EDITOR'S MESSAGE

This year we have tried, and I believe we have succeeded, in publishing a year-book that typifies the youth it represents.

We have tried to give to the student body of Salem high school a book that is modern in every respect. We have tried to make it one that radiates forth our school's ideals and traditions, so that, in future years when your school days are a thing of the past, you will treasure this volume for the happy and pleasant memories it brings to you. To reach this end we made it our duty to have the activities, the important events, and the outstanding achievements of the school displayed and recorded in this book.

If we, the Quaker staff of 1933-34, have succeeded in accomplishing these things, if we have made this book a true representation of our school, then we feel that we are amply repaid for all the work we have put into it.

THE EDITOR.

A FEW WORDS BY

Manager

WAY OF INTRODUCTION

DEDICATION

Because we feel that he is a true representation of the ideals, the standards, and the traditions of our school, because we feel that he has done his best to make the name of Salem High respected and revered by other schools in this state, we, the class of 1934, respectfully dedicate this, the twenty-eighth issue of the Quaker Annual, to Mr. J. C. Guiler, a staunch upholder of our school and a true friend to every student in it.

ADMINISTRATION

There is a body of men, definitely connected with this school, about which the students know very little.

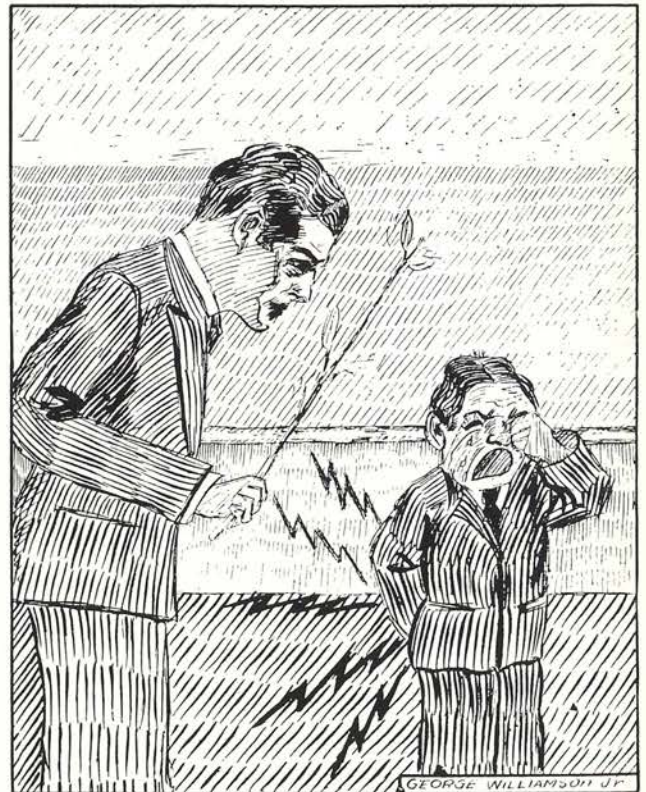

These men are seldom seen around the school and it is probable that the majority of the student body does not even know what they do. However, this fact does not detract from their importance in the least. These men really compose the power behind the throne. They appropriate money, determine the length of our school years, and help us out in a great many respects. They have especially helped the high school in a number of projects which, without their assistance, would have been impossible.

With these facts in mind and with all due respect and gratitude, we present the members of the Board of Education.

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

Let me congratulate you, of the class of 1934—first, on the successful completion of your high school course; and secondly, on the opportune time in which to finish your scholastic training. Your high school education was obtained during a most disastrous period in business and industry, yet, with slight variations, school continued. Most of you could not have found employment, had you wished to discontinue school. And now, when economic conditions have shown definite improvement, you find yourselves in a position to capitalize on them.

Whatever your plans for the future, remember that commencement means the beginning, not the ending, of educational aspiration. May you make the most of the opportunity that is yours.

A WORD ABOUT OUR FACULTY

Our faculty—these are the men and women who have guided us through our high school careers, the teachers who are largely responsible for the knowledge we take with us.

We have had our arguments with them. We have had our good times with them, and now, as we leave them, we realize that the students of Salem High will have to go a long way to get a system of school government that is more lenient with them or more fair to them than the one which now prevails in Salem high school.

The teachers as individuals have become interested in us as individuals; in our lives and in our activities. They have influenced us and we have retaliated in admiration and respect.

Most of them do not reside in Salem permanently, but live in various other cities and states. They have attended different schools and have lived in different environments. For these reasons they have been able to bring to us a wider and a more varied conception of life.

SENIORS

"It won't be long now." This popular phrase is quite appropriate when applied to the class of '34 for it won't be long until the seniors of today leave us to become the business men and women of tomorrow.

Perhaps some of them are glad to go, glad to get out on their own. For the most part, however, they are sorry. They look upon their departure with regret and perhaps with a little uncertainty as to what the future holds in store for them.

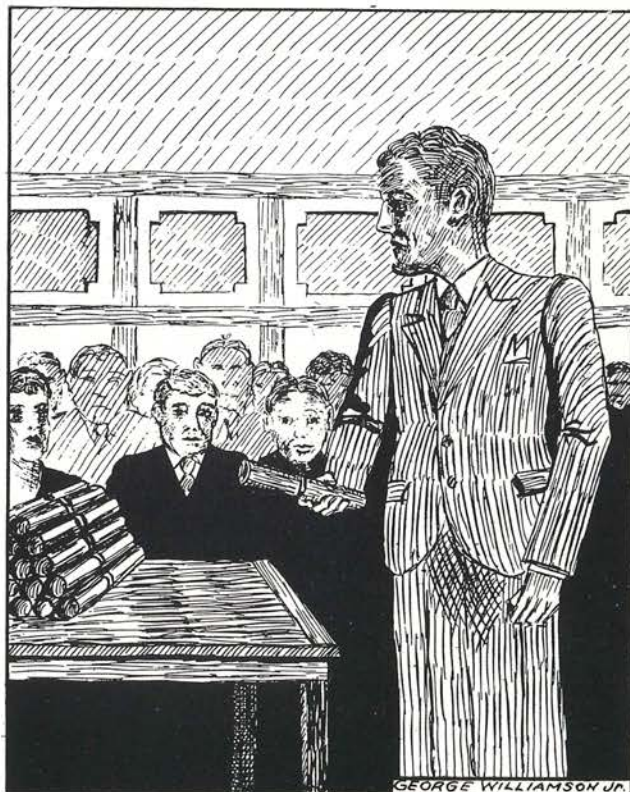

Some will go to college, some will go to work, and some will probably come back for post-graduate courses.

Although they are seniors in high school they are only freshmen in the school of life and they shall need help and kindly advice to start them on their course.

THE HISTORY OF THE SENIOR CLASS

How quickly the time flies! It seems as though it was just yesterday that we launched upon our high school careers and here we are graduating. These high school days have filled four of the most pleasant years of our lives.

The class of '34, two hundred twenty in number, was represented in almost every activity during its freshman year. Alfred Konnerth, Arthur Papesch, Walter Papesch, and Wayne Sidinger represented the class in athletics. Among the girls who made the basketball team were Helen Moffett, Avien Paxson, and Marianne Mullins. The freshmen girls also made a good showing in hockey and soccer, while promising material for future track teams was in evidence among the boys.

The biggest event of the year was the freshman-sophomore party. The gym was decorated with the color schemes of the two classes. After a program consisting of musical numbers and two short plays, dancing was enjoyed.

Our sophomore year began with the perplexing problem of electing class officers. The officers chosen were: Troy Cope, president; Richard Haines, vice president; and Oland Dilworth, treasurer. This year the class started its treasury by sponsoring a concert given by the Mount Union Glee Club.

The new members of the class were Margie Hutton and Vernon Long. Paul Smith won honors in the Brooks Contest.

We were justly proud of Wayne Sidinger and Walter Papesch, who made the football team. Wayne also made the varsity basketball team. Marianne Mullins, Helen Moffet, and Avien Paxson made the girls varsity team. Stanley Kamasky and Toefil Andrei gained recognition on the track team. Stanley took honors on the Cross Country team by placing eleventh in the district meet.

The crowning event of the year 1931, was the freshman-sophomore party, an event that will be remembered by every member of the class.

In September, 1932, we began our junior year by electing Robert McCarthy, Margaret Moff, and Oland Dilworth as president, vice president, and treasurer respectively. The new members of the class were Bob Marcus, Bill Paxson, Dorothy Osgood, and Melville Rutter.

Paul Smith was made assistant editor of the Quaker. In the Brooks Contest we were represented by Bill Paxson, Ruth Obenour, Clare Markovich, and Ruth Ruggy. LaVerne Libert was a cheerleader. The debaters were Paul Smith, Paul Strader, and Bob Marcus.

