Firestone Park parking flap aired

By KATIE WHITE

The city's park board president took some time to clear the air this week during council about a parking situation at Firestone Park.

Ron Detwiler said he took offense to comments posted by a local business leader on a social media page last week that parking during the Columbiana vs. Crestview home football game on Aug. 27 was not handled properly and that people were being given traffic tickets by city police.

Reading directly from the comments which he printed out to bring before council, he said a statement that "hundreds of cars have been ticketed by park police" was not true.

Detwiler said police gave out 33 warnings and that no tickets were issued to the roughly 3,000 people who turned out for the event.

"We know there is a parking issue, and we are trying to address it," he said.

He also said he took offense to a comment that how parking was handled was "bad PR for council" and that "no one paid attention to where the crowd was supposed to park. It's all about the

Detwiler did not identify the individual or say exactly where the comments were made, only stating when asked after the meeting that they were on a website related to Mayor Bryan Blake-

When contacted on Wednesday in reference to the website Blakeman provided a link to his personal, non-government Facebook page for Sept. 4 that showed the comments Detwiler mentioned.

The post showed the comments were made by Terry McCoy, who is a member of the city's Chamber of Commerce and Tourism Bureau.

Blakeman said he had nothing to do with the comments and did not wish to be affiliated with

McCoy had posted the comments below a link to an article Blakeman had posted that was not even related to parking but was about the city being recognized by Ohio Treasurer Josh Mandel for participation in his transparency initiative.

Blakeman also had made no comments about the parking situation on his page or in the comments prior to McCoy leaving his remarks, although he did respond to McCoy's remarks directly with a statement that "...council doesn't care about parking and is OK with using laws that are not even published ..."

He was referring to council's vote regarding the Council OKs funds to update water plan

By KEVIN HOWELL Staff Writer

Council Wednesday night agreed to allocate money to update the 2011 plan to update the water treatment

Councilman Kevin Siembida, who encouraged council and village officials to revisit the project earlier this month, requested council approve the cost of engineering to update the plan. He said he feels the project needs to be reconsidered now that the village's water and sewer finances are improving. Village Administrator Gary Phillips said the engineering costs is likely to be between $1,000 and $2,000

Phillips said that council will need the updated estimates if it plans to re-visit the project.

Officials reiterated that even if the plant is brought back online, the village will not stop purchasing water from Salem, which has supplied the village with water since footing the majority of a multi-million dollar water line in 2008.

The village officials elected to purchase water from Salem as its sole provider after several issues with failing wells and lack of a new potable water supply.

Former council president Dan Summers, who attended the meeting, noted that the plant's filters were not sufficient and that was why the wells were not properly meeting the needs of the customers. He suggested council focus on new filters and cut back on Salem water, using it to supplement the current wells as previously planned.

In other business council accepted the resignation effective Oct. 1 of EMS Coordinator Kevin Cibula as firefighter, EMT. He accepted a position with the Green Township fire department last month and said he is resigning in Leetonia because he cannot serve on two fire departments as per Leetonia fire department bylaws. He said he forgot that he could not serve on both and elected to resign as EMS coordinator if he won't be serving on the fire department, as well.

The EMS department has been having issues with its budget and roster, so council requested an opportunity to meet with the department's membership prior to its by Johnson until his death last month. Bowersock said it is an honor to carry on the work of the party and plans to reach out to those who may have lost interest in attending meetings in hopes of reigniting their enthusiasm, and to young adults and those interested in running for office. "Having watched chairman Johnson, his years of experience will be helpful to the candidates in their important races next year.

"I expect to create new committees within the party to assist in achieving our goals and communicating our message. People should know that the Columbiana County Democrats are serious about recruiting candidates who believe Columbiana County has real potential for the future and are willing to work hard so that this county continues to be a great place to live, work and raise a family," he said.

Bowersock appointed county treasurer Linda Bolon to fill the vacancy of vice-chairman.

Former state representative Nick Barborak was also nominated for the chairman position, but he declined the nomination and threw his support behind Bowersock, who will serve out the remainder of Johnson's four-year term, which expires in March 2016.

Bowersock is a member of the county elections board and a lifelong county resident. He lives in Salem with his wife of 49 years, Mary, and they have four children also live in the area.

Bowersock is retired from Fordees Cooperation in Leetonia, where he was employed in the shipping and receiving department. He also served as the production expediter for Bonney Forge and Tool Corp. in Alliance, and in the production and control department at Morgan Engineering in Alliance, and at the A&P Warehouse in Salem.

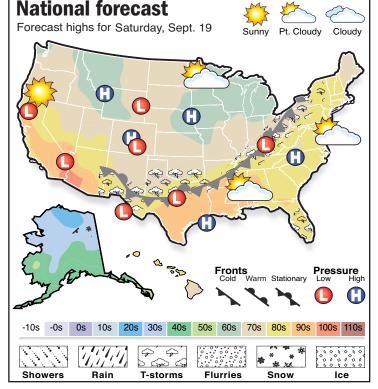

He also served as Deacon of the First Christian Church in Salem and was active with the Weekday Calling Committee, and was a pitcher, manager and umpire for the Salem Fast Pitch Softball league for 25 years.

United school board OKs raises for non-union posit

By KEVIN HOWELL Staff Writer

HANOVERTON - TheUnited Local school board Wednesday night approved an increase in salaries for non-union positions. The board approved the equivalent of the monetary increases for certified and classified employees, the unions of both having agreed to three-year contracts with increases each year of 3 percent for certified and 30 cents hourly for classified. The increases were available due to concessions in health care costs.

The non-union positions

urer and special education director, nor for Superintendent Steve Viscounte, who was recently rehired under the retire-rehire provision.

In other business the board hired Kelsey Brown as an elementary physical education teacher and accepted the supplemental resignations of Nancy Miller as varsity girls track coach and Shannon Clunen as high school newspaper adviser.

