referred to as "post-concussion syndrome."

Not everybody with head trauma requires a CT or MRI scan. However, there are some possible serious complications after head trauma, including a subdural hematoma, a type of bleeding into the head, below the meninges (lining of the brain) and the brain itself. Given your symptoms, I absolutely agree with your neurologist that a scan is indicated.

I understand that you are afraid of the diagnosis, but you should remember that treatment is almost always better sooner than later.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am a 62-year-old male, and I have been heavy for most of my life. Over the past 18 months, I have lost a great deal of weight and feel better than I have in years. My issue is where the excess has ended up: just below my belt-line. I know that so-called spot reducing doesn't work, so I'm at a loss as to how to go about getting rid of this paunch. It's not above my belt, and it is stubborn. Any ideas? — T.C.

ANSWER: If you keep losing weight, odds are that stubborn fat will gradually go away. High-intensity aerobic exercise did seem to help in one study. I have had patients undergo liposuction, but that helps your appearance, not your overall health.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I take Xarelto, which is a blood thinner. My doctor says it is OK to also take a baby aspirin (81 milligrams). Do you agree? — D.C.

ANSWER: Rivaroxaban (Xarelto) is one of a new class of anticoagulants (medications that reduce the blood's ability to clot). Like warfarin (Coumadin), these new drugs affect the clotting factors, produced mostly in the liver. These are needed to form a dense, stable clot. Xarelto is used for people with atrial fibrillation (with normal heart valves), and to prevent or treat deep vein blood clots and blood clots in the lungs.

Aspirin also is an anticoagulant, but it works on the platelets, the circulating blood cells that begin a blood clot. Aspirin is used for many conditions, especially to prevent a heart attack in people at moderate to high risk. Aspirin appears to be most effective when taken at night.

Since many people have reasons to take both these medicines, they often are prescribed together. All anticoagulants increase risk of bleeding. Combined use does increase bleeding risk beyond either separately. Although Xarelto has a similar bleeding risk to warfarin (lower in some studies), if bleeding occurs there is no generally accepted or safe way to stop it. Therefore, Xarelto, and especially the combination of Xarelto and aspirin, should be reserved for people in whom benefits clearly outweigh risks

'Cook's Night Off' will benefit Winona Methodist Church

The Winona Preschool Board will offer a drive-thru dinner from 4 to 6 p.m. March 26, until sold out, during its "Cook's Night Off" at the church, 32114 Winona Road, Winona. The menu includes roast pork, mashed potato casserole, green beans, roll, and a frosted brownie. Cost is $8. Proceeds will benefit the operating expenses of the Winona United Methodist Church. To pre-order dinners call the church office at 330-222-1211 before noon that day. Pre-ordered dinners must be picked up by 6 p.m. Pictured are, from left, the Rev. Mary Owen, Bonnie Ziegler and Julie Herron. (Submitted photo)

Chinese auction will benefit United student

CHELSEA FURLOUGH

Pictured is Chelsea Furlough, a kindergarten student at United Local School. She has been diagnosed with Ewing Sarcoma and is currently undergoing radiation treatments at Akron Children's Hospital. This is her second bout with cancer.

On Tuesday Forest Lanes Restaurant and Lounge in Kensington hosted a bowl-a-thon and Chinese auction fundraiser to purchase a laptop computer for Chelsea so she can keep up with her schoolwork. As purple is Chelsea's favorite color, "We United For Chelsea's Fight" T-shirts in purple were worn by many of her supporters.

She is also a Pittsburgh Steelers fan and hopes to one day meet the team. Stop by to purchase Chinese auction tickets from 5 to 7 p.m. Sunday at Forest Lanes.

The tickets for the Chinese auction will be pulled at 7 p.m. Sunday. For more information contact Forest Lanes at 330-223-1215. (Submitted photo)

Clothing giveaway scheduled Saturday

SEBRING — Acts 2 Ministries in the Sebring-West Branch community will hold a free clothing giveaway from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at the Acts 2 Clothing Closet located behind Pine Lake Christian Church, 636 Pine Lake Road.