In April the class play, "The Queen's Husband," was given. The cast included Albert Allen, Ruth Obenour, Margaret Moff, Bill Paxson, Harold Parker, Dorothy Benzinger, Wayne Sidinger, Max Long, Robert McCarthy, Catherine Ladd, Paul Smith, Bob Snyder, Marianne Mullins, Dorothy Astry, Alroy Bloombery, Troy Cope, Betty Long, Charles Gibson, Kathryn Cessna, and Dick Haines.

The members of the class enjoyed a class party and two Association parties, but the supreme social event of the year was the Prom. The banquet was held at the Masonic temple and the dance was in the gym, which was decorated as a peach orchard.

As seniors we welcomed Devere Dunn, Ruth Rhea, Thelma Glasier, and Shirley Arfman as new members. Virginia Roup also returned to graduate with us. We re-elected Bob McCarthy as president, Margaret Moff as vice president, and Oland Dilworth as treasurer.

Then came the class play, "Seven Keys to Baldpate." It was successfully produced under the direction of Miss Lanpher. The cast was composed of Louis Weirick, Louise Hixenbaugh, Paul Smith, Max Long, Dorothy Benzinger, Betty Long, Bob Snyder, Ruth Obenour, Alroy Bloomberg, Troy Cope, Charles Gibson, William Adams, Harold Parker, Wayne Sidinger, and Walter Grimes.

Paul Smith, Paul Strader, Vera Yoder, Ruth Ruggy, and Troy Cope aided in bringing about a very successful season for the debate team.

The seniors gainig prominence in athletics were: McCarthy, Kaercher, Malloy, Shafer, Cope, Pukalski, Snyder, Varinaitis, Konnerth, Tetlow, and Papesch, football; Pukalski, Sidinger, and Kaercher in basketball; and Woods, Smith, Kamasky, and McFeeley in Cross Country.

We were represented in band by Oland Dilworth, Marie Callahan, Alroy Bloomberg, Bob Wentz, Bill Kendall, Lela Naragon, Fred Frank, Dorothy Day, Katherine Taylor, Bob Snyder, Louise Hixenbaugh, and Helmut Maroscher. Members of orchestra were: Lela Naragon, Dorothy Day, Katherine Taylor, Lefa Vincent, Louis Weirick, Oland Dilworth, Marie Callahan, and Bob Wentz. Charles Gibson was student leader of the band, while Stefan Oana was drum major.

Two out of a class of 162 are three year students, Margaret McCulloch and Legina Volio. Ruth Ruggy and Marjorie Hostetler are the two honor graduates, while Mary Ruth Greeneisen and Robert Snyder tied for third place. Paul Smith and Paul Strader were chosen as the other commencement speakers.

The Association officers chosen by the student body were Robert McCarthy, president; Margaret Moff, vice president, and Robert Snyder, treasurer.

The goal set by the class for its treasury was five hundred dollars. Part of this money will go for the gift to the school and part for the senior farewell party. The remainder will be given to the Alumni Scholarship Fund.

As we look back over the four years of our high school careers we realize that they have not only been filled with labor, toil, and pleasure but that we have prepared ourselves for the higher things in life.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE CLASS OF '34

We, of the class of '34, being in our right minds and feeling that, for the majority of us, our existence as seniors of Salem High is about to end, hereby bequeath and consign our possessions, such as they are, to some of our undergraduate fellow-sufferers.

As a class, we wish to leave to the rest of the classes our names carved on various desks, and innumerable wads of chewing gum, to love, protect, and cherish, so long as they may be here to do so.

As individuals, our wordly possessions are to be distributed as follows:

Alroy Bloomberg leaves his gift of gab to Jim Baxter, Don Hammell, and Dick Harris, as one person couldn't possibly use all of it; Charles Gibson leaves one well-worn dictionary to whoever desires it (don't all speak at once!); Johnnie Pukalski leaves his senior dignity to Margaret Williams; Olie Dilworth wills his "way with women" to Jackie Harroff; Bob McCarthy leaves his energy to George Gibson; Martha Wells leaves a valued reference book entitled "Insects—Human—How to Exterminate" to Cora May Reich; Walt Grimes leaves the debate team to get around on its own; Fred Barckhoff leaves all Mr. Jones' implements in the chemistry lab; Vera Yoder leaves several pencil stubs to the future journalists.

Our dear editor leaves his chewing gum and tooth-picks to Alex Frattila. Bunny Snyder reluctantly leaves the girls. Virginia Roup gives Caroline Bush a book entitled "The Life of the Party." Paul Bradley leaves his retiring disposition to Thirl Meade Eckstein. Bob Lozier has an essay on Love for Bob Hostetler. Bill Adams has a treasured pen-knife that goes to Harry Bischel so he can make his mark in Salem High. George Izenour leaves for Alliance. John Huber leaves an eraser to the typing class. Butz Konnerth thankfully leaves German class. Bob Holdereith gladly gives anything of Martha's to anyone who may want it. Troy Cope leaves his car (?) to the automechanics classes, and bets them a milkshake that they can't make it any worse than it already is. Teofil Andre has a fool-proof method of bluffing teachers that Jeanette Flick falls heir to. Hattie Roth leaves her part of the locker empty. Whitey Kaercher leaves several uncompleted baskets to the next year's team. Rex Hundertmarck leaves forever. Kathryn Taylor hereby relinquishes all claims to the snowball-throwing championship to Margaret Stewart. Dick Haines gives Mary Bunn a book and leaves as quickly as possible. Bob Gray gives one dead turtle to the Biology classes. Max Long leaves loud noises in the halls of Salem High. Paul Baltorinic leaves a few A's to Dick Eakin. Rudolph Bodendorfer leaves one reinforced upholstered armchair with the bottom out, to Stewart Painter. Fred Frank leaves a rubber-band to Charles Palmer. Harold Bush leaves a few feet of height to Teddy Butler. Charles Hum leaves one curl to Joanna Adams. Herbert Bush just leaves.

Devere Dunn leaves a rubber nickle to the Board of Education. Bill Kendall wills his memory to Bob Battin. Stanley Kamasky leaves his fleetness to Charles Berg to use as he may see fit. Bob Ketterer leaves all his A's to Harry McCarthy. Charles Malloy leaves to be a fireman like Daddy.

Mae Lottman gladly gives Jean McCarthy her Journalism book. Dorothy Miller donates one stick of gum to the turtle in the Biology lab. Margaret Moff leaves anything she may have to anyone who wants it. Grace Lozier leaves the golf-playing members of the Faculty one book on Mohammedanism, which will tell them 99 different names for the deity. Margaret McCulloch leaves the Quaker Staff in the lurch. Connie Morgan bestows her studious nature upon Gail Herron. Sara Starbuck leaves a pleasant memory. Bertha McGaffick leaves three lost vanity cases to Sally Holroyd. Edna Mentzer leaves on the bus. Lillian Mundy gives the boys' cooking class one unbreakable dish. Lela Naragon leaves with Dorothy Day. Helen Moffett leaves, running. Harriet Nusbaum donates one empty tablet to the bookkeeping class. Mildred Ospeck leaves her name on the Honor Roll. Rose Marie Scullion leaves her ability to translate Latin to future classes. Lorraine Patterson leaves, talking. Josephine Severyn leaves a toy soldier to Dick Wernet. Helen Pauline bequeathes a toothless comb to Jeanne Auld. Mary Louise Rea leaves Helen Huber her quiet manner. Mabel Reynolds leaves with Dessie Riffle. Kathryn Simone leaves her seat in assembly. Reta Mae Smith sadly leaves the Business Staff. Florence Solomon leaves a smile for next year's freshmen. Marianne Mullins has a treatise on "The Female of the Species" for Mr. Brown. Mary Terry and Julia Woods leave together. Ruth Rea has a bean-shooter for Charles Freed. Clare Markovitch gives three hairpins to Lois Bailey. Anne Varinitis leaves the "aitis" off her name. Lefa Vincent leaves one broken violin string to the orchestra. Gladys Vincent leaves tearfully. Ruby Walton leaves Marye Giffin an empty pocketbook. Esther Zeck wills a bottle of ink to Mary Baxter. Elsie Whinnery has three worn-out pairs of ankle socks for Jeanette Astry. Adela Weiss leaves Mr. Henning a bottle of wave-set. Bill Litty leaves gratefully. Martha Barnhouse leaves in a hurry. To this we set our hand and seal, CLASS OF '34.

PROPHECY OF THE CLASS OF 1934

A sensation of returning life crept through me.

"You've been asleep for twenty years," a voice announced to my horrified ears.

"Heavens," thought I, "I must have forgotten to set my alarm clock."

My eyelids fluttered open and I sat up, to behold to my amazement, a line of doctors, nurses, and what-nots, standing around me staring breathlessly.