The board also approved supplemental coaching contracts to Josh Sigler, assistant boys basketball; Ryan Burd, ninth-grade boys basketball; Brandon Ellyson, Sarchett, ninth-grade girls basketball; Courtney Hydrick, eighth-grade girls basketball; and Luke Williams, seventh-grade girls basketball; as well as Loretta McLaughlin for community education coor-

Additionally the board accepted an anonymous donation of 22 warm-up jackets and pants for the boys soccer program as well as donations of $1,500 from the PTO for the high school student planners, $400 from the Youth Soccer Association for the boys soccer fundraiser, $1,500 from the athletic boosters for the cheerleading squad and

Also at the meeting, high school principal Bill Young responded to an article published in the Salem News and Morning Journal on Sept. 8 that stated United High School had the highest rate of Columbiana County districts of remedial students in their first year of college in 2013. In information provided after the meeting, Young said the study was not an accurate reflection of how well United graduates are prepared for college. He noted that the study took a snapshot of just one year and that student achievement fluctuates each year, much like test scores and top ten grade point averages.

"A better representation of student achievement would be a trend report over time," he said. "This would show what direction achievement is going.'

Young also questioned if the data used in the study was self-reported, either by the students or the institutions, and noted that the study only used data from public universities and community colleges, while United has a large number of students who attend private colleges and military academies. He cited the fact that the study only accounted for 26 of 65 students who pursued higher education in the 2013 graduating class.

Additionally, Young defended his students by pointing out that the high school has received an "Excellent" rating the past 10 years based on indicators on the Ohio Department of Education's annual report card and the U.S. News and World Report designated the high school as one of "America's Best High Schools" in 2014 based on data from the 2013-2014 school year and considered in part how well students are prepared for college.

"The report discussed in the Sept. 8 article does not align with what we know about the achievement and success of our graduates,' Young said. "I have no doubt that the information portrayed for other schools is also skewed at best and likely inaccurate.'

Rwanda offers model to save African wildlife

 \mathbf{W} ith worry about the futures of some of the world's great animals — tigers, lions and elephants come to mind — fully justified, events in Rwanda during the past few years are more than nice to reflect upon. They also may be a model for conservation.

In Rwanda, the mountain gorilla is making a comeback because the government there has made the great ape more valuable alive than dead. Just a decade ago, it appeared the mountain gorillas were well on their way to extinction. War and poaching were major threats.

But now, there is more money to be made in taking a single tourist to see a gorilla than in killing the animal and selling its body parts on the black market. Conservation pays — at the rate of $750 per person for a permit to view the gorillas in their native habitat. More money is to be made in guiding, feeding, lodging and otherwise entertaining tourists.

It works. The mountain gorilla population in Rwanda, Uganda and Congo has grown to about 900 animals.

Obviously (pun intended), the gorillas are not out of the woods yet. The program needs to be maintained and expanded. U.S. international aid officials, take note. If the gorilla success continues, similar programs — managed well, not like those in some nations that are mere shams — should be established for other endangered creatures. Again, the United States should help so that, just maybe, our great-grandchildren will be able to see tigers and other threatened animals without looking through the bars in zoos.

Now, North Korean officials are at it again, saying they plan to restart shuttered atomic fuel plants to make more and better nuclear weapons. At the same time, they note, they will test new missiles.

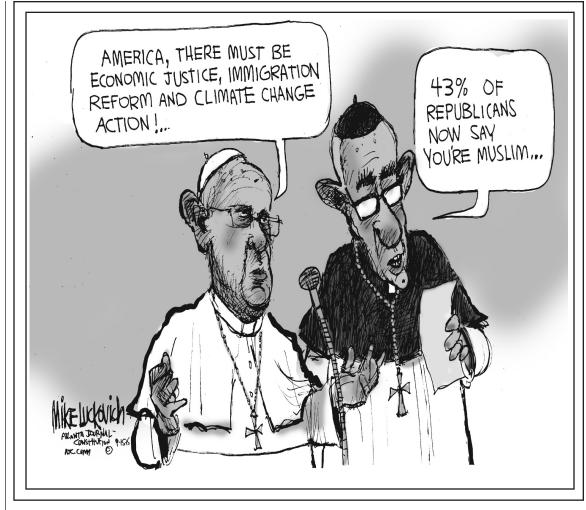

Some analysts say it is a ploy to wring more assistance from Washington and other nations.

In a way, one cannot blame North Korean dictator Kim Jong Un. He is watching closely as Iran reaps the fruit of President Barack Obama's appeasement-at-any-price policy, after all.

But time and time again, Pyongyang has breached disarmament pacts. Surely even the Obama White House recognizes playing Kim's game is certain to be a losing proposition.

Bernie Sanders does Liberty University must consider the belly of the beast on Monday. He spoke at the conservative evangelical Liberty University in Virginia. Some of those supporters sat in reserved seats, ensuring his remarks would be received with some applause.

Self-declared socialist and Democratic presidential candidate Bernie Sanders entered what his supporters

Liberal and Democratic speakers at Liberty are not as rare as one might think. In 1983, Sen. Ted Kennedy visited and spoke about religious freedom, standing up for the right of conservative evangelicals to be heard in the public square. Rev. Jesse Jackson delivered a message from Jerry Falwell's pulpit one Sunday morning. Donald Trump has also spoken at the school.

The reception to Sanders from Liberty students was more gracious than what conservative speakers usually get on liberal campuses, if indeed they are invited. Former Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice backed out of giving the commencement speech at Rutgers University last year when students and faculty protested her involvement in the Bush administration's support of the Iraq War. In 1987, Jeane Kirkpatrick, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, withdrew as the commencement speaker at Lafayette College when the faculty voted 60-34 to protest her receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree. These were victims of what passes for diversity and pluralism on too many campuses.

Sanders' message at Liberty was familiar. He railed against "income inequality" and trashed the rich. His proposal to raise taxes, offer free health care and free college for all would cost $18 trillion, according to an analysis by The Wall Street Journal. The central flaw in his socialist philosophy is that by penalizing success, you get less of it, along with less wealth to tax. And people who get free stuff often suffer diminished initiative and are robbed of a work ethic.