Clothing is available for children, teenagers, and adults in a variety of sizes and styles. The clothing is available to anyone who could make good use of it. There are no restrictions based on income or employment.

Donations of good, gently used clothing items are welcome. They are accepting clothing for any season, but are hoping for winter and spring items.

For more information or to arrange to make a donation of clothing contact 330-938-2561 or ACTS2WBSebring@gmail.com.

Salem Elks makes donation to support awareness mock crash

The Salem Elks donated $1,000 to the county-wide mock crash on April 21 by the Alcohol Drug Abuse Prevention Team Coalition (ADAPT) and Family Recovery Center's (FRC) Education Department. Giant Eagle recalling seasonal cut-out shapes cookies

PITTSBURGH — All lots of Giant Eagle brand seasonal cut-out shapes cookies, baked and sold inside Giant Eagle and Market District supermarkets through March 18, have been voluntarily recalled by Giant Eagle due to an undeclared milk allergen.

The affected cut-out cookies were produced in various holiday-themed shapes, and were sold plain or decorated with icing or sprinkles. People who have an allergy or severe sensitivity to milk run the risk of serious or life-threatening allergic reaction if they consume these products. The product is safe for consumption by those who do not have milk allergies.

The recalled cut-out cookies were purchased by customers in Giant Eagle and Market District supermarkets in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland and West Virginia.

The cookies were sold individually in the bakery service case as well as in clear packages with UPCs of: 77993 90046, one count seasonal cut-out cookie, 1 ounce; 37973 00199, one count decorated cut-out cookie, 2 ounces; 17972 10298, two count decorated cut-out cookies, 5 ounces; 89685 80499, 10 count cut-out cookies, 15 ounces; and 69748 80499, 12 count cut-out cookies, 24 ounces.

Giant Eagle became aware of the issue when customers reported cases of illness associated with the cut-out cookies which prompted further investigation.

The product label for the cut-out cookies, which contain milk, omitted milk as an allergen. Additionally, the company encourages customers with milk allergies to check their pantries and freezers for any seasonal cookies that may have been stored or frozen.

Customers with a milk allergy who have purchased the affected product should dispose of it or return it to their local Giant Eagle or Market District store for a refund. Customers with questions may call Giant Eagle Customer Care at 800-553-2324 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. EDT Monday through Friday. In addition to this public communication regarding this recall, Giant Eagle completed its consumer recall telephone notification process.

The consumer recall process uses purchase data and consumer telephone numbers housed in the Giant Eagle Advantage Card® database to alert those households that purchased the affected product and have updated telephone contact information in the database.

Scullion winding down career with tourney run

By CHRIS RAMBO
Staff Writer

COLUMBUS—As she prepared for her own big tournament game, Ohio State senior—and former Salem great—Amy Scullion shared an early memory of one of the stars from this year’s West Branch state semifinalist.

“I remember coaching Pavin Heath at a Salem basketball camp when she was little,” Scullion said. “I’ll always remember her showing up before anyone else and running sprints up and down the floor, she kept telling me she was trying to stay in shape. Even then she had a ton of energy and worked really hard.”

Heath transferred to West Branch her seventh grade year and has been an indispensable running mate to Div. II Co-Player of the Year Melinda Trimmer on the Warriors run to Columbus.

Even as the graduate of a rival school, Scullion has kept tabs on the Warriors and will be rooting for them this weekend.

“I’ve been reading a little bit about them,” Scullion said. “It’s incredibly exciting for those girls. I remember when I went to state in volleyball how exciting the whole week was. It’s going to be an experience they’ll remember the rest of their lives.”

Ironically, Scullion departed Columbus as the Warriors are arriving. The fifth-seeded Buckeyes traveled to Chapel Hill, North Carolina on Thursday to prepare for their first-round NCAA Tournament game against 12th-seed James Madison at 1:30 Saturday.

Fifth-ranked West Branch will take on 10th-ranked Toledo Rogers in the Division II state semifinals at 3 p.m. today at Ohio State’s Schottenstein Center.

