The Quaker Annual once more offers its pages for the portrayal of the ever-interesting dramatic story of the students and faculty and the events in which they participated at Salem High School. This year the books assumes the form of an album of photographic recordings, playing back the events which, with the passing of time, will become a part of life's treasured memories of our high school days.

In Appreciation

LOREN D. EARLY
Dean of Boys

Loren D. Early, Dean of Boys, has earned the respect and loyalty of the teen-age boys and girls through his ideals, principles, philosophy, and active participation in school activities. His wisdom has contributed much to the future lives of those who have sought his advice. In appreciation of all this, we play to him the record of dedication of the 1947 Quaker Annual.
Although the students of Salem High School know very little about the Salem Board of Education, they owe much to this group of five hard-working men. Elected every four years by the citizens of Salem, these men are responsible for the welfare of our schools and for setting up the standards of education for the students. Well known by superintendent, principals, and faculty, they rarely come in direct contact with the pupils. They carry out their work quietly and efficiently in the background of student life.

Together with Supt. E. S. Kerr, they formulate school plans and policies. In addition to being a policy-making body for our school system, the members of the board levy school taxes, set salaries for school employees, and provide supplies and repairs that are necessary. They study the needs and duties of our school and take care of them.

This year the board waged a successful campaign to provide classrooms for large increases in grade school enrollments in the coming years. A $750,000 bond issue, approved by the citizens of Salem, will provide for a new building in the northwest section of the city, four-room additions to Prospect and McKinley schools, and a twelve-room addition to Reilly school.
We honor our high school, we sing of its praise...and of you its august body...our Board of Education, firm foundation of Salem Public Schools...planning an even greater educational system for the students of tomorrow...and of you, our administrators, leaders of our footsteps... shapers of our destinies...and of you, our teachers, chancellors of the exchequer of knowledge...amo, amas, amat...H20...2X plus 5 equals ?...classes more or less interesting, but never ending...assignments heaped higher and higher, climaxed by inevitable tests...report cards, a pattern in black and red...
advisers, builders, planners...warders of a heterogeneous body of students...deans, wise counselors...librarians,
"Your book is now overdue"...coaches, embodiment of pep, vim, and vigor...conferences evolving into acquaintances...
mutual understandings...many friendships growing from year to year...we'll cherish its memories our entire life.
While the roar and smoke of World War II fades, we are busy clearing the debris and planning for a better world. Nations which never knew anything but oppression and poverty are stirring with the dawn of the day of freedom. With its power and enlightenment our country must now show less fortunate peoples the path to a happier way of life.

Here in Salem High School you are situated in the midst of free and excellent opportunities to grow into able citizens. You owe full-scale development to yourselves that you may give far-sighted leadership to our country and contribute much to the building of a happier world.

E. S. KERR
Superintendent
Congratulations upon the completion of another school year. Some of you have learned a lot, some less. You have had many happy experiences that you will remember all of your lives. Everyone can look forward to the coming summer with pleasant anticipation.

There are not many specific things that I remember my college president saying, but I do recall that one day in chapel he said, "Remember, the jobs that are worth while require work, and lots of it. The time is past when you can get something for nothing." It is to be hoped that eventually everyone of you will find the thing he likes to do best, for then no matter how hard the work or long the hours, the task will not seem so great.

Next year I shall miss the class of '47, but they may be assured that when they leave here they carry with them my very best wishes for success and the best that is to be had.

That insistent alarm clock...that eight-thirty tardy bell...
enough to break up a teen-ager's happy home...the "crawling like a snail unwillingly to school"...covering tablets with trifles and sketches...loitering groups of humanity in the corridors..."Hey, Bob! Just checkin' up"...copying term papers from books in the library...finishing last night's sleep in study hall...surprise tests...out at noon for a Dagwood...back to the grind...getting the latest on locker romances...waiting for a funny spot in slow-moving classes...saved by the bell...hoping for an assembly to break up the routine...freshmen conjugating Latin verbs...sophomores dissecting earthworms...juniors choking with chemical gases...seniors discussing the democratic way of life...up and down the halls in twos and threes...or alone...in and out the classrooms...scurrying for bits of knowledge...like ants in a sugar-bowl...great stuff, this getting educated!

Only one more year at Salem High. Only one more year in which to win our laurels for next fall we triumphantly claim our right as seniors at Salem High School.

Three years we've worked and griped and plugged along for this climax of becoming seniors And now we approach it with mixed emotions: regret, delight, and blind anticipation.

Looking back, we remember our first years when we donned the typical beanie and looked with awe upon the upperclassmen. We emerged from the bewilderment of being freshmen and the relief of being sophomores to dabble in activities and to get an education. We spread our class in all the fields of learning and activity. Our class parties, our class play, and the Junior­ Senior Prom were examples of our carrying on the social traditional events of the school.