If the amount of available money were fixed (it isn't) and I took more than you did, that would be unfair, perhaps immoral, though Sanders' view of morality appears to stop at the abortion clinic door. Sanders said, "...I do believe that it is improper for the United States government to tell every women in this country the very painful and difficult choice she has to make on that issue. ... I believe in women's rights and the right of a woman to control her own body...

What about the rights of the unborn? Pragmatically, fewer babies mean fewer future taxpayers for his socialist programs.

The lessons for building wealth are not a mystery. That doesn't mean everyone can earn a CEO's salary, but it does mean that by making right decisions one can live independent of government.

Here are mine. First, get married. Having a spouse and children is a prime motivator for wealth-building. Second, save and invest. Even small amounts with compound interest begin to produce wealth. Third, don't work just to pay bills. Like the poor, bills you will always have with you. Build enough wealth so the bills won't matter, assuming you live within your means. Fourth, find someone who is poor and help them learn and practice these principles, perhaps donating some of your time to assist with their wealth-building. Fifth, don't assume in our increasingly mobile and technological age that you will keep one job your entire life. Be ready to change jobs, and even move when you hit a ceiling. Consider starting your own business, which may seem challenging at first, but can produce more than just financial rewards.

There is a downside to wealth, mentioned by sages throughout history. King Solomon said, "Whoever loves money never has money enough" (Ecclesiastes 5:10) and the classic warning from St. Paul, "The love of money is the root of all kinds of evil" (1 Timothy 6:10). As in all things, balance and moderation are Republican presidential candidates should promote ways for people to escape poverty and for the middle class to climb the economic ladder. It is part of our history, though many may have forgotten, or never learned it in school Building wealth built America. Tearing down the wealthy will lead to higher unemployment and economic collapse. That's what Bernie Sanders and other leftists refuse to understand.

The (Cincinnati) Enquirer, Sept. 14 Kim Davis is no Martin Luther King Jr. or Rosa Parks. But her decision to essentially countermand the Supreme Court's gay marriage ruling crystallized an important conversation about this nation's balance between religious freedom and state-mandated

We don't agree with Davis but her case is valuable if only to cause us to ask ourselves: Where would I defy the state to defend my principles? What would be worth sacrificing my freedom? These are questions worth pondering, even if only to understand why you disagree with Davis.

As an editorial board, we've had this conversation.

We've been clear in our position that Davis needs to follow the law of the land and issue marriage licenses. If she can't, she should resign or be impeached.

It's not pure chance that Kentucky is ground zero on this debate. So-called flyover states aren't as homogeneous as many might think. The commonwealth has a constitutional prohibition against gay marriage, yes, but it is a mix of relatively liberal urban islands amid a conservative rural sea. A gay mayor presides over Lexington, an hour west of Rowan County. This political geography makes for an excellent ideological laboratory in the clash between conscience and cold statute...

Time for VA's McDonald to step aside

McCAUGHEY

Robert McDon-ald, head of Veterans Affairs, claims he's making 'great progress" delivering health care to vets and turning around the agency's mismanagement and corruption. Don't believe him. Right now, more than vets who are automatically eligible for VA care are stuck on hold because the VA's enrollment process is broken.

35,000 combat

It's been going on for years. A new inspector general's report shows the VA system can't even tell when an applicant has died, or when the VA has mistakenly erased an application before it can provide

The IG report concluded that the VA lacks the management "to ensure the consistent creation and maintenance of essential data." Any company with that problem would go out of business -- and its CEO would be looking for another job. Why isn't McDonald? His cluelessness was on display at a recent Senate hearing, where he boasted that he's holding VA cheats and incompetents accountable.

First, he said, "More than 140,000 employees have been terminated" in the past year. What? That would be nearly half the VA workforce.

An incredulous Sen. Johnny Isakson, chairman of the Senate Committee of Veterans Affairs, asked, "But isn't it true that it's almost impossible for you to fire somebody under the current law?'

McDonald squirmed and said, "That actual number of fired is 1,800." A few minutes later, he stammered, "I meant 1,400." Isakson kindly said, "I'm not good at numbers either." It got worse. McDonald corrected himself twice more, saying "1,755 employees have been terminated," and then "755 is the number that's been terminated. It's clear he has no handle on his own agency's data. Anyway, a mere three people have been fired for the highly publicized manipulation of wait lists, according to Washington Post fact checkers.

And don't count on more firings. Mc-Donald told the senators he opposes any changes to the law to make it easier to fire VA employees. He says, "I think I have the tools I need."

Really? A full 110 VA facilities were implicated in manipulating wait lists -- so why only three firings?

Neither Congress nor the American people are getting a straight story from Mc-Donald. Rep. Dan Benishek, R-Mich., head of the House subcommittee on Veterans Healthcare, warned Saturday that "it's hard to trust" McDonald's claims of suc-

Especially, when he's talking about the Choice program. Congress created Choice a year ago to help vets escape from deadly waitlists and see civilian doctors on Uncle Sam's tab. But McDonald appears to be sabotaging it.

More than half of vets -- 54 percent -still haven't heard of it. Blame McDonald -- who joined the VA after running Procter to make Choice a household name, if he & Gamble, which turned Tide and Pampers into household names. He knows how wanted to. Instead, he's raiding the program's funding to pad the VA workforce, and pandering to the public-sector unions that want Choice to fail. McDonald needs to go before more vets die needlessly.

Last week, it came to light that vets in Minnesota with suspected traumatic brain injury -- a signature of the Iraq and Afghanistan battlefields -- are being denied exams by specialists and falsely told they have no brain injury. The presidential contenders have barely weighed in on the problems at the VA. Ben Carson suggests eliminating the whole agency -- but that's not a realistic approach; veterans' groups totally oppose it. Jeb Bush pledges to eliminate "billions of dollars in waste, fraud, and abuse." That's just political boiler-

The biggest defender of the VA status quo is Democratic contender Bernie Sanders. Despite his public vows to help vets, he worded last year's VA-reform law to protect public sector jobs. Maybe we'll hear more at the GOP debate. Donald Trump has already called Veterans Affairs "probably the most incompetently run agency" and says "I'd fire everybody.' That sure beats three.

parking situation on East Park Avenue relating to the Mercantile on the Square antique store. Council opted to keep parking prohibited in front of the store.