“I would have liked to go to the game,” Scullion said. “It’s a bummer we had to travel at the same time. Even though I went to Salem I have no problem rooting for them.”

Scullion has more than enough to look forward to this weekend, however. After initially deciding to forego her final year of eligibility to concentrate full-time on medical school, she was talked back onto the team this fall after a wave of injuries left the Buckeyes with just seven players.

Scullion has happily ridden along as Ohio State scrapped its way to a surprising 23-10 record (13-5 Big Ten), advancing to the tournament after a two-year absence.

“It’s nuts, what they’ve accomplished,” Scullion said. “I don’t think some people realize how great an accomplishment it was to get to the tournament after all the injuries. We had some young talent, but it was a matter of it all blending together in time. Coach (Kevin) McGuff has done a great job putting the team together.”

Due to her medical school commitment, Scullion has only traveled to a couple of away games this season—which will be her last. She has appeared in 12 games, averaging five minutes played and 1.3 points per game.

“It’s nothing like being an undergrad,” Scullion said. “Then, you had no problem getting excused from class for basketball. Grad school is like a full time job, it’s really important you are there for everything. To come back this season, we worked it out where I could miss a class if I absolutely had to travel with the team, but that was the only exception.”

Even in a reduced role, combining the demands of Division I basketball with the rigors of medical school has led to a packed schedule.

“It’s been pretty insane,” Scullion said. “Everyday, I spend about seven hours on school and four on basketball. There really haven’t been any off days for the past five months. I’d like to thank coach McGuff, along with the medical school for helping me work out the schedule. They’ve been terrific.”

Scullion described her role on this year’s team as that of a cheerleader and extra body at practice, however, she wouldn’t take back any of it. The chance to be part of a basketball team for one final time in her career, along with the opportunity to lend her experience to a younger squad is something she won’t forget.

“At this time last year, I thought my career was over,” Scullion said. “It’s been a lot of fun just being part of a team again. After five seasons, I think I’ve been able to lend them some of my experiences

Russell rallies Buckeyes to OT win

By ANTONIO GONZALEZ
Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore. — Ohio State might only go as far as D’Angelo Russell can take the Buckeyes in the NCAA Tournament. So far, that’s good enough to roll into the round of 32.

Russell scored 28 points to rally Ohio State from an early 12-point deficit, and the 10th-seeded Buckeyes beat seventh-seeded VCU 75-72 in overtime on Thursday.

“He’s a winner. The kid loves to win. He’s going to do whatever he can to win basketball games,” Ohio State coach Thad Matta said.

The freshman sensation did just about everything for the Buckeyes in their tournament opener.

Russell regrouped from an elbow that sent blood streaming down the left side of his face near the end of regulation, and he showed in nearly 45 minutes on the floor why he likely will be a top pick in this summer’s NBA draft.

The quick and crafty left-hander made 10 of 20 shots, including 4 of 7 from 3-point range, and added six rebounds, two steals and two blocks to bring the Buckeyes (24-10) back in both halves and overtime.

“I watched this (tournament) my whole life. Just knowing that a lot of great teams go down, a lot of underdogs achieve, just with the mentality that anything can happen,” Russell said.

Amir Williams added 13 points, Jae’Sean Tate scored 12 and Shannon Scott had 10 assists to help Ohio State avoid a second straight one-and-done showing in the tournament. The Buckeyes will face second-seeded Arizona on Saturday.

For the Atlantic 10 champion Rams (26-10), it was another heartbreaking first-round defeat. Coach Shaka Smart’s squad struggled to consistently create the “havoc” that carried VCU to an improbable 2011 Final Four run, even abandoning its full-court defense as Russell and Scott weaved through it at will.

Ohio State, which mixed in a zone defense, outshot VCU 49 percent to 38 percent. The Rams outrebounded the Buckeyes 37-32 behind Treveon Graham’s 10 boards and Mo Alie-Cox’s seven, helping them stay close.

But they never could reel in Russell late.

He broke free for a tying layup at the start of overtime. Keita Bates-Diop added a big 3-pointer, and Scott followed with a layup that gave the Buckeyes a 73-70 lead.