Many first class athletes and scholars are within our ranks. We've settled down (as much as teen-agers can!) and this year we've shown what high school really can do in making the junior! Our members wear letters and are dramatists and prexies of this and of that.

This year we have been guided by our officers, Dick Theiss, president;
Bob Coppock, vice-president; and Lee Ward, secretary-treasurer. A. V.
Henning has been our class adviser.

Our prospects are bright, for with another year we'll be all set. Another year, our last at S. H. S., to learn, to rule, to win!

Row 1—Leila Oertel, Betty Volpe, Mary Jane Petrueci, Mary Ann Linder, Dolores Wright, Mary Jane Marino, Vivian Safreed, Gloria Steffel, Caroly Ross, Dolores Stratton, Ruth Votaw, Dorothy Shoop, Helen Fuster, Eileen Sanders, Pat Murphy, Marianne Sweeney, Donna Leipper, Sara Tulis, Pat Neely, Marilyn Miller, Bev Stowell, Donna Roestler.

Row 2—Nancy Trebilcock, Martha Rhodes, Marge Lutsch, Nellie Lottman, Betty Zimmerman, Margaret Sommers, Betty Stratton, Gloria Vincent, Evelyn Whitacre, Mary Jane Lesick, Pat Yengling, Jacqueline Metzgar, Betty Moyer, Clara Moyer, Janet Youtz, Irene Swetye, Mary Lippiatt, Nancy Stamp, Rita Zeller, Ruth Mangus.

Gosh, being a sophomore isn't so simple! In our opinion someone should institute a high school course omitting the sophomore year. What a time we've had trying to learn and to live at the same time; trying to master the Pythagorean Theorem and to get beyond the opening words of "Friends, Romans, and countrymen!"; trying to get the use of Dad's car for the night and nerve enough to ask "her" for a date.

This year we returned to the halls to look condescendingly at the new first year class and to claim our assembly seats on the main floor of the auditorium, practically rubbing elbows with the seniors! With that superior feeling that comes as you advance one class in high school, we chose our officers to be Walter Ehrhart, president; Jerry Miller, vice-president; and Nancy Bates, secretary-treasurer Miss Helen Redinger was our class adviser.

We'll long remember the class parties, the formals we wore or escorted to the band dance, the trips down the corridors to biology lab, our athletes playing their first year of varsity, and our too-numerous-to-mention-here straight "A" classmates.

In reality we have only marked time this year. True, we've studied, and learned, and grown, yet we've still been under-classmen, following paths of juniors and seniors. But next year—we'll be juniors. Upperclassmen. Content with the world after passing through our probationary first two years.
FRESHMEN

Strange experience, this being a freshman! New friends, new faces, new haunts, new studies. Up and down the stairs, up and down. Where's 310? What period is this? Trying to learn it all in a few weeks—our first year. Trying high school life and being tried by it.

Was it just last fall that we were thrown into the thick of it? Dashed from the poise of a beginning-to-grow-up junior high existence, our pride somersaulted and left us meek, timid, and oh! so green.

But as time marched on, we learned our schedules; we learned the secret of finding the right room for the right period; and we learned to take it from those splathy seniors. We grasped the meaning of high school life, and we loved it!

From the midst of our bewildered members we chose our officers as follows: Joe Nocera, president; Wayne Darling, vice-president; and Janet Vincent, secretary-treasurer. Miss Sarah Doxsee was our class adviser.

Inexperienced as we were, we tried our hand at decorating the gym for class parties, applying lipstick, following the cheers and singing the school songs at the games, and getting a few members into football uniforms—shoulder pads, hip pads, knee pads and all.

Having survived this first year test of endurance, we can hold up our heads and march on. For now we are sophomores and three years from now, we'll graduate—a product of Salem High School.

The Hi-Tri is an organization of junior and senior girls whose purpose is to develop strength—strength of will, of hope, of purpose, of truth, and of love. The only requirement for membership in the Hi-Tri is a scholastic average of at least a "B" during the first two or three years of high school.

During this its nineteenth year, the Hi-Tri enjoyed a number of events, including the initiation of forty-four new members, the annual Christmas exchange, and several coverdish suppers. The members also took charge of the refreshment stand at the Salem-East Liverpool football game. The annual Hi-Tri Mother and Daughter Tea was held in the spring with the girls doing the serving and furnishing the entertainment.

Another enjoyable feature of each year is the senior treat at which time the Little Sisters sponsor an evening of entertainment for their Big Sisters. This usually consists of a dinner and a theater party.