I tried breathing, and found it entirely delightful. Everyone looked relieved and one of the professionals whom I recognized as being Arthur Fronius, said he was the scientist who had forced me to slumber for twenty years, in order to give his new life-ray a trial.

So now I was once again numbered among the living, and experiencing a distinct longing for my classmates, whom I had evidently not seen since 1934.

"If I am not dismembered, show me around the town, and let me see those dear familiar faces again," I pleaded.

One of the nurses, who was none other than Ruth Ruggy, rang for the head doctor's private autogyro (which belonged to Richard Haines) and soon we ascended.

I peered anxiously below, and through one of the glass houses caught a glimpse of Marjorie Hostetler instructing four would-be players, Robert Lozier, Robert Stamp, Homer Veon, and Roy Yeager, in the art of playing contract bridge.

In the next house, Kathryn Cessna was teaching Gertrude Bodendorfer and Louise Hixenbaugh how to flip pancakes.

On a near-by street corner, Robert Snyder was selling green apples to two blushing brides, Alma Dick and Dorthy Jane Dixon.

We floated on and hovered momentarily above the court house in which I saw a lawyer, Paul Strader, Jr., pleading in defense of a hardened criminal in the person of Donald Murphy. Seated on the judge's bench was Dorothy Astry, the great defender of women's rights.

In the next room, the mayor, who was Roland Reinthaler, and the city dog-catcher, John Varinaitis, were absorbed in a game of tiddli-winks. The referee was Marie Callahan.

In an adjoining building, Mary Bender was painting a portrait of Stephen Oana to illustrate and advertise Papesch Parker and Papesch Beautiful Baby Bonnets.

Peering down the avenue, my startled eyes perceived Ruth Obenour taking a stroll, followed by her fourteen youngsters. She stopped once to buy some spinach from the town spinach-vender, Paul J. Smith.

We neared a theater on which shone in bright lights the sign "The Lady and the Louse, starring Catherine Ladd and John Pulkalski." Looking backstage through the glass roof, I saw Mary Haldeman and Albertina Krauss training caterpillars to jump through a hoop. Nearby, a stagehand, Francis Strader, was devouring "The Incidius Ephilius of the Paramesium," written by George Woerther.

On the stage, an adagio dancer, Wilbur Stallsmith, was hurling Dorothy Day into the arms of Charles Malloy. This act finished and was replaced by three fan dancers, Helena Beery, Helen Detell, and Laverne Libert. Next came a Mae West impersonation in the person of Betty Long.

Seated in the front row were the two operatic stars, Josephine Cobb and Albert Thomas.

Floating over town and into the country, I perceived, in a secluded cottage, Wayne Sidinger, the author, hard at work on his latest book, "The Licorice-drop and Its Effect on Civilization."

Not far away, four charming milk-maids were wading in a brook. I recognized Ellen Andre, Shirley Arfman, Frances Kuniewicz, and Mary Ellen Ketterer. Four farmhands, John McCartney, George McCloskey, Ervin Stratton, and James McLaughlin, sustained a bashful silence, nearby.

As we approached the farm house, I recognized the farmer's wife, Dorothy Benzinger, giving instructions on how to trap fugitive moths, to her maids, Claris Bailly and Dorothea Chamberlain. In the barn-yard, Mary Kuhl was dealing rations to the fowls.

We flew across the fields to an airport where Martha Jane Leonard was alighting from her little sport plane. Helmuth Maroscher, the enterprising owner of the airport rushed out, followed by five mechanics, Lester Tetlow, Lee Shafer, Charles Russell, Genesta Coppock, and Kathryn Courtney to equip themselves with Wentz-Walton and Williamson Popular, Painless Parachutes.

Retracing our flight, we winged our way townward, passing the Mary Ruth Greenisen Home for Feeble-Minded Mice, conducted by Martha Holderieth and Kenneth Wood. One of the "keepers of the mice," Hilda Henning, was taking an inmate for an airing, but encountered serious difficulty upon meeting Sam Vogelhuber and Josephine Dolansky relentlessly chasing butterflies which had escaped from a "Flea Circus" owned by Lucille Dole and Ruth Engler.

As I was beginning to feel faint with fatigue, we returned at last to the Haines' medical laboratories, where I was conducted within by the attendants, Evelyn Gamble, Laura Hawley, Helen Horning, and Ocea Johnson.

Realizing that the subject of his experiment was suffering a relapse, Professor Fronius applied rejuvenating rays, but to no avail. My classmates and their destinies had been revealed to me: Now, as always, sleep represented my Paradise. I slept.

JUNIORS

They're juniors now, but how the time flies. In another year these faces will peer at you from the front pages of the book, the senior division.

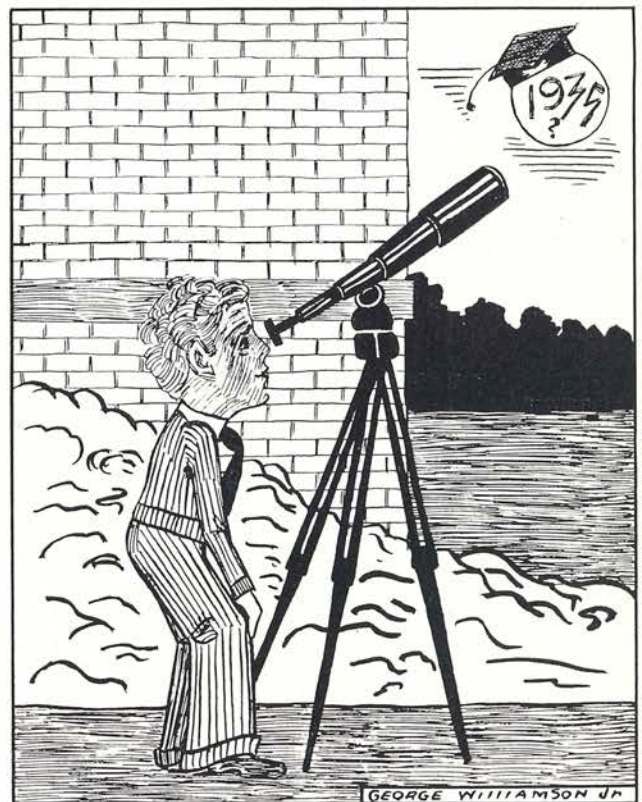

Not long ago these same students were just leaving the underclassmen stage, looking forward to their careers as upperclassmen and to the numerous privileges which they had hitherto been unable to enjoy. Now they are ready to take over the reins that the seniors are leaving behind, ready to accept the responsibilities that will fall to them as the oldest and most experienced of the student body.

Each year the positions change hands and go on as successfully as before, and we know that the class of '35 will make no exception to that rule.

William Ballantine

IN MEMORIAM

William Ballantine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ballantine, died on April 3, 1934.

William, a student of Salem high school and a prominent and popular member of the junior class, was very active in student life. He was one of the four cheerleaders this year and was actively engaged in various other school activities.

The students of Salem high school miss him, and because we respect him in death as we respected him in life we dedicate these two pages to the memory of William "Bill" Ballantine.

THE CLASS OF '35

President—Harry McCarthy

Vice President—Ben Cope

Secretary-Treasurer—Donald Hammell

Throughout our high school career the members of the class of '35 have excelled in athletics and other scholastic activities.

Many of the boys have been out for football for several years. The most promising of these are Mike Fromm, Roy Fryan, Alfred Rich, and Farber Tinsley.

In basketball Ben Cope, Thirl Eckstein, Charles Palmer, Jack Mullins, Charles McCloskey, and Earl Zelle represented the class in the 33-34 season.

In 1932-33 when girls basketball was still played in Salem high school, Cora May Reich, Stella Kuniewicz, Hermina Linder, Hazel Anderson, Marie Lesch, and Hilda Kloos were members of the team.

The junior class is well represented in the band and orchestra—Aubrey Clay, Tom Bennett, Ben Cope, Charlotte King, Mary Shriver, Thelma Filler, Harold McConner, Charles Knisley, Dorothy McConnor, Margaret Williams, Christina Robinson, and Helen Huber, all being members.

The junior class is proud to claim the cheer leaders—Dick Harris, Harry McCarthy, and Don Hammell. Despite the depression, the class of '35 as sophomores successfully sponsored a week of movies at the State theatre.

On December 22 the Juniors held a "kiddie" party at which a "white elephant" gift exchange was featured.

The "Charm School" by Alice Duer Miller and Robert Milton, a comedy in three acts, was given on April 5 and 6 by a cast composed of: Charles Palmer, Thirl Eckstein, Fred Roth, Dan Bahm, Richard McConnor, Harry McCarthy, Jack Mullins, Mary Bunn, Cora May Reich, Clara Mae Rich, Helen Huber, Joyce Chatfield, Mary Frances Jurgens, Dorothy McConnor, Margaret Williams, Florence Kleon, Janet Walker, and Anna Ruth Vincent.