During the meeting Detwiler said that signs and caution tape were put up before the game for motorists to know of the parking changes, which consisted of new no parking signs being in posted in areas where old poles had been removed.

He also said there were six announcements made over the PA system for people to move their cars, including one that was illegally parked in a handicap spot and could have been ticketed but was not since the driver was told to move his car.

Detwiler also said in reference to the comments – specifically those targeted at council - the parking at the park was the responsibility of the park board.

"This is not council, this was park board. We researched this for the better part of the year," he said. "I guess what is more disturbing is who wrote the comments.

Detwiler did not identify McCoy during the meeting but only stated a few times the comments were made by someone also serving in a public capacity with the city.

McCoy was not at the Tuesday meeting.

Council Clerk and Chamber Director Deann Davis contacted the Journal on Wednesday to say the chamber had nothing to do with any comments made about the park.

'The Chamber of Commerce did not authorize anyone to make a statement on the parking situation at the park. The person who made the post is not a chamber director and is not authorized to speak on behalf of the chamber," she said kwhite@mojonews.com meeting Tuesday. They will meet at 6:30 p.m. at village hall to discuss Cibula's replacement.

Council also approved the first reading of an ordinance that will require EMS and fire department members to reimburse the village for training costs if they leave within a specific period of time. The increments start at six months and increase every six months up to two years.

Additionally Phillips reported that the Ohio Department of Transportation informed him that stop signs will be installed at the Chestnut Street railroad crossing due to an amendment to the Ohio Revised Code requiring stop signs at passive crossings (those without crossbars). Phillips said he planned to challenge the plan because he felt the crossing did not meet the definition of a passive crossing and installing stop signs would create a traffic hazard.

HOROSCOPE

By HOLIDAY MATHIS 9/19/15 Sagittarius Exploration

The gregarious Sagittarius moon and Saturn suggest we cast a net into the wide world and reel in new influences. Travel, Internet exploration and hometown tourism are favored. If entertaining at home, consider that there are many moving parts to accommodate without the stress of trying something new. Stick to the known with a twist

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You'll win the game, stomp the competition and claim victory in the battle. Knowing this, do you still want to take it on? Consider what the benefit to you will be beyond the momentary glory of winning. TAURUS (April 20-May 20).

There's a reason you never catch up with the one to whom you keep saying, "Let's catch up." The vibe is off, the match is a miss, the common ground is yawn-inducingly broad — and yet still, insincere niceties prevent discomfort.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). If you want to know who cares the most, exit and see who follows, leave the job unfinished and see who shows up to finish it, or fly away and see who sprouts wings

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Your wide-ranging interests pay off as you connect with many different types of people. The weird things you talk about with your intimates will lead to brilliant (and far less weird) conversation with acquain-

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You have many identities and roles. When one isn't going so well, expand yourself in another. For instance, if one relationship is bumming you out, losing yourself in a project or spending time with other friends will help

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You'll be inspired by learning about a variety of industries, cultures and subcultures. The lingo and ideas you pick up on are not only fun for you, but they also up your attractive quotient and make it easier for you to influence others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). There are too many options. You'll spin your wheels if you consider each one. Give a quick glance and ask: Helpful or not helpful? Potential doesn't count. Only things that are directly and immediately help-

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Did you lock the door? How old is the meat? When was the last time you checked the tires? It's safetyrundown time, and the old adage rings true: Better safe than sued!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The ones you love may not support all of your endeavors, but the support you do get is still valuable. Of course, the question was never "Is it valuable?" It was, "Is it CĂPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). There are many highly intelligent people who extol the virtues of idleness, loafing, loitering, lollygagging and let's not forget nap-ping. Might they be right? Test the AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). It should not be assumed that people do what they do because they like it. Other possible reasons: it's easy, it's there, it's what they know, it's comfortable. You can use this knowledge to affect change. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Because you're certain to make an impression, the question becomes: Precisely what kind of impression would you like to make? If you want to have fun in the short-term, you can be afford to be assertive or even shocking.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 19). This year is anything but a rerun. There's so much that's brand-new and utterly enchanting about this part of your life. Love puts a cool Instagram filter on the way you see the world. Fancy transportation and far-off places steal the show in November. February shows you breaking free from a group that has limited you. Taurus and Aquarius people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 44, 49, 3, 37 and 16

MERCURY RETROGRADE TIP No. 4: Obey cellphone eti-

As it is with all of the rules of etiquette, the etiquette of cellphone use is designed to help us get along, share space and respect one another's rights. While one person feels that he or she has the right to take a call in a public place, the person standing next to the cellphone talker feels that he or she has a right not to have to listen to a stranger's loud, one-sided conversation. Such an issue of public and private interest could come up many times as Mercury backs through Libra's realm of good manners. Who is right?

When in doubt about whether to take a call or not, it might be helpful to consider the sanctity of personal space. Think of each person as owning a little bubble of space around himself or herself. Of course, anyone who physically breaches a person's bubble of personal space is breaking the rules, and a reaction is warranted. Sound is the next worst intrusion. Anyone creating intrusive sound is violating the sanctity of personal space, and a reaction is also warranted. "Intrusive sound" includes distracting sound that is unnecessary for others to hear and that unduly commands the attention of others.

Putting the bite on rabies around world

Heloise

Dear Readers: RABIES. The word is scary, but do you know the facts?

Rabies (Lyssavirus) affects the NERVOUS SYSTEM of mammals. If you see a wild animal (skunk, bat or raccoon, for example) that is acting erratically, snapping at objects and foaming at the mouth, it may be infected with the rabies virus. Call your local Animal

The only way for a person to contract rabies is through a BITE from an infected animal. The virus is transmitted only through SALIVA; it is not blood- or airborne, nor can you get it through contact with animal waste.