The officers for this year were as follows: Ruth Rufer, president; Betty Cosgarea, vice-president; Loie Barnard, secretary; and Mary Helen Endres, treasurer. Miss Claribel Bickel and Miss Evelyn Johnston are the club advisers.
Behind the twenty-nine editions of this year's Quaker Weekly was a staff of journalistically minded students who could always be found hard at work covering their varied assignments to please their readers.

The position of Editor-in-chief was capably filled this year by Carolyn Butcher who was assisted by Carolyn Kelley. Virginia Jugastru ably managed the business staff with the assistance of Janet Robinson.

The Weekly editorial staff was efficiently advised by Miss Betty Ulicny who was new to Salem High School this year. Mr. R. W. Hilgendorf again successfully advised the business staff.

Several changes were introduced in the make-up of the paper this year. For the first time pictures of the columnists were used in the column heads and student cartoonists were associated with the Weekly.

The Quaker staffs were always well-represented at the monthly Tri-County Journalism Conventions held at various schools. The attendance trophy was won several times for the largest school representation.

A worthwhile project, planned and completed by the Tri-County advisers, was the publication of a Style Book for the use of journalism students working on high school publications in the three counties.

Jean Headrick, Annual editor; Virginia Jugastru, Carolyn Butcher, Miss Ulicny, and Mr. Hilgendorf attended the Ohio State Journalism Convention held in Columbus.
The Varsity S was organized in 1940 by Herbert Brown. It is a club for boys who have won a letter in athletics.

Any boy who has participated in one or all of the three sports, football, basketball, or track, by playing in half of the games of any one sport, is entitled to a varsity letter. Earning this letter automatically makes him eligible for the Varsity S club.

A passing average must be maintained in order to participate in sports. This in turn is also a requirement for a varsity letter. Service letters are presented to the athletes who have been on a team for four years but saw little action.

In order to compete for any trophy or award given in football or basketball, fellows must have a senior varsity letter. These honors include The Most Valuable Player award and the Knights of Columbus trophy. The latter is given to the boy with the highest scholastic average. Ray Snyder was awarded it this year.

The club meets every other Wednesday evening. Presiding officers for this school term were Dick Gottschling, president; Dick Zeck, vice-president; Marion Faini, secretary; and Dan Crawford, treasurer. This year for the first time, Coach J. R. Miller was the club adviser.

A sport for every girl and a girl in every sport is the aim of the Girls Athletic Association which had thirty-five girls enrolled this year. The purpose of the G. A. A. is to interest girls in athletic activities and to teach them good sportsmanship.

To be eligible for membership a girl must have a "C" average or better in her school work and must earn one hundred fifty points by participation in various sports. When a girl earns one thousand points she is entitled to receive her letter. Upon earning three hundred more points she may receive her year numerals. Any member participating in three-fourths of the scheduled games is entitled to receive the number of points given for that particular sport. A girl must earn two hundred fifty points to retain her membership in the G. A. A.

Officers of the year were as follows: Betty Cogaree, president; Helen Chitiea, vice-president; Marilyn Mellinger, treasurer; and Betty Rayniak, secretary.

The sports leaders, who take charge of their organized games and see that meets are scheduled and make sure attendance is checked, were Heln Arbanitis, baseball; Erla McGuire, basketball; Camille Entricken, volleyball; Mary Jane Bergman, kickball; Betty Rayniak, bowling; Betty Whaley, hiking; Ada Brown, skating; Donna Lopeman, biking; and Marilyn Mellinger, tennis.

Most of the sport activities take place in the gym after school.

Serving quietly and efficiently in the capacity of monitors and aids to the Dean of Girls and the Dean of Boys each year are some twenty Salem High girls. These girls give up a period of each day's schedule to render many services to their teachers and fellow students.

The monitors deliver messages, turn on and off the lights in the corridors between periods, act as guides for visitors, and assist the office secretaries with routine checking, filing, alphabetizing schedule cards, recording absences, and other small but necessary tasks.

The deans' offices attempt to serve the students in many ways through wise counseling and friendly conferences. The aids to the deans deliver telephone messages, make appointments, answer questions, and are ready to assist faculty and students at any time and in any way.

Students are selected for these posts on the qualifications of scholastic standing, conscientiousness, character, and reliability. They are trained to offer cheerful, efficient, and helpful service at all times. Boys as well as girls may qualify.

The idea of deans' aids and monitors was instituted in Salem High School to help ease the burden of the duties that make up the work of the deans and the school secretaries. The worth of this idea has been proved year after year by the girls who have been appointed to these positions. They have become an important cog in the wheel of school administration.
The Salem High School library of approximately five thousand carefully selected volumes, in addition to a large collection of pamphlets, periodicals, and newspapers, is planned primarily to meet the needs of our nine hundred students. The library is a pleasant room, quiet, well-lighted, and furnished in early American style. The maple tables and chairs blend softly with the pale green walls. In the showcase just outside the library are exhibited new books, club and class projects, students' hobbies, and other displays of interest to students.