After having successfully completed three years of our high school career we are anxious to make our fourth and last, one of which we may be justly proud.

SOPHOMORES

The sophomores of this year are what we might call pioneers, in that they set a new precedent in their freshman year.

Before these sophomores entered high school the freshmen were not allowed to have officers for their class. However, the class of '36 gained this privilege and elected officers. This new plan has been followed by this year's freshman class.

The rank of sophomore has always been an enviable one for when one is a sophomore he still cherishes unpleasant memories of what happened when he was a freshman. Consequently he can vent his rage on the new freshman and still retain a clear conscience.

A good sophomore is one who can live through the ravages of his freshman year without acquiring an inferiority complex.

THE CLASS OF '36

President—James Campbell.

Vice President—Eddie Pukalski.

Secretary-Treasurer—Vance Stewart.

The class of '36 has made an enviable record for itself in both scholastic and athletic records in its two years in high school.

The class was well represented on the football squad by Paul Williamson, Eddie Pukalski, Charles Priestler, and George Davidson.

Three of the boys made the basketball team. They were Eddie Pukalski, Jack Harroff, and George Davidson.

Cross Country and Track also drew representatives from the sophomore class.

The following sophomores were members of the high school Band—Ruth Cornwall, Charles Freed, Jack Harroff, Ruth Auld, Frances Vincent, Verna Brown, Joe Pales, and James Hilgendorf. Those in the Orchestra were—Joe Pales, Stewart Painter, Mary Jane Shoe, Frances Vincent, Jack Harroff, Ruth Cornwall, Charles Freed, Arnold Nye, and Lois Dilworth.

The annual freshman-sophomore party was held April 20. The gym was decorated very originally and the party was a great success.

The class of '36 began a new custom of electing class officers their first year. The freshmen class officers were:

President—James Campbell.

Vice President—Lois Dilworth.

Secretary—Vance Stewart.

They were also the first class to raise money for their class treasury their freshman year. They sponsored a musical concert given by Joe Marsilla for this purpose.

The class displayed their talent in an assembly which they gave on St. Patrick's Day. This was also given their first year.

The sophomore class has been very successful in the first half of its high school career. Let's hope it will be just as successful the last half.

A FEW TIMELY HINTS

As we, the sophomore class of 1934, leave to embark upon our careers as juniors we are mindful of the fact that this year's freshman class will take our place. Because we realize that the experience will be somewhat novel to the members of the freshman class, we take it upon ourselves to issue several words of warning concerning the various phases of sophomore life in Salem high school. Since, for the present at least, we feel philanthropic and altruistic, we hereby issue some very important and serious words of warning to our successors.

Do not become too hard-boiled, the upperclassmen have a way of taking you down a peg or two.

Paddle all the freshmen you can on Hallowe'en night but keep away from the juniors and seniors, they might be of the same mind concerning you.

Don't let the freshmen dance with your girl at the annual party. She probably won't like it and most freshmen can't dance anyway.

Drink all the punch you can possibly get. That keeps you from having an empty feeling in the pit of your stomach if some girl chisels a dance on you. Girls! Chisel all the dances possible. That makes the boys appreciate it when they do get a dance.

Before it is too late please heed this one last, but not least, word of warning. Don't ever go into a freshmen study hall alone, that is unless you are surrounded by automatic paper wad deflectors or some such contrivances.

Well—So long, future sophomores, and don't forget this—we'll be juniors.

FRESHMEN

Before we present the freshmen we feel that we should remind you of their status in high school.

The "freshies" as we call them, have pretty rough going until after Hallowe'en. During this time they are subjected to all kinds of embarrassing situations, paddlings, maulings, and anything else the older students can think of.

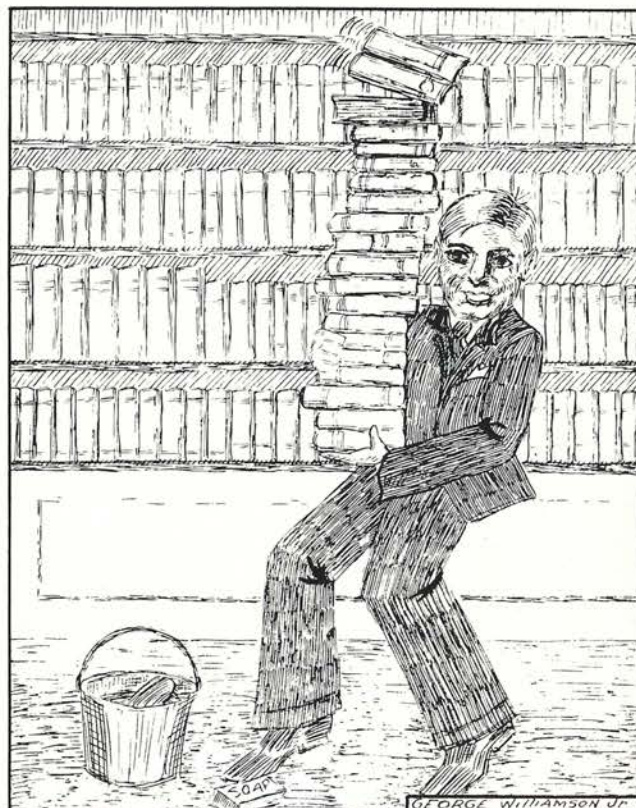

If they prove their metal and retain a friendly and serene disposition, they are, for the most part, left alone for the rest of the year. However, a freshman must always keep his place or he is liable to severe chastising by his brother sophomores, juniors and seniors.

We kid them and we make them the butt of many a joke but we really couldn't get along without them. They are as necessary to our school as a small bud is to a flower.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF '37

Last September, Salem High received into its midst, as obscure and humble freshmen, the class of '37. This class, not willing to remain in obscurity, soon became an important factor in the school activities.

Among the freshmen who sought admittance into football life were: Frederick Brantsch, Lester Getz, Robert Hertz, Paul Roelin, James Shea, George Gibson, Howard Tibbs, and William Weigand. Also three boys, Dale Anderson, Kenneth Leipper, and W. Birkhimer, went out for cross-country. In basketball, too, the freshman class held its own. Among those on the reserve team were: Clay Raynes, Delmar Shaeffer, Kenneth Shears, and Donald Slagle. There were also many freshman aspirants for track.

Three freshman girls, Peggy Jennings, Betty Martin, and Jean McCarthy became a part of the Library Staff. The number of the Quaker Staff was also increased by two members of this class—Jean McCarthy and Jane Metzger.

The class had the honor of possessing two members of the debate team—Arthur Brian and Kenneth Leipper.

At the beginning of the second semester, the freshman class organized under supervision of Miss McCready. They elected the following officers: Kenneth Shears, president; Arthur Brian, vice president; Arthur Bahmiller, secretary-treasurer. The class was very successful in its efforts to raise money, purchasing and selling "magic slates".

An assembly composed, directed, and presented by the class was received with enthusiasm by the other classes.

The traditional party, always held by the freshmen and sophomores, was, this year, an event of April 20. In the gym gaily decorated as a perfect spring day the classes danced and made merry. Lively entertainment and delicious refreshments completed an enjoyable party.

A number of freshmen girls formed a part of the newly organized Girls' Athletic Association.

The memberships of the band and orchestra this year contained quite a few freshmen musicians.

And so, with one year of their school life completed, the class of '37, stand high in the regard of their fellow students and teachers. They look confidently into the three coming years, ready to work and play.

The best of luck, Freshmen!

A FRESHMAN'S CONCEPTION

Of all those clubs and staffs that claim
Distinct influence and great fame
In matters of this school both small
And great; there is no other one at all
Who has more right to make that claim
Than this great one that I shall name
Our famous Quaker Staff.

This staff that faithf'ly meets each week
In 203 and tries to seek
For knowledge that it may produce
A paper for the School's own use
This gang's a help I beg to state
Its service to the school is great
Our helpful Quaker Staff.

If you observe with care, the Staff
You might be quite inclined to laugh
I will admit its looks are bad
But then all geniuses look mad
Its members are extremely bright
The trouble is they cannot write
Our brilliant Quaker Staff.

The Editor is really cruel
He's dreaded by the entire school
The Staff must work and work and work
To gather news. And if they shirk
A bit on what he has assigned
He says to them "You are resigned".
———Our tyrannical Editor.

Maidens on this Staff are charming
Tho' all times their words disarming
We depend on them for scandal
Its one job that they can handle
It's a girl that writes "I Wonder"
Does she gossip? Yes, by thunder.

And tho' to us the Staff may seem
A worthless lot, who sit and dream
But never do a thing worthwhile—
Whose columns are quite juvenile
The Staff's the best we've ever had Next year's will be indeed as bad
———Our worthless Quaker Staff.

