FOREWORD

Presenting the 1938 Quaker, dressed with the simplicity of a Quaker and with the modernness of youth. In it is the culmination of a scholastic year. Here are the memories of school room days which will forever linger with us. Here is your book of memories.

DEDICATION

The 1938 Quaker is dedicated to a man held high in the esteem of every student of Salem High. Year after year this young man has given Salem a place on the athletic map. But he is beloved by the students not only because he has coached great teams but because he is a fine teacher. Because of these things we dedicate this Annual to Mr. Herbert Brown.

Our faculty is not stuffy, boresome, and uninteresting. They're never too stern and unrelenting to laugh at a good joke regardless of the situation. They're always ready to give good advice to anyone that seeks it.

Outside of their educational interests pertaining to school life, each and every one has hobbies. Many of the teachers have other activities besides classroom work.

Mr. Braughtigam directs the band; Mr. Lehman is Quaker Editorial Adviser; Mrs. Koontz leads the Hi-Tri and the Latin Club; Mrs. Cope coaches the cheer leaders; Mr. Henning has charge of the golf team; Miss McCready supervises the Slide Rule Club and Hi-Tri; Mr. Englehart superintends the Outdoor Sportsman Club; Mr. Brown coaches the basketball squad and leads the Varsity S; Mr. Clarke coaches Cross-Country; Miss Hanna heads the G. A. A.; Mr. Cope is coach for the trackmen; Mr. Guiler coaches the debate team, which won District Championship this year.

Mr. Schroeder coaches the football squads; Mr. Herbert Jones has charge of the tennis team and Hi-Y Club; Miss Hollett supervises the Spanish Club; Mr. McDonald heads Salemasquers Club; Mr. Sander has charge of the Stamp Club; Mrs. Satterthwaite directs the orchestra; and Miss Roth has charge of the French Club; Mr. Ted Jones is assistant basketball and football coach.

Mrs. Cox, who teaches biology, has indeed proved to be an asset to the halls of Salem High. After six years of continuous research, her book, "Exploring Biology," was published, March 30, 1938. During her six years of research the students of her biology classes have helped her considerably with the biological experiments.

Is not our faculty one of which we may be proud? Undoubtedly the answer is an emphatic yes. Therefore, with gratitude for the many good times and knowledge they have given us—we present the faculty of S. H. S.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION

With all due respect and gratitude we present the Board of Education. These men are important factors to the student body and faculty of Salem High School. The Board of Education is responsible for the many advantages that the students have, band uniforms, new instruments, and new subjects added to the curriculum. Besides this they take care of the teaching force, pay the bills, award contracts, see to the repairs of the school, determine length of the school year and vacation, take care of the lighting and heating system, and many other important duties. But most important of all is their duty of determining the policies of the school. Without the Board of Education, Salem High School would not be in existence, as they are the backbone and inspiration of the school. To the Board of Education we extend our sincere appreciation and gratitude for their loyalty and the many advantages they give us.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To Students:

We wish to congratulate you on the spirit of democracy which pervades Salem High school. You have succeeded in your efforts to achieve a fine fellowship.

We can wish for you no higher accomplishment than that of intelligent cooperation. Whether it be the cooperation of leader and follower or that of follower with follower, the key to effective citizenship lies there.

Considering the advantages which were theirs, we have faith that our seniors will become able citizens of this great nation.

E. S. Kerr.

PRINCIPAL OF SALEM HIGH

A MESSAGE TO THE SENIOR BOYS OF 1938

Congratulations to the Senior boys of the class of 1938 upon your completion of 12 years of formal education. It is our hope that these 12 years you have spent working together will be of a valuable guiding influence in the years ahead. But your education must not stop with graduation. Education is a continuing and expanding process, so that only a lifetime of education will suffice. We hope that your positive, cheerful attitude toward the acceptance of responsibility can be developed into a habit which will go far to insure your success and happiness in later years. This class has many leaders of outstanding capacity so we know you will measure up to the confidence we have in your ability.

H. M. WILLIAMS.

DEAN OF SALEM HIGH GIRLS

A MESSAGE TO THE SENIOR GIRLS OF 1938

It is said that the greatest charity is to help one to help himself.

It is the province of the school to furnish outgoing students with tools for self-help, and also to give practice in the use of those tools.

And this is what Salem High School has striven to do for each one of you. It has endeavored to send you out capable, through many experiences, to take your places as normal, fairly competent adults.

To you, one and all, we extend our warmest congratulations, and the sincere wish that you may put forth your best effort in all that you undertake, remembering, always, that one is rewarded exactly in the measure that he gives of himself to the task of the moment.

M. MAUDE HART,
Dean of Girls.

New faces, familiar faces, well-known faces, and old-faces. Four classes come and go. The same cycle continually changing each year. What do the new faces think about? What are the familiar faces going to think about? What are the well-known faces thinking about and what will the old-faces do? High School is the prep school of life. Students in high school learn far more than what is written down in books. Let us follow a class through its four years of high school.

The class of new faces enters the high school as freshmen. They are timid, shy and afraid to participate in activities. They are "heckled" by upperclassmen. But don't deny them this because it's part of their "schooling".

Now they become familiar faces, anxious and arrogant sophomores. "We know everything," they say. But do they? They're in a "sorry" condition now. They can't be told anything, yet they tell everything. This is good for them though. It had to come sometime.

During the junior year they make their first dramatic effort, the junior play. They have their first party of their own. Now they're "grown ups." Faces of juniors are liberally sprinkled in the various clubs and sports. This is the year when they first attend a prom.

Then comes the all-important year when they are seniors. This year goes swiftly. First it is sports, then the party, the play, senior pictures, the prom and the last big event, commencement. These events parade swiftly through their last year. Old-faces to teachers and themselves. Some, more fortunate, will graduate and continue their studies in some college. Others will step out into the world to "shift for themselves." They've received "book-learning" and have gone one step on the road of experience.

Here they are. Four classes in the cycle. Let's extend our best wishes to those starting and good luck to those finishing.

HISTORY OF THE SENIOR CLASS

In 1934 an enthusiastic group of laughing, giggling students entered Salem High School, ambitious and determined to make a place for themselves in high school life. They were greeted by a group of upperclassmen, anxious to dampen their ardor. They were informed of the mythical elevator in the gym. They answered all kinds of foolish questions put to them by their superiors. After their opening day initiation, the group settled down to school life.

During the year members of the class entered many activities. The freshmen cooperated with the sophomores on the annual Frosh-Soph party. The gym was decorated in the traditional green and white of the freshman class and trimmed in the sophomore class colors of that year, blue and white. Towards the middle of the year the class elected officers, choosing Charles Wentz, president; Ward Eckstein Jr., vice president; and Stella Fidoe, secretary treasurer.