Graham missed a 3-pointer in the final seconds before Russell hit two free throws to seal Ohio State’s victory.

“He’s a good player. He just stayed aggressive and took his team to victory,” said VCU’s JeQuan Lewis, who scored 11.

West Branch ready for big game

Warriors are lone state newcomer

By BILL DRAGOMIR
Staff Writer

They’re back. That’s not a line from a horror movie, but rather a description of this year’s Division II girls final four as three of last year’s final four teams return to the Schottenstein Center this weekend.

One of these is the Toledo Rogers Rams who last year fell to state runner-up Kettering Alter 50-47 in the semifinals.

This year the Rams (23-5) will face West Branch (27-1) at 3 p.m. today in the second semifinal.

“Our goal is to get out early,” said Rams coach Lamar Smith. “It works well to get the jitters away they can calm down and start getting some shots early in the game. I think that just relaxes your players as a team and start getting comfortable with that court. It’s such an adjustment because the stands are so pushed back. We definitely would like to get out early, but we don’t want to get too amped up. We want to realize it’s four quarters.”

One obstacle for the Rams to overcome will be the loss of co-All-Ohio Division II player of the year Akienreh Johnson who injured her tore her ACL in the Rams’ regional final win over Bellevue.

“I think losing Johnson is going to force a lot of other kids to step up,” Smith said. “Their balanced scoring, they play well as a team, but we might need (Tanaya) Beacham to score a lot more, (Keasja) Peace might have to score. So when you’re lucky to have five girls that can play like this with Akienreh going out someone is going to have to do a little more scoring. I think they’re capable of doing it. They’re going to have to do a lot more as a team. That’s what we’ll be focusing on this week in practice.”

Beacham is a former Youngstown Ursuline standout.

That increased scoring will have to come against a very strong defensive Warrior team which held Geneva scoreless in the first quarter of their regional championship victory.

The Warriors, ranked fifth in the state in Div. II, feature their own All-Ohio Player of the Year in senior point guard Melinda Trimmer. Trimmer credits her teammates with helping her attain that honor.

“They give me the confidence to knock down shots,” she said. “We feed off of each other and I know that I have confidence in them to knock down their shots, too. So we feed off of each other and it’s a great thing.”

Warrior coach Walt DeShields knows his squad will have to be at their best, but believes the tough schedule his team has faced is good preparation.

“We’ve prepared all week to hopefully play two games,” he said. “It’s not going to be easy. Each level you go the teams get tougher, because everybody at this point is playing hot and playing well. Everybody’s a really good team the farther you go. We’ve beaten some good teams along the way to get here. So our girls should have a lot of confidence because of that. We’ve had a great preseason schedule. We had a great season schedule, beefed that up a little bit, played some really good teams like Massillon Jackson that made it to the regional final. South Range that made it to the regionals, teams like that that you take a look at and say maybe we are good enough. So it all goes back to the dedication and hard work that these girls have put in.”

The other Div. II state semifinal slates top-ranked Kettering Archbishop Alter (28-0) against eighth-ranked Millersburg Welst Holmes at 1 p.m. today.

Former Pittsburgh Steelers cornerback Mel Blount takes in Thursday's Div. II regional semifinal between St. Vincent-St. Mary and Poland. Blount—who's son Jibri plays for the Irish—was elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1989. He won four Super Bowl rings during a 13-year career with the Steelers and is considered one of the greatest cornerbacks in NFL history. (Salem News/Gary Leininger).