ACTIVITIES

What would life in school be if we didn't have our activities? Activities! That is what we call the various clubs and organizations which hold sway after the seventh period. These activities are a vital part of our high school, as important to the spirit and atmosphere of the school as the regular classes which we attend. No one can deny the fact that a regular routine of classes grows boring. No matter how hard our teachers try to make them interesting, our regular studies are not all that can be desired by enterprising students. For the ambitious students who want to be active and for those who want to gain extra knowledge of a more practical kind, we have our clubs and other organizations.

Because we believe that life would be rather dull without them and because we think they offer invaluable training, we present the activities of Salem high school.

The Quaker editorial staff, composed of twenty-four students, enjoyed a successful and interesting year; successful as to work well done and interesting as to experiences encountered.

The staff provided the material for and made up the copies of thirty-one issues. It also provided the material for this year-book. On the third and fourth of November, Paul J. Smith, Alex Fratila, and Mr. H. C. Lehman, faculty advisor, attended the annual convention of the Ohio State Journalism Association held at Columbus.

The staff and guests enjoyed a dinner-dance at Twee Crest on February 21. The program, in charge of Kathryn Taylor, consisted of comical speeches by various members. Dancing constituted the main diversion of the evening.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE—SEE US!

The '34 staff took advantage of the period of business recovery in which they were organized to establish greater records and to accomplish important results.

After the dust had settled from the circulation manager's contest, Charles Berg, a junior, was appointed to fulfill that office permanently. A new record of 110 inches of ads for one weekly issue was set by the staff during this contest.

An assembly program was given and a campaign carried on simultaneously with the contest which stressed the patronization of the Quaker advertisers.

The manager, Paul Strader, assistant manager, John Knepper, and Mr. Hilgendorf, the advisor, represented the staff at the Journalism convention in Columbus. Various social gatherings were held by the staff.

The success of the staff in publishing this Annual can be best told by the advertising section of this Annual. A goal of twenty-five pages was set as the staff mark.

The staff was earnest, and energetic throughout the year. It has done its part commendably in carrying the torch; and offers it to next year's staff with the best wishes for a successful year.

This year, Los Castellanos, the Spanish club, held its meetings every other Wednesday, under the supervision of Miss Hollett, faculty advisor and teacher of Spanish.

The club is one of the two organizations in the school which has been organized for the purpose of furthering the interest of students in foreign languages.

The members had very interesting programs during their meetings. These consisted of Spanish playlets and games played in Spanish.

For their annual party they held a tea party which is called "mate" in Spanish.

The club had a membership enrollment of twenty-seven members and its officers were: President, William Adams; treasurer, John Knepper; secretary, Kathryn Simone.

WHERE ENGLISH TAKES A BACK SEAT

The French club, better known to all as Le Cercle Francais, had a very interesting and beneficial year under the able faculty supervision of Miss Velda Lawn. The group is composed of thirty members, and its meetings are held every other Tuesday.

The club began this year's activities by electing the following officers: Martha Louise Wells, president; Ruth Obenour, vice president; Dorothy Jane Dixon, secretary-treasurer. During the year two interesting plays, spoken entirely in French, were presented by some of the club members. These were received with enthusiasm by the rest of the club.

This group, which is one of the two language clubs of Salem high school, is organized to stimulate the interest of the students in the study of French and to teach them to appreciate and enjoy this language.

The Hi-Y club of Salem high school concluded a successful year by sponsoring a May dance which was held in the high school gymnasium on May 4.

The membership of the club was composed of twenty-five Senior boys.

The officers for the past year were:

President—Robert McCarthy

Vice President—Paul J. Smith

Secretary—Richard Haines

Treasurer—William Adams

The club was well represented at an Inter-City Hi-Y dance held at the Trianon in Alliance on April 4.

The members, meeting every Thursday evening in room 302 under the supervision of Mr. Jones, spent most of their time discussing Student Government in which they were very much interested.

This year the Hi-Y went back to the closed membership system, after having tried the open membership plan in 1932-33. This open membership plan admitted all junior and senior boys who were morally fit to join.

This year, however, the junior boys organized a separate club called the Torch club.

NEXT YEAR'S SENIOR HI-Y

This group of boys known as the Torch club was organized this year for the first time. In previous years the senior Hi-Y consisted of both senior and junior boys but a new plan was adopted and the seniors who already belonged to the club choose twenty-five juniors for the Torch club.

Next year these Torch club members will be the senior Hi-Y and they will choose the members of the junior club.

These clubs work separately but are both under the supervision of Mr. Herbert Jones.

The officers were: President, Harry McCarthy; vice president, Donald Hammell; secretary, Charles Palmer; treasurer, Jack Mullins.

The club met every Wednesday in room 302.

The first library was in the room which is now Miss Hart's office, and contained about 900 books, most of which were the gift of the class of '21. In 1924 it was moved to 207 and Miss Cecilia Shriver, a former student, was the first librarian. She was aided in the cataloguing by Mis Smith.

In 1929 Miss Lehman, the present librarian, took charge.

Since 1921, the library has been increased from 900 to about 3200 volumes, sixty new books having been added this year.

Besides the librarian, there is, at present, a student staff of thirteen girls, who keep the shelves clean and in order, repair books, and lend assistance to students.

The purpose of the library is to provide additional information for the students in their various scholastic activities, and to supplement classwork.

THOSE WHO STIR UP SCHOOL SPIRIT

Salem High's sixty-piece band, directed by Mr. Chester Brautigam, proved itself both active and efficient in the past year's work.

The officers of the band are: president, Oland Dilworth; treasurer, Kathryn Taylor; librarian, Lela Naragon. Charles Gibson is student director and Stefan Oana, the drum major.

During the first part of the year the band improved its appearance on the stage by purchasing new chairs. It also increased its repertoire of music by purchasing a set of college songs, novelty numbers, and classical pieces.

The band played at all home football and basketball games. It sponsored a dance on December 29, at which it made fifty-six dollars, and a free concert on February 2, at which the collection taken amounted to twenty-seven dollars. On April 25 it sponsored another concert, which featured the graduating members.

All in all, the band had a very successful year, both financially and musically.

This year we are presenting the junior high association in our year-book because they have co-operated so splendidly with the association plan in the senior high school.

In previous years the junior high students have belonged to the association but this year they set a new membership record having 126 bona-fide members belonging to the association.

These members received the same privileges that the senior high members enjoy with the exception of going to parties. They were permitted to go to all football and basketball games and track meets, plays and received the Quaker weekly, the annual, and the Quakerette.

The price of their tickets was $3.00 by installments and $2.75 for cash payment. The original price was $3.50, but they received a discount if over a hundred members joined.

The junior high students showed great willingness to cooperate with the officials. Their dues were paid regularly and the plan was immensely popular with them.

THE PLACE WHERE SCIENTISTS SPROUT

This year the Junior Science club met every other week under the supervision of Mr. Henning, teacher of General Science.

The programs of the club were of an entertaining as well as of a scientific nature. They consisted of a number of short playlets, experiments in the dissecting of frogs and other small animals, and demonstrations given by members.

One meeting was devoted to the study of aircraft, and Kenneth Leipper gave a very interesting demonstration with some model airplanes.

The purpose of the group is to further the interest and the knowledge of the students in science.

It is the only freshman club in the high school.

The officers are: president, Robert Schwartz; vice president, Arthur Brian; secretary, Jean Layden.

The Hi-Tri, composed of fifty members under the supervision of Miss Peterson and Miss Horwell, met every Thursday in 204 during the school year.

Many varied entertainments were held during the year, among which were a girls' penny dance in November and a Christmas party held in 107 before the Christmas vacation. Several talks on various subjects were given by Miss McCready, Miss Cherry, Mrs. Smucker, Mrs. Woodruff, Miss Smith, Miss Gladden, and Miss Hart. Also Mrs. McCorkhill and Mrs. Stone entertained the club with the puppet show, "The Three Bears" and "Hansel and Gretel" (the opera), the music for the opera being furnished by Mrs. Albert.

A new idea of handy work at the meetings was adopted and many of the girls made various articles of tooled and suede leather.

THE DRAMATIC ELEMENT IN OUR SCHOOL

The Salemasquers completed a successful year of drama study and appreciation for which purpose the club was originally formed.

The club presented three one-act plays this year besides furnishing the casts for both the senior and junior plays. The three one-act productions were: "Three Friends", "Tidings of Joy", which was presented to the student body at Christmas time, and "Elmer," which was presented at the final association party of the year. These plays were all well received and gave evidence of hard work and praiseworthy talent.

The total membership of the club was sixty and the meetings were held every other Tuesday under the supervision of Miss Lanpher.

The officers are: president, Alroy Bloomberg; secretary, Ruth Obenour; treasurer, Robert Snyder; sergeant-at-arms, Troy Cope.