The class also inaugurated the selling of pencils by freshman classes. Pencils were sold which had the second semester schedule printed on them. The system was successful and the class started off with a large amount of money in their treasury. The freshmen finished the year with a feeling of satisfaction and ready to start the next year with new ambitions.

With three years yet to go, the class of '38 entered Salem High in the fall of 1935 ready to "burn up the school." They derided the freshmen and avenged everything that had been done to them the previous year. The class had increased slightly in membership with a few new members from other schools.

Coping with the financial problems of the class they decided to purchase megaphones and armbands with "Salem" printed on them to sell in the school. The profits from the sales were sufficient to increase the class treasury. The megaphones provided a new means for the students to vent their emotions at the basketball and football games.

The class, feeling a need to be represented in color, about the middle of the year chose red and grey as the colors with which the class could be identified during their high school years.

HISTORY OF THE SENIOR CLASS

The class elections resulted in the re-instating of the former class officers to their offices with the exception of Ward Eckstein Jr. who was replaced by Harold Hoprich.

In the spring of 1936 the sophomores held their annual party with the freshmen. A musical program was presented in the auditorium after which the students proceeded to the gym, decorated in the red and grey of the sophomores and the traditional green and white freshmen colors, for dancing. Attendance was excellent and the party enjoyed complete success.

The class completed an active year and prepared to enter Salem High as juniors.

With two years of high school life behind them the class of '38 entered the school in September of 1936 a wiser, more sophisticated group of students.

The class officers were reelected early in the first semester and prepared to take up the duties of the year.

The class set up a stand in the gym during basketball season and sold megaphones, autographed by the basketball team, to raise money. The stand was successful, selling out the megaphones.

In March the class enjoyed their first party "on their own". The gym was decorated in red and grey with a touch of green for St. Patrick's day added. The party was more successful than those held by previous junior classes.

In April a play, directed by Mr. James McDonald and assisted by Student Director, Verna Carpenter, and entitled "The Yankee King," met with great success.

The play, a romantic comedy, portrayed the trials and tribulations of a hen-pecked husband who falls asleep and wakes to find himself ruler of a small kingdom.

While juniors, the class elected Harold Hoprich, Mary Helen Bruderly, and Bill Brooks, president, secretary, and treasurer of the association for the following year.

The year ended with a delightful and successful prom presented by this class to the seniors.

Entering their last year of high school as seniors, the class of '38 prepared to complete a well rounded course of instruction.

MEMORIAL

Hazel Farmer

Charles Kesselmire

During the past two school years two students of Salem High have passed away. Charles Kesselmire, popular Junior boy died during the 1937-38 school year at the Salem City Hospital. Hazel Farmer, a studious and well liked student, passed away in the summer of her Junior year.

Charles was well liked by his fellow students and was very active in sports. He was on the varsity squad in his Junior year. Hazel was a good student and participated in various activities, particularly in music.

HISTORY OF THE JUNIOR CLASS

Looking forward to their fourth and last year in Salem High, the class of '39 completes its third year of high school life. The class has a record for the three years for which it has due reason to be proud.

The class entered Salem High in the fall of 1934 much the same as previous freshmen classes. They were "young, happy and free as the breeze." A group of students ready to meet any and all opposition. They may have worn knee pants and short skirts in Junior High, but "dad" had to dig deep to dress them in long pants and skirts for high school life. After all, hadn't they been waiting eight years for this very occasion?

The class of '39 started off four years in high school with high enthusiasm. They elected John Evans, president of the class, William Rogers, vice-president of the class, and Mary Louise Emery, secretary. Thus the class was organized to start the year.

Continuing the method of raising money for the class treasury used by the class of the previous year they sold a total of one thousand pencils with the basketball and football schedules printed on them. The class then had a good financial standing in the school.

Then came their first party. They worked hard with the Sophomores and completed a very successful Frosh-Soph party. They presented a program in the auditorium before the dance with members of the class participating and then proceeded to the gym which was decorated in green and white and the red and gray of the sophomores. An enthusiastic class spirit helped to make the party a success.

After a successful freshman year, great things were expected of the members of the class when they started their sophomore year, and those interested were not disappointed.

The previous year's class officers were reelected with John Evans, president; William Rogers, vice-president; and Mary Louise Emery, secretary-treasurer; resuming their duties at the head of the class.

The class as a whole was very much interested in sports and the activities of the school. An array of promising talent turned out for football, basketball and track with various members of the class on the Quaker editorial and business staffs and a large number in the band and orchestra.

HISTORY OF THE JUNIOR CLASS

On the night of April 23rd the Sophomores played "big brother" to the Freshmen in the annual Freshman-Sophomore party. The two classes sponsored an entertaining dance, at which everyone had a good time. They had the gym decorated in the class colors of the Sophomores—purple and gold—and the traditional green and white of the freshmen. This completed the activities of the class for the year.

The class of '39 entered high school this year a more serious minded group of students. They had an eventful year ahead of them with their first party alone and the problem of presenting a successful class play in order to raise money for the all important "Prom" itself.

Feeling no need in change of leadership the class re-elected the same officers as in the previous two years. Their experience in the two previous years as executives of the class aided them in their duties this year.

An assembly was presented in the early part of 1938 as a part of the class assembly program. The assembly was amusing and entertaining with members of the class showing surprising talent. It was conducted as a radio program.

The class then presented the annual Junior class play. The play they presented was entitled, "That Girl Patsy." It was an amusing light comedy dealing with the arrival of a young orphan girl in her late 'teens, into a family which was being broken up by black mail. The play was presented in excellent form, and the cast rightfully deserved the applause it received. All members of the cast are looking forward to the Senior play with great anticipation.

The class then presented its first class party alone. The gym was decorated by a crepe paper canopy of purple and gold. Several contests were staged earlier in the evening, and dancing to Pat Conway's orchestra filled the remainder of the night.

According to tradition the Juniors chose their class ring. From a group of four different bases and shanks, an entirely original design, a military ring, was chosen. It is a round ring with a heavy shank upon which is mounted the Quaker crest, which has been used by Salem High classes for a number of years.

Now comes the big event of the year, the "Prom". As is customary the Juniors play host to the Seniors. This year the Juniors plan to give the Seniors the biggest prom of all.

HISTORY OF THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

The Class of '40 has successfully completed its second year in high school under the supervision of Mrs. Cope. The class, as a whole, possesses the qualities necessary to make itself an outstanding one.

After reorganizing last fall, the class chose the following leaders: President, Robert Clark; Vice-President, Allen Fehr; secretary-treasurer, Margaret Stewart.

This class is an exceptionally large one, having an enrollment of two hundred sixty-four members.