Browns ink former Chiefs top wideout

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Browns have snagged a No. 1 wide receiver. Cleveland agreed to terms on a two-year contract with free agent Dwayne Bowe, a person familiar with the negotiations told The Associated Press. Bowe, who has spent the past eight seasons with the Kansas City Chiefs, is expected to sign the deal on Thursday, said the person who spoke on condition of anonymity because the team has not confirmed the agreement. With Cleveland, Bowe will fill the void created by former Pro Bowler Josh Gordon being suspended for at least the 2015 season for multiple violations of the NFL's drug policy. Gordon led the league in yards receiving in 2013 and was suspended for 10 games last season. Cleveland's offense struggled without a deep threat, and even when Gordon returned, the Browns didn't have much of a passing game. A big, athletic receiver, Bowe should help. He had 60 receptions for 754 yards last season but did not score a touchdown. The 6-foot-2, 221-pound Bowe led the league with 15 TDs in 2010 and has averaged 66 catches per season. However, Bowe has only scored 13 TDs combined over the past four seasons. The Chiefs released the 30-year-old Bowe last week in attempt to clear some salary cap space. NFL Network first reported Bowe's deal. Bowe visited Cleveland's facility and met with the Browns coaching staff last weekend. He's the second wide receiver signed during the offseason by the Browns, who added former Miami receiver Brian Hartline last week. In 118 career games, Bowe has 532 receptions for 7,155 yards. He was the No. 23 overall pick in 2007.

RUSSELL
FROM 1B Russell closed the first half with a flurry and got the Buckeyes off to a fast start after the break. Late in regulation, Russell got a gash above his left eye after he absorbed an elbow from Doug Brooks trying to block a layup. Trainers cleaned up the wound with a bandage on the bench — the only time all game Russell rested. Officials reviewed the play and called a flagrant foul on Brooks, who led VCU with 14 points. The Rams disagreed with the call. Russell couldn't say for sure. "I had no clue that it was a flagrant or whatnot," Russell said. "I just tried to contest it. Five minutes later, I was shooting free throws for a flagrant." But the Rams never folded. Johnson hit consecutive 3s to put VCU up 66-64 before Williams' tying dunk. Both teams had chances to win in the final minute of regulation as Scott missed a difficult runner for Ohio State and Graham's well-guarded layup rimmed out for VCU, which endured another difficult finish. The Rams were upset by Stephen F. Austin in their tournament opener last season, and now an emotional March run is over sooner than they had hoped. VCU had dedicated its postseason run to leader Briante Weber, who suffered a season-ending right knee injury in a loss to Richmond on Jan. 31. Despite his right leg being immobilized, Weber hobbled around the sideline shouting instructions and words of encouragement to teammates. He sat in the seat closest to center court and right behind Smart, who often stood, clapped and bent his knees trying to motivate his players. In the end, it was not the scene they wanted. Weber cried in a towel as Smart and teammate Jarred Guest consoled him

DIV. IV STATE SEMIFINALS

Fort Loramie 45, Berlin Hiland 36
COLUMBUS (AP) — Kelly Turner and Jessica Boerger each had 10 points as Fort Loramie defeated top-ranked Berlin Hiland 45-36 in a Division IV girls state semifinal at Ohio State's Value City Arena. The Redskins, who beat Hiland in 2013 for its only title, plays Waterford for the state crown at 10:45 a.m. Saturday. Fort Loramie (25-4) led by 10 with seven minutes to play Thursday but Hiland (27-2) got to within 39-34 before Boerger hit three free throws and Janell Hoying made a foul shot to make it 43-34 with 43 seconds left. Hiland trailed 19-18 at the half before Fort Loramie increased its lead to 33-25 going into the fourth quarter. Kennedy Schlabach had 15 points and Angela Troyer 10 for Hiland.

DIV. III STATE SEMIFINALS

Versailles 54, Chippewa 43
COLUMBUS (AP) — Freshman Kami McDowney's 13 points led three Versailles players in double-figure scoring, and clutch free-throw shooting helped the Tigers beat top-ranked Doylestown Chippewa 54-43 in a Division III girls state semifinal. Versailles plays Ottawa Glandorf at 2 p.m. Saturday. Versailles won its lone title in 2008. The Tigers lost to Columbus Africentric in the 2014 championship game. The Tigers (25-4) hit 9 of 10 foul shots after Chippewa (28-1) pulled to within 45-41 with 2 minutes left Thursday at Ohio State's Value City Arena. McDowney went 4-for-5 from the line in that span. Lauren Bruns and Taylor Winner each had 12 points for Versailles. Ashley Richardson had 18 points for Chippewa.