The Music classes completed a successful year under the competent instruction of Miss Grace P. Orr.

Miss Orr instructed three classes which met twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday, in the auditorium. Programs were occasionally presented to the group, consisting of outstanding talent from the classes.

The main feature of the year was a concert presented by the classes before the public in the high school auditorium, November 17. The proceeds from this were used to purchase new music for the classes.

There were 165 pupils in the three classes. The accompanists were Lillian Mundy, Lois Dilworth, and Meta McCave.

Judging by the success of the classes the students will take more interest in music.

MUSIC MAKERS OF THE FIRST DEGREE

Everyone who attends the class plays is familiar with the orchestra. It is the orchestra that keeps the audience occupied between acts, and also lends an atmosphere to the play.

This year the organization was under the supervision of Mr. Brautigam, who replaced Mr. Walter Regal of junior high school. The orchestra is made up of thirty members and meets every Monday and Wednesday in the high school auditorium.

In order to keep its repertoire of music up to date the orchestra purchased approximately twenty-five dollars' worth of new music this year.

Because the orchestra was not a regular class and since it did not have as much time devoted to it, it was not as popular as the band.

However, it was an asset to our school and played an important part in the school's activities.

The senior class presented on December 7 and 8 their class play, the "Seven Keys To Baldpate," a melo-dramatic farce by George M. Cohan.

The plot centered around a novelist who made a bet with the owner of Baldpate Inn that he could write a book in twenty-four hours. The owner let him use his summer resort so he would have a quiet place to write. While at this summer resort, many interesting and exciting things happened.

The characters are as follows:

Elijah Quimby (caretaker of Baldpate)	-----Louis Weirick
Mrs. Quimby (wife of caretaker)	-----Louise Hixenbaugh
William Hallowell Magee (novelist)	-----Paul J. Smith
John Bland (millionaire's right-hand man)	-----Max Long

SOMETHING DIFFERENT IN CLASS PRODUCTIONS

"The Charm School," a comedy in three acts by Alice Duer Miller and Romert Milton, was presented by the juniors on April 5, 6.

The plot is woven about the situations that arise when Austin Bevans, played by Charles Palmer, inherits a girls' boarding school from his aunt.

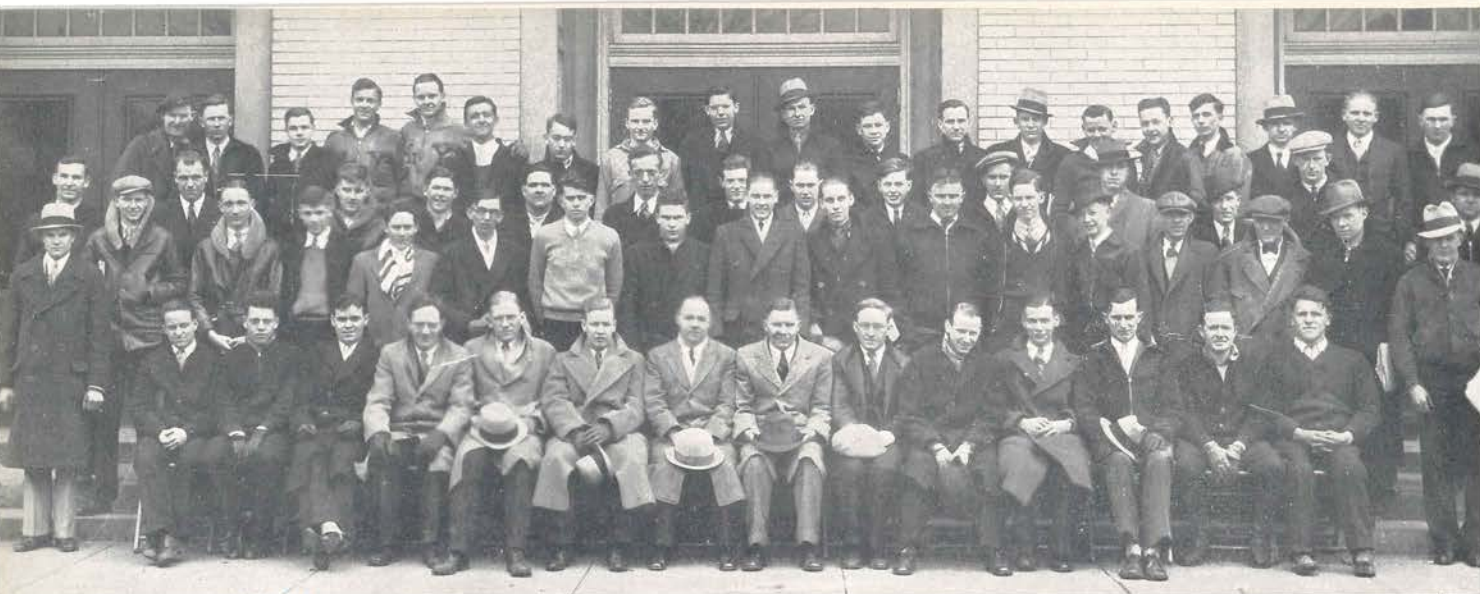

Bevans believes that girls should be charming and makes charm the main subject of study. Elise Benedotti, president of the senior class, falls in love with Bevans, who in turn finally succumbs to her "charm."

The play was presented by the following cast: Charles Palmer, Austin Bevans; Elise Benedotti, Mary Bunn; Dick McConnor, George Boyd; Thirl Eckstein, David McKenzie; Harry McCarthy, Jim Simpkins; Jack Mullins, Tim Simpkins; Fred Roth, Homer Johns; Joyce Chatfield, Sally, sister of George; Helen Huber, Miss Curtis; Cora May Reich, Miss Hays; Dorothy McConnor, Ethel; Florence Kleon, Dorothy; Janet Walker, Muriel; Margaret Williams, Madge; Anna Ruth Vincent, Charlotte; Clara Mae Reich, Lillian; Mary Frances Juergens, Alex Mercier; Dan Bohm, messenger boy.

The Trades class was organized four years ago, for the benefit of local shop workers and high school students wishing to continue their education along vocational lines.

During the past year, the class had a total enrollment of eighty-seven members, and was instructed by Mr. H. W. Cameron, an employee of the Electric Furnace.

The sponsors were the local department of education, the Deming Company, Electric Furnace Company, Mullins Corporation, Paxson Machine Shop, and the State Department of Vocational Education.

Each year, the state department of education issues diplomas to those who have completed a three-year course of training.

Classes met each Saturday morning, except during the month of July, at eight o'clock, in the high school class rooms.

MEN WHO WORK AT PRACTICAL IDEAS

WHERE ARGUMENTS ARE EASILY STARTED

This year's debate squad, under the supervision of Mr. J. C. Guiler, will go down in Salem High history as one of the best teams ever developed here.

The squad was champion of the Northeastern Ohio district, winning six out of eight debates during the entire season. In the Ohio State debating league the team reached the quarter-finals, being defeated by a crack team from Cleveland Heights high school, who went on to win the state championship.

The negative team was composed of the following persons: Paul Strader, Jr., Vera Yoder, and Paul J. Smith; Ruth Ruggy, Paul J. Smith, and Troy Cope composed the affirmative team. Arthur Brian and Kenneth Leipper were alternates.

The question debated last season was: Resolved, that the United States should adopt the essential features of the British System of Radio Control and Operation.

ATHLETICS

We have just presented to you an array of extra curricular activities of which any high school might well be proud.

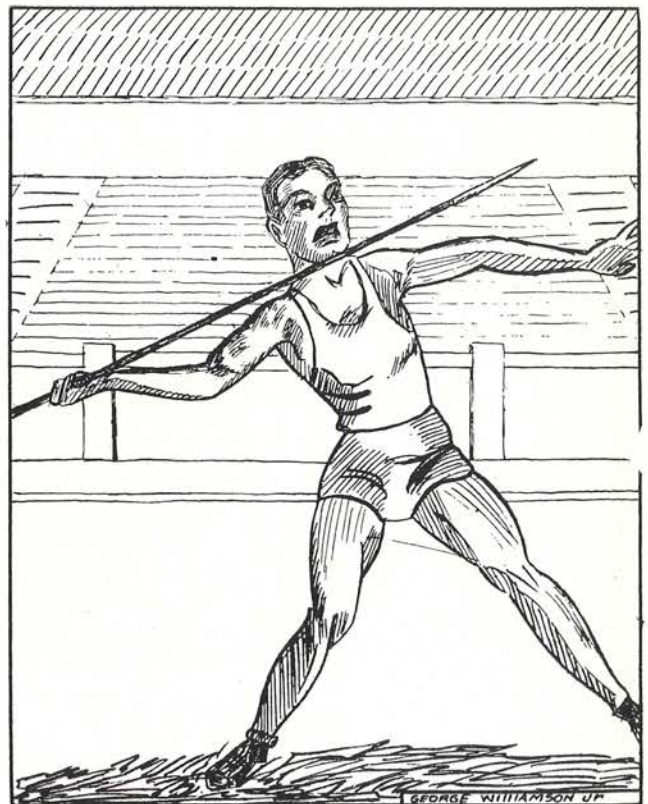

Now we are about to set forth the athletic division of our school. Many people believe that an athlete leads a life full of praise and press write-ups, but they never stop to consider that an athlete, to be good, must train, keep regular hours and put his heart and soul into his work. If you doubt our word about this uninteresting side of an athlete's life just ask some of our letter men how many good times they have missed because they were out for football, track or other major sports.