As it is customary to select the class colors in the sophomore year, the class of '40 selected blue and white.

To increase their treasury the class sold megaphone pins. They also sponsored an assembly presenting Dr. George Roemert and his "microvivarium" on February 10. The proceeds derived netted $14.70, which makes the total of the treasury $69.07.

Boys who were athletically inclined enough to go out for football were Richard Beck, Bob Clark, Joe Vendor, and Leonard Piersol. A very bright future for these boys in the athletic world is anticipated.

The basketball season followed, and the members who answered Coach Brown's call were Lester Knepp, Jim Kleon, Bill Kerr, Robert Shoe, Robert Whitcomb, John Tary. Knepp played with the varsity.

Bob Bruderly and Mike Nocera were football managers, and Theodore Ursu was basketball manager.

Peggy Stewart, Jane Tinsly, Nancy Waggoner, and Sara Wonner completed their second year as student librarians.

Sophomore girls who became members of the G. A. A. were Ellen Monks, Betty Tullis, Mary McCloskey, Helen Bush, Jean Munsell, Ellen Catlos, Helen Voyteck, Ruth Stoudt, Ruth Tetlow, Theda Greenawalt, Margaret Thiel, Billie Ruth Sproat, Betty Jane McCarter, Betty Bischel, Jeanette Potts, Eva Reader, Helen Fowler, Virginia Morris, Peg Stewart, Nancy Waggoner, Genevieve Fischer, Vivian Snipes, Betty Carpenter, and Laurabelle Veon.

Jane Tinsley and Sara Wonner were accepted as members of Salemasquers.

HISTORY OF THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

Taking part in the activities of the band were Frank Davis, Betty England, Charles Everstine, Al J. Freed, Ralph Greenisen, Tom Higgins, Mary Jugastru, Arden Llewellyn, Bill Merry, Aden Riffle, Ada Shriver, Bill Sproat, Jack Warner, and Dix Yates.

The following band members participated in the District Solo Contest at Mount Union: Aden Riffle, Jack Warner, Gusty Conja, Betty England, Bill Merry, and Al J. Freed.

Students with journalistic ambitions who survived the staff tryouts were Al J. Freed, editorial staff, and Virginia Nan, business staff.

The sophomore class boasts of all the cheerleaders. They are Al J. Freed, Bob Neale, Bob Lyons, Eugene McCready, and Ellen Monks.

The class presented the second in a series of class talent programs. The program supposedly took place in the Ozark Mountains. Bob Clark was in charge and presented the following numbers: Al J. Freed, Bob Dixon, and Bob Lyons in a skit entitled "An Epic of the Ozarks"; Viola Dotson and her guitar; Ruth Stoudt, Margaret Fronius, and Ruth West in a vocal trio; Susie Herman, acrobatic dance; Betty Probert, vocal; Bruce Gibbons, harmonica.

Virgil Stamp and Frank Davis sang in the Boys' Glee Club and Ruth Stoudt, Elisa Colian, Vivian Snipes, Betty Kirchgessner, and Wanda Zimmerman were in the Girls' Glee Club.

Orchestra members included Gusty Conja, Eleanor Eberwein, Betty England, Katherine Frantz, Al J. Freed, Virginia Ganea, Delores Jones, and Lewis Meyers.

Concluding their second year, the sophomores joined with the freshmen in the annual Frosh-Soph hop, which proved a great success.

Having completed two successful year of activities, the class of '40 is destined to "go places" and "do things" before the end of their high school careers.

HISTORY OF THE FRESHMEN CLASS

An exceptional group of enthusiastic freshmen entered the high school last September and have already proved, in their short stay with us, that they will be a shining star in the activities of our school.

To lead them in their various enterprises, they chose the following officers: President, George Baillie; Vice President, Robert Ballantine; Secretary-Treasurer, Mary Alice Leipper. These students have capably fulfilled their tasks in the important positions for which they were designated.

As their first class enterprise the freshmen sold 2,500 pencils with the football and basketball schedules on them. A profit of $45 was derived from the sales.

Thomas Berger and Alice Ruth Vincent won first and second prize, respectively, in the Junior Poster contest.

The freshmen proved to be very active individuals as they participated in practically all the activities offered by Salem High.

Those who were interested enough to go out for basketball were James Armeni, Ruben Breault, Bud Walters, Gail Allison, Mike Thomas, and Glenn McLaughlin, who made the varsity team. Gail Eckstein, Ray Lowry, and George Steffel were the freshmen managers.

Mr. Cope predicts many stars from the following boys who turned out for track: Tom Rhodes, Bob Bricker, Bob Schuck, Bob Scullion, Jim Armeni, George Antonio, Art Chappell, Marvin Coffee, Oliver Ingledue, Bob Jaeger, Bill Kerr, Ray Lowry, Glenn McLaughlin, Don Sankey, Bob Thompson and Ruben Breault.

The high school band claimed several members from the freshman class. Among them were John Dan, Bill Fineran, Vivian Foltz, Mary Alice Leipper, Elliot Hansell, Bob Joeger, Bill Kerr, Earl McDevitt, Francina Morey, Lucille Scheuring, Alex Simion, and Bob Thompson.

The freshmen are proud to claim Don Freed as one of the drum majors.

HISTORY OF THE FRESHMEN CLASS

Beginning as able assistants to Miss Lehman were Anne Belan and Alice Hunter.

Several members were initiated into the Latin club the second semester. Among those were Leatrice Johns, Bettie Mayhew, Rita Emery, Anne Belan, Dorothy Greene, Cleo Santee, Dorothy MacDonald, Nancy Roose, Jack Atkinson, Philip Ressler, Lucille Guy, Martha Clark, Alice Ruth Vincent, Lucia Sharp, Bob Scullion, Francina Morey, Vivian Foltz, Emma Dutko, Florence England, Marjjorie Brian, Bob Ballantine, Nan Beardmore, Ethel Mae Hill, Jeanette Fisher, and Mary Alice Leipper.

Forty-five girls, athletically inclined, joined the G. A. A. club and took part in the baseball, basketball, and kick-ball contests, which were held after school.

Lucia Sharp was the lone freshman to become a member of the Salemasquers.

Lee Bennett was a member of the Boys' Glee club, and Marjorie Brian, Betty Percival, Margaret Carr, and Mary Lou Brian belonged to the Girls' Glee club.

The orchestra was increased this year by the following freshmen: Eugene Myers, Betty Percival, Philip Ressler, Cleo Santee, and Joyce Burke.

Elliot Hansell, Dick Martin, and Irene White ably assisted the Business Manager throughout the year.

The class presented an interesting assembly which was the last of a series of four class talent programs.