Humans, surprisingly, rarely die from rabies here in the United States (death rates can be high overseas). You are most likely to be infected by a bat bite.

Government wildlife officials are trying to curb rabies by setting out feed laced with the rabies vaccine. This way, wildlife will self-vaccinate.

What's the best way to avoid getting the virus? Naturally, don't go up to wild animals and touch them. They could bite you.

Get all pets under your care vaccinated.

Fall on the side of caution. Seek treatment if you have been bitten.

Sept. 28 is World Rabies Day. This is an effort to make people aware of rabies and how to control it.

THE TAKE ON TISSUE

Dear Heloise: As a public-school educator, I'd like to ask parents to please consider purchasing tissue boxes for classrooms when buying school supplies.

I always buy a package of 12 boxes for my students to use. During the colder months, there are days when one box will last only one day, so what I buy is never

I am so thankful that each year, some parents will send a box or two to school! — Anna A. in San An-

Anna, even though this isn't a school supply, it's good for teachers to have a generous supply on hand. This may reduce the spread of those nasty germs! -Heloise

Dear Heloise: I bathe our small dogs in the tub with a shower hose, but they immediately move to the back of the tub, where the hose nozzle will not reach! We recently bought a small convection oven with one

Teen boy wants to stiff arm mom's friend

DEAR ABBY: I'm 16, go to high school, play football and make good grades.

At church every Sunday, a lady who is one of my mom's friends always makes a point of coming up to me to talk. She says things about me growing up to be a man, and asks me if I'm dating. She always gives me an extended hug. It's really uncomfortable for me, and embarrassing.

I tried to talk to my mom about it, but she just said her friend is a very affectionate person. To me, the way she does it is creepy and scary. I don't want to be unfriendly to anybody, but this is different. Any suggestions? — ENOUGH ALREADY, IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR ENOUGH: Yes. Listen to your gut. Tell your mother her friend is coming across as creepy and scary. Because her behavior makes you uncomfortable, avoid physical contact with her by stepping back when she tries to hug you. And if she brings up the subject of whether you're dating, change the subject ("Lovely sermon, wasn't it, Mrs. Robinson?"). Then walk away

DEAR ABBY: I've been living with my boyfriend for several years, and he has this habit of not locking the front door. Is this a guy thing? I have told him repeatedly that I don't feel safe when he does this, yet every other morning I wake up and the front door is not locked! I feel like a broken record. His response is: "I'm here. Nothing is going to happen." He also doesn't lock the balcony door. Even though we are on the second floor, I still hate coming home to doors in the apartment that are unlocked. It makes me feel vulnerable.

Am I overreacting? How can I talk to him about it without sounding like a nag? — AMBER IN TEXAS

DEAR AMBER: You are not overreacting. Your boyfriend appears to be operating under the delusion that he is a superhero. Too often we see reports in the news about yet another tragedy, after which a neighbor appears on camera saying, "I don't understand it. Things like this don't happen in our neighborhood."

Because you haven't been able to convince him to change his ways, the solution to your problem is to take the initiative and lock the doors yourself.

Husband uncomfortable with male friend staying in house

Mailbox

Dear Annie: My husband and I live in a very desirable area and are happy to have guests often. The problem is, a male friend of mine wants to visit, but my husband doesn't want to have a single man in the house while he's at work. He claims it would make him uncomfortable knowing that I was playing tour guide and sharing wonderful memories in his absence with someone he doesn't know well. My husband is aware that I am not, nor would I ever be attracted to this person. He says he would feel this way regardless of who the guy

We really don't have trust issues, so this is perplexing and embarrassing to explain to my friend. He cannot afford a hotel in our town, and was hoping to stay with us to save a few bucks. How should I tell him? — Not His Girlfriend

Dear Not: Tell him the truth — that you are so sorry, but your husband is uncomfortable having a single male staying in the house when he isn't home. If you have a friend who would put him up, that would be a kindness. You also can ask vour husband about having the friend out of the house during working hours. Send him to the beach, the museum or the local attractions. Otherwise, whether or not to visit under these restrictions is up to your friend.

Dear Annie: I read the article from "O," who asked how to dispose of an old Bible. I have the best solution for her.

Our brave men and women fighting to keep us safe often need a word of encouragement or solace to help them through a problem. I recently collected old Bibles from members of my church and mailed them overseas. This is a wonderful way to recycle our holiest of books. Plus it provides something very special for anyone who might be in need. - G.N.

Dear G.N.: This is a sweet suggestion, but if the Bible is torn, falling apart or otherwise too damaged to donate, it would be difficult to send overseas. Our readers had several other suggestions. Here is a sampling: From Jason: When doing construction, placing a Bible in the wall or floorboards will give a pleasant memory to those who know it is there. It will also be a surprise if future work is done and it is discovered. Anita: There are missionaries who would be happy to have even half of a Bible to share. Check the Bible Foundation at bf.org for locations to Quebec: The procedure in our Altar Guild was to burn the old Bibles in our fireplace along with altar linens, and put the ashes in the church gar-

- Police responded to a domestic dispute at the home of Paul Myers, North Vine Street, at 12:44 p.m. Sept. 11. Myers said his girlfriend was trying to steal his phone and he called police before things got out of hand. Police spoke to Angie McElroy, who said she just wanted the phone to call her mother to pick her up. She called her mother and left with her.

- Police were asked to check on the welfare of a resident at Apple

Grove apartments at 1:29 p.m. Thursday. The person was not home.

POLICE REPORTS

- Paul Myers, North Vine Street, called at 2:21 p.m. Thursday to say his girlfriend, Angie McElroy, was back causing problems after having moved out. Myers said she was trying to get in the house to remove items and each time she screams and yells at him. McElroy said she is living at a woman's shelter and was trying to retrieve her daughter's clothing, although the daughter was staying with Myers, who is her father, every other night. She was told not to come back unless police are present and not to try getting into the home by climbing in windows.