Waterford 42, Fostoria St. Wendelin 36

COLUMBUS (AP) — Megan Ball hit a layup with 1:49 to play to put Waterford ahead and the Wildcats scored the final 10 points to defeat Fostoria St. Wendelin 42-36 in a Division IV girls state semifinal in Columbus. Waterford (27-1) won Thursday at Ohio State University's Value City Arena. It now plays for its first state title at 10:45 a.m. Saturday against Fort Laramie. St. Wendelin (24-5) led 36-32 before Waterford's Dani Drayer hit a three-pointer. After Ball's basket and a St. Wendelin turnover, Ali Kern made a trey for a 40-36 lead with 1:08 left. Drayer, who led Waterford with 11 points, made two free throws with 13 seconds left. Kamryn Troike had 18 points St. Wendelin.

Ottawa-Glandorf 55, Proctorville Fairland 27

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ottawa-Glandorf has beaten Proctorville Fairland 55-27 in a Division III girls basketball state semifinal at Ohio State's Value City Arena. Elissa Ellerbrock had 11 points and nine rebounds for Ottawa-Glandorf on Thursday. Erin Basinger added 10 points. The Lady Titans are in their first state tournament. They play Versailles in the championship game on Saturday afternoon. Versailles won a state title in 2008. Ottawa-Glandorf had an easy time against the Dragons, who were 2 for 14 from the floor in trailing 27-10 at halftime. Fairland got no closer than 15 in the second half and were down 40-17 after three quarters. The Dragons shot 7 for 32 for the game, including 1 of 12 on three-pointers. Kelsey Riley led the Dragons with 22 points.

Early upsets leave brackets in tatters

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe if everyone's bracket is busted, no one's is? It was barely after lunch on the West Coast when Georgia State finished the second big upset of the day — in just the first three games. Between the Panthers upset of Baylor and UAB's takedown of Iowa State, two No. 3 seeds falling that quickly on the tournament's first big day left almost every bracket blemished. ESPN says that three games into Thursday, more than 99 percent of the brackets submitted on their website were damaged by the upsets. That leaves only about 87,000 out of 11.6 million still with a perfect bracket or 0.7 percent. Spokesman Josh Krulowitz tweeted that nearly 1 in 6 of ESPN's brackets — 16 percent — had Iowa State in the Final Four, and 5.1 percent had Baylor there. Just 3.1 percent of Yahoo Sports users picked UAB to win and 5.9 picked Georgia Southern.

with the grind of a season." Scullion has never gotten to play in an NCAA tournament game. The Buckeyes other two appearances during her career came in her redshirt season and during her freshman year, when she was hurt. She would love the opportunity to get into a game sometime this weekend, but said that isn't her main concern. "As long as we keep winning I'm happy," Scullion said. "I just want to enjoy it however long it lasts."

FUNKY WINKERBEAN

THE NEWS MEDIA IS UNDERGOING A TRANSFORMATION THESE DAYS...

AND AS THE NEWS ANCHOR FOR BUDDYBLOG, I'D BE AT THE CUTTING EDGE OF CONTENT AND TECHNOLOGY.

SO, REGARDING A NEW CONTRACT, CHANNEL ONE HASN'T SAID...

BO PEEP.

SOUP TO NUTS

DOES ANY OF THIS REALLY MAKE ANY SENSE? SCHOOL? WORK? I MEAN...

...DOES IT REALLY MATTER IN THE LONG RUN? THINK... 100 YEARS FROM NOW, WILL ANYONE EVEN CARE WHAT WE DID OR DIDN'T DO TODAY?

EMAIL: soup2nuts@cox.net

SOUNDS LIKE SOME-BODY DIDN'T DO THEIR ASSIGNMENT... THAT'S BESIDE THE POINT.

CRANKSHAFT

DID YOU FIX THE LEAK?

IT'S CONTAINED, BUT WE CAN'T DO ANYTHING ABOUT THAT UNTIL THE RAIN STOPS AND WE CAN GET UP ON THE ROOF AND LOOK AROUND.

OF COURSE, WE WON'T KNOW IF OUR FIX HAS WORKED UNTIL IT RAINS AGAIN.