Keeping in step with tradition, the freshmen held a joint party with the sophomores. The event was a May Pole dance, which was held on the 18th of May. The gym was decorated with the freshmen colors, green and white, and the sophomore colors. A feature of the party was a program presented by members of the two classes. The latter part of the evening was spent informally with games and dancing being the main diversions. During intermission, refreshments were served.

Miss Martha McCready, class adviser, regards this class as one of the hardest-working and most enthusiastic groups of students who ever entered Salem High.

Every kind of side activity is offered in Salem High with various clubs for the boys and girls, meeting after regular classes in the afternoon.

For those interested in languages there are the clubs which hold meetings and discuss their respective languages and provide entertaining instruction as well as valuable information. The three language clubs are Latin club, French club, and Spanish club.

Among Salem High students are found quite a few ardent philatelists who merged into one organization and called it the Stamp club. Meetings were held every Monday, and various contests were sponsored by the club.

For Salem's young thespians, various opportunities presented themselves in the form of class plays and in a dramatics club known as Salemasquers.

Mathematicians and musicians are cared for very completely by the Slide Rule club, Band, and Orchestra. The Salem band is among the leading musical organizations in north-eastern Ohio.

For those athletically inclined persons who are unable to participate in varsity competition, the school offers both a boy's and girl's sport organization. The boys are bound together by the Sportsman's club and the girls are grouped into the Girls' Athletic association. The members of varsity competition have a club called the Varsity S club.

Among boys' and girls' clubs are chapters of the national organization of the Hi-Tri and Hi-Y clubs. The former is the girls' society and the latter the boys'. The Hi-Y is a renewal of the organization which existed here a few years ago.

Activities have thrived more successfully this year in Salem High than ever before. We hope that they gain as much ground in the future as they have this year.

QUAKER EDITORIAL STAFF

Using fewer members on the staff and larger assignments to each, Harold Hoprich, editor of the Quaker Weekly, proved himself a capable journalist as well as an executive. Assisted by only sixteen members, Hoprich used one of the smallest staffs in recent years.

Advised by H. C. Lehman the staff published thirty issues of the weekly including an enlarged Christmas issue of eight pages instead of the regular six.

Due to the fact that two journalism classes were available each semester, Hoprich received valuable aid from this source. At various times throughout the school year Hoprich turned the weekly over to the advanced journalism class and allowed them to publish it for practice work. This they handled very efficiently.

Among the staff of sixteen, twelve were Seniors, adding to the experience and talent of the staff.

During the year several new issues were planned by Hoprich under the guidance of student members of the staff. Among these was a Girls' Issue published entirely by the girls of Salem High School. They met and elected an editor who took complete charge and published a fine issue which ran close competition to the Boys' Issue, which was published by the boys of the school. The girls chose Betty Neal as editor and the boys elected Don Beattie.

Although the traditional "Crazy Issue" was not published this year, the Quaker had many and varied publications to interest the students.

Hoprich held the standard of the Quaker high throughout the year and deserves all the credit possible for his untiring efforts. He leaves Salem High with graduation exercises and wishes best of luck to his successors.

QUAKER BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager Bill Jones proved his ability as a salesman during the 1937-38 school term. He turned out a fine group of ad-sellers and kept up with the fine standard set by past managers.

Early in the year Jones promised the students a successful year in advertising and he kept his word by securing substantial ads for both weekly and annual.

The staff set their weekly quota at sixty inches a week and only went below that mark on several occasions. The price of the weekly ads was boosted a little by Jones to help balance a difficult budget for the Quaker.

Reaching their peak during the Christmas rush, the super-salesmen packed one hundred twenty inches of advertising into an eight page issue.

Around the last of March the staff began work on the annual advertising. The goal for the year was set at $700 and great hopes were held to reach that mark. To accomplish this goal an extensive campaign was begun. Jones mailed letters to all the prospective advertisers and chose ten or twelve of his staff to work hard towards that goal.

Throughout the year the staff has received the capable assistance of Lucille Holroyd as student-secretary.

Jones was the only member of the business staff to attend the journalism convention in Columbus during the fall. He had not chosen an assistant at that time and, therefore, no other representative from this staff attended.

As he leaves Salem High, Jones has completed what can justly be called a successful and worth while year with the Quaker. He leaves with regrets and wishes the best of luck to the Quaker to come!

THE HI-TRI CLUB

During the tenth year of organization the Hi-Tri was under the direction of Mrs. Koontz and Miss McCreedy. Numerous Penny Dances were held throughout the year.

As is the custom, the girls of the Hi-Tri sponsored the Christmas assembly. On the last Thursday before Christmas vacation they held a covered dish dinner and a gift exchange.

As an educational feature Ruth Obenour, society reporter on the Salem News staff, and Mrs. Roy Smucker, world wide traveler, spoke before the club. Miss Obenour gave an interesting speech on journalism. She explained the various steps which are followed in printing a newspaper. She had with her lines of type, stereotypes, galleys of proof, and metal cuts.

Mrs. Smucker lectured on her travels and showed pictures taken in Asia and other foreign countries. On May 5 a Mothers' Tea was held in the recreation room of the public library.

Stella Fidoe Erath, who was president of the first semester, dropped out of school during Christmas vacation and Alice West, former vice president, succeeded her in office. Irene Schmidt was secretary; Mary Nedelka, treasurer; and Elizabeth Elder, door keeper.

The Girls' Athletic Association was organized in 1934 when intramural basketball for girls was abolished. During the 1937-38 season the association held numerous athletic tournaments, the first of which was a kickball contest won by the Sophomores.

The Seniors won championships in both the volleyball and basketball tournaments.

The last tournament of the year was baseball. Since the club depends upon Centennial Park for tennis courts, it was impossible, because of weather conditions, to hold tennis matches this season.

On April 29 the club, under the direction of the officers: Bela Sidinger, president; Mary Jane Lora, vice president; Alice Zatko, secretary; Helen Adams, treasurer; and Miss Sarah Hanna, Club adviser, held an initiation party at which more than forty new members were taken into the G. A. A. The most of the girls initiated were Freshmen.

Four senior girls earned their G. A. A. letters during membership in the club. Betty Albright, Bela Sidinger and Martha Preisler each earned 1000 points and were presented with letters at the end of their junior year. Anna Simion completed her score this year and thereby became entitled to her G. A. A. letter.

Fowler, E. Hill.

The senior play, "The Yellow Jacket," was presented the first of December. The play, set in China, was produced exactly as the native Chinese would present it. The plot concerned the struggles of a young Chinese boy to claim possession of the "Yellow Jacket," which would make him ruler of a Chinese province and to which he was the rightful heir. The play was an interesting departure from the usual run of productions.