This year Salem had an off season in most of its sport activities but we give the men who participated in them full credit for the effort they put forth in the face of discouragement.

Salem High's football team had only a mediocre season this year, winning two games, losing five, and tying three.

The team, at certain intervals, showed the power of a great team, while at other times it lacked zest and scoring punch.

Against Leetonia in the first game of the season the Quakers did not show any superior qualities but beat Leetonia 19-6. Salem played good football in the second game, holding a strong Struthers squad to a lone touchdown while threatening to score twice themselves.

Warren and East Liverpool trounced the Quakers by scores of 18-0 and 26-13 respectively with Salem playing only fair football in both games.

In the next game Salem upset the dope and defeated a strong Youngstown Chaney team 13-6. Salem played their best football of the year in the last quarter of the Chaney game.

Wellsville and Niles were next to conquer the Quakers in two listless games by scores of 13-12 and 19-6.

The next two games were played on fields with mud and ice six inches thick against Lisbon and New Philly. Salem played great ball at Lisbon, carrying the ball down the field to Lisbon's goal three times only to fumble or lose the ball on downs. When the game ended the Quakers had only a yard to go for a touchdown. Both the games ended in scoreless ties.

The Salem-Alliance fracas, formerly a turkey day battle, was played on a Saturday this year. It was the most exciting game of the season. The Quakers showed real power by playing a big Alliance team off its feet. Salem scored a touchdown on running plays after they had been cheated out of one when a Salem player dropped a pass over the goal. In the last two minutes of play an Alliance player received a kick off and by a freak run, ran through the whole Salem eleven for a touchdown, which tied the score at 6-6. The gun sounded a few seconds later and the amazed Quaker eleven lost an almost certain victory.

MEN WHO TAKE IT AND WANT MORE

Wayne Sidinger and Mike Fromm were co-captains of this year's eleven.

Graduation this June will take a heavy toll. The seniors who played their last game for the red and black against Alliance are: Co-Captain Wayne Sidinger, Troy Cope, Bob Snyder, "Butz" Konnert, Walter Papesch, Lester Tetlow, Lee Schafer, "Whitey" Kaercher, John Pukalski, Bob McCarthy, and Ervin Stratton.

Returning lettermen are: Roy Fryan, Mike Fromm, and Paul Williamson. Other prospective players among the underclassmen are: Clifford Beck, Fritz Brantch, Kaiser, Dolansky, Ed Pukalski, Chappel, Stewart, and Roland Schafer.

No spring training was held this year so that the predictions for next year's chances have not been made as yet.

Salem High was expected to have a worthy aggregation last season, but the results were in the negative.

Many of the squad members showed lack of interest. During the season a total of thirty-seven boys quit the squad. A situation such as that would cause disruption on any team and it seemed to affect the Quakers in a bad way.

However it doesn't matter so much how many games were won or lost, but how many boys played with the true spirit of sportsmanship as their goal. Ten years from now, even five years perhaps, this season will be forgotten and these boys will be playing the game of life in earnest.

The Quakers went through the 1933-34 regular season with thirteen wins and only four setbacks. They won four more at the District tournament at Youngstown East and lost only to Rayen in the finals. Akron St. Vincent stopped them 21-20 in their first game at Akron.

The Salemites started fast under their new coach despite the lack of veteran material. They won seven straight before they lost to E. Palestine. After that they won and lost alternately, winning from Massillon and Warren and losing to E. Liverpool and St. Vincent. They did their greatest bit of playing by beating Youngstown Rayen and then decisively turning back Alliance and Scienceville.

Struthers pulled a surprise by conquering the Quakers 33-29. A victory over Niles ended the regular season.

The Salemites had hard luck with championships. They didn't play enough good Big Ten teams to win that crown, they lost the County Title by one game, and were runners-up in the District. However, with seven varsity players back for next year the outlook is very bright.

WHY SALEM IS BASKETBALL CONSCIOUS

WHERE THEY TRAIN FOR THE VARSITY

The Salem reserves had a fine season this year, winning ten out of fifteen games.

The squad consisted of four freshmen, five sophomores, and two juniors. The Quakers were very fast, fairly accurate on their shots, and showed themselves able to hold their own in a rough game.

Shears, a freshman, was a regular starter, and together with Pukalski, furnished much of the team's speed. Scullion and Beck, juniors, were raised to the "B" varsity at the end of the season and a couple of varsity members played with the reserves for experience.

Most of the squad will be with the reserves next year because there will be seven varsity players back. With another year of experience behind them, they should form a team of championship calibre.

Salem High track for the year 1934 was not a very great success except for the fact that most of the point-makers were underclassmen who are expected to develop into good material by next season.

The best taken by Salem out of four meets was second place in the county meet. In this, the Salem tracksters scored 34 points which was a poor second to East Palestine, who won the meet with 53½ points.

The first meet of the year was a triangular contest between Canton, Salem, and Youngstown Rayen. Canton won but was given a close fight by Rayen, their scores being 67 and 66, while Salem finished last with 25½ points.

The fourth annual Salem Night Relays were held with approximately twenty schools entered. Cleveland Shaw led most of the contest but, in the last event, was passed and beaten by Cleveland Lincoln 37 to 33.7; Salem finished eighth with 131.5 points.

The biggest disappointment of the season came when Salem failed to qualify anyone for the State meet at Columbus. At the district meet Salem scored only 3½ points to tie with Lisbon for 12th.

Fifty-two men stuck out the whole season. Among these, the most promising for next season are: Catlos, A. Rich, Dolansky, McCarthy, J. Rich, Layden, Eakin, Fryan, Tilley, Lesch, Schaffer, Brantsch, and Brantingham.

The best performers for this season were Layden and Eakin in the pole vault. Alfred Rich in the broad jump, Kamasky and Brantingham in the distance runs, and Schaffer in high jump and hurdle.

TIME TRIALS, RUB-DOWNS, AND CINDERS

OUR MINIATURE MARATHON STARS

Salem High's Cross Country team had another successful season last fall, winning three meets out of five, including the district meet at Cleveland.

The team was coached by Mr. R. B. Clarke, who has produced Cross Country teams of high calibre at Salem High for the last three or four years.

Three dual meets were held, in which Salem defeated Lisbon 20-41 and Wooster 15-50, while Akron's strong team nosed out Salem's Harriers 22-33.

In district competition at Cleveland, Salem led the field with 50 points. At Columbus in the State meet, Salem gained third place.

Letters this year were of a new type, representing a winged front. Eight members of the squad were awarded these letters at the close of the season.

Quite a number of new men showed promising results for next year's team.

Top Row—Clark, Smith, Wernet, Ludwig.