All pupils have their schedules so arranged that they come to the library two periods a week. Here they may work on reference assignments, select books to take home, or read the many magazines to which the library subscribes.

Freshmen are introduced to the use, arrangement, and services of the library at the beginning of the year in especially planned lessons which are a part of their English courses. They become acquainted with the Dewey Decimal system of cataloging, and the use of encyclopedias, dictionaries, atlases, and other sources of information in the library.

Because the ability to use books is one of the most important objectives in education, the staff attempts to add to the shelves each year the most important new books. It is believed that the use of the library will give to the students these permanent gains: "Self-dependence in learning, efficiency in securing information, familiarity with books as purveyors of pleasure, and the ability to turn intelligently to literature as a source of inspiration."

The staff includes a librarian, Miss Lois Lehman; a teacher-librarian, Mrs. Helen Thorp; and nine student librarians These student librarians are honor roll pupils chosen during their freshman or sophomore years.

Organized in September of 1945, the Coin and Stamp Club has made a large contribution to students' interest in coins and stamps. The club has added a great deal to many students' knowledge of coins and stamps by putting on displays in the library showcase.

At the beginning of the year Richard Howell was elected president. J. O. Hagedorn is the club adviser. He has been the adviser since its organization.

Club meetings are held every second Monday at which time the members buy, sell, and trade coins and stamps. All the members are expected to buy, sell, or trade coins and stamps at the meetings and take part in the discussions concerning them. There is greater interest in the club when new stamps come out.

On February 22 Mr. Hagedorn and five boys attended the McKinley Canton Stamp Club exhibit.

The members who collect United States coins are John Ursu, Joe Bachman, Bob Harris, Don England, Nick Zantal, John Yuhaniak, and David Jones. United States stamps are collected by Royal Schiller, George Taflan, Lester Harris, Harriet Worman, Jay Sauerwein, and Jay Pitts. Both United States coins and stamps are collected by Bill Solmen, Kenneth Kearcher, Lowell King, and Dick Howell.

Anyone interested in coins and stamps may join the club.
Socialized medicine is a subject of national importance and has been discussed heatedly by schools and organizations all over the country. In arguing for and against the issue, the Salem debaters, under the supervision of their coach, J. C. Guiler, had a comparatively successful year. As all but two of the members of the team were novices in the field of debate, credit must be given them for their work. This was the second year of debate for Nettie Housel and Jo Ann Whinery.

In January the team took part in the District Tournament at Canton McKinley High School. They also attended the debate tournament in Ravenna in March. This was an activity of the National Forensic League and the Ohio High School Speech League.

Practice debates were frequently held after school in order that the speakers could become familiar with the methods of argumentation, reasoning, producing evidence, rebuttal, correct speech delivery, and effective gestures. Because of a late start in organizing the team, the debaters did not have the opportunity of participating in as many outside debates as teams have had in previous years.

The affirmative speakers were Enes E'quizi, first speaker, and Jo Ann Whinery, second speaker. Harold Whaley was the affirmative alternate speaker. The members of the negative team were Carolyn Butcher, first speaker, and Nettie Housel, second speaker. Tom Holzbach was the alternate speaker for the negative.
Roman culture was the subject discussed by the members of "Sodalitus Latina," Latin Club of Salem High School, at their bi-monthly meetings this year.

The Latin language is an important study in England, France, Germany, Italy, and other countries of Europe, as well as in North and South America. Its influence is seen in architecture, law, and the quotations, inscriptions, and abbreviations which one meets everywhere.

Latin is truly international; a bond between nations. In its students it develops thoroughness, accuracy, and the characteristic American virtue of independence which is also a Roman virtue.

Requirements for membership in this cultural organization are an average of at least a "B" in Latin and a written theme on Roman life. Students who were eligible for membership the second semester include Ben Bailey, Treva Bush, Barbara Hughes, Herbert Kelley, Nancy Stockton, Janet Trisler, Donna Allison, Lela Graver, Jerry Harrof, Jean Kelley, Leo Kline, Shirley McCave, Curt Mosher, Katherine Winkler, and Isabel Kleinman.

Formal initiation services were conducted for the new members. Concluding its year's study, the club enjoyed a picnic at the close of the school term.

The officers of this Latin group were Dick Walken, president; Bob Campbell, vice-president; Carol King, secretary; and Joseph Bachman, treasurer. Miss Helen Redinger, instructor of Latin, is the club adviser.
Early in the year plans were made by the French Club to raise money to buy recordings of the Holt “Spoken Language Courses.” These are the same recordings which were used by the army in teaching servicemen the French language. The course includes such subjects as “Getting Around,” “Meeting People,” “Seeing the Sights,” and “Sprucing Up.” The records are made in such a way that the listener can repeat the words of the native speaker without stopping the record. The student starts speaking the foreign language, correcting himself as the need arises, with the first lesson.