Pioneering in heavier drama, this year's Senior class play, "The Yellow Jacket," under the direction of Mr. J. M. McDonald, was declared a success by the class and an enthusiastic audience. Mr. McDonald was assisted in the production of the play by Ruth Thomas, student director.

"The Yellow Jacket," Chinese in every detail, deals with the life of Wu Hoo Git, whom his evil father, Wu Sin Yin, ruler of the province, plots to kill along with his mother. The young lad is saved by faithful servants. Growing into manhood, Wu Hoo Git sets out to find his ancestors, and in the end finds happiness, fame, and the position of ruler of the province which he rightfully inherited from his father.

THE CAST OF THE JUNIOR PLAY

In their first dramatic attempt the Junior Class presented "That Girl Patsy," a three-act comedy by Sumner Nichols, on March 24 and 25. It was well attended.

The play centers around a young orphan, Patsy (Polly Silver), brought into the Warren family by Mrs. Warren (Valois Finley), who is interested in charity work. The Warrens resent Patsy's entrance, that is, everyone except Bob Warren (Leavitt Schertzer), young hero of twenty-five, who falls in love with Patsy. Violet Manners (Theresa Hoff), who is engaged to Bob just for his money, disapproves of Patsy. Julia Warren (Alyse MacDonald), Bob's sister of twenty-one, is being blackmailed by her former lover, Philip Greer (Robert Vickers).

Others in the cast are Professor Orlando Powers (Eugene Neale), a handsome young man of twenty-six, who is interested in the theories of heredity and environment and also Julia Warren; Fred Coulson (Dick Capel), a playboy who lives off his father and is in love with Julia; Susie (Dorothy Milligan), the Warren's maid with an English accent; Miss Harper (Mary Louise Emery), a spinster of thirty-five, supervisor of the Girl's Uplift Society, a charitable organization; Denny (Nick Chittea), the Warrens' gardener, and Irishman of great pride.

SALEM HIGH ORCHESTRA

The Salem High School orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Ellis Satterthwaite presented a very fine concert and played at two class plays during the current season.

Early in the year the orchestra began practicing for a concert which was presented in the early part of May. This year the orchestra consisted of twenty-five members and was a more fully balanced organization. The string instruments outnumbered the wind instruments, making a better balanced instrumentation. The instrumentation included ten violins, one E flat saxophone, three clarinets, one trumpet, one trombone, one double bass, one drum, two bells and tympany, two guitars, two pianos, and one accordian. This is the first year that there has ever been an accordian in the orchestra.

The concert program consisted of fifteen well-selected numbers and included several solo selections. The Girls' Glee club assisted by presenting several acapella numbers.

Several new instruments were purchased for the orchestra by the Board of Education and several new cupboards were constructed in the rear of the auditorium to serve for a place to put instruments between practices, as the instruments were in use only on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

THE GIRLS' AND BOYS' GLEE CLUBS

For the first time in the history of the Salem High band, a full, well balanced instrumentation has been obtained, after the purchasing of a tenor and baritone saxophone, two French horns, an oboe and a bassoon. In appreciation of this act, the band went ahead to complete a very successful year, both financially and musically.

The officers of the band are president, Martin Whitman; vice president, Charles Wentz; librarian, Margaret Simon; secretary-treasurer, Joe Fisher. Harold Hoprich served as student conductor, while Don Beattie and Don Freed twirled the batons.

During Christmas vacation the band sponsored its fifth annual Band Dance, while on April 3rd they presented a free concert to the public.

Again as in preceeding years, the band sent representatives to the district solo and ensemble contest which was held at Mt. Union College, April 30.

The band loses nine members by graduation. They are Anna Simion, Charles Wentz, Margaret Simon, Betty Ketterer, Marguerite Vincent, Martin Whitmen, Leah Leipper, Harold Hoprich, and Bob Hinton.

Besides playing for all home and out of town football games, the band headed several parades.

CHAMPIONSHIP DEBATE SQUAD

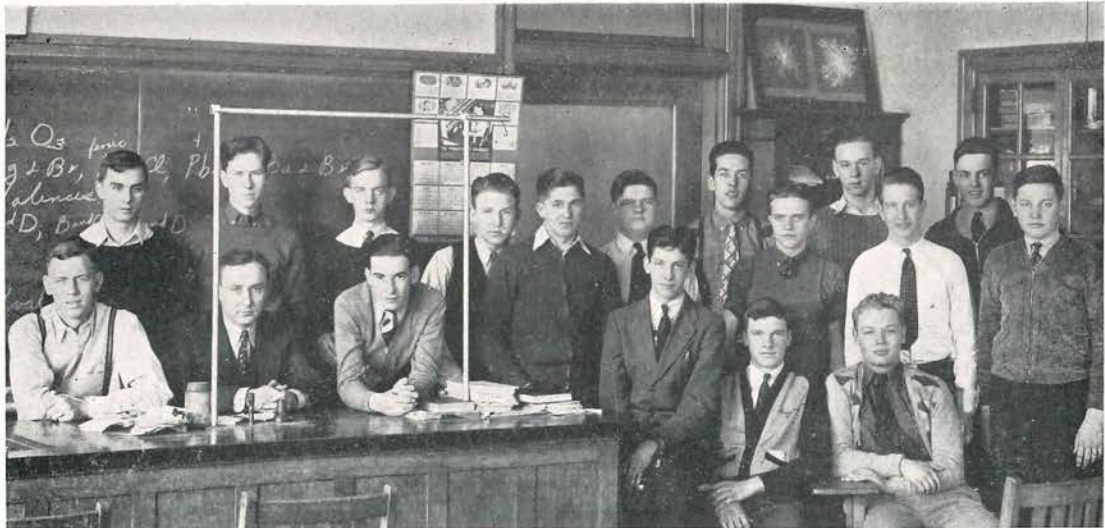

Winning fame by competing in the state semi-finals, the Salem High Debate Team finished one of their most successful seasons in recent years. The affirmative team included a senior and a junior, Elsie Hunter and Constance Clarke. Lionel Difford, another senior, and Constance Clarke composed the negative team and William Stevens was an alternate.

In the district debate matches were East Palestine, Newton Falls, and Scienceville. By receiving the decision in each of these debates, the Salem squad became district champs.

The elimination series held to determine the Ohio State debate champions took the S. H. S. team to Kent University where they matched Ravenna; to Warren, the other team being Williamsfield; to Wooster, where Clairsville was the opponent; and finally to Columbus, where the Salem squad was defeated by Lima in the semi-finals.

Before the regular debate season, the S. H. S. debaters journeyed to Ohio State to attend a debate clinic.

The question used for discussion by the teams in the Ohio State Debate League was Resolved: That the several states should adopt the unicameral system of legislation. The squad was coached by Mr. J. C. Guiler.