- Paul Myers, North Vine Street, called at 9 a.m. Friday to report Angie McElroy was trying to climb in his through a window. While there, McElroy asked if she could resume staying at the house, and Myers agreed.

- A clerk at the Days Inn reported Wednesday a vehicle had been parked in the lot for the past two weeks. The vehicle was registered to a man from Washington, Pa., and the plates had expired in 2013. Police found the person's address and called the home phone and left a message.

 Angel Shasteen, Graham Street, reported Sept. 11 a Kodak digital camera was missing from her home, and this occurred after her daughter had some male friends at the residence.

 Rick Eells, West Washington Street, reported Tuesday a weed trimmer worth $200 was stolen from his trailer.

- Greg Kidder reported Wednesday someone vandalized his grandmother's van again. Bonnie Kidder lives on East Pine Street Extension, and this time the rubber was pulled from the wiper blades.

 Scott Rudder called the police department dispatching screaming about Tim Wamsley at 7:18 a.m. Sep. 1. Rudder said Wamsley was talking to his friends while at Smith Oil and he did not like that. Rudder said they have protection orders against each other.

Dog stands guard for week protecting trapped friend

VASHON ISLAND, Wash. (AP) — A Washington state animal shelter says a dog dutifully stood guard for a nearly a week on Vashon Island to protect another dog that had fallen in a cistern.

Tillie, a setter mix, only left Phoebe's side to try to alert people of her trapped friend.

Amy Carey of Vashon Island Pet Protectors says the two were found Tuesday after they were reported missing by their owners last week. Vashon Island Pet Protectors says volunteers looking for the pair received a call about a reddish dog being seen on someone's property a few times before promptly heading back into the ravine.

Carey says the Pet Protectors followed the tip and found Tillie lying beside an old cistern. Inside rescuers found Phoebe, a basset hound, on a pile of stones above the water.

The dogs were cold and hungry but otherwise unharmed.

"It's really quite remarkable," Carey said.

PREP FOOTBALL — WEEK FOUR

Salem sends Wildcats packing in NBC opener

By RENEE COLEMAN-EICHLER

SALEM — Salem opened Northeast Buckeye Conference play Friday with 10-9 victory over Canton South.

The win gives the Quakers a 4-0 record.

Entering Friday's game, Salem had outscored its opponents, 119-27.

This league is a very difficult league and the schedule is very tough. We're prepared. We've evolved ourselves into being able to compete in this league and I don't care how many points we out score them by that one was enough to win and that's all that matters," said Salem Coach Ron Johnson.

With under five minutes to play in the game and looking at 1st and goal on the 9, it seemed that the Quakers were going to extend the lead. But, an offsides penalty and a run that netted a loss of 6 forced them back to the Wildcat 15. Salem turned the ball over on downs on the next play, after an incomplete pass, giving Canton South just over one minute to move the ball down field.

At first it seemed that Wildcat backup quarterback Silas Snyder would do just that hitting a quick 17 yard pass to Jake Daniska. Then on the next play a gang of Quakers took Snyder down for a loss of 5. Hoping for another big pass play, Snyder threw down field but Salem's Tony Maniscalco intercepted the pass to seal a victory for his team.

"It was coming down to the wire and we just had to make a stop," said Maniscalco. "Tyler McCoy and a few others got in on that sack and made it happen."

Also having big plays for the Salem defense were Kobe Leininger who had an interception which he returned for 11 yards and Ethan Bailey who had a fumble recovery.

The game was close throughout with neither

BELOIT — West Branch started off the second quarter with a one-hour delay because the field lights were not working.

When those lights finally started working, Warrior fans saw their team light up as well. West Branch scored 21 points in the second quarter to put Minerva away 45-7 on Friday.

Trae Hillyer did most of the damage in the first half with two rushing touchdowns, which were also the first two scores of the game. He finished with 17 carries for 107 yards and two touchdowns.

Then it was TJ DeShields' turn. He thew two touchdowns, one to Jeremy Gorby and the second to Austin R. Smith. He finished with 189 passing yards and only threw two incompletions.

When Minerva (0-4, 0-1 in the National Buckeye Conference) finally got on the board with an Adam Gross 14-yard receiving touchdown, the Warriors 3-1, 1-0) struck back. Breet Butcher returned the kickoff 93 yards into the end LISBON —After three straight blowout wins to open the season, the Lisbon football team got knocked on its heels for the first time Friday night.

Once the Blue Devils got going however, momentum snowballed.

After falling in an early wo touchdown hole. Lis bon exploded for six straight touchdowns to sprint past East Palestine 42-30 at War Memorial Stadium.

Quarterback Josh Liberati completed 12-of-18 passes for 210 yards, five touchdowns and no interceptions as Lisbon improves to 4-o. East Palestine falls to 1-3. "Two years ago if we fell behind 14-0 early we would have folded," Liberati said. "But I wasn't worried with this team, because I knew we would stay calm and give everything we had on every play.

After nearly upsetting Columbiana last week, the Bulldogs came out fired up against the favored Blue Devils.

East Palestine waltzed ahead 14-0 in the first quarter and looked to be driving for a third score midway through the second before Lisbon's David Toot came up with a big interception to turn things in Lisbon's favor.

The Blue Devils finally got the offense moving on their next possession.

Liberati hit senior receiver Jared White on a 45 yard crossing route, which set up a 20-yard Liberatito-White touchdown two plays later to make it 14-7 one minute before half-

"We needed a big play, and when coach (Tsilimos) called my number I knew I had to step up," White said. The Bulldogs compounded their problems when they fumbled the ensuing kickoff. Following the miscue, Liberati hooked up with Colin Sweeney on a 30-yard completion and 9-

"Once we made a couple of big plays, it seemed to pick the whole team up, White said. "Everybody had life going into halftime.'

they know exactly what they're doing. I don't think there was every a doubt in their mind. Tony made a great play," said Johnson. Besides the safety in the fourth, all of the scoring took place in the second quarter. Salem started it off with a 35-yard field goal off the foot of Max Righetti with 7:40 remaining in the second. The Wildcats answered on their next series when Trey Longoria ran in from 4 yards out. Now down 7-3, with the final seconds of the first half ticking away, Salem's D.J. Pullie took his only carry of the night into the endzone for a 5 yard touchdown. Both teams struggled to find an offense as their defenses held the teams to under 200 yards total offense.