French songs and game books were also purchased by the club for the entertainment of the members at their meetings which are held Thursday noon of every other week.

The officers for this year were Don Maxon, president, and Freda Hermann, secretary-treasurer. Miss Evelyn Johnston, instructor of French, is the club adviser.

Two novels, “Sans Famille” and “L’Abbe Constantin,” were read by the second year French students this term. Hector Malot’s “Sans Famille,” dearly loved by all French children for its simple truth, is the story of the people and adventures met by a lost child seeking his parents. “L’Abbe Constantin” is without doubt Ludovic Halévy’s finest romance. Wise in the ways of human nature, he has made living people of the dashing young officer, the two beautiful American girls, and the kindhearted old priest. This appealing story has become dear to the American as well as the French public.

All students of the French classes who are interested in furthering their French education may belong to this organization.
“George Washington Slept Here,” a three-act comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, was presented by the senior class in a matinee and two evening performances, November 20, 21, and 22. The success of the play was due largely to a well-selected cast and the able coaching of Miss Edith Cope.

Appreciative capacity audiences followed the adventures of Newton and Annebelle Fuller, played by Bob Watterson and Loie Barnard, respectively. The Fullers buy a roofless, floorless, waterless home in the country and trouble naturally follows. Even the assumed-to-be-rich prodigal uncle, portrayed by Gene Shafer, turns out to be bankrupt. Then their daughter, Madge, enacted by Loretta Cocca, becomes involved in a romance with a summer theater actor.

Favorites with the audience were Rod Herron as the nephew Raymond who causes trouble for everyone, and Joe Ferreri as Mr. Kimberly who tries to help around the Fuller place as a gardener but can’t seem to please anyone or keep his cow out of the kitchen and Mr. Fuller’s car.

Supporting members of the cast, each contributing to the perfect whole, included Billie Finley as Rena Leslie, a beautiful actress; Carolyn Butcher as Katie, the Fullers’ cook; Betty Cosgarea as Mrs. Douglas, the president of the Country Historical Society—a kind hospitable lady; Jack Dusenberry as Clayton Evans, a good-looking actor who is playing in the nearby summer-theater; Helen Hinkle as Hester, the Fullers’ maid; Don Wright as Mr. Prescott, a stingy, unfriendly, domineering neighbor who is anxious to secure Fuller’s land and home; Frank Hoopes as Steve Eldridge, Madge’s pursuing swain. Donna Ward, Helen Wright, Clarence Votaw, and Ken Kearcher appeared as visiting college friends of Madge.
The National Thespian Honor Society, Troupe 358, is an organization of students who are interested in any of the various phases of dramatics, such as acting, make-up, or stage crew work.

To become a member of this troupe, it is necessary for each candidate to earn twelve Thespian points by taking part in the junior or senior class play or one-act plays and by serving on various committees for these productions throughout the year. A "C" average is also required.

The Thespians presented three one-act plays as assembly programs for the student body during the year. "Just What They Wanted" was a Christmas comedy directed by Bob Watterson and Loie Barnard. "No Greater Love," an all-Thespian play, was given in February and the third was presented in the spring. The last play was directed by Jean Headrick and Don Wright.

New members were taken in twice during the year. The students who earned the required points for admittance into the organization were Martha Flickinger, Lee Ward, Sally Zeigler, Enes Equize, Billie Finley, Mary Lou Haessly, Emmet Ogle, Virginia Jugastura, Janet Robinson, Marilyn Schaefer, Gene Shafer, Shirley Smith, and Helen Wright.

The officers of the year were as follows: Don Wright, president; Joe Ferreri, vice-president; Jean Headrick, secretary-treasurer; and Loie Barnard and Bob Watterson, clerks. Mrs. Frank Tarr is the troupe adviser.
The Student Council is an organization of Salem High School students whose chief function is to provide student participation in the planning and administering of school activities. It was decided by an unanimous vote of school activities. It was decided by an unanimous vote helps to provide information and suggestions for such activities.

During the present school term, twenty-six members represented the student body in the council. Each home room had one representative selected by the students of that room. The officers for the year were Don Coppock, president; Lee Ward, vice-president; Barbara Lane, secretary; and Joe Ferreri, parliamentarian. Miss Helen Thorp is the adviser of the group.

Profiting by their visit to a meeting at the Warren G. Harding High School last spring, the council got started early in the fall with definite plans for their work. As the publication of a school handbook was still on the docket from 1945, Joe Ferreri was selected to edit it, assisted by Pat Keyes, Jerry Miller, and Don Wright.