THE HI-Y CLUB

The Hi-Y club, organized anew this year by an enthusiastic group of senior boys, with the help of faculty adviser Mr. Herbert Jones, completed a very successful season. The membership was composed of seniors.

The officers elected this year were Bill Brooks, president; Julius Nestor, vice-president; and Bob Kaminsky, secretary-treasurer.

A constitution was drawn up and plans were made to join the National Hi-Y. Many members ordered jackets, colored red and grey, the official Hi-Y colors. Many emblems were also ordered.

The members held their meetings every Tuesday evening in room 302 under the supervision of Mr. Jones, and spent most of their time discussing the timely and educational topics that all Hi-Y clubs study.

The Hi-Y basketball team completed a very successful season, playing Hi-Y teams from Sebring, East Liverpool, and Minerva.

The purpose of the club is to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character. The slogan of the Hi-Y is "clean living, clean speech, clean athletics, clean scholarship, and contagious Christian character."

SALEMASQUERS

Salem High thespians in the person of Salemasquers completed a very successful season with many hoped for activities and accomplishments made realities.

Early in the year the club underwent reorganization routine; and full fledged and associate memberships were created under the leadership of the club officers, Lionel Difford, president; Mary Helen Bruderly, vice-president; secretary, Verna Carpenter; and Jane Cope, treasurer.

The club held its meetings every two weeks on Monday, after school. A program committee presented a short program each meeting. Among the means of entertainment were short plays, musical selections, and dramatics talks.

Late in the year the club decided to present a plaque to the outstanding actor and one to the outstanding actress of the year. Also a plaque was to be presented to the most deserving person, who performed stage work other than acting. These awards were presented at recognition assembly.

Members of the organization bought pins during the first semester. They consisted of a gold plated mask with the insignia, Salemasquers, inscribed below it. The club's faculty adviser is Mr. James McDonald.

THE LIBRARY STAFF

The high school library has again proved indispensable as a laboratory to supplement classwork. Frequent use of the library tends to form a worth-while habit and to train pupils to use books easily and effectively.

There are thirty-six hundred volumes in the library. This year a hundred books were added, including the new American Encyclopedia and Webster's New International Dictionary, in two volumes. A magazine survey was made by Miss Lehman and her assistants to determine which magazines were most popular with the pupils.

During National Book Week attractive bookmarks containing a list of interesting books were given to each student in high school.

Richard Halliburton, well-known author, who gave an interesting lecture in an assembly, autographed his newest book, "The Book of Marvels," for the library. The library also has several other books written by Mr. Halliburton.

There is a student staff of twelve girls who assist students, repair books, and help keep the library in order. Anne Belan, a freshman, joined the staff during the second semester.

Reorganizing last year after a lapse of six years, "Sodalitas Latina," the Latin club, has come to the end of a successful year under the leadership of Mrs. Koontz.

To lead them in their various enterprizes, the members elected Robert Clark, president; Maxine Fidoe, vice-president; Peggy Stewart, secretary; Elizabeth Hart, treasurer.

The club realized a fair profit from the sale of Magic Slates, which were sold to the students in high school and in Junior High.

Among the social events was a party, which was held at Eberwein's cottage at Lake Sevakeen. During the Christmas holidays the members visited shut-ins and entertained them with carols. Eugene Neale entertained the members at his home where they enjoyed a cover-dish dinner. The club also participated in the Christmas assembly program by offering carols sung in Latin.

Thirty new members were initiated into the club at an "Ides of March" party. To become a member of the club the student must have received an average of A or B during his first semester. Due to the enthusiasm shown by the members, the Latin Club is slated to occupy an important position in the school program for many years to come.

Le Cercle Francais, the name by which members of the French club are designated, had a very interesting and beneficial year under the faculty supervision of Miss Mary Roth.

The club, which has an enrollment of twenty members, was organized several years ago to stimulate the interest of the students in the study of French and to help them appreciate and enjoy this language.

Beginning the year's activities, the club elected the following officers: John Evans, president; Robert Vickers, vice-president; Frances Simone, secretary-treasurer.

During the year the students corresponded with students in France, writing entirely in French. The members participated in the Christmas assembly by presenting carols, sung in French.

Several social meetings were held during which games and a fortune telling session were conducted in French. An interesting play, spoken entirely in French, was also presented.

Club pins, with the insignia of the French club, were chosen by a committee and voted upon by the members.

To round out the activities for the year, members and their guests enjoyed a picnic.

THE STAMP CLUB

Among Salem High's many activities is the Stamp Club, an organization sponsored by Mr. Sanders and is finishing its third year as a regular club in the high school.

Various means of entertainment were provided through the medium of philately. Contests were held and prizes were given to the winners.

Meetings took place every Tuesday at noon in room 300 with some educational or entertaining phase of collecting discussed. At several meetings special speakers were present and gave talks to the members.

Early in the year the club elected officers to guide their course.

Many members brought their lunches to the meetings while others returned early to attend. The Junior High Stamp Club attended meetings frequently.

Mr. Williams, an ardent collector, aided the club in its various functions. Mr. Henning, also a collector, attended meetings.

On several occasions during the year the club held exhibits of frames of stamps. One party was held and Morris the magician presented a program as entertainment.

Mr. Sanders expects a larger club next year as only a few Seniors are members in the club.

THE VARSITY "S" CLUB

In the spring members of the club purchased red and black jackets with the name of the club inscribed on the back.

Mr. Brown, basketball coach and club adviser, is largely responsible for keeping the club organized and running smoothly.

Completing its second year after reorganization in 1937 the Varsity S Club has established itself as a useful and permanent club in Salem High.

The club consists of boys who have been awarded varsity letters in either track, cross-country, basketball, or football.

The vice-officers of 1937-38 who assumed their duties as leaders of the club this year are Max Lutsch, president; Mike Cerbu, secretary; and Gilbert Everhart, treasurer.

The club held a bonfire pep-rally in the field adjoining Reilly Stadium before the Lisbon-Salem football game. Mr. W. J. Springer, former principal at Salem High, was the speaker of the evening.

In the fall the club presented a dance. The gym was decorated in the school colors, red and black, with a large triangular S as a center-piece. A large crowd attended the dance which received many favorable comments.

LOS CASTELLANOS

The Los Castellanos has had a very successful year. The club held its meetings twice a month under the supervision of their faculty adviser, Miss Mildred Hollett.

Many social functions were held during the course of the year. Among these were Spanish tea parties, games, songs and a series of one act plays in which the various club members participated.

Club officers are elected every semester. In this way more members can hold a club office.