"We have to work harder. This was an eyeopener. We have to work hard in the weight room and on the field," said Maniscalco.

Salem was able to earn 90 yards both in the air and on the ground for a grand total of 180 yards. They were led by Cooper Bezeredi who had 64 yards on 12 carries and 46 yards on seven catches. Quarterback Matt Weingart was 14-of-24 for 90 yards.

The Wildcats (1-3) were led by Trey Longoria who grinded out 58 yards on 19 carries, while Daniska had 64 yards on four receptions. Sndyer was 4-of-8 for 60 yards, while Brooks Herrington, who left the game in the second half with a rolled ankle, was 6of-14 for 84.

"It was an exciting game. That's NBC football right there. Hats off to Salem they did a great job. I'm proud of our boys and the way that they played. That was good football tonight and good hard working teams on both sides," said Canton South Coach Moe Daniska.

Western Reserve holds off Tigers

By LOWELL SPENCER

Staff Writer

BERLIN CENTER — It has been ten years since the Springfield Tigers and Western Reserve Blue Devils have faced each other on the gridiron. Maybe they should make it a yearly event again.

The Western Reserve Blue Devils dominated the first half of their game with Springfield, but only led 9o at halftime. Then they survived a last minute desperate comeback attempt by the Tigers to survive 9-7.

The victory pushed the Blue Devils to 2-2 on the season while the Tigers drop to the identical record. With just over a minute and a half remaining in the game, and the Tigers tralling 9-0, Tigers head coach Sean Guerriero pulled out a trick play to try to get his team a quick score. The Tigers faced a fourth and fourteen situation at their own 38-yard line. Quarterback Graham Mincher threw a latteral to his tailback Frankie Centofanti in the left flank. Centofanti passed the ball back across the field to a wide open Mincher who raced down the right sideline, then cut back to the center of the field for a 63 yard score with only 1:29 left in the game.

Well, you always have a couple trick plays," Guerrierro said. "We weren't moving the ball so I ended up calling it. Fortunately, it worked out."

However, the Devils special teams came up big on the ensueing kickoff as Cole Chelbus recovered the onside kick at his own 25 after it had bounce around for about ten yards. From there the Devils were able to bleed the clock for the

"I knew we were up two scores with two minutes to go," Devils Wyatt Larimer said. "I wasn't looking ahead, but I knew deep down inside me that we were going to get the ball back and run the clock

"This is one of my favorite teams," Blue Devils Coach Andy Hake said. "This is as good as the other teams that I have had. We just lost two games in the fourth quarter and we found a way to grow up and win a game in the fourth quarter. The Devils dominated the first half of the contest as they ran 42 plays to just 8 for Springfield. In the process, the Devils amassed 196 of their 261 rushing yards in the half. But they only held a 9-0 led courtesy of a Wyatt Larimer 1-yard run at the 4:08 mark of the first quarter and a safety with 1:28 left in the first stanza when Mincher had a bad snap go into the end zone.

"We felt great being up 9o considering that they were 2-1 beating two really good teams and it felt great having that score at halftime," Larimer said.

"Our offensive line came through," Hake said. "The challenge was on them. I give credit to our kids and our coaches.'

Next week Western Reserve travels to play Wellsville while Springfield will host Southern Local.

The Blue Devils weren't about to let off the accelerator. After forcing a turnover on downs. Liberati went back to the air, hooking up with White on a 39-yard score, to widen the margin to 28-14. He calmly flipped scoring passes of nine yards to Seth Davis and one yard to Cody Freeland on the next two possessions to put the game out of reach.

"I think we have the best receivers in the ITCL,' Liberati said. "At any given moment they can break a big play. Our line started blocking a lot better in the second half.'

East Palestine freshman quarterback Parker Sherry did a superb job moving the ball with his arm and his legs. A two yard-touchdown run from Randy Fegert capped an eight minute march on the game's first drive to give the Bulldogs a 7-0 lead. The Bulldogs were back at it again on the next drive, knifing down the field in six plays. Sherry took in a five-yard score to up the margin to 14-0. Sherry completed 20-of-37 passes for 313 yards, one touchdown and three interceptions. He added 64 rushing yards and two touchdowns. 'Parker does a nice job. He keeps progressing each week.

"We were knocked off balance early," Lisbon coach Jim Tsilimos said. "I don't know what exactly the problem is. East Palestine had a great game plan."

The Bulldogs made a last-ditch effort in the fourth quarter when Sherry hooked up with Jarrod Figley on a 68 yard score and ran in a 1-yard touchdown on the next posses-

Colin Sweeney snuffed out East Palestine's last hope with an interception with 3:04 left.

"We need to work on our consistency," Foster said. "I told the kids we are a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde team. We need to work on adjusting on the run when bad things happen and dealing with them in a mature way." Figley finished with seven catches for 181 yards. East Palestine running back Josh Pickett—the Bulldogs main big play threat—was battling a sore ankle that he tweaked last week. Pickett ran for 247 yards last week but was limited to 3 carries for 0 yards. He caught three passes for 45 yards. "The kids kept fighting," Foster said. "They could have let the wheels completely fall off the wagon, but to their credit they kept fighting.'

Lisbon is at South Range next week, while East Palestine hosts Sebring.

"Tonight made us realize that we need to come out right away with our "A" game," White said.

Ohio State-N. Illinois

NORTHERN ILLINOIS (2-0) at OHIO STATE (2-0) 3:30 p.m. Today (ABC)

Line: Ohio State by 34. Series Record: Ohio State leads 1-0.