Permanent home room suggestion boxes were made and painted in the school colors. Many suggestions submitted by members of the student body were very helpful.

With the organization meeting only bi-monthly, most of the year's projects were carried out through committees. An assembly committee sponsored the student council talent program in answer to a cry from the students for more assemblies. Promoting noon hour activities for the lunch room pupils was another project of the council. Movies, dancing, and volley ball tournaments were part of the program.

Added to the curriculum of Salem High School this year was a class in choral singing. Under the direction of Thos. E Crothers, vocal music instructor, the chorus developed into a fine vocal unit providing entertainment for school and community activities.

The objectives of the group were to provide a means of acquainting the students with some of the fine masterpieces of choral literature, to inform its members of some of the problems, techniques, and skill of good choral singing, and to provide a medium of self-expression through the art of singing.

During the year the chorus presented a number of programs, including a Christmas concert, a spring concert, entertainment for the Kiwanis installation dinner, and several assemblies for the student body.

As a method of improving themselves by listening to their mistakes as well as their good points, the class made recordings of the following numbers: “The Green Cathedral,” “Holy Land God,” and “In My Garden.”

The officers for the current year consisted of Bill Parks, president; Margarite Fultz, vice-president; and Donna Lopeman, secretary-treasurer. Ben Bailey was the piano accompanist.
The Salem High School orchestra this year was composed of fifteen musically inclined members with six playing violins; three, clarinets; one, French horn; one, alto-saxophone; one, trombone; two, piano. The small number of participants in its organization did not prevent the orchestra from bestowing the charm of music on various assemblies.

Several of these musicians were selected to represent the school at the Mount Union high school music festival in the spring.

The orchestra provided the curtain raisers and intermission music for the junior and senior class plays. Appropriate music was also provided by them for the commencement exercises and the baccalaureate services.

The group was capably directed by Chester M. Brautigam who has been in charge of Salem High School's orchestra for thirteen years.

This year a new teaching aid, a Recordio, made available by the high school band, was introduced. By listening to the recordings made of their numbers, the members were able to criticize and correct their faults which they heard first hand just as their audience would.

The orchestrations which the members say they enjoyed working on the most are “Carmen” by Bizet, “The Cavalier Overture” by Isaac, “The Scarlet Mask” by Zamcnik, and “Entrance and March of Peers” from “Iolanthe” by Arthur Sullivan.

Organized in 1920 by Miss Grace Orr, the orchestra continues to be an important activity in our high school life.
In his last year as instrumental music director, C. M. Brautigam led Salem High School's band in one of its most successful seasons. This forty-eight piece marching unit has gained recognition as one of the finest in the district.

Competing with several of the top organizations in the county, Salem won first place in the marching bands division of the American Legion Contest at Lisbon last fall. The band also presented a half-time performance at a professional football game in the Akron Rubber Bowl.

For the first time since before the war the band was able to attend every football game. Previously, wartime shortages and restrictions had prevented this. A special swing section of the band played at many of the home basketball games.

The majorettes, all of whom have been with the band for at least three years, were featured during half-time programs and concerts during the year. New lighted batons and florescent uniforms were introduced this season enabling the majorettes to do special routines under the black lights.

Officers for this year were Bill Scullion, president; Bob Hodge, vice-president; Barbara Lane, treasurer; Jeanne Redinger, librarian; and Gene Shafer, student director.

Salem High’s gridiron squad, after a slow start, hit its stride and completed one of the most successful seasons seen here in recent years.

Playing a nine-game schedule, with six frays at Reilly Stadium, the Quakers emerged victorious in seven contests and dropped only two hard-fought battles.

The 1946 Quaker team was composed of eighty-seven energetic boys who worked hard for three months to make their team one of the most powerful and feared squads in the district. These players made up the freshmen, reserve, and varsity teams with each group playing a regular schedule of games. The majority of the fellows on the varsity squad were four-year men who reached the top rank after gaining valuable experience as members of the freshmen and reserve elevens. The season marked Coach Ben Barrett’s fourth year and further proved the successful system which he has been using to develop new talent for future varsity competition.

Salem opened the campaign against powerful Cleveland Rhodes and suffered a humiliating defeat at the hands of the out-of-towners. They then trekked to Ravenna and completely outclassed the Ravens, but were given their second setback by the determined East Palestine Bulldogs the following week. Next came three consecutive victories, Leetonia, Wellsville, and Struthers, which were won by comfortable margins. The Red and Black traveled to Girard and found little trouble in outclassing the Indian eleven.