The officers for this year were as follows: First semester: president, Evelyn Tullis; vice president, Valois Finley; secretary-treasurer, Mary DeRienzo; second semester: president, George Kleon; vice president, Virginia Hurray; secretary-treasurer, Mary Fisher.

By popular vote the club members decided that the club's money should be used to buy either a map of Spain or flags of Spanish speaking countries.

To be eligible for Los Castellanos, two years of Spanish are required.

A picnic was enjoyed by the entire club at the end of the school year.

THE OUTDOOR SPORTSMEN

Under the supervision of Mr. Englehart, the club has reorganized into a high popular, thriving school organization with a membership of twenty-five. The club was first organized three years ago. It did organize last year, but it was not as popular a club as is the one this year. This club has a wonderful record. They have taken several hikes since the club started. The boys and Mr. Englehart with the cooperation of Mr. Harry Bischel, Sr., took a three-day trip into the hills of Pennsylvania, from April 29, to May 1.

The club's officers are President, Harold Culler; Vice President, Ollie Olexa; Secretary, Jim Steffel; Assistant Secretary, Milan Mileusnic; Treasurer, Julius Nestor, and Assistant Treasurer, Robert Greenawalt. The boys found fun in cooking on stoves made of stones found along trout streams while in the mountains. They have studied conservation, guns, ballistics, hunting laws, animals and fishing, birds, camping, hiking, and hunting. This club is rapidly gaining much popularity and has proved itself to be one of the outstanding organizations in Salem High.

Mr. Englehart's quoted words as to what kind of a club it is, were, "This is a club for boys with a keen sense of love, beauty, and appreciation for Nature's beings. This is a club where boys are boys."

THE SLIDE RULE CLUB

The Slide Rule Club can truthfully say it is the youngest of the clubs in Salem High. Although it was organized at the beginning of the second semester in '35, it is rapidly making progress.

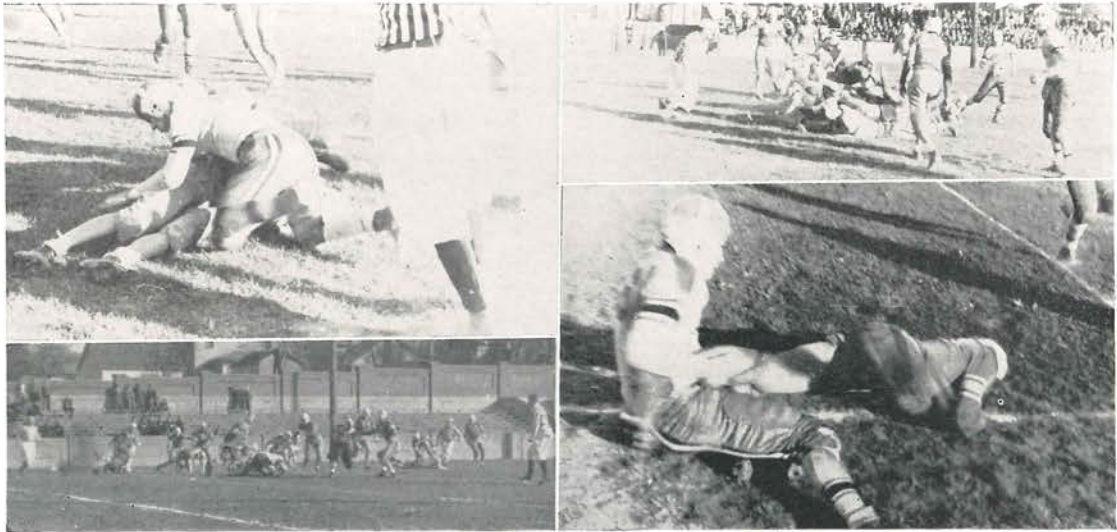

The purpose of the organization is to offer elementary instructions in the manipulation of the slide rule.

At the first meeting of the group, the following officers were chosen: President, Winthrop Difford; vice president, Barbara Williams; secretary-treasurer, Leroy Moss.

During the first semester, the group met every two weeks, but during the latter half of the year it was changed to every week. About three social meetings were held every semester.

This was the first year in the history of the club that club pins were purchased.

Also during the second semester the manner of instructing the students was changed. Instead of having Miss McCready teach, students are making use of their rules during math classes to help them in the solving of difficult problems.

JARRING TACKLES AND SPEEDY BACKS

Although emerging from the '37 season scarred in spots, the Quakers can term their '37 gridiron campaign a successful one. Chalking up three wins and two ties against four defeats, the Quakers can boast that when they were in the win column, no one point was scored against them. They also can point with pride to their tie with a highly touted Dover eleven, and a 26-0 trouncing they handed the Wellsville Bengals.

Dame Fortune turned her back on the boys, at Liverpool with the game, practically in the bag for the Quakers, lost in the last minute when the Potters pulled a one in a million finale.

The following week again found the Quakers on the short end of the score after a rally in the final half fell short against Struthers' Big Red.

The most disasterous episode of their '37 season was at Sharon when the lads were hopelessly outclassed and took a 49-0 beating.

An aggressive backfield and a powerful forward wall went to make the Quakers a classy, smooth functioning gridiron machine. Molding his teams with an eye to the future, Coach Schroeder had given nearly every starter valuable game experience the year before.

Leonard Bonsall and Max Lutsch, although new comers to the game, proved themselves capable of holding their own. The return of five lettermen bolstered the team considerably, these being Bill Schaeffer, Ollie Olexa, Mike Cerbu, Charlie Wentz and Bob Kirchgessner.

The forward wall averaged between one hundred sixty-five and one hundred seventy pounds with such hefties as Dick Beck and Harold Fitzsimmons boosting the average.

The backfield averaged one hundred sixty-five pounds, and displayed plenty of power with Wise, Dean, Malloy, and Lutsch showing up well. Olexa, who was the mainstay of the Quakers backfield, was given a berth on the all county eleven together with Charlie Wentz and Mike Cerbu. Cerbu, the pepperpot of the squad, was elected Honorary Captain by the team. Julius Nestor, scrappy end, who had the misfortune of breaking his wrist in the first game was able to play in the last three games. The Quakers donned new uniforms and made a more flashing appearance than any of their opponents.

Left to right—First Row: Coach Schoeder, D. Zappone, manager, B. Minamy, B. Saunders, J. Nestor, L. Bonsall, B. Malloy, R. Kirchgessner, M. Cerbu, captain, O. Olexa, G. Everhart, M. Lutch, C. Wentz, G. King, manager, Coach Jones. Second Row: J. Vendor, M. Wukatich, E. Dean, R. Terry, M. Guappone, S. Wise, W. Schaeffer, J. Morris, M. Wukatich, R. Beck, H. Fitzsimmons. Third Row: M. Nicora, manager, B. Bruderly, V. Cafaro, R. Clark, C. Woerther, J. Syppko, M. Mileusinic, W. Walters, W. Rogers, D. Thomas.