WHAT'S AT STAKE Urban Meyer is 40-3 at Ohio State, including winning the College Football Playoff championship in January. Northern Illinois has been successful recently, too. The Huskies and Oregon are the only schools with 11 or more victories in each of the past five sea-

KEY MATCHUP

Northern Illinois quarterback Drew Hare against Ohio State's All-American defensive end Joey Bosa. Hare has thrown for 718 yards and six touchdowns without an interception and has rushed 16 times for 64 yards Bosa had two tackles (one solo) in his debut last week vs. Hawaii after being suspended for the Virginia Tech game. He had a sack vs. Hawaii negated because of a penalty

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Northern Illinois: Wide receiver Kenny Golladay is averaging 27.8 yards a catch and is second nationally in receiving yards per game (178.5).

Ohio State: Running back Ezekiel Elliott ran for three touchdowns and 101 yards against Hawaii, the seventh straight time he's gone over the century mark

GAME NOTES

Hare became the first Huskies quarterback to throw for 300 or more yards in back-to-back games since NIU became an FBS program in 1969. He had 360 yards against UNLV and 358 vs. Murray State. ... Ohio State had a streak of 24 straight games with a touchdown pass stopped by Hawaii to prevent setting a school record. ... The Buckeyes have a rushing TD in 25 consecutive games. Northern Illinois has won five of the past eight games against Big Ten schools

Kent St.-Minnesota

GOLDEN FLASHES VS. BIG TEN MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Passing has been a work in progress for Minnesota for a

The offense's imbalance has proven to be problematic at times, and junior quarterback Mitch Leidner has just a 52.4 percent completion rate for his career.

The Golden Gophers were 12th in the 14team Big Ten last season with an average of 147.2 yards through the air per game. They're currently 10th in the conference entering today's game against Kent State.

Leidner ought to have more help, though, as the season gets going. K.J. Maye and Drew Wolitarsky reliable wide receiver duo.

Through two games, Maye and Wolitarsky have combined to catch 22 passes for 288 yards and three touchdowns. In the entire 2014 season, they totaled together 26 receptions for 404 yards and one score. "Having guys like that to go to in key situations gives a guarterback like me a lot of confidence," said Leidner, who has not thrown an interception in his last 153 attempts, believed by Minnesota to be the third-longest active streak in the FBS. Leidner found Maye, a senior from Alabama, streaking up the left sideline for a 22yard touchdown pass with 55 seconds left in regulation last week at Colorado State to give the Gophers the lead in a game they won in overtime. Wolitarsky, a junior from California, has moved inside this season, but both players can play the "X" and the "Z" positions. In fact, on Maye's big catch, Leidner expected Wolitarsky to be running that fade route.

"K.J. told Drew to go down inside: 'I'll go take this one," Leidner said, smiling. "I was like, 'All right. They're both my guys. Whoever wants it, go for it."

CLASSIC UNDERDOG

Kent State has never beaten a team from the Big Ten, though the Golden Flashes beat Rutgers in 2012 before the Scarlet Knights joined the league. They lost 52-3 at Illinois in the season opener. Minnesota opened the week as a 23-point favorite.

Buckeyes ready for a test

COLUMBUS (AP) — When Ohio State coach Urban Meyer looks at Northern Illinois, he sees a lot of Big Ten in the Mid-American Conference champions. Considering the Huskies have beaten the last three Big Ten teams they have faced, that is not such a stretch. "Offensively, their quarterback is setting all kinds of records. They're 305 pounds on the defensive tackles," Meyer said. "Our players will respect them. I don't anticipate a problem with that. Because they're good.' Good enough to beat Purdue, Iowa and Northwestern, though, is not necessarily good enough to beat the top-ranked Buckeyes (2-0) on Saturday. For all of the success Northern Illinois (2-0) has had in recent years, including five straight seasons of at least 11 victories, knocking off Ohio State in the Horseshoe would be the greatest achievement in the history of the program. "They're exactly what you expect an Ohio State team to be," Huskies coach Rod Carey said. "They're big. They're physical. They're strong. They're well coached." He added: "I like to think we have a lot of those things on our program, too."

The Huskies and quarterback Drew Hare have put up huge passing numbers, opening the season with victories against UNLV and Murray State. The junior has thrown for 718 yards and six touchdowns, with no interceptions. He also gets wellprotected by an experienced offensive line.

"Honestly, they're probably the best offensive line we've seen thus far," Ohio State defensive tackle Tommy Schutt said. "They play hard. They play as a unit."

The defense carried Ohio State last week in a 38-0 victory against Hawaii. Offensively, the Buckeyes simply never found their groove. Cardale Jones will again start at quarterback for the Buckeyes. Expect to see at least some of J.T. Barrett. The Buckeyes tried to avoid using last week's strangely short week — a night game at Virginia Tech followed by a day game at home — for the sluggish performance. But they made it very clear they were happy to be back to normal this Meyer said on Wednesday the Buckeyes had two great days of practice.

Manziel to start on Sunday

BEREA (AP) — It's all in front of Johnny Manziel: The chance to silence the critics and prove he belongs in the NFL. On Sunday, Manziel can re-start his career. His shot at redemption.

Manziel will start Cleveland's home opener against Tennessee — and fellow Heisman Trophy winner Marcus Mariota — because Josh McCown remains out with a concussion sustained when he was hit while trying to dive into the end zone on the opening drive last week in New York.

This will be Manziel's third NFL start, and he's counting on it going a lot better than the two last year when Johnny Football was an ill-prepared, overwhelmed rookie who didn't look the part of a pro quarterback.

Following an offseason that included a 10-week stint in rehab and a renewed commitment to his profession, Manziel feels more prepared to take on the Titans than he did a year ago when his first start against Cincinnati ended with an embarrassing 30-0 shellacking at home.

"I definitely feel I'm in a lot better place now," he said Friday. "So I guess if I thought I was prepared then, I think I'm even more prepared now. I definitely feel