After this came the all-important affair with the highly touted East Liverpool Potters. The Quakers entered the game with a confident air and completely throttled the supposedly mighty Potter attack. In their best game of the season, the Salem lads performed as a unit, displaying almost perfect timing and fine sportsmanship. They accomplished something that hadn’t been done in twelve years by beating East Liverpool to the remarkable tune of 38 to 6 The final game of the campaign was played against a spirited Lisbon squad with the Red and Black upsetting the Blue Devils by a 21 to 13 count.

This year's varsity basketball team, captained by Tony Martinelli, was the best that Salem has produced since the 1926-27 season. Losing but once in a seventeen-game schedule, the cagers maintained an average of 46 points to their opponents' 33. They scored 300 field goals and 193 fouls in 393 attempts.

Big Bob Pager, the highest scorer in Columbiana County and in the tournament, totaled 276 points. His best scoring effort was in the Girard game when he tallied 27 points. Francis Lanney ranked next among the Salem players with 151 points. Both were chosen for first team All-County.

Significant with the excellent progress of the Quaker cagers was the amazing support shown by local fans who had purchased all available seats for home games early in the season.

This was Coach J Robert Miller's third year as Salem High's basketball mentor. During this time his teams have won fifty-one games and lost fourteen. His squad this year was named the "number one" team by the coaches of the twenty-eight teams entered in the N.E.O.T.
Ten victories and six losses were recorded during the year by Salem High’s Reserve team which was composed almost entirely of an outstanding 1945-46 freshman squad.

Coach Miller changed his starting quintet frequently during the campaign, but Wilford Faulkner and Ed Bozich proved to be the most consistent scoring threats. Wilford Faulkner led the squad from his pivot position racking up 53 goals and 18 fouls for a total of 124 markers. He was closely followed by Ed Bozich who collected 115 points from his forward post. Walt Ehrhart, Bob Campbell, Dom Parlontieri, Jerry Miller, and Jerry Smith followed in the scoring column while Wilbert Faulkner, Tom Scullion, Bill Zeck, and Tom Zimmerman also saw considerable action during the season.

The Quaker hoopsters started the season off well by downing Lisbon, Wellsville, Columbiana, and the Greenford varsity in that order. After experiencing successive setbacks to Alliance and East Liverpool, the local lads staged an offensive burst and trounced Ravenna but fell to their third defeat before a powerful Warren quintet. The following week they got revenge for an earlier loss by thumping the Alliance Aviators on the home court. Traveling to East Liverpool the Red and Black suffered their second defeat at the hands of the Potters. They soon regained the victory trail, however, as they racked up victories over Girard, East Palestine, and Wellsville by wide margins. In the Bengal encounter Salem showed their greatest offensive punch of the year as they accumulated 53 points. The following week the Quaker cagers were outclassed by a superior Struthers outfit. After leading most of the way, the Millermen lost a heartbreaking battle to the Sebring Trojans in the final minutes of play. In the last tussle of the campaign, the local lads polished off the Akron East understudies.

Salem High's new program of organized Freshman basketball again proved fruitful this year as Coach Frank Tarr turned out a squad which definitely showed the benefits of steady practice and an even schedule. Seven victories and four defeats marked the 1946-47 season.

At the opening of the season Coach Frank Tarr had forty-eight boys as candidates for the team. It was a difficult task, but after a time the squad was reduced to two full teams which included Tom Cope, Nick Cosma, Bill Scott, George Tarr, Bob Whitacre, Elijah Alexander, Curt Mosher, Bob Muhleman, Joe Nocera, and George Reash. The latter five composed the starting combine.

The Frosh attack was led by Curt Mosher and Joe Nocera who proved to be the important factors in the scoring department.

During the campaign the first year men garnered victories over East Liverpool, East Palestine, and Alliance. They laced the Lisbon ninth graders twice during the year, once on the home court and a second time on the Lisbon floor.

The losses came at the hands of East Liverpool—giving them an even split for the season—a superior Alliance Freshman crew, and an outstanding Alliance State Street Freshman squad.

In the second annual Struthers Invitational Tournament the local youngsters upset the Struthers yearlings in the first round of play, but fell before a terrific Boardman attack and were eliminated from further competition. The Tarrmen also entered the Junior High Tournament at Massillon and made a fine showing.

Row 1—George Reash, Fred Bischel, Bill Scott, Paul Berger, Norm Boals, Curt Mosher, Elijah Alexander, Vic Lake, Tom Cope, Jim Johnston, Dan Keister, Dave White.

Coach F. E. Cope had his work cut out for him at the start of cross-country season, since only one letterman returned from his previous team. However, the 1946 thinclads attained remarkable success while the underclassmen were groomed for future seasons.

A cross country squad needs a group of at least twenty or twenty-five boys; therefore, a drive for participants is made early in the fall to assure a better representation from Salem High. The only sure method of developing milers and half-milers is by running and developing the legs and cross country is guaranteed to do that.