The Quaker cagers can look back over their 1937-38 season and term it one of the most successful seasons in recent years. With such varsity men as Olexa, Lutsch, Everhart, Dickey, and Schaeffer returning, Coach Herbert Brown was able to mold one of the smoothest cage machines ever to represent Salem High on the hardwoods.

A new-comer to the Quaker squad this season was Leonard Bonsall, who hailed from Greenford, where he starred as both cager and trackster.

Mr. Brown employed an offense featuring Lutsch, Schaeffer, and Bonsall at the pivot positions, with Dickey, Olexa, and Everhart handling the ball in mid-court.

The Quakers' campaign came to a close with ten wins against four setbacks, excluding tournament games.

Highlight in the 1937-38 season was the thrilling upset the local lads handed a highly-touted Massillon quintet.

In tournament play the Quakers marched straight through to Akron, bowing only to Youngstown South. At Akron, after trampling Akron North, city champions, they fell before a comparatively weak St. Vincents contingent, which was the only barrier between Salem and Columbus.

SALEM HIGH RESERVES

The reserves are a promising group of young hopefuls consisting of Freshmen, Sophomores, and several Juniors. From this squad Mr. Brown will in the next few years attempt to shape a winning team.

Mr. Brown places those boys on the reserves who he thinks will develop into varsity material. Most always lanky and awkward in their Freshmen year these lads by their Junior year have acquired a finesse and aggressiveness characteristic of all Quaker varsity teams.

The reserves were under the keen guidance of Mr. Ted Jones, also assistant football coach.

The reserves boast nine wins against seven defeats. When the opposition and number of players used is considered, the record is an impressive one.

Outstanding among the reserve players were James Kleon, John Tary, Jim Armeni, Bud Walters, Mike Thomas, and Bob Shoe. James Kleon proved himself to be most adept in the scoring department while the other boys played clean hard basketball.

SALEM HIGH'S TRACK SQUAD

In no other sport can the thrill and the blade of competition be more keenly felt than in the sport of track and field. Here is a sport which has survived the ages. From the Grecian marathoners to the dashmen of today; all have possessed the glowing spark of competition.

So let it be with our own track team. Losing twelve lettermen through graduation, Mr. Cope succeeded in snapping a good team into shape. The strongest link in the Quaker's squad was Max Lutsch who holds the county high jump record and could always be counted on for points in this event besides the discus and shot. Harold Culler was the Quaker's greatest asset in the distance events having four substantial running mates in Jim Dickey, Bob Lutz, Charles Huddleston, and Leonard Bonsall. The dashes were left in the hands of Morris, Stone, and Hansell. Stu Wise was the upholder of Salem prestige in the broad jump while Lowry, Everhart, and Clark carried the Quaker's name in the pole vault. The high hurdles featured Morris and Schaeffer while Dunlap and Huddleston ran the low hurdles.

In football and basketball there are throngs of fans to cheer you on but in cross country there are no fans to encourage you. There is no glory in Cross Country. Every athlete who participates in this sport is doing so for his own pleasure. You have to love this event to get out in rain, snow, and wind and run your heart out over a two mile course.

The Salem cindermen made a good showing this year although there was some very strong competition. Members of the squad are Culler, Lutz, Huddleston, Breault, Dickey, Cariello, and Zimmerman.

The Quakers first meet was against Boardman, Akron East and East Palestine. Salem won second place although Harold Culler finished first in the event.

The Red and Black lads then competed in the N. E. O. District meet which Akron East won. Their final contest was at Delaware in the state meet where they finished in eleventh place. Boys winning varsity letters were Harold Culler and Charles Huddleston. Reserve letters were won by James Dickey, Bob Lutz, Lewis Zimmerman, John Cariello, and Rubin Breault.

Every year it has been customary to feature the pictures of the Salem High student body in their respective classes.

It has also been customary to feature those students, who were interested enough to contribute their bit to make the annual a success, in informal poses such as are found on these pages.

These snapshots were, for the most part taken by candid camera fiends and submitted to the Editor of the Annual for participation in this year book.

It is to these students to whom we are grateful for supplying these snaps which will recall to our minds fond memories of days gone by—our High School days—the happiest days of our lives.

Here, too, will we find informal snaps, of our beloved faculty, that will impress on our minds the picture of those teachers not as drivers of work, but as fun-loving individuals interested in the welfare of the Salem High students.

It is with pride that we present the feature pages of the 1938 Annual which, we hope, will bring back only pleasant memories in the years to come.

A Postgraduate Course In Personal Finance

A little postgraduate course in banking after you leave school won't cost you anything and it will prove of the utmost practical value as an aid to your later success.

The first "job" of a graduate is not always his life-work. More often it is a stepping stone. It may give you the chance to save a little capital.

You can be learning business methods; you can be making desirable acquaintances; be building credit at the bank.

The officers of this bank will be glad to give you their guidance and cooperation in every way possible. We are genuinely interested in your success and desire to serve you.

Lady in restaurant: "Why don't you shoo your flies?"

Chief: "Well, you see it's hot today, so I thought I would let them run around barefooted."

Wentz: "Don't you ever use toothpaste?"

Beattie: Why should I when I have no teeth loose?"

Bill Brooks had been just operated on and he was put in his room. When he woke up the blinds were drawn.

"Why are those blinds down doctor?" he asked.

"Well," said the surgeon, "there's a fire burning across the alley and I didn't want you to wake up and think the operation had been a failure."

Joe Sabona was given a banana to eat for the first time and after he was through eating he was asked how he liked it.

"Fine," Joe replied, "but the cob is kind of soft."

Mr. Lehman: Ollie, use "Julius Caesar in a sentence.

Ollie Olexa: When Calpurnia comes into the room, Julius Caesar.

George King on the stage was crying, "Give me bread, give me bread." And down came the curtain with a roll.

"Let me off at the next stop, conductor. I thought this was a lunch wagon."

Mrs. Cox: Some fish travel a long distance. Can anyone give me an instance?

Honor Biology Stud: Yes mam; a gold fish—it travels around the globe every day.

Husband: Why haven't you mended my sox dear?

Wify: Did you buy that fur coat you promised me?

Husband: No.

Wify: Well then if you don't give a wrap I don't give a darn.

Julius Nestor was away from town and he was talking to some other boys.

The other boys said: I suppose your home town is one of those places where everyone goes down to meet the train.

Julius: What train?

PROGRESS

A symbol of our times, progress is the keynote of today — progress in education, science, industry, in human welfare.

Salem's graduates are typical of this progress. May they find their attainment in a progressively brighter future.