SCHOOL LIFE FROM A CAMERA'S EYE

OUR YEARLY CALENDAR

- September 11—Opening day of school. Students renew old friendships, freshmen get lost, and upperclassmen look on with great amusement.
- September 15—Beat Leetonia in first night game here by 20-0 score.
- September 22—Struthers edged 6-0 victory over Salem in our second game here.
- Cross Country tryouts were held during the period at the half.
- October 3—Underclassmen around in their Sunday best to have their pictures taken this week.
- October 6—Powerful Warren squad overwhelmed the Salem squad with a 21-0 victory.
- October 9—Seniors came dressed in their best to get their pictures taken by Mr. Curtiss.
- October 10—Dr. Charles E. Baker, physical advisor to the former President Taft, spoke to the student body on "How to get the most out of life" at the first assembly program of the year.
- October 13—The Pottersmen proved themselves better than Salem with a 26-13 victory in our first game away from home.
- October 17—Seniors get proofs of their pictures. Imagine their surprise. But remember the camera never lies.
- October 20—Salem beat Youngstown Chaney 13-7 in a thrilling game. Cross Country took honor of first place at the Wooster meet.
- October 26—Seniors held annual party in gym. It was a masquerade; some of the seniors were right in style, they didn't have to wear a mask.
- October 27—No school today. Teachers attended N. E. O. Teachers' Convention in Cleveland Friday and Saturday.
- October 28—After a hard fought battle, Wellsville claimed a close victory of 13-12 over Salem.
- Cross Country team traveled to Cleveland and won first place in N. E. O. Cross Country meet.
- October 30—Band gets new chairs. Since the first of the year it had been practicing in the front part of the senior section.
- Mr. Guiler picked Debate squad.
- November 4—Salem traveled to Niles and was downed 19-6.
- Cross Country went to Columbus and brought back laurels of third place. Good work, boys.
- November 6—Negative and Affirmative Debate teams were chosen out of the debate squads.
- November 8—Parents visiting day when parents come to school in spite of the threats of the pupils and learn about school life as it is.
- November 10—First Pep Rally held in evening for some time. Mr. Earl Beardmore spoke of his experiences in the Lisbon-Salem game twenty years ago.
- November 11—Playing in a sea of mud the result of the Lisbon game was a tie, 0-0.
- Armistice Day. No parade.
- November 17—Group pictures were taken in the afternoon for the annual. Pep Rally was held after school for the New Philadelphia game.
- November 18—Barring the weather Salem played New Philadelphia to a tie 0-0 on a muddy field here.
- November 20—Seniors vs. underclassmen resulted in a 19-0 victory for the seniors in a hard fought game after school at Reilly stadium.
- November 22—Mr. John Brient, a blind musician who has made good in radio and vaudeville, spoke and played for the students.
- November 23—There seems to be quite a bustle around the halls lately. Oh, so that's it? The seniors are trading pictures.
- November 24—Mr. C. C. Gibson gave a very interesting talk to both the student body and football squad in the Pep Rally for the Alliance game.
- New Monitors club formed.
- November 25—Boy! what a game! Alliance came down to Salem with the idea of running all over us and we outplayed them in every part of the game in a 6-6 tie.
- November 27—The Torch club, a junior Hi-Y club, formed recently by the Hi-Y, held its first meeting with the Hi-Y. The new club is composed of twenty-five juniors.
- November 29—History IV classes gave a very interesting Thanksgiving assembly to the student body.
- The first Association party was held for the football boys, who were the honored guests at the party.
- November 30—Thanksgiving vacation with its turkey, cranberries, and other sweets of the day.
- December 1—No school today, the school board let the pupils sleep off the turkey and rearing.
- December 7 and 8—Senior class presented "Seven Keys to Baldpate", a well known melodramatic comedy, the first of its kind to be presented here.
- December 15—First basketball game of the season with Wellsville here. Mr. Brown showed a superior team against Wellsville by beating them 40-26.
- December 16—The team traveled to Sebring for their first out-of-town game and brought home the bacon with a score of 21-17.
- December 19—Handicapped by such a small floor at Lisbon, Salem came through on top of the pile, beating Lisbon 40-11.
- December 22—The junior class held their first class party alone and from what we hear they must have had a good time.
- Christmas vacation, the best vacation of the year and the one looked forward to the most by pupils.
- December 29—The Band gave the "Band Benefit Dance" for high school students and alumni.

- January 6—Salem outplayed the Chaney quintet in a 30-22 victory on Salem's floor.
- January 8—School opens and the halls are again filled with the gayety and laughter of the students.
- January 12—Mr. J. Hoover, the only living survivor of the S-4 disaster, spoke to the students in an assembly program.
- January 13—With a record breaking crowd watching Liverpool lost to Salem in the most exciting game for sometime on Salem's floor.
- January 19—Salem beat their old rivals Alliance 25-12 on Salem's floor. We'll wait and see what Alliance can do on their own floor.
- January 23—Exams started and the annual fluttering of leaves accompanied them.
- January 25—Exams are over. You see jovous faces everywhere now. Salem traveled to East Palestine and was defeated for the first time this season 20-28.
- January 26—Brown's Invincibles redeemed themselves by beating Massillon on Salem's floor 25-11.
- February 2—The Brownmen received their first severe trimming at East Liverpool when they lost 31-13.
- February 3—In the closest game fought on Salem's hardwood this year, Salem nosed out Warren 14-13.
- February 9—With the weather ten below zero, the Brownmen traveled to Akron St. Vincents to be defeated 33-22.
- February 10—Redeeming themselves in the second half of the game, Salem came through with a well-earned victory on their own floor by beating Chaney 32-30.
- February 16—The team traveled to Alliance to beat the Aviators on their own floor 30-9.
- February 17—Scienceville visited Salem and went home defeated for the second time of the season 41-14.
- February 20—Debate team won District honors at Kent where they debated Ravenna.
- February 22—Washington's birthday, a holiday for all of the schools. Someone remarked, "Isn't it funny Washington was born on a holiday?"
- February 23—Senator Lewis gave a short talk to the assembly. Struthers visited the gym of the Brownmen and edged out in a thrilling game 33-29.
- February 24—Salem traveled to Niles to win another victory 20-15 thus ending the season, winning 13 out of 17 games.
- February 27—First trip to the tournament at Youngstown East and we came back victorious over Youngstown East 25-14.
- February 28—Another victory at the tournament when we beat Memorial 23-19. Band gave its first concert of the year.
- March 2—Salem overwhelmed Chaney in the fourth round of the tournament 38-22.
- March 3—In a hard fought game in the semi-finals Salem edged out Scienceville 24-20. Tired from their afternoon game with Scienceville Salem fought their hardest game but lost to Rayen in the finals 30-21.
- March 10—Salem got beaten in their first game at Akron tournament by Akron St. Vincent 21-20.
- March 13—The last asembly program of the year was a series of pictures entitled "The Champions of 1933."
- March 14—The Varsity licked the Faculty 32-11 in an exciting game. Most of the school turned out to see the Faculty get beat.
- March 23—The last Asociation party was held. The gym was decorated like a March sky with kites and different colors.

Traffic Cop (after operation)—What did I say while I was under the ether?

Nurse—You asked the surgeon to show you his operator's license.

Kate—How old is Elizabeth?

Kathryn—I don't know, but everybody was overcome by the heat from the candles at her last birthday.

"You mustn't use that word," said mother.

"Burns and Allen use it," replied the growing boy.

"Then you mustn't play with such naughty boys."

Cora Mae Reich (in a pet store)—"I like this dog, but his legs are too short."

Paul Strader—"Too short? Why, Miss, they all reach the floor!"

Bunny—When I went into Astry's the other night I was met by loud huzzahs.

Art—Say, listen! I've been going there for two years and they're both nice girls!

Agent—Don't you want the things in your school insured against theft?

Miss H.—Yes, all but the clock. The students watch that.

Mr. J.—If there are any dumb bells in the room, please stand up.

A long pause and then a lone freshman stood up.

"What, do you consider yourself a dumb bell?"

"Well, not exactly that, sir, but I hate to see you standing alone."

Friend—You will soon forget her and be happy again.

Jilted Suitor—Oh, no, I shan't. I've bought too much for her on the installment plan.

My Latin lies over the ocean;
My English lies over the sea,
My grades lie very near zero—
Bring back my gray matter to me.

School Teacher absent-mindedly to her beau: "You weren't here last night.
Where's your excuse from your mother?"

Anna Mae—Mary, did you hear of that new kind of powder?

Mary—No. What's the name of it?

Anna Mae—Oh, the Naked Woman or something like that, I guess.

Betty—Why, Anna Mae, you mean the "Modern Eve," don't you?

Dick—Come up to my house tonight for supper, Paul.

Paul—Impossible, I am going to see Macbeth.

Dick—Macbeth? Your friend Macbeth? Why not bring him back to supper with you?

Pat was taking his first ride in an aeroplane. The pilot was taking him over New York city. When they were up about 3,000 feet the plane suddenly went into a nose-dive.

"Ha, Ha!" laughed the pilot, "Fifty per cent of the people down there thought we were falling."

"Sure," admitted Pat, "and fifty per cent of the people up here thought so, too."

He sat down right close to a tree
And soon a loud buzzing heard he.
He thought it a fly
As it flew in his eye.
But, gosh! T'was a big bumble bee.

Mary—Why don't you rub some on your head?

Jim Bruce—Say, what makes you so darned talkative?

Jim Campbell—Well, my father was an Irishman, and my mother was a woman.

Francie Juergens—This is the worst town for gossip I ever lived in.

Dot Bruce—H'm! What have you been doing?

Troy—You didn't speak to me down town yesterday. I saw you twice.

Dorothy—No, I'm not in the habit of speaking to people in that condition.

PROGRESS

There are few fields where the necessity for progress—the demand for new ideas, is as pronounced as in the production of School Annuals. ✧ Here in Canton we take pride in not only keeping pace, but in setting the pace for innovations and changes in this highly progressive field. ✧ When you work with Canton you are hand in hand with experienced people, constantly on the alert to sense the wants of Annual publishers, and quick to change from the old order, and offer new and unusual ideas to progressive editors.