The first inter-schoolastic competition of 1946 for Salem was a dual meet with Struthers which the Big Red "miniature marathoners" won easily to the tune of 23 to 32. Then the Quaker thinclads went to Boardman and defeated Rib Allen's crew 22 to 33. In both dual meets Glenn Thorne came in first.

In the triangular meet with Warren and East Liverpool, Salem won out with 31 points; Warren, second with 41; and East Liverpool, third with 44. Thorne was nosed out of first place.

Salem traveled to Louisville where they met a potent foe and were turned back 21 to 37. Thorne won by one foot. The district meet was held again at Akron with twelve schools competing. Akron North took top honors. Salem finished in seventh place. The time was 9 minutes, 54 seconds which set a new district cross country record. The course was altered this year, thus a new record was imminent. The first ten boys automatically qualified for the State meet at Mansfield. Captain Glenn Thorne coming in eighth, went to the State meet to compete with 108 runners. He copped a neat fourteenth place.

Four varsity letters were presented to team members this season. Graduating this year are Captain Glenn Thorne and John Ursu. The loss of Thorne will be keenly felt. He trained hard and was a consistent winner.
Early in March of last year Coach F. E. Cope and his Salem High track team, eighty strong, took to the cinder path to produce a squad which would be a credit to their school. The season was indeed effective for the Quakers compiled an enviable record and gained valuable experience.

As the season opened, Coach Cope had eleven lettermen back from the 1945 squad. During the season the Red and Black tracksters conquered all opposition in winning five dual meets and a triangular meet. They placed sixth in a difficult field at the Urichsville relays and fourth in the Canton McKinley relays. The Quakers won the all-important track crown in the county meet at East Palestine. Salem captured ninth place in the district engagement and garnered the thirty-fourth at the state. Bob Roessler tied fifth in State in the pole vault. Bob Boone, high jumper, and Bob Little, half-miler, also competed in the state meet.

Letters were awarded to twenty-four boys. Captain Bill Ward proved to be the outstanding performer and high scorer. He was followed by Dan Smith, Dick Gottschling, Don Coppock in the dashes, and Ray Yaeger, Ray Snyder, Dan Crawford, and Howard Herrington in the middle distance runs.

Bob Little tied the half-mile school record of 2 minutes and 2.3 seconds set by Archie Bricker in 1937.

Glenn Thorne, 1946 cross country star, entered in the Cleveland Knights of Columbus Indoor Meet, March, '47.

The good die young—here's hoping you may live to a ripe old age.

Chuck: "Darling, I know I'm not good enough for you."

Billie: "Well, no, frankly, you're not, but you're much too good for any of these other girls."
Bill: "Quit bothering me. Will you, I'm writing to my girl friend."
Red: "But you have been writing that letter for three years."
Bill: "I know it. She doesn't read very fast."

Mrs. Wright: "Don, there's someone creeping up the stairs."
Don: "What time is it, mother?"
Mrs. Wright: "Half past three."
Don: "It's not me then."

Jack: "Hello, is that you, Jake? It don't sound like your voice."
Voice: "Sure, it's me."
Jack: "Say, could you let me have ten bucks over the weekend?"
Voice: "Of course, I'll ask him when he comes in."

Dr.: "You eat carefully, don't smoke or drink, get lots of sleep, have no girl friends, yet you have this feeling of constriction around the forehead and temples?"

Tony: "That's right, Doc. What is it?"

Dr.: "Very simple. Your halo is too tight."

Marge: "You seem very fond of animals, Lulu. I see you petting cats and dogs every day."

Lulu: "Yes mam, I never forget a friend. They often help me with the dishes."

Mom: "Dick, Dick! Wake up! I know I heard a mouse squeaking."

Gotch: "Alright, Mom, now go to sleep. I'll oil it the first thing in the morning."

Dene: "Now then, plumber, you will be careful with my new polished hard wood floors, won't you?"

Plumber: "You needn't worry none at all, lady, I got good spikes on my shoes."

The gum-chewing girl
And the cud-chewing cow,
Are somewhat alike
Yet different somehow.
And what is the difference?
I think I know now—
It's that clear thoughtful look
On the face of the cow.

He: "Pardon me, miss, your stockings are wrinkled."

She: "You brute! I'm not wearing stockings!"
As the steed is brought to the starting post, his grooming is judged even before he proves his mettle. Personal grooming is important too, when one seeks to create a favorable impression. The grooming and production of printed matter is of no less importance and as done at Salem Label Company, brings a sense of achievement in attention and favorable impression. Whatever your printing needs, from stationery, office forms and labels, to advertising matter and elaborate brochures, we are equipped to do the work effectively and economically.
